"T. R." BRAND FAILS TO GO WITH SENATE IN NEW YORK STATE

Republicans Unite With Democrats to Kill the Cobb Bill.

Roosevelt Leadership on Primary Measure Repudiated By Solons.

Vote in Upper House Lacks One of Enough to Pass Measure.

Albany, N. Y., July 1.—Swiftly and emphatically the senate fell in line with the assembly today and sent the Cobb direct nomination bill down to defeat. The final vote was 25 yeas to 12 nays, seven Republicans combining with the Democrats against the bill. Twenty-six votes were necessary to pass the bill.

The measure was killed after the amendments proposed by Lloyd C. Griscom, chairman of the New York county Republican committee, and indorsed by Theodore Roosevelt, had been incorporated in the measure by a vote of 24 to 21. An emergency message from the governor made it possible for the senate to vote on the amended measure at today's session.

The result of the fight in the senate was even a more positive refusal to accept Theodore Roosevelt's leadership in the matter than that of the assembly yesterday.

Beaten in the House.

The combined influence of President Taft, Theodore Roosevelt and Governor Hughes failed to save the Cobb direct nominations bill from defeat in the assembly. After defeating a motion to defer action until today, the

BULLETS FLY IN STUDENT BATTLE

Rutheni[illegible] Poles Clash Against Austrian University.

Lemburg, Austria-Hungary, July 1.—The two groups of Ruthenian and Polish students of the University of Lemburg got at each other again today, and before the police had separated the combatants many officials and students had ben seriously wounded.

Hundreds were involved. Many were armed with revolvers and these were used freely.

When the firing began a strong force of policemen was summoned and the fight became a three-cornered affair. The officers finally succeeded in driving the students to cover.

Broken heads were the rule, but in numerous instances injuries of a grave nature were found to have been inflicted.

CARMEN SYLVA SERIOUSLY SICK

Queen of Roumania Has Appendicitis---Age Causes Anxiety.

Bucharest, Roumania, July 1.—The condition of Queen Elizabeth of Roumania (Carmen Sylva), who is suffering from a severe attack of appendicitis, is reported today as improving. Her majesty's physicians state that she is experiencing less pain than in the preceding days of her illness.

The queen is in her 57th year, and particularly because of her age much uneasiness has been felt.

Elizabeth was crowned queen in 1881, the same year in which Roumania became a kingdom. It was subsequently that she became known as a writer of poems, novelettes, dramatic sketches and fairy stories and adopted the pen name of "Carmen Sylva."

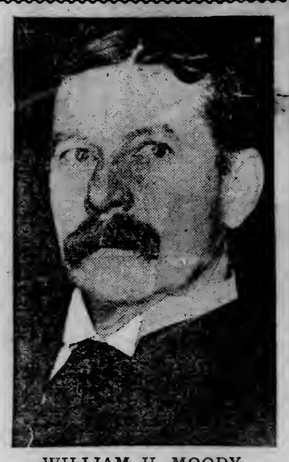

WOMAN IN GODIVA GARB SAVES BABY

Clothes Ignite While She Is Warming Milk and She Uses Fire Escape.

New York, July 1.—Her light clothing ignited by the flames of an overturned kerosene stove as she was preparing warm milk for her sick baby today, Mrs. Rosa Moskowitz tore every stitch of her blazing garments from her body, seized the child in her arms, and with not a whit less bravery than Lady Godiva in a crisis, fled with the infant from the burning rooms down the fire escape. Neighbors gathered below cloaked her and cared for her and her three children, the two older of whom were able to make their own way down the fire escape to safety.

Mrs. Moskowitz will recover from the effects of the painful burns she received. The rescued child, a 6-month-old boy, was named "Teddy," after Col. Roosevelt.

VISITED IN HOSPITAL BY COL. ROOSEVELT

WILLIAM H. MOODY,
Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

TEDDY CALLS UPON MOODY

Ex-President Goes to Hospital to See Justice Who Is Ill.

Meeting With Taft Is Like Reunion of School Mates.

Nahant, Mass., July 1.—The last day of Col. Theodore Roosevelt's visit to Massachusetts found the former president early astir at the home of Senator Lodge here, and as on yesterday the colonel spent an hour before breakfast in walking about the estate and gazing across the wide expanse of ocean that lay at his feet under the rocky cliffs. Col. Roosevelt and Senator Lodge had no callers last night and it was expected that the former president's privacy would be undisturbed this morning.

The plans for the day included a trip to Brookline to visit Associate Justice William H. Moody of the United States supreme court, who is ill at a private hospital in that town. Col. Roosevelt expected to return to New York later in the day.

Col. Roosevelt and Senator Lodge left the Lodge residence in an auto-

SCOTS TO VISIT BONNIE LAND

Two Thousand Are Expected to Join Excursion Next Week.

Detroit, Mich., July 1.—Prominent Scotchmen from all parts of the United States and Canada will meet in this city next Tuesday to arrange for a mammoth excursion to the homeland. The movement has been agitated on both sides of the Atlantic for some time, and the international committee having the matter in charge expects to book 2,000 Scots on a specially chartered steamer to sail from Montreal or New York on a date not yet determined. A reception committee already has been appointed by the lord provosts of Glasgow and Inverness to give the homegoers a royal Highland welcome.

The tour will include all the principal points of interest in Scotland, including a special reunion on the banks of Loch Lomond.

Philadelphia, July 1.—Congressman J. Hampton Moore, president of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association, has issued a call for the third annual convention of the organization at Providence, R. I., Aug. 31 to Sept. 3. The call announces that President Taft and the governors of states along the Atlantic seaboard have accepted invitations to participate.

WRITE TO MANAGERS ABOUT THE STAGE JEWS.

Charlevoix, Mich., July 1.—That individual endeavor to eliminate from the stage the caricature of the Jew has proved futile is the conclusion given before the Central Conference of American Rabbis, now in session here, in a report of the committee on church and state.

The report says that the committee has entered into correspondence with the New York Managers' association, and has been assured that the managers have no sympathy "with the lampooning of the Jew on the stage."

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among the supreme court decisions filed today are:

St. Louis County—Amelia Berg, as mother of G. B. Berg, an infant, appellant, vs. the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company, respondent.

According to the law of the state of Michigan, as defined by the decisions of the supreme court of that state, a child of 11 years of age who enters a railway yard for the purpose of catching rides on trains, is a trespasser, and the doctrine of the turn-

COTTON MEN CUT OUTPUT

About 100,000 Men Are Laid Off By Manufacturers.

Some Will Remain Idle Until July 11---Many Mills Closed.

Boston, July 1.—Many of the cotton mills of the United States were shut down today until July 11, for the purpose of curtailing production. The corporations which closed today employ about 100,000 operatives and include the majority of the four score mills in Fall River, the eighteen mills of the Amoskeag corporation of Manchester, N. H., and numerous factories in North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

Many mills in New England outside of the cities named also closed, and others went on a schedule of five days a week. The renewed curtailment agreed upon recently by the cotton interests in this city will affect about 150,000 operatives in New England between today and Oct. 1.

The Stark Duck mills of Manchester, N. H., shut down last night until July 6. The Dwight mills of Chicopee, Mass., employing 2,000, are stopped until July 11.

The seven cotton mills of the Fall River Iron Works company will continue operating alternate weeks and fifteen of the B. B. & R. Knight factories in Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts will still run four weekly until the situation improves.

STRIKE IS AVERTED IN PITTSBURG DISTRICT.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 1.—The possibility of a coal miners' strike in the Pittsburg district has been averted. A meeting of the executive board of the district officials of the mine workers' organization has been called for late today, when it is expected a ratification of the agreement which has been reached between the sub-committees of the operators and miners will be carried out.

MORE THAN A MILLION IMMIGRANTS ADMITTED.

Washington, July 1.—An estimate that the total number of immigrant aliens admitted at all ports of the United States during the past fiscal year reached 1,035,545 was made by Commissioner General Keefe today. This is an increase of 263,759 over the number of immigrant aliens admitted last year.

"WHEAT KING" QUITS $10,000,000 TO THE GOOD

JAMES A. PATTEN.

PATTEN QUITS ACTIVE BUSINESS

"Wheat King" Is Said to Have Over $10,000,000 Ahead.

Chicago, July 1.—James A. Patten, the "Wheat King" yesterday spent his last business day in his downtown offices and today he officially withdrew from the firm of Bartlett, Patten & Co., which new becomes the Bartlett-Frazier company.

Although it has frequently been said Patten recently sold many thousands of bushels of wheat at a great loss, friends estimate that he retires with $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

CLOTHING TRADES TO BE ORGANIZED.

New York, July 1.—The executive officers of the American Federation of Labor, having successfully organized a building trades and metal trades department, will take measures at once to organize a clothing trades department, according to an announcement today. WHEAT GETS NEEDED RAIN

North Dakota Reports Some Moisture at Various Points.

Heavy and Scattered Showers Reported North of the Boundary.

Dispatches to The Herald indicate showers last night at Bottineau, Larimore, Minot, Pembina, Bismarck and Devils Lake, N. D. Temperatures continued extremely hot.

The rains which fell in the eastern portion of North Dakota last night were not as heavy as the precipitation Wednesday and Wednesday night in the western half of the state. Dispatches to The Herald are taking a more hopeful view of the situation, and nearly all of the correspondents in that state now concede that the state will experience no difficulty in making half a crop. Wheat has braced up wonderfully; corn never looked better and flax promises an excellent yield of good grade.

North of the international boundary showers were heavy and scattered. The Canadian situation is improved. Manitoba has been badly injured in the pit but recent rains have caused improvement in the wheat plant which has not extended to the pit.

WOMAN'S SLAYER IS ELECTROCUTED

Virginian Pays Penalty for Crime Committed in June, 1909.

Richmond, Va., July 1.—Angelo Hamilton, who was convicted of murdering Mrs. Sallie B. Hix at Lynchburg June 13, 1909, was put to death in the electric chair in the state prison early today. The body will be taken to his former home at Oxford, N. C., by his widow for burial.

The crime for which Hamilton was electrocuted today was the murder of Mrs. Sallie B. Hix in Lynchburg, Va., June 13, 1909. Hamilton had been infatuated with the woman and she had sought to fee herself from him. On the night of June 13, Mrs. Hix went to a dance. Hamilton followed her to the hall, and demanded that she go home at once. She obeyed, and on the way home Hamilton quarreled with her and shot her several times.

NO OLD NOTIONS IN BADGER SCHOOLS

Textbooks on Physiology and Hygiene Must All Be Up-to-Date.

Madison, Wis., July 1.—No public school in Wisconsin may hereafter use textbooks on physiology and hygiene that are not strictly modern in their teachings—in other words, that do not contain chapters explaining the nature and dangers of contagious and infectious diseases.

This rule was promulgated by the state board of health at its recent meeting and will go into effect at the next school term. The board was given power to enforce such a rule by a law passed at the last session of the legislature.

The object is to eliminate entirely from the public schools all text books on physiology and hygiene that are not fully modern and up to date in all their teachings. Particular attention will be given to the chapters on sanitation and hygiene which appertain to the prevention of disease and to good healthy living.

MISSOURI HAS MURDER MYSTERY

Osage City Girl's Body Is Found in River After Two Days' Search.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 1.—Coroner O. E. Ames of Cole county held an inquest over the body of Miss Anna Wendler, which was found in the Missouri river yesterday. He examined witnesses on the theory that the young woman was murdered. The sheriff is aiding the coroner in the investigation.

Miss Wendler of Osage City, Mo., disappeared Tuesday. The body when found had a heavy dent in the forehead, evidently made by a blunt instrument.

Miss Wendler left her home to visit neighbors, and had apparently started on the way back when she met death. Her basket, shoes and parasol were found on the river bank about two miles from Osage City. Alongside of them was a pipe and a package of tobacco. Farmers and residents of Osage City are searching for the murderer and lynching is feared in the event he is caught.

John Wendler, the father of the girl, has offered a reward of $300 for the apprehension of the murderer or murderers.

BIG AREA IS DEVASTATED

Part of Devlin Is Gone and La Vallee Is in Danger.

International Falls Is Reported Imperiled---Wires Are Down.

Timber Losses Are Over $3,000,000---Hines Company Big Loser.

Fort Frances, Ont., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The continued dry weather and the high winds have fanned the flames of the recent bush fires to tremendous proportions. All along the Canadian Northern line the bush is ablaze and in places walls of flames are seething, licking up everything within reach.

The southwesterly winds yesterday afternoon caused the fire west of Devlin to reach that village, and the latest reports are that the village is almost wiped out. The station, hotel, residences and stores near the track are all destroyed, as well as a large quantity of timber, telegraph and telephone poles, posts, etc. The sawmill and the residence of Arthur Cook fell prey to the flames and the fire is marching on to La Vallee.

Sent Call for Help.

An appeal for assistance has been made to the town of Fort Frances and arrangements have been made to send the fire engine and 1,000 feet of hose on a flat car to the assitance of the helpless village. Hundreds of men are ought fighting the fire and trying to save their homes.

In the north townships of Burriss and Miscampbell the fire is destroying hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of timber and property, while east of here several valuable timber limits are all on fire. The limits owned by the Hines Lumber company east of Banning are burning and several other large timber berths are sharing the same fate.

Damage So Far $3,000,000.

The damage so far is hard to estimate but it will run into $3,000,000, and unless rain comes soon the entire country will be burned over.

So fierce was the fire at Devlin yes-

TREE SAVES HOUSE FROM ELEPHANTS

Brutes Run Wild When Angered By Losing Their Young.

Greeley, Colo., July 1.—Angered by the efforts of trainers to separate them from two small elephants, two big elephants belonging to a circus yesterday engaged in a wild charge down the main street of this city. The elephants, which were chained together, finally crashed through a fence into the front yard of a residence, tearing up lawn and shrubbery. They were making straight for the house, which would in all probability have been wrecked in the collision, when they were brought to a stop by a stout maple tree on either side of which they attempted to pass.

HUDSON BAY TAX UP TO THE HAGUE

Question of Canadian Rights to Be Raised in Peace Court.

Washington, July 1.—The question as to whether Hudson Bay is a closed sea, completely controlled by Canada, as is contended by the government of that country, according to Ottawa dispatches, may be vitally affected by the decision of the Hague tribunal upon the large issues which are now being argued before it by eminent British and American counsel.

While that question came up in a rather incidental way, through the assertion by the Canadians of their right to impose a small tax upon American vessels entering Hudson Bay, the payment of that tax might constitute a recognition of the Canadian title. In view of the probable construction of a new Canadia road to Hudson Bay, giving a much shorter route to Europe for the great wheat shipments in the Far West, the matter, it is said, is one which cannot be overlooked by farsighted American statesmen.

DEFENSE NEAR THE END IN FLOUR TRIAL.

Kansas City, Mo., July 1.—When the bleached flour trial in the federal court here was resumed this morning, attorneys for the millers announced that the introduction of their testimony probably would be finished today.

The government attorney stated he would introduce little rebuttal evidence.

THREE KILLED AS RESULT OF SHOT.

Helena, Mont., July 1.—Three persons were killed and four injured and a number of buildings destroyed as the result of a powder explosion in the store of the Graves Mercantile company at Boulder, the seat of Jefferson county, thirty-five miles south of Helena, last evening. The dead:

GEORGE HART, and his 2-year-old daughter.

DAVE KIRBY.

Seriously injured: Albert Taylor, Mrs. Hart and Miss Grace Mifflin.

The explosion occurred when George Hart, using the building for a target, shot a 22-caliber rifle ball against the wall. A large amunot of powder was stored in the building and the explosion was terrific, not a pane of glass on Main street remaining unbroken.

The telephone exchange was among the buildings destroyed. A special train left Helena at 8 o'clock with a corps of doctors and nurses, while still others were sent out in automobiles. The mayor of the town telegraphed Helena for assistance and other parties were formed to visit the scene.

INCREASE IN BUILDING

Report of Inspector for Six Months Shows Substantial Gain.

Large Increase in June Over Figures for Same Month in 1909.

The estimated cost of building work covered by permits issued during the first six months of 1910 is $253,450 over the amount covered by permits issued during the corresponding period of 1909, according to Building Inspector S. M. Kielley, who completed his report for the month of June today.

During June, 132 permits were issued covering work costing $399,300. A year ago, the building for which permits were issued during June was estimated to cost $180,850.

Since the first of the year permits have been issued for work estimated to cost $1,749,589. Last year was a record breaker for the building inspecter's office, but if the record of the first six months of 1910 is continued, a new mark will be set this year.

DANCE HALLS BAD PLACES

Minnesota Supreme Court Says So in Minneapolis Case.

Affirms Sentence Imposed on Man Who Let Girl Attend Dances.

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota supreme court, in a decision handed down this morning, has gone on record against public dance halls and classified them as places which corrupt the morals of young people.

In affirming the sentence imposed by a lower court on L. J. Rosenfeld of Minneapolis for permitting Marie O'Connors, 16 years old, to frequent his dance hall at 401 Washington avenue south, the supreme court says:

"It is clear from the language of the statute that dance houses and concert saloons are within its prohibition, whether or not in fact they are conducted in a manner injurious to morals. It is evident that the legislature in enacting this statute was satisfied that the tendency of dance houses and concert saloons as ordinarily conducted was toward the corruption of youth."

The court defines public dance halls as places where there is promiscuous and public dancing and where there is no personal selection or invitation.

There are seventeen counts as aganst twelve in the first indictment.

UNCLE SAM IS GETTING THRIFTY

Treasury Shows $9,402,000 Surplus for the Last Fiscal Year.

Washington, July 1.—A surplus of $9,402,000 in the ordinary receipts and expenditures against a deficit last year of $58,734,000, was announced by the treasury department today. The total deficit over all, which includes Panama canal expenditures and the public debt, is today $25,884,000 against $118,795,000 last year. The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for reports on conditions of national banks as for the close of business on June 30.

The total treasury receipts today were $13,500,000; total for month $76,271,000, and for the fiscal year just closed $669,064,000.

Corporation Tax Receipts.

The corporation tax receipts, which are included in the last named figures, aggregated $17,362,000.

The total ordinary receipts for the last year stand against $603,589,000 for last year. The customs receipts during the last fiscal year reached $232,785,000, against $300,711,000 last year; the internal revenue $267,823,000 against $246,212,000 last year, and miscellaneous $51,093,000 against $56,664,000 last year.

The aggregate expenditures for the last fiscal year reached $659,662,000 against $662,324,000 last year. Among the ordinary expenditures were grants from the treasury of $8,495,000 on account of postal deficiencies, against similar grants last year of $19,501,000.

The grants thus made during the last year are a cut of almost one-half from what Postmaster-General Hitchcock originally estimated, for he expressed the opinion at the outset that the department would need $16,000,000 approximately, for such postal relief.

HOTTEST DAY OF YEAR IN CHICAGO

Mercury Reaches 93 Degs. and One Death Is Reported to Police.

Chicago, July 1.—Today was the hottest of the season, the thermometer registering 93 degrees at 1 p. m. One death and twelve prostrations due to the heat were reported to the police up to the noon hour. Private physicians cared for many additional cases, which were not officially reported.

PEASANT GIRL'S TREASURE.

London Telegraph: Members of the well known Romanian family of Ghika, who are resident in Vienna, received some interesting information from Jassy today. A number of cases filled with objects of gold and silver, with jewelry and diamonds, estimated to be worth several million kronen, were found in the course of a serch made by the police in the house of a peasant woman named Safta Bradinarin, living in the environs of Jassy

This woman, who was at once arrested, stated that the cases had been concealed in her house for twenty-six years. Her deceased daughter was in the service of Prince Nikolai Ghika, who died suddenly after an operation in Paris. The peasant's daughter Maria took several sealed cases which no one appeared to want, and conveyed them to her home. She was afraid to attempt to dispose of the valuable objects, which have until now remained hidden in her mother's house.

MAKES FRIEND OF A FAWN

MYSTERY OF COL. GRAVES

Duluth's Noted Diplomat Seems to Be Lost, Strayed or Stolen.

Is Possibly Dodging Mrs. Von Claussen and Lawsuits.

"Lost—One diplemat."

That "ad." hasn't been inserted in The Herald want columns to date, but there is a possibility that such a move may be necessary.

Charles H. Graves of Duluth, United States minister to Sweden, is the diplomat who i slost. There is a dark suspicion that he may have been kidnaped by Mrs. Ida Von Claussen, or that he is in hiding to prevent that estimable lady from molesting him with weird suits at law.

Mrs. Von Claussen is the woman who is attempting to launch a litigation against Col. Roosevelt, Mr. Graves, and whoever that person is that so frequently is referred to in legal documents as "Et al." She wants $1,000,000 because she was not presented at court in the days of King Oscar. Also, she wants an honest lawyer, and has demanded that the supreme court of the nation produce one for her to handle her case against Roosevelt, Graves and Al. It is hinted that the supreme court hesitates to attempt the search.

Mr. Graves came to the states from Sweden some weeks ago on vacation leave of absence from the court of King Frederick. He went to Washington from New York and called on Mr. Knox, the secretary of state, who in the business of the American diplomacy has much the same relations with the ministers at foreign capitals as has the manager of sales in a jobbing house with his men on the road.

Having philandered with Mr. Knox for a seemly and polite period, Col. Graves set about the business of vacationing. He wrote to Duluth friends just a month ago, saying that he would be in this city July 1. But he has not appeared, and not a word has been heard from him for thirty days. Vaguely, it is said that he is somewhere in the East. He may come to Duluth today, tonight, tomorrow, Monday, or some later day. It's difficult to say when a man will be in a given place when one doesn't know how far he's got to go to get there.

There is no cause for alarm about Mr. Graves. His friends are confident that he is safe, hale, hearty, serene and coming.

But the Associated Press dispatches the other day carried the news that Mrs. Van Claussen has invented a new religion, which is called by the inventor "the blue flame of infinity." Some critics of this designation of the new religion object that "flame" is more frequently associated in the common mind with "affinity" than with "infinity," but Mrs. Von Claussen has not yet spoken on this point.

At any rate, the dread thought occurs that Mrs. Von Claussen, realizing that Messrs. Roosevelt, Graves and Al are likely to escape the meshes of the law she is spreading for them, has turned her attention to the task—which obviously is an impossible one—of converting Mr. Graves to the fiery faith she advocates.

It is hoped that Minister Graves will arrive in Duluth safely and soon.

Brs. Mrs. Von Claussen may get him if he doesn't watch out.

TO MEET AT POSTOFFICE

Five Members of Old Algonquin Club Will Keep Agreement.

There will be a happy reunion of old friends when the members of the old Algonquin club meet on the steps of the Duluth postoffice at 12 o'clock, noon, July 4.

On this day and month in 1895, seven Duluth men signed an agreement to meet fifteen years later on the steps of the postoffice that they might note the changes brought by time, renew acquaintances and compare notes generally.

Definite assurance that five of the seven members will be present have been received by the Duluth members, who are: Charles Josten, J. D. Mahoney and A. C. Pearson. Charles Goodrich is ill in California and A. M. Barsness whose home is now in New York will be unable to attend.

R. L. Knebel, who is superintendent of the Wilmar division of the Great Northern Railway company, and who lives at Sioux City will be here as will Louis Goldnamer of Elizabethtown, N. J.

Years ago the members of the club lived together at 130 West Third street. They employed their own housekeeper and many were the good times they enjoyed. It was agreed when the first man was about to break away—to get married—that they would meet in fifteen years' time.

Mr. Knebel was the first to leave the club. He was married. A. C. Pearson was the next to leave. He too married and then the others drifted off to various parts of the country.

When the club finally broke up the members had their pictures taken and agreed that in fifteen years they would sit for another.

The fifteen years are now over and the meeting is near at hand. Every member who can be here is looking forward to the meeting. The Duluth members will show the visitors a good time. A number of pleasure jaunts have been planned. Old times will be talked over and many a laugh caused when some of the incidents of fifteen years ago are brought up.

The name Algonquin was taken from one of the first boats that sailed up Lake Superior. For many years she lay a wreck near the Superior entry.

The agreement drawn up and signed fifteen years ago follows:

"Duluth, Minn., July 4, 1895.

"If we, the undersigned, members of the Algonquin club, live and are in good health, we promise faithfully to meet at the main entrance of the postoffice of Duluth, Minn., on July 4, 1910, at 12 o'clock, noon.

(Signed.)

KING IS HELD IN SUPERIOR

S. M. King, the alleged fake colored preacher, who is alleged to have fraudulently obtained $50 each from A. L. Ordean, president of the First National bank, and H. M. Peyton, president of the American Exchange National bank, and $25 from J. L. Washburn, one of the city's leading attorneys, refused to return to Duluth yesterday afternoon without requisition papers.

Chief Troyer, accompanied by Detectives Schulte and Irvine, served the warrant on King in a cell at Superior police headquarters. He declared that he had "rights at law," and intended to make the most of them. The warrant states that he obtained $50 from A. L. Ordean by false pretenses.

King represented himself as the pastor of a local colored Baptist church and that he had erected a new edifice at a cost of $1,800. He asserted that he was collecting money to help defray the expenses. When he tackled Manager Lee of the Spalding hotel the head waiter was called into consultation, with the result that King was declared an imposter. The head waiter, William Dawson, and another colored man, gave chase and captured King in Superior, turning him over to the police.

UMPIRING IS HIS PENANCE

Kansas Student Priest Has Made Unusual Test for Himself.

Would See If He Had Proper Control Over Himself.

Hutchinson, Kan., July 1.—Having serious doubts as to whether he really was fit to enter the priesthood of the Roman Catholic church even after he had completed his studies at the Kenilworth seminary, J. J. O'Reilly evolved a most unusual test.

Realizing that the life he was about to enter upon was one of continual sacrifice and repression from which there could be no alternative, he determined to find out whether he was master of himself to the extent he believed he should be. But how? The question troubled him, and for weeks he was unable to meet it with an answer.

Friend of Blaine Durbin.

At college O'Reilly took great interest in baseball. This was at St. Benedict's college at Atchison, Kan. While attending this school he met Blain Durbin, formerly pitcher for the Chicago Nationals, and the two became friends. O'Reilly umpired many games and he got away good. No one ever kicked on his decisions. At Kenilworth college at St. Louis he again became umpire. He had a steady eye, knew the game thoroughly, and he was a student of human nature.

O'Reilly finally decided he would get into professional ball. If he could withstand the wrath of a professional baseball player without anger rankling in his heart surely he would be fit for the priesthood, for no person in the world has so thankless a job as the umpire.

So, going under the name of Phillips, he applied to President Hostutler of the Kansas State league for a position on the umpiring staff. Western Kansas crowds do not hesitate to tell an umpire what they think of him when his decisions are not up to the standard. If he hears no kicks it is a sign that he is making good.

Phillips as an umpire has been a success. The players like him and seldom object to his decisions.

Praised by League President.

"Phillips has never given dissatisfaction," said President P. H. Hostutler of the Kansas State league, in speaking of the work of his umpires. "He is the only man that clubs have asked for in critical games. He gets along well with the players and has been obliged to fine only two. His judgment is good and he knows the game. If he keeps up his present work he should go to the big leagues."

The question of whether Phillips will listen to the major league call, should opportunity arise, or again enter a seminary to complete his study for the priesthood, is not answered by Phillips. He has spent seven years in study to become a priest. He is master of six languages, and his work at composition was so well thought of at the St. Louis seminary that he has lately attended to a noted St. Louis church dignitary.

Only three players in the Kansas State league know Phillips' real name. Slang being a necessary adjunct to the ball vocabulary, he uses it.

HOUSE TO PAY FOR PROBE BY SENATE

Oklahoma Indian Land Committee in Senate Has No Funds.

Washington, June 30.—Members of the senate committee appointed Saturday to investigate the charges made by Senator Gore relating to Oklahoma Indian land contracts, have discovered that the committee was not provided with funds to defray the cost of the inquiry. The house committee appointed to inquire into Indian affairs in Oklahoma, however, was given broad powers and funds to cover the cost of investigation.

The resolutions provided that all expenses of the committee should be provided out of the house contingent fund.

STEAMER RETURNS WITH HOLD AFIRE

Twelve Men Overcome Fighting Flames in Coasting Vessel.

Philadelphia, June 30.—The Merchants & Miners' steamship Grecian, which left this port yesterday afternoon for Boston with more than 100 persons on board, returned here today with a serious fire in the forehold. Eighty of those on board were passengers and they were safely landed. The flames in the hold, which are believed to have been started by spontaneous combustion, were drowned out during the day. Twelve firemen were overcome by smoke.

TEDDY, JR., AND BRIDE ARE FETED

Santa Barbara and Montecito Society Do Honor to the Pair.

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 30.—Santa Barbara and Montecito society paid homage to Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., last night, when the visitors were made the guests of honor at a dinner dance given by Mrs. Frank Duff Frazier at the Potter Country club. This is the first of a series of social events planned for the Roosevelts during their month's stay here. Sea bathing, boating and riding are their principal recreations.

Old Menomonie Citizen Dead.

Menomonie, Wis., July 1.—S. J. Bailey, a Civil War veteran, 72 years old, a resident of Menomonie since 1870, died Tuesday night.

Mr. Bailey had filled many positions of local importance and superintended the construction of several of the leading Indian schools in the West.

SAY SOUTH IS GROWING FAST

Commercial Men Make Estimates as to Census Returns.

Washington, June 30.—That the census of 1910 will show the Southern states, including Missouri and Oklahoma, to have made a gain in population of 21 per cent since 1900, is the estimate of the Southern Commercial congress. The congress estimates the population to be 22,415,297. The gain of other states of the Union during the same period is estimated by the congress to have been 18½ per cent.

WASHING DISHES ITS TASK.

New York Company Takes a Burden Off Housekeepers.

New York, July 1.—The servant girl problem has been solved—in apartment houses.

Here is the good news for women: With a minimum charge of 20 cents a day for a small family, a service company has been formed to wash the dishes of the tenants of apartment houses. Modern dishwashing machines already have been installed in the basements of several large apartment houses, and the company will begin operations in a few days.

The company will provide each family with two boxes, one for china and silverware, and one for pots and pans. The boxes will bear the number of the apartment and will fit the dumb waiter. Polite employes in uniform will call for the dishes after each meal, send them down the dumb waiter, wash and return them in a few minutes. An interesting feature of this plan is that the company agrees to pay for all breakage. The employes are paid a bonus of $2 a week if they do not break or lose a dish and are docked if they do.

ROMANCE OF A MISSION.

Another Chapter Added by Pastor Adopting Stepdaughter.

Louisville, Ky., July 1.—One more chapter in a pretty romance of a mission was added when Dr E. L. Powell, pastor of the First Christian church and one of the most influential citizens of Louisville, filed a petition in court asking privilege to adopt his little stepdaughter, Doris Gordon, as his own and make her his legal heir. Little Miss Doris is a winsome maid and has completely won the pastor's heart.

Doris' mother, who is now Mrs. E. L. Powell, was formerly a missionary to India from the First Christian church. It was there that Miss Doris was born. Following the death of the father a warm friendship sprung up between the pastor of the supporting church and the missionary in India, and upon Mrs. Gordon's return to this country she became Mrs. Powell. Then the child's smiles won the pastor and now she, too, will become legally bound to the man who took her father's place in her mother's heart.

KISSING IS ALL RIGHT

Pronounced Safe and Sane By Chief Wiley of Washington.

Talk of the Transmission of Disease Is Called a Joke.

Washington, July 1.—The proposition to abolish the gentle practice of osculation by anti-kissing crusades and health societies is scoffed at by those medical men of Washington who have the least grain of sentimentality left in them, and is regarded as the hugest kind of a joke.

Dr. Harvey F. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, who probably knows as much about disease germs of various kinds as any other man in this country, says he has yet to see a single instance in which a single life has been shortened as a direct result of disease germs transmitted from a diseased person to a healthy one by the kissing route.

Out in Cincinnati the women have formed the World's Health organization, or anti-kissing league. In June—the month of roses and orange blossoms, wedding marches, blushing brides and slightly agitated bridegrooms—the league has been doing its utmost to abolish the time-honored custom of kissing. No more spooning in parks or darkened doorways just before good night is said, is the edict of the society. All of which has caused Dr. Wiley to wonder what is the matter with the Queen City women.

A Kissless Courtship? Never!

"A society for the prevention of kissing," said the doctor, "is nothing less than a society for the prevention of pleasure. Just imagine a kissless courtship! Can you contemplate a more uninteresting predicament? I certainly would like to get one peep at the members of an organization which approves of such a thing.

"While I long since have retired from the spooning business, still I have memory, and whenever anyone quotes me as saying that I believe the kissing habit should be abolished you can put it down that I have been misquoted.

"I have reached the stage where I confine my kissing entirely to relatives and babies, but that is not because I feel the ill effects of disease transmission from mouth to mouth.

"Take a darkened nook on a moonlight night, with the beams playing around a couple idly swinging in a hammock; let the anti-kissing society get to work in such a case, and see what would happen. It would not be long before the pair would shift their position and find a more secluded spot.

"You can't keep it down and there's no use trying, and so long as good, red blood courses through the veins of the American youth, and the adults and the aged, too, so far as that is concerned, that delightful sensation which is experienced when lips touch and arms clasp and 'two hearts beat as one,' will continue to exist."

CRAZY TO BE OLD MAN'S DARLING

But Much Crazier About Ten Young Men After Marriage.

Butler, Pa., July 1.—According to testimony by detectives and neighbors of Alonzo Kennedy, a sixty-year-old oil well millionaire, who was granted a divorce from his twenty-year-old wife Mary by Judge Galbreath, the young bride, who told Kennedy during their courtship last September that she "was just crazy to be an old man's darling," was just crazy about ten separate young men admirers in the six months that follow i her marriage.

Kennedy went on the stand and told the court of the courtship.

"I told her she could never be happy with an old man like me," he said, "but she said she had dreamed all her life of being an old man's darling."

Neighbors told about visits of young admirers for many hours when Mr. Kennedy was gone and when the woman was alone in the house.

One night, it was testified, Mrs. Kennedy went riding in her husband's rig and at the edge of town a young man joined her. Detectives watched the pair while they spent several hours in a deserted house.

All told, the detectives counted ten young men who were regular callers at the house in Kennedy's absence.

One trip to a neighboring town, with a four hours' stop at a hotel, was testified to.

BELIEVED IN "HOODOOISM."

While a Colored Presbyterian Pastor Joined the Baptists.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 1.—The Presbyterian Ministers' association, at its meeting this week, was shocked to hear that Rev. M. B. Lanier, colored, pastor of the only colored Presbyterian church in Pittsburg, had joined the Baptists for a peculiar reason.

Trouble had been brewing in his congregation and culminated a few weeks ago, when he preached a sermon in which he avowed his belief that he had been "hoodooed" by the devil personally. The colored preacher also said he obtained an immediate cure by faith as soon as he learned the real cause of his disease.

Some of his flock then preferred charges against him for believing in "hoodooism."

Sunday Mr. Lanier preached twice to his own people, and at 9 p. m. went around to the Baptist church and was baptized in the pool of the church to remove the spell he believed to have been cast upon him. Mr. Lanier will hereafter stick to the Baptists, it is said.

HAD REGULAR HAREM.

Negro Preacher Arrested With White Woman at Lebanon, O.

Lebanon, Ohio, July 1.—"By the light of the silvery moon" Rev. Harvey Hunter, colored, and Mrs. Ida Melville, 15 and white, were found spooning on the abutment of the East street bridge by Chief Frazer. They were hurried to the police station.

The woman is the wife of John Melville of Franklin, and the police have been in search for her for some weeks, she having left her home in the company of Hunter, it is claimed. Her minority is what the officers are dwelling on.

Hunter used to be a minister of the gospel, but of late has been keeping a blind tiger, it is alleged. A search and seizure warrant was secured from Judge Alex Boxwell in the probate court, and Chief Fraser raided the Hunter place. Whisky, beer, poker chips, playing cards and many other evidences of a gambling den were found.

It is claimed that Hunter conducted a regular harem in his apartments, and officials claim they have the evidence of this, which will be produced at the trial.

Drug Firm Officer Accused.

Quincy, Ills., July 1.—Warrants have been sworn out for the arrest of Philip Schanz, secretary and treasurer of the Aldo Sommer Wholesale Drug company, charging him with embezzlement of $25,000 of funds of the firm. Schanz disappeared Tuesday.

TOBACCO FAMINE IN PARIS.

French Government Unable to Supply Dealers With Stock.

Paris, July 1.—There is a tobacco famine at Paris because of the peculiar system of the state-administered tobacco monopoly, which, like so many other state-administered industries, goes hopelessly wrong in matters of detail. It may be doubted whether the most hardened Socialist would not, after living a few months in France, think twice before he advocated, as he now advocates, state railways and state administration for as many things as possible.

Since the state took over the exploitation of the Western railway complaints have been constant. The employes complain, and when their demands are not immediately complied with terrorize the government; the passengers complain because the service is bad. There is no telephone service in the world worse than the French. There are no matches in the world worse than the French matches; and not only have all smokable brands of cigars and tobacco been raised in price, but there is a tobacco famine.

The tobacco dealers—the holders, that is, of the privilege of selling matches, cigars and tobacco—are in despair. For since the price of better class tobacco and cigars was recently raised, the French government has "been unable" to supply the retail dealers with stock. Nobody quite knows the reason. The fact remains, however, that the more largely used kinds of cigars, matches and tobacco have become unobtainable. People who must smoke are smoking inferior brands at higher prices. People who can do so are refraining from smoking altogether.

The dealers declare that their business turnover has dropped away 40 per cent in the last week, and smokers are talking angrily about a smokers' strike to compel the government to re-establish former prices and to keep up the supply.

Is Not Wending.

Dayton, O., July 1.—The man arrested here as a suspect in the Alma Kellner murder mystery, proved to be Rosario Granger, a Canadian Frenchman and a tramp. He was released.

DIOCLETIAN RELIC FOUND.

Recent Roman Discoveries Also Include Fifteenth Century Fresco.

Rome, July 1.—Two interesting archaeological discoveries have just been made. The first is that of a fragment of the ancient mosaic pavement of the baths of Diocletian, now being put in order for next year's exhibition. The second is a set of beautiful frescoes of the fifteenth century, which are come to light in the deserted church of St. Francesco at Angullana, on the lake of Bracciano, the residence in the middle ages of the Counts of Angullana, whose tower is still preserved in Rome, and who played a considerable part in the history of Italy, and even of Greece. The frescoes include a madonna, surrounded by angels, St. Francis and other saints. They are said to belong to the Umbrian school.

Mead for Governor.

Montpelier, Vt., July 1.—Lieut. Gov. John A. Mead was nominated for governor on the second ballot at the Republican state convention here yesterday afternoon.

NO SIGN OF A PIMPLE.

Poslam Eradicates Blemishes and All Skin Troubles.

"I have been troubled with pimples and blackheads for four years," writes a Washington gentleman in the government service, "and have used salves and blood tonics. None of them has been of benefit to me, but poslam has done the work and my face is clear, with no sign of a pimple."

The work of eradicating pimples, facial blemishes, clearing the complexion, red noses, etc., is among the easier accomplishments of poslam in which over-night results are seen. Being a strictly medicinal preparation, its properties far exceed those of the balms and lotions usually employed. In all of the many forms of skin troubles in both infants and adults, poslam produces beneficial results from first application. Eczema, acne, herpes, tetter, piles, barber's itch, salt rheum, scaly scalp, etc., yield readily to its remarkable curative properties. No matter what part of the body may be affected, it may be easily treated with poslam.

Poslam can be had for 50 cents at any reliable druggist's, particularly the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co. in Superior. Or the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city, will send a sample free by mail to any one who will write for it. This is sufficient to show results in twenty-four hours.

THIS GIVES ONE CREEPS

Snake Skins Are Used to Hold Vases and Electric Lights.

Chamber of Horrors in an American House in London.

London, July 1.—Mrs. W. N. McMillan and her husband are among the most intimate friends of the Roosevelts. They have entertained the former president both at their place in Africa and here at Hill street. Mr. Roosevelt says that Mrs. McMillan is the finest shot he has ever met among women.

Yet as she drives in the park of an afternoon or pops in to see her friends she looks the personification of womanliness and daintiness in fluffy garments and a hat of the orthodox size, and nothing is harder to realize than that she has done more camping out, roughing and big game shooting than any other woman in England. But it is so. To the big game hunter, her house, No. 19 Hlill street, Mayfair, is the most fascinating spot in town. There he will see the pelts of weird animals, of which he has hitherto only read. He will be shown skeletons of mysterious beasts that will make him burn with ardor to emulate the hunting successes of the chatelaine and her husband.

Mrs. McMillan rather prides herself on her chamber of horrors in Hill street, the most weird thing of its kind in any private house in London containing as it does mementos of their extensive travels in Africa. Over the mantelpiece is the skull of a Benin chief, who committed suicide because he thought he had disgraced his deity. It is beautifully polished and the hostess regards it as one of her mascots. Covering the wall at either side are innumerable heads of different animals which have fallen to the guns of the McMillans. There are also many mementos of Gen. Willcocks' expedition to Benin, the most unpleasant being the elephant tusks stained deeply with the blood they have drawn. On these the native executioners used to impale their victims. The skins of deadly snakes are converted to the most decorative uses. Gracefully twined as in life they are made to hold between their fangs electric light globe or a vase. The floor is covered with the skins of tigers, leopards and other animals which have fallen to the guns of the intrepid host and hostess.

It is quite comprehensible that people so fond of adventure should care very little for London and its amusements. For the greater part of every year their town house is shut up. The spring and autumn usually find them in Devonshire surrounded by a few friends, for they never go in for entertaining on a big scale. In the past they gave the lucky people they liked a delightful time at Buckland, a very picturesque spot they lately relinquished for Lord Clinton's mansion in the same county, which they have taken on a long lease. But they are the happiest at Juju Farm, the famous abode near Nairobi.

A Wonderful Hat.

Lady Greville's wonderful hat which she wore for the first time at the reception given by Sir George and Lady Reid at the Ritz hotel for the Roosevelts, attracted more attention in some quarters than anything else. It was picturesque, daring and eminently becoming. Of an exquisite quality of black tagal straw, it was covered with immense black ostrich feathers, one of which, falling from the back, reached right down to the wearer's waist; there were also cut jet ornaments and pearl pins, and the whole thing cost $300. Lady Greville had masses of soft golden hair, which strayed out from under this creation in bewitching little curls. Her dress, which was of souple black satin, a material which is greatly to the fore just now, was le dernier cri from Paris, and cut quite tight; it fitted her like a sheath, yet there was no trouble moving about in it. I noticed your former president gazing with decided admiration at this vision. He did not seem at first to recognize Lady Greville, who was Mrs. Kerr before her marriage, but in due course there was a presentation and then both Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt had much to say to this American beauty.

Lady Greville has been living most quietly since her marriage, as she has been in mourning for her husband's father, who it will be remembered, died immediately after his son's wedding. She intends to remain in town, I hear, only for a little time—a few weeks at most—and then, like the rest of the smart world, she will fly from London. Indeed, with the departure of the Roosevelts, the few society people who are in London will move to the country or the continent. No one of any prominent social position has the courage to give a party owing to the court mourning; it is very doubtful if there will be even the debutante dances which have been promised in July, though the king has intimated that he has no objection. Americans as well as English are loth to entertain—in fact, the former seem more determined to observe the proprieties in this respect than the late king's own subjects. But then did you ever know an American woman who did not do the right thing socially?

Mrs. James McDonald is staying at her house in Cadogan square. She and her husband have recovered at last from the illnesses which they have had for so long. For a couple of seasons Mrs. McDonald was unable to do much, but she meant to be very gay this summer for two young American nieces of whom all her friends have heard a great deal. Notwithstanding the gloomy social outlook, these girls are coming along a little later and will be chaperoned by their aunt.

There is no house in London to which people like going better than to Mrs. McDonald's, for she always has a great number of really interesting artistic people. Perhaps that is why every one agrees that her parties never are dull, even though they are often of the hen variety. Never yet did an English woman appreciate a gathering made up of her own sex, and those who know her best say she never will.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."—Mrs. SADIE MULLEN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

ANTHONY BLUM HAS COLLAPSE

Given Last Rites By Priest Who Is Suing Him.

Hartford, Conn., July 1.—While the case of Rev. Arthur De Bruycker, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church of Willemantic, and one of the best known Roman Catholic clergymen in New England, against Anthony Blum, a stock broker of Boston, who is well known in Duluth and the Rainy Lake country, whom the priest accused of misrepresentation in a Western mining deal and sued for $5,000 damages, was being tried in the superior court at Putnam, one of the strangest incidents in the history of the church and probably in legal procedure occurred when the defendant, Blum, a Boston Catholic, collapsed on the witness stand while testifying for his side, and it was necessary to call his accuser, Father De Bruycker, to administer to him the last rites of the church, when it was seen he was likely to die at any moment.

A physician attended Blum in an ante-room, and when Father De Bruycker heard he was likely to die, and that there was no time to summon any of the Putnam priests to give the dying witness the last rites of his church, the plaintiff priest entered the side room, where Mr. Blum told him that he did not want to await the arrival of the Putnam priest who had been summoned, but that he wished him to hear his confession and give him the last rites of the church.

By the time that Father De Bruycker had arisen from his knees, after hearing Blum's confession, the sacred oils of extreme unction had been brought by a Putnam priest and Blum was anointed.

Immediately, and possibly miraculously, there came a heart reaction and Mr. Blum was removed to the extent that he was later removed to his home in Boston.

HORSEFLESH IS FREELY SOLD

Eleven Horse Shops in Dusseldorf and Nine in Chemnitz.

London, July 1.—About a month ago Ramsay Macdonald, the British labor leader, published an article in which he alleged that in grocers' windows in Dusseldorf strangers could see roasted corn which was sold as coffee, and in butchers' shops piles of horseflesh were on view. In consequence of this statement, a correspondent wrote to the town asking for particulars and in every case he received a most emphatic denial.

The mayor of Dusseldorf writes: "I have much pleasure in replying that there are altogether in Dusseldorf eleven horseflesh shops, compared with 432 shops in which oxen, bullocks, calves, pigs and sheep are sold. In addition, there are twenty-two meat and sausage shops in which no horseflesh is sold. Only the eleven horse butchers are permitted to sell horseflesh. In a population of 350,000 the number of horseflesh dealers is by no means high, and in any case is considerably smaller than in the Dutch cities."

The mayor of Chemnitz says: "I have the honor to inform you that there are in Chemnitz only nine horse butchers and horseflesh dealers, as compared with 366 butchers and dealers who sell meat comprising only beef, pork, veal, etc., and are forbidden to sell horseflesh."

The mayor of Frankfort-on-the-Main says: "The information which has reached you is incorrect. With a population of over 400,000, there are only four horseflesh butchers' shops."

The statement concerning coffee is equally false. Malt coffee is sold in Germany, labeled as such, in the same way as it is sold in England today, no more attempt being made to deceive the German consumer than there is to deceive the British consumer.

ROWDY STUDENTS FINED.

Berlin, July 1.—The result of the trial of a number of Bonn students who were charged with rowdy conduct endangering life, is that fines of from $7.50 to $20 have been inflicted on the thirteen sudents incriminated. The only defense the students had to offer was that they were so drunk they did not know what they were doing. The lightness of the punishment has excited great dissatisfaction among the bourgeois classes who see in it an undue favoring of the aristocracy.

HSIEN FENG'S WIDOW DEAD.

Was Not Prominent Politically and Comparatively Unknown.

Shanghai, July 1.—News is received of the death of the sole remaining widow of the Emperor Hsien Feng, at the age of 77. Hsien Feng died in 1861 at Jehol, whither he had retired before the Anglo-French advance on Pekin. He was the father of the last emperor but one, Tung Chih, whose mother was the amiable but lymphatic Empress Tze An—quite eclipsed by, though always remaining on friendly terms with, the redoubtable Tze Hsi, the great empress dowager who ruled China for forty years.

The old lady who now has passed away probably was unknown outside a very small circle until a few months before her death, she was dragged into publicity by the squabbling between the Lung Yu empress dowager, chief consort of Emperor Kuang Hsu, and the three surviving secondary consorts of Tung Chih, who seem to have tried to strengthen their cause by winning over the support of the aged widow of Hsien Feng. It does not appear that she ever took a very active part in the controversy.

HOBBLE SKIRTS

Are Much Worn By American Women in Paris.

New York, July 1.—Mrs. James A. Stevenson of Orange and this city, who has arrived from Europe, said that although the hobble skirt was a Parisian creation, American women were the chief users of it in the French capital.

"People on this side of the water," said Mrs. Stevenson," have not seen the hobble skirt in all its glory. Where the ordinary garment is four yards wide this is but one.

"The result is that women can scarcely walk, and when they alight from carriages they must lift the skirt above the knee. This style is very much favored by the maids and matrons of the United States."

Further discussing fashion, Mrs. Stevenson said that camel-hair shawls would be worn extensively this year as coats.

GAME WAS A SLAUGHTER

Superior Aldermen Snowed Under By the Duluth City Fathers.

Alderman "Iron Arm" Wharton Proves Star of the Game.

Duluth, 15; Superior, 3.

The score tells the story of the game yesterday between the Duluth and the Superior aldermen.

The contest was replete—but shucks, what's the use of trying to dope it out as a real ball game? Four innings consumed the entire afternoon, the game being called because the overworked city dads got too weak from hunger to continue after 5:30.

Anyhow, the Duluthians covered themselves with glory. All of them, together with several enthusiastic rooters, including Alderman-at-large "Paddy" McDonnell, left the park with beatific smiles that might have been mistaken for a reflection of the halo to which each was justly entitled for braving the dangers across the bay and sweltering in the hot sun for over two hours—playing four innings—all that their home city might retrieve itself of the sting of past defeats.

Official scorers were on the ground to give the battle the semblance of a real game. But before it had gone five minutes they had to give up in despair. It was too much for them. Faint and dizzy from the attempts to follow the erratic ball, they tossed books and pencils into the diamond with audible gasps which are unprintable.

Alderman Wharton proved himself a wonder. The verdict was that he was entitled to the title "Iron Arm," as he went through the entire four innings without having to be relieved by a substitute. And he was particularly distinguishable because of the fact that he wore the only real uniform on the grounds. The outfit had probably been through a real ball game some time during its ancient career, which may account to some extent for the prowess of the man it adorned throughout four whole innings in Superior yesterday. The Superior mound decorators were not nearly so hardy. They had to send a new pitcher in every inning. They claimed that one man would have lasted four innings had every one of their opponents struck out, but it seems that they were real men and persisted in swatting the horsehide, every man getting a chance to go to bat every inning.

Mayor Crumpton umpired the balls and strikes and H. W. Cheadle, city clerk, the bases. It is said that they guessed right at least part of the time.

Alderman Curren got steam up towards the last part of the game and gave a hurdling exhibition. It was quite spectacular and by all means the feature of the game. Coming full speed towards third base he saw that he might hurt the man stationed there. Girding his loins he made a mighty leap, soaring like a grasshopper over his head. His feat won him more applause than that accorded the others the whole four innings.

Aldermen Merritt, Wharton and Hector pounded out three baggers, due to the fact that the Superior aldermen couldn't find the ball or were too hot to pull the bingles down in short order. Most of the others got hits, as it was no trick to get to the first station if they could connect with the ball at all.

After the game the worn contestants enjoyed an informal banquet. The proceeds were divided and will be given to the children's homes in the two cities.

The line up was as follows:

Superior		Duluth
Idler	c.	Makowski

In the final for the Comet cup, the second flight trophy, Mrs. H. L. Pound of Skokie defeated Mrs. C. E. Raymond of Hinsdale by 3 up and 2 to play, while the deciding contest for the Hawthorn cup, the third flight trophy, developed an interesting match between Mrs. G. D. Forest of Skokie and her clubmate, Miss Margaret Knap, which was won on the home green by the former by 1 up.

Miss Katherine Forest of Skokie and Harvey Pickerell of Edgewater won low net score honors in the mixed foursome handicap, registering a total of 80 with an allowance of 5.

MANY ENTRIES IN GOLF TOURNAMENT.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 1.—One hundred and four contestants will ge away in the match play this morning at the Oakmont Country club, where the amateur championship of the Western Pennsylvania Golf association is being played. The championship eight and the six flights of sixteen will be started off at half hour intervals, beginning at 9:15. Because of the large number of entries, the qualifying rounds of yesterday were not completed until 8 o'clock last night and it was almost daylight this morning before the pairings for the match play today were made up.

"HEADLIGHT" SNATCHED

From Illinois Mayor's Manly Bosom By Dashing Brunette.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 1.—Gertrude Volmer, described to the police by Mayor Erdman of Oblong, Ill., as a dashing brunette, was arrested, charged with lifting a $1,000 diamond scarf pin he was wearing when he topped a "joy ride" with a nice dinner at a downtown cafe.

The mayor came here to study municipal problems. Study may have made him lonesome. At any rate, a short distance from his hotel the "dashing brunette" loomed up. She was willing to chat with him.

She was carrying an auto coat. Mayor Erdman proposed a ride. She consented. They rode for a couple of hours and had dinner.

Gertrude twisted the scarf pin from the manly bosom of the mayor and hiked. The mayor reported it to the police. They laid for Gertrude. She had the pin when she reached home and the police locked her up on the charge of grand larceny.

Germans Launch Fighter.

Danzig, Prussia, July 1.—The Oldenburg, another great battleship to be added to the German navy, was launched here yesterday.

The Oldenburg is a sister ship of the Ostfriesland, and has a displacement of 22,000 tons. Her length is 490 feet and her beam ninety feet. Her armament consists of 12, 12-inch guns, 14, 5.9-inch guns and 20, 4.1-inch guns. The battleship will have a complement of 950 men and is designed to show a speed of 19.5 knots an hour.

ON THEIR HONEYMOON

He Flirted With Everybody That Wore Petticoats.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 1.—Mrs. Izetta Anna Rockefeller was granted a divorce from George W. Rockefeller, a Willoughby business man, and Rockefeller signed a release on her Chicago property, a thing which he had previously refused to do. She was also granted her former name of Mrs. Izetta A. Smith. Mrs. Rockefeller testified that her honeymoon lasted but eight days, and that he flirted with everybody they met who wore petticoats.

NATIONAL FOREST AREA CUT 500,000 ACRES.

Washington, July 1.—The president has signed several proclamations eliminating nearly 500,000 acres of lands from the national forests and adding a little more than 100,000 acres to the reserves. The lands taken out are more suitable to agriculture than to forest purposes and later will be opened to settlement. The addition represents tracts best adapted to the growing of trees.

The Beverhead national forest in Montana and Idaho has been deprived of 106,875 acres. About 98,563 acres of these eliminations are located in Montana and 8,834 acres in Idaho.

FEMALE PICKPOCKETS

Who Worked Their Trade on French Trains Are Caught.

Paris, July 1.—Travelers on the P. L. M. railway, especially women, frequently have been victims of clever pickpockets on the trains, who relieved them systematically of the valuables they carried with them. It was supposed, of course, that the delinquents were men, but M. Sebille, head of the traveling detective department, believed otherwise. He was right, as two offenders have been arrested at a station between Paris and Dijon, and they are women. They invariably dressed in deep mourning and used to stand around the doors of the compartments. While one of them more or less hustled the passengers, the other watched her chance to pick a pocket or to steal a purse or bag. Then they moved to another compartment, or left the train altogether. At the time of their arrest they were caught in the act of robing in their usual way. The police had been following their movements for several weeks, but their game had been so cleverly managed that it was difficult to catch them in the act.

SAYS "THAT'S EASY" WHEN CONDEMNED TO DEATH.

New York, July 1.—Upon hearing his sentence to die in the electric chair pronounced by Judge Foster, Morris M. Lustig, the private detective who was convicted of murdering his wife, smiled and then laughed. The court set the week of Aug. 8 for Lustig's death. As the proceedings were about ended, Lustig turned to his counsel and remarked:

"That's easy."

Lustig formerly lived in Milrey, Pa. An appeal is to be made by his lawyers.

Protests Nicaraguan Action.

Washington, July 1.—Taking note of a statement contained in a cablegram from American Consul Moffatt at Bluefields that the Madriz steamer Venus had bombarded without notice the port of Prinzapulca, a New Orleans trading company has protested to the state department against this action, reserving the right to present a claim for its property at that point.

ST. PAUL AND WAUKESHA MEN KILLED IN EXPLOSION.

TALBOT MAY HAVE DROWNED

Mill Worker Missed By Companions---Bay Is Dragged.

Emil Talbot, 25 years old, a mill worker residing at 5112 Polk street, is supposed to have drowned at noon today at the Merrill & Ring dock, West Duluth.

Talbot was in the employ of the Alger & Smith mill and was working on the dock most of the morning. Shortly before noon he was missed.

Inquiries were made at his home, but his parents stated that he did not come home for his midday meal. A half hour later the police were notified.

Lieut. Charles E. Wilcox and Undertaker Elliatrault left for the scene and up to a late hour this afternoon were dragging the bay around the dock in search for his body.

If Talbot was drowned, nothing definite to substantiate this fact has been discovered by the authorities. It is believed at the dock, however, that he slipped off in the water, unobserved, and sank to his death before he could be helped.

A short time ago, Joseph Talbot, his father, was stunned by lightning, while standing in the doorstep of his home. He was knocked senseless and did not regain consciousness for some time.

NEED NOT PAY UNTIL SPRING

Collection of Grand Avenue Assessment Will Be Postponed.

Although payment on the advance assessments for the repaving of Grand avenue will probably be extended until next spring, when the work will begin, no announcement of this has been made by the board of public works in the notices sent out to property owners, who will be specially benefited by improvement.

An assessment of $29,365.07 will be levied on the property owners on Grand avenue between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues, the portion which will be paved. The assessment amounts to $180.90 for a 25-foot lot.

Notices of a hearing which will be held Friday morning, July 8, at the city hall, at which property owners interested in the making of the assessment have a right to be heard, have been sent out by the board of public works.

The much agitated question as to whether the property owners who had petitioned for the storm sewer along the avenue, will be obliged to pay for the work since the passage of the amendment, specifying that such work shall be paid for by the city, has practically been settled. It is understood that the city will bear this expense as well as that of the paving of street intersections.

If payment on the advance assessments, which are to be made at once, is not extended until next spring, it is said that there will be an organized effort on the part of the interested property owners to demand this, as many object to having their money tied up until next spring.

R. Murchison, secretary of the board of public works stated this morning that it was the intention of the board to defer payment on the assessments until next spring, when work would begin on paving the avenue.

The storm sewer will probably be put in this year so that the street will be settled well in advance of the paving work.

ODD FELLOWS WILL INSTALL OFFICERS.

West Duluth Lodge No. 168, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and Excelsior Rebekkah Lodge No. 59, will install officers Tuesday evening at the Odd Fellows hall, Central avenue.

Following the installation, there will be a social session, at which refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake, will be served. At the last meeting of Rebekah lodge it was decided to meet the first and third Saturdays of each month in the future.

CHILDREN WILL BE GIVEN FLAGS.

School children who march in the Fourth of July parade at West Duluth next Monday morning will each be given a flag. Several hundred will take part.

The youngsters will meet at Fifty-eighth avenue wast and Raleigh street at 9:15 a. m. sharp. Harold G. House, principal of the Ely school, will organize the line of march.

The children will march in the second division of the parade.

REPUBLICANS MAY GIVE BANQUET.

Plans for the biennial banquet of the West Duluth Republican club will probably be made tomorrow evening at the regular meeting of the organization at the Commercial club rooms.

The matter will come up at that time for consideration, and if it is decided to hold the affair, committees will be appointed. It has been customary to hold a banquet every two years.

Farewell Reception.

A farewell reception in honor of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Greeley and daughter Bessie, who will leave in a few days for Illinois, where they will make their future home, was held last evening at Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street. Refreshments were served and an informal program rendered. Dr. Greeley is a dentist in the Silver block. The family has resided in West Duluth for the past seven years.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. McDonough, who were married last week at West Duluth, have returned from a wedding trip. They will make their home in Proctor, where Mr. McDonough is employed by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road.

Gitchi Gammi lodge, No. 123, Knights of Pythias, held an informal meeting last evening at the Commercial club rooms. Speeches were made by John H. Norton, James E. Wharton and a musical program was rendered.

Mrs. J. Simons has purchased the confectionery store which has been conducted at 323 Central avenue by Frank J. Cullen for the last year. She took charge of the business today.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Scott of Ashland, Wis., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert McLaughlin of 108 North Forty-eighth avenue west.

COPPERS DULL AND LIFELESS

Slight Rally at the Close of a Very Listless Session.

The copper market today was dull and without life. There was some selling after an easy opening, but the liquidation ran its course and toward the close there was a rally on account of buying on the rumor that the president had asked the chairman of the interstate commerce commission to adjust mooted rates as soon as possible. The industrials and railroads advanced on this report and coppers swelled slightly in sympathy. The close was about on a par with the opening.

The undertone of the market was weak and there is little on the financial horizon or in the copper market to warrant a belief in higher values for some time.

Trading here was light. Butte Alex Scott, full paid, sold at $6 to $6.25; Butte & Superior at $1 to $1.06¼. Calumet & Sonora at $12.50; Carman at 90c; Cliff at $1.81¼. Keating at 99c; Tuolumne at $2.75; North American at $3, $3.06¼ and $3.12½.

Amalgamated sold at $60.12½ to $58.87½ to $61 to $60.62½; Steel common at $72.12½ to $71 to $72.62½ to $71.62½; Butte Ballaklava at $12.62½, $13.25 to $13.12½; Calumet & Arizona at $50, $50.87½ to $50; North Butte at $20.50 to $19.87½ to $21.25 to $21; Giroux at $6.62½ to $6.50; Greene at $6.87½ to $6.75; Giroux at $6.62½ to $6.50; Superior & Pittsburg at $10 to $9.75 to $10.

Copper exports for the week ending June 30 were 7,530 tons, for the month 22,688 tons, against 33,399 tons a year ago. Foreign visible supply copper July 1 is 103,957 tons, a decrease of 1,414 tons within the last two weeks.

NO POLITICS FROM TEDDY

Ex-President Also Refuses to Talk About the Big Fight.

Boston, Mass., July 1.—Col. Roosevelt remained at the hospital with Justice Moody fifty minutes. He and Senator Lodge then were driven into Boston, where they called on Dr. W. S. Bigelow, in Beacon street.

It transpired later that both Dr. Bigelow and his wife are in Europe at present, and Col. Roosevelt and Senator Lodge availed themselves of their intimacy with Bigelows to use the Beacon street home as a waiting room pending the time for the departure of the train.

From the Bigelow residence Col. Roosevelt and Senator Lodge went directly to the Back Bay station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. They had to wait about ten minutes before the train for New York rolled into the station, and the most of the time the colonel and the senator spent in earnest conversation.

No Political Talk.

At the station Col. Roosevelt shook hands cordially with all the newspaper men, but he refused absolutely to talk politics. He would not comment in any way on the action of the New York legislature in defeating the direct nominations bill.

When informed of the telegram reported to have been sent from Jack Gleason expressing the wish that the former president might attend the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno, Col. Roosevelt refused to discuss the matter.

After the train had gone, Senator Lodge, in speaking of Justice Moody's condition, said that the invalid had improved somewhat since the early spring, when the senator saw him. Justice Moody is confined to his bed practically all the time. Tomorrow he will be removed to Magnolia, on the Massachusetts north shore.

APPEALS TO HEAVEN INSTEAD OF POLICE.

Washington, July 1.—Prayers will be said before the police are called in to locate $30 said to have been stolen from the locker of two nurses at the Georgetown university hospital. Sister Pauline, the superintendent, decided today not to search each of the thirty nurses. Instead she will pray that the one who took the money will be prompted by conscience to put it back.

At the One-Price Columbia things are either better, or they cost less.

It's just about five years since there is a Columbia Clothing store in Duluth. We are doing a hundred thousand dollars more business today than was done at that time and ours is the fastest growing big store in the city.

As we look over the crowded store with its crowded cases, counters and shelves, we may be permitted a little over the proud establishment at the live old corner at Third Avenue and West Superior street.

We set out to earn the good will of Duluthians by means of selling the best merchandise in the land, by keeping a real big-city stock of it and by selling it at the lowest prices for which such qualities are sold on the American continent. I guess we've done it.

HOT CHASE ON BOWERY

Alleged Thief Hunted in Relays Until He Faints From Heat.

Revived With Pails of Water and Taken to Police Headquarters.

Despite strenuous efforts to get away from W. Holmquist, from whom he had stolen a coat and a pair of shoes yesterday, John Iverson was finally run down by Holmquist, one of his friends and the police.

Holmquist and his companion tracked Iverson from one place to the other all afternoon. Several times they thought they had him where the arms of the law could reach out and nab him, but each time he got away.

The last time they located him on First street and didn't try to find a policeman, but grabbed him themselves. They marched him about a block and through a Bowery saloon about 6:30 o'clock in the evening. As they reached the front of the bar, room Iverson knocked down both Holmquist and his friend.

Dashing out the front door he started westwards down Superior street at full speed, knocking about the sweating pedestrians he couldn't dodge. Patrolmen Bob McDermott and Dickman were across the way and saw him coming, with the two pursuers following at the best pace they could muster. Casting a longing look at the shade the cops took up the chase. Exhausted after his battle with his first two captors and wearied by the game of hide and seek he had been playing with the two men hunting him, Iverson collapsed on Superior street the other side of the Incline at Seventh avenue west. Fearful that he might be dangerously overcome by the terrific heat the officer turned physician temporarily. Their methods were simple, but effective. Hunting buckets they filled them with ice cold water and soaked Iverson from head to foot as he lay on the burning pavement. He opened his eyes and gasped, but was so weak that the patrolmen had to carry him to the patrol box, where the "Black Maria" was summoned.

He was booked for petty larceny at the police station. In court this morning he entered a plea of not guilty and his trial set for this afternoon. Bail was fixed at $100.

ACCUSED WOMAN OPENS HER VEINS

Frau von Schoenbek Weber Tries to Kill Herself at Allenstein.

Allenstein, East Prussia, July 1.—Frau Von Schoenbeck Weber, who has been on trial for a month, charged with complicity in the murder of her husband, an army officer, attempted suicide today by opening the veins of her wrist. Her wounds are serious, but the physicians hope to save her life.

Maj. von Schoenbeck was killed on Christmas eve, 1908, by Capt. von Goeben, who subsequently confessed, saying he had been infatuated with the woman and by her influence determined to murder the husband. The captain afterwards took his own life and Frau von Schoenbeck remarried.

LAKE SEAMAN IS MURDERED.

Toledo, Ohio, July 1.—James Melia, better known as James Murray, 44 years old, a union lake seaman who came to this city from Cleveland about three weeks ago, has been found murdered in the yard between the Toledo Salvage company's plant, Main street, East Toledo, and the Pennsylvania railroad tracks this morning. Five sailors are under arrest.

LATEST IN AFFINITIES

Is the "Medical Affinity"—The Fat and Lean Are Elected.

Kansas City, Mo., July 1.—It's the latest thing in affinities—the medical affinity. Here's the way it is:

If you are a large, portly person with an oversupply of chin and a bay window, then you have a "medical affinity" for a certain kind of drug, and that's the kind of pill you want to take when anything goes wrong with your interior trimmings.

But, if you're a lean and hungry individual, with a figure that would make a toothpick corpulent by comparison, then some other kind of pill is your "medical affinity."

It's one of the theories of the Hahnmannian Homeopaths, who are in convention here.

The same thing applies to blondes and brunettes. Brunettes are said to have bromine as their affinity, while blondes are supposed to be affectionately disposed toward iodine.

DEMAND IS IMPROVED

Better Retail Trade in Seasonable Goods in New York.

Customs Inspection Shows Results in Increased Domestic Buying.

New York, July 1.—The retail trade has very much improved with the coming of clearer skies and warmer weather, improved in the demand for seasonable goods that since Easter have moved very slowly and threatened to remain upon the hands of the merchants of the city to a very unusual amount.

The last two weeks have made great changes in this regard, and, during July, it is hoped, the summer retail trade will absorb the greater part of the purchases made early by our merchants to supply a demand that has come very late this year.

The near 5,000,000 of inhabitants of this city and the more than 5,000,000 of persons, who daily or weekly come to New York from nearby cities and towns, in themselves furnish a demand for merchandise that totals a vast value.

While one reads of transatlantic steamers departing almost daily with crowded cabins, more than half of those who make up the passenger lists are from localities far from New York City. Fully one half of those who now take summer vacations to Europe are from the Central, the Western and the Southern sections of this country.

To place the number of New Yorkers who annually go to Europe on summer vacations at 25,000 persons would far more than cover such excursionists.

Deficiency Is Made Up.

Their departure undoubtedly lessens to some small degree the demand for merchandise at our retail stores, but as more than 100,000 persons from the interior make New York a stopping place on their vacation excursions to New England and New Jersey resorts, it readily can be seen that our merchants far more than make up this deficiency through the patronage of these visitors. Our hotels, restaurants and places of amusement all are benefited by this growing tide of summer travel.

It helps laragely in June and July of each year, but there is more money spent here by the excursionists on their return from the various resorts than there is upon their journey to them. Thousands of persons arrange to buy articles of personal attire and lay in stores of all kinds for household use when they stop here late in August or during the month of September on their homeward way.

Even hundreds of those who go to Europe for the summer, spend days and weeks in New York city, after their return to the United States, supplying themselves from the ample stocks and varied assortments of our great stores here, taking their purchases to their abodes in the Southern, the Western and the central portions of the Union.

The present very thorough inspection of all incoming baggage, in order to collect customs duties, will surely decrease purchases abroad and correspondingly increase their purchases in this city.

Merchants Are Satisfied.

New York retail merchants of every class, but furriers, jewelers and silk dealers, especially, are exceedingly gratified at the close inspection and the levying of the duties upon these purchases made in Paris, London, Berlin and other European centers of art and fashion.

The incoming steamers have far less personal baggage now with their passengers than in former years, and while the tradespeople of London and Paris in particular are complaining bitterly of the diminution of American patronage in millinery, jewelry and wearing apparel of all kinds, our New Yorkers feel that their trade will be very much increased this fall and winter owing to the slump in the retail buying of Americans abroad.

The month of May in showing our exports were more than $11,000,000 in excess value over the imports is thought to be very favorable for a growth in the value of our exports, so that this country can acquire heavier trade balances abroad through the increasing sale of our agricultural and manufactured products.

It is the growth of our export trade that will give this country its greatest and its most permanent prosperity.

The growth of our domestic trade is fully assured by and through the full and steady employment of all our labor throughout the country, and the only certainty of that labor's constant employment is through the creation of additonal demands from the other nations of the world for our productions.

Furnished a Surprise.

I saw a statement the other day of our foreign commerce which must have surprised some of our people who are afflicted with hatred of Great Britain. It was to the effect that 64 per cent of all our exports from this country were taken by Great Britain and by British colonies.

Britain, of course, buys nothing from us except that which she desires to use, but at all events, and under the force of such a patronage, we must give her and her colonies credit with being our first-class customers.

It is through our sales of our productions of the soil, the mill, the shop and the factory to the foreign consumers that we will be able to continue our home affairs in the most prosperous conditions, for the profits derived from such sales are permanent additions to our national wealth.

We can sell securities abroad, but those securities call for the return of the invested cash and also call for additional interest, if bonds or their proportionate share of profits if stocks.

Securities placed abroad are helpful to our corporate and other enterprises, but they are in reality loans to our business men which must be repaid, plus profits or interest to the foreign investors, from the revenues obtained from our own people.

They constitute debt, while the profits on our exports of productions constitute absolute American capital, and if we had at our command in the United States enough of such capital to finance our own railways and absorb our own steel and other industrial shares, it would be far more profitable to us as a nation and as a people to do so rather than to permit the interest and the profits to go out to enrich Europeans.

Big Growth in Five Years.

There was published a few days ago the annual report of The Societe Financiere Franco-American, an association organized five years ago by some New York bankers to promote the flotation of American securities in France.

It has declared a dividend of 6 per cent for the last year and carried to the surplus account about 600,000 francs.

In the prior four years of its existence it had declared but 5 per cent dividend each year and had accumulated a surplus during the four years of about 1,000,000 francs.

It is clear that the business of placing our securities abroad is rapidly increasing and that it has become very profitable, not only to the investors, but to the companies engaged in flotation.

It is, however, the American public which in the end pays the promotion costs, the principal and the dividends or profits, and our financial affairs will never be in the best shape until those costs and the dividends and profits come to our own investors residing in our own land and disbursing these costs, dividends and profits among our own business communities from whom they are derived.

It ought to be but a few years until American investors will possess the capital to finance all American enterprises.

"HYSTERIA" OF SOCIETY'S DIANA

Caused Her Arrest on a Charge of Disorderly Conduct.

New York, July 1.—Mrs. "Tom" Pierce, divorced wife of a Massachusetts millionaire, a member of the Long Island hunting set and one of the most daring horse-women and autoists in society, was arrested at the Central Park Casino on a charge of disorderly conduct. She was taken to the Arsenal station, where a physician declared her to be suffering with hysteria and alcoholism. She was taken to the Presbyterian hospital and from there to Bellevue in an ambulance in charge of two policemen. It was as lively a journey as either of the policemen ever had had, and one of them, at least, will bear some physical reminders of it for some time.

Mrs. Pierce is a daring rider, having ridden with most of the hunt clubs and also at horse shows, and created a sensation in the fall of 1907 by appearing at a meet of the Meadow Brook hunt in a man's costume of coat, boots, breeches and slouch hat. She never was afraid to ride any horse and in 1904, at the Newport horse show, rode the unmanageable Tornado.

At this show her horse fell and rolled on her, breaking her leg. In the fall of 1908, Mrs. Pierce was an inmate of a sanitarium in Connecticut. She alleged that her incarceration there was due to a plot of her brothers. The matter was finally compromised.

PICKS A SOCIAL NINETY AND NINE

That's the Fashion Limit Outside New York and Newport.

New York, July 1.—Fashionable folk throughout America will be stirred by the dictum that has gone forth from the Rev. C. W. De Lyon Nicholls of New York, self-elected social arbiter, that "there are only ninety-nine fashionable persons in America outside of New York and Newport."

The Rev. Mr. Nicholls's ultimatum is contained in this book about to be published.

In all Boston and New England only sixteen names are considered by the author as worth mentioning in his book.

Here is the list for Boston: Miss Eleanora Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Lawrence, Miss Prescott Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Van Rensselaer Thayer, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis H. Hunnewell, Jr., Mrs. J. De Forest Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips, nee Drayton, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Mollings Morse.

Mrs. Longworth Included.

The Rev. Mr. Nicholls assigns the following Baltimoreans to a place among the ninety and nine: Miss Lota Randolph Robinson, the Carrolls of Carrollton, Henry Walters and Dr. and Mrs. Henry Barton Jacobs.

Washington's quota includes Mr. and Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore, the Misses Wetmore and the Messrs. William K. and Rogers Wetmore, Pierre Lorillard, Mrs. Richard Townsend and Miss Mathilde Townsend (now Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry), Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Depew, Mr. and Mrs. James Wadsworth, the Misses Margaret and Catherine Cameron, Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, Hamilton Fish and the Misses Fish, Mr. and Mrs. Beekman Lorillard, Miss Katherine Elkins and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

Even the Dead Get In.

The nineteen Philadelphians, it must be confessed, are all of the blue-blood variety and the list is correct as far as it goes. Here it is: Mr. and Mrs. George D. Widener, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Widener, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, nee Oelrichs; Mr. and Mrs. James Francis Sullivan, Miss Frances Livingston Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Biddle, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Denckla Mills, Willing Spencer, Moncure Robinson, Edward Willing and Edward Moore Robinson. The other twenty-five or thirty are scattered about the country.

The last two named gentlemen have been dead for some time past, which occasions considerable surprise that this fact should be unknown to a social arbiter like the Rev. Mr. Nicholls.

Further, to the consternation of everone, Mrs. Frederick Thurston Mason, long regarded as the leader par excellence of social activity in this city, is not even mentioned.

The Rev. C. W. De Lyon Nicholls occupies the proud position of governor general of the National Society of Scions of Colonial Cavaliers. He does not include himself in the fashionable arena.

RAINS IN DAKOTA.

It has rained in Dakota, and it is curious how quickly yesterday's pessimistic depression brightened with hope. Complete ruination, such as some folks were talking, couldn't be cured by a few showers. Therefore, the reports of damage were exaggerated. Q. E. D.

Local showers appear to have been quite general in the western part of North Dakota, and soaking showers have fallen at various points in Minnesota and the Dakotas. There hasn't been enough of it, yet, but it beats a drouth all hollow. No doubt permanent damage has been done—but the crops could stand a lot of damage without going far below the normal so far as general results are concerned. The damage has been exaggerated in the reports, which had a tendency to discuss the danger of damage as though it actually were damage.

Now if Duluth can get some rain to put out the brush fires, and the good start in the wheat fields can be kept up, even the pessimists may be convinced that all is not yet lost.

DAMON WILL AND PYTHIAS TEDDY.

If the smile which Senator La Follette wore away from Sagamore Hill lasted until today, it would be diverting to watch a shade of doubt creep over it when La Follette reads the story of the Taft and Roosevelt meeting at Beverly yesterday. It was marked, apparently, by most cordial warmth. Their salutations were hearty and earnest. Grasping each other's shoulders they stood for a full minute, beaming good will at each other. They were at it two hours and twenty minutes, and it was more like two school boy chums getting together after vacation than it was like two statesmen who are supposed to be at odds over policies and their execution.

Perhaps they concluded that the weather was too warm for a discussion of "my policies." If they did discuss them there was no evidence that the two were not in hearty accord. Their laughter rang out at frequent intervals, though perspiring and anxious witnesses were unable to discover whom the joke was on.

The insurgents are happy over their meetings with Roosevelt. Taft, too, is happy over his meeting with Roosevelt. What kind of mellow cheer is the Colonel distributing? And would Aldrich and Cannon, too, go away with broad smiles if they had a little chat with the Colonel?

RAILROAD RATES AND THE CONSUMER.

In spite of the crusade of many years, in spite of the Elkins law, the interstate commerce law, the Hepburn law, and the Taft railroad law of 1910, in spite of the plain need of protecting the people from the exactions of railroads privately owned and conducted for private purposes, this country still lacks a law insuring the people against unfairly high railroad freight rates.

Remember this when the railroad law lately passed by congress becomes an issue in the campaign. Remember that while it is a step ahead in the move to insure equality of rates between shippers, it offers no relief to the consumer. Shippers don't really care, as a rule, what freight rates are so long as they are equal between shippers—so long as one big shipper isn't getting favors that little shippers are denied. Against favoritism of that sort the law protects the shippers fairly well.

But whatever the freight rates, they are added to the cost of the commodities transported, and the ultimate consumer, when he buys at retail, pays them.

The consumer, therefore, has an interest in freight rates that the government has yet to recognize; and the next fight will be to gain that recognition.

Says Senator La Follette, who has made a lifelong study of this question: "Throughout nearly forty years of struggle to secure adequate legislation congress has wholly failed to enact a statute under which the people of this country can secure reasonable rates. Care has been exercised by those who controlled in congress during that long period of time to prevent the enactment of legislation granting to the people the one thing which in 1870 they started out to obtain. That one thing was reasonable rates. That was the beginning of the struggle, and all that has been accomplished regarding rates down to this moment of time is legislation providing that shippers may, at least upon complaint, secure rates which are relatively equal. That does not deeply concern the consumer. The interests of the shipper and of the consumer are not identical. The consumer demands reasonable rates. The shipper demands equal rates. The shippers maintain an organization. They are able to make and in some measure enforce their demands. The consumer is the 90,000,000 people who pay all the freight rates of the entire country. The people have no organization to present their demands. Judged by the results in legislation on this subject, they do not seem to have been represented at all."

Mr. La Follette is not quite correct in saying that equality of rates does not deeply concern the consumer. They do deeply concern the consumer, because inequality between shippers has in large measure been due to favoritism that created the great monopolies. Equality of rates is valuable to the consumer as well as to the shipper; but that is but one part of the reform that is needed. Rates should be not only equal, but reasonable; and while there is plenty of legislation seeking equality of rates, there is none seeking reasonableness of rates.

First essentials to making rates reasonable are the physical valuation of railroads and a measure providing for government regulation of stock and bond issues. Without these there is no way of finding what rates are reasonable, or of enforcing reasonable rates when they are determined. Both of these measures congress and the administration flatly rejected at the last session of congress.

REFORMING THE FOURTH.

Connected with the observance of the Fourth of July in Cleveland in 1908 there were twelve deaths and seventy injuries.

In 1909, after a "safe and sane Fourth" program had been adopted, the Fourth caused no deaths and no injuries.

That is an example that any city might envy, and that every city should emulate.

CERTIFICATES FOR SOLICITORS.

The Associated Charities proposes to appoint a committee whose duty it shall be to pass upon all appeals for public help, and to issue certificates to those who solicit charity. If that idea is properly carried out the Associated Charities will add largely to its value, which already is great. Duluth has been "stung" by dishonest solicitors many times, and that is bad for deserving charities which may meet a cold shoulder because of public distrust engendered by "fakes." It will help a great deal if it can be announced that all deserving solicitors have certificates from the Associated Charities, and that nobody should give a cent to anybody not provided with such a certificate.

HARMON.

With Roosevelt out of touch with the triumphant organization of his party, with Taft absolutely in the control of that organization though cunningly permitted to delude himself with the belief that he controls it, and with the revolt from Republicanism spreading wider and deeper every day, there is much interest in the men who may be called upon to lead the forces of Democracy against Taft in 1912.

When the Democratic state convention in Ohio, in renominating Judson Harmon for governor, presented his name to the country as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president in 1912, the political spotlight sought the figure of Ohio's Democratic governor, and it is likely to cast its radiance over him a good deal of the time in the next two or three years. If he should be re-elected governor of the Republican state of Ohio this fall, as seems practically certain at this time, only Gaynor of New York will divide attention with him, and while Gaynor is deservedly attracting great interest, Harmon is much the likelier man of the two.

There are many appealing things in the character and career of Judson Harmon. In the opportunities he has had to cultivate a wide sympathy with the needs and aspirations of all classes of people he is in striking contract with President Taft, whose opportunities of that sort have been very limited. Harmon lived on a farm until he was past twenty. He worked his way through college, having been the son of a Baptist clergyman with a large family on his hands. He earned his reputation as a lawyer by hard study and industrious practice. His reputation for ability was such that it was no surprise when President Cleveland made him attorney general of the United States when Richard Olney was transferred to the state department. In that office, and at a time long before the public grew insistent upon public regulation of railroads, Harmon won two notable victories: the breaking up the Trans-Missouri Freight association and its successor, the Joint Traffic association, illegal pooling combines.

Judge Harmon's political strength in his own state is illustrated sufficiently by the fact that he is a Democratic governor in a state that is normally Republican by 50,000 to 70,000 votes. Taft carried the state by 69,000 when Harmon was elected. He saw at once that if his party was to remain in power it must earn public confidence, and his endeavors have been very successful in that direction. He has brought about the accomplishment of certain reforms that have made both him and his party much stronger than before. The most important of these reforms have been along economic lines, in the eliminating of graft from the disposal and handling of public funds—state, county and municipal—and in the establishment of system and order and honest service in the public business.

It is evident that Mr. Bryan thinks Harmon too conservative. He links him with the Cleveland Democracy, against which he has always been bitter. Yet it is evident enough that the man who should head the Democratic party in 1912 must be one who commands the respect of both elements in the party, and this Judge Harmon could do. While he is not a radical, he is unquestionably progressive.

"INDEPENDENT REGULARS."

"What is an 'independent regular'?" anxiously inquires the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

It would be very interesting indeed to hear a clear definition of that new variety of Republican statesman. It properly should come from Congressman Fred C. Stevens of St. Paul, who described himself by that term, rejecting the term "insurgent" as applying to himself. If this splitting of factions into shades and tints continues, presently there will be about as many kinds of Republicans as there are Republicans.

THAT WISCONSIN CONVENTION.

Says the Saturday Evening Post: "Up in Wisconsin the standpat organization seems to have had the state convention all its own way."

The Post, like many others, with some of whom the wish was father to the thought, has fallen into a mistaken apprehension of that Milwaukee conference. It was not a state convention, but a gathering of standpatters or Stalwarts, unattended by any insurgents or "Halfbreeds." It was a meeting of a faction, not of a party.

Notice the great excitement stirred up by the announcement that Japan is going to annex Korea? Incidentally, Yi-Syek, the emperor of Korea, has been Lorimerized out of his job of empering.

What did Roosevelt say to Taft? Well, if the weather at Beverly-by-the-sea was like that at Duluth-by-the-lake yesterday, possibly he said something that was reminiscent of what once was said by the governor of North Carolina to the governor of South Carolina.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

BATHERS AND COMMON DECENCY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It is a delicate subject I have to handle. I refer to the bathers over on the point who go into the water without the proper amount of clothing. No one can be blamed for wishing to bathe and swim or paddle about in the water these days, but it seems to me that people should be a trifle more careful in the matter of exposing themselves to public gaze. These fine nights there are hundreds of boats, mostly pleasure craft, plying up and down close to the shores of the point. A great part of these boats contain women. It is very embarrassing to have propped up in plain sight some one who is thoughtless enough or careless enough or else who simply does not care enough about the feelings of others to clothe himself in bathing attire. In some instances the bathers seem to take delight in making as big a show of themselves as possible. Of course, really modest people cannot see how they can do these things but such is the fact nevertheless. If people won't be modest, they must be forced to be at least decent. Bathing suits are within the reach of all and it is my opinion that the police force should take strenuous steps to see that people be not unduly shocked. MODEST.

PROFITS VS. CAPITAL.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In the agitation now going on for a general closing of the retail stores on Saturdays for the benefit of the employes, I have been noting very carefully the arguments of both sides as given in the daily papers.

From them all I have come to the conclusion that it is really a question of which is of the greater importance—the profits of the storekeepers or the capital (health) of the employes.

If the profits that might accrue on the eight Saturday afternoons and evenings in July and August are preserved for the benefit of the proprietors, what of the capital (health) of the many times larger number of employes?

It is almost certain the profits of the proprietors will come to them—sooner or later— without any impairment whatever, as the people will buy tomorrow, if not today; but from what source will the capital (health) of the employes be restored, if it becomes impaired, if not altogether dissipated?

True, they can be worn out and thrown upon the junk pile like any old piece of worn-out machinery, and new ones take their places, but is that good business economy, to say nothing of the humanity part of it?

Are you, merchants, who are opposing the movement, giving your employes the square deal? Are you giving yourselves the square deal?

You have taken much time and paid lots of money for wages in training and perfecting your employes, so as to make profits for yourself; does it not seem reasonable to say you can make more profits if you will only take good care of the capital (health) your employes are using for your benefit? Also, will you not insure a far greater degree of hearty co-operation from them?

Remember, it is only for the eight or nine hottest Saturday afternoons and evenings of the entire year. Yours for the square deal,

A. G. STRONG.

Speaking of Insurgency.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: When a primitive Caucasian reformer, in the old cave days, questioned the morality of eating one's enemies, he was denounced as an insurgent. The tribal patriarchs, fingering their clean knawed necklaces of hostile bones, prated of "regularity" in inadequate gutterals, and read him out of the tribe. Or else they ate him. Or both.

When spectacles were first invented, pious Christians held up their hands in horror at the thought that any man should be so impious as to try to improve on the eyes that God had given him. Yet somehow spectacles won against ocular "regularity."

Umbrellas were denounced at first. But pretty soon the denouncers began to "come in out of the rain." It was the same with closed carriages.

Old Ajax defied the lightning, as the highly moral Greek myth relates, and was knocked galley west by a thunderbolt. Long afterward Ben Franklin did the same trick with his lightning rod, and brought down on his head only the harmless wrath of theologians. He was tempting heaven, they said, by tampering with the instrument of Divine vengeance. Still, the lightning rod triumphed. The other day they put a set of them on the White House.

Galileo did some insurging with his telescope and his astronomical theories. And they made him recant and sink back into the "regular" fold with his scientific doctrines. But, somebody, most everybody has come to agree with Galileo that the sky doesn't move around the earth.

Some old Roman insurgent ventured to suggest that you couldn't always tell what was going to happen from the way a bird flew, or from the looks of a sheep's insides, and the augurs and haruspices and the pontifex maximus (which is Latin for the Aldriches and Cannons and President Taft) grew purple with indignation.

The leaders of the reformation did some insurging in their time. So did Cromwell and Mirabeau and Garibaldi and George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

The anti-slavery movement was extremely bad form for a while. But out of it the Republican party was born.

"The old order changes, yielding place to new," and it is always a band of insurgents that changes it. After a time all of the stand-patters that survive the slaughter climb on the band wagon and shout for progress.

How It Was.

Philadelphia Times: A Philadelphian on a trans-Atlantic liner had an experience recently which was calculated to make her believe that a seaman is not apt to waste many thoughts on his personal troubles. The seaman who brought the traveler to this opinion had the second day out a fall which resulted in a bad cut on the head. She was most solicitous in her inquiries as to his welfare when she saw the captain that night, and would undoubtedly have continued her sympathy had not a rough sea called to mind her own sufferings. Four days later, however, when she emerged, white and weak, from her stateroom, she suddenly remembered the poor sailor. In the course of the day she encountered him with a strip of court plaster on his forehead.

"How is your head?" she asked kindly, as he passed by her, bent on some duty.

"West by south, ma'am," was the reply.

Cold Water Without Ice.

Suburban Life: Ice is not a necessity in order to secure cool water, for water can be made sufficiently cool for drinking purposes by putting it in a bottle or jug and wrapping a woolen rag around the latter, then setting it in a shallow dish of water and placing the whole outfit in a cool place; if in a draft, all the better. The principle involved is found in the fact that when evaporation takes place heat is given off. The woolen rag absorbs the water from the dish below, which is evaporated from the rag, cooling the water. If you have ever had alcohol or ether on your hands, you will no doubt have noticed how cool the skin felt. This was because of the evaporation of the liquid. The faster it evaporates the cooler the object gets.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

He Is Explaining, Now.

Cass Lake Times: Congressman Nye disgraced his state, his office and dug his political grave in one brief hour. Notice of funeral later. No flowers.

That's Nothing New.

Hibbing Misaba Ore: The Republican party has promised reapportionment, but there will be a large number of Republicans in the state senate who will refuse to sacrifice their political jobs to the keeping of party pledges.

A Good Recipe.

Cannon Falls Beacon: Recipe for a sane Fourth: Don't be a bigger fool on the Fourth of July than you would be on any other day of the year.

He Did the Right Thing, Anyway.

Fairmont Sentinel: Congressman Hammond voted with the Republicans for the postal savings bank bill and also made a speech in support of the same which while not satisfactory to the leaders of the Democratic party brought twenty Democrats to its support.—Mapleton Enterprise.

While it is true that Congressman Hammond voted with the Republicans in supporting the postal savings bank bill, and took many other Democrats with him, yet he was merely carrying out the pledges of his party. The last national platform of both parties declared for postal savings banks.

Explanations Due.

Virginia Enterprise: With the adjournment of congress those members who seek re-election "on their records" will return to their homes to pick up the work of the campaign. It will be interesting to the constituencies of many of them to hear from the mouths of their congressmen just what they have accomplished down in Washington, just how hard they have worked for the interests of the dear people, and just why they think they should be returned. And our own Clarence B. Miller is one of the number who will spend the next several months explaining.

Too Many Consumers, Too Few Producers.

Carlton Vidette: An "overdose of middlemen," explains a cocoanut shell full of reasons why living is exorbitant in the cities. One investigator found sixteen stores where four would do, and each had at least one clerk, a delivery wagon and driver. All those extras had to be supported—and were consumers instead of producers.

In the Republican State Convention

Clearwater Crystal: Candidly now, where is Cannonism the strongest, in congress or in county conventions?

What Difference? Very Little.

Wabasha Herald: It is astonishing to note the tenacity with which nearly all the papers hang to the question, "What will Roosevelt do in the matter of the Taft administration?" Really, in the name of common sense, what difference can it make? What if he indorses it? Aldrich, Cannon et al have done as much. What if he remains non-committal? It will not effect matters. Give us a rest from that absurd and inconsequential speculation.

It Hasn't the Party, Anyway.

Ortonville Herald-Star: Insurgency in Minnesota does not get a popular hold of the people. An insurgent Republican does not find favor except in the eyes of the Democrats.

An Old Sweetheart of Mine.

As one who cons at evening o'er an album all alone,
And muses on the faces of the friends
that he has known,
So I turn the leaves of Fancy, till in shadowy design,
I find the smiling features of an old sweetheart of mine.

The lamplight seems to glimmer with a flicker of surprise.
As I turn it low to rest me of the dazzle in my eyes,
And light my pipe in silence, save a sigh that seems to yoke
Its fate with my tobacco and to vanish with the smoke.

'Tis a fragrant retrospection—for the loving thoughts that start
Into being are like perfumes from the blossom of the heart;
And to dream the old dreams over is a luxury divine—
When my truant fancy wanders with that old sweetheart of mine.

Though I hear, beneath my study, like a fluttering of wings,
The voices of my children, and the mother as she sings,
I feel no twinges of conscience to deny me any theme
When Care has cast her anchor in the harbor of a dream.

In fact, to speak in earnest, I believe it adds a charm
To spice the good a trifle with a little dust of harm—
For I find an extra flavor in Memory's mellow wine
That makes me drink the deeper to that old sweetheart of mine.

A face of lily-beauty, with a form of airy grace,
Floats out of my tobacco as the genii
from the vase;
And I thrill beneath the glances of a pair of azure eyes
As glowing as the summer and as tender as the skies.

I can see the pink sunbonnet and the little checkered dress
She wore when first I kissed her and she answered the caress
With the written declaration, that "as surely as the vine
Grew round the stump," she loved me
—that old sweetheart of mine.

And again I feel the pressure of her slender little hand,
As we used to talk together of the future we had planned;
When I should be a poet, and with nothing else to do
But write the tender verse that she set the music to.

When we should be together in a cosy little cot
Hid in a nest of roses, with a fairy garden-spot,
Where the vines were ever fruited,
and the weather ever fine,
And the birds were ever singing for that old sweetheart of mine;

And I should be her lover forever and a day,
And she my faithful sweetheart till
the golden hair was gray;
And we should be so happy that when either's lips were dumb
They would not smile in Heaven till the other's kiss had come.

But ah! my dream is broken by a step upon the stair,
And the door is softly opened, and—
my wife is standing there.
Yet with eagerness and rapture all my visions I resign
To greet the living presence of that old sweetheart of mine.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

Such a Bore to Dress.

New York Herald: A belated traveler who was compelled to stay all night in a backwoods cabin down in the Little river country in Oklahoma says that soon after the frugal meal a tall, gaunt youth of 18 and an equally sallow and gaunt girl of 17, both barefooted, took their hats from wooden pegs in the wall and prepared to go out, whereupon the mother, taking her pipe from between her teeth, said reprovingly:

"Go 'long an' wash your feet, Levi; you and Looly, both! Hain't you 'shamed to go off to an evenin' party without washin' your feet?"

They obeyed, but as Levi took the wash pan from a bench by the door he said with a grumble:

"I'd 'bout as soon stay home from a party as to have to fix up for it."

The Last Phase.

Puck: Having occasion, in the regular course of business, to purchase a few congressmen, the ultimate consumer took up the matter in the usual manner.

Imagine his consternation when he discovered that prices had about doubled.

"The trusts control everything!" he exclaimed bitterly, and forthwith gave himself up to despair.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

Carl Berkelman has plans drawn for a handsome brick and stone building he will erect on the site of his present furniture store on Superior street, between First and Second avenues east. He has moved his stock to the Hayes' block.

Early yesterday morning, George S. Hicks, a grocer of West Superior, shot two men who were attempting to enter his house. One of them, Patrick Mahoney, also known as "Tug," was shot in the right lung. Grant Hopkins was shot in the left side, and it is thought he will die.

Isaac Sherwood, "the man in the velveteen suit," or "White Wings," has returned to Duluth, after having jaunted around the Western hemisphere from Washington to Chili. All his friends are glad to see him alive and well.

Col. N. La Brauche, a Frenchman, is now in the city and would be glad to push the scheme for a system of public baths—for a consideration. He is an expert swimmer and for ten years was manager of a club in Montreal.

The bids for the iron work of the Incline railway were opened today and sent to Pittsburg for approval by Samuel Drischer, the engineer in charge.

Totman Bros., have purchased a lot on Superior street near Third avenue west and will erect a large brick livery stable, which will be the finest in Minnesota.

The long pending sale of the Porcupine silver mine has been closed by the Badger Mining company paying $50,000 for it. It is expected the mine will repay the purchase money within three months.

Arthur P. Boller of New York, the consulting engineer of the proposed canal bridge, has arrived in the city and will remain until the bids for the piers and foundations have been opened by the board of public works. The plans for the superstructure will not be ready until September.

WHY VAUNT YOUR CALLING?

New York Telegraph: A youth with a flowing black tie, neglige shirt and self-confident manner, walking along Broadway yesterday, saw a crowd gather in the neighborhood of the Cadillac. He rushed into the midst thereof, ostentatiously pulling out a notebook, and announced loudly that he was a reporter and wished to get the news. Then he waited for the homage that never came.

"Why do men vaunt themselves on their business or profession?" asked a traveler. "Why do they think that they amount to more than any one else merely because they are lawyers, or doctors, or reporters, or cowboys?"

"I give it up," said some one.

"Out in Los Angeles recently I saw a man riding down the main street of that city looking like a circus," continued the traveler. "He was a cowboy, and wished all the world to know it. He wore a bright red shirt, with neither coat nor waistcoat. He had on wonderful chaps, a broad-brimmed hat, a gun at his right hip. Also I noticed that his hair had been oiled and curled and brushed forward on his temples. Why did he think that any one cared what his business in life was? Is a cowboy anything wonderful? I had not heard that he was.

"Riding on a train through Kansas, I noticed a youth board the train at Hutchinson. He wore the rough clothes which are supposed to go with the West. Talking with the youth, he told me he was a cowboy. He was a preacher's son from Akron, Ohio, and had been working on a farm near Wichita for six months tending cattle and sheep. He had a paper called the Kansas Cowboy in his possession, and folded it so the word 'cowboy' could be seen, and then he stuck it in the handkerchief pocket of his coat so that all who looked at him would get the word. What did people care because this poor, feeble-minded person had been working on a Kansas farm? I give it up, too.

Somewhere in Illinois a churchman boarded the train. He was clad in black, with knee breeches on wore a purple ribbon around his neck, on one end of which was an eyeglass. He had on a Roman collar, and wore an enormous ring on the third finger of his right hand. What do you suppose we cared because he was a bishop? And yet he undoubtedly wished us to know, or he would not have worn the ridiculous knickerbockers, the shovel hat, the purple ribbon, the absurd ring, and all the other paraphernalia of the churchman.

"There was a thin-faced woman on the train, also, with flushed face and rather anxious look. She attracted some attention to herself and then osentatiously produced a yellow-covered book, one of the old French editions of some play, and carefully began to read it, looking up at times and making her lips move. She wished everyone present to believe she was an actress. It's a funny world when every one thinks it is smart to tip off his profession to every one else, isn't it, now?"

"Sure it is," said some one. "That is a very handsome pin you are wearing there. What's the design?"

"It is a horse's head inside of a stirrup, the whole with a whip running round it," replied the traveler.

"Why do you wear that?"

"To show that I'm a horseman. See?"

"Yes, I see."

Taft, the Disappointment.

Ray Stannard Baker has written an article for the July American Magazine called "The Measure of Taft." Mr. Baker is a conservative writer and has shown himself to be a close observer and a keen interpreter of public opinion. He cites the change in his own attitude towards President Taft as characteristic of the whole country's change of front. He says:

"I shall never forget the talk I had with him at the White house in May of last year. The tariff bill was then under hot discussion in congress, and the president had already been widely somewhat criticised for his attitude toward Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Cannon. And the so-called 'Ballinger case' was just rising above the popular horizon.

"The extraordinary frankness of Mr. Roosevelt as a talker has often been commented upon. But Mr. Taft impressed me at once with a candor that was even more remarkable than that of his predecessor. He talked of congress, of the postoffice department, of promotions in the army, and of his likes and dislikes of certain high officers, with perfect freedom. I had hesitated at first about asking concerning questions so intimately before him at that moment as the tariff—but I had no need to do so. He outlined his position with a degree of frankness and earnestness that left in my mind no doubt of his essential sincerity. I had entered his office full of the doubts which were then beginning to creep into the popular mind regarding the ability of Mr. Taft to get tariff revision which would satisfy the country, but he swept them all aside with a sort of easy optimism, which is one of his most evident characteristics. Don't worry; everything will be all right!

"I went away from the White house that day fully convinced that Mr. Taft not only would do what he said he would, regarding the tariff, but that he could do it. 'Wait,' I said to those I met who criticised him; 'when the time comes he will put his big hand down. He will yet get what he wants.'

"'Wait,' his personal friends have said after each new disappointment—and always with a fainter and fainter voice."

The Reason for Standpattism.

New York Evening Post: Dalzell doth not stand pat for naught. In the report of his expenses in the primary contest for renomination to congress—which resulted so disappointingly for him—the Pennsylvania representative gives the names of several protected manufacturers who contributed from $500 to $2,000 each to his campaign fund. They would doubtless say that it was purely friendship for Dalzell which induced them to give him the money. But the cynical will feel that it is a friendship based upon past favors and the hope of favors to come. When we thus see men who have received their quo in the shape of tariff duties, paying back their cash quid to the man who secured for them their benefit, we get a vivid light upon the political curse of a tariff in politics. It is necessarily there so long as it opens that scramble for privileges which we call protection. Men will always pay thousands to politicians or to party funds in the hope of getting back millions. Make the tariff one for revenue only, and you cut off a leading cause of political dishonesty and corruption.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Teacher (looking over a graduation essay)—Do you understand it?

Pupil (horrified)—I? Why, I wrote it.

Chicago News: Little Willie—Say, pa, what is a paradox?

Pa—Well, my son, a coal stove is one kind of a paradox. It won't burn until it is put up, then it won't burn until it is shaken down.

Atlanta Constitution: "He fell out of an airship and made a hole in the ground."

"Yes, but he discovered a gold mine there!"

New York Sun: Belshazzar saw the writing on the wall.

"Doesn't interest me; I'm looking only for the score," he cried. Herewith all hailed him as a true fan.

Detroit Free Press: "Do you own this home?" asked the census taker.

"We certainly do," replied the woman. "All we've got to pay on it is $3,456.70 interest."

Pearson's Weekly: The Charming Wife—Charlie, if a man were to sit on your hat what would you say?

Charlie—I should call him a silly ass.

The Charming Wife—Then don't sit on mine any longer, there's a dear.

Houston Post: "Every one who attended the banquet last night says I made the hit of my life."

"How did you accomplish that?"

"I didn't go."

Philadelphia Record: Wiggs—There seems to be quite a difference between a job and a situation.

Waggs—Oh, yes, for instance, when a fellow loses his job he often finds himself in an embarrassing situation.

Pele Mele: Guest at a Restaurant—Excuse me, sir; can you let me come to the telephone! You have been there twenty mintes without saying a word.

Busyguest—Sorry, sir; but I'm talking to my wife.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Worry never accomplishes anything worth while.

Second thoughts are best in a case of love at first sight.

But fame seldom comes to the man who sits down and waits.

Speed mania is a disease, but the messenger boy is an immune.

We wonder what Eve fussed about before Adam learned to smoke.

Economy on your part would be stinginess on the part of your neighbor.

When two women kiss it doesn't mean any more than when two men shake hands.

The honest theatrical manager believes every man is entitled to a show for his money.

A man seldom measures his own faults and those of his neighbors by the same rule.

If the dinner is a failure a woman can blame it on something the grocer sent.

Many an alleged blessing in disguise wouldn't be a blessing but for the disguise.

Even those who think twice before they speak are apt to have another think coming after they have spoken.

If the modern prodigal would partake of the obese veal it's up to him to hurry home before the summer boarders arrive.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Industry without judgment can beat a runaway automobile for smash-ups.

What is so fascinating to a girl about a romance is so little sense ever goes with it.

A woman can make a mystery out of how it rained when the grocer's boy said it was going to be fair.

Some people are so naturally cranky they want you to have a bad temper so they can abuse you for it.

A man with money in his pocket goes into a restaurant and orders terrapin because he likes ham and eggs better.

Bleached Flour.

New York Press: Of course, poor, silly, half-bred, newly-rich cattle will have their flour and bread as white as snow, for they think that whiteness a sure sign of purity, whereas perfect whiteness of flour is a lie. No pure flour is pure white. Only bleached flour is snow white. All pure wheat flour has a natural yellow color. By blessed good luck it is easy for anybody with any sense in a second's time to tell whether any dangerous monkeying has been going on. Shake up a little of the flour you buy in a bottle with benzine. If flour is pure and clear benzine washes out the fine natural yellow color and benzine gets a little bit yellow itself. One ounce of flour shaken in two ounces of Uncle John D.'s gasoline is the right test.

Bleaching flour knocks the stuffing out of what grows hair like that of the mighty Achilles on the manly breast. Bleaching puts a crimp in the protein in biscuit and buttercakes. Protein means the albumen or "beef" that all wheat carries. If people do not properly use their brains they are more helpless and contemptible than vermin, for even the very rats and midget mice—yes, even the wee beastie weevils—can always tell bleached flour, for, whenever there is a chance, they take the other.

Her First Football Game.

Lippincott's: During the first year of coeducation at Tufts college several of the coeds, as guests of some of the college men, were witnessing their first game of football.

"Why are all the players leaving the field?" inquired the girl.

"This is the end of the first half," replied her escort.

"Oh, is that so?" gushed the girl. "How many halves are there?"

EVERYTHING IS READY

Doors of the Electro Radio Experts Offices, Eighth Floor, Alworth Building, Will Be Thrown Open to the Public Today.

EVERYONE IS INVITED TO COME

The Offices Are Equipped With Modern and Scientific Instruments. Thousands of Dollars Invested.

The muct-talked of world famous Electro-Radio experts will be with us commencing today. While the chief of staff is a young man, yet personally he is the most charming of men, there is a certain magnetic influence that attracts you to him whether you meet him socially or as the eminent specialist. He is thoroughly cosmopolitan in his views and generous to a fault, to use an old saying, his heart is as big as his body. His many years of contact with the suffering thousands who have come to him for relief instead of making him callous have made him more tender and solicitous to alleviate their sufferings.

The Specialist.

The old time idea that the general practitioner and family physician could cure all ills that flesh is heir to is not that of the Twentieth Century. Today it is the specialist who is consulted. The man who makes a special study of special diseases and is fully prepared to treat them. He has given the best years of his life to fit himself to be a specialist not only in name but in fact. He has attended all of the most celebrated hospitals and post graduate schools of Europe, including those of London, Paris, Vienna, Berlin and Edinburgh. He has also taken in addition to these the full post graduate course in medicine and surgery in the Post Graduate and University of the State of New York and also in the Philadelphia Polytechnic hospital and school for Graduates in Medicine.

He was for a long time president of the Institute of Physicians and Surgeons of Milwaukee, Wis., a chartered institution with a cash capital of $75,000, and is still an honorary member of the staff of consulting physicians and surgeons of St. Luke's Hospital of Michigan.

Elegant Offices.

When he came here he promised the people of Duluth the finest and most complete medical and surgical institution in America and to say he has succeeded will be putting it mildly. One thing is certain, there seems to be nothing lacking that money can buy.

A reporter called on the doctor to inspect his new offices and have a friendly chat with him, well knowing that he could learn many things that would be of interest to our readers.

The reporter was cordially received by the doctor and upon his making known the object of his visit was shown through the various rooms which are by far the most complete and elegant of their kind not only in Duluth but in the whole United States. We will try to give a brief description of them. The first room you enter is the general reception or waiting room for the patients, a handsomely furnished apartment with the floor covered with a heavy Axminster carpet in green color tints woven into pretty floral designs. The chairs and divans are all of the kind you would expect to find in the library or smoking room of an elegant home—covered with rich dark morocco leather, they are just the sort that invite rest and repose. This elegant room has been made possible by the tearing down of a partition making two rooms one, which is divided by handsome draped curtains that blend with the rich floral covering. Going out from the reception room, the next room you enter is the doctor's private consulting room. This apartment is furnished in the same general way, but more as an office, with handsome roll top desk, book cases, telephones, etc. We now come to the operating room where every appliance known to modern surgery and physics is to be found. The first thing to attract the reporter's attention was a huge Faradic Galvanic and Interrupting Current Battery, one of the largest of its kind in the country that the doctor had built expressly for himself, and which he uses in the special Fielding treatment of Tumors, Ovarian troubles, Piles, Fistulas, Diseases of the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys and for Gout, Rheumatism, etc. In another part of the room is seen a twenty-four plate Static and X-Ray machine, used by the doctor in examining the minutest organs of the body and diagnosing obscure diseases, as well as in the treatment of all forms of nervous troubles such as Insomnia, Hysteria, Headaches, etc. Here also is to be found a powerful search light used in making examination and in treating Catarrh and the various diseases of the throat and nose. Operating chairs and cases filled with every known surgical instrument make this the most complete private operating room it has ever been my good fortune to see. Further down the halls are the Microscopical, Biological and Chemical laboratories and drug room, fitted up with every instrument and appliance known to modern science, for the doctor does not care to undertake the treatment of a case unless he makes a chemical and microscopic examination of the sputum, urine and other excreta, as the case may be.

After returning to the private office the reporter told the Doctor there were several questions he would like to ask him in regard to his methods of doing business. The doctor replied he was willing to answer any and all questions except those in regard to patients that had been treated or were under treatment, for, said he: "If there is any one thing I will not do it is to mention names when talking to patients about cases similar to their own, which I have cured. If any of my former patients who have taken the treatment and have been cured, wish to tell their friends and acquaintances about their cases, I am certainly under many obligations to them for their kind words, but for myself, I consider that everything that transpires between the physician and patient as sacred as the secrets of the confessional."

Agreeing with the doctor on this point, the reporter asked him: "How is it, Doctor, that you can afford to make examinations free? How can you go into all the minor details of a case, using the X-ray and searchlight, if necessary, and make no charge?"

The Doctor replied: "I do this for two reasons. The first one is that it is a great source of comfort to all suffering humanity to know as near as possible just what is the matter with them and whether they can be helped or not.

"The second one is for my own benefit, for I cannot and will not undertake any case unless I have a thorough knowledge of it. If I can not treat a case intelligently I will not treat it at all."

"After making an examination, does it place the patient under any obligation to treat with you?"

To this question the Doctor replied most emphatically: "No! I impress it on the mind of every prospective patient that all consultation, advice and examinations are without charge. If I made a charge—no matter how small it was—the patient would have cause to think—and rightly, too—if I took his case, that I did so simply to get another fee out of him. While after I have made a thorough examination, told the patient just what the matter is with him, and have also told him what I would charge for a course of treatment, it then rests entirely with the patient whether he treats with me or not. He is at perfect liberty to go to any other physician. He don't owe me one cent, unless he decides to take my treatment.

"In obscure cases an examination that is a thorough one will take from one to two days where I use the X-Ray apparatus and make a chemical and microscopical analysis of the urine, for I find that in nine-tenths of the cases where a specialist is consulted, an examination of the urine with the microscope, and the proper chemical reagents is necessary to diagnose the case to a certainty but even in such cases I am willing to give my time and knowledge for the benefit of the patient and make no charge."

The Doctor went on to say that his special methods of treatment of chronic and nervous diseases was the result of years of study and research. Every case that he treats, and all of his cases that are taken, are given its own special treatment. The constitution of no two men or women are alike. No more are their diseases. Every case that comes to the specialist has its own distinctive features and cannot be treated as a whole.

After looking through his elegant suite of offices, and his pleasant half hour chat, the reporter left, feeling certain that in securing the Doctor as a permanent resident Duluth had secured a useful and energetic citizen.

He can be consulted in his new suite of offices daily between the hours of 9 and 12 a. m. and 2 and 4 p. m. As he has been solicited by many who want treatment and cannot call during the day he has consented to keep evening hours from 7 to 8. Suite 810 Alworth building.

DRY WEATHER HAS EFFECT

Butter Advances and High-Grading Eggs Are Scarce.

New Potatoes Decline and Old Stock Is Almost Neglected.

The effect of the dry weather was noted in the butter and cheese markets.

Butter advanced, with the exception of fancy creamery, and some of the domestic as well as foreign makes of cheese were higher. Fresh eggs are not so plentiful but values were stationary. What fluctuations occurred in the produce market resulted from legitimate market factors. Old crop potatoes were neglected and the new crop sold at a decline. A small quantity of home-grown strawberries came into the market. Lemons are scarce and high. Watermelons are coming into the market in larger quantities. The fruit trade is exceedingly active.

There has been a scarcity of fresh, high grading eggs. This is attributed primarily to the exceedingly hot weather which not only kept hens from laying as freely as in more comfortable temperatures but also affected the product while in transit to the market. Some receivers found that in candling the arrivals the proportion of stock sufficiently good to grade up to the best classifications was greatly diminished. It was not necessary to boost prices to restrain the demand, however, as supplies fortunately were sufficient. The market is in a healthy condition.

Speculative values in butter were easy in the fore part of the week but as the dry weather became more widespread and the effects of the drought became more pronounced there was a disposition on the part of receivers to strengthen values, there being some nervousness over the quantity of supplies at primary points. A singular feature of the butter market was the fact that only the lesser grades advanced. Fancy creamery was unchanged. Extra desirable butter was in fair demand. Some people feared that the drying up of pastures in many parts of the country would cause a reduction of the output of fine flavored butter. Receipts, however, were large and although the effects of the dry weather will not be felt in the market immediately yet the menace kept the market in an exceedingly healthy condition by stimulating the demand. Dairy butter advanced from 23c to 24c a pound and packing stock from 20c to 21c. Fancy creamery held firm at 28c.

Full cream cheese and Block Swiss advanced 1c. The upturn was due probably to buying by cold storage people who have been putting away large quantities of the product for next winter's consumption.

The old potato season is practically closed. Only small lots are expected from now on and the trade in them will be small. New potatoes are in almost general use and the demand cannot be expected to improve until prices are shaded further. Receivers shaved off 5c this week, the new crop declining from $1.25 to $1.20. The old crop slumped from 35c to 30c. Old potatoes are neglected.

Green vegetables met with a broad outlet and brought satisfactory prices. More home grown stock was offered for sale and supplies of all kinds, with the exception of cucumbers, were plentiful. Prices on cucumbers advanced sharply and buyers had a difficult time in obtaining supplies of high grade. Lemons are scarce and prices are soaring. Hot weather is responsible for the most urgent call experienced in years. Stocks have been taken out of storage as fast as possible. Dealers have put up prices but the demand has not suffered and the outlet continues broad at stiff prices which gave no indication of having reached a top level.

Meats are cheaper. Beef declined slightly, the top prices being shaved from 11½ to 11c. The cheaper cuts are selling as low as 7c. Mutton slumped from 12c to 10@11c, veal from 11c to 10@11c, lamb from 15½c to 14@15c and lard is selling at 14¼c.

Homegrown strawberries came into the market this week. Strawberries are scarce and the supply is limited. The demand is good. Owing to hot weather the average quality of receipts is not good.

GLIDDEN TOUR IS OVER.

Winner Probably Will Be Announced Saturday.

Chicago, July 1.—The Premier No. 1 finished the Glidden tour yesterday afternoon with the best road score, but the winner will not be determined until the technical committee of the American Automobile association finishes its examination of the cars still in the contest. Premier No. 1 has been penalized seven points, while the Chalmers No. 5 stands second, with 39 points road penalty.

No road penalties were announced at the end of the run from Davenport, Iowa. The 2,850-mile run was finished when the cars landed in Garfield park about 3 o'clock. Thirty-six cars were in the contest, with five checked in for the Chicago trophy.

Several Protests Filed.

Several protests were filed with the referee against the Premier No. 1. It was alleged that the Premier car carried an auxiliary oil pump, which is not a part of the stock cars. F. E. Edwards of the technical committee was sent to Indianapolis to inspect the Premier stock cars.

The final announceent of the winner probably will be made on Saturday, as the technical committee will make an exhaustive examination of every part of the car before it will announce the total of technical penalties. It is almost certain the winner will be decided on the technical end.

NEW TARIFF BOARD AT WORK

Sanders Is Busy in This Country and Others in Europe.

Washington, July 1.—With ample funds assured the prosecution of its work, the government tariff board is going systematically into the work of the studying of the various industries of the country for the purpose of obtaining information for the encyclopedia and glassary of the American tariff which President Taft is anxious to have prepared.

Mr. Sanders, acting chairman of the board, left Washington yesterday for New York and Chicago, where he will confer with experts engaged in handling different phases of the inquiry. He will be absent until September and will pay particular attention to matters bearing on the wool and woolen schedule.

Chairman Emery and Mr. Reynolds, the other members of the board, are in Europe engaged in certain lines of inquiry. Mr. Emery is expected to return about July 12. He has written that he has been receiving every consideration at the hands of the authorities at Berlin, Vienna and other capitals and has acquired considerable data relative to the manner in which the European countries approach tariff problems.

REV. KARL OLSEN NOT ADMITTED TO AMERICA.

New York, July 1.—Refused admission to the United States because he was born deaf and dumb, although he has mastered speech, Rev. Karl Olsen, a Norwegian clergyman, has sent a formal letter of protest to the department of commerce and labor at Washington. The immigration authorities ruled that because he cannot hear he might become a public charge.

Dr. Olsen is here at the invitation of the Danish and Norwegian churches of this city, and was to deliver a series of lectures throughout the country. His detention has aroused a storm of indignation in the Scandinavian colony. Two clergymen who have taken up his case say that he is a pastor and instructor at the mission house for the deaf and dumb at Harstead, Norway, and that his work here will be directed by the evangelistic Norwegian synod of the United States.

JAMES WICKERSHAM IS NOMINATED AGAIN.

Juneau, Alaska, July 1.—James Wickersham was nominated to succeed himself as territorial delegate to congress by the "insurgent" Republican convention, which met here yesterday, representing the faction opposed to National Committeeman L. P. Shackelford. Wickersham's nomination was unanimous. His opponent for the fall election is Edwin S. Orr of Valdez, nominated by the regular Republican convention.

The insurgents adopted resolutions protesting against the forest reserve policy in Alaska and the tying up of coal lands and demanding a federal inquiry into the charges concerning the attempts of corporations to secure control of the Judicial system of the territory.

MINNEAPOLIS CRACKER CONCERN IS DESTROYED.

Minneapolis, July 1.—Fire yesterday destroyed the building occupied by the Northern Candy & Cracker company and caused a money loss of $80,000. Seventy-five girls and boys employed there had narrow escapes.

S. I. Brin, proprietor of a sign painting shop, carried eight girls from the fourth floor to the ground down an iron ladder. There were no fatalities.

COPPER RANGE DEPOT DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Calumet, Mich., July 1.—Forest fires Wednesday night and early yesterday morning destroyed the Copper Range railroad station at Elm River, Houghton county. All through the Upper Peninsula the smoke is hanging in clouds, making navigation difficult on Lake Superior, Portage lake and St. Mary's river. Much standing timber and other property is threatened.

Cumberland Pickle Factory.

Cumberland, Wis., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The M. A. Gedney Pickle company, commenced work on construction of a new pickle factory at this place yesterday. The factory will be a large one, built to take care of the several hundred acres of cucumbers planted in this vicinity.

BALLOT TO BE ARRANGED

Only Four Names Likely to Be Submitted at School Election.

All petitions for the placing of names on the ballot for the annual school election July 16 must be in the hands of Clerk C. E. Bronson of the school board by 7:30 this evening. The board will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight and the ballot will be voted upon.

The terms of W. G. Crosby, L. A. Barnes and L. C. Harris will expire this year and the names of all three are expected to be presented to the voters again this year. S. W. Hill has been announced as a candidate, but there has been little talk of other candidates and it is probable that only the four names will appear on the ballots.

Little but routine business is expected to be transacted by the board tonight.

LIBRARIANS WANT REFORM IN PRISONS.

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 1.—The thirty-second annual conference of the American Library association, which began here yesterday, will receive interesting reports showing the efforts that have been made during the last year to extend library advantages to the blind and to the inmates of federal penitentiaries.

The United States department of justice has under consideration suggestions made by Secretary Chalmers Hadley of the American Library association that definite annual financial support be given the prison libraries, and that one hour each evening be provided, during which all prisoners who wish to read or study may do so.

PORT ARTHUR IS OPENED TO SHIPS OF ALL NATIONS.

Tokio, July 1.—The announcement of the opening of Port Aurthur to the shipping of all nations, commencing today, is published in the official gazette.

The decision months ago of the Japanese government to open Port Arthur as a free commercial port of entry, caused some surprise, as this meant its elimination as a point of strategy for military and naval movements, and its development as a commercial city. One of the great advantages of the port is that it is free from ice in the winter.

LITTLE BISON MAKES HIT IN GUATEMALA.

Washington, July 1.—Little Bison is making a decided "hit" in Guatemala, according to dispatches to Washington from consular officials. Little Bison is a Sioux Indian chief, who turned up in Central America with a letter of introduction from Representative William Sulzer. United States Minister Sand reports to the state department that Little Bison is considering bringing a large number of Sioux Indians to Guatemala.

FAR EASTERN RAILROAD AGREEMENT COMPLETED.

Washington, July 1.—Through Post Wheeler, American charge at St. Petersburg, the state department has been informed that the agreement between Russia and Japan in regard to the administration of railway and other interests in Manchuria has been communicated to the French and British representatives and probably will be signed in a few days. It is supposed to contain a general statement as to the maintenance of the status quo in Manchuria and the mutuality of railway interests. It is to be accompanied by a separate agreement in detail as to traffic arrangements between the Chinese Eastern and the South Manchuria railways.

If the agreement does not in fact change the status in Manchuria, then, of course, the state department cannot object on the ground that it is in violation of the Root-Takahira agreement.

BODY IS LOCATED IN STEAMER J. S. WRECK.

La Crosse, Wis., July 1.—John Murray, a diver yesterday located the body of the man supposed to be John Plein, of Waupun, in the hull of the steamer J. S. which was burned to the water's edge Tuesday night. The body was wedged tightly between one of the boilers and wreckage and cannot be extricated until another diver arrives. It is located close to where the ship's prison was situated. Coroner's inquest will be held.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

S. S. S. cures Old Sores in the very simplest way. It just goes into the circulation and removes the poisons and impurities which are keeping the place open. Then the sore or ulcer heals because the infected flesh tissues receive nourishment and healing properties from the blood, instead of irritating, disease-laden germs. Every symptom of an old sore suggests diseased blood. The inflammation, discharge, discolored flesh around the ulcer, and the fact that it resists every form of local treatment, and even returns after being removed by surgical operation, indicates to what a great extent the blood is polluted. S. S. S. removes every trace of poison or infectious matter from the circulation and makes the blood stream pure, rich and healthy. S. S. S. reaches hereditary taints, and those who are suffering from an old sore, which came without any apparent cause, could not do better than take a course of this great blood medicine to remove the inherited taint. S. S. S. cures old sores for the one simple reason that it purifies the blood. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Willard Mack well known to Duluthians has written another play called "God's Country" and he is playing in it himself at Salt Lake City, with his wife, known professionally as Miss Maude Leone in his support. Mr. Mack is the author of "In Wyoming" which he played here. Of his late work the Salt Lake Tribune wrote:

"It is a drama brimful of more than clever lines; a drama that reflects great credit upon its author. That it pleased, more than pleased, was demonstrated by the number of curtain calls. Mr. Mack came before the curtain and made a brief address."

ALL-DAY PICNIC.

Sewing School Children Enjoy Outing at Park.

The girls of the sewing classes of Neighborhood House were entertained at an all-day picnic yesterday at Lester Park. The children were taken from Neighborhood House in a special car, which was the donation of a friend, to the suburb, leaving the West end at 10 o'clock. Swings and swimming and games and rest were the features of the day. Luncheon, a most satisfying one in quality and quantity, was served and there were special treats of ice cream cones. A ride on the merry-go-round was a feature of the day and the return in the afternoon was made on the car. The teachers and friends who were present at the picnic to chaperone the girls were: Mrs. Catlin, Mrs. H. N. MacHarg, Mrs. J. A. P. Neal, Mrs. McVean, Mrs. F. R. Kennedy, Mrs. James Mishler, Mrs. K. Nicolls, Mrs. John Swinland, Mrs. J. D. Morrison, Mrs. W. G. Bonham, Mrs. F. L. Barrows and Miss Pepper.

ENGLISH PRODUCER DETERMINED TO GIVE LONDON ENGLISH OPERA

THOMAS BEECHAM.

England is fortunate in having a musical missionary who can afford to carry out his plan to give London adequate opera in English at his own expense. Oscar Hammerstein found opera a losing venture from the start in New York, Thomas Beecham has found his musical venture no more profitable financially in London. Yet he is carrying out his promise to give the people of London opera in English, maintaining a high standard of excellence at low price of admission. And he says he proposes to continue his work if it costs him $50,000 a year. Mr. Beecham is himself a musician and he has associated with him Hamish McCunn, a well known conductor. He has given adequate productions of "Tales of Hoffman," "Hansel and Gretel," "Muguette," "Shamus O'Brien" and "Werther." His company includes Zelie de Lussan, once well known to American opera goers, Ruth Vincent, Joseph O'Mara, and other competent singers. Mr. Beecham's orchestra is large and is well rehearsed. His performances are given in His Majesty's theater and they have attracted most favorable comment. The productions are infused with his own enthusiasm and ability and they are in every way creditable and in most ways admirable. His production of "Shamus O'Brien" was made more notable by the presence of Sir Charles Villiers Stanford, the composer of the opera. While he does not rank with Campanini or Toscanini, Mr. Beecham is a conductor of intelligence, experience and discretion.

THE CARE OF THE EARS

By WILLIAM ALLISON MAYSON, M. D.

I think, on the whole, people are more careless of their ears than their eyes, because the eye is a much more sensitive organ, in a way, and because it resents in a very decided fashion any irritation to which it may be subjected. Also, the horror of blindness is far greater than that with which we are accustomed to regard the loss of hearing, and the ear parts, buried away, as they are, deep within the temporal bones of the skull, constitute, unlike the eyes, unknown organs to all save those who have had occasion to make a special study of them.

This relative degree of importance attached to the ears represents, of course, an entirely erroneous idea. For one thing, the ear—I am talking of the real hearing apparatus contained within the skull—is the most complicated organ in the whole body. It is far more complicated than the eye, and is, therefore, presumably, not only more readily upset in its duties, but is more difficult to get at in respect of treatment. The fact is, if people did appreciate the delicacy of their hearing organs, they would take far more care of their ears than they do, and would suffer less from the many troubles that affect the ears, and which result in the loss, more or less completely, of the sense of hearing.

We must first of all remember that the ear passage is like a street without an opening. It is a blind alley closed at the inner end of the ear drum. This last receives the waves of sound, and by its vibration transmits them to the inner ear, where the waves are parceled out, modified, and dealt with that they may be sent to the brain, which is, after all, the true organ of hearing. The ear supplies the information, and it is the brain which understands what that information (of sounds) means. The dangers and troubles of the ear begin at the "drum." If this membrane, which exists at the very gateway of the ear, is injured, then deafness results because no vibrations of sound can be conveyed to the ear within.

The drum can be affected either from the outer side or from the mouth. A tube leads into the back of the mouth from the inner side of the drum, and infection, in the shape of germs, can pass up into this tube and so set up inflammation of the ear. Scarlet fever germs and the microbes of measles may affect the ear in this way. The germs from the throat get into the ear, and the end is suppurating or "running ears." The "matter" which forms as the result of the inflammation bursts through the drum and discharges from the ear passage. The drum thus perforated and broken, is of no use for hearing purposes, and deafness results.

There is, however, another and greater danger where suppurating ears are present. The ear is very near the brain, and there is always a liability for infection to pass to the brain and set up inflammation of that organ, which is often a fatal disorder. It has been known to be set up by salt water being allowed to get into a damaged ear in bathing. So the first piece of advice to be given here is that in all cases of ear-discharge the sufferer should be taken at once to an ear surgeon. No half-measures will do, and all home treatment is useless, for it does not reach the source and root of the trouble. Mothers who put cotton wool into the running ears of children do not reflect that they are penning up foul matter in the ear which should be cleaned out, and that they are thus making the ailment worse, and bringing about a state of things which may very well end in brain trouble. Take the advice to heart, and get proper advice at once, for in a very little time the ear drum may be destroyed and the sense of hearing lost forever. The ears should never have soap and water used to clean the passages. Soap acts as an irritant to the drum, and it may be urged that sea water is also an irritating fluid, and that diving from a great height will often rupture the drum through the sudden change in pressure it involves. It is safer to put a little clean cotton wool in the ears when bathing.

Going to St. Paul first, they traveled into Wisconsin and planned to spend last night at Menomonie. A leisurely trip southward will be made and some time will be spent at Kilbourne and the Dalles of the Wisconsin river, the objective point of the tourists.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Barnes have returned from their wedding trip. Mrs. Barnes was formerly Miss Violet Byron of St. Paul and the wedding took place at St. Paul Wednesday of last week.

The Misses Sadye, Pearl and Florence Le Bosky of Chicago arrived this morning to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Friedman of 130 Eighth avenue east for the summer.

TRY THIS DINNER

German Mutton Broth.

Put two pounds of the neck of mutton, with the bones, and one onion, sliced, in three quarts of cold water. Bring to a boil and add half a cup of rice, and boil for two hours. Skim out the meat and bones, and cut up the meat into small bits. Cool the soup and remove the fat. Return to the fire, add the meat, reheat and serve.

Meat—Creamed Hamburger Steak.

Put one pound of hamburger steak into a frying pan with one medium sized onion, cut fine, cover with one-half cupful of water, salt and pepper to taste, and let cook until water is boiled away. Add butter size of an egg and brown. Sprinkle one tablespoonful of flour over this, and add one cup of milk and stir until smooth.

Vegetables — Asparagus (French Method.)

Boil the asparagus about twenty minutes and then drain. Cut off the tender parts, and cut them small. Add an onion, chopped fine, then add a well-beaten egg. Salt and pepper to taste. Serve on slices of toast.

Dessert—Strawberry Float.

Cover two quarts of ripe capped strawberries with granulated sugar to extract the juice. Strain through a cheesecloth bag. Beat the whites of five eggs stiff and add to them gradually, the strawberry pulp, sweetened to taste. Line a glass bowl with macaroons, pour in the pink strawberry cream, and heap the strawberry meringue by spoonfuls on the surface of the cream. Serve as cold as possible.

THE EVENING STORY

THE INTERLOPER

By S. Wood.

Mrs. Dashaby stood with her hand on the door knob of Mr. Smirkwell's studio, glancing up at the gilded sign on the fanlight.

"I think I am right," she said to herself, whereupon she proceeded to open the door and enter.

While the woman was in the act of admitting herself she felt sometning brush pass her skirts. It was a dog—a shaggy, mud-bespatted mongrel of indefinite breed. This unlovely cur preceded Mrs. Dashaby into the studio, where he straightway began to make himself at home. Mr. Smirkwell, the photographer, patted the animal on the head and spoke to it encouragingly—almost affectionately, considering its unattractive appearance. He called it "Spot" at first, but observing that it did not readily answer to that plebian name, he tried the more artstocratic appellation of Carlo, which appeared to please the cur immensely. Hence, imaging that he had hit upon its correct name, it was as "Carlo" he frequently addressed it, between whiles, during his conversation with Mrs. Dashaby, whom he naturally supposed to be the dog's mistress.

"Love me, love my dog," was a saying which Mr. Smirkwell often found it profitable to bear in mind, and although in his heart he considered Carlo a most detstable cur, he felt bound to humor the brute as far as possible. He wondered what anyore could see in such a mongrel, but he had long since given up attempting to account for the tastes of people like Mrs. Dashaby.

Had that woman known what the photographer was thinking she would probably have hastened to enlighten him, in which case the cur would certainly have been summarily ejected. She, on her part, was under the delusion that the animal belonged to the establishment, and that it had simply seized the chance of gaining admittance into the master's presence when she entered the studio. Mrs. Dashaby's private opinion of the ugly brute was less favorable, if anything, than that entertained by Mr. Smirkwell, but it was not to be expected that either of them would be candid under the circumstances.

The irresponsible manner in which Carlo behaved himself only served to deepen Mrs. Dashaby's delusion. She felt sure that the photographer would not have permitted a dog belonging to another person to carry on in such a reckless way.

Finding that he had given a friendly reception, Carlo took it for granted that he was welcome. Evidently this was a new experience to him, for he seemed determined to make the best of it. In attempting to demonstrate his appreciation of the photographer's kindness, one of his first acts was to leap on a chair upon which rested a couple of new mounts of a special kind. The topmost of these received the print of a dog's muddy paws, and was thereby ruined.

Mr. Smirkwell almost bit his lip in striving to keep back a verp improper excamation.

Mrs. Dashaby thought the photographer must be very silly to permit his dog to spoil things like that. Still, she was not so unfeeling as to withhold her sympathy.

"What a pity!" she said.

"Yes, and I only got them in this morning. They were a special order," admitted Mr. Smirkwell.

"It must be very annoying," ventured the woman. But she din't like to say much in disparagement of the dog for fear the photographer should not be suited.

Smirkwell regarded the woman's observation as a sort of apology, and concluded that he had better say as little about it as possible.

"Well, it is, rather," he remarked, with a semblance of lightness which he did not feel.

For once in his life the dog's extreme ugliness did him a god turn, by preventing him from being found out. Had he been handsome, his good points would most likely have evoked some favorable remark and led to the discovery that he had been merely an interloper. One word of candor might have led to such a discovery even then, in which case Carlo would have been kicked out with a vengeance. But few of us can afford to be candid.

Observing that the dog had fixed himself on his haunches, and that for the moment he as in a quiet and reflective mood, Smirkwell began to interest himself in the adjustment of his camera, while Mrs. Dashaby proceeded to divest herself of her cloak and hat. The latter was a rather expensive piece of millinery, surmounted by a dead bird in a very lifelike attitude. She put it carefully away on a sideboard near the mirror and then took the seat which Smirkwell had arranged for her in front of the camera.

Meanwhile, during the process of rearrangement which usually precedes the taking of a photograph, Carlo roused himself from his reflections and began to inspect the apartment, evidently in search of something wherewith to amuse himself.

Smirkwell stood smiling at his patron, his hand on the pneumatic ball which moves the shutter.

"Now, if you please," he said, indicating that it was time to "look pleasant."

Just at that critical moment when his hand gripped the ball the photographer was startled by a savage growl, and turning he saw Carlo in the act of dragging Mrs. Dashaby's hat off the sideboard. The woman sprang from her seat, with a shriek while Mr. Smirkwell hastened to rescue the hat, but before anything could be done to save it, that adorable thing, that triumph of milliner's art, was shaken to pieces.

Fearing that he had done something wrong, Carlo dropped the fragment of a bird's wing from his mouth and ran toward the door. Smirkwell's assistant was entering the studio at the time, so the dog slipped out just as he had slipped in.

"There!" exclaimed the photographer turning to his enraged patron, "your dog's gone! Shall I call him back?"

"My dog?" cried the astonished woman, "I hope you don't think I could have anything to do with such a brute?"

"I beg your pardon, madam, but I certainly thought the dog was yours; it came in with you, I believe," protested Smirkwell.

"Yes, of course; it came and pushed by me just as I was coming in. But I felt sure that it was your dog from the way you let it carry on."

"Couldn't you see that I was only humoring the cur under the impression that it belonged to you, though?"

"Well, I never! Did you ever know such a thing!" exclaimed Mrs. Dashaby.

Smirkwell's assistant was sent out to summon a cab. When it arrived Mrs. Dashaby picked up the fragments of her hat and commanded the cabby to drive her to her milliner's.

When she was gone the photographer proceeded to remove the plate from his camera and develop it. The result was a striking negative, showing a woman in a remarkably dramatic attitude, and Mr. Smirkwell keeps the negative by him as a valuable curiosity.

FARM AND GARDEN

Growing Broccoli.

Broccoli is a very popular vegetable, and by making a succession of small sowings of both late and early varieties, a supply of fine heads can be cut from November to May. A deeply-worked and well manured soil is necessary and the plants should be spaced about two feet apart. Ground that has been cleared from a crop of some other vegetables need not be re-dug for any winter greens, as loose soil tends towards the production of large, coarse leaves, which rot on the approach of severe frost.

Height to Stop Sweet Peas.

You can stop sweeet peas when three feet high. They will then become more bushy; but some prefer to let them grow as high as they like, when they become great pillars of bloom. The largest flowers are secured in this way.

Using Up the House Scraps.

The economical housewife can always make a few poultry in a small pen pay, because they cost so little to keep; and as it is a very well recognized fact that half a dozen fowls kept in a back yard, and well fed, will lay better than a larger number kept on a farm (in proportion, that is), no housewife need hesitate to try the experiment. All scraps from the table, including bones, etc., should be put into an old saucepan and be boiled up each morning into a sort of soup. To this add a few handfuls of barley meal and crushed oats, and breakfast is ready for the hens. The bones which are left behind should be smashed up into small fragments, and may be given subsequently. There is nothing to encourage laying like bone food.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A Couple of Nevers.

Never put away clothes unbrushed, nor forget to put trees into boots and shoes when taken off, to pull and straighten out gloves, to roll up veils carefully and never sit about in a walking dress indoors, are golden rules for our readers to remember for the preservation of clothes, whilst half of the battle lies in the manner of putting them on.

Never keep milk in the same place as fish, onions, or anything that has a strong smell or flavor. All vessels in which milk is kept should be scrupulously clean—washed out and scalded in soda water and rinsed with cold water. A special pan should be reserved for cooking milk. If milk is to be kept over night it should be scalded while fresh.

Antidote for Cigar Smoke.

The smell of cigars is apt to hang about a room where there are heavy curtains and stuffed chairs. Air the room thoroughly and then heat a shovel till nearly red hot, place it in the coal scuttle in the middle of the room, and scatter in it some coffee grounds. This will quickly freshen the air of the room.

Suggestions for Housekeepers.

A clean sweeper always burns the contents of her dust pan immediately.

When boiling meat put one tablespoonful of vinegar into the water to make the meat tender.

Flowers with woody stems will last much longer in water if the stalks are scraped for about three inches up.

When weighing groceries put a thin piece of paper on the scales, for this saves time in emptying the scales and washing them.

Try glycerine for removing stains of tea and coffee from linen. Procure a good quality, rub well in, and then wash in the ordinary way.

Flower pot stains on window sills may be removed by rubbing with fine wood ashes, afterward rinsing with clean water.

MARINE NEWS

INCREASE IN SHIPMENTS

Ore Movement on Lakes Heavier Than During Season of 1909.

Many Independent Boats Laid Up for Lack of Cargoes.

ORE SHIPMENTS.

Missabe—	June.	Season to date.
Last year	1,968,800	3,184,725
This year	2,567,077	5,097,262
Iron Range—
This year	1,418,414	2,782,627
Last year	1,162,719	2,037,782

Ore shipments complete for the month just past show that despite the fact that 20 per cent of the wild carriers of the Great Lakes have been laid up at dock because of a lack of business, and that the lake business at the present time is not very promising, there has been an increase over last year, on the two Duluth railroads.

Both the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range railroads show an increase for the month that ended yesterday over June of last year, and the figure to date also show an increase over the amount of ore that was hauled down the lakes in the corresponding period a year ago.

However, vessel men here state that practically the greater part of this ore is being hauled in the boats that are owned by the steel corporation and the independent mines. There is very little tonnage going down the lakes at the present time in independent boats, compared with other seasons.

The figures show that the Missabe last month hauled 2,567,077 tons of ore, compared with 1,968,800 tons in June of last year. The season to date of the present year has seen 5,097,262 tons shipped down the lakes. Last year from the start of the season until the last day of June, but 3,184,725 tons were shipped from the docks.

In June of the present year the Iron Range has shipped 1,418,414 tons of ore from the Two Harbors docks. In June of 1909 but 1,162,719 tons were shipped down. During the present season to date 2,782,627 tons have been shipped down, against 2,037,782 tons in 1909, from the first of the season to the first of July.

The figures of the Great Northern shipments are not ready as yet, but it was stated at that office that the figures would show an increase for last month over June of a year ago, and that the season to date was also ahead of the record made in a corresponding period of 1909.

COULBY IS THREATENED

President of Pittsburg Steamship Company Receives Grewsome Package.

Cleveland, O., July 1.—Wrapped around a bottle of alcohol in which lay a bloody human ear, a letter has been received by Harry Coulby, president of the Pittsburg Steamship company, in which he is threatened with nameless mutilation and death if he refuses to accede to the demands of the sailors who have been on strike for two years.

The man to whom the ear belonged has already been identified as Edward Frazer, a non-union sailor who was assaulted in Buffalo, N. Y., last Monday. After the assault his ear was severed from his head by his assailants. The man was picked up several hours later by the police. Across his chest there was pinned a sheet of paper on which was written:

"Don't be a scab."

On receipt of the letter Mr. Colby turned it, together with the bottle and its grewsome contents, over to the federal authorities and a search was immediately commenced through every port on the Great Lakes for the perpetrators of the outrage. In the letter, which has not been made public, it was explicitly stated that the writers were the same men who had assaulted Frazer.

STEAMER EADS IS RELEASED

Boat Was Not Damaged By Grounding on Round Island.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—After lightering about 300 tons of ore, the steamer Eads was released late yesterday afternoon from Round Island, where she grounded during the night previous, on account of the heavy smoke. She passed down about midnight undamaged. The steamer Duluth is aground at Bacon island, northeast of Detour. She is about a foot out. Assistance will be sent to her. A large fleet is waiting above the Canadian lock to pass down. The boats are loaded too deep for the American canal.

JUNIATA DELAYED BY HEAVY FOG

Anchor Line Steamer Arrives in Port Over Four Hours Late.

Delayed by the smoke and fog, which lies over Lake Superior like a pall, the big steamer Juniata of the Anchor line, due here at 8 o'clock this morning, reached here this afternoon at 12:30, four and a half hours late.

Members of the crew of the Anchor line boat reported that the smoke and fog at the Soo was very thick, and that because of the intense thickness of the smoke that hangs over the river and also the lake between here and the Soo, boats are compelled to proceed with the utmost caution.

Officials of the Anchor line stated that there was some danger in the present situation, and that because of the blanket of smoke the boats would be compelled to go slow, and this would tend to delay vessels arriving at the Head of the Lakes.

The Tionesta was reported aground near the Soo, but the report proved to be erroneous. Several narrow escapes from collisions are reported.

MARQUETTE ORE DOCK MEN GIVEN INCREASE.

Marquette, Mich., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The men employed on the ore docks at this port have been granted an increase of 25 cents a day in their pay. Under the new schedule the day wages will be $2.25 and the night wages $2.35.

BARGE SEIZED FOR DEBT AND LATER IS RELEASED.

Menominee, Mich., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The barge Dorcas B. Pendarr was seized at Cedar River on a claim of the Crawford & Sons Lumber company for $210. Capt. Sicher paid the claim and sailed for Tonawanda, N. Y.

NORTH CAROLINA SNAKE STORY.

Statesville Mascot: We have often heard of snakes eating eggs—hen eggs—but never knew until Saturday, when we learned the secret from an eyewitness. It was in Rowan county, where the blacksnake swallowed four hen eggs. He found the nest under an apple tree and although the eggs were larger around than the snake's head, his neck or even his body, he had no trouble in getting them pushed down the narrow passage. You could see them go without any trouble, and when the four eggs were in the snake you could see the four knots on the snake.

But how did he digest them? Well, that was an easy question for Mr. Blacksnake. He crawled up the body of the apple tree, wrapped himself around it and tightened himself until pop, pop, pop, pop—and all the eggs were broken.

Winona, Minn., July 1.--(Special to The Herald.)—The White Sox took the opening game from the Pirates yesterday, the score being 4 to 1, in favor of the visitors. Cummings was wild at times, but received great support from his team mates. McKee was on the hill for Winona and the Sox bunched hits off him in the sixth inning.

In the sixth O'Brien hit and Taylor walked, both runners advancing on an error by Davey. Vasbinder singled, sending both runners over the plate. Altermott also singled, Vasbinder scoring the third run of the inning.

The only run scored by the Pirates was secured in the first inning, Graves going to third on a passed ball and scoring on a sacrifice fly.

The Pirates could not do anything to Cummings when hits meant runs. In addition to this, the brilliant support upon the part of the Champions cut off runs. In the seventh Vasbinder went clear back into the right field and picked one off near the ground, throwing back to first in time to double McKee.

SUPERIOR WINS FIRST FROM SAFFORD'S OUTCASTS.

La Crosse, Wis., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Superior took the first from the locals yesterday by the score of 5 to 4. The visitors won the game by bunching hits in the fifth inning. Two of the hits made in this inning were triples.

True Outcasts got to Clausen strong in the first inning and he was derricked in favor of Baertschi. Baertschi was invincible in every inning but the fourth, when the Outcasts scored one run. Both sides played good baseball. The score: R. H. E.

EAU CLAIRE LEADERS HUMBLE RED WING BRAVES.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eau Claire had little difficulty yesterday in defeating Red Wing by the score of 9 to 5. The game was delayed until after 5 o'clock because of the delay of the team in arriving from Rochester.

The leaders had no difficulty in bunching hits off Wolford, recently with La Crosse. Red Wing bunched hits off Nicholson in the second inning, but after that he held the Indians hopeless.

The batting feature of the game was the hitting of Kading, the first baseman getting a triple and two singles. Carter made a sensational running catch in left field.

Yesterday was Boosters' day, most of the stores being closed, and a large crowd turned out to root for the team. Score: R. H. E.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT

Sometimes a change of pasture is the very best thing that can happen to a pitcher. There is the case of Cy Young. In the present case reference is made to the Cy Young III who at the present time is on the job for the Rochester Surgeons. The tall youth, if you don't care what you say, was let out by the La Crosse team.

The Duluth management considered making a bid for the services of the tall southpaw. But then Duluth figured that if he wasn't good enough for La Crosse, he would hardly be good enough for the local team. He was passed up.

Young has been doing well with Rochester. Since joining that team he has taken a new interest in life. He is at the present time one of the most effective twirlers on the Corrigan staff.

All of which confirms the tried and trite truth—ball players often play much better baseball with a change of scene.

The report from down the southern end of the circuit that Walter Baertschi has been sent home and also fined, must have been a figment of the imagination of some of the bright young correspondents. Here it is found that Walter was in the game of yesterday, coming onto the firing line when valiant service was most needed. O'Dea has evidently to go careful these days when his twirlers are so precious.

Eau Claire is said to have received an offer for Carter and Callahan, both of the offers being promptly turned down. The management of the team, it is said, will consider no offers for players that would result in the taking of any Eau Claire men until after the playing season is over.

Those who have looked over the Eau Claire team when it was here, are of the opinion that three of the Angels are likely to fly higher the present season. Direst reference is made to Kading, Callahan and Col. Nick Carter.

These men have been looked over by one scout in particular. Just why Callahan was allowed to get away from Toledo, is something that some fans cannot understand. The Eau Claire outfield is sweet, and at least one of the garden trio is pretty sure to have a taste of baseball in the higher altitudes.

News—and welcome news, too—comes this morning that Schmirler will join the team here Sunday morning. The details connected with the turning over to the Sox of Schmirler have been completed. This morning A. W. Kuenow received a wire stating that Comiskey has permitted the coming of Schmirler. This will be welcome news to the fans, some of whom are hoping that Duluth may yet finish in the first division of the race for the flag.

Schmirler was one of the best twirlers in the league last season. There is no reason why he should not repeat the performance of 1909. If he does, he will be a decided addition to the team. Cummings has been going nicely of late, and with Dauss pitching the kind of baseball he has the present season, Schmirler should give us at least three good pitchers.

Just what Marion will do the present season, is very hard to say. The big fellow will be here in a few days, and then something may be learned regarding the condition of his arm. If there is any possible chance that Marion should round into form, the pitching staff of the Sox would be fully as strong as any of the hill brigades in this league. It is only a hope at the best, however, in the case of Marion.

Schwab, the new catcher, is also expected to report here Sunday morning. He will be given a trial behind the bat and Helming may be tried on the infield. The management is going to try to hit upon a winning combination. Helding has the reputation of being a clever infielder, and he might go to third and play a clever game.

Winona would just as soon have a new shortstop. Davey has not proved the man that Killian believed he would. He has lost several games for the Pirates by errors, and when any team is after the flag with the intense earnestness of the Killianites, the loss of games leaves a rankling feeling.

It is just in one or two places that the Pirates lack the class of the Eau Claire aggregation. There is one place in the Pirate outfield that can be filled more acceptably, and then there is the case in question of the infield. Killian has a hustling, aggressive team, and there is no bunch in the league that fights harder for games. There are several star players on the Winona team, notably Graves, Koepping and Goodman. But it is the weakness in one or two places that at the present time would appear to class the Winona fighters below the leaders from Eau Claire.

Rochester will be the opponents of the champions for the July 3 date, which is next Sunday, and also for the double-header of the Fourth. Then comes Red Wing. The management of the Sox is hoping that the standing of the team will be benefited by the two series with the southern end aggregations.

Fourth of July afternoon it is the intention of the management to furnish returns of the big fight, in addition to the entertainment that will be provided by the team. Arrangements are being made at the present time for the sending of the returns of the battle to the park, and if these arrangements are satisfactorily completed, those who journey out to the park will hear the details of the big fight at Reno.

CY YOUNG SHUTS OUT THE LUMBERJACKS.

Rochester, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rochester shut out Wausau yesterday by the score of 5 to 0. Cy Young, late of La Crosse, was on the rubber for the Doctors, and allowed the Lumberjacks but two scattered hits. In addition to the great pitching of Young, the Doctors backed him up with great playing. Stewart played a great game for the locals. Score:

Rochester	2 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 2 —5	6	1

WORLD'S CHAMPS RAISE FLAG AND WIN GAME.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 1.—Pittsburg displayed for the first time yesterday the black and gold flag won in the world's championship series with the Detroit Americans last fall, and following the flag-raising ceremonies, the team went to work and won in the first inning a game from Cincinnati. The first men at bat each scored a run, three hits being helped by Rowan's wildness and McMillan's wild throw. The result was 8 to 3. Score: R. H. E.

POWERS DAY IS OBSERVED

Philadelphia, July 1.—Twelve thousand spectators attended the Powers Day celebration at Shibe park yesterday where the memory of the dead player was commemorated by a benefit for his widow and children. Players from the Boston, New York, Washington, and Philadelphia American league teams participated in the various events.

Lord, of Boston, won the beating of a bunt to first, time 3 1-5 seconds.

Donohue, Philadelphia, won the prize for the most accurate throwing.

In the base-circling contest, Collins, Philadelphia, equalled the world's record of 14 1-5 seconds. Austin, New York, and Speaker, Boston, tied for second at 14 3-5 seconds.

Hooper, Boston, won the long-distance throwing contest with a throw of 356 feet, four inches. Speaker was second with 346 feet, six inches.

Austin won the 100-yard dash on the turf in 10 3-5 seconds. Hooper was second.

Stahl, Boston, won the 100-yard dash for men weighing more than 200 pounds, with Vaughn, New York, second. Time 10 2-5 seconds.

Dygert, Philadelphia, won the hitting contest.

Austin was the only contestant who succeeded in throwing the ball over second base from the catcher's position, beneath a bar six feet high at the pitcher's box.

In the relay race circling the base, Boston and Philadelphia tied at 14 3-5 seconds. In the run-off, both teams again tied at 14 2-5. The local team won the toss.

OPENING OF NEW HOME OF SOX

Chicago, July 1.—The new baseball plant of the Chicago Americans will be opened today with St. Louis as the opposing team. The game itself will be in the nature of a minor attraction to the inauguration of the new home of Charles A. Comiskey's club.

Mayor Busse and the city council will be guests.

Among the prominent baseball men expected are August Herrmann of Cincinnati; John T. Brush of New York; Charles W. Murphy of the Chicago Nationals; Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg; Stanley Robison of St. Louis and other major league magnates. Adrian C. Anson, manager of the original White Stockings and other veterans will be present.

The Chicago battery has been announced as Walsh and Sullivan. This will be Sullivan's first appearance this season as he has been forced to remain inactive because of a foot injured by a rusty nail at Los Angeles during the training trip.

The cost of the new park has been estimated at $750,000 and it will seat about 34,000 persons. It is a half mile north of the grounds upon which the American league started its invasion of the National league cities in 1900.

Kiel, Germany, July 1.—Herr Rensch's Jugend yesterday won the Samoa cup offered by Emperor William for the Sonderklasse race at the yachting regatta.

MEN ARE FIT FOR BATTLE

Jeffries Is Certain He Will Be Winner of Big Fight.

Arena Practically Complete and Berger Is Satisfied With Ring.

Reno, Nev., July 1.—At last the long, hard gruelling training seems to be at an end in the camps of both Johnson and Jeffries. Both fighters declared last night that they had done their last bit of strenuous work before the fight. Until the call of time on July 4, they say, they will devote themselves entirely to amusement and light forms of exercise such as walking.

Jeffries talked at great length last night. He said:

"I am going to win this fight. I never was in better shape in my life. It is my intention to go right after my opponent and knock him out as soon as possible. I intend to take a large amount of punishment in order to get him, quickly. But you may depend that I'll inflict a greater and more severe amount of punishment in return."

Nobody at the Jeffries camp knows just what he weighs. It is said he does not know that himself. Jim Corbett believes Jeffries will tip the beam between 220 and 225 pounds.

After Jeffries had retired last night Corbett came into the city to mingle with the crowd.

Both fighters are fit, according to Dr. W. S. Porter, family physician to Jeffries. Although it was a strange thing for him to do, Dr. Porter examined Johnson at his camp yesterday. He went out to see the negro work and while there was spied by the colored man.

"I'm glad to see you, Doctor," said Johnson, addressing the physician when he saw him at the ringside just before the beginning of the workout. "Can I do anything for you?"

The fighter and the physician talked for a few minutes and then Dr. Porter examined the negro's heart action. After Johnson had gone through his exhibition paces the physician made a second examination. He said he found no signs of palpitation and thought Johnson was in good condition.

Later, at Jeffries' camp, Dr. Porter expressed the opinion that Jeffries was in fine fettle. "He has the appearance of a perfect athlete in the white of his eye," said the doctor. "No man's eyes can look as Jeffries' do and not be fit for the battle of his life."

Johnson Is Betting.

That Johnson thinks mighty well of his chances in the fight is shown by his statement last night that he had $5,000 to bet on himself. A local stakeholder announced that he had placed the greater part of $2,000 left with him at 10 to 7½ and that $3,000 more would be forthcoming from the champion today at the same odds.

Betting is extremely light. Commissioners who are handling the wagers are at a loss to explain the cause of this.

Seventy-two barrels of water have been ordered placed about the arena for use in case of fire. It is extremely warm about the structure and the workmen are given a recess each afternoon in order that they may rest. A five-gallon demijohn of whiskey is also tapped at each rest, the refreshment being a present of the contractors.

The reason Jeffries is so anxious to have the boxing platform of the arena absolutely immovable is assigned to the experience he had during his fight with Bob Fitzsimmons nearly a decade ago in San Francisco. The platform built for that contest was hurriedly constructed and it was a bit unstable and shaky for a man of Jeffries' weight. Fitzsimmons being a lighter man, and shiftier on his feet, managed to use the flexible flooring as a kind of springboard from which to launch himself on the champion, but with Jeffries the "give" and general insecurity of the structure interferes seriously with his footwork and as he described it afterwards he felt as if he were wading through a sand pile with every move he made. As a consequence the active "Lanky Bob" contrived to get in many telling blows on his adversary that Jeffries thinks would not have reached their mark but for the springy flooring.

When Manager Berger went out to look over the Reno platform yesterday he found a structure so solidly built that an elephant might dance about on it without causing the least vibration. The ring is supported by sixteen posts six inches square and the platform rests on twenty-five joists four inches wide by two inches thick. These joists in turn are supported by girders every eight feet. The flooring itself is two inches in thickness, not to mention the covering of felt and the canvas to be stretched over that. Berger was entirely satisfied.

No Bnbies at Fight.

No child under 10 years of age will be allowed to enter the arena for the Jeffries-Johnson fight and no child between 10 and 15 will be permitted to witness next Monday's battle unless he or she is accompanied by a chaperone of mature age and discretion.

These two orders were promulgated by Promoter Tex Rickard yesterday. He had been besieged with inquiries regarding the right of minors to be present, and to make the matter clear, he drafted the regulations set forth above.

No state or municipal law restraining minors from witnessing prize fights or boxing exhibitions exists here, according to the promoters, but Rickard explained that he was opposed to children of tender years attending the championship match. He thought, though, that a young person between 10 and 15 was no longer a child and should be given, if duly chaperoned, the privilege of seeing the two greatest pugilists of the age clash in what may prove to be the last big ring event of the times.

The fans who have paid $50 for their arena reservations will have an added advantage over their less fortunate fellow patrons, as their seats are made of planed planks. Those of the others are what carpenters call "in the rough."

It is said there will be no $5 seats, as was at first intended. The lowest price at which top-most rear seats can now be purchased, is $10 and unless the sale shows signs of falling off, it is understood, none will be offered at a lower figure, and there will be no boxes. Women attending the fight will not be able to separate themselves from the main body of spectators, according to the present arrangements and the contractor in charge of the work said there would be no provision for railing off any seats.

Fitz Believes in Jeff.

Seattle, Wash., July 1.—Bob Fitzsimmons, former champion heavyweight, arrived in Seattle yesterday on his way to Reno to see the Jeffries-Johnson fight. Fitzsimmons believes Jeffries will win if he is in good condition. "You'l see a fight that is a fight,' Fitz said. "Jeffries has never hit a man as hard as he can, but he will not be under restraint with Johnson. When Johnson faces the only man who ever beat me fairly and honestly, he will have the toughest argument of his career.

"I'm taking a deep interest in the big fight, for I pride myself that it was I who made Jeffries cut out that fool crouch of his. Before our fight we agreed to tour the country, win or lose. For three solid weeks after we began to travel, we were hissed every time we appeared because I would cut his face to pieces in an effort to get him to stop that crouch. I insulted him and beat his face to a pulp night after night, and the crowds would hiss and hoot me for a brute.

"Even Jeffries complained. He used to say to me: 'Bob, I won't stand this murder any longer'. 'Then,' said I, 'you cut that crouch out', and when he fought Corbett the second time the crouch was not there and he made Corbett look foolish."

Little Withdraws Suit.

Chicago, July 1.—George W. Little, former manager of Jack Johnson, through his attorney, yesterday withdrew his suit against Johnson. In ordering withdrawal of the suit, Little announced that he and the black champion had settled their financial differences.

New York, July 1.—The unqualified declaration of James Coffroth that Jim Jeffries will blow up when he finds he cannot lay a glove on Johnson has suddenly stimulated betting here on the outcome of the fight championship. Johnson's followers, waiting to place their money on the short end of 2 to 1, were satisfied yesterday to bet 7 to 10 on the negro. Coffroth as a fight promoter was handling contests in which both Jeffries and Johnson have been principals, and in consequence of his prediction that Jeffries will lose, has stiffened the hopes of Johnson's friends.

Sporting men at the race tracks think even money should prevail.

Sharkey Is Joking.

Laramie, Wyo., July 1.—Tom Sharkey, who passed through here yesterday on his way to witness the Jeffries-Johnson fight, announced that he would challenge the winner. Sharkey stipulated the batle should be for a purse of $25,000.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE.)

What will we talk about today?

It is surely too disagreeable to discuss the weather. Baseball? That is rather a sore subject with we'uns at the present time. Today and Friday and Monday will soon be here. The fight is in the limelight—it is the best subject for the time being.

Now about the odds on the coming fight.

It is only natural that the white man should be on the long end. If you were going a bet on Johnson, you would want a run for your money. Jeffries is really looked upon as the champion of the world. The race refuses to admit that Johnson has any right to the title of heavyweight champion.

Jeffries has never been beaten in his life, Johnson has lost two battles; one by the knockout route, too. He will get all the worst of it, for he is a negro. Therefore the people who are going to place their money on the black have the right to ask that they be allowed to take the short end of the betting.

In every city in the country there will be a lot of money wagered on the chances of the two men. Here in Duluth they are making Jeffries the prime favorite. There is a lot of Jeffries money in sight, and there seems to be but a comparative few who care to risk their money on the chances of the brunette.

If Jeffries is right, the consensus of opinion seems to be that there will be nothing to the fight. The question is, whether the boiler maker is the man he was when he made his last appearance in the ring.

We have had the latest from the ringside, and yet we know very little of the true condition of Jeff. Mike Murphy and William Muldoon have stated that as far as their opinion goes, the white fighter is in the best condition of his life. These two men are considered the two best judges in the world, and their word can be taken for what it is worth in the present matter.

Men who wager their money are always taking a chance, and in the present instance the man who backs his opinion with cash need not expect a sure thing proposition. It is estimated that Jeffries will enter the ring a 2 to 1 favorite. The rush of Jeffries' money at the last moment of the time before the men enter the ring, is liable to make the odds longer in favor of the former champion.

In the case of Sullivan and Corbett, the odds were 4 to 1 in favor of the mighty John L. Fight followers over the country generally believe that Jeffries is a much mightier battler than the venerable and terrible Sullivan was in the prime of his awe-inspiring career.

There are many who do not believe that he can be beaten. It is this belief that will make Jeffries a favorite when he enters the ring. The fact that the other man is a colored man, will also figure in the odds. There are many other factors—but coming right down to cases, the principal factor is the fact that more people believe Jeffries can win than believe the unbleached champion will come out of the fray with colors flying.

The fight is only a few days away. The curiosity is intense. The fact that we are all het up over the fight and over the weather at the same time, makes us very uncomfortable at the present time. It is very probable that with the calling of the fight the weather will probably take a tumble to its misbehavior in the past few days.

Hard on Oarsmen.

If the oarsmen of the Duluth Boat club have the tortures of the hot season to contend with—something that the oarsmen here have seldom to count upon—they should think of the hot waves of torrid heat that must descend every evening upon the oarsmen of the Minnesota Boat club.

Down in the valley of the river there at St. Paul, where it is very hard for the faintest breath of air to find its way, the work of the St. Paul oarsmen must be the very hardest effort.

If the weather reports that have come from Winnipeg are correct, the boys up there who pull at the sweeps are also getting all that is coming to them in the shape of weather that makes a man's collar wilt and his temper peevish and erratic as the market.

Last night was the best workout the two crews have had for some time. The junior eight did some of the best work of the present season, and this, too, in the face of the fact that the weather has been such as to take the "pep" out of some of the men in the boat.

The bantams are plugging away. They don't say much and not a great deal has been said about the chances of the four at the Kenora regatta, but there are those at home who have firmly anchored their hopes on the bantams winning the race at the Canadian resort.

Last night's showing made the coaches here better satisfied with the junior eight. The eight is not yet anywhere what it should be the day it rows up to the starting point at Kenora. But has reached the stage where it should begin to improve every night. The men are getting together better on the catch and are catching with more force. There is a tendency yet to rush the slides, which the coaches hope to correct before the eight leaves for the other side of the line.

The hot weather has prevented the crew from doing as much work as would be advisable were the weather cooler. There is danger of men getting to a too fine edge this sultry and humid weather. For that reason the crew has not been given the work it received during the earlier part of the training period. If the weather should turn cool it is very probable that the men will be put through some stiff workouts.

The coaches are not at all satisfied with the crew to date. The men are going fairly well, and perhaps there is more rythm in the boat than there was last season. But there are many things that the crew must acquire before the members of the eight can hope for victory, and, coming down to hard figures, there is not so very much time for the crew to acquire all this needed extra stuff.

PLEASED WITH THE NEW BOATS

Trials have so far shown the special 26-foot design motor boats to be satisfactory.

Eight of these boats have been purchased by members of the Duluth Boat club, and they will be entered in a special class this summer.

The boats are bing tuned up at the present time. All of the boats have not been placed in the water, for the simple reason that some of the boats are not here as yet.

Those who have tried the small boats are of the opinion that they will attain a speed close to eighteen miles an hour. They are trim little craft, and have made a favorable impression upon all those who have seen them.

It is said in motor boat circles of the club that a motor boat is coming that will be capable of giving Richard Schell's new boat all that it can handle. Rumor has connected the name of a very prominent Duluth man with the purchase of the boat, but for some reason there seems at this time an unwillingness to have the name of the owner used.

The new boat is expected to travel in the thirty-mile-per-hour class. Dick Schell is trying his boat out at Lake Minnetonka at the present time. He expects to trim all the boats down there. He may also go to White Bear before he returns to the Head of the Lakes.

The new boat is a new hull, with the old Capitol engine in it. The engine is rated at 90-horse power, and the new boat is expected to be one of the fastest in the West.

Mack Cook has purchased the old Dingle Capitol. That is the hull that was used by Mr. Schell last season. A new engine has been placed in the boat. Mack will probably enter the boat in all free-for-all class races that will be held at the boat club the present season. Those who have seen the Cook boat travel this season say that it is still one of the fastest boats at the Head of the Lakes.

CLEAN SWEEP FOR HARVARD

New London, Conn., July 1.—The setting sun could not tinge the waters of the Thames last evening with a deeper crimson than had they been dyed by the victories of three Harvard crews. On the broad four-mile stretch between this city and Gales Ferry, Harvard met Yale yesterday in their forty-fourth annual rowing regatta. Five lengths were Harvard's margin of success in the 'varsity eight-oared race, three lengths in the freshman eight, and four lengths in the 'varsity fours. The freshman four race, won by Yale Wednesday evening, was the sole sweet drop in Yale's bitter cup of defeat.

It is estimated that 60,000 persons saw the final race and that 40,000 of them were from out of town.

This multitude saw three as thrilling races as ever cut the waters of the Thames.

Here are the times:

'Varsity eight—Harvard, 20:46½; Yale, 21:04.

'Varsity four—Harvard, 13:00½; Yale, 13:18.

Freshman eight—Harvard, 11:54½; Yale, 12:02.

The 'varsity four and freshman eight-oared races at two miles were rowed up stream in the morning. The 'varsity eights raced four miles down stream in the afternoon. A quartering northwest breeze that roughened the river and blew in the faces of the crews caused poor time in the early events, but the main race was rowed on water ideally smooth and the time was fastest in any down stream race on the Thames since 1903, when a victorious Yale crew covered the four miles in 20 minutes, 19 2-5 seconds. Yale, 1888, holds the record for the course, 20 minutes, 20 seconds.

The victory of the Crimson in the big 'varsity race was not unexpected, although Yale for the last ten days had been held more dangerous than it proved.

The Elis held on to the Crimson up to the last half mile. Then the superior physical power of the Cambridge boat settled the contest.

Harvard's eight averaged seven pounds per man heavier than Yale's and one inch taller. The crew which represented Yale averaged 171¾ pounds.

Yale Pulls High Stroke.

Yale tried to kill off Harvard by setting a fast pace and pulled the highest stroke that any Yale crew has rowed in years. Starting at 29 strokes to the minute, Yale only dropped to 36 at the half mile. Soon after the half-mile flag had been passed, Yale let her stroke down to 34, which was held until near the fin

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

AITKIN MAN IS INJURED

Harry Sievy Crushed Under Falling Pieces of Steel at Crosby Shaft.

Steel Sections of Shaft, Hit By Cable, Fall Like Playing Cards.

Crosby, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Sievy, unmarried, aged 37 years, a resident of Aitkin, employed on the new concrete shaft at Crosby was badly injured yesterday by being caught under falling sheets of steel used in making the outer forms for the cement work.

Sievy and Louis Larson were cleaning steel sections which are used to make the outer form of the cement shaft. The circumference of the shaft measures twenty-seven feet. These circular sections are five feet high and eight inches thick and are bolted together making the outer circumference against which the cement is thrown. The inner form of the shaft is of wood and makes a shaft opening 11 by 15 feet.

Fell Like Stack of Cards.

The men had the steel forms stacked in a row and were cleaning them when the cable of the dredger caught one end of the sheets and they fell like a stack of cards. Larson escaped but Sievy was caught in the trap and backed up as best he could and saved his head from getting mashed. He fell on a steel sheet and the other eight sheets came pounding down on him, hurting his chest, his breast, back, thighs, knees and other places. The full extent of his injuries will not be known for some time.

Crosby Bank To Open Soon.

W. E. Parker, of Wadena, while in town yesterday stated that the First State Bank of Crosby would begin business within thirty days. The bank fixtures have arrived and will be placed in a rented building, presumably Attorney Frank Lindbergh's business block, which location will be used as a bank building until the bank's own quarters are erected. S. E. Latta, of New York City, will be the cashier of the bank, and will remove his family to Crosby in the near future.

TRAVELS MILES TO WED CHOICE

Irish Lassie Comes From Emerald Isle to Brainerd to Be Married.

Brainerd, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Gamble Brown, formerly of Belfast, Ireland, and Miss Annie McLellan of Londonderry, Ireland, were married yesterday morning, Rev. Charles Fox Davis officiating. The bride left Londonderry, Ireland, June 18, on the steamship Caledonia, reaching New York June 26 and Brainerd June 28. The couple left for Duluth and Minneapolis on their wedding trip. Upon their return to Brainerd the members and friends of the Methodist Episcopal choir will give them a reception, Mr. Brown being one of the choir of that church.

Floyd Williams and Miss Georgia Hickey were married Monday by Rev. Father O'Mahoney at the parsonage. The bride is a sister of Mrs. J. Douglas Armstrong and the bridegrofom is a molder at the shops.

75,000 POLES ARE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Blackduck and Tenstrike Appealed to Help Fight the Fire Fiend.

Bemidji, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a bad fire at Hines, near Blackduck, Wednesday, which caused much damage to stocks of poles, and threatened to burn some valuable buildings at that place. A fire had been smouldering in a nearby swamp and had been neglected until a slight breeze fanned the flames and they spread to a lot of poles that were lying alongside the railroad tracks, destroying 75,000 and other smaller timber.

The fire was so threatening that Blackduck and Tenstrike were appealed to for aid, and both places sent fire fighters to the scene, the Tenstrike department taking along an engine, with which water was pumped from a well and the fire prevented from destroying any of the business buildings.

The fire was so hot that for six hours no train on the Minnesota & Internation tracks could pass until the fire had been subdued.

The heaviest losers from this fire are Kayo & Carter of Hines, S. E. Thompson of Blackduck, whose poles and timber were reduced to ashes. Several other people lost large quantities of cordwood that was piled alongside the tracks.

Fearing that fires may do much damage to the cut timber which the two companies have in the woods north of here, the Crookston and Bemidji Lumber companies are having their logs hauled to the mills here as rapidly as possible and there is now a splendid supply of "raw material" at either mill

Worms

"Cascarets are certainly fine. I gave a friend one when the doctor was treating him for cancer of the stomach. The next morning he passed four pieces of a tape worm. He then got a box and in three days he passed a tape-worm 45 feet long. It was Mr. Matt Freck, of Millersburg, Dauphin Co., Pa. I am quite a worker for Cascarets. I use them myself and find them beneficial for most any disease caused by impure blood." Chas. E. Condon, Lewiston, Pa., (Mifflin Co.)

MEN FIGHTING FIRES NEAR BROOKSTON, MINN.

Brookston, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A crew of men spent the greater part of the week fighting a bad fire, which started in section 5-10-18. The fire spread into sections 8 and 9, and very little could be done to prevent it from doing much damage. During Wednesday the buildings on the F. F. Slater homestead in section 9 were destroyed and the fire then jumped across Stony Brook, going eastward before a stiff breeze. The buildings on Alex Sorvari's homestead in section 1-50-19 were burned the first of the week. There was also a bad fire in the vicinity of the Northern Lumber company camp near Brevator, and it was only by the hardest kind of work that the camp buildings were saved.

Patterson of the Commercial club and L. G. M. Fletcher will extend a welcome for the Christian Endeavor societies of the city. Representatives of the state organization will respond to these addresses of welcome.

FARGOAN ATTEMPTS LIFE.

Is Spurned By Woman on Whom He Had Spent Money.

Fargo, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Worrying over the loss of the woman he says promised to marry him, and grieving because he had recklessly spent $2,000, Peter Anderson twice attempted suicide in the city jail yesterday by hanging himself to a beam in his cell, using his suspenders as a rope the first time and his necktie the second time.

He was cut down by Philip Vimmerman, janitor, and revived. He later said he would end his life as soon as opportunity afforded. He told the attendants at the jail that life has no charms for him, and that he will cut his throat at the first opportunity.

Anderson said that after he was jilted by the woman he sold all his property in Fargo and went to Minneapolis two weeks ago with $2,000. When arrested Wednesday night on the charge of drunkenness he was without money.

BOOMS WATER TRAFFIC.

Wisconsin Waterways Commissioner Makes Report to Governor.

Madison, Wis., July 1.—Judge Ray S. Reid of La Crosse, state waterways commissioner of Wisconsin, has filed his second annual report with the governor. He compares river conditions in Wisconsin and Germany, the commissioner having visited the latter country recently.

Commissioner Reid says most of the lumber and coal used in Wisconsin, especially in the western part, could profitably be transported on the rivers if suitable boats were used. Experiments to determine what kind of boats are best fitted should be undertaken by the federal or state government. He discusses types of boats used on rivers in Germany. He believes the investigation provided by the river and harbor bill will be of great value to Wisconsin.

The commissioner says that he expects to confer with the government engineers on the matter the middle of next month.

"There is," says the commissioner, "great reason for congratulation over the fact that the control of the funds now exercised by the government will prevent unwarranted and destructive competition between rail and river lines. If it can be demonstrated by the experiments about to be made that the river can do business so cheaply that the railroads cannot possibly compete with it, then the government ought to do everything in its power to foster the river traffic."

MOOSE COMING OUT.

Heat Is Driving Big Animals Out of the Woods.

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The warm weather of the last three weeks has driven many moose from the woods east of this city out into the open park prairie and along the streams in this county. None of these animals has been seen in this section for several years, and not a little speculation takes place as to the reasons which tempt them to enter territory, all of which is cultivated. One large bull moose wandered down southwest until he reached a small group of trees near Euclid, not many miles from Crookston. Several auto owners in the latter city visited this small woods, and had the pleasure of seeing the animal at close range. He was driven out into the open by the farm dogs, and trotted across the fence as though they were not in existence. A few days since, another moose, a cow, was discovered in the fringe of woods which borders Thief River, near this city. She remained about the neighborhood for several days, spending the most of the time grazing with the cattle on the farm. Boys finally frightened the animal away, and dogs made it scamper to safety.

W. P. MURRAY NOT ONLY SURVIVOR

Henry Waite of St. Cloud Only Living Member of Constitutional Meet.

St. Cloud, Minn., July 1.—It was generally supposed that William Pitt Murray of St. Paul, up to the time of his death last week, was the last surviving member of the Minnesota constitutional convention of 1858, but it has since been learned that Henry C. Waite of St. Cloud is entitled to the honor. Mr. Waite, who is soon to celebrate his 80th birthday anniversary, is living on a farm three miles west of this city in the township of Le Sauk. Although somewhat feeble, he still enjoys fairly good health, his memory is very clear and he enjoys telling stories of the early days of the state.

Always of a literary turn of mind, Mr. Waite is spending the rest of his days writing verses and penning his reminiscences.

Mr. Waite came to St. Paul in 1851 and opened a law office. Elected to the constitutional convention, he represented the northern part of the state, being a member of the Democratic faction of that memorable gathering. In later years he turned to farming.

Emerado, N. D., July 1.—In its action to recover from the Farmers' Bank of Emerado, the Farmers' Elevator company of this city has been successful, a decision handed down by the supreme court Tuesday evening affirming the decision of the district court.

This case grew out of the embezzlements of John Hempstead, and official of the elevator. The elevator claimed that a sum amounting to about $1,500 was due it from the bank, while the bank put in a counter claim on an overdraft. OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

RAIN

The weather man followed the dry hot weather of the past week by sultry weather today. The probable showers did not materialize last night, although the sky was threatening. The prediction for tonight or tomorrow is more positive for showers or local thunderstorms. A high temperature of 96 deg. was attained again yesterday, and 68 deg. was the lowest point to which the mercury fell last night.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:17 and it will set at 8:06, giving fifteen hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance central Thursday morning over North Dakota now overlies the Red river valley. During the last twenty-four hours it caused scattered showers throughout the Dakotas, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Montana and Nebraska. Other depressions central over Arizona and Louisiana caused showers in Colorado, Western Kansas, the lower Mississippi valley and gulf states. Hot weather continued in the Northwest, the western lake region, the central valleys and southern states with highest temperatures Thursday averaging about 90 deg. Maximum temperatures of 100 deg. occurred Thursday over a large portion of Wisconsin. The barometer remains high over the southwestern lake region, South Atlantic and Pacific states. The easterly movement of the Manitoba depression will probably afford some relief in this section through the medium of occasional showers tonight or Saturday, and it is expected the present warm wave will terminate by Saturday.

General Forecasts.

Upper Lakes: Light variable winds and generally fair weather except showers tonight or Saturday on Superior.

Chicago, July 1.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

CELEBRATES ITS MAJORITY

Duluth Scottish Rite Order Is Twenty-One Years Old.

Officers Elected for Three Years---Weather Man Escapes Lynching.

Notwithstanding the discouraging persistence of the thermometer to break all records and show that it is proud of it, a well attended meeting marked the twenty-first annual gathering of the Scottist Rite Masons of the northeastern section of Minnesota at the temple last evening.

Among the many interesting events was the gathering on the stage, in posts of honor, of the surviving members, who were present at the first meeting held on Feb. 7, 1889, in the old Hayes block: T. W. Hugo, then elected the venerable master; Walter Van Brunt, the almoner; Sieg Levy, the treasurer; J. H. La Vaque, the orator; J. E. Cooley, the secretary; J. P. Johnson, captain of the host; August Grochau, tyler, and George Rupley and W. E. Richardson.

The venerable master read his report, touching on the important matters brought to his attention and made many recommendations, all of which were adopted. The reports of the secretary, treasurer and trustee showed a very marked degree of success and prosperity, both in numbers and finances. The secretary, J. E. Cooley, presented his resignation after twenty-one years of service, which was regretfully accepted, and in company with A. Le Richeaux for services as almoner and auditor and A. F. M. Custance for services as choirmaster, he was presented with a handsome jewel designed by Duluth men.

It was decided to continue the free concerts. In behalf of a number of music lovers, R. B. Knox presented the lodge with a handsome concert Everett piano, the finest money could buy, to be used at the free concerts and when any special solo piano work is to be done a concert grand piano is at the services of the performer. H. W. Reyner played it to demonstrate what a beautiful tone it possessed, powerful and sweet.

The newly organized Scottish Rite quartette gave a sample of its musical skill. It will be heard at the free concerts occasionally. Their voices are well balanced and blend harmoniously.

The publication of the "Masonic Calendar," was ordered continued, some more scenery was ordered, and many plans for the betterment of the work were adopted. The library came in for some considerable attention and the money was appropriated for the plan suggested whereby the Scottish Rite will take a prominent part in the general social uplift and improvement of the people at large. The details of the work have not yet been worked out, but when in operation will be along the lines of the most advanced ideas on the subject.

The meeting ended with an ice cream and lemonade feed, where all cooled off sufficiently to release the weather man, who was present, from the noose placed around his neck as he entered the temple. He has promised to be good. The meeting was a most enjoyable and interesting one and one which will not be soon forgotten.

Meeting at Beverly.

Beverly, Mass., July 1.—For a full minute yesterday afternoon President Taft and Col. Roosevelt stood on the broad veranda of the Evans cottage with hands upon each other's shoulders, while evident delight shone in every line of their smile-enwreathed countenances.

"Mr. President!" it was Roosevelt who spoke and there was earnest warmth in his salutation.

"Theodore!"

They patted each other affectionately on the shoulder. They laughed in a way that left not a single lingering doubt as to the exuberance of their feelings. They seemed utterly oblivious of the fact that there were others present.

"It used to be 'Mr. President' and 'Will,' didn't it," cried the colonel in his old familiar high-pitched voice, "but now its 'Mr. President and Theodore.'"

Slapped Arms and Shoulders.

The two old friends, meeting after sixteen months of separation with all the warmth that used to characterize their association in Washington, slapped each other again on arms and shoulders.

And so it went throughout the afternoon. When Col. Roosevelt was president and Mr. Taft was secretary of war the meetings of the two men in th executive offices at Washington were always characterized by the same cordiality. White House attaches who witnessed the greetings yesterday afternoon declared it was just like the old days. There was a rapid-fire of conversation.

No Coolness at All.

The meeting was everything that the friends of President Taft have claimed that it would be, and the persistent prophesies of those who have been interested all along that a coolness had developed between the two men, proved to be utterly fallacious.

Col. Roosevelt was still in the spirit of the renewed association with the president when, after two hours and twenty minutes spent with Mr. Taft and members of his family, he started back to Nahant to spend a second night with Senator Lodge.

As he was leaving the shaded grounds of the president's cottage, the colonel stopped to speak with several old newspaper friends from Washington.

Had Delightful Time.

"I had a most pleasant time with the president," he exclaimed. "There is nothing particular to say, is there?"

"No, I think not," put in Senator Lodge.

"We had a delightful time, and that is all there is to it," added the colonel.

"By George, look at those miscreants!" he exclaimed, as several photographers who had climbed on a stone wall for a vantage point began to click their cameras with a perfect fusillade of snap-shots.

"Does Beverly come up to Oyster Bay?" some one asked.

"You know I am fond of Oyster Bay," replied Mr. Roosevelt, "and I don't want to make any comparisons, but, by George, Beverly is beautiful! This whole north shore is perfectly lovely."

With a wave of his Panama hat and with a hearty word of good-bye, he was off.

What politics entered into the conversation, what words of reminiscence, what exchanges of experiences during the last sixteen months passed between the two men, no one on the veranda other than the two old friends themselves were permitted to know.

There were so many peals of laughter, so many slaps upon the back, so much of cordiality, that it was apparent that there had been no suggestion of even the remotest conflict of views.

Col. Roosevelt was asked if he would visit Beverly again. "I don't know that I shall," he replied.

Denies Hughes Rumor.

Nahant, Mass., July 1.—A vigorous declaration that he had not injected himself in the New York state political situation to the extent of endeavoring to persuade Governor Hughes to make a third gubernatorial campaign, was made by Col. Roosevelt following his visit to President Taft at Beverly.

The attention of the former president was called to the statement printed in a morning newspaper in which Col. Roosevelt was quoted as telling Governor Hughes that the governor was the only man who could save New York state to the Republican party. When the former president had read the clipping he asked if the report was intended as a joke, and then declared with emphasis and with vigor:

"It is wholly untrue. Utterly preposterous. I never said any such thing. There is not a word of truth in it."

Further than making this statement, Col. Roosevelt refused to talk politics.

Slocum Case Reversed.

Beltrami County—State of Minnesota, plaintiff, vs. M. G. Slocum, defendant.

The publication of the facts concerning a pending indictment prior to the time it is framed, and before the accused is arraigned, and the exclusion, by the jurors, of the county attorney from the grand jury room, do not constitute sufficient grounds for quashing an indictment in the absence of a showing that the substantial rights of the accused were violated.

The affidavits in support of the motion to quash the indictment state that a third party was present with the grand jurors while the charge embraced in the indictment against defendant was under consideration, and the indictment should have been quashed.

CANADIAN TOWN IS PARTLY RAZED AND OTHERS ARE THREATENED BY FIRE

terday afternoon that several flat cars were burned on the track before they could be removed. A passing freight train had a narrow escape, the crew saving themselves by lying flat on their faces, while the engineer put on full speed as he took his train through the wall of fire.

South of International Falls the fire is raging fiercely. Several hundred men are out fighting the flames to prevent their reaching that village. Should the wind continue in the south the fire will soon reach the border town, when the result will be serious. As the telephone and telegraph poles are nearly all burned and the wires down it is extremely difficult to get communication.

A report reached town late last night that one of the bridges on the Canadian Northern main line was on fire, but just where has not been ascertained.

Worst in Years.

The present fires are the worst known for years, as practically all the country between here and Fort William is ablaze. The air is so thick with smoke that the sun is clouded. The heat is intense.

South of Rainy Lake the fires are doing a lot of damage. In fact, the whole region on both sides of the boundary is being destroyed.

The village of Mine Center narrowly escaped, and but for the efforts of over 100 men, working day and night, the entire place would have been wiped out. At Old Mine Center the buildings of the Golden Star mine, Randolph, Ferguson and several others are all burned, as well as a large quantity of ties. On Little Turtle lake the Headlight mine buildings are destroyed,and considerable damage done. Hundreds of men are at work trying to save property, but their efforts seem to be futile in many cases.

River Steamer Burned.

Hundreds of settlers have lost all their property. The manager of the Rat Portage Lumber company of Winnipeg today estimated that the company's loss by bush fires in the Rainy river district exceeds $2,000,000. The Atikokan Lumber company's mill at Atikokan and the steamer Majestic on Rainy river were destroyed by fire.

The little lakes are alive with moose, seeking safety from the flames. Reports from Fort William are that the town of Stanley and the settlement of Silver Mountain are in grave danger, the settlers having been fighting fires around there for the last eighteen hours.

Fires Near Munger.

Munger, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Damaging forest fires are raging in Solway township threatening the homes of settlers. Many men are out fighting the flames to save their homes, but the fight is unequal because of the dry conditions prevailing.

MRS. SMALLWOOD PASSES AWAY

Resident of Duluth for Twenty-Two Years Dies at Her Home.

Mrs. Lou C. Smallwood, wife of Capt. W. H. Smallwood, died yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home, 14 Nineteenth avenue east. She had been ill for several months.

Mrs. Smallwood was 57 years old and had been a resident of Duluth for twenty-two years. Besides her husband, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. G. H. Jones, Mrs. F. E. Brooks and Miss Margaret Smallwood, and two sons, Hilliary and James Smallwood.

The funeral will be held this afternoon, with services at 2 o'clock at the residence.

FIRES NEAR NEGAUNEE.

Munising Railroad Maintains Crews of Men Fighting Fires.

Negaunee, Mich., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires are raging in the district south of here and a dense pall of smoke hangs over the city. The Munising & South Eastern railway has a crew fighting the flames on their line endeavoring to save their townsites from being wiped out.

It is reported that terrific bush fires are raging a few miles west of Ishpeming near Wintrop.

Great distress exists among the farmers in this vicinity and the condition will be bad unless rain falls soon. The hay crop in many places is a failure and a few farmers say their oat crops are wholly destroyed.

ON THE IRON RANGES

INDEPENDENTS ARE VERY BUSY

Republic Steel & Iron Properties Are Taking Out Much Ore.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shipping from the Republic Steel & Iron company's mines along the Iron Range road is going on steadily. About 10,000 tons daily are being sent out from the underground mines controlled by this independent company. At the Schley the underground system is modern in all respects, while at the other mines everything tends to that system. The greatest precautions have been taken to protect the men working underground.

At the Adams open pit mine the shipping proceeds at a lively rate. Three steam shovels are at work in the western end of the pit, while two more are working in the eastern end. Another steam shovel crew is taking turns at the steam shovel at the stock piles at shafts Nos. 1, 4 and 6. At the Spruce the activity is also strong. The work at the Fayal is going along in its usual manner and much ore is being taken out. Most of the stripping at this mine has been finished and ore is being taken out all the time.

At the Virginia mine, the new producer north of here, produces at a good pace. The stripping operations of Winston Bros. & Dear are going on night and day as only about one-third of the forty acres to be stripped have been uncovered. The Pickands-Mather company has two shovels steadily at work in ore and the Duluth & Iron Range road is busy taking the ore away to the docks at Two Harbors. They have a large crew at work fixing up tracks near the mine.

CHISHOLM GLAD TRAINS NOW RUN

Great Rejoicing Over Missabe Road Inaugurating Its Service.

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is great rejoicing today over the inauguration of train service into this village by the Missabe railroad when four trains started running each way between Chisholm and Wilpin connecting with the Missabe regular passenger trains between Hibbing and Duluth. It requires thirteen minutes for trains to run between Chisholm and Wilpin. C. M. Beck is station agent and Elmer Mines, cashier at Wilpin. Trains leave Chisholm at 7 and 10:27 a. m. and at 12:12 and 6:37 p. m. Trains arrive in Chisholm at 6:35, 7:38 and 10:58 a. m. and 12:40 and 7:13 p. m.

The Commercial club has engaged the Oliver band of Hibbing for the ceremony to be held this evening.

SETTLERS ONLY ONES MENACED

Hibbing, Chisholm and Other Range Towns Are Too Well Protected.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sensational stories sent out of this locality about the grave danger to towns burning are largely the creations of imaginative space fillers. While there are of course sporadic fires here and there in the brush it is safe to say that neither Hibbing nor Chisholm is in danger unless something miraculous in the way of a tornado carrying burning embers miles through the air should result.

Little For Fires To Burn.

There are fires burning about two miles south of here, also on the other side of Mitchell but none close to town. If there were any fires close to town they would find nothing to burn as the timber has been pretty well burned off in this locality. The same applies to Chisholm. There was a little brush fire here about 6 o'clock last evening on the southern edge of town but the fire department soon extinguished it, the incident not causing very much worry. There are few big trees in this locality by which the fire could be communicated to the settlements. The greater danger the present condition presents faces the settlers in the timbered sections all over the ranges. These people living often removed from the settlements, in heavy timber are of course in constant danger so long as the present dry condition continues. So far as known there has been no loss of life among settlers but of course many have been burned out. There is more or less smoke here and always will be until a heavy rain clarifies the atmosphere.

TRAGEDY IN EVELETH.

Cow Strangled to Death While Being Pulled From Trench.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A cow belonging to Andrew Merkas last night fell into the trench being dug for the sewer on Pierce street. The trench is about twenty-three feet deep and the cow was unable to get out. Jules Thibaut descended into the trench with a rope which he placed around the animal's body. While the cow was being pulled up the noose slipped until it was around the animal's neck and it was strangled to death.

TRAINMEN'S BALL THE CHIEF EVENT

Of the Celebration of Independence Day at Two Harbors.

Two Harbars, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The celebration of the Fourth here will be conducted on a large scale. The committee, of which W. A. Doerr is chairman, has detailed other committees. The committee on sports and games has arranged for a program consisting of boys and girls races, men and ladies races, barrel races, bicycle races, auto races and pie-eating contests, apple-eating contest and tug-of-war between engineers and firemen. Although the city team will play in Virginia July 3, 4 and 5, there will be games between the engineers and conductors and the brakemen and firemen. Many of the players of the engineers and conductors are men weighing from 175 to 250 pounds.

The Anti-tuberculosis society of Lake county will have a tag day and many of the young women of the city will be on hand with tags. The proceeds of this sale will be used to further the work of the society in Lake county.

Many Trainmen Expected.

The most important feature will be the ball given by the "Big 4", or the Order of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Brotherhood of Locomtivo Engineers, and Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. Men from all of the roads will come to attend this and will be returned early on the morning of the 5th to be in time for their work. There will probably be special trains from the D., M. & N. and the D. & M. bringing railway employes to the dance. E. R. Fitch, chairman of the committee, and the rest have labored to complete the arrangements in order to make it the best ball ever given in this neighborhood.

The proceeds of the dance will be given to the Railway men's home in Highland Park, Ill.

TOWER CELEBRATION.

Vermilion Range City Plans for Big Time on Fourth.

Tower, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The committees working for the success of the celebration of the Fourth, report everything moving along satisfactorily to that end. A substantial sum of money has been secured by the soliciting committee and prizes will be offered for the winning of the different athletic events, as well as for the best floats and comical features in the parade. The arrangements committee consists of William Hill, O. W. Akerson, Anton Erickson, A. L. Kitto, J. H. Jeffrey, W. A. McCurdy, J. D. Murphy, A. Wadman, T. A. Thomas, J. W. Thompson, F. E. Kolb and N. J. Benson.

CHISHOLM LIVELY.

Two Stabbings Are Pulled Off There in One Day.

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two stabbing affrays occurred in this locality yesterday. During a religious argument Tony Jamil stabbed Vinco Rosc at the Glenn location then took to the woods. The victim with four ugly slashes about the head is in a hospital.

During a fight between members of a section crew at the Leonard mine, a foreigner whose name is not known, was badly cut about the head. He declined to give his name.

PROGRESS OF WORK ON EVELETH STREETS.

Eveleth, Minn., June 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The paving crew has reached Jones street and they are still in contact with many rocks. Six horses are being used to plow up the street.

The sewer pipes to be laid along Douglas avenue have now been received. Already the trenches to a depth of close to twenty feet have been dug in the alley between Grant and Douglas avenues.

NEW EVELETH-VIRGINIA SERVICE NOT INAUGURATED.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The expected passenger service on the Duluth & Iron Range between Eveleth and Virginia over the short cut which it was though would go into effect today did not materialize. The new time card is not out yet. The passenger trains will run out from the local Iron Range depot to the West Adams yards then to Webster which is close to the new Virginia mine and then along the Missabe tracks.

High School Library Hours.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Teckla Jackson, the high school librarian announces that the school library will be open for outsiders on Tuesday and Friday afternoons from 1 to 3 o'clock beginning today.

Floodwood Hotel Reopened.

Floodwood, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Louis hotel here which has been closed a few months because of the sickness of Mrs. Peters, wife of the proprietor, Mike Peters, was reopened today.

Duluth Veteran To Attend.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Asa Daley, a prominent G. A. R. man of Duluth has promised Charles McNamara, G. A. R. president of the Fourth of July celebration and G. A. R. men that he will be in Eveleth to spend the Fourth, coming with the Duluth Fife and Drum corps.

Expensive Rocket Shooting.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Selim Hankarson's pre-Fourth of July celebration cost him $22.50 and costs. He fired a rocket on Second avenue, the thing crashing through the plate glass windows on the village hall. He was arrested and haled into municipal court.

house voted 8 0to 62 to indorse the action of the assembly judiciary committee, which reported the measure adversely. The house then adopted a resolution providing for sine die adjournment at 2 p. m. today.

Bitter Night Debate.

After a bitter debate, which lasted until early this morning, the senate, by a vote of 24 to 23, concurred in the assembly resolution fixing the hour for final adjournment at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The advocates of the Cobb bill, who mustered but 23 votes at a caucus last night, endeavored to send the resolution to the finance committee, where it was planned to hold it up, so as to give more time to the consideration of the Cobb bill. The Republicans who refused to go into the caucus, with the support of the Democratic senators, upset this plan, leaving only a few hours today in which to consider not only the Cobb bill but the financial measures which it is planned to pass to bolster up the state's revenues.

Resented the Dictation.

"It matters not to me," Senator Grattan said, in the course of the debate; "whether it is a president or a former president, or a governor, who attempts to dictate to this legislature. As a member, I am responsible for my own acts, and I do not propose to take any man's orders. This move to put over the resolution in the hope that we may get another telegram. We all know that our distinguished former president told England how to manage Egypt, informed the pope what he should do and instructed mothers as to the proper way of rearing their families."

Senator Davenport championed Col. Roosevelt's action in indorsing the Cobb bill and scored Senator Grattan for his attack upon the former president. He referred to the Albany legislator as the "mouthpiece of a political Nero, who is fiddling just outside the chamber while Rome burns."

In conclusion, the senator said that "we are dancing on the coffin of the Republican party."

IS GRADUATE F A CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL.

The secret of Alderman Wharton's success as a pitcher in the game between the Duluth and Superior aldermen, was revealed today, when a friend disclosed the fact that he has taken a correspondence school course in baseball.

It develops that Alderman Wharton has been closely studying the articles on scientific baseball, published in a current monthly magazine, the last of which was devoted to the art of pitching.

PIPE FOR NEW MAINS ARRIVING

Bids for Third Alley and Garfield Avenue Improvements Being Received.

Next Thursday the board of water and light commissioners will open bids for the laying of water and gas mains in Garfield avenue and Third alley, improvements made possible by the sale of $25,000 in water and light bonds to the city.

Pipe is being delivered for both contracts and by the time the contractors are ready to begin work, it is expected that all of the pipe will be on the ground. Both improvements are badly needed and work will be rushed as rapidly as possible.

The Third alley mains will be laid this year from Twelfth avenue east to Lake avenue. The water main will be a sixteen-inch pipe and a twelve-inch pipe will be laid for gas, the water main supplying the western part of the city and the gas main the eastern part. Smaller mains will be run north from the mains in Third alley and a large part of the city on the hillside will be better supplied with both water and gas.

The Garfield avenue mains will be laid from a point about 1,000 feet north of the gas plant to the lower end of the avenue. The six-inch water main now in the avenue will be replaced by a twelve-inch main and a four-inch gas main will be laid.

On account of the paving of Garfield avenue this year that improvement is very badly needed and the sale of bonds to the city was practically the only manner in which money could be raised for carrying it out.

TELLS ABOUT CHILDREN OF THE NEW YORK POOR.

Worcester, Mass., July 1.—Conditions surrounding children, especially those of the poorer classes in New York city, were related by Roy Smith Wallace, executive secretary of the New York Children's Welfare committee, before today's session of the Child Conference for Research and Welfare, at Clark university. The title of his address was "Facts Concerning Child Life in New York City."

"Some recent investigations into the presence of the hookworm disease in children," was the topic discussed by Dr. Charles W. Stiles, scientific secretary of the Rockefeller sanitary commission.

FALLING OFF IN WATER CONSUMPTION.

The big pump of the water and light department pumped 10,265,000 gallons of water yesterday, a falling off of 535,000 gallons from the day before. The amount was still too great for absolute safety, however, and the water and light commissioners will welcome cooler weather and showers, which will reduce the water consumption. It is expected that not more than 9,000,000 gallons will be pumped today.

New Capitol Dedicated.

Pierre, S. D., July 1.—The new state capitol was officially dedicated last night. Judge S. C. Whiting of the supreme court presided as grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Several hundred members of that order marched to the building and with the ceremony of the order for such purposes, the grand master turned over the structure to Governor Vessey.

CLOUDS BRING SOME RELIEF FROM THE HEAT

Merchants, Especially Meat Dealers and Grocers, Are Complaining.

Great Danger From Fire on Fourth Unless Rain Comes.

TODAY'S TEMPERATURE.

6 a. m.	69 deg
7 a. m.	70 deg
8 a. m.	72 deg
9 a. m.	74 deg
10 a. m.	79 deg
11 a. m.	82 deg
12 m.	86 deg

Although the temperature is lower today than it has been for some days past, the weather is still uncomfortable, the humidity of the atmosphere producing that "sticky" feeling, which is really more uncomfortable than intense dry heat.

Showers or local thunderstorms are predicted for tonight or tomorrow, but unless they are of frequent occurrences and the rainfall is heavy enough to thoroughly soak the ground, there will be great danger of fire in the city on account of the celebration of the Fourth of July by the discharge of fireworks.

The forest fires, which are raging in the vicinity of the city, are a good example of what may occur in the city through sparks falling among combustible material. Frame buildings, brush piles, docks and wooden walks are as dry as tinder and a little spark might start a serious conflagration. Unless there is a good heavy rain to minimize the danger, great care will have to be exercised in the handling of fireworks if fires are to be avoided.

Hard on Business.

Merchants report that the warm weather of the past two or three weeks has had a serious effect on business. During the early part of the warm spell, there was a good demand for seasonable wearing apparel and the clothing stores did a rushing business in light garments of all kinds. Everybody having been supplied during the early days, business fell off and during the past week, the stores have been almost deserted. The merchants would welcome a change.

The restaurants and cafes of the city also report a decrease in business. Steaks, chops and other meats, which are in heavy demand during normal weather conditions, are ordered by few, and the general orders run to lunches. The lunch rooms are doing a big business, but even they have noticed a falling off. Iced tea, milk and buttermilk are the popular beverages, and coffee and warm tea are little in demand.

The ice cream dealers are doing an enormous business, and the number of ice cream cones used in the city during the past three weeks would total an astounding figure. The dispensaries of liquid refreshment where mint juleps, high-balls, cool gin fizzes and steins are served have not been suffering from lack of patronage during the warm spell.

Outside of the specialties, however, dealers in commodities have noticed the effect of the warm spell. The grocery stores report that orders for household use have fallen off, the business running largely to lunch materials. Meat market proprietors are in despair. Other lines of business are also suffering, people shirking as much as possible during the warm weather and contenting themselves with attending to only such business matters as demand immediate attention.

The weather man predicts cooler weather and showers for tonight, and a measure of relief is in prospect.

Farmer Patents Road Grader.

Cumberland, Wis., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Mattson, a farmer living near this city has just secured a patent on a new road grader, one that experts consider a great improvement over the old graders. Mr. Mattson has interested a number of capitalists who will probably build a factory here and manufacture this new grader.

THE HARDEST WORKED RIVER.

Technical World Magazine: The hardest working river, the one most thoroughly harnessed to the mill wheels of labor in the United States, probably in the world, is the Blackstone. It is not a large river, either. Its drainage area is only about 458 square miles, and in its power-producing section it is only forty-three miles long—a very Tom Thumb of a river as rivers go in America.

Yet the doughty little stream produces 23,000-horse power, fifty for every square mile of its drainage area. If you will figure out this amount of horse power in terms of coal you will find that the busy little stream represents a capitalization of about $25,000,000. This is twice the developed horse power of any other important river. Almost 100 mills, catching with their whirling turbines its water almost from the very source in the city of Worcester, Mass., line its banks and grow in size and importance till in Woonsocket and Pawtucket, R. I., you have some of the largest of their kind in the country.

John Lind's Letter to Frank A. Day.

John Lind's letter to Chairman Frank A. Day of the Democratic state central committee has been given out to an expectant public and that public now knows there is no more reason why he should not be nominated for governor than there was before. Mr. Lind is "not unmindful of his duty as a citizen or of the peculiar obligations that he is under to his political friends," he says, and the law he quotes as making him eligible is in all quarters declared to be invalid.

In his letter Mr. Lind mentions "a well defined public sentiment" as the one thing that is of real importance to permanent political progress. If there ever was a well defined public sentiment, it is the existing one which calls for the nomination of Lind for governor by the Democrats of Minnesota.

All in all, the letter cannot but please and encourage those who are hopeful of making Mr. Lind the people's candidate for the gubernatorial chair. The text of the communication to Mr. Day follows:

"Minneapolis, Minn., June 27, 1910.—Hon. Frank A. Day, chairman, St. Paul, Minn.—Dear Mr. Day: The continued mention of my name in connection with the gubernatorial nomination makes it proper that I again state to you my position, especially as I shall be out of the state during the month of July.

"Nearly a year ago I informed you that I had decided irrevocably never again to take part in politics as a candidate for office. In arriving at that conclusion I was not unmindful of my duty as a citizen, or of the peculiar obligations that I am under to my political friends, but I felt then, and I feel now, that so far as any public service is concerned I can best discharge my duty in that regard by continuing on the board of regents of our university. But aside from this consideration and any others of a personal character, I would regard it as downright folly for the convention to nominate a man for the head of the ticket who has been declared ineligible by the legislature. See Cr. 105, Laws 1907. Under the circumstances you will appreciate the impossibility of my accepting the nomination for governor.

"If party success is contingent on my nomination, as is said by a few, victory would not be worth while. Real permanent political progress is always the fruit of a well defined public sentiment. I believe that sentiment exists in this state at this time. If it does, we can win by nominating any good man fit to be its organ. We have many such. I might mention Mr. Hammond, if it be thought best to take him out of congress, or our Minneapolis mayor, who has by successful public service demonstrated his ability, not only to serve but to lead in the cause of good government.

"The dominant element in the Republican party of the state demonstrated in the recent convention that questions of right or wrong as such have no place in their political creed. It is an encouraging fact, however, that so far as we have been advised by the city dailies, the platform has been commended only by Mr. Taft and defended only by the president of the Brewers' association.

"If our party remain loyal to the fundamental principles of Democracy, justice, equality of right and opportunity—outlines a progressive policy and accords to every administrative division of the state the right to adopt such police regulations as the people deem most conducive to their welfare, we shall deserve victory, and in attaining it I believe that we shall have the cooperation of all our people who stand for progress and social justice. Yours truly,

"JOHN LIND."

Lind Boom Is Not Deflated A Bit.

Mr. Lind will be in Oregon for several weeks and the state convention will be held July 28, during his absence. No one really believes that, in the event the convention nominates him, Mr. Lind will refuse to make an active campaign against Mr. Eberhart. But, as Mr. Day said weeks ago, John Lind can be elected by a majority of 30,000 without making a campaign. There is no doubt that he will be nominated; many Republicans have said that if he is nominated, Eberhart cannot be elected.

A prominent, but unidentified St. Paul Democrat is quoted as having said:

"The act will not interfere with our plans to nominate John Lind. It is invalid, and the courts will be asked to set it aside if the opposition should raise the question. The measure is also inconsistent with the other statutes covering the administration of the university. For instance, the governor is a member of the board of regents ex-officio. If he wished to use his place and power for political purposes through the university, he could dominate the actions of the board.

"The bill was never seriously considered by Governor Johnson. He signed it as hundreds of other minor bills are signed, simply because it came to him and was harmless. It cannot be taken as an expression of opinion from him nor from the public, because there was no general demand for such a bill. It went through unnoticed, and even the author of the bill is unknown and has not been mentioned during this agitation."

Frank A. Day, in giving out the Lind letter, gave the following set interview, says the Dispatch:

"As chairman of the Democratic state central committee, I have nothing to add to Mr. Lind's communication. It is a frank and characteristic statement of his views. It leaves nothing to explain, for it speaks for itself. I had heard parts of the letter read over the long distance telephone, but saw it in the full text only on my return to the city last night.

"It certainly is one of the most interesting political documents I have seen in recent years and will doubtless prove entertaining to the governor's great army of friends in the state."

Further than this Mr. Day refused to go. He was asked: "Does this statement mean that John Lind will not be the nominee."

"You have the letter and can go as far along that line as I can," replied Mr. Day, prompted by Harvey Grimmer.

"Who will be the second choice if Lind refuses?"

"John Lind is the first choice," said the Day-Grimmer combination.

"Will Hammond be the second choice?"

"Nothing to say."

Will Stanton be the third choice if Hammond sticks to his present place?"

"Nothing to say."

"Has Lind's Western trip any significance?"

"Well, at any rate it will be warmer in November."

Taking Interest In Jaques' Campaign.

The eagerness with which the people of the Eighth congressional district are scanning the political horizon since Judge Jaques announced his candidacy is exceedingly pleasing to the friends of the Duluth Democrat, who say it means the voters are determined to elect to congress a man who will truly represent the district rather than truckle to the powers that be in Washington. The Hinckley Herald, published in a community from which has come numerous assurances of support for Judge Jaques, says:

"Alfred Jaques, who is a candidate for congress against Clarence B. Miller, the Republican congressman, says in a paragraph of his announcement, which sounds good:

"'If I am nominated and elected I shall act freely and independently, according to the dictates of my own conscience and judgment, and I shall keep the custody of both. I shall stand by and for the people of this great district without regard to the cabals and combinations at Washington. I shall not vote against any measure in the public interest for party reasons. The people can depend upon it that I will not 'check in' my conscience and manhood at the speaker's desk when I take the oath of office; this, too, whether that speaker is Champ Clark, Joe Cannon or any other party leader.'"

Vegger Gulbrandson, touted at Albert Lea as a candidate for the senate against B. N. Anderson, the incumbent, says he does not wish to be considered as an avowed candidate. He wants to leave the field open so that any other Republican with option leanings may feel free to take the field against Senator Anderson. If Mr. Gulbrandson decides not to make the fight, it is said to be certain that some other optionist will be put forward.

Says the Albert Lea Standard: "In the uprising and spontaneous demand from every quarter upon John Lind, against his strong personal wishes, to take the Democratic nomination for governor and become the standard bearer of the reform forces of the state in our coming campaign, no more splendid tribute was ever paid to a citizen of Minnesota."

* * *

J. T. Mider has come out as an independent candidate against J. Adam Bede, who desires to serve the people as a legislator. There are twenty-three planks in Mr. Mider's platform.

* * *

In Hennepin county the most interesting question as to the legislative candidates is whether Ed. Smith will be a candidate for re-election to the senate. He is now lieutenant governor, and is expected to become chairman of the Republican state central commitee, in spite of the criticism that the suggestion of his selection for the place brought out. L. H. Johnson, a former speaker of the house, will be a candidate for his seat in the senate should "the boss" retire from the upper house, and Carl L. Wallace is in the field as a candidate, without regard to what Mr. Smith may do.

Ed. Smith and His Seat in the Senate.

Wallace has been a memuer of the lower house for a number of terms, and is anxious to get some experience in the senate. He will make a spirited figt against Smith, if the latter does not voluntarily retire, and it is said he has fair prospects of defeating the veteran politician.

Democratic candidates are not making themselves conspicuous at this time in Hennepin, but a real effort to land some of the places will be made, according to Minneapolis Democrats. County option is likely to cut a big figure in the campaign there, of course, and that city, being the home of John Lind, may surprise the Republicans by turning strongly toward the Democracy.

Murderer Escaped.

RACHIE RAPS AT EBERHART

Speaks at State Prohibition Convention at Minneapolis.

Also Refers to John Lind as Friend of County Option.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 300 delegates to the state Prohibition convention were called to order at 10 o'clock by George W. Higgins, state chairman. A. L. Markoe of Hennepin county was chosen temporary chairman. John F. Shields of Hennepin county was named temporary secretary.

Robert H. Kappen of Springfield, Ill., formerly candidate for vice president on the prohibition ticket, was then introduced as the speaker. Then Representative E. E. Lobeck of Alexandria, the Prohibition member of the house, introduced Elias Rachie, who began his county option speech. Upon adjournment the delegations from the various congressional districts went into caucus and each selected its member of the resolution committee. Adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Will Not Back Eberhart.

Elias Rachie, legislative superintendent of the Minnesota Anti-Saloon league, practically announced that he would not support Governor Eberhart when he said in a speech at the prohibition convention in the Minneapolis courthouse:

"My support, whatever that carries, will not be given to any candidate for governor who influences his political friends, be they the newspaper men or not, to fight county option for the purpose that he can receive the united support of the liquor interests."

He preceded this statement with a reference to John Lind, a friend of county option.

JUDGE CHAMBERS TO SERVE AS MEDIATOR.

Wahington, July 1.—Judge William L. Chambers of this city today was named as the third arbitrator in the pending controversy between the Missouri Pacific Railway company and its telegraphers. The controversy involves a dispute as to wages and hours of labor. Chairman Martin Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and Dr. Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor, are the other mediators under the Erdman act.

After the conference between mediators and representatives of conductors and trainmen of the Southeastern railroads, it was announced this afternoon that no definite arrangement had been effected, but that there was no likelihood of any break in the negotiations today. Hope still exists of adjusting the controversy without a strike.

THE TERRA NOVA,
In Which Capt. Scott Is to Seek the South Pole.

FIGUREHEAD OF THE TERRA NOVA.

ON THE DECK OF THE TERRA NOVA.

THE WHEEL OF THE TERRA NOVA.

The Terra Nova, commanded by Capt. Robert Falcon Scott, left London the latter part of June on a quest for the South Pole. She is scheduled to arrive at Lyttleton, N. Z., about Oct. 13. There more supplies will be taken aboard, including twenty ponies, thirty dogs and some motor sledges. These latter are expected to play an important part in the expedition. Capt. Scott has experimented with them in Norway and in the Alps.

Capt. Scott was the commander of the Antarctic expedition of 1901-04, whose record was beaten by Sir Ernest Shackleton. The discovery of the North Pole by Commander Peary has stimulated British desire for equal success in the South, and Capt. Scott had little trouble in raising funds to equip this present expedition.

SUES WAYMAN FOR SLANDER

Juror in Browne Case Files Suit for $50,000 Damages.

Chicago, July 1—Charles M. Spare, one of the jurors who held for the acquittal of Lee O'Nell Browne, the legislator charged with bribery, filed the praecipe in a suit for $50,000 against State's Attorney Wayman today. The sum named is sought as damages for alleged slander and libel. Wayman, in interviews, is said to have accused Spare of "hanging" the jury, and of winning over younger and more impressionable members of the jury. The state's attorney is also charged with stating in an interview that the jury was "fixed."

SUPERIOR WIFE'S THREATS CAUSE OF ARREST

Husband Brings Rival Saloonkeeper in Court to Stop Suicide.

That his wife had threatened to take poison and destroy herself if he did not swear out a warrant for the arrest of a rival saloon keeper, charged with selling liquor at his home, was the declaration of Valentine Maniak, proprietor of the Euclid hotel bar, whose license was revoked a few days ago, made yesterday in police court.

Maniak declared on the witness stand that the apprehension of the defendant, Peter Nadolski, another East end saloon keeper, was brought about with a great deal of reluctance on his part and for the sole purpose of frustrating a suicide.

Judge Parker acquitted Nadolski of the charge. The rivalry between Nadolski and Maniak is said to have been very intense.

A DREAM CAT.

"Some years ago early in the summer," says H. Addington Bruce in Success Magazine, "I dreamed that while out taking a walk I was suddenly attacked by a huge cat, which clawed ferociously at my throat. That was all there was to the dream, or at any rate that was all I remembered on awakening in the morning, and naturally enought I dismissed it from my mind as nothing but a dream.

"But when I found myself dreaming the same dream again and again I began to wonder what significance it would possibly have. Usually it varied greatly in minor detail. Always, however, the climax was the same—the cat had me by the throat and was biting and scratching viciously. Altogether I dreamed this dream not less than a score of times in six months.

"Shortly before Christmas I took a cold which settled in my throat, affecting it so badly as to require the attention of a specialist. Much to my astonishment it was then discovered that a growth had been developing for some time and that an immediate operation was necessary.

"Several weeks later, the operation having been performed successfully, it suddenly occured to me that I was no longer being troubled by the phantom cat. For the first time the meaning of the singular dream dawned upon me. 'It had been a genuine premonitory dream. Consciously I had been in utter ignorance of the dangerous growth in my throat. It had not progressed far enough to give me any pain or even to cause discomfort. At the same time the organic changes it involved had produced sensations plainly felt by what psychologists call the subconscious and manifesting through the subconscious to the conscious in the form of a symbolic dream."

ROMAN JUSTICE.

Westminster Review: The bar was an open profession in ancient Rome; the litigant enjoyed the utmost latitude in the choice of an advocate, whose right to represent his client in court was fully conceded. Slavish imitators of the Greeks in literature and art, the Romans asserted their entire independence in the domain of law. Their innovations had the stamp of originality; but these did not comprise any close connection between bar and bench. It is noteworthy that during a very long period in the history of Roman law there was no exact counterpart of our Judge. The magistratus was a public official charged with the administration of the law; the judex was a species of referee appointed by the magistrate to hear and report upon a particular case. Then there was an arbiter who acted alone, or with others, in arbitration cases (arbitria). Finally, there were recuperators who assisted in international questions.

The hearing before these various types of judex was called the judicum, as distinguished from jus, the hearing before the magistrates properly so called. The names of citizens qualified for serving as judices were inscribed in a public record known as the album. Moreover, litigants had the right of objection to a particular judex. Not only so, but this right was extended during many centuries to criminals who were tried before centumvirs and decemvirs, sitting on the permanent tribunals. If the Roman Bill Sykes never thought of putting forward the demand of his English congener that "we all ought to have a voice in making the laws as we suffer by," yet we may be well assured that he would not fail to take a sporting chance, make a prime favorite of the judge who was most reversed on appeal, and stronuously object to the others.

The point which calls for our special attention is that none of the men who discharged the various judicial or semi-judicial functions described were drawn, except in most exceptional cases, from the advocate class. Nor is it possible to conceive any arrangement better calculated than that in force in Rome to exclude their narrow, professional technicality from the settlement of civil cases. The presiding magistrates of the great criminal tribunals were seldom or never men who practised at the bar. Even in later times, when the distinction between jus and judicium had disappeared, and the functions of magistratus and judex were merged in one official, there is no evidence that the bench was recruited from the bar more frequently than before.

PREPARING FOR THE SABBATH.

American Hebrew: The Sabbath, including its complicated preparations, is rich and impressive material for a child's imagination. On Thursday evening the mother already prepares dough, goes to the market, cleans the fish, etc.

In the morning the baking of "chales" (bread). How bewitching for a child to watch the mother making different shapes of dough, smearing it with egg and decorating it with braids of different shapes and forms. A Jewish child gets the first lesson in what we call modeling by making make-believe "chales."

In the evening the mother prepares to meet the Sabbath. The child partakes in the household occupations and thereby gets habits of industry, order and regard for the rights and ideas of others and the fundamental habit of subordinating his activities to the general interest of the household.

This is especially true in regard to Jewish households where everything seems to be prescribed by law. Before darkness sets in on Friday the housewife lights in the dining room extra candles or a special lamp in honor of Sabbath and reads the blessing.

Quite often a child not yet able to talk will cover its face with its little palms, imitating the gestures of the devoted mother. The returning from the synagogue, the appreciative greeting, "Good Sabbath," the Kiddush, the blessing over wine, the special menu and the holiday spirit of all who participate has undoubtedly a soothing beneficent influence upon the child. After supper the time is spent in resting.

SUPPOSING A CASE.

Indianapolis News: Suppose within a few days a gentleman should arrive at London or Berlin from the far north claiming to be one or the other of the two discoverers of the long sought pole. Suppose he is received with high acclaim, is the subject of unlimited oratory, is the guest of honor at many banquets, the whole land rings with his praise. Suppose that a few days later another gentleman arrives from the far north with the claim that he, he alone, has discovered the coveted pole, and the man who has received the honors and the banquets has left nothing for him, although the first comer may prove to be a faker and a fraud.

Something very like this did once happen. The Spanish ambassador was expected to arrive at Southampton, England. A mischievous idea came into the head of Theodore Hook (born 1788, died 1841), novelist and journalist, and above all contriver of that diversion known as the hoax. The English fleet was lying off Southampton. Hook, then a young man, knew many of the younger officers. He formed his scheme and one morning a launch set out from the fleet and drew up at the quay.

In this launch was he who purported to be the Spanish ambassador, in almost royal robes, arrived two days before the expected time. The mayor of Southampton, who was to receive the Spanish envoy, was greatly flustered. It was all so sudden. He did the best he could. Several companies of soldiers, some on foot, some mounted, were called out. The bells were rung. The ambassador, accompanied by a number of young officers of the fleet, was escorted with much pomp to the mayor's palace. There was a banquet and speech making, one of the young officers acting as interpreter for the ambassador.

After it was over and the Spanish envoy was supposed to be on his way to London the true ambassador arrived. There was but a sorry reception for him. The other ambassador, who was Theodore Hook, having perpetrated the greatest hoax ever known on a mayor and a city ful, had exhausted the hospitality of the town. The scandal was so great, the mayor and the people of Southampton had been so outrageously sold, that to make any stir about the affair would only cause them to be laughed at all the more. With the exception of the dismissal of some of the naval officers who had taken part in it little was done and the affair was allowed to blow over.

FRENCH WRITERS EARN LESS.

While the serial story is if anything more popular than ever as a newspaper feature in France, Robert Sherard writes in "My Friends the French," that the remuneration of the writers of this kind of fiction is not as good as it used to be.

That is because the editors find they can get very good fiction from foreign publishers. The payment for the translation rights of a good English, Russian, Italian or German novel would not amount to the twentieth part of the fee which would be demanded by one of the popular masters of the feuilleton.

Formerly these fees were very large. According to the Bookman, Jules Mary used to receive 30,000 francs for first serial use of one of his thrillers. That would represent about half of what the manuscript would produce, for after the tale had appeared in the paper the publishers who issue tales in ten centime parts would pay him another 25,000 francs for this use.

D'Ennery, the author of "The Two Orphans," received a franc and a half a line. One of his novels, "An Angel's Remorse," brought him 70,000 francs. But free trade in fiction, says Mr. Sherard, has injured the home manufacturers. The French publishers can get good translations for low sums. Hachette whenever a large price is asked for an English novel produces a receipt signed by Charles Dickens. It is for a sum of twenty pounds and refers to a novel called "David Copperfield."

KINDNESS AND SYMPATHY

By AMANDA MOORE.

The great need of life is not for wealth nor pleasure; the need of life is for kindness and sympathy.

And oh, how exquisitely and tenderly Jesus knew this, and could detect among the pressing throng the trembling touch of a finger-tip on His robe! "Master, the multitude throng Thee, and sayest Thou, who touched Me? Somebody hath touched Me."

Touched by our infirmities, with a special, discriminating love, so we come to believe that there is not a single throb in a single human bosom that finds not its loving and tender response on high.

How grateful I feel that our ideas of God are growing better, more loving and true, more like our Lord would have us think, as the years go by.

I was a very mischievous child, but ever, I think, a bit nervous and sensitive. I suffered always from severe headaches, and I still remember the dreams which used to torment me before these attacks come on. The worst was always a dream I used to have of the judgment day.

A child is the most secret, mysterious being in the world. Not one of you fathers and mothers know the strange thoughts and fears of that child of yours, whose life seems open to you.

So, of course, I hid my terrors from my father and mother. I told them occasionally to an old servant we had. Poor old Jane! How she used to thrill, I am sure, as I told her my dreams!

As a child I would read anything and everything, but read I would, and must. One day I had read everything I could put my hands upon, and I unexpectedly came across a religious magazine and after reading all that was readable, I was at last driven to read the sermon, written, as I afterwards found by a man who stood very high in the world of preachers; but I have never quite forgiven him for that sermon, and the way it chilled my little heart.

It was called "The Three Woes, and, from what I remember, was a terrible picture of the fate of sinners at the last day; and, as I felt sure I could never attain the uncomfortable height of godliness by which we could be saved, I had a pretty firm conviction that the preacher had shown me my destiny also

Oh, the trouble I was in if a thunderstorm came on, especially at night, for I believed it was just like God to catch us at the moment when we were least prepared!

How passionately I envied Christians who could leave the City of Destruction and start on a real journey, while we poor folks never really knew "where we were," whether we had ever really started at all. One result of all this is, I have never spoken to my children of the judgment day, never consciously said a word to make them frightened at the thought of their Heavenly Father, or placed a stumbling block in their way to Him.

THE PLEASURES OF WALKING

By MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

Though very many people need never expect either to ride or drive, still every one who has two feet may walk. It is a good thing to learn to enjoy pedestrianism. Possibly few of us walk enough. A person in good health should not be satisfied with a walk, in this climate, of less than three or four miles a day. There are women who have accustomed themselves to much longer walks than this and who in good weather think nothing of walking eight or ten miles at a stretch.

To get the full benefit of a walk one should wear a comfortable shoe, broad-soled, low-heeled, and fitting well over the instep. A short skirt is also desirable, as nothing hampers one in walking so much as having to hold a long trailing skirt. To get the full advantage from walking it should not be sporadic, but should be undertaken as a duty at a certain hour every day.

As a solitary walk is only enjoyed by one of a reflective turn of mind, it is best to secure the company of some one who enjoys the same amusement. Two friends, or a group of friends, in fine weather may easily undertake to walk through a county or a state, taking some days for the excursion and stopping over night at convenient farm houses or inns.

For this outing some provision must be made against rain, and a raincoat and light umbrella must be carried. Very little luggage must be taken when one walks for pleasure, and it is well on long excursions to pack a grip or telescope beforehand, and send it by express to meet the party at an objective point. Students often take long walking tours, coming home bronzed and clear-eyed, with muscles firm and buoyant health also with a minute acquaintance with scenery impossible to gain when it is seen from the top of a bus or the window of a steam car.

AVENUE IN BAD SHAPE

Laying of Water Mains Delays Paving of Garfield Avenue.

The Traction Company Has Its Work Nearly Completed.

Work on Garfield avenue is progressing too slowly to suit those most deeply interested, but the fault is largely due to the city.

The board of public works asked the water and light department before the contract was let if anything would be done this year in the way of enlarging the mains. Manager L. N. Case told the board members, they say, that no work could possibly be done this year. After the contract was let, Mayor Cullnan devised ways and means for raising the necessary money, and it is probable that the contract for the bigger mains will be let next week. The sinking fund commission will purchase $50,000 worth of bonds from the water board and about half that sum will be applied to the Garfield avenue improvement. In the meantime the street is torn up on one side and will have to stay that way until the water mains are laid. The side open for traffic is in extremely bad shape. The pavement between the car tracks is also torn up, and new heavy rails are being laid. This work is nearly completed. Traffic is greatly hampered, but Contractor McDonnell promises that as soon as the preliminary work is done he will push the work to completion as rapidly as possible. He has a big crew on the job now, and will increase it as soon as he is able to use the additional men.

INHERITANCE TAX BILL IS PASSED

New York Legislature Finally Ends Extraordinary Session.

Albany, N. Y., July 1.—Under an emergency message from Governor Hughes, the assembly today unanimously passed the Merrit graduated inheritance tax bill, which is expected to give the state an additional $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 in annual revenue.

The measure as amended and passed by the assembly was enacted by a vote of 38 to 4 and the bill providing for an appropriation of $25,000 for the expenses of the extraordinary session was passed in both houses.

The direct tax bill failed of enactment. Having been advanced to third reading in the assembly it was sent to the revision committee. The measure was not considered in the senate, nor did the Grady-Frisbie Democratic direct primary bill come to a vote.

The members of the legislative corruption probe committee were appointed by the president of the senate and the speaker of the assembly.

Committees from both houses appointed to wait on the governor having reported that the executive had no further communication, the assembly adjourned on motion of leader Merritt at 12:50 and one minute later the senate session came to an end.

FIRST ENGLISH WOMAN SMOKER.

Millgate Monthly: Mary Frith, better known as Moll Cutpurse, was a notable figure in old time London life. She had the reputation of being the first woman to smoke tobacco in England.

The length of her days is a disputed point, but it seems certain that she attained the age of over threescore years and ten. It is asserted that constant smoking prolonged her life. A portrait representing her in the act of smoking forms the frontispiece of Middleton's comedy of the "Roaring Girl." She also figures in other plays of the period.

Mary was the daughter of a shoemaker living in the Barbarican, and Malone gives 1584 as the date of her birth. She early took to wicked ways and became a noted "highwayman." Among her familiar friends were the notorious Capt. Hind and Richard Hannam. She was an expert swordswoman. Single handed she robbed on Hounslow Heath Gen. Fairfax of 200 gold jacobuses, shooting him through the arm and killing two of his horses on which his servants were riding. For the offense she was committed to Newgate, but on paying the general £2,000 she obtained her liberty.

At one time Mary had £3,000 of her own, but by giving money to distressed cavaliers she died comparatively poor. Her death took place in July 1659, and she was laid to rest in St. Bridget's.

THE OLDEST LOVE LETTER.

Addressed Over 4,000 Years Ago to the Writer's "Little Ewe."

A love letter 4,000 years old has lately been discovered in Chaldea. The lady to whom it was addressed lived in Sippara, the Biblical Sepharvani. Her beloved was a resident of Babylon.

In chronicling this interesting discovery the Corriere della Sera of Rome calls attention to the fact that in contrast to the position which women hold at the present day in the Orient they possessed in antiquity a great degree of freedom. In many respects the Oriental woman of antiquity was graced with as much privilege as is the modern European woman. Particularly in Chaldea she could participate in trade, manipulate her own property, be a witness before the court and be the guardian of her own children.

Of the position of women in Egypt we know less, but doubtless it was much higher than that of the present Mohammedan women. In one respect, however, it seems that custom has changed very slightly, for marriage was essentially an affair of trade between the parents of the bridegroom and those of the bride.

This is ascertained from the legal code of Hammurabi, king of Babylon, B. C., 2200. The future husband paid the price of the bride and her father provided for her dower and trousseau. Under these circumstances there was no such courtship as precedes marriage in accordance with Occidental ideas.

Still one may believe that many a love letter on papyrus or clay passed secretly between the hands of the bridal pair during the interval of their engagement. The newly discovered letter is written in clay and probably dates from 2200 B. C. It reads:

To the lady, Kasbuya (little ewe), says Gimil Marduk (the favorite of Morodach) this: May the sun of God of Marduk afford you eternal life. I write wishing that I may know how your health is. Oh, send me a message about it. I live in Babylon and have not seen you, and for this reason I am very anxious. Send me a message that will tell me when you will come to me, so that I may be happy. Come in Marchesvan. May you live long for my sake.

Doubtless the summons to come in Marchesvan is based on the writer's wish that she may have an opportunity to share with him the festivals of that month and the gayety that comes with them. Though Egypt has so far failed to yield a single love letter, it can claim to have the most beautiful love songs, says the literary digest. Of all the nations of antiquity, it may most fittingly be called "the land of eternity." There death was only an incident of life, and woman was man's "beloved sister" as well in the "hidden land" as on earth.

This beautiful side of the Egyptian character is shown most clearly in the celebrated Song of the Harpist, of the year 2500 B. C., which was sung at the Egyptian festivals: "Graciously grant us days free from sorrow, Holy Father. Come nearer! Behold, ointments and perfumes bring we unto you; blossoms and lilies do we bring to adorn the neck of your sister—of her who lives in your heart, of her who sits there beside you. Come near finally. Music and song are greeting you. And the days of sadness—these have sunk away and radiant joy is smiling and will smile till the day on which you will pass into the land that loves eternal silence."

THEY'RE NOT FIGHTING.

Washington Post: In the midst of the general acclaim of Cook and Peary and the glorification of American spirit which is so manifest in their splendid success let us not forget the Eskimos and the dogs. There cannot be too much praise for the leaders for their bold, brilliant efforts in the name of their country. But it is taking nothing from their victories over the elements to recognize the heroism and the faithful service of the dogs, which have again proved the best and truest animal friend of man. Here's to the men of the North and the dogs of the North who helped to lash the Stars and Stripes to the pole!

THEY AGREED WITH THE ASP.

A gentleman who had been unceremoniously hustled out of a playhouse because he hissed when the curtain fell on the second act brought an action for damages against the manager of the said house.

The court decided in favor of the hissing gentleman, adding that if a spectator is allowed to show his delight by indulging in applause his neighbor has also the right to show disapprobation in an audible fashion.

But the law in France was not always so tolerant, says the Gentlewoman. In the middle of the seventeenth century it was strictly forbidden to hiss in a playhouse; and in every theater there were a number of "Gardes Francaises" with strict orders to arrest any person infring the law.

But the French are not easily put down by silly regulations, and whenever they see an opportunity they attack the authorities with that fearful weapon—ridicule. In this case such an opportunity came at the Comedie Francaise during the performance of "Cleopatra," a play by Marmontel.

It was a badly written, dull work, and the people were waiting for a chance to give vent to their opinion. At last the chance came. The management had ordered a mechanical asp for the great scene in the final act, when Cleopatra put an end to her life.

The actress raised the asp, which started hissing, whereupon a spectator arose and cried: "The asp is quite right. We all share his opinion!" Roars of laughter greeted this joke, and as it was foreseen that a similar scene would take place every night the piece was withdrawn from the repertoire.

LONDON MULBERY TREES.

London Daily News: Finsbury Circus gardens, which have just furnished fruit for the lord mayor, are by no means the sole city haunt of the mulberry tree. The "wisest of trees," as Pliny termed it, evidently "likes London," and flourishes even at the Charterhouse in murky Smithfield. A thriving little sapling has recently been planted in the picturesque northeast corner of St. Paul's churchyard hard by the spot where once stood the famous Paul's Cross. Asked how the prospective fruit would be protected from marauding street arabs, chapter gardener replied, "I hope he won't never bear no berries in my time."

London mulberry trees are supposed to derive their descent from an attempt of James I to found a silk growing industry, but seem really to have been introduced by the Romans. Another unlikely tree which appears to do well in the heart of London is the fig, numerous specimens of which can be seen flourishing under the most depressing conditions.

PURSUIT OF THE CARIBOU.

Fry's Magazine: In caribou hunting as a rule the open countries are traveled on fine warm days and the green woods during stormy spells. It is the unanimous opinion of those who have followed the sport for many years that a lengthy trip should be planned to insure satisfaction.

In the country at the head waters of the Tobique and Nepisiguit rivers, New Brunswick, several weeks or a month are desirable if you want a record head. Should, however, one be hampered for time, a steady hunt, regardless of weather conditions, is kept up. This is not only the hardest kind of work, but is not satisfactory. Many a time have hunters stalked a herd in the greenwoods. Finally they picked out the apparently best head and brought it down.

As the report echoed throughout the wood the balance of the herd scattered only to reveal as they passed an opening that more than one larger head could have been procured. This after hours of wet drenching work rather rankles the most sublime temper. For this reason, if for no other, is the late fall preferred by experienced men to any other time. It may take longer, but there on the hillsides in the clearings is the game in full view, and though requiring hours to stalk few mistakes are apt to be consciously made.

Each year adds some knowledge to the pursuit of caribou. They are generally found in herds of from three to twenty and some experts can tell them the same as cows. This, however, is for short distances such as 100 yards or so—the call is very high and hard to imitate—when they will have the herd under their charge to investigate.

The color of the antler is governed more or less by the nature of bush on which they clean them of the velvet. The big bulls do not lose one antler as early as the larger specimens of the Newfoundland caribou, though many will drop the antler about the first of November.

Like all creatures bearing antlers, their growth of such blood vessels is regulated by the temperature of the winter and the fall of snow—all of which affects the food supply. If the winter is open, the summer warm, you may look for record heads. They differ from the Newfoundland caribou in that the big bulls here always keep the lead and do not follow in the rear.

CARE OF STORE FIXTURES.

Although brass fixtures when new have a fine coat of lacquer to keep them from tarnishing, their protecting layer soon disappears before the attachs of the cleaner. Instead of wrestling then with the problem of keeping the unprotected brass bright another coat of lacquer can be put on.

Instead of sending the fixtures to the factory for this purpose solve the problem for yourself by applying the following solution: Gum shellac dissolved in alcohol makes a thin varnish which is applied with a small brush; 10 cents worth of shellac is enough and enough alcohol to make it thin. This is enough to cover many fixtures and the work can be done in less than an hour.

To prevent your nickel fixtures from rusting, especially when you store them in the basement, says the Shoe Retailer, go over them with a cloth dampened with linseed oil, wrap the nickel-plated parts in paper. When you need use your fixtures you will not have any rust to contend with.

Many metal stands have glass tops. These tops, from frequent handling, get quite dull in appearance. To bring back the original sparkle and crystal effect to the glass all you need to do is to cover the glass with a coating of whiting dissolved in water and ammonia. When dry rub briskly with dry cheesecloth and you will have a beautifully polished glass top.

THE KUKUKUKUS.

There are a few native villages around Kerema, Paupua, all friendly to the government, which they regard as their chief protection from the mysterious and much dreaded Kukukuku tribe.

These Kukukukus sound more like something of the mediaeval goblin story than anything modern and real. They are cannibals, says the Wide World Magazine, and live high up in the unexplored ranges one can see from the shore. Their neat yam and taro gardens, check the upper peaks like the tiny squares on a plaid coat, suggesting that the cannibals are industrious and orderly and fond of a relish with their food.

At times they descend in small, active parties upon the tribes of the coast and stalk them from the shelter of the bush until an opportunity occurs of cutting off one or two alone.

They are little, quick and cunning, and their death-dealing raids often take place without exciting any suspicion on the part of the victims' friends until gaps among the ranks of familiar faces tell their silent tale.

Not long before the writer's visit they made a descent down to the very beach, hidden by the forest, darted out, captured two of the children playing on the shore and vanished with their prey before any one in the village had time to take alarm. The other children told the tale and the magistrate went out with a handful of native police to ambush the murderers by night on their way back to the hills and capture them if possible.

A volley fired in the dark was the only punishment the cannibals received, however, for they discovered the ambush and got away in their usual mysterious fashion before the police could follow up their fire. Traces of blood on the path showed that it had been effective, but the wounded or dead were spirited away with the rest.

Until last year no white man and few natives had even seen a Kukukuku, though they had been the scourge of the district for years. One or two, however, were captured at last and taken to Port Moresby. They proved to be small, active, ugly men, very wild and uncivilized, and so nervous that they tremble all over when looked at. A government official said to the writer in all seriousness:

"Be sure you don't frighten the cannibals; they are very nervous."

CORNER IN 3 CENT PIECES.

The disappearance of the 3-cent piece has for years been a matter of mild speculation. Few persons are aware that a large proportion of the coins of this denomination which remained in circulation when the government stopped issuing them are peacefully slumbering in sundry large fat canvas bags in the vaults of a certain electrical manufacturing company of Chicago. They are not for sale just yet, says the New York Sun.

Each of the coins is an evidence of petty larceny.

Years ago the company equipped many telephone pay stations with dime slot machines. It was supposed that they could be worked only with dimes. The 3-cent pieces were becoming rare and no thought was taken of them.

Hardly six months passed before one of the telephone companies discovered that the collectors were yielding a harvest of 3-cent pieces. Then from all over the country came similar complaints.

Each company forwarded the pieces to the manufacturing company and more or less politely asked that a corresponding number of dimes or a check for an equivalent amount be sent back in exchange.

A council was held at the office of the manufacturing company. The cost of correcting the boxes was compared with fairly trustworthy information of the number of 3-cent pieces in circulation. It was found that a balance was in favor of the 3 cents and it was decided to accept the pieces as dimes.

Gradually the inpour of 3-cent pieces narrowed down to an intermittent current. The company seemed to have about all the pieces.

It is said that if ever the premium on 3-cent pieces goes high enough the coins will be offered to collectors at prices based upon the original cost to the company, plus 6 per cent a year, plus cost of storage, plus cost of guarding, plus cost of carrying the fund upon the books. Long ago the slot machines that collected them were relegated to the scrap heap.

DOCTORING ORIENTAL RUGS.

Scientific American: Of the hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Oriental rugs brought into the United States annually many of them are what is known to the profession as "washed rugs." This means that brightly colored Oriental rugs are sometimes washed with a solution of chloride of lime, a treatment which partly bleaches the colors and imparts a soft appearance to the rug.

The chemical treatment is a process of washing which produces the effect of age and a peculiar sheen to the surface, which is pointed out by many dealers as a proof of superior quality. The fact is, however, that the process of washing invariably weakens and in some instances destroys the materials of the rug.

The progressive effect of the chemical treatment of the rug is this: The chlorine gas contained in the chloride of lime attracts oxygen and moisture from the air, by which muriatic acid is formed. This eats away the vitals of the fabric. Sooner or later the wool and cotton in the rug become brittle, and thus weaken the warp and deteriorate the wool. When this deterioration is complete the pile of the rug may be swept away by the ordinary process of sweeping, and the warp, which is the foundation of the rug, becomes so weak that holes appear here and there and soon the rug is worthless.

It not seldom happens that a Persian rug is too glaring in some bright hue, perhaps red, and is not salable. An unscrupulous dealer will subject the rug to the series of washings in chemically prepared water. In this way he turns out a rug possessing a soft antique sheen that is truly captivating and finds a ready purchaser for the doctored floor covering.

RELIC OF FRENCH REVOLUTION.

London Globe: The knife of the guillotine used at the execution of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette has been discovered in the museum of a private collector in Brussels. This gruesome relic seems well authenticated.

From a note by M. Gustave Babin in the Illustration it seems that M. Dubois, director des Halles de Bruxelles, acquired it by purchase in 1843 from Mme Roch, widow of the executioner des hautes oeuvres. Up to this time Mme. Roch declared that it had never passed out of her possession. The late M. Deibler claimed it, but as he would not pay the widow refused to accede to his request. He complained to the Minister of Justice, with the result that the widow was desired to take the blade to the Archives. But as the state seemed to emulate M. Deibler's parsimony the widow stuck to her grim souvenir and sold it to M. Dubois.

The humorous side of this relic follows, but we must first complete the title. M. Roch received the knife from his predecessor, M. Hendercich, who himself had obtained it from Henri Sanson, the last descendant of the dynasty of this name. Now, Henri Sanson was the grandson of he executioner of the hapless king and queen.

He was dismissed from his high office on account of a scandal. The executioner suffering from the "res augusta," had to raise a loan, and his fertility of idea succeeded where most men would have failed, and to tell the truth he pawned the guillotine. And, adds a Paris contemporary which relates the story, "La Veuve chez la Tante; cette rencontre parut intolerable." As an instance of morbid humor this is "faclie princeps." The recent sale by auction of the guillotine can only be classed "proxime accessit."

NO INCREASE IN SICKNESS

Citizens Are Healthy Despite the Unfavorable Weather Conditions.

Many More Complaints of Insanitary Conditions Are Registered.

The continued hot weather today brought in another bunch of complaints against insanitary conditions in the city.

They are getting worse each day and seem to be beyond the control of the health department. In many cases absolutely nothing can be done, as the lack of rain and the low water is entirely responsible.

People cannot get enough men to cart away the putrid garbage which is collecting. Those in the business have more than they can handle and the calls are becoming more congested every day.

No noticeable increase in sickness, particularly in the contagious diseases has been noticeable, but Dr. Webster, health commissioner, is fearful of the possibilities. He states that he is pleasantly surprised that more illness has not already been reported to the department.

As it is the department records show Duluth to be in an exceptionally healthy shape. The scarlet fever is the lowest it has been for months, with only about thirty cases on the books as compared with over 100 last spring. There are less than half a dozen cases of diphtheria and little smallpox or chicken pox.

The condition of some of the streams running through the city is terrible. No water feeding into them, the stagnant stuff lies and gives off a fearful stench. At some places along the river and bay front where the water is rather shallow similar complaints have been made to the department. One came in this morning from residents in the vicinity of Elliott's slaughter-house, but the condition is said to be beyond their helping.

thrives on a diet of tallow candles and walrus blubber. But the Eskimo knows nothing about a temperature of 97 degrees in the shade. If he did he would have to revise his bill of fare.

It is a mistake for any one to overload his stomach during warm weather with hot, greasy, heavy and indigestible foods. To do so causes sickness.

In order to supply the nourishment required to keep the machinery going, a simple diet in which there is a large proportion of will be found both refreshing and wholesome. Clarified milk is good for drinking and for cooking purposes. It contains all the food elements you need, and it is so pure that it can harm no one.

THE BEST DRINK

BUTTER-MILK

A health drink — better than beer. We sell all the buttermilk from our butter factory. The people like it, that's the reason such enormous quantities are consumed in Duluth.

The piece will be given tonight, tomorrow and Sunday nights, with a Sunday matinee.

"Old Heidelberg" will be next week's bill, beginning with a special Fourth of July matinee.

McCUMBER BY 5,000

Later Returns Made From the North Dakota Primaries.

Burdick Seems Likely to Win Over Sharpe---Henry in the Lead.

Fargo, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty-one counties give McCumber, 11,318 and Marshall, 8,763, for the long term senatorship. It looks as if McCumber will have at least 5,000, probably 6,000 majority on complete returns.

The insurgents have reversed conditions on the short term senatorship and Gronna has defeated Engerud, stalwart, by from 3,000 to 5,000. Hanna will have 10,000 to 12,000 plurality for congress and Helgesen about a third to half that amount.

Johnson will have 3,000 plurality for governor.

Burdick Likely To Win.

It is very close between Burdick and Sharpe for lieutenant governor, with Burdick likely to win.

The vote of House has cut down Henry's vote for secretary of state, but he is still in the lead over Norton.

The stalwarts have nominated Gilbreath for commissioner of agriculture, Olson for state treasurer, Taylor for state superintendent and Flittie, for state auditor.

The insurgents have named Taylor for commissioner of insurance and Miller for attorney general.

On railroad commissioner, Mann and Anderson are certainly nominated and third place appears to be between Purcell and Stutsman. Mann was indorsed by both factions. Anderson and Stutsman by the insurgents and Purcell by the stalwarts.

WILL NOT USE OLD STATION

Endion Station Put in Shape for Use Only in Emergency.

The announcement that the old Endion pumping station has been put in shape for use in case of emergency was received with alarm by many people, who declare a typhoid epidemic would result should the station be used.

There is only the slightest chance that the Endion station will ever be used again. While present conditions prevail and the Lakewood plant is working almost to capacity, a portion of the city would certainly be plunged into a water famine if the big electric pump should break or a serious fire should break out. In that event it may be necessary to pump water into the mains through the Endion station, but that would be the last resort.

The danger of typhoid from the Endion plant is regarded as remote, as an extension was made after the typhoid epidemic, and the plant afterward supplied water to the city.

SAYS DULUTH IS HOTTER THAN RANGE.

Former Mayor Charles Jesmore of Eveleth is in the city for a few days. Asked how the weather suited him, he said that if the temperature would mount 4 or 5 deg. it would be eminently satisfactory to him. He remarked that when he left Eveleth yesterday morning snow was falling. He didn't say it was falling in Eveleth, however.

"It is cooler there than here," said Mr. Jesmore. "The altitude is greater than that of Duluth, and the wind reaches the city, while here the hill shuts off the breeze from the inland."

Mr. Jesmore is one of the most prominent and active Democrats in St. Louis county and is widely and favorably known. He is being urged to become a candidate for sheriff, but will take no action in that direction, if at all, until after the Democratic county convention is held at Eveleth July 23.

WHEAT HAS AN UPTURN

Prices Advance in All Markets Following Three Days' Decline.

Flax Dull and Steady---Quiet in Face of Holidays.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 1.—Wheat advanced in all markets today. Trading was of an evening up character and moderate. The country strengthened its long position while the professionals got out of their wheat generally for the holidays Many shorts covered. July wheat opened at $1.12 asked and sold at $1.11½, $1.11¾, $1.14 and $1.13¾, closing with sales at $1.14. September opened at $1.06¼ and sold at $1.07, $1.05⅝, $1.07⅝, $1.07⅛, $1.08, $1.07½, $1.08¼, $1.07½ asked and closed $1.07½ asked. December opened at $1.04 asked and sold at $1.04¼, $1.05¾ and closed $1.05 asked. July closed 1½c over yesterday. September ⅝c over and December ¾c over.

Flax was dull and comparatively steady. July was $2.09 bid and sold at $2.10, closing with offers at $2.10. September opened at $1.93 bid and sold at $1.97, $1.93 and closed $1.93 asked. October opened at $1.81 and sold at $1.85, $1.81 and closed at $1.81.

Cash wheat was 2c over July. The mills offered 2¼c over. Oats closed ⅜c up, rye and barley were unchanged and durum was 1c up at the close.

Wheat opened steady in the Southwest and easy in the Northwest. Liquidation continued from yesterday and the market felt a few stop loss orders. Liquidation soon ran its course, however, and the country began to buy on the break, forcing values upward. The market crossed yesterday's closing level before noon and around midday was quiet with a firm undertone. Most of the early trading was of an evening up character by professionals. The country not only is still long on wheat, but it has increased its holdings.

Winnipeg wired that the drought in Manitoba is broken and that the wheat plant is looking better. Reports from North Dakota were not so generally bullish although there was plenty of ammunition for the bulls. They were not so aggressive today as on other days this week, preferring to wait and take a new survey of the situation on Monday. The crowd is generally out of its long wheat and if the weather is bullish over the holidays the professionals figure that the market, after the decline, is in a position to respond to any buying movement that may materialize.

Shorts covered freely today as they were as unwilling as the bulls to take a chance on developments in climatic conditions in the next three days. Coming simultaneously with scattered buying by commission houses this short covering was a potent factor in sending values upward.

Northwestern receipts continue liberal, indicating that supplies on the farm were far in excess of estimates by the government and other guessers. Bulls have looked for smaller receipts as an indication that farmers considered the growing plant in serious danger. They are somewhat perplused at the steady arrival of grain. Farmers, aparently, are not so excited over the situation as some people think. Sales to arrive are fairly liberal and well-posted men declare that there are large supplies of old wheat in the country.

The prospects for a spring wheat yield of at least 200,000,000 bu are moderately good. Wheat in Southern Minnesota is in good shape. In South Dakota the plant has improved wonderfully in the last two weeks and should make about an average crop. In a fairly large part of North Dakota there is an even chance for an average crop. In some extreme Northwestern portions there will be more than average yield. In the central counties and in some of the northeastern and eastern localities the yield will be poor. In this unseasonable year conditions in North Dakota are conflicting, territory that usually falls down in a year having had more showers than the localities that generally get the most precipitation.

Lower temperatures were general throughout the Northwest today although it still was exceedingly hot. Rains were reported by scattered localities in North Dakota. The precipitation was light and was confined to those counties which have not had much moisture. The showers that fell in the northern and northeastern part of the state formed the first moisture that had appeared in several weeks. Not enough rain fell to cause an improvement in the plant in those localities. Wheat in the western and northwestern parts of the state is improving, according to dispatches to The Herald. Its color is better and prospects for an average yield are generally good although it is admitted that more rain is needed. Some of the early sown wheat in the eastern and central parts of North Dakota is almost a failure but recent showers have helped the late sown grain which may make more than half a crop if additional moisture materializes.

Reports to The Herald are almost unanimous in declaring that the flax plant is coming along in good shape. There has been sufficient moisture thus far in the big flax growing counties of Montana and Western North Dakota. East of the Missouri river there has been ample precipitation and the plant in many localities is spotted and shows the effect of dry weather and hot winds.

Thrashing returns as reported by the Southwest are bearish. In Missouri and Kansas the yields thus far have been excellent. The Northwestern mills have bought a small amount of the new wheat. Prices are favorable for a movement toward the Northwest to the detriment of Chicago.

MARKET GOSSIP

Broomhall cabled: Wheat opened under influence of larger offerings induced by weakness in America yesterday and ¾d lower. Following opening there was some support from shorts in October and this month advanced on small increase in monthly stocks and smaller cargo arrivals with private reports that Australia and India shippers are holding firmer. During the morning this advance was lost and the entire market became heavy with an additional decline of ¼d to ⅜d from opening. Profit taking was induced by continued highly favorable reports from Russia and increased estimates regarding the yield. Roumania is offering new wheat at 6 pence decline with crop prospects there excellent; cargoes there are freely offered at 3d decline and there is a report that the continent is reselling. Market at middday was weak and 1d to 1¼d lower than yesterday.

Corn was quiet and unchanged. Later there was a decline of ¼d due to wheat shipments from Argentine and continued larger plate offerings. Australian shipments 736,000 vs. 240,000 vs. 208,000.

Argentine shipments wheat, 936,000 vs. 1,1260,000 vs. 2,000,000. Corn 2,610,000 2,387,000 vs. 4,590,000. Visible supply wheat now, 1,148,000 vs. 4,250,000. vs. 736,000 vs. 1,440,000. Corn, 4,250,000 vs. 4,250,000 vs. 3,762,000 vs. 1,755,000. Wheat market weak, demand quiet; arrivals from interior fair and quality unsatisfactory. Corn, weak offerings, large demand. Arrivals from interior liberal.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Lack of Rain Overcomes Bull News in Wheat Pit.

Chicago, July 1.—An estimate of 26,209,000 bu as the total crop in Oklahoma with a condition of 91.6 was temporarily too much for wheat bulls today. Highly favorable reports from Russia and Roumania had a similar effect. But the absence of general rains in the Dakotas and Minnesota reasserted itself as the dominant factor. Accordingly prices went back to a higher level, overcoming some of the losses of the two preceding days. A great many sections Northwest were said to be too far gone now to benefit by a break in the drought. Short sellers appeared anxious to cover for the holidays, especially as predictions were for fair weather. The market opened unchanged to ⅜c lower with September at 97⅛@97⅜c, but turned gradually and advanced to 98@98⅛c.

The market went higher in consequence of an estimate that the average crop condition in the best wheat counties in North Dakota was only 30 per cent. The close was steady at a recession from top prices with September ⅝@⅞c net higher at 98@98⅛c.

Scarcity of offerings made corn firm. September started ¼ to ⅜c up at 60 to 60⅛c, touched 59⅝@59¾c, and then advanced to 60⅜c.

A large coterie of local speculators were buying because of shortage of feeding in the Northwest. The close was firm, with September ⅝@¾c net higher at 60?@⅛c.

Shorts and commission houses were purchasing oats. September trading began ⅛ to ⅛@¼c down influenced by wheat, with September at 37⅞@38 to 38c and reacted to 38⅛ c.

A flurry in July pork because of a rush of shorts to cover took nearly all attention in provisions. That option opened 30 cents higher at $24.00 and rose 15c more. Other products were 5c lower to 5c algher with September lard at $12.30 and September ribs at $12.35.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Firmer on Buying By Local Millers.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—The wheat market today was firmer on account of local mills buying July wheat. This option was very sensitive and the buying was not especially heavy, but it forced an advance of 8¾c from the day's low figures. The deferred contracts were firmer, but relatively to the near month they were easier. July closed 1½c higher than yesterday, September ⅝c higher and December ¼c higher.

There will not be another session until Tuesday and the chowd did not leave the pit either long or short any big amount of wheat. Local elevator stocks decreased 330,000 bu for the week. Minneapolis today received 196 cars of wheat against 130 cars a year ago; Duluth 38 cars against 28 cars, and there was no session in Winnipeg today.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Selling Causes Declines at Opening But Losses Are Recovered.

Not Sufficient Demand to Hold Prices and Decline Occurred.

New York, July 1.—The opening stock market today showed the resilient tendency from the extreme depression of yesterday carried over from the late dealings of the day before. General Electric opened at a rebound of 1¾, Northern Pacific and Chicago Great Western 1½, Canadian Pacific 1¼, Union Pacific, Atchison, Great Northern preferred, Reading, Southern Railway, Denver & Rio Grande, Anaconda and American Car a point and others a substantial fraction.

Stocks which were bought yesterday were sold on the opening advance, causing reactions of a point or more in some of the active stocks and driving some issues below yesterday's closing. The copper stocks made the initial display of weakness and were followed in turn by Reading and the Western railroad group. When prices had receded to about where they left off yesterday support began to show and there was some recovery. Dealings were in fair volume and there was an absence of yesterday's exciting features. Baltimore & Ohio, Amalgamated, American Smelting and Central Leather sold 1 below last night, Norfolk & Western 1¼ and Rock Island 1⅛. Several of the less active stocks made gains of between 1 and 2 points, including Missouri Pacific, Delaware & Hudson and Ontario & Western. The market showed considerable hesitation at 11 o'clock.

The demand for stocks seemed to come largely from uncovered shorts. With the satisfaction of that demand the market showed lack of vigorous support. Selling was renewed. Its concentration on the Rock Island and Wabash stocks gave the dealings the appearance of raiding tactics. Rock Island preferred ran off five points by 1 and 2 point intervals and rebounded 4 on one transaction. The common lost 4¾, Wabash preferred fell 4 and rebounded 2½, Atlantic Coast Line dropped 2½, Westinghouse Electric 2¼, Atchison 2, Southern Pacific, St. Paul and Amalgamated Copper 1½, Chesapeake & Ohio, Kansas City Southern, and American Smelting 1½, Reading 1⅜ and others a point or more. Bonds were irregular.

The more cheerful sentiment was reflected in an active and rising market. Advances of between 1 and 2 points were registered in a score or more stocks, including many of the market leaders. Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Atchison rose 2, and Reading and Louisville & Nashville 1¾.

The market closed irregular. There was not sufficient demand to hold prices and a decline set in carrying quotations downwards without much resistance. It was not until yesterday's last prices were approached that the market found a resting place again. From that point there was a rebound in the last few minutes, Missouri Pacific rising 3¼.

CITY NOTICES.

PROPOSAL FOR PURCHASE OF BONDS.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Duluth, Minnesota, will receive sealed proposals at the Council Chamber in the City Hall in the said City of Duuta at 7:30 o'clock in the evening on July 18, 1910, for the purchase of gold-bearing coupon bonds to the amount of $50,000 in denominations of $1,000, $500, $100 and $50 (except that where not inconsistent with the bids of said bonds shall be in denomination of $1,000.)

Said bonds are issued for the permanent improvement revolving fund, pursuant to authority of section 286 of the charter of the City of Duluth.

Said bonds are to be dated July 1, 1910, and will become due on July 1, 1940, bearing interest at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on January 1, and July 1, of each year according to interest coupons attached to each of said bonds: both principal and interest to be made payable in gold coin of the United States at the American Exchange National Bank of the city of New York; delivery of bonds and payment therefor to be made at the First National Bank of Duluth, Minnesota.

Said bonds to be paid for within ten days after notice that the same are ready for delivery.

The sale of said bonds will be awarded to the highest responsible bidder at a sum not less than par value thereof, and interest accrued to the date of delivery. Such sale shall be by popular subscription and actual residents of the city of Duluth shall be preferred in case of bids otherwise equal, and any person, including any actual resident of the City of Duluth may bid on one or more of said bonds. All bids for said bonds shall be without condition or qualifications.

Each bidder is required to file with the city clerk prior to 2 o'clock p. m. of said day, a certified check on or a certificate of deposit of a national bank, payable to the order of the City of Duluth, without condition for an amount equal to one (1) per cent of the full face value of the bonds to be bid for, or a good and sufficient bond in the said sum to be approved by the common council of said city, and conditioned that the party making said bid will, if awarded the sale, take the bonds and pay for them according to the terms of said bid and the ordinance; and that in case of failure so to do, the City of Duluth shall have the right to sue upon said bond and to recover the full face thereof, which shall be and in said bond shall be stated as being the sum agreed upon as liquidated damages in case of a breach thereof. And a condition of said bond shall be that the principal and sureties thereon expressly waive all questions of irregularity or illegality in any manner affecting the issue of said bonds, the intention of the bond being to provide for the payment of said sum of money absolutely without any condition or defense thereto.

Said bonds and checks shall at 2 o'clock p. m. of said day be submited by the city clerk to the city attorney for his opinion as to whether said checks and bonds conform to the conditions of the ordinance, and the bid of any person whose check or bond the city attorney shall deem to not be in legal form, according to the terms of the ordinance shall not be received unless such bidder shall have such check or bond corrected to meet the requirements of the city attorney or deposit a new bond or check duly approved by said attorney before 7:30 o'clock p. m. of said day.

In all cases of bids received, and not accepted, the check or certificate received therewith shall thereupon be returned. In case said bonds are awarded to any bidder and the said bidder refuses to accept and pay for said bonds, or any part therof, within ten (10) days after notice, oral or written, that same are ready for delivery, said delivery to be made at the First National Bank of Duluth, Minn., the said amount of the certificate of deposit or check so furnished to the city shall be retained by the City of Duluth, as its own, as and for liquidated damages for breach of the contract on the part of said bidder. In case any bidder furnishing such certificate of deposit or check shall take the said bonds, said sum shall be credited to him on account of the payment thereof. Each bidder must give his address, street and number.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved to the City of Duluth.

M'CUMBER MAY LACK VOTES REQUIRED BY NORTH DAKOTA LAW

New Question Is Raised in Figuring Up Primary Results.

Democrats Appear to Have Failed to Qualify for Election.

Two Positions Still Uncertain in the Republican Ticket.

Fargo, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—While McCumber has a lead over Marshall for the long-term senatorship in the primary election returns, the question was raised by his opponents this morning as to whether he had the 40 per cent necessary under the primary law to claim nomination to that office. There are two other candidates, Midtbo of Ward county and Hannafin of Burleigh. Incomplete returns indicate that McCumber may have about 44 per cent of the total vote, but should he fail, it will necessitate a further campaign.

Democrats in Trouble.

The Democrats of the state have apparently failed to secure the necessary 30 per cent of the vote cast for the Democratic candidate for secretary of state at the last election. If the primary law is constitutional, this failure will leave the Republican state ticket the only one authorized to go officially on the ballot, and the Democratic candidates for state offices will be forced to run on stickers. Litigation is likely to result.

There was only one contest on the entire state Democratic ticket—that for the long-term senatorship, between Former Mayor Duis of Grand Forks and Mayor Bruegger of Williston. Duis leads.

Two Positions Doubtful.

Only two positions on the Republican state ticket are in doubt now—those of secretary of state and state auditor. Only a few hundred votes separate Brightbill, the present state auditor, and Flittie, the stalwart candidate.

The vote of W. M. House for secretary of state cut into that of Frank Henry to such an extent that only the final returns will be able to determine whether Henry or Norton, insurgent, has won.

CHILD WELFARE MEETING ENDS

Parental Responsibility Is Discussed By William Q. Bennett.

Worcester, Mass., July 2.—Rev. William Q. Bennett, president of the Lehigh Valley Child Welfare conference, was one of the principal speakers at the closing meetings today of the second annual meeting of the Child Conference for Research and Welfare, which has been in session in Clark university since Tuesday last. He addressed the conference on "Parental Responsibility for Juvenile Delinquency." Other speakers were: Rev. Austin S. Garver of Worcester, and President G. Stanley Hall of Clark university.

LOOKING FOR INSURGENTS

Three Unnamed Ones Are Expected to Visit Oyster Bay.

Col. Roosevelt Is Careful to Show He Is Not Seeking Them.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 2.—Theodore Roosevelt as a "native oyster," in his own phrase, is to be more active this summer than faunal naturalists have hitherto found oysters, native or otherwise.

Col. Roosevelt does not wish to hedge himself about with formalities, and at the same time he has work to do which demands his time. Accordingly, all visitors come by appointment, but since there is no executive office here now to do the weeding out, appointments are made at the colonel's editorial offices in New York.

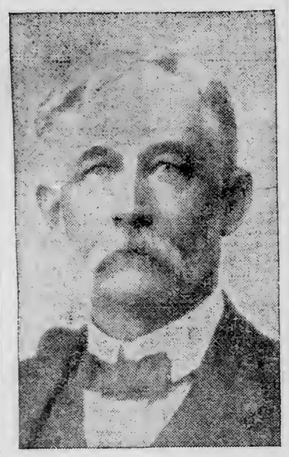

An important conference was expected this afternon with three Western insurgents, but their names were witheld until their actual arrival.

Not Courting Insurgents.

The colonel is painstaking in his informal chats, not meant for direct quotation, to indicate that he is not wooing insurgency. Insurgents come to him; he does not summon them. Governor Hughes asked him for an expression of opinion on direct primaries; he did not attempt to dictate.

Ususally, these seekers of counsel arrive by the noon train, take lunch at Sagamore hill and leave the same afternoon. Such guests as Oyster Bay designates as "big guns" come down late in the afternoon and stay all night.

MINISTER TO SWEDEN IN HIS HOME CITY

COL. CHARLES H. GRAVES.

BRAINERD YOUTH DROWNS IN CREEK

Harvey William Caird Loses Life Four Blocks From His Home.

Brainerd, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harvey William Caird, aged 19 years, son of Mrs. Wilson Caird of Northeast Brainerd, was drowned yesterday afternoon in Rice lake creek.

In company with three boys, he was rafting wood down the river close by. To shorten the distance home the boys took the short-cut across Rice lake creek and plunged into the water with their clothes on. Caird was not in the water very long before he was taken with a cramp and sank. He never came up again, dying within sight of his home only four blocks away. The day had been very hot and this coupled with his hungry and weakened condition probably caused the cramps which proved fatal. The water is reported not to have been very deep. The body was recovered at 6 o'clock last evening.

COL. GRAVES BACK HOME

American Minister to Sweden Returns After Five Years Absence.

Says Accounts of Reception to Roosevelt Were Not Overdrawn.

Found—One diplomat!

It pays to advertise in The Herald. Col. Charles H. Graves, United States minister plenipotentiary to Sweden, has been found. Yesterday The Herald printed a story about the distinguished Duluthian, narrating that his friends had not heard of or from him for a month and that they didn't know his whereabouts. Within a few hours Minister Graves, accompanied by Mrs. Graves, appeared at the Spalding hotel.

Col. Graves has not been in Duluth for five years and his stay here now will be a brief one.

"I am glad, indeed, to be in Duluth again and to meet and greet my old friends informally," said the minister this morning. "I have been gone from the city for five years and that is too long.

"It surprises me that the people have lost the grip they formerly had on a fine summer climate. Apparently it is time that I returned and set things right."

It was suggested that the weather today was much more endurable than that of yesterday, to which the colonel assented.

"But there is much room for improvement," he said. "It was extremely uncomfortable coming up from St. Paul on the train last evening. When our visit here at home is ended and we start for the East, we will take the lake route. It is a much more comfortable mode of travel.

"Coming up Fifth avenue from the depot the first thing that caught my MILITIA MARCH ON GETTYSBURG FIELD

Active Work in Camp of Instruction Begun By 5,000 Men.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 2.—Active work in the United States camp of instruction was begun today by the 5,000 regulars and militiamen now in camp on the famous battlefield here. The camp, which was formally opened yesterday, the forty-seventh anniversary of the first day's fighting at the battle of Gettysburg, is in command of Brig.-Gen. William M. Wootherspoon, U. S. A.

SECOND TOWN FEEDS FURY OF THE FIRE

Miscampbell, Ont., Is All Destroyed Except for One House.

Elmo Is Cut Off By Flames and Fort Frances Is Surrounded.

Canadian Northern Reports Big Losses in Buildings and Stock.

Washington, July 2.—A telegram received at the bureau of Indian affairs from the superintendent of the Nett Lake, Minn., Indian agency says the reservation is surrounded by forest fires. Authority was telegraphed for the expenditure of sufficient funds to prevent the encroachment of the flames upon the wood lands of the reservation.

Winnipeg, Man., July 2.—Another town—Miscampbell—has gone to feed the fury of the brush fires that have been raging in Ontario for the last few days. Only one building—a house—is left standing in that place today. That the destruction is not yet over is certain, for with varying winds the flames are being carried along in spite of the efforts of men who are trying to stay them. This morning Fort Frances was reported surrounded by fire, and communication is all but impossible now. Elmo, another Ontario city, was cut off from communication last night and it is feared that the place may be in ashes by this time.

Fear for Settlers.

Farmers in all parts of this section are abandoning their homes and taking their families and household goods to safety. It is feared that some of the settlers in the interior have been cut off by the fires and may not be able to escape.

The Canadian Northern railway announced today that its loss during this week by bush fires in the Rainy river district was 125 box cars thirty depots, station houses, freight sheds, water tanks and $500,000 worth of yard material.

Port Arthur, Ont., July 2.—Walter Lowe and Leonard Allen, sons of prominent families here, were drowned last night in Silver Islet lake, within sight of hundreds of persons on shore.

SWIMMING TO BE TAUGHT

Y. M. C. A. Offers Fine Opportunity to Youngsters of the City.

Free swimming lessons to the boys of Duluth!

That is what the boys' department of the Young Men's Christian association has planned and this opportunity is to be given without limits or conditions to the boys of the city. Every effort will be made that the boys and young men of this city shall learn to swim. The swimming pool at the Y. M. C. A. will be opened to the boys of the city from 10 to 18 years of age absolutely free during the month of July and this patriotic movement will be inaugurated Monday, July 4. The object will be to teach as many as possible to swim.

J. R. Batchelor, N. D. McLeod, A. B. Wegener and Al Olson of the Y. M. C. A. will be in charge. The lessons will continue every day from 9 to 11 o'clock in the morning during the entire month. The boys department wishes it distinctly understood that there is no eliminating conditions. The

HOT SPELL IN WEST BROKEN

Crop Prospects in North Dakota Are Regarded as More Hopeful.

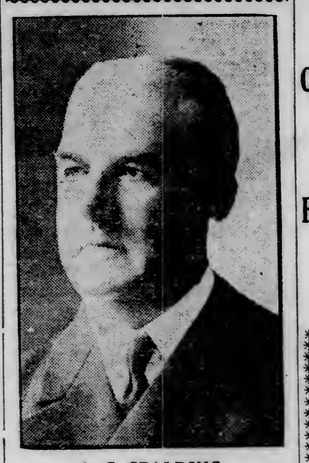

Crookston, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The hot spell is broken. Last night was chilly, with a northwest breeze, and crops will bear up better. No rains was reported at any point in the northwest portion of the state. The most hopeful indication regarding the condition of pastures in this district is that there is no falling off in creamery receipts. In fifty-one creameries canvassed yesterday a slight gain was reported. The cooler weather brings a more optimistic view of the situation. These are with shower indications.

Rain in Nebraska.

Norfolk, Neb., July 2.—The second heavy rain within a week fell last night over all of Northern Nebraska west of Inman and north from Spencer to Dallas, S. D., in the Rosebud reservation region. It is estimated over an inch of rain fell. The western Nebraska hay crop has been saved by this rain and other crops greatly benefited.

MAYOR MAY PROHIBIT USE OF FIREWORKS ON INDEPENDENCE DAY

IS ASKED TO RUN FOR SEAT IN THE SENATE

A. G. SPALDING.

San Diego, Cal., July 2.—A. G. Spalding has been formally requested by the business men of San Diego, Cal., to accept the nomination to succeed Frank P. Flint in the United States senate. Mr. Spalding for many years was prominent in the baseball world and gained national fame as a pitcher. He joined the Chicago club in 1876 and remained with it as consecutively, manager, secretary and president until 1891.

KIDNAPING TO BE CAPITAL OFFENSE

Louisiana House Passes Bill and Senate Will Do Likewise.

Baton Rouge, La., July 2.—Kidnaping is to be made a capital offense in Louisiana, both principals and accomplices being held culpable for the infliction of the death penalty. A measure to this effect was passed almost unanimously in the house here yesterday and it was stated today that no real opposition will develop against the bill in the senate.

Possibility of Rain Alone Prevents Him Taking Decisive Step.

City in No Shape to Cope With the Fire Menace.

Everything Dry as Tinder and Pumps Taxed to Capacity.

WARNING TO CITIZENS.

"To aid in the prevention of fire July 4, every man, woman and child in the city should use the utmost care and watchfulness.

"Prompt measures should be taken to stop the smallest blaze.

"Wherever possible the premises should be thoroughly wet with garden hoses or other means at the disposal of residents.

"No house should be left deserted from morning until night.

"Firecrackers should not be exploded close to the house, on or under the porch, on wooden walks, or on or about piles of rubbish or boards.

"Water should always be convenient and ready for instant use as many a bad conflagration has been prevented in its incipiency.

"Remember that the fire department will be taxed to the limit and send in alarms only when the cause is beyond control of yourself or your family.

"In short, take absolutely no chances whatever. The city is in the worst condition for a July Fourth celebration for years and all should stand ready to do their share to prevent even the smallest blaze.

FIRE CHIEF RANDALL."

The shooting of fire crackers or fireworks of any kind or size on July 4 may be absolutely prohibited by Mayor M. B. Cullum.

The possibility of rain before Monday is all that deters the city's chief executive from issuing ironclad orders to that effect.

The city is dry as tinder, the smallest spark offering possibilities of terrible conflagrations.

With a limited fire department and

BOY "DOCTOR" KILLS SISTER

Gives 10-Months-Old Baby Big Dose of Carbolic Acid.

Birmingham, Ala., July 2.—Word reached here today that while playing doctor, the 10-year-old son of W. S. Holcomb of Fort Payne, De Kalb county, yesterday took down a bottle of carbolic acid and administered a large quantity to his 10-months-old sister. The baby died in a few minutes.

NEW YORK IS "ALL HET UP"

Mercury Starts at 74 at 7 a. m. and Climbs Rapidly.

Fargo Has Hottest June Ever Known There and Gets Little Rain.

New York, July 2.—No relief was in sight today from the hot wave which for several days has held the eastern section of the country in its grip. The night was, if not the hottest of the season, at least the most oppressive, from the high humidity and lack of air stirring, and suffering, especially in the crowded sections, was great.

Four deaths and innumerable prostrations were reported yesterday, and continued heat was the local weather bureau's prediction today. The thermometer, which reached the minimum mark of 74 at 7 a. m., began rising rapidly after that hour and was standing at 78 at 8 o'clock. At that time the humidity level was 64, this high percentage of moisture, combined with the rising mercury, presaging further suffering.

Fargo Records Broken.

Fargo, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last June was the hottest ever known here, with a daily average of 69 deg. On sixteen days consecutively with one exception, the temperature went as high as 90 deg., and on two days consecutively it was 98 deg. The month is one of three in Government Agent Working on Reservations in Minnesota.

Miss Frances Densmore Is Visiting the Chippewa Tribes.

Brainerd, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Frances Densmore of the bureau of ethnology at Washington passed through the city this afternoon on her way to the Leech Lake Indian reservation, where she will make a special study of the music of the Chippewas, submitting her report on the Chippewas, having visited the Red Lake, Mille Lacs and other reservations. Several hundred of the tribal songs have been recorded on the phonograph and sent to the Smithsonian institute for preservation and reference.

Miss Densmore has taken these records, transcribed them in piano score and analyzed them scientifically. She has also made a study of Filipino music, and thinks the Chippewa music

TOY RAISES NEW ISSUE IN TARIFF

Magic Lantern Slides Have to Be Assessed, Say Appraisers.

Washington, July 2.—An important customs issue has been raised by Assistant Attorney Lloyd at New York, calling attention of the treasury department to a decision of the general appraisers' board that certain glass slides designed for use in toy magic lanterns are, although imported separately, dutiable as parts of toys. Acting Secretary of the Treasury Andrews has requested Mr. Lloyd to file in the name of the secretary of the treasury an application with the United States court of customs appeals for a review of the appraisers' board decision. The case involves material difference in tariff

A WARNING.

HENRY WATTERSON'S SON SHOOTS LIQUOR DEALER

Ewing Watterson Is Held for Assault at Saugerties, N. Y.

Resists Officer and Is Found to Be Heavily Armed.

Kingston, N. Y., July 2.—Ewing Watterson, son of Col. Henry Watterson, the well-known Louisville, Ky., editor, was arraigned today at Saugerties on a charge of first degree assault. It is charged that Watterson, who is 40 years old, shot and wounded Michael Martin, a saloonkeeper at Saugerties, yesterday. An application for bail was refused by Police Justice Rowe and the prisoner was committed to the Kingston jail for further examination next Thursday.

The assistant district attorney opposed the application for bail because he said it was too early to determine whether complications might render Martin's condition serious.

Carried Small Arsenal.

He declared that Watterson had struggled desperately with the officer who captured him, and that two loaded revolvers were found upon him after his arrest. Public safety, he said, demanded that such a man be kept under restraint.

Watterson's counsel asked a release

SHED COATS FOR MEETING

Members of Board of Education Reluctantly Discuss Heat Regulation.

Eight Candidates to Be Voted Upon at Coming School Election.

The members of the board of education shunned the conventions and shed their coats for their regular monthly meeting last night. The time wasn't exactly propitious for a discussion of temperatures, but the board members were plunged into the consideration of heat regulation in the high school building and for fifteen or twenty minutes they talked of fuel, temperatures, engineers, firemen, thermostats, radiators and other things that were wholly unnecessary to the building last evening.

The discussion was caused by an offer from the Johnson Electrical Service company of Milwaukee to install a temperature regulating system in the high school building at a cost of $2,800.

Director Stevens appeared in the role of watch-dog of the treasury. He didn't assail the heat regulating system, but he did assail the expenditure of any money except where absolutely necessary. He was opposed by other members of the board, who declared that the regulation of temperatures by hand valves is unhealthy and should be done away with in every building. The proposition was finally accepted.

The question of dancing in the schools was up again, Director Stevens, chairman of the committee to which the matter was referred, recommending that the petition for the prohibition of dancing in the schools be granted.

Mr. Stevens spoke on the question and Rev. C. G. Olson of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, and Rev. Bennett Erickson, pastor of the Swedish Bethel Baptist church, spoke at some length, declaring that the countenancing of dancing in the schools fosters a class spirit. They said that children who did not attend the dances were sneered at by the others.

Mr. Brewer said that a full board should pass upon the question. He said that he would be willing to restrict the dancing to the high school building in connection with class functions incident to the close of school, but he would not vote to abolish it altogether. After some discussion, the board decided to take the matter up at the next meeting, the attorney to prepare in the meantime an opinion on the right of the board under the law to allow dancing in the school buildings.

Albert Baldwin, L. A. Barnes, A. Borgen, Wilson G. Crosby, W. M. Evered, L. C. Harris, S. W. Hill and A. G. Macauley will be the candidates for school directors at the election to be held June 15. Three directors will be chosen, the terms of L. A. Barnes, W. G. Crosby and L. C. Harris expiring. All three are again candidates.

A petition was also presented to the board last night for the placing of W. H. Leonard's name on the ballot, but Mr. Leonard, in a communication to the board, requested that his name be left off of the ballot and his request was granted. Six petitions were presented in all, some of them containing the names of three candidates.

In order that the mooing of a cow may not disturb his slumbers, F. C. German last night agreed to purchase for $300 a small piece of land owned by the board at Lester Park. A Lester Park man has been in the habit of tethering the cow on the tract, which is opposite Mr. German's house and during the night, the cow has been disturbing the neighbors. Mr. German decided that the best way to get rid of the cow would be to buy the land. He says he will not allow its use as a pasture.

"SOLID COMFORT."

The seers and big medicine men of the Chippewa tribe of Indians predicted some time ago that when Halley's comet reappeared in 1910, the earth would burn up. Perhaps they were right. During the past two weeks, Duluth people have believed that the earth was burning, and a good part of it has been burning.

The country around Duluth is so dry on account of the lack of rain that a tiny spark is likely to start a large conflagration. Perhaps the seers and medicine men did not mean that the earth would be destroyed. If they intended to predict that the crops would be scorched by the hot rays of the sun and parched for lack of rain, that people would be broiled by the intense heat, that the forests would become dry and would burn over great tracts, their prophesy has been fulfilled.

Duluth has never known such a warm spell as that which preceded the comparatively cool weather of today. Temperatures of 90 degs were previously practically unknown in Duluth, but every day for over a week, the temperature mounted to above 90 degs at some period of the day and the high mark at the weather bureau on the hill was 97 degs in the shade.

The heat has not been confined to Duluth, but has been general all over the country, new records for heat being established in many places, especially in the northern states and in Canada.

An East end family has beaten the hot weather game. Their cellar is dry and cool so the other night when everybody felt like a wet dishrag and didn't care whether they lived or not, somebody thought of the cellar.

A small table was rigged up and family ate in comfort. In fact it was so cool that the men wore their coats. The only disadvantage to the scheme is that the grocery bills are higher than usual because everybody has a good appetite while they are in the cellar. Needless to say they feel somewhat languid after reaching the heat of the outdoors but to eat in comfort is worth whatever effects may transpire.

"Yes, sir," said the man who talks so everybody in the street car can hear him, "it was so cold that I had to put on my overcoat. Believe me, I wished I had been in Lakeside or Woodland, it was so cold. I positively suffered. You have no idea how one feels with the thermometer below—"

"Say," interupted a Lakesider and a Woodlander simultaneously, "who are you and what—"

"Oh, that's all right," said the man with the loud voice, "I work at a cold storage plant. I happen to be a night watchman and that hot night, the one when you couldn't sleep, you know, I just locked myself in a cooler, and believe me—" but he had no auditors.

The brave toiler rose bravely from her straw tick and had a nice warm bath. The steam filled the bathroom from the hot water run into the tub and a glowing red like unto a lobster formed in the wake of the sizzling water. A rough rub down with scratchy Turkish towels was followed by the donning of comfortable woolens. A little breakfast of pork sausages and buckwheat cakes with maple syrup and several cups of hot coffee followed and then came a smart walk to the office in the clear warm sunshine of the July morning. The walk was interrupted only long enough to order a sweater and pair of skiis sent up from the corner drug stores and a stop at the 10-cent store long enough to thaw out frozen ears. A fan was purchased at the next stop, and as the shopper hurried from the elevator she met Col. Roosevelt riding on an African lion right through the aisles of the store and attracting quite a lot of attention. After starting to follow the crowd attention was diverted by Maude Adams and the late King Edward playing a game of checkers right in the middle of Superior street and Johnson, who is going to beat Jeffries on Monday, was arranging a tennis tournament to be played on the top of the Alworth building. There was a special sale of overshoes and a pair was purchased—a nice high pair that somehow didn't go very well with the linen suit that also came from a half price sale and the criticism of all the passersby made ice cold shivers run down the back of the wearer, who dug her hands deeper into her muff and hardly noticed the sail boat that came booming down the avenue without sounding a word of warning. As she jumped aside much startled, President Taft leaned over the stern of the boat that was disappearing in a cloud of dust and spoke a short reprimand and then somehow congress and the senate and all the summer European travelers began to collect to find out what indignity had been offered the president of the United States, and things were looking serious indeed, for the crowd was getting so thick and so large, and everybody was at least eighteen feet tall, and just as hope seemed to have left, the police patrol came up and in the excitement the toiler stepped into an airship that was handy and started for the South Pole because Commander Peary, who was in charge, said that was where they were going just as soon as they stopped to get Ferdinand Pinney Earles, but Cook's aeroplane heaved in sight and they both started for each other, head on and——

"It's 8 o'clock, if you're going to get up today," threatened the member of the family who does the calling in the morning.

Oh, this heat!

"Look at the bird," said the man who notices things." You'll see another in a minute. Look, bless me if there arn't half a dozen. You see they can sight a street sprinkler half a mile away and they're on the job waiting for the water to be turned from the hydrant into the wagon long before the wagon is coupled up. The water overflows and if a bird is spry enough he can get a shower bath besides a fresh drink of cool water. And take it from me this Lake Superior water, fresh from the hydrant is just like a brewery to a bird. I've seen 'em stand on the corner after the wagon had left with their mouths open they were laughing so hard. They had to climb off the wagon, you see, to get a drink of water. That certainly tickles a bird's humor."

"The sunshine trickles through my soul," said the maiden on Park Point. "You haven't anything on me," responded the youth as he slyly moved his frayed shoes from sight.

At a certain hospital yesterday a man rushed into the waiting room. His collar was wilted and perspiration was trickling down his face.

"I want to see my wife," he gasped.

"There is no such person here," said the orderly.

"What? Do not keep me in suspense. She came here to undergo an operation——"

"Your wife is not here," said the orderly firmly. "You are somewhat demented with the heat."

"I tell you she is here," insisted the man who was very, very young and couldn't be expected to know much about women's attire so when the orderly read this note that was pressed into his hands he did not even smile:

"Dear Will: I have gone to have my kimono cut out. ours, Mamie."

The lake shore of Park Point has been popular during the hot weather as a cool place to sleep. Many of the campers on the point have carried their beds to the shore and have in this way enjoyed a good night's rest while the up-town residents have been unable to sleep. There is always some breeze on the point and this makes it cool and comfortable.

Thursday night was the warmest night in Duluth for some years. People did various things to be able to sleep. At one camp on the point two young men scooped out places in the sand until the cool damp sand was reached and then slept in this manner. In the morning the sun beat down upon their bodies and the sand all about them was very hot. A cool dip was taken in the old lake and they say it was great.

Down along the docks you will find the boys waiting for work, taking the hot weather less seriously than some of the men who find time more exacting in the matter of duties. The heat has made many of the dock walloopers sleepy, and any time these hot days you stroll down along the water front you will find in the lee of some freight shed a number of the waiters for work enjoying sweet and peaceful sleep, with shoes removed and shirts unfurled to catch the slight breeze that may be stirring.

They sleep many hours through the hot day. Some sleep in sitting postures, but most of them lie at full length, sometimes with a hat for a pillow, and sometimes with their arms folded for a head prop.

The heat has made a dock worker a quiet and orderly person, content to lie peacefully in the shade and forget the trouble of the world.

Along the Michigan street Bowery the heat has made Orientals of many of the inhabitants. They sleep, some of them, on the curb, dozing off as they sit there with nothing upon their minds but their hats. You will find men sitting in the lee of a telegraph pole, sleeping with mouths open and a fagged and abandoned-to-the-weather expression.

The ice cream cone has enjoyed an increase in sale along the Bowery since the presence of old Sol has been so constant and emphatic. It is only fair to say that the sale of more spirituous refreshments has also become more profitable.

Flannagan had succumbed to the heat. It was feared that he was dying. Asked if he had some last wish, he replied: "Send me Casey."

Casey came. He was Flannagan's bitterest enemy.

"Casey," said Flannagan, weakly; "I have the sunstroke, and I want yer forgiveness—I have done badly by yez."

"S'all right, Flannagan, don't speak of it," said Casey.

"I'm sorry, Casey," continued Flannagan, "and I wronged yez be sayin' the things I did. Yez ain't a blackguard, nor a liar. Ye're no coward. Ye're the best boy I iver knew, and there's no squarer, whiter lad iver came from the Ould Sod."

Casey, his heart touched by the repentance of Flannagan, gave the sick man's hand a last squeeze and started toward the door, when a weak voice called "Casey!" He turned, his eyes filled with tears. Flannagan raised himself tediously on an elbow.

"Remember, Casey, if I get better them lies don't go," he said.

McEWEN NOT SEEKING ANY POLITICAL OFFICE

Labor Commissioner Is Warmly Greeted By His Duluth Friends.

Says Workingmen's Compensation Is Science in Europe.

W. E. McEWEN.

"Billy" McEwen is in town and his friends know it.

The result is that when William E. McEwen, state labor commissioner of Minnesota, attempts to move about the city it takes him nearly ten minutes to walk a block. He was a caller at the state labor employment bureau on Fifth avenue this morning, and there he was beseiged by scores of people who wanted to shake hands with him and say, "Glad to see you back, Billy." When he attempted to make a quick trip to the offices of the Labor World in the Manhattan building, his headway was lost every step or two by exhuberant friends, and when he had safely reached the Labor World quarters he found the offices filled with others who wanted to see him.

"Your friends are talking about running you for the senate," suggested the interviewer.

"Oh, are they?" replied Mr. McEwen, smiling. "Well, I'm not a candidate for any office. I'm anxious for Jan. 1, 1911 to come, and then I'll be right here bossing this job," and his gesture included all that was visible of the Labor World.

Accompanied by his family, Mr. McEwen arrived in Duluth from St. Paul yesterday afternoon and went at once to his summer home at Fond du Lac. He has been in Europe as a member of the commission created by the last legislature to inquire into the workmen's compensation laws of the old countries and be come back with his mind full of the subject.

"Our object will be to evolve a scheme of legislation that will give all injured workmen compensation," said Commissioner McEwen. "Under present conditions, the disposition is to look for the big verdicts—the $30,000 awards. The largest ever won in the state was for $35,000. This is wrong. What is desired is a law that will provide relief for the greatest number; not the most money for the few who are successful in costly litigation.

To Establish Principle.

"The commission will strive to have enacted a law that will establish the principle of compensation. We will press for the best that can be obtained, but we cannot expect to get everything at once. The compensation laws of the European countries represent a quarter of a century of legislation and the systems in operation there are much superior to ours. We should adopt such features of the European laws as may be adaptable to conditions here. It is too much to expect that we can enact the German compensation law in its entirety here. Sentiment is not now favorable to a law so paternalistic in its provisions. However, the chief thing to do now, is to establish the principle.

"With George M. Gillette of Minneapolis, president of the Minnesota Employers' association, I went to Europe to study this question of compensation laws. Over there practically all the countries have laws modeled on the German idea, that when an employe is injured, a liability ensues automatically against the employer and some form of financial benefit flows to the injured man at once. The plan is a pension system in a way. However, no time is lost; the injuries are graded and there are certain sums allotted thereto. There is no delay whatever. The employe need not lose a minute proving that he has been damaged. If he is injured, he is injured and relief comes to him at once in the measure of his damage.

"That does away with ambulance-chasing and all that sort of thing with which we are so familiar, unfortunately, in this country, to say nothing of the long delays in the courts through litigation.

"Just what this commission of which Mr. Gillette, H. V. Mercer of Minneapolis and myself were members will do, I cannot say, but I believe that when our report does go into the legislature of 1911 the bulk of our recommendations for remedial legislation along this line will be remodeled on the German idea, which is largely the whole European plan. In favor it and I believe the commission will be more than likely to suggest some such legislation.

"Mr. Mercer was unable to go with Mr. Gillette and myself, but he plans to go over very soon with some friends and study the subject for himself.

"One peculiar outgrowth of the workmen's compensation legislation in Europe has been the result it has had in lowering the ethics of the medical profession. I was told that, although the ambulance chasing personal injury lawyer had been eliminated, a substitute had come into existance in the ranks of the surgeons. These surgeons find it to their advantage, financially, to make the extent and nature of an injury as great and grave as possible. The greater the injury, the greater is the compensation, and if the surgeon makes the injured workman's claim larger than it otherwise would be, he shares in the increase."

HAS BUT FEW CLOUDY DAYS

Old Sol Grinned Nearly Every Day During Month of June.

On Seventeen Days Mercury Was Above 80 Deg. Mark.

There were but three cloudy days during the entire month of June, according to the weather report just completed. There were thirteen partly cloudy days and fourteen days that were clear.

It was a warm month also. The hottest day was on June 28, when the mercury hit 97 deg. fahrenheit. It was lowest on June 4 when the mercury touched 35 deg. There were seven days when it was 90 deg. and over, and seventeen days when it was over 80 deg.

The precipitation during the month was the lowest in the twenty-four years, it being only .11. The average for forty years during this month has been 4.31. As compared to the average June this year has fallen short in the matter of rain 4.20 inches.

The prevailing wind has been from the northeast. The total movement was 7,895 miles. The average hourly velocity was 11.0.

"PREACHER" HELD TO GRAND JURY.

The colored "preacher" who is alleged to have secured $125 from three well known Duluth men by representing that he was collecting funds with which to pay for a new Baptist church, waived examination in police court this morning and was bound over to the grand jury. He said that his name was Frank Reynolds and not S. M. King. He was caught in Superior after a long chase through the railroad yards.

"MRS. GEORGE W. B. ROSS AND HUSBAND."

Well, it might have been expected.

There have been signs of it coming, but man has let things drift.

Now it's too late to do anything, perhaps. And, mayhap, there's the chance that good will come of it.

Many careful students of public affairs have been quoted as saying that votes for women is no unseasonable demand, but even these advanced few are likely to see whither the country is drifting.

The climax came today at the McKay hotel. Boldly, frankly, with a flourish that seemed almost jubilant, the evidence of the changed status of man stood forth on the guest register, reading like this:

"Mrs. Geo. W. B. Ross and husband, Lester."

FIFTH DEATH FROM HEAT

John Solberg Passes Away at Hospital After Being Prostrated.

Duluth More Fortunate Than Many Other Cities in America.

FIVE DEATHS FROM HEAT PROSTRATION.

John Solberg, 19 years old, July 12.

Carl V. Spanberg, 59, 2309 West Fifth street, June 30.

Fred Berg, 2-week-old son of Charles Berg, June 30.

Mrs. Hannah Little, 78 years old, June 23.

Nels F. Peterson, 65 years old, June 13.

John Solberg, 19 years of age, died this morning at St. Luke's hospital as the result of being overcome by heat yesterday afternoon while working on Northern Pacific Dock No. 3, near Garfield avenue. He was unloading rails and suddenly collapsed.

This is the fifth death in Duluth in the last three weeks from heat prostrations or illness due to the intense, unprecedented spell of hot weather. The condition is without parallel in this city, noted throughout the land for its cooling summer breezes. In ordinary years a death from heat prostration is almost unknown, and even this year Duluth has escaped with a much lighter death roll than other cities.

Solberg was taken to St. Luke's hospital about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an extremely serious condition and was given medical attention, but he was too far gone from the effects of the heating sun to pull through. He had complained of the heat throughout the day, but his fellow workmen thought it was nothing worse than the usual indisposition which accompanies warm weather.

Solberg was a single man and lived with his brother on Mesaba avenue between Fifth and Sixth avenues. His parents are both living and reside in Norway. He left them to come to this country about a year ago. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

TOO MANY AUTOMOBILES

Country Has Suffered From the Craze, Says J. M. Gidding.

But People Have Quit Mortgaging Homes to Buy Them.

That the country from one end to the other has been "over-automobiled," and that this is the reason for the conservatism at the present time, is the opinion of a prominent Eastern banker with whom J. M. Gidding of this city talked while on his recent trip through the East.

"This seems to be the general feeling among banking and financial interests in the East," said Mr. Gidding this morning. "Everybody seems to think that the automobile industry has been overworked, the prices have been exorbitant and that the craze has interfered seriously with progressive and prosperous business conditions."

The Eastern men are optimistic over fall and winter conditions, however. They stated to the Duluth man that the people have purchased about all the automobiles that they are going to for some time. The reason is that about all the country's loose change for some time has been spent for buzz wagons. It is also the opinion of the Eastern men that people are through mortgaging their homes to buy autos.

It is their opinion that this has hurt other forms of business in a great many ways. When autos are purchased other things have to be sacrificed. This is one of the reasons business has not been good for some time past, they claim.

A Detroit man, and Detroit is known as the hub of the motor world, stated to Mr. Gidding that 15,000 men are employed in that city making automobiles. He stated that people did not care so much about the cost of the car as they did about "When will I get it." The Michigan man said that men have been taken off the street to manufacture automobiles. So scarce is labor and so great a part of the population of Detroit is engaged in making motor cars that it is impossible to get street cleaners. He said that the percentage of profit in the cars is now and has been enormous, being in a great many cases more than 200 per cent. He told Mr. Gidding of a number of men who a few years ago ran small bicycle repair shops, and who had begun to manufacture automobiles and are now worth millions—millions that were made in a very short space of time.

The man who was in the automobile business himself stated that he was looking forward to the time when the industry would be conducted on a commercial basis—when it would not be a fad or a craze, but a legitimate enterprise.

It is especially recommended for restoration of appetite, strength and vitality. TRY IT.

A MERCHANT'S VOW.

London Standard: At the church of St. Michael de Rupe, perched on the summit of Brentor, the Bishop of Exeter on Wednesday dedicated a new peal of bells. Tradition has it that the church owes its erection in that elevated position—1,130 feet above the sea—to the vow of a merchant overtaken by a terrible storm while voyaging to England, that he would build a church on the first spot of land sighted.

This happened to be the lofty crest of Brentor, and accordingly the church was built there. For some centuries the little church has served as a landmark over a wide area, and services are regularly held in it.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

St. Louis county likely to witness some lively campaigning in legislative districts and for county offices—Judge Jaques enthusiastically indorsed for congress by Labor World—Second district congressional situation pleasing to Democrats—Tawney returns from Washington and talks confidently of party success.

So far as it has developed, the situation in the Duluth legislative districts promises some lively campaigning, and in the county office fight there will be things doing, too.

St. Louis County Politics Being Stirred Up.

Otto Garvert, who is now in the federal internal revenue service, is expected to file soon as a candidate for county treasurer against W. A. Holgate. Mr Garvert's friends say he has definitely decided to make the pre-primary run. He was formerly an employe of the state food inspection department and is well known throughout the county. He is president of the Sven Republican club. His friends say they expect him to make a very good showing at the primaries.

W. J. Bates will not have a walkaway as a candidate for renomination and re-election as sheriff. John Melning and Ed Woolway have filed as candidates for the Republican nomination and they expect to make things interesting for the incumbent. Mr. Melning is generally believed to have greater strength than has Mr. Woolway, but it will require some expert vote garnering to beat Mr. Bates.

Charles E. Adams has filed as a candidate for the Republican nomination for county attorney, and John H. Norton, the present county attorney, also is a candidate. These men have been opponents twice before and in the primary election of two years ago Mr. Adams came within a few votes of landing the nomination. This fight promises to be one of the liveliest of the bunch.

S. W. Gilpin, who now is county superintendent of schools, has filed as a candidate for the Republican nomination for judge of probate. Judge Middecoff seeks renomination and re-election.

N. A. Young has announced that he desires the nomination for county superintendent of schools. He is now assistant superintendent. The citizens of Duluth do not vote on candidates for this office, the superintendent's duties having no relation to the affairs of the city schools.

As to the Democrats who will get into the field as candidates for county offices, they will not be avowedly in the field until after the Democratic county conventon is held at Eveleth July 23.

Capt. Ray T. Lewis, who was a member of the house in the legislatures of 1903 and 1905, has not decided whether he will be a candidate from the Fiftieth district this year. In the last legislature the district, which comprises the Third, Fifth and Sixth wards in Duluth and the strip of territory running north to the border, was represented by Richard F. Grant and Anton Borgen. Mr. Grant has removed from the district and city. Mr. Borgen probably will be a candidate for re-election.

C. A. Congdon and George W. Buck represented the Fifty-first district two years ago. Mr. Congdon, it is understood, will consent to serve again, but Mr. Buck will not be a candidate.

Democratic legislative possibilities are interesting. H. W. Cheadle, now city clerk, is being talked of as a candidate for the senate from the Fifty-first district, now represented by George R. Laybourn and W. E. McEwen, state labor commissioner, is mentioned as a candidate for the senate from the Fiftieth against T. M. Pugh. Andrew Nelson and E. C. Ribenack are being mentioned for the Fiftieth district house candidacies.

The Duluth Labor World this week devotes considerable space to the candidacy of Judge Alfred Jaques for congress. Both in its news and editorial columns the Labor World tells of the effort that has been launched to give the Eighth district a real representative at Washington. Under the heading, "Judge Jaques in congress would safeguard the best interests of the whole people," the paper says:

Boosts Judge Jaques For Congress.

"The Labor World takes pride this week in calling to the attention of its readers the candidacy of Judge Alfred Jaques of this city to represent this, the Eighth Minnesota district, in congress.

"Thousands there are at the Head of the Lakes and in Northern Minnesota who know Judge Jaques. None there are of them but will, irrespective of party ties, feel it a privilege to accord him their support at the primaries and at the polls.

"Sterling integrity and a single eye to the greatest good for the masses are Judge Jaques greatest qualifications in the eyes of those who know him.

"If Judge Jaques pledges his word to adopt, on taking his seat in congress, a certain line of policy you can go gamble your last cent that that line of policy will be adhered to though the heavens fall, is the forcible testimonial to his staunchness paid by one who has known him long years. Thousands there are who will reiterate the sentiment.

"You can bet that Judge Jaques will not be a progressive on the stump and a servile puppet in congress,' was the way another put it and his words spell volumes to those acquainted with the trend of affairs in the district today."

Editorially, under the caption "Sterling Integrity best asset of Judge Jaques," the Labor World says:

"The most important issue now before the country is the re-establishment at Washington of a really free and independent house of representatives. The present congress has been bound and gagged by a relentless and arbitrary machine which attempts to dictate its action. It has been controlled by leaders who are lost to all public considerations. If it continues to submit to this un-American system of dictatorship it will cease to be a house of representatives in any true sense. Partyism, which interpreted by the leaders of the majority, with a very few exceptions, is standpatism, seems to have gone mad. I believe in parties, and within right limits, in party government. But I do not believe in party slavery.'

"These are the opening remarks with which Judge Alfred Jaques, plain citizen of Duluth, makes in announcing to the public of the Eighth Minnesota congressional district his candidacy for congress on the Democratic ticket.

"The clean cut, plain, straightforward sentiment covered in these words needs not that attention be drawn to it.

"As is well known wherever the name of Judge Alfred Jaques has penetrated, his words stand for the public interest as do the heart and soul of the man who gave them utterance.

"Judge Jaques needs no word of commendation from the Labor World.

"As an eminent jurist, as a private citizen of unblemished record, as a member of the community whose interests are indissolubly linked with those of the Head of the Lakes and Northern Minnesota in general, he is known and respected wherever known.

"The need of a man of the stamp of Judge Jaques to represent the Eighth Minnesota district is apparent to all in this Northern country.

"Betrayal of the interests of the people who comprise a large portion of wealth producing section of the state has become common. So common as to cause in the mind of the most intelligent voter a doubt as to the man of his choice, at all times.

"The promises made on the stump in the free-flung air of the Gopher state became, at Washington, transmuted into blind allegiance to party or to party leader. Men who went East filled to the gunnels with good resolutions to do battle for the interests of the people who trudged through Minnesota sand or Minnesota mud to encompass their election, became weak-kneed as the train bore them into the national capital.

"On the way from the Washington depot to their hotel they collapsed entirely and the party whip who called on them the next morning found them subservient to the will of the powers that be. Or if he didn't find them subservient when he called he left them that way and they stayed subserved.

"No one believes that Judge Jaques can be induced to cast to one side pre-election promises. The very character of the man is proof against such thought.

"On his merits and on his alone he deserves the hearty and un-partisan support of the freedmen of Duluth.

"While running as a candidate on the Democratic ticket it is prophesied by Judge Jaques's friends—friends of all political affiliations—that is his election to congress all party lines will be cast aside and he will go to Washington as a representative of the people of Northern Minnesota as a whole—speaking not for one party or the other but for the best interests of the concrete body as good sense and fundamental, rat-proof honesty shall dictate.

"Keep your eye on Judge Jaques and when the time comes give him your support, whether you be day laborer or skilled mechanic.

"Your little home on the hillside is as sacred a trust to him as the $12,000 residence in the East end. Its interests will be as earnestly voiced under the shadow of the national capital."

The congressional situation in the Second district is highly gratifying, from a Democratic point of view. Col. Ward's announcement that he wants the Republican nomination has upset the calculations of the Republicans whose faith was pinned to Frank Ellsworth of St. James. The Fairmont mon is wealthy, prominent for years and ambitious to go to Washington. He may be relied upon to put up the stiffest kind of fight against Ellsworth, and the factional bitterness that has militated against Republican success in the Second district will be stirred up again this year.

Second District Has Its Usual Row.

Friends of Ellsworth are pleading for party harmony, and point the way to that condition through the Ellsworth gate. The Ward men, however, do not seem disposed to follow this advice, and as a result the preprimary fight is growing rather strenuous. Naturally, the Republican papers of the district are accusing Frank Day of responsibility for the rumpus. That's the thing to do, apparently, when Republicans get "in bad."

Senator Frank E. Putnam of the Twelfth legislative district, a member of the senate, who has been mentioned as a probable added starter in the Republican handicap, declared at Blue Earth the other day that under no circumstances would he become a candidate for the nomination.

"Farmer Ben," who has a column in Austin Transcript, frequently wanders into the field of political gossip, speculation and criticism, and usually hands out some pretty sound sentiment, even though it is told through the medium of deformed spelling. Says Farmer Ben, anent the platform adopted by the Republican state convention:

Takes a Wallop at That Platform.

"The milk and water platform would make a hog puke it's so thin. It makes a big holler on what there's no question about, conservation, good roads, emigration, right of labor and such. But when it comes to the nasty iniquity of the Payne tariff which is a mill stone round the neck of the common people the platform says nothin' in spite of the fact that every congressman from Minnesota except Tawney voted agenst it.

"On the temperance question it straddles so you can take it any way. So it goes. Wishy washy stuff. In the offis nominations, the political machine got badly knocked out as it ought. The wire pullers found the bulk of the country delegations hard bitted and impossible to control and dictate to."

James A. Tawney, whose home is at Winona, in the First congressional district, but who, it is creditably reported, does not represent that district in congress, returned to Winona from Washington yesterday, speaking readily of confidence of party success in the coming campaign, and telling of how the Republican party in congress has "kept its pledges." Said Mr. Tawney:

Tawney Confident of Success.

"I have no desire to suggest invidious distinctions, but in my judgment no political party in the council of both houses of congress since the days of reconstruction has a record of accomplishment in the matter of the enactment of progressive and important and constructive legislation equal to the record of the extraordinary session of the Sixty-first congress."

P. H. McGarry of Walker, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress against Insurgent Lindbergh, says he is much pleased with the outlook. He made the statement at Walker after a tour through the Sixth district.

The state convention of the Prohibition party at Minneapolis failed in its effort to prevail upon Representative E. E. Lobeck of Alexandria to accept its gubernatorial nomination and as a result the selection of a state ticket was deferred until today. County option is espoused in the platform adopted by the convention.

Says the Anoka Free Press: "Friends of Alfred Jaques speak very highly indeed of him. Mr. Jaques has an excellent reputation in Duluth where he makes his home. He seeks the Democratic nomination for congress from this district."

THE HAY CROP, THE PRICE OF MILK AND THE CONSUMER

Dairymen Selling Cattle and Talk of Raising Prices.

"Situation Not Desperate," Says Woods---"Keep Your Cattle.

The situation regarding the dairymen, the price of milk, the supply of hay, the possible prices of meat, and the advisability of the farmer sacrificing his cattle to avoid keeping them next winter, is somewhat mixed.

These questions depend chiefly on the weather after Aug. 1. There are few corn-fed cattle in this region. The hay which comprises the bulk of the feed can be cut from the wild meadows in large quantities until freezing weather begins in the winter or late fall, probably as late as in December. If rains come after Aug. 1 there will be a large hay crop, although the prospects now are not especially favorable.

Dairymen in this town are making the usual complaints which generally are harbingers of an advance in milk prices, although at this season of the year prices are usually easier. Robert M. White, manager of Randall, Gee & Mitchell, with offices in the Board of Trade building, said today that the wholesale price of timothy hay is $20 a ton and upland hay at from $17 to $18, car lots. By the time the timothy hay gets to the farmer or dairyman it costs him from $22 to $25 and upland hay from $19 to $23, the dealers basing their charges on delivery to the farm or dairy.

In this neighborhood farmers have been accustomed to buying the best hay in the world at the cheapest prices. In New York, Pittsburg, Philadelphia and other Eastern cities dairymen pay from $5 to $10 more a ton for hay than dairymen in and near Duluth. The difference in the prices of bran and shorts is from $4 to $5 in favor of the dairyman near Duluth. Despite these differences the prices of milk in the Eastern cities do not vary much from the prices of milk here. Conditions of delivery being equal, the prices are about the same. For instance, when a customer takes one quart a day the price of milk here may be 7 cents and generally the same price obtains in the East for similar delivery. In some towns it may run 1 cent over the Duluth price. The same relative proportion in prices is maintained for the extra grades.

In the last six or seven years dairymen in and near this town have been unusually successful. They have made money. Consequently, some people cannot see why some of the dealers are not raising a cry that ruin is staring them in the face. People familiar with the business declare that if ruin confronts the milk dealers on a basis of present prices their plight is due to poor management.

Hay at a Premium.

Dairymen in this neck of the woods are accustomed to buying hay for from $12 to $15. The wholesale price of hay usually is about $12 and of course the dairyman must pay the profit of the buyer who delivers the hay. Hay now is at a premium. Not much is coming in as holders are in doubt whether they will have sufficient for shipment. Mr. White said that if the weather is favorable after August 1, there will be a large quantity of hay available, although the quality will not be as good as in former years. Prices in the fall then will decline, if the late crop comes along in good shape, as it usually does. He does not look for higher prices for hay unless an unusual condition of dry weather exists after Aug. 1.

Some farmers and dairymen are nervous over the situation and are disposed to rush their cattle to market. A. C. Pierce, manager of the local branch of Swift & Co., said that if the feed prices continue high he looks for the northwestern farmer to market his cattle rather than carry them over the winter. This, said Mr. Pierce, would cause a decline in meat prices in the fall, but would result in a scarcity of meat next winter and spring. He declared that this unseasonable marketing of dairy fed cattle would cause such a shortage of meat in the winter that he doubted if the packers would be able to supply the consumptive demand. Prices under these circumstances would soar. A shortage of cattle in the winter and spring both for packing and dairy purposes would cause exceedingly high prices for both meats and milk.

Hay From Nebraska.

A feature of the hay situation that is pleasant to contemplate is the large supply in the Southwest, especially in Nebraska. This region is obtaining some supplies from Nebraska at present, but if the weather in the fall is favorable it will be necessary to go to the Southwest for hay. If dairymen and farmers can forage their cattle through July it is likely that no difficulty will ensue in the fall on account of high prices for hay and feed. This hypothesis, of course, depends on the advent of normal weather.

Dean Woods of the agricultural department of the state university has issued a circular advising farmers and dairymen not to sell their cattle. "Our situation here is not desperate," said Dean Woods. "It is not too late now to plant fodder corn for winter feed, and it is not too late to hope for fall pastures, although the hay crop is beyond salvation. "The dean thinks the Southwestern crop will prevent prices from being dictated by so-called famine conditions.

The dairyman says he must either advance prices or sell his cattle. "If you sell your cattle," says Dean Woods, "you will make meat cheap temporarily and milk and meat dear eventually."

"Do not be discouraged," says Mr. White, "there is not much reason to believe that there will not be a big hay crop in the fall."

"If you sell your cattle now," says Mr. Pierce, "the packers cannot get enough meat to supply the demand in the winter and spring, and we may have a famine that will boost prices to unprecedented heights."

"You have been making money," Mr. Dairyman, says the public, "we haven't, so kindly keep prices where they are, for the present, until the outlook for fall prices on feed and hay can be definitely determined."

PARROT ESCAPES FROM CAGE AND FLIES TO LAKESIDE

Found—Green parrot. Owner can have same by calling at 4738 London road.

A want ad inserted in last evening's edition of The Herald brought to light a rather remarkable flight of a parrot, which escaped Wednesday night from 616 East Fourth street and was captured the next morning at Forty-eighth avenue east and London road.

The parrot was owned by W. Russell Perry and Arnold W. Johnson, two of a club of six young men who are renting a house on East Fourth street. The bird came into their possession last week at the West end carnival, when one of the young men won it at the bird and animal show.

It was taken home from the carnival grounds in a shoe box and was afterwards placed in a wire waste-paper basket, which was intended to serve as a cage. The bird escaped from its cage Wednesday night and, although the neighborhood was scoured, nothing could be found of it.

Thursday Henry Morrison and a playmate, William Eden, found the bird perched in a tree. They took it to the former's home, 4738 London road, where it was recovered last evening by the owners.

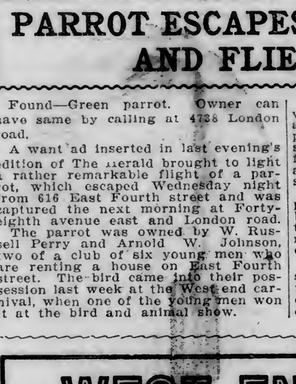

The bird is a valuable one, as it can say words and phrases clearly. When the young men put it back in its old cage they claim it loooked around and exclaimed, "I'll be d—d, here again."

A WIRE MILL FOR IRONTON

Minneapolis Firm Said to Have Looked Over the Ground.

The Smithville correspondent of The Herald is authority for the statement that representatives of the American Wire Company of Minneapolis have looked over the abandoned buildings at Ironton, which at one time were used for manufacturing purposes of a nature similar to the manufacture of iron and steel products. The correspondent thinks the wire company expects to rebuild the structure and make a wire mill out of it.

J. L. Washburn, owner of the buildings and adjacent land, said that he hoped the report is true. "I'm sorry I can't confirm it," he said, "but I haven't heard anything about a Minneapolis wire company intending to install a wire mill at Ironton. We've had offers for the property, and we've done a little bickering, but I do not know the identity of the people who have made the tentative bids."

LONGFELLOW SCHOOL THREATENED BY FIRE.

An exploded firecracker left under the sidewalk was responsible for a fire this morning, which for a time threatened the Longfellow school, Sixtieth avenue west and Elinor street.

Boys had been playing around the school grounds and had been shooting firecrackers in the vicinity of the board walk leading up to the school entrance. One of the boards in the walk caught fire and when the department arrived the school steps were burning.

The blaze was easily put out. West Duluth firemen say that every precaution should be taken by the boys lest some serious conflagration be started.

YOUNG MAN'S BODY FOUND

Emil Talbot Drowned While at Work at Alger-Smith Mill.

Bride of Two Weeks Is Left a Widow By Tragedy.

The body of Emil Talbot, 21 years old, of 5118 Polk street, who was drowned yesterday while at work at the Alger-Smith mill, was recovered late yesterday afternoon. It is believed that he slipped from a plank into the water, while crossing from one plank to another.

The young man had been working with his brother, Fred, and was engaged in piling laths on the old Merrill & Ring dock. His brother left him about 10:30 o'clock to go after a load of laths, and when he returned, a half hour later, a plank was missing between the two docks, and the young man had disappeared.

Undertaker Filiatrault and Lieut. Charles Wilcox of the West Duluth police department dragged the bay around the dock for his body. It was found shortly after 3 o'clock.

Talbot is the son of Fred Talbot of 5112 Polk street, and was married June 15 to Miss Ada Blanchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Blanchard of 5118 Polk street. Besides his widow and parents, the young man leaves two brothers and four sisters. He had worked at the Alger-Smith mill for the last five years, and had lived in Duluth for ten years.

The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. James' Catholic church, with interment at Calvary cemetery.

NEW TOWN BEARS NAME OF ENERGY

On Missouri River South of Underwood, N. D., and Will Be Hummer.

Underwood, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Energy is the name of a new town to be established along the Missouri river south of this point. It is understood to be backed by a party of Eastern capitalists.

It is located right on the banks of the river, on an ideal site, adjoining the magnificent lignite coal deposits.

It is understood plans have been made for a town with water, sewer, gas and electric lights and that surveyors are already at work.

Great secrecy is observed but it seems that the plans of the promoters are to establish an immense power plant for transmission of electric power to other sections of the state as far east as Fargo and Grand Forks, also to establish linen mills.

SUPERIOR FIREWORKS PROHIBITED

Mayor Crumpton Issues Proclamation Putting Ban on Explosives.

Order Will Be Rescinded If Heavy Rain Falls Sunday.

Mayor Frank R. Crumpton today issued a proclamation which in effect puts a ban on the use of fireworks and explosives tomorrow and July 4.

Chief McKinnon of the police department stated today that unless a heavy rain fell between now and Monday that the terms of the proclamation would be rigidly enforced.

Mayor Crumpton takes this action, because of the drought.

Last evening some one threw an exploding firecracker into a small Third street store setting fire to a pile of fireworks. A dangerous fire was narrowly averted.

BUSY DAY FOR POLICE COURT

Two Prisoners Get Workhouse Sentences for Creating Disturbances.

Yesterday was a busy day in police court. Although no important cases came up on the docket, Judge Parker had his hands full in attending to trivial matters.

Richard Tobin and James Flaherty, who each threw a chair through windows of the Old Mission, Third street and Tower avenue, when refused admittance because they were drunk, were sent to the workhouse for thirty days.

Matt Gleason paid a fine of $5 and costs in police court because he tried to walk off with a stranger's suitcase and took part in a fight which ensued. Gleason explained to Judge Parker that he picked up the grip for a joke.

For selling liquor without a license, Charles Hollenbeck of the town of Sunmit was fined $50 and costs. The testimony showed that Hollenbeck did a land office business particularly on Sunday.

James Harlan was given ten days in the workhouse after he pleaded guilty to a charge of interfering with an officer.

James Smith, a barber, was up on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by another tonsorial artist. The case was adjourned to July 11.

NEW STOCK COMPANY TO APPEAR AT GRAND.

H. E. Pierce and James Morrissey, both of Duluth, have organized the H. E. Pierce company, which will play on the Copper & Iron circuit this fall and at the Superior Grand this summer. A dress rehearsal of "Strongheart" was held last evening. Today was devoted to rehearsals of "The Squaw Man."

SCHOOLBOYS GIVEN PERMITS FOR JOBS.

Work permits to nearly 100 boys, 12 years of age and over, have been issued within the last few days by Judge Parker of the juvenile court. Their days must not be longer than ten hours and they must not work over fifty-five hours a week. The majority of the youngsters who have asked for permits have found employment in the chair factory and at the shipyards.

NUDE BATHERS SHOCK CONNORS' POINT FOLK.

Nude bathers, ranging in ages from 10 to 30 years, were driven from the water around Connors Point yesterday by the police. The police only accuse the bathers of enjoying the sport without being properly attired and no arrests were made. Several complaints have been made during the present hot weather and the police intend to put a stop to it.

BUSINESS TO BE SUSPENDED

Fourth of July Will Be Generally Observed in the City.

Practically every business house in Duluth, wholesale and retail, and most of the shops and factories will close tonight to remain closed until Tuesday morning.

The Fourth of July will be general observed in Duluth by a suspension of business. The banks, brokerage offices, stock exchange, board of trade, public and private offices and the library will be closed all during the day. The postoffice will observe regular holiday rules.

Many Duluth people left this afternoon for outing places in the vicinity of the city to remain over the Fourth, the Fourth falling on Monday giving people an excellent opportunity for a two days' outing.

The only formal observance of the day in the city will be at West Duluth, where a big celebration has been arranged. There will be a special program at the Northland Country club during the day and a display of fireworks in the evening. The boat houses and the parks will be crowded Monday if the day is fine and all Duluth will enjoy the holiday.

WAS SCENE OF HORROR

Refugee Tells of Incidents of Forest Fire at Sawyer.

Settlers Fled to Cromwell Through Walls of Blazing Woods.

Jonas Raiha, a prominent Finnish resident of Sawyer, the town that has been threatened by forest fires and where many of the homes of the residents have been destroyed, was in Duluth yesterday and to his acquaintances here detailed some of the horrors of the fire that drove many families from their homes.

Personally Mr. Raiha assisted in the rescue of eleven families from their burning homes. He assisted in getting the children out, and after this strenuous work assisted in fighting the fire that threatened to wipe out the entire settlement.

An idea of the desperate situation can be gleaned from Raiha's story of the terrible hardships that some of the people went through.

Parents left their burning homes at Sawyer and started for Cromwell, a number of miles away. Forest fires were raging most of the weary distance between the two settlements. At times, says Raiha, the flight of the settlers attempting to reach Cromwell was so desperate, that at times they abandoned the hope of saving all of their children, and would leave one, or perhaps, two on the road to die.

Carrying the rest of the children to a place of safety, the father or mother would struggle back to rescue the child left to the mercy of the onrushing fire. It is not known that any of the children were lost, but several times in desperation, children were thus seemingly abandoned to the cruel fate of the flames.

Struggling, carrying children in relays, almost blinded and suffocated by the choking flames, that made the whole journey a trip of torture through a heavy pall of smoke and cinders, some of the settlers reached Cromwell to tell their tale of suffering to the people of that town.

Mr. Raiha says the settlers of Sawyer fought desperately to save their homes, many of the settlers losing practically everything they had in the world. Many were driven from their homes without being able to save a single possession.

The case of some of the settlers is desperate, according to the statement of Mr. Raiha. Immediate relief will be sought wherever possible.

There is still danger of fires in the vicinity of Sawyer and Cromwell.

The list of prizes for the different races are worth striving for.

A boat parade takes place at 10 o'clock in the morning, followed by the boat races. At 2 in the afternoon the land races take place. There will be dancing afternoon and evening, Graham's five-piece orchestra furnishing the music.

CHARITY DAY IN DULUTH

Citizens Will Be Tagged for Bethel and Children's Home.

The Funds Will Be Divided Equally Between Two Institutions.

July 13 will be "Charity day," in Duluth. Citizens will be tagged for the benefit of the Children's Home and the Bethel. Both of these institutions do considerable charity work for which they never receive compensation and many public spirited citizens believe that they should receive a testimonial of the regard with which they are held by the public.

The central committee in charge of the "Charity day" comprises the executive committee of the Children's Home, which will have the assistance of the Bethel board. The committee is composed of Mrs. J. N. McKinley, Mrs. Clarence Lum, Miss Hoatson, Mrs. Henry Myers and Miss Katherine Van Loo. The advisory committee comprises Mrs. Stanley R. Holden, Mrs. M. L. Fay, John McCabe and E. C. Little. The banner committee is composed of Mrs. W. C. Winton and Mrs. J. B. Richards.

The Children's Home and the Bethel are two well known institutions of this city which for many years have been doing a class of work that can be undertaken with success only by organizations. The Children's Home is the refuge of many little folks. It trains them to become citizens and they are public assets. The public will be asked to help "finance" some of its future capital July 13.

The Bethel looks after the welfare of a man's body with as much zeal as it seeks to care for his soul. Much of this work is a financial loss to the Bethel. The Bethel does this work to help society. The Bethel's friends will ask society to help the Bethel July 13.

FIRES RAGING ABOUT CHISHOLM

Town Is in Cloud of Smoke and Dust Like Those of Two Years Ago.

Chisholm, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires are raging in all the woods east and south of Chisholm. The town is in a fog of smoke, and with a scorching southeast wind blowing the dust from the streets in clouds as high as the housetops, the citizens are forcibly reminded of the fifth of September, two years ago.

Across Lake Longyear, in the mill location, one dwelling, property of Mary Kovacevich, has already burned to the ground, and at present writing another dwelling is burning without the least hope of saving a shingle. Insurance, $800, was cancelled three weeks ago.

The members of the fire department are out fighting the flames, but cannot do much because the city's water main does not extend out as far as to where the fire is now burning.

The officials of the Oliver Iron Mining company have a crew of men watching and fighting fires that have been raging on their lands south of the Monroe mine.

SIMONSON ON "DRY" TICKET

Duluth Man Nominated for Railroad Commissioner's Office.

J. F. Heiberg Picked for Governor By the Prohibitionists.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only a partial ticket was named by the Minnesota Prohibition convention, which finished its work today. The ticket:

Governor—J. F. Heiberg, Twin Valley.

Lieutenant governor—J. D. Engle, Minneapolis.

Secretary of state—F. F. Marzalin, Waterville.

Railway and warehouse commissioner—L. A. Simonson, Duluth.

Resolutions were adopted as follows at last night's session of the convention:

"We, the Prohibition party of Minnesota, in convention assembled this first day of July, 1910, ackonwledging Almighty God as the source of all power, and His laws as the basis of all righteous jurisprudence, again denounce all measures for the protection and perpetuation of the drink traffic as corrupt politically, iniquitous ethically and absurd economically, and we invite to fellowship all those who believe with Abraham Lincoln, "that the world will be vastly benefited by the total and final banishment from it of all intoxicating drinks."

"1. We maintain that the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks is the plain duty of the government, and that any political party that has been in power and has failed to perform their duty is unworthy of the confidence and support of patriotic people.

"2. We favor legislation granting the option to vote the saloon out by counties. We have never supported a candidate for the legislature who failed either before or after election to stand squarely for all such legislation—a record unrivaled by any other organization.

Arraign Republican Party.

"3. We arraign the Republican party, which for a quarter of a century has upheld the statutes under which the sale of liquor has increased three times as fast as the population; has steadily and viciously resisted the efforts of the people to secure the right to protect their homes against the traffic either by constitutional prohibition or by county units; which brutally applied "gag law" in the last legislative session to prevent a fair consideration of the county option bill, and in its last state convention again demonstrated its despotic disposition and its pliant subserviency to the traffic by its arrogant refusal to pledge to the progressive wing of the party, known as county optionists, a fair consideration of their measure.

"4. We favor a comprehensive and statesmanlike conservation policy, but denounce any policy which, while safeguarding timber, stone, water power, minerals and soil from the greed of thieving money kings, gives no protection to our boys and girls from the gluttonous rapacity of the saloon. Such a policy is either short-sighted statescraft or traitorous demogogy.

"5. We demand the immediate overthrow of the unspeakable traffic in girls, which flourishes under official tolerance and practical license, and we point with gratification to the remedial legislation secured in 1909 under the leadership of E. T. Lobeck, prohibition legislator.

Direct Vote on Senators.

"6. The recent scandals in connection with the election of United States senators by legislatures emphasize the demand made by the prohibition party since its organization that United States senators shall be eleced by vote of the people.

"7. We believe that the initiative and referendum and official recall are safeguards against manipulated legislation and official malfeasance and nonfeasance by which popular government has been defeated by predatory interests.

"8. In the interests of justice and efficient public service, we believe that judicial and clefical offices should be divorced from partisan politics.

"9. We are opposed to war, and hold that the United States ought to lead the nations in a movement for international arbitration of all international disputes.

"10. We believe in equitable and graduated income and inheritance taxes, to provide the funds necessary to an economical administration of the government.

"11. We demand that the issuance of internal revenue receipts for the sale of liquor in prohibition territory, whether in state or local subdivision, be immediately abandoned, and that it be made unlawful interstate commerce for any common carrier to receive, or any person or corporation to offer for shipment, any consignment of intoxicating liquors destined to any prohibition state, county or place.

For Equal Suffrage.

"12. We hold that the right to vote should rest upon intelligence and character rather than upon sex.

"13. We favor laws that will insure to labor a fair share of the wealth it helps to create, safe and sanitary conditions for labor and such hours as will insure for culture and recreation.

"14. We commend congress for establishing a non-partisan tariff commission, which was first proposed to the nation in the platform of the Prohibition party.

"15. We demand the prohibition of child labor in mines, workshops and factories; an equitable and constitutional employers' liability act; court review of postal department ruilngs; governmental regulation of corporations doing an interstate business; improved roads and waterways; uniform marriage and divorce laws; reorganization of the postoffice department; restricting franking privilege; reapportionment of legislative districts in Minnesota; the parcels post. We demand that railroads and common carriers shall transport government supplies and mail at as cheap a rate as they perform like service for private individuals and corporations and we oppose public subsidy for private enterprises.

"What we want and all we want is that those who believe with us shall quit voting with those who believe against us." Relying upon the righteousness of our cause, we confidently commit its issues to the consideration of the patriotic people."

AFRICAN SNAKE BOBS UP IN OHIO

Hurls Poison in Junk Dealer's Face---Is Puzzle to Scientists.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 2.—A special from Lebanon, Ohio, says Ike Lerner, a junk and rag dealer, woke up this morning with both eyes swollen shut. In an encounter with a snake which crawled from rags in his wagon yesterday, the reptile hurled poison into his face.

The dead snake was turned over to the science professors of Lebanon university today and it was found to be a species known only to Africa and the South Sea islands. It has a second mouth directly between the eyes, from which its emits poisonous fluid at will. How it has strayed so far from home is a problem.

Lerner's case is giving his physicians much concern.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

LITTLE BETTING ON THE BIG FIGHT.

New York, July 2.—Fred J. Brooks, who has placed thousands on previous championships and handles the bulk of Wall street wagers, on elections and listic events, says he is all at sea over the betting situation of the Jeffries-Johnson contest.

"There's simply no betting," said Brooks today. "Where there were formerly thousands put up there is only small stuff wagered on this fight. I never saw so little betting."

The biggest wager so far made locally is one of $2,500 to $1,400 on Jeffries. One man has $8,000 to bet on Jeffries at 10 to 4 in blocks of not less than $500. One curb broker bet $500 even that Johnson would not last ten rounds.

Belmont Entry Wins.

Alexandra Park, Eng., July 2.—The Islington welter plate of 100 sovereigns, for 3-year-olds and upward, distance 1½ miles and 110 yards, was run here today and won by August Belmont's Norman III. St. Justinien was second and Junket third. No others started.

AMERICAN WINS IN ENGLISH RACES.

London, Eng., July 2.—In the Amateur Athletic association championship meeting at Stanford bridge today, Fred L. (Texas) Ramsdell of the University of Pennsylvania won the 100-yard by a foot from R. E. Walker, the champion, in 10 1-5 seconds. Walker, South Africa, made the world's record for the 100 yards of 9 2-5 seconds at Abergavany Aug. 5, 1908.

Ramsdell also carried off the 220 yards by six inches after a brilliant effort. His time was 22 2-5. The day was wet and the track therefore slow.

British Team Wins.

Bisley, Eng., July 2.—The challenge trophy match for teams representing different parts of the British empire resulted today in a victory for the British team. Its aggregate score for six ranges was 2,177 out of a possible 2,400. Canada was second with a score of 2,105, Australia third with 2,045, Indiana 1,973 and Sinapore 1,972.

PRAY FOR JOHNSON.

Hutchinson, Kan., July 2.—The negro Holiness church here today arranged for special services for Monday afternoon to pray that Johnson may defeat Jeffries.

San Francisco, Cal., July 2.—Jeffries is still a 10 to 7 favorite here. Some wagers are being placed at even money that Johnson will stay eighteen rounds, but betting is reported not to be brisk.

OBITUARY

Frederick James Furnivall, the eminent scholar and leader in the Christian Socialist movement, is dead in London, Eng., at the age of 85.

Dr. Furnivall was a many-sided man. Besides being a scholar and a leader in social reform he was an enthusiast over athletics, particularly rowing, and as late as 1908 he celebrated his 84th birthday on Feb. 4, 1909, by rowing a shell on the Thames from Putney to Mortlake, the course over which the Oxford-Cambridge races are rowed. He was a member of many learned societies and was particularly versed in the works of Shakespeare, Chaucer and Browning, and was editor of the Oxford dictionary. In 1845 he built the first two narrow sculling boats in England and at the time of his death he was president of the Amateur Rowing association.

Dr. A. B. Chapman, native of Louisiana and a widely known preacher of the Southern Methodist church, died at his home in St. Joseph, Mo., July 2. He was 64 years old and began preaching at 16, when he was known in the South as the "boy preacher of Louisiana." He was with Lees' troops at Appomatox.

Mrs. Nellie Gleason Workman, wife of Dr. Workman of Tracy, Minn., dropped dead while engaged in doing her housework yesterday. She was prominent in women's club work. Her former home was in Mankato.

Brig. Gen. Charles Franklin Robe, U. S. A., retired, died suddenly at his home in San Diego, Cal., July 2, of acute indigestion. He was 65 years old and had been on the retired list since 1903. Gen. Robe saw service in the Civil war with a New York regiment. He was commissioned in the army July 28, 1863, was promoted to the rank of colonel in 1900 and retired with the rank of brigadier general in 1903.

TO PROTECT THE PUBLIC

Associated Charities Will Investigate All Solicitors for Aid.

Duluth Citizens Have Been Swindled By Many Fake Schemes.

Hereafter Duluth people will have some protection against solicitors who canvass the city for "fake" charitable institutions.

During the past few months business men have been victimized by many "fake" canvassers, who have sought funds for various institutions of more or less merit.

The latest case to come to public notice was that of a negro preacher who collected funds for a church, which it is claimed never existed. He is now under arrest.

It is believed that there are many such cases which have not come to light, and the associated charities has determined to take a hand in it.

E. A. Silberstein, president of the board, stated this morning that the officers of the associated charities would in future be prepared to investigate any such petitions, and either give them the stamp of their approval or expose them if they were not meritorious. All the society aims to do is to protect the public against fakes, and not to favor any one charity. The citizens and business men have no time to investigate every case for themselves, and the Associated Charities proposes to do this. The plan has worked out well in other cities.

CHEWING GUM COSTS PLACE

Washington, July 2.—Chewing gum is responsible for the premature termination of the military career of Everett Carlet-Crear of Albany, a cadet at West Point. He denied that he was chewing gum when asked by the officer of the guard. Papers which have just been received at the war department show that Crear was tried and found guilty of making a false statement and he was dismissed. He was a member of the fifth class.

SEVEN IN JAIL OVER LAND DEAL

Sleuths Get Into Trouble Over Wisconsin Property.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 2.—Six men are jailed at Waukesha and another at Oconomowoc, all said to be private detectives or their hirelings of Milwaukee, as the climax of an attempt to seize the summer home of Mrs. Sarah A. Sands on Pine lake, after maintaining an armed guard about the place for nearly twenty-four hours and holding prisoner Mrs. Mary L. Gunther, a daughter of Mrs. Sands.

Mrs. Sands lately disposed of her property to several Milwaukeeans, but the new owners had not been able to get possession because of the opposition of the members of Mrs. Sands' family.

THREE INSURGENTS GO TO OYSTER BAY

Bristow, Madison and Murdock Call on Col. Roosevelt.

Oyster, Bay, L. I., July 2.—Senator Joseph L. Bristow and Representatives E. H. Madison and Victor Murdock, all of Kansas and all insurgents, arrived here at noon for a conference with Col. Roosevelt. They will return this afternoon.

"Senator, shall you have anything to say before your conference?" was asked.

"No," said the senator, "but we may have when we get back, if the colonel will let us."

"Are you gentlemen insurgents?" asked a reporter, anxious to be doubly sure of his facts.

The senator grinned.

"I suppose we might be mistaken for such," he acquiesced.

Mr. Madison was a member of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee

Is Stricken With Apoplexy While at His Summer Home.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., July 2.—The body of Ove Gude, minister from Norway, who died suddenly here last night at the cottage where he had established headquarters for himself and family for the summer, was started for Washington today. It is said the body will be cremated and the ashes taken by his family to New York for shipment on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. leaving Tuesday. It is understood the ashes will be deposited in a vault at Christiania, Norway, Mr. Gude's former home.

SMITH MAY BE THE CHAIRMAN

Republican Leaders Will Meet in St. Paul Wednesday Noon.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the candidates on the Republican ticket and A. J. Rockne will be held at the Merchants hotel next Wednesday noon. At that time the chairmanship of the state central committee and the executive committee will be decided.

There is a strong feeling in favor of Lieutenant Governor E. E. Smith of Minneapolis as chairman of the central committee. It was said that the decided opposition to Mr. Smith which some reports indicated had not developed. At the same time it is admitted there is some opposition from certain candidates, but how much weight this will have with Governor Eberhart is not known.

The governor said this morning that before the appointment is made he will talk the situation over with the candidates and will try to follow the advice they give him. He said one of two candidates had expressed a preference for Mr. Smith.

HOUSE OF GHOSTS AND LEGENDS.

Fall River News: The old brick mansion near the south end of Prudence island, commonly known as Chase's Folly, is no more, and with its passing has vanished one of the landmarks of this section of the country. For years the structure has been uninhabited, and in the place of earthly occupants popular fancy has peopled it with ghosts and woven about it a thousand legends of the times that once were.

The house was built by Daniel Chase, the great-grandfather of the present generation of Chases on Prudence. The builder was a prosperous farmer, but the building of the noble brick structure reduced him to comparative poverty. The mansion had been the dream of the builder's life, and the ruins as they stood showed plainly the materials that had been used in the construction of the dream dwelling. Many of the boards in the house were "clear" pine, more than two feet in width, the doors were eight pannelled and the handsome cornices were hand designed.

FIRE GUTS SHOE STORE

Building at 311 West Superior Street Destroyed By Blaze.

Frame Structure and $15,000 Shoe Stock a Complete Loss.

Fire broke out shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon in the building occupied by the Waldorf Shoe company at 311 West Superior street.

The building is a two-story frame structure. The upper floor is occupied as a rooming house by J. Larson. The fire is believed to have started in a kitchen in the rear of the rooming house, and owing to the fact that the old wooden structure was as dry as tinder, it spread very rapidly. It is believed that the building will be a complete loss. All the occupants escaped without difficulty.

The firemen made a quick run to the building, two departments responding from the central halls, and they succeeded in keeping the blaze from spreading.

It is believed that the shoe company's stock will be a complete loss. A stock of about $15,000 was carried.

Both the building that burned and the frame structure adjoining are owned in the East. T. W. Hoopes & Co., were agents for the building that was burned, and J. D. Howard & Co., for the other.

ENEMIES OF GAME FISH.

Fishing Gazette: The common herons are to my mind one of the most destructive agents of fish life, living as they do entirely in the vicinty of fresh water and fishing not only in lake and stream but in estuaries as well. To the herons must be of course added two other kinds of birds equally destructive to our fisheries, gulls of various sorts and the cormorants (green cormorant or shag), and the only extenuating circumstances I can possibly see in favor of the latter birds is that fortunately the bulk of their kind keep on the salt water.

However, I may add that I have seen a cormorant eject a trout of twelve inches in order to facilitate flight, and I have also seen other cormorants so gorged with sea trout as to be unable to escape with great difficulty, and one was knocked on the head by an angler while in this condition. In these instances the birds were probably ten miles from the sea.

As regards gulls, the damage done by them to fresh water fisheries is undoubtedly great, and only a few weeks ago I watched a gull (herring gull) at work in a trout stream, and a herring gull is capable of easily swallowing a trout larger than a herring. Now what is the remedy, and I do not for one minute suggest or wish for extermination? What I would suggest is that all rivers and estuaries controlled by fishery districts should be kept as clear as possible of cormorants in particular, and these birds will soon leave any particular district if much disturbed; at any rate, drive them out to sea, as owing to the depth of water once outside they would be much less detrimental.

Gulls have their uses in clearing a harbor of garbage, etc., and act as scavengers, and they do not dive, but when they stray from the paths of rectitude, a sis often the case, and go inland and attack our trout streams a charge of shot is the best corrective. Herons too are easily scared and would soon leave a district if much disturbed, but the shag or cormorant I would give no quarter to personally under any conditions, and I believe that not long ago the Exe fishery authorities gave a reward of one shilling for every cormorant killed.

As a proof of the destructive powers of sea birds, I once shot an adult great northern diver and took from it five freshly swallowed fish, each fish being about five inches in length, and of the kind locally known as "stingers." The full amount of fish at this rate taken by one bird during a day can therefore be left to the imagination, but in any case must be enormous.

WOMAN GETS NEW OFFICE.

Governor Sloan of Arizona made himself most popular with certain people of his territory and incidentally exalted the cause of woman when after an exciting contest he appointed Miss Sharlot M. Hall territorial historian.

The office is of great importance to the future, says Van Norden's Magazine, because now the records of a state in making as well as the data of a passing race—the Indian—will be kept by her.

Miss Hall should know of the Indian and of the pioneer. She was born in Lincoln county, Kansas, in 1870, when the old Santa Fe trail was a reality and the aborigines still ranged the prairies of her own state. She moved with her family to Arizona when very young and the method of travel was a prairie schooner.

From early youth she has taken a great interest in the history of the frontier, and most of this she received at first hand from the participants in the great events. She made a close study of the Indian and has written many papers on the subject.

CARE OF GOLF CLUBS.

London Standard: No practised golfer needs to be told any longer that the risk of bringing ruination upon his clubs, especially the wooden ones, by playing with them in the wet is very considerable, especially when those woden clubs have such delicate and sensitive shafts as the new Dreadnoughts. Great precautions must be taken and great attention should be given to them after play.

Two good soakings, neglected, are quite enough to ruin a thin driver shaft. It is simply wicked to take good clubs out on a wet day in a bag which is without a hood. After each shot the player should wipe and dry the sole and face of the head and the shaft—it can all be done in a few seconds—and at the end of the day he should see for himself that the shafts are dried thoroughly, but not by putting them close to a fire or stove. Chalk the faces of the drivers to keep out the wet.

The ancients knew many good dodges which have been forgotten. The other day I read in a very old annual that in winter the player should put a piece of gutta percha in a small stoppered bottle and fill the bottle up with ether. Then when the solution becomes as thick as cream it should be poured off and applied in a thin coat to the face of the wooden clubs, where it serves the dual purpose of keeping the wet out of the wood and giving a good grip to the ball. The idea seems excellent.

WANT WILLS MINE ASSESSED MORE

Citizens of McKinley Said to Favor Increasing the Valuation.

McKinley, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the all important subjects being discussed here just now is the valuation of the Wills mine.

Practically every citizen is earnestly in favor of increasing the assessment on the mine. The situation has been earnestly and thoroughly discussed, and the sentiment seems to be in favor of getting an assessment for McKinley village that will permit the town to work out its salvation.

Locally, it is held that the big ore body of the mine is located under the town, and much of it under the lots reserved for mining purposes by William McKinley and other fee owners. While much of the ore is under privately owned lots on which there are buildings, the McKinley people hold that the mining company should pay taxes thereon.

Mining Company Knows Value of Ore.

This seems to be the real issue in the case. The mining company has drifted under the town, and it is held that it now knows the amount of ore that it has. Such being the case, the McKinely citizens would be pleased to have the company pay taxes on this ore.

The mine has been closed for some time, pending the outcome of an injunction suit brought by the village to prevent mining under the town.

EVELETH DISTRICT BUSY.

All the Properties in That Section Hustling Out Ore.

Eveleth, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia mine is shipping about 2,000 tons of ore daily, while the combined Adams, Spruce and Fayal mines are shipping somewhat over 30,000 tons daily. The present season looks like a record-breaker. All the open pits, underground mines and stock piles are contributing their share to the large amount of ore leaving the Eveleth district.

The Iron Range road is receiving the new Summers steel ore cars. About 600 will be secured.

Liberty and Equality

Are the important factors of American Independence, which we all will celebrate on the coming Fourth of July; but while we are all "free and independent" in a national sense, there are many who are not personally. They suffer from the tyranny of sickness and disease. It is the mission of the Storer Dental company to give freedom to all who suffer from impaired or diseased teeth. To all such we insure painless relief and renewed energy in the "pursuit of happiness."

A Dainty Toilet Article.

Every lady who desires to keep up her attractive appearance, while at the theater, attending receptions, when shopping, while traveling and on all occasions should carry in her purse a booklet of Gourand's Oriental Beauty Leaves. This is a dainty little booklet of exquisitely perfumed powdered leaves which are easily removed and applied to the skin. It is invaluable when the face becomes moist and flushed and is far superior to a powder puff, as it does not spill and soil the clothes.

It removes dirt, soot and grease from the face, imparting a cool delicate bloom to the complexion. Sent anywhere on receipt of 5 cents in stamps or coin. F. T. Hopkins, 37 Great Jones street, New York.

ROOSEVELT TO STUMP FOR LODGE

Senator Says Ex-President Will Enter Campaign in the Fall.

Boston, Mass., July 2.—The statement that Col. Roosevelt will return to Massachusetts in the fall and take part in the Republican state campaign is made by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. The senator said:

"Col. Roosevelt will not talk politics now, but he will talk later and may have something important to say. I expect he will speak here in the campaign. He is interested in my success and in the success of Governor Draper as well. He thinks a lot of Governor Draper, as he showed plainly at the Harvard commencement. Col. Roosevelt is a wonderful vote-getter, and his influence here is sure to be helpful in the campaign.

"As to that visit to President Taft, I can only say that on the political side it may bear fruit later."

Will Force Him In.

Albany, N. Y., July 2.—Theodore Roosevelt is to be asked to get back in the harness again. His decisive defeat in both the senate and the assembly by the Republican organization has created a situation which may force him to take an active part in the politics of both the state and the nation.

Almost before the gavel had banged the end of the special session of the legislature today, the members who shared with him the lost cause of primary legislation were planning to make him leader in the party in the state, whether he wants to be or not. They point to the fact that once he plunges into the contest in the state, he will be involved in the politics of the nation, owing to the prominent part which New York state is expected to play in the congressional campaign of the fall.

Col. Roosevelt's defeat was in no sense a repudiation of his leadership or an indication that his power is on the wane, those who stood with him say. They had a majority of the Republican votes in both branches of the legislature and it was only by a combination with the Democrats that the organization was able to win.

MORE NATIONAL BANKS.

Total Number Now Comes Up to 7,170.

Washington, July 2.—More than two-score banks with a total capital of $2,640,000 were authorized by the treasury department to begin business during the month of June. The addition of these brings the total of banks up to 7,170, with an authorized capitalization of $1,000,070,135 and circulation outstanding secured by bonds $685,517,013.

The total amount of national bank circulation outstanding is $713,430,733, of which $27,913,720 is covered by lawful money of like amount deposited with the United States treasurer on account of liquidating and insolvent national banks and associations which have reduced their circulation.

During June there were thirty-four applications received to organize national banks. Of the applications pending, twenty-six were approved and three rejected.

Wenger of the Michigan state prison, was acquitted by a jury yesterday of charges of perjury in connection with the investigation of the regime of Former Warden Allen Armstrong. COMMISSION CUTS FREIGHT ON LEMONS.

CROPS AND SECURITIES BIG FACTORS

New York, July 2.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

Conflicting crop news and severe declines in security prices have dominated the situation during the last week. The record of the half year just ended is summed up in the word "readjustment"—in the prices of commodities and of securities, and in the last week of the half year the process in the latter has made rapid progress.

With the opening of the second half of the year the future in iron and steel remains somewhat obscure, although an appreciable change for the better with the advent of fall is expected. Recent curtailment of output by pig iron furnaces failed to reduce accumulated stocks, but there are now some signs of a more active demand for pig iron in certain districts. Sales at this city during June are placed in excess, in some instances, of the record of any previous month this year, although prices suffered at the expense of orders. Buying by the railroads is not heavy, yet fairly good orders are constantly received and cancellations have not appeared. Business in structural shapes and in plates is not brisk, although sufficient to provide mills with work at a fairly satisfactory rate. Retailers report a more seasonable trade in wash fabrics and white goods and there is a better tone manifested in ordering for early spring delivery in lines of fine fancy cottons and certain lines of ginghams. Southern Colorado cottons are in moderate demand for export to miscellaneous points, and shipments to Manila are large enough to attract attention, but China trade is dull. Curtailment of production in nearly all textile lines is the noteworthy feature, attention having been directed to its increasing volume in consequence of the desire to close a week or ten days during the holiday period.

In addition to the lack of demand, the inability of mills to continue production profitably because of high costs of raw material and low prices for goods forces a very unusual situation. The boot and shoe trade continues slow and featureless. New England manufacturers anticipate some revival this month and that jobbers throughout the country will agai noperate freely about the middle of July. The leather trade is dull and prices weak, especially on poor tanned stock, with which the market is heavily supplied.

Country hides show a somewhat firmer tone on account of improved quality of present receipts, but packer hides are still weak.

MARSHALL IN CONTROL

Will Have Charge of the Twin City Shubert Houses.

Now Most Prominent Figure in Northwestern Theatrical Circles.

C. A. Marshall of the Lyceum and manager of the Copper and Iron circuit of theaters, together with John Cort, has secured control of the Shubert theaters at Minneapolis and St. Paul. The new acquisition makes him the foremost theatrical figure in the Northwest.

The leading playhouses of the Northwest will be under his general supervision. The best attractions in the country will be booked under the new independent management, to which Klaw & Erlanger, long recognized as "the trust," capitulated last week, when they saw defeat staring them in the face.

John Cort, leader of the fight which smashed the trust, passed through St. Paul yesterday on his way to the coast, where he is the head and brains of a string of big theaters. He said in an interview that the affiliation of Henry W. Savage with the idependents was the winning card. He explained that there are now 1,684 theaters in America in control of the National Theater Owners' association, while but 112 remain in the syndicate. He conferred with Mr. Marshall while in St. Paul.

"The fight is won for all time," said Mr. Cort. "Many people held off from us through fear of Erlanger. He had never been whipped. This was his only power. Once beaten, he is beaten forever, for he held his sway through his ability to whip his enemies into line through fear of his power to crush them. The one-man day is gone. Our association is governed by a board of twelve directors. Should I myself get away and attempt any monopoly I could be disposed of in five minutes.

"The fight in the theatrical world has been in line with the fight in the political world. The attack was on the principle of divine right; on the policy of rule or ruin; on the assumed right of bosses to dominate the situation; on the professed authority of intrenched greed to absolutely dictate the course of action of all managers and owners. We fought for the right of every manager to produce his own plays when and where he pleases. We fought principally to do away with the middleman who does no work and reaps all the profits, bringing the situation down to a direct relationship between producer and manager. That is the situation that now exists."

The attractions for the Twin Cities, most of which will be seen in Duluth this season, include the following:

William Ladkaye,
Bertha Kalish,
Walker Whiteside,
James K. Hackett,
Margaret Illington,

I took Foley Kidney Pills regularly and am now perfectly well and feel like a new man. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Sold by all druggists.

TALK ABOUT TRAFFIC LAW

Taft and Knapp Discuss Proceedure Under the New Measure.

Railroads Are Not to Be Hampered More Than Is Necessary.

Beverly, Mass., July 2.—President Taft had a long talk yesterday with Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission regarding the administration of the new railroad rate law. At the conclusion of the interview it was made plain that the added authority given to the commission by the new statute is not to be used arbitrarily or for the purpose of hindering the railroads in the conduct of their legitimate business.

The power to suspend new rates, probably the most direct weapon placed in the hands of the commission, is to be used only in exceptional cases. Chairman Knapp told the president that the commission already had refused an application under the new law for a suspension of increased rates on horse vehicles and automobiles. He said that there was nothing on the face of things to show that the new rates were unjust or unreasonable.

Tax no Defiant Hatch.

The interstate commerce commission will not attempt to fix definite rates for the railroads, and the power of suspension will be applied to rates where a preliminary hearing gives indications that they are excessive. In all such contested cases the president will be informed, the commission will endeavor to arrive at the facts at the earliest possible moment, and it is not believed that in any case it will be necessary to avail itself of the full limit of eleven months allowed under the aw.

Since the new law went into effect, there have been indications that some of the big railroads have worried as to the extent and manner in which the rate regulating clauses of the new law would be employed by the commission. Stock manipulators in Wall street, the administration had been informed, were trying to trade upon this doubt and to make the most of the situation to their own advantage.

New Law Not a Club.

It can be authoritatively stated that it never was intended that the law should be a club, or that it should be the means of profit-taking by "bears" in the market. The commission will not "run amuck" and will do nothing to jeopardize the interests of investors. There has been talk of a possible fright among European investors and the embarrassing results that might come from tarowing over stocks at the crop-moving time. But the president sees nothing in the situation to warrant any such views.

The commission is anxious that there shall be as little friction with the railroads as possible, and, with President Taft, is anxious that nothing shall be done to menace the prosperity of the railroads so long as they comply with the terms of the law.

Sorry About Cobb Bill.

President Taft has expressed regret to several of his callers over the defeat in New York of the Cobb direct primary bill, which was advocated by Governor Hughes and publicly indorsed by Col. Roosevelt. The president felt that this bill offered a splendid opportunity to test the direct primary principle, and while he shares the views expressed by a number of leaders that all offices should not be put under the primary system, the Cobb bill was a compromise which he felt sure would be accepted.

President Taft's vacation is not to begin until after his strenuous doings of July 4, when he will motor into Boston and stop at several cities on the way. When he is through with this engagement, he is to go into seclusion for ten days.

Mr. Taft has a number of matters to take up with the different department heads this summer, and he will summon his cabinet officers from time to time as he reaches their affairs. The navy and the interior departments are first to be considered. The interior department matter is that connected with the expenditure of the $20,000,000 reclamation fund.

Women As Motorists.

Unusual physique is not necessary for the woman motorist. Neither sex needs extraordinary muscular development in automobiling, and almost any woman not an invalid can master its mysteries quite as well as a man. Nothing is so refreshing as a glass of Golden Grain Belt beer after an auto ride. See that you have a case on hand all the time for home use, and be convinced of its good qualities. INVESTED IN MODERN APPLIANCES—GREATEST INNOVATION EVER SEEN—RADIUM IN ALL OF ITS FORMS. DIAGRAPHOSCOPE REVEALS THE HEART; SPHYGOMOMANOMETER DETERMINES BLOOD PRESSURE. THE MANOMETER, THE SUNLIGHT, NEW X-RAY AND VIOLET RAYS; AND MANY OTHER DEVICES PROCURED.

The special representative for the Electro-Radio doctors who are located in the Alworth building, has just returned from the head office, New York city, where he procured the latest appliances known up to date for treating so-called incurable diseases. Six tubes of radium worth $400 per tube were purchased. This metal is so wonderful that it will do everything the X-Ray does and more. It will penetrate eight inches of iron and is now recognized as the greatest therapeutic agent in the world. Cases of cancer, kidney and bladder troubles given up as incurable are responding to this great power daily in the larger cities. It is the most penetrating rays known. Dr. Armon Jenkins of New ork city treated a child totally blind for eight years, holding the tube against the forehead and base of brain. The child one hour afterward was able to distinguish objects in the street.

Next to the great cures performed by radium comes the new sunlight machine or Radio, which is instant death to all germs. It cures catarrh, paralysis, deafness, kidney and liver trouble, foreign growths, tumors, nervousness, etc., and is regarded by scientists as a cure for tuberculosis, as in the case of Mr. Bean, who thought he had consumption and prepared to leave for Colorado. Hearing about the treatment he decided to try it first and is now the happiest man in the state. Consultation free; hours 9 to 12, 2 to 4, 7 to 8. Sundays, 11 to 12 only.

These wonderful machines are now installed. Now open for business, at 810 Alworth building.

Washington, July 2.—The interior department has announced that all the remaining pine timber on the ceded Chippewa Indian lands in Minnesota will be offered for sale to the highest bidder. This involves about 375,000,000 feet covering 152,840 acres located in the former Pigeon river, or Grand Portage, Fond du Lac, Bois Fort, Chippewa of the Mississippi, Winnibigoshish, Leech Lake, Red Lake and White Earth reservations.

The circulation of a rumor to the effect that the national copy contest and copy show, to be conducted by the Omaha Ad. club in connection with the convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of America in Omaha July 18, 19 and 20, has been abandoned, brings a strong denial from that city.

Instead of dropping the contest, the Omaha Ad. club has reason to believe that it will be better than was first expected, many attractive prizes having been offered.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE LYCEUM

"Old Heidelberg" Will Be the Stock Company Bill Next Week—Normanna Chorus Will Sing the German University Songs ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

Heidelberg, the interesting German university town, is the scene of the plot which will be presented next week by Gus A. Forbes and his company of players at the Lyceum. At Heidelberg, the foremost of German scholars have been educated, duelling has also made a reputation for the university and it is the most prominent of German universities and is world famous. The play "Old Heidelberg" has been translated from the German and was among the most popular in the repertoire of the late Richard Mansfield. It has never been seen in Duluth. The first production will be given Monday afternoon at a special Fourth of July matinee and the piece will be continued every evening during the week.

"Old Heidelberg" is a romantic comedy of the most attractive and popular sort. It is more poetic and beautiful than "The Prisoner of Zenda," which has had its day and passed on, but the truth of this play, which Mr. Forbes has chosen to give next week, will make it endure for many years. "Old Heidelberg" tells the story of a German prince who is sent to the university for his education. He is a carefree youth, happy in the irresponsible life among other young people and enjoying every minute to the utmost. He is a favorite of the students at Heidelberg and he has in common with most college youths a love affair, and his is with Katie, a little German girl of humble birth. The prince is summoned home and he goes, intending to return to Heidelberg. But the reigning prince dies and he becomes the ruler. Duties to the state keep him from month to month and the return to Heidelberg is partly forgotten in the hurry of the new life. Then a marriage for political reasons is arranged. But the prince's heart goes back many times to his old friends and to Katie, and suddenly a longing and homesickness for them leads him to plan a short trip back. Just a few days before his wedding.

Prince Karl hopes to live again for a few days the old happy carefree life, but his old friends remembered his title and his state, they salute him ceremoniously and the comradery of the old days seems impossible. The prince, discouraged, is ready to return to the cares of the state and the life laid out for him without the one happy day, when he meets Katie, and she alone of all his old friends meets him as a friend and equal. The new titles and responsibilities make no difference to her, and she takes Prince Karl to her heart. But both know that the state marriage must be and that a marriage between them is impossible, but they have the one beautiful day together.

Then the prince goes back to his duty with the memory of his happiness for his life, and Katie bravely turns toward the life circumstance has planned for her.

The story is beautiful and the play is a most charming one. Mr. Forbes has played the role of Prince Karl many times, and it is one of which he is very fond and in which he has had much success. Miss Wayne, who has won many friends during the last week with her charming playing as Mary Ann in the play, this week will appear as the meaning of his agreement. All indications point to a pretty lawsuit in the United States, as Hammerstein is quoted in Paris as determined not to retire from the operatic field altogether.

Just before setting sail for Europe on his summer vacation Edward H. Sothern expressed his contempt for Broadway in no uncertain terms.

"Broadway," said Mr. Sothern, "is not artistic. The best air in the world to put on Shakespeare is in the West, and there is more appreciation of real drama on Third avenue than Broadway could ever muster."

And in this opinion Mr. Sothern is by no means alone. Others have expressed the same view many a time in private, but it is seldom that any one whispers it aloud.

Charles Frohman has been heard from in London with regard to his future repertory plans both for London and New York. About a year ago he announced his intention of trying the repertory system at the Empire theater, but the scheme was not executed. He did, however, install a repertory company at the Duke of York's theater in London last February and kept it up all season. Until the other day it was not known whether he felt sufficiently encouraged to continue his plan another season or not, and various predictions were made which left the matter in considerable doubt. Now a statement has emanated from his American headquarters here that he will, sometime during the coming season, inaugurate his American stock company at the Empire theater, and thus revive the halcyon days which went out of vogue when the star system was introduced.

When Nat Goodwin passed through here the other day on his way back from Europe he announced that he would appear next year in a comedy from the pen of George Broadhurst, entitled "The Captain," and that it was not improbable that his wife, Edna Goodrich, would also be featured in a drama of her own. Incidentally Goodwin indignantly denied that he and his wife had parted. A story to that effect was cabled over from Europe and excited a good deal of comment. It made Goodwin's ire rise when it was repeated to him on his arrival, and he went out of his way to break open a letter which he carried from Miss Goodrich to his mother, out West, in which the daughter-in-law expressed herself in the most affectionate terms to her mother-in-law and also with regard to her husband. He showed this to the reporters in order to put an effectual quietus on the widely scattered rumor. Then he started for the West to be present at the big pugilistic event on July 4.

It is now pretty well settled that the opening attraction of the New theater next October will be Maeterlinck's play, "The Blue Bird," which has scored everywhere that it has been produced and made a great deal of money for one London manager who had the acumen to stage it when it was going begging. It has been running for many months in the British capital, and was only secured for the New theater on the payment of a large sum of money.

It is not likely that more than two or three of the plays which sonstituted the repertory of the New theater the past season will be retained in the list of productions next year. Severay of them have already been disposed of and will be presented on tour. George Fawcett will head the company representing "Strife," "The Castle in the Air" is to go on tour, and Guy Bates Post is to tour the country in "The Nigger."

The policy of disposing of the plays in the repertory of the New theater is naturally pleasing the playwrights. Some have claimed to be holding back with plays for that house because of the limit placed on the earnings from royalties by reason of the guarantee of seven of the production of a new play every few weeks. Now that these plays are released under a recent division of the managing director they are encouraged to offer plays, and next season will probably show a better selection because of the added opportunities of enlisting experienced playwrights in the corps of contributors. The road tour of the company is said to be a large financial success.

Now that Mr. Savage has arranged by his contract with Klaw & Erlanger and with the National Theaters Owners' association, headed by John Cort, that the Savage productions shall appear in all the important cities and towns in the United States for a term of years, there is additional interest in the roster of his offerings for the new season. This list is by no means complete as yet, for a number of the important novelties from Europe are yet to be announced, as are also several works by American authors that promise exceedingly well. Nevertheless, the productions which may be definitely spoken of give assurance of a very unusual line.

Three strong companies will interpret the sensationally successful "Madame X." In all the modern history of New York and Chicago stages there has never been an emotional drama comparable to this by Alexandre Bisson in point of popular appeal and of dramaturgic power. More than a half-million Americans have already attended the performances in the two cities, with the vogue of the play at its zenith in both.

"The Merry Widow" will again be presented by two organizations, each of the same high standard of excellence that has hitherto marked the presentations of ehar's deathless melodic masterpiece.

"The Prince of Pilsen," the perennially popular Pixley-Luders musical comedy, will be sent out again, this season with a stellar company that includes practically all the able players engaged in the original cast. This will be one of the most brilliant revivals in recent years.

"Miss Patsy," the merry character-comedy adapted from the German by Sewell Collins, will follow its fine Chicago success by an early advent in New York. Miss Gertrude Quinlan, whose artistic reputation has been so greatly enhanced by her work in this production, will be the featured member of the company.

"The Little Damozel," the comedy of bohemian life in London which proved the hit of the past year in the British capital, will be among the leading features in the imported list. The play is by Monckton Hoffe, and among the players engaged for leading roles are May Buckley and Cyril Kelghtley.

"The Great Name," is a comedy of sentiment that comes with the sterling mark bestowed by the Berlin critics and public. It is by Victor Leon and Leo Field, and while not in any sense a musical play, it has a most effective use of a musical theme.

Oliver Herford's merry farce, "The Florist Shop," will appear in the form of musical comedy, with score by Robert Hood Bowers, and a striking list of imported novelties as incidental features.

"Theodore & Co.," a Parisian farce that is still making quake the sides of the gay boulevardiers after many months of continuous success in that city, will be presented in an adaptation by Oliver Herford. The farce is absolutely clean, therein having a distinct advantage over its brother-pieces, from that source in recent years.

"Little Boy Blue," a romantic operetta by Henry Bereny, promises to be the prime feature in its field. This is to be the piece de resistance of the coming year in Vienna, where its advent is eagerly awaited.

A musical comedy of American authorship will be "The Grape Girl," by Gustav Luders, composer of "The Prince of Pilsen," and James Clarence Harvey. It tells a delightful musical story of the champagne country.

"The Divorce Fund," by A. E. Thomas, is a light comedy by an author who has suddenly achieved rank among the cleverest of our writers for the stage. It satirizes most amusingly the ultra-modern woman, and it is at once absolutely new and as trenchantly witty as anything by G. Bernard Shaw.

Rupert Hughes' faracical comedy, "Excuse Me," is another work of native authorship that stands forth with peculiar prominence as a likely laugh-producer of the Kth power.

"Everywoman," by Walter Browne, gives promise of being a sensation. It is absolutely unique—though its appeal and its satire alike are aimed at all the world—to wit, every woman.

Just before her departure for Europe this summer Miss Marie Cahill was asked by the Sunday editor of a New York newspaper to write a description of her voyage for publication. Last week the editor in question walked into Daniel V. Arthur's office and complained that he had been deceived.

"Miss Cahill promised faithfully to send us a full account of her trip on the Mauretania, we were planning to have it illustrated and to make a Sunday 'feature' of the story."

"Well, didn't she keep her promiser" asked Mr. Arthur's representative.

"This," said the indignant editor, "is what Miss Cahill sent us." He drew from his pocket a single sheet of note paper, on which Miss Cahill had written: "The Atlantic Ocean is very rough."

Margaret Anglin was asked by an author last week to hear his play. She explained that she would prefer to read the manuscript. The author was a man of resource and was also very anxious to have just the right emphasis and inflections put upon his speeches, so, he promptly secured a large graphaphone, spoke the text of his four-act play into it and sent the record to Miss Anglin with his compliments. He thereby secured a hearing for his play, but, unfortunately even then she was not impressed by the author's ingeunity and resource.

Arthur Donaldson, the singing comedian, having met with the strongest kind of indorsement in his new play during his recent short spring tour under the management of Gus Hill and Charles H. Yale, will open in September a season of forty weeks, extending from coast to coast.

Geraldine Farrar is to have a new opera from the hands of Signor Puccini. The opera, the action of which takes place in England in the nineteenth century, is to be called "The Bridal Wreath."

• • •

From London comes the report that Cyril Maude contemplates appearing in "Rip Van Winkle." His appearances in the play doubtless, will be confined to the English stage. Whether Mr. Maude woul attempt a part in this country that is so closely and sentimentally associated with the late Joseph Jefferson is a matter of doubt.

Mabel Berra will soon reappear in American vaudeville. This attractive comedienne with the remarkable singing voice has completely won the audiences of the music halls of England and the continent for the past year.

Andreas Dippel of the Chicago Grand Opera company has announced a ten-weeks' season of opera in Chicago, beginning Nov. 3. The company will then go to Philadelphia, the opera to be given in connection with the Metropolitan Opera company of New York. Among the singers to appear are Melba, Farrar, Charles Dalmores and Ricardo Martin. There will be exchanges of singers with New York and Boston.

• • •

The company to support Richard Carle in "Jumping Jupiter," under the direction of Frazee and Lederer, includes Edna Wallace Hopper, Lillian Shaw, Pauline Perry, Florence Reid, Frances Kennedy, John Park, J. C. Miron, Frederick Santley, Madison Smith and Ryley Chamberlain.

For the production of "Three Million Dollars," Charles Mark's new musical play, which is to be seen for the first time on any stage, in Atlantic City, on July 25, he has engaged "Juliet," Louis A. Simon, May Boley, Mark Smith and a chorus of seventy.

Al H. Woods has decided on the title of Julian Eltinge's new play. It will be called "An American Bride," and will open at a Broadway theater Aug. 5. Mr. Woods will also make four other new productions early next season. A musical comedy, "The Pet of Petticoats;" a French farce, "Marriage a la Carte," and two melo-dramas, one entitled "The Other Woman" and the other "The Brute." For "The Other Woman" Woods already has engaged Laura Nelson Hall and Nanette Comstock.

After sixteen years of married life, Bessie Clayton has decided that she desires her freedom. Through the courts of New Jersey she has brought an action against Julian Mitchell for an absolute divorce. Although the papers in the action were served on Mitchell several days ago, the fact has been known to only a few intimate friends. Miss Clayton mentions as the cause of her domestic unhappiness a young woman now appearing in the "Follies of 1910" company, of which Mr. Mitchell is the stage manager. Mr. Mitchell's answer to the complaint has not been filed as yet, but it is known that he will vigorously deny the charges, explaining that Miss Clayton's action is the result of unwarranted jealousy, since, as a matter of fact, his relations with the young woman mentioned are strictly those of stage director and player.

From the West comes a repetition of the rumor of a month ago that William Collier will not appear under the management of Charles Frohman next year. During his appearance in San Francisco in "A Lucky Star," Mr. Collier has been in frequent telegraphic communication with Lew Fields. It is said that negotiations have practically been completed whereby Mr. Fields will assume the management of Collier. The latter's contract with Charles Frohman expires at the end of this season. Mr. Collier admits that he has not yet signed any contract for next year, and that he is in communication with M. Fields. Further statement Mr. Collier would not make. Mr. Collier next season will appear in a new play called "West," by Edgar Selwyn.

Grace van Studdiford has filed in Cleveland, Ohio, a $10,000 counter suit against Joseph Weber, who is suing here for $750 for booking her musical comedy, "The Golden Butterfly." Miss van Studdiford alleges that booking her in poor territory caused her that much loss.

August L. Stevenson's "A Girl From My Town," a comedy, was produced at the Grand opera house, Brooklyn, last Wednesday night. In the cast were Edna May, Cecil and Mrs. Mary Gibbs Spooner. In support of the Spooners were Augustus Phillips, Louise Allen, Hal Clarendon, Philip Leigh, Olive Grove, Richard Purdon, Fannie Louise Carter, Edward F. Nagle and David Levy.

Billie Burke and her mother sailed on the Oceanic June 15. Miss Burke will return in September and resume her tour in "Mrs. Dot." After a three months' tour she will be seen at the Lyceum in a new production.

AT THE BIJOU

Special Program of Vaudeville Features for Holiday Week---New Ventilating System Keeps the Theater Cool ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

The Bijou is one of the coolest places in town these days to spend an hour or two. Several small fans have been installed, besides two large 500-volt fans to send fresh air into the theater, at the rate of 7,000 cubic feet in minute. Large crown ventilators are being added to the air stacks on the roof of the theater.

People who visit the popular theater will receive double value, in the line of good vaudeville. Heading the bill will be one of America's foremost comedy stars, Emmet DeVoy, who became a prominent star in the theatrical world several years ago. His recent success as a star in the big New York success, "In Dreamland," placed him higher up on the ladder of fame. Like many other stars, Mr. DeVoy has entered the vaudeville ranks for a season or two, and his success up to date has been equal to that in the dramatic or musical comedy field.

Mr. DeVoy has been engaged for a special tour of the Sullivan & Considine circuit for a limited number of weeks. He has with him a very clever company of entertainers, among whom is Miss Herminie Shone a notable and capable actress who will be remembered as the principle star in the "Darling of the Gods," a piece that had a six months' run in Boston and New York. The vaudeville skit that Mr. DeVoy and company are playing was written by Mr. DeVoy himself, and is entitled "The Saintly Mr. Billings." It is built for laughing purposes only, although the piece has a charming and interesting plot. Mr. DeVoy will handle the principal part, while Miss Shone will be seen as a breezy society lady from Chicago. Others in the cast will be Walter Wahl and Will Gaylor, both of whom are clever actors.

A good musical offering is always a welcome feature, and for the week of the Fourth we have one of the best in vaudeville and one that has appeared in the principle theaters of both Europe and America. The act is Stuart Kollins and his banjo girls, the Misses Allison and Carmen. This trio is composed of talented musicians and their banjo selections are rendered in such an artistic manner that one would think they were listening to a full concert orchestra, if they did not see the musicians. The program they present is of popular and classical selections. The numbers are selected to please all tastes in the music line.

A vocal number that will be one of the principle features of the week will be William H. Maxwell, and Daisy Dudley, who are presenting a gem in the vaudeville line entitled "The Singing Lesson." Both these artists are blessed with beautiful singing voices, having been featured with several of the best musical organiations in the country, and they are probably the two best known singers in vaudeville. The act they present is from the pen of Will H. Cressy, who is one of the foremost sketch writers of America. The singing lesson is full of bright situations and dialogue, and the singing numbers will be a treat to all who hear them.

One of the liveliest singing and dancing acts that has appeared at the Bijou in some time will be George Stokes and Carrie Ryan. From the time this clever pair enter the stage until the close of their act there is something doing. They were recently featured with the Murray and Mack company, and from all accounts their vaudeville debut is one big success. Mr. Stokes is a clever comedian, singer and dancer, while Miss Ryan has a magnificent voice, and a charming stage appearance that always meets the approval of her audience. The act should be one of the best seen this season.

A gymnastic novelty will be the act of Ernest Yerxas in a novelty posturing turn that offers many new sensations. Lovers of physical culture will do well to see this act as it is one of the best before the public.

James B. Adams will sing his best illustrated song success entitled, "Because of You." A beautiful ballad, illustrated with beautiful views. The motion pictures will be all new and exclusive subjects, showing pictures of the better class. Matinees are given daily at 2.45 and performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. A children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon at 2:30 and performances Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Fritzi Scheff to Be Operatic "Trilby"—Louis Mann Opens in "The Cheater"—Brady Continues to Be Busiest Manager on Broadway.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Considerable speculation has been indulged in recently regarding Fritzi Scheff's next production under the management of the Shuberts. It was announced that she would appear in an English version of "Madame Butterfly" and tour the country. I don't know why this information was given out, but the truth is that she is to be presented in the operatic treatment of "Trilby," which William A. Brady announced among his plans some time ago. Harry B. Smith is now at work on the book, and the music will be composed by Victor Herbert. This was agreed on between the Shuberts and Brady, the latter relinquishing his rights to the former.

Brady continues to be the busiest manager on Broadway. The first hot wave has sent most of his associates scurrying, but Brady is not deterred by the hot weather which has come upon us. His first new production went on the stage of the Lyric Monday evening. On that night he presented Louis Mann in his own adaptation from the German of Emanuel Rittersdorf, entitled "The Cheater," a farce in three acts. In the cast are Ann Wellman and Mathilde Cotrelly, who were with the comedian in "The Man Who Stood Still." This means the end of De Wolf Hopper's run in "The Matinee Idol." The farce is to be followed by other new works, which Mr. Brady has in lavender.

The only other new material is another of those spectacular novelties which Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., has been annually staging on the roof of the New York theater. "The Follies of 1910," to-wit. The piece is pretty much on the lines of everything burlesquable that has been seen in previous shows. The singing in the main is anything but gratifying to the fairly cultured ear, and the music is of the usual trite Broadway quality. A pleasing feature is a swinging chorus, led by Lillian Loraine, in which a lot of pretty chorus girls swing out over the heads of the audiences, and another feature that scored was the singing of "Lovey Joe," by Fannie Brice, who is a new coon singer that reminds the Broadwayites somewhat of Maud Raymond at her best. Bert Williams, the colored comedian, is also in the cast.

Incidentally let me remark that Williams is one of the most popular comedians in New York. The public idolizes him, but when it was announced that he was to be in the cast, there was a merry uproar among the "artists" of the Follies, and they made their protest so effective that he had to be given a special part that in a way differentiates him from the rest of the company. Other members of the Follies company are Bickel and Watson, Grace Tyson, Billy Reeves, Alice Hegeman and Louise Alexander. The words are by Harry B. Smith, the music by Gus Edwards and others.

The question of who shall monopolize the operatic field in New York next season has again bobbed up in a controversy between the directors of the Metropolitan opera house and Oscar Hammerstein. According to the latest version of the dispute, Hammerstein did not feel himself bound by the terms of his agreement with the Metropolitan to the extent of quitting the operatic field entirely. It appears that Hammerstein contends that he has a right to produce so-called "opera comique," which is a French term designed to differentiate between grand opera, such as the Wagner and Strauss operas, "Thais" and the like—and a lighter form of romantic opera which comes within the above elastic definition.

When the Metropolitan bought out the irrespressible Oscar it was stipulated that he was not to produce "grand opera." Hammerstein construed this to mean that he was at liberty to go into "opera comique" as extensively as he desired, hearing which an installment of $100,000 due him, it is reported, was held up pending action to decide whether this did not come within the

THE MOTION PICTURES

Special Holiday Week Programs Are Provided at The Orpheum and Lyric Theaters—Houses Cooled By Electric Fans.

Electric fans make the Orpheum and Lyric theaters the coolest places in town during the hot weather.

That the coolness is appreciated is shown by the large crowds that attend each performance. Many have been known to go simply because it was such a relief to be out of the extreme heat of the outside.

The programs for next week are said to be the best arranged in some time. At the Orpheum will be given a picture entitled "The Great Train Robbery." This is said to be one of the most exciting scenes ever thrown on the canvas. "Hang Your Hat in Detroit" is the song to be sung by Miss Marie Nelson.

At the Lyric "A Victim of Hate" is said to be a picture of more than ordinary interest. Miss Daisey Erd will sing. The programs follows:

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

The weather man is letting up a little on suffering humanity today and the cool breezes are a decided relief after the heat of the past two weeks. Today is fair and the temperature is bearable, the change being responsible for unbounded joy. The highest temperature yesterday was 91 and the lowest last night was 66. The promised showers did not fall and Duluth is still praying for rain.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:17 and it will set at 8:06, giving fifteen hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The conditions that favored showers in this section have apparently passed by. The Red river valley disturbance has moved its center to the region north of Lake Superior. During the last twenty-four hours it caused scattered rains over South Dakota and Montana. There has been a decided increase in pressure throughout the Northwest since Friday morning and temperatures are generally a little cooler as a result. Further showers fell over the lower Mississippi valley and Alabama. The barometer continues high over Florida and low over Arizona, but pressures are falling over the plateau region, which latter condition appears somewhat favorable as affecting the present stagnant atmospheric circulation."

General Forecasts.

Upper Lakes: Light to moderate westerly winds and generally fair tonight and Sunday.

Chicago, July 2.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; slightly cooler in extreme east portion Sunday.

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; cooler in west and central portions.

Minnesota, North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Sunday.

Iowa and Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday.

MAN KILLED BY ORE TRAIN

Employment Card Found in Pocket Made Out to John Coty.

Terribly Mangled Body Found Beside Track By Train Crew.

An unknown man, 50 years of age, was killed by a train on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern tracks last night near Mile Post No. 28. An early morning train crew discovered the body which is at the present time at Stewart's undertaking rooms awaiting identification. The coroner has been notified.

A card in the pocket of the clothes worn by the dead man bore the name Joe Coty. It was issued by a local employment bureau on May 28. As the card stated that the bearer was entitled to work for the Duluth & Rainy Lake Lumber company at Casson, Minn., it is presumed by the local police that Coty is the name of the victim. As yet no information has been obtained.

The body was badly mangled. One leg and one arm were torn off the body. The clothes were torn from the body and one foot was badly crushed.

The dead man is about 5 feet and 1 inch high. He was apparently a laborer and wore a dark mustache.

Details as to how the accident happened are lacking.

THE TRUE TEST

Tried in Duluth, It Has Stood the Test.

The hardest test is the test of time, and Doan's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Duluth. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:

H. G. Hibke, 1123 Woodland avenue, Duluth, Minn., says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney trouble, brought on I believe by constant driving and exposure to all kinds of weather. Severe pains in the small of my back made stooping or lifting difficult and every cold I caught settled in my kidneys, aggravating my complaint. I was also subject to headaches and the kidney secretions often became highly colored and irregular in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I have not had a symptom of my trouble since."

The above statement was given on Oct. 20, 1904 and on Nov. 20, Mr. Hibke added: "Since using Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago I have had no need of a kidney remedy. I willingly confirm all I have previously said about this preparation, as I know it is very effective in cases of kidney complaint."

on bail because he said Martin's condition was not serious. The prisoner expected his father to spend the Fourth of July with him, and it would be wrong, he said, to ask a man of Col. Watterson's age to pass the day in a jail. Watterson's counsel will renew his application for bail before Supreme Court Justice Betts.

"Suffered Religious Mania."

New York, July 2.—Conflicting reports as to the identity of the man who yesterday at Saugerties, N. Y., while apparently demented shot and slightly wounded Michael Martin, a saloon proprietor, were cleared up today when it was learned that Martin's assailant was Ewing Watterson, eldest son of Col. Henry Watterson of Louisville, Ky. Watterson is under arrest at Saugerties.

Col. Watterson, who is in this city, was appraised of his son's outbreak and plans to go to Saugerties late today, or tomorrow to look after the young man's interests. From him the circumstances of the case were learned.

Ewing Watterson, his father says, has for some years been the victim of a form of religious mania which has failed completely to yield to any treatment. In an effort to better his son's condition, Col. Watterson placed him for some time on a ranch in the West and when this environment failed to result in improvement in his condition, bought him a farm in the Hudson river hills, near Saugerties, where it was hoped the air and quiet surroundings would benefit him.

Shot Three Times.

This hope seems to have been dissipated by yesterday's happenings, when Ewing Watterson, according to the reports from Saugerties, entered Martin's place of business and created a disturbance. After some words with the proprietor, Watterson opened fire with his revolver, shooting Martin three times. None of the three bullets inflicted a serious injury. Watterson was locked up and word was sent to his father in this city.

From what could be learned of Col. Watterson's plans it is expected that application will be made to have Ewing Watterson placed in a sanitarium or asylum. His mania had never before manifested itself in a violent form.

Lost Son in 1908.

Another son of Col. Watterson, Harvey W. Watterson, was killed in this city in November 1908, by falling from the nineteenth floor of a Wall street office building.

Life in Sweden.

Speaking of Sweden and his diplimatic post at Stockholm, Col. Graves said he found life very pleasant there. As there are more Swedes in America than in any other country except Sweden, the American legation is an especially important one at the Swedish capital and the duties of the minister are varied and numerous. Besides the legation business proper, the minister is called upon to conduct a large correspondence in connection with things not usually considered to be in his sphere.

"We are always glad to be of service to the Swedish and Swedish-American people," said the minister. "At Stockholm we are constantly in contact with the Swedish-Americans and they have many occasions to transact business with the legation."

Asked if accounts of the popular receptions extended Col. Roosevelt in Europe, as published here, might not have been slightly overdrawn, Col. Graves replied with a positive negative.

"The people of Sweden were very anxious to see the former president," he said, "and the reception given him was genuinely cordial and sincere. They regard Mr. Roosevelt as one of the great men of the time and were eager to do him honor."

The fact that Col. and Mrs. Graves were in the city became widely known this morning and their many old friends were eager to greet them and welcome them home. Mr. Graves, because of his long absence from the city found much to interest him in the changes that have taken place, although he has kept well posted on the progress of Duluth in the past five years. As he had a large part in the making of the city and is one of the most eminent of its citizens, his presence here at this time is an opportunity that is being improved by scores of friends who have known him well for years in business, social and political life.

Gladness comes with a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed and assisted by the pleasant laxative remedy Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

Its beneficial effects are due to the fact that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

MAYOR MAL PROHIBIT USE OF FIREWORKS ON INDEPENDENCE DAY

the certainty that alarms will be coming in from all parts of the city, the fire fighters will be unable to cope with the situation, even by dividing the apparatus to make it cover the largest possible field.

The national holiday is the occasion for picnics and out-of-door parties, which will leave many homes, or whole neighborhoods practically deserted. Once started a fire would assume vast proportions before the department would be able to reach it. And with the pumping station taxed to its capacity to supply the ordinary demands of the last few days, a further handicap would be offered from this source.

There is a strong sentiment in the city in favor of the mayor's stand. Thousands of people, casting aside the thought of noise and fun in consideration of property and life, would support such a proclamation on the part of Mayor Cullum.

On all sides the danger is fully recognized. People generally are firm in the declaration that the city would insure itself by the prohibition of fire crackers and fireworks July 4.

Chief Joseph Randall of the fire department states emphatically that the use of explosives should be absolutely stopped unless there is a heavy rain before that time. He is planning to make the fullest use of the men and apparatus at his disposal, but he is fearful of the consequences should the celebration be general with the city in its present dry condition.

Further, the hot weather is very hard on the horses. Should too many demands be made upon them they will be unable to respond. In that case the city would witness the spectacle of green horses being pressed into service. That would have to be done. Already scores of horses in the city have been overcome and it is almost certain that should the fire department animals be pressed hard with the heavy apparatus, several of them would be killed or so badly overcome that they would have to be shot.

No Premature Celebration.

Strict orders have already been issued to all members of the police department.

The men and officers are directed to arrest all persons on a charge of disorderly conduct who attempt to celebrate the Fourth before or after that date. The instructions are to confine the celebration to the one day.

The bulletin put out by Chief Troyer yesterday follows:

"To all officers of this department:

"You are hereby commanded to prohibit so far as possible any persons in the city of Duluth from using any firecrackers or discharging other fireworks, especially anything which makes a loud noise and is liable to cause fires, before the 4th day of July, and to arrest all persons on a charge of disorderly conduct who attempts to celebrate in this way before that date.

"You are also notified that a new ordinance which has recently been passed, prohibiting the use of firecrackers and other fireworks, will take effect on July 5, 1910, and any persons found discharging fireworks of any kind on and after July 5 should be arrested and charged with violating the above mentioned ordinance. In other words you are to confine the celebration as nearly as possible to July 4, and no other day, and you are also instructed to take all possible precautions against fires on account of the celebration for the reason that everything combustible is at present extremely dry and inflamable, and the danger of having a tremendous fire in the city is very great. Yours respectfully,

"C. H. TROYER,
"Chief of Police."

Alderman MacDonell of the Fifth ward suggested today that if there is no rain before the Fourth, another day following rain could be selected for the red fire. He declared himself as heartily in favor of any proclamation forbidding the use of fire crackers or fire works July 4. He stated that it should be done in the present dry weather.

One man said this morning that buildings about the city are so dry that the stream from an ordinary garden hose makes little impression. He said that the wood is so void of moisture that it sucks up all that can be poured on by the small stream.

The larger business men and those having inflammable property in the city will have watchmen day and night several days before and after the Fourth. They feel that the danger is so great that they cannot afford to take the slightest chance.

Those fitted with hose for fire purposes have been playing them continually day after day. The docks, buildings and sheds along the harbor have been getting continual wettings for the last two weeks. One large mill has borrowed several street sprinklers from the board of public works. Each night they keep them working eight or ten hours, soaking down the grounds.

boys need not be members of the association and there will be no charge. Any boy who wants to learn how to swim is invited to come to the swimming pool every morning during July from 9 to 11 o'clock. The only days the classes will not be held are Saturday and Sunday. It is thought that the accommodations will be swamped by the onslaught of youths but the directors will do their best to handle the situation. Some system will be devised of cards or tickets, but every boy intending to take advantage of this offer should be on hand next Monday morning.

This offer will do a great amount of good. With the prominent place that water sports are taking in the life of the youth of the city, this effort to teach every body how to swim will be greatly appreciated by the parents of the boys. The free swimming lessons will not interfere with the regular swimming lessons for the members of the boys' department.

HYDE WOULD GET OUT FOR THE BIG EVENT.

Kansas City, Mo., July 2.—A petition signed by Dr. B. Clark Hyde and his attorneys, asking that the imprisoned physician be allowed to visit his home at the time of the birth of his expected heir, has been handed to Judge Ralph S. Latshaw of the criminal court. Judge Latshaw said the request would be granted.

MANY CALLS FOR FIREMEN

Six Runs in One Day But Total Damage Is Light.

Firecrackers Are Responsible for Two of the Fires.

The fire department put in a busy day yesterday

In all there were six runs made. Some of them were long, but there was but little damage.

In two instances at least the fires were the result of the setting off of firecrackers.

The dwelling at 620½ West Third street was set on fire in this manner as was one near Twentieth avenue west and Michigan street. There was but little damage at either place and the fires in both instances were directly the result of carelessness on the part of boys engaged in a premature celebration of the Fourth.

A number of firemen were sent to Colbyville where they assisted the farmers in fighting forest fires. One residence was at one time in danger, but backfiring successfully checked the flames.

There were grass fires on East Fourth street, at Fifty-seventh avenue west, and Sixty-seventh avenue east.

LEG IS BROKEN IN RUNAWAY

Young Woman Jumps From Carriage and Is Injured.

Miss Katherine Constantine sustained a fracture of the right leg and several severe cuts and bruises on the head and body when she leaped from a buggy dragged by a team of runaway horses last night. She was taken to St. Luke's hospital where her injuries were dressed by Dr. John Jakcola. She was one of a party of four. Her brother, James H. Constantine, was driving. He stopped to let off one of those with him at Third avenue west and Second street and accidentally dropped the lines, frightening the horses, which broke away at a full gallop. Miss Constantine became frightened and leaped for safety. The others remained in the carriage and escaped unhurt when the runaway was stopped a few blocks further on. She was reported as improved at the hospital this morning.

WALSH PARDON TALKED OF AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, July 2.—A conference over the case of John R. Walsh, the Chicago banker now in prison, was held at the department of justice yesterday. George T. Buckingham of Chicago, counsel for Walsh, had a long talk with Pardon Attorney Finch in which the whole question of the banker's case was discussed. The attorney did not indicate when Walsh would petition the president for a pardon, but considerable information was gleaned as to the proceedure necessary. A number of friends have urged the president to pardon the banker, but the latter thus far has refrained from sending any petition.

Great Northern "Arrested."

Crookston, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Armed with a warrant for the "arrest" of the Great Northern railroad for not extinguishing a fire alongside its right-of-way, near Dugdale, Deputy Sheriff Edward Kelly got service upon Agent James O'Connell and the case will come up in municipal court in a few days. The complaint is made under chapter 182, laws of 1909, which provides that the railroads must use all means at hand to extinguish a fire when they know, or ought to know, of its existence.

Winona, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winona defeated Duluth by the score of 2 to 1 here yesterday, the winning run being scored in the ninth inning through the working of a clever squeeze play.

Duluth's only run was scored in the first inning on a walk and Vasbinder's hit for three bases. In the sixth the Sox came within an ace of scoring, a great throw from left by Graves cutting off O'Brien at the plate.

In the sixth the Pirates tied the score on a base on balls, sacrifice, fielder's choice and wild pitch.

After allowing a hit in the ninth and issuing a pass Blancke was yanked in favor of Dietrich. O'Brien attempted to take Dietrich out before he had delivered a ball, but Umpire Arundel refused to allow the pitcher to leave the game. The game was protested by the Duluth managers.

A sacrifice, and an error upon the part of Dietrich, filled the bases. Dausa was called to the mound and upon the first ball pitched the squeeze play was worked, the locals forcing the winning run over the plate.

No "Trouble" at Reno.

If the reports being sent out of Reno are correct, they don't intend to have any trouble at the ringside of the big battle.

Some of you will remember the threats that filled the air before the calling of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons battle, which was fought in the same desert country of Nevada, clear back in 1897.

There were supposed to be a lot of toughs and rowdies at the ringside. The rumor grew strong and persistent that in the case of the decision going against Corbett, the favorite of the healthy West, George Siler, the referee, since dead, would never live to leave the ring.

Dan Stuart, the promoter of the fight, who has also joined the great majority, heard of the rumor and coped with it promptly and to the point. He had the sage brush gun fighters posted around the ring, and they had their instructions.

The reports coming from Reno say that Capt. Cox, the same indomitable Cox, is at Reno and will have his bush rangers at the ring with him. These lads will be told to act on the impulse, should anyone attempt to interfere with the fight. Acting on impulse in the West often means lead and injuries.

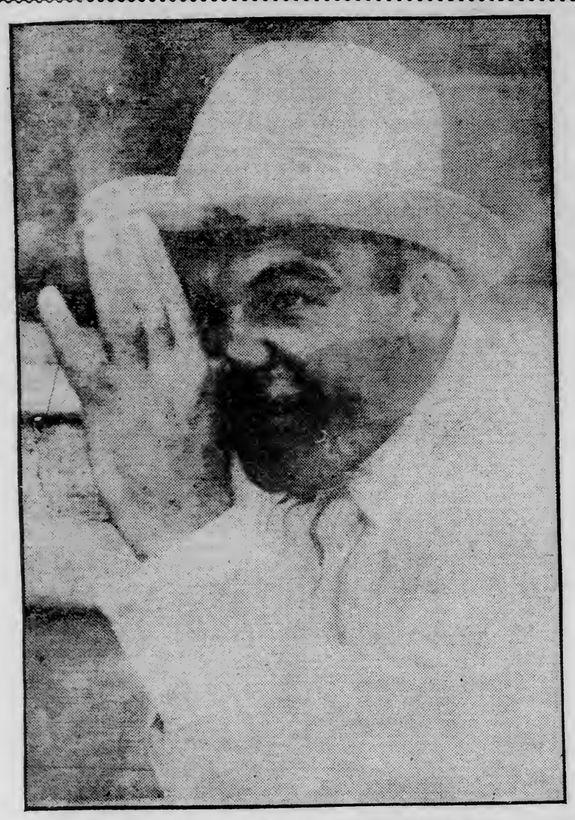

Never on the eve of a great world's championship fight has there been so many conflicting rumors, so many misguiding stories and such an air of mystery as there is regarding the present fight. The outcome of the fight is regarded by many with suspicion.

Yesterday there was a story from Chicago that the negroes of that city had refused to wager their money on Johnson, because they thought they saw a fly in the ointment, so to speak.

The negroes of this country have been saving their money for months to gamble on the chances of Johnson. It has been generally believed that the negro population of the country would go broke on the chances of their brother to win the battle from the hope of the white race.

Now comes the rumor stating that the negroes have discovered something funny about the whole affair.

It is hard to see how it could be fixed for the white man to win. If it is fixed, this fact will be discovered some day. That will mean the end of prize fighting, even in Nevada.

One thing suspicious about the fight is the fact that so much money is being plunged on Jeffries. While it would not be strange, perhaps, that Jeffries should be a favorite in the odds, it does seem funny, in view of the fact that the boiler maker has been out of the ring these six years, that he should be made such a pronounced favorite and that there should appear such a roll of Jeffries money.

To give you an example of some local feeling on the subject:

"I know some fellows from the range who have gone out to the fight," said a well-known business man yesterday. "They have all told me that they would wager their money on Jeffries. They all have the hunch that Johnson will not be allowed to win. They think that some how and in some way Jeffries will win."

That same sentiment pervades a large part of the country. It isn't thought possible that Jeff can lose. That is the very peculiar circumstance about the whole affair. Why shouldn't he lose? He has been out of the ring for six long years, which have been filled with idleness and the luxury of living.

All this time Johnson has been fighting and he has been getting consistently and steadily better. He wanted to fight Jeffries before the undefeated champion retired. Jeffries refused. Johnson thought at that time that he could defeat Jeffries.

About all has been said that can be said, about the fight. The men have trained to the very pink, we are informed. The siege of each fighter is over. They are simply taking enough exercise between now and the time they enter the ring to keep their muscles on edge. The fight will be decided Monday and the speculations of months may be upset.

Let us all hope that the battle is on the square and that the best man wins.

When We Win.

Yesterday was a very good example of how baseball games are won. Cummings was wild but received the very best support in the world. Now when an analysis of the games lost by the Sox the present season is made, it will be found that over half of these games have been lost through inexcusable errors. Errors have placed the Sox in their present lowly position.

Take some of the games that have been played on the home grounds. The Sox have hit the opposing pitchers hard, only to run into great defensive playing upon the part of their opponents. The Sox, on the other hand, have lost innumerable games the present season simply because they have made errors and have permitted the other side to score the one run necessary to win.

Remember all the games we have lost by one run the present season. Most of these games would have been won, had the infield of the Champions played ordinarily good baseball. When the pitchers of the team get the kind of support that Cummings received yesterday, the Sox will start winning games.

Hope Is Growing.

There is at last a real and genuine belief that the present junior eight of the Duluth Boat club may win one of the events at the Western regatta. This belief has come into being after the good work done by the crew the present week.

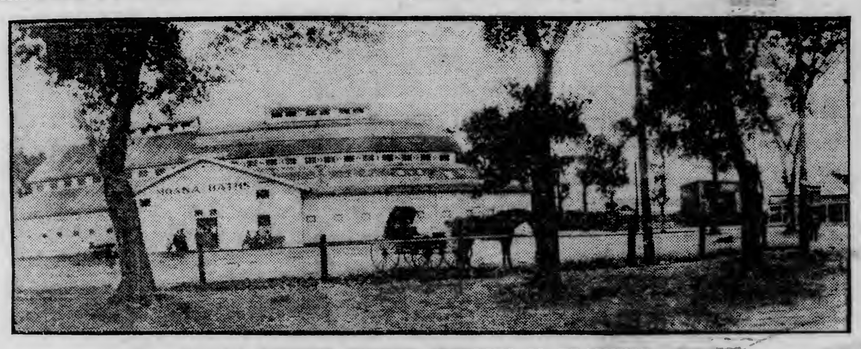

The improvement has been encouraging. For the first time in years a Duluth eight is beginning to show watermanship. The blade work is somewhat ragged at the present time, but the men are rowing together, are catching with more precision and power, and are reaching both farther forward and farther back.

It would be a great thing for the club to win the junior event at the regatta the present season. It would encourage rowing at the club. It will encourage the oarsmen who are rowing in the lapstreaks. It will cause more enthusiasm among the members of the club.

It has been a somewhat long and dreary stretch of years since a Duluth eight has won at one of the Western regattas. St. Paul and Winnipeg have had their turns, and Duluth has been left out of the honor winning. The big opportunity is before the members of the eight, and if every man in the boat does his best between now and the time the shells cross the finish line at Kenora, there is no reason why the colors of Duluth should not be flashed across the line ahead.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT

Information from the always interesting little city of Eau Claire states that Russ Bailey, the star outfielder of the 1909 Eau Claire aggregation, is at the present time holding down a seat on the bench. Young Mr. Speer rises to remark that the keeping of Mons. Bailey upon the bench for even a single game, reflects eloquently the strength of the Angels.

There is a natural curiosity to learn just what will be done with the man Milwaukee turned back. The way the Eau Claire outfield is going at the present time, it will require some playing upon the part of Bailey to break in.

However, it is very probable that before many days Russ will be seen on the team, as his hitting and all around work will add strength to a team that is going mighty fast at the present time.

Dang has replaced McNutt in the Winona outfield. McNutt never did look very good in the Winona garden. He was not up to the class of Graves, though neither is Crangle for that matter. The Winona papers appear to think Dang a likely player. In the short time he has been with the team he has shown the proper baseball spirit.

This man Swanson of the Red Wing Indians breaks into the limelight more often and more consistently than any member of the Malloy band. He is often accused of saving a game for the Indians by some sensational catch in the outfield, and in addition to his ability as an outfielder, Swanson is the possessor of a whip that makes Tom Taylor, Crangle and some of the other outfielders of the league green with envy. He has prevented many a score at the plate by accurate throws from deep spots in the garden. Malloy last year with La Crosse had the reputation of being one of the classiest outfielders in the league. The work of Swanson the present season has been easily the equal of the work of Manager Mike.

If you asked Mike Breyette of the Eau Claire team how long he has been playing baseball the little man would probably change the subject. He has been in the game for quite a while, yes. One time he was given a tryout with the Minneapolis team. Mike just failed to make good. The Western league was his stamping grounds for a long time. The present season he has been playing the game of his sweet young life. Perhaps it is the elation of success that come to several members of the Schoonhoven brigade. Breyette is a spry and chesty little cuss, considering his years and the fact that he is a married man.

While here on his last trip President John A. Elliott of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league made the prediction that the organization would move up a higher notch in the scale of organized baseball the coming year. It is believed that the M-W will move into the class C division when the result of the census is announced. The executive of the league believes the league is fast enough for class C ball and also believes the organization is upon a very firm basis.

So far the present season the attendance in every city of the league has been good. In the six cities that were in the organization last season, the attendance has been larger than it was last year. In the two new mem-

YOU MUST BUY THE HERALD EXTRA FOR THE FIGHT NEWS

If you want first returns from the Jeffries-Johnson prizefight at Reno on July 4, you will have to buy The Herald's Sporting Extra, as the Associated Press wire will be the only one bringing news of the big battle direct to Duluth. Following is a copy of a dispatch sent out from New York, the text being taken from the tickers of the Western Union service:

General Manager Brooks of the Western Telegraph company issued a notice today that the company would not furnish news bulletins, either by special wire, by messenger or by its tickers, relating to the progress of the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno, Nev., on July 4. Applications have been made for such service in various parts of the country. The Western Union Telegraph company will confine itself to the handling of such messages as may be filed for regular transmission in the ordinary manner at Reno by press associations, by newspapers and by individuals.

JEFFRIES AND JOHNSON

Fighting Careers of the Two Heavyweights to Meet on the Fourth—How They Won Their Spurs in the Fistic Arena.

When James J. Jeffries was born, thirty-five years ago April 15 last, a first-class fighting man was created. He was endowed with everything that goes to make up a fighter, right from the start. He did not need to train and school himself to any great extent. He had both the brain and the brawn, and all he lacked was the ambition to win fame as a fighter. When that ambition did come to him it required but two years for him to vanquish every fighter worthy of consideration, and make the championship title one of his personal assets. Once he secured it, the only way he could find of ridding himself of the burdens it imposed was to give it away. That is what Jeff did with it. He looked over the field of worthy heavyweights with a view to adopting one of them as his heir. Eight years after his first fight he decided that Marvin Hart was the heir-apparent, and abdicated in Hart's favor.

One of the striking things about Jeffries is the fact that it took a great deal of argument to convince him that he was a fighting man at all. Despite nature's generosity to him in the matter of size and strength, he had a strong suspicion all the time that he was intended to be a farmer. Through his early life he displayed great fondness for getting close to nature via a fishing rod or a gun, and spent quite a bit of time among the mountains. He developed a decided fondness for country life, and when he resigned his high state as champion, having annexed enough money through purses, moving pictures and stage appearances to do what he pleased, he hastened to a farm in Southern California with the intention of ending his days as a sort of country squire. Had John Arthur Johnson and the color question not interfered with his plans, he would, in all probability, have carried out that determination.

His First Fights.

Jeffries was born in Carroll, Ohio, in 1876, but his parents came to California so soon after his arrival that he is looked upon almost as a native of that state. Little is recorded of his doings prior to 1897 beyond the fact that he was a mighty hunter, a good boiler marker, and a rough and tumble fighter with whom few cared to mix. He never was an amateur fighter. The first time he entered the ring he did so on the spur of the moment, accepting the challenge of a colored fighter named "Hank" Griffin because of the money he would get by defeating the challenger. The fight occured in Los Angeles, Cal., in 1893, and Jeff accomplished the defeat of the colored man in fourteen rounds, winding up with an artistic knockout.

While this victory did not seem to arouse Jeff to any ambition as a fighter, it attracted the attention of fighters to him as a valuable training partner. He seconded a middelweight named Billy Gallagher in San Francisco two years later, and Gallagher got him a match in 1896 with Dan Long of Denver. There was a $1,000 purse up, and Long went to sleep in the second round, when Jeff's left encountered his nose.

It was shortly after this that Jim Corbett began to prepare for his fight with Bob Fitzsimmons, which gave the latter the championship. Harry Corbett, Jim's brother, who was on the lookout for sparring partners, sent Jeff up to Carson City, Nevada, to join Jim's training staff. Corbett hammered the big fellow unmercifully, but Jeff was absorbing knowledge of the fighting game through every pore. These were his first real boxing lessons, and he took them from a master of the craft. Within three weeks after Corbett's defeat, Jeff was in the ring again on his own hook, doing away with the aspirations of two promising heavy weights in quick succession in 1897.

Draw With Ruhlin.

So much had Jeff benefited by Corbett's training that he was marked as a coming fighter at once, and a match was arranged for him with Gus Ruhlin of Akron Ohio, which was fought in San Francisco in 1897. The fight went twenty rounds to a draw.

In the same year Jeffries fought Joe Choynski a twenty-round draw. He recalls this fight particularly, he says, because Choynski landed on his jaw the hardest blow he ever received. It was a right-hander, and had so much good will behind it that Jeffries never forgot it. That punch was one of the things that made Jeffries call Choynski to his aid when he decided to return to the ring to fight Johnson.

During the next year Jeffries began to find out how strong he really was. He knocked out Joe Goddard of Australia, a hardy fighter with many victories to his credit, followed that up by knocking out Old Peter Jackson in three rounds, and making Mexican Pete Everett quit in less than three. A twenty-round draw with Tom Sharkey came in the same year, and then Jeffries went to New York, where he was matched to fight two men in one evening. The first of these was Bob Armstrong (colored), and Jeff damaged his hand against the big black to such an extent that he could not meet Steve O'Donnell, the other man, much to the delight of O'Donnell's friends.

Defeated Fitzsimmons.

During this time Bob Fitzsimmons was retaining the championship against all comers. A match was made between Jeff and Bob at Coney Island, 1899. It was looked upon as a joke, as the man who had gathered Jim Corbett's scalp in decisive style was thought to be able to play with the big green hand, Jeffries. Fitzsimmons did play with him—for nine rounds. If there was any part of Jeff's head he did not hit at will, nobody at the ringside could locate the place. But in the tenth Fitz tired, and in the eleventh, after going down twice, he was unable to get up a third time and Jim Jeffries was champion of the world.

Five months later Jeffries met Tom Sharkey again in a twenty-five round fight at Coney Island. Jeff got a decision over the sailor, but he declares that Sharkey is the gamest man who ever entered the ring.

Corbett, by this time, was eager to get a match with his former sparring partner. The fight was arranged, and for twenty rounds Jeffries took a terrific amount of punishment. He utterly failed to reach Corbett with his gloves, although Corbett battered him around so freely that the big fellow looked foolish. Jeff's seconds told him that he was an ex-champion beyond doubt unless he did something, and Jeff went out to do it in the next round. He tore after Corbett, minding the storm of blows that met him no more than he would mind so many raindrops. His left reached Corbett's mid-section in the twenty-third round, and a moment later his right ended the fight with a short-arm jolt to the jaw.

Jeffs next fight of any importance was with his old opponent, Ruhlin. After five rounds Ruhlin quit. Jeff had learned too much for Ruhlin between their meetings.

Second Fight With Fitz.

Probably the greatest amount of punishment Jeff ever took—and he took a lot of it first and last—was in his second fight with Fitzsimmons. The fight took place in 1902, and Fitz threw all his cleverness and strength into the first three rounds. Jeff's face was badly cut by his blows, and while Fitz was fresh the champion looked like a novice beside him. But he could not keep it up, and he could not seem to worry Jeff to any extent. In the eighth Jeff's right caught the old champion in the stomach, his left went to the jaw, and Fitzsimmons was classed among the has-beens for good.

The second fight with Jim Corbett was Jeff's last important fight. In that fight Jeff showed that he had at last learned the boxing game. He outfought Corbett, the admitted master of glove work and foot work, at every point of the game, and in the eleventh Corbett went down for the count. This was Corbett's last appearance in the ring.

Just prior to his retirment Jeff fought a four-round draw with Jack Munroe at Butte. It was a stay-four-rounds offer, and Munroe stayed by clinging to Jeff all the time. Munroe, after the fight, claimed he had knocked Jeff down. As a matter of fact the big man slipped and fell; but Munroe boasted of his alleged triumph until Jeff's anger was aroused and another fight arranged. They met in San Francisco and Munroe went down and out in the second round.

In his preparation for his fight with Johnson, Jeffries has done the hardest training work he has ever known to undergo.

His methods have been peculiarly his own as a rule. He went in for bear shooting, fishing, mountain climbing and the like, and his trainers had little to say about what he did.

Relied on Corbett.

In preparing for Johnson, however, the retired champion has left no part of his training go uncared for. He would not agree to the match until assured by try-out work and the opinions of physicians that he was physically able to get into good condition. Once assured of that, he took up his quarters in the Santa Cruz mountains, sixty miles south of San Francisco, and drilled as he never drilled before. In his camp Jim Corbett, volunteer aid, reigned supreme. Jeff believed Jim was a wise man on matters connected with care of the body, and he heeded the former champion's words. Joe Choynski was there also, and Bob Armstrong. All three of them were victims of Jeff's handiwork in times past, but they worked hard to prepare him for his last great battle. Among Choynski's unrecorded battles is the defeat via a knockout of Jack Johnson, since during a three round fight at Galveston in 1892. Farmer Burns was another of the training squad. He is a wrestler of considerable repute, and not a day of training passed but Jeffries engaged him in a struggling, hauling, hefting match.

Eight years ago, when Johnson began to boom on the pugilistic horizon, he urged his managers to make every effort to arrange for a fight with Jeffries. "Jeffries can't touch me," was his boast even in those days, and he fretted continually over the fact that until he acquired a reputation, his prospects for a championship battle were but as gauzy as the tail of Halley's comet. He says he believed then as confidently in his ability to achieve the title as he did six years later, when at last his opportunity to battle for the supreme prize was realized.

Johnson's Hardest Struggle.

"It was not my fights themselves, but my fight to get those fights that proved the hardest part of the struggle," Johnson told The Associated Press in recounting his difficulties in reaching the pinnacle of his ambition. "It was my color. They told me to get a 'rep.'; but how was I to get a 'rep.' without meeting fighters of class? But I made them fight me. I just kept plugging along, snapping up what chances to fight I could grab, until by-and-by the top-notchers saw that sooner or later they'd have to take me on. As soon as I had shown what I could do, the fight public—most of the fans, anyway—took sides with me, and that helped a whole lot."

Johnson asserts that he has never been apprehensive of possible defeat in any contest he has engaged in. None of them, he declares, had any terrors for him.

His four most important battles have been fought within the last year and a half, dating from his defeat of Tommy Burns in Australia, December 26, 1908. Having wrested the championship from Burns, he determied to meet and defend his title against all comers. His fights with Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Al Kaufman and Stanley Ketchel followed in rapid succession.

On his fights two or three years before, that had brought him prominence and helped him along greatly in his career, his contests with Sam Langford, the Boston negro, Joe Jeanette, Sam McVey, Denver Ed. Martin, Jim Flynn and others. Johnson lays no particular stress except to regard them as so many rungs of his ladder of success.

"I'm looking for a fight," asserted Johnson, "in which I really can let myself out and show the public just what I can do. That's one reason why I'm so anxious to go up against Jeffries."

Seldom Extended Himself.

Johnson's declaration sustains the judgment of numerous sporting writers, who have maintained for years that the big negro seldom, if ever, extended himself, and was capable of striking harder blows than he has ever delivered in the ring. It appears to have been a general belief that Johnson was "holding back." This was particularly noticeable in his recent fight with Stanley Ketchel. In that bout Johnson toyed with his man all the way. He seemed to think the fight a joke until a slip and a timely punch brought him to his knees and aroused his anger. Just what happened next has never been clearly known. It was too fast to watch, and in an instant's time Ketchel was on his back and being counted out. He did not seem to realize what had struck him, and Johnson himself seemed astonished at the result of his sudden exhibition of strength and speed.

Johnson was born in Galveston, in 1878, his birthday being March 31, and if ring experience goes for anything he has it. In 1901, his first year as a fighter, he fought six fights, winning all but one, which was a draw. The next year he went into the ring sixteen times, and from then on was almost constantly engaged until to date he has to his credit over sixty battles. While many of his opponents have not been of the style to test his mettle, his frequent bouts have served at least to keep him always in training, and this is one of the strong arguments of his partisans.

Temperamentally Johnson is an interesting study. His chief characteristic is his unfailing good nature, a curiously constant sort of even temper that nothing seems to ruffle. His "golden smile" is seldom out of evidence, and not even the coarse and insulting jibes that frequently greet him from fight spectators seem to have the power to disturb him. Even when ducking a storm of blows and showing wonderful skill in evading the onslaughts of his opponent, Johnson never loses his poise nor his power of observation. His eyes take in and appraise everything that transpires at the ringside. He seems to hear every comment made by the onlookers, and even in the midst of a clinch, when every muscle is tense, will recognize a witty sally from the audience with a flash of his ready smile, and, like as not, an equally witty rejoinder thrown at the audience over the reeking shoulder against which he is pressing.

Always Cool-Headed.

"Why don't you fight, you black man?" yelled an enthusiast at the Johnson-Kaufman fight. The men were in a clinch at the time, but without an instant's hesitation, Johnson shouted back, "Why should I fight? I've got your ten dollars already."

And this cool-headedness under fire is another of the negro's qualities upon which the backers count, believing it impossible to rattle him by any known ring tactics. That his good nature does not indicate a low order of intelligence, however, has been clearly shown by his clever business methods and his rather well done ringside speeches. Men who have watched him say he simply has no nerves, using the word in the accepted sense.

Johnson feels that he has been well trained for this fight. He regards his present staff that has whipped him into shape in his wind-swept camp on

ARRANGEMENT OF THE ARENA

Reno, Nev., July 2.—With the last plank in place, the canvas covering of the ring stretched until it cannot slip or rumple beneath the feet of the fighters, the arena in which James J. Jeffries and John Arthur Johnson will settle the world's heavyweight championship on Monday is ready for the thrilling thousands who will see the history-making battle fought out. And the thousands are coming. They are pouring into this little city by every available means of conveyance. Some of them come from the other side of the Atlantic ocean. Some have voyaged across the Pacific, traveling nearly 10,000 miles to witness the fight, and probably there would have been many more from great distances had it not been for the strong opposition to the match and the widespread agitation to prevent it which finally resulted in the transfer to the far less accessible Reno.

The Reno arena is located a mile and a half from the center of the city, and stands where stood the arena in which the Root-Hart fight took place just four years ago. The plan is almost identical with that of the arena in San Francisco which had to be abandoned when the state intervened and caused the shift to Nevada. It is about 300 feet square, and seats 20,000 approximately, and its cost was expected to exceed $17,500.

All Get Full View.

A forest of lumber has gone into the construction of the great octagonal amphitheater. It is so designed that every one of the spectators is insured a full view of the ring in which the battle will be fought. Looking down from the bleachers, it seems absurd to think that enough action could be compressed into that twenty-four foot space to keep such a horde of people interested, even for a minute.

Measured within the ropes with their padded corners, the ring is just twenty-four feet square. From edge to edge in each direction the raised platform is twenty-seven feet, allowing eighteen inches beyond the ropes all around. This space is left for the convenience of the seconds, who must spring into the ring between rounds to fan and wash and encourage their warring chieftains.

Below the edge of the platform runs a narrow bench upon which are located the telegraph instruments which will click the story of the battle around the world. Here also are the telephones with metallic head-dresses attached, through which the thousands on the outside will hear of the progress of the fight via the bulletin boards. Back of this bench are several others, providing in all for 100 newspaper men.

From this level around the ring the sections radiate outward and upward like spokes of a wagon wheel. There are eight of these wedge-shaped sections, and each row of seats is five inches higher than the one in front, the last row rising thirty-five feet from the ground level. The seats do not run one behind the other, soldier-fashion, but alternate so that the man behind looks down on the ring between the heads of the two directly in front of him. By this arrangement the ring will be flanked by a sloping wall of faces and staring eyes, circling the fighters on all sides to a height of thirty-five feet. There will be no spaces and lines between them, just a solid wall of faces glaring down at the white square.

Seats for Aristocrats.

Between the press seats and the bleachers there is a gentle slope upon which approximately 5,000 chairs are grouped. Here the aristocrats will sit at their ease—men to whom a $50 seat for an afternoon's sport is little out of the ordinary. The 5,000 will be on a lower level than the ring, and will look upward at the fighters.

Through the bleacher section wire fences have been run, marking off the zones of financial standing. Behind the highest seats a broad walk surrounds the arena. It leads to the exits, and these are so placed that the flow of the crowd will be well distributed. There is no central point of egress at which crowding thousands may aim, enhancing the danger common to all crowds of panic and stampede.

Beneath the bleachers are the quarters of the fighters, the dressing rooms in which they will don, or rather expose their fighting togs. The two camps are separated by the width of the arena and a short aisle, kept clear of other traffic, will be reserved for each man and his followers when they make their progress to the battle ground.

Unusual precautions have been taken to prevent disorder of any kind. There will be several platoons of guards scattered through the aisles, and among the audience. Every entrance and exit will be supervised to prevent crowding, and plain clothes men will be scattered everywhere.

the beach as the best he ever had, and says no fighter was ever given more loyal and efficient service than he has received. All of his training partners —those who do the real work with him—are young men.

Tom Flanagan, the man who assumed George Little's office and the nominal title of manager, is a well-known Canadian athlete and sportsman who has developed a number of prominent long-distance runners, among them Longboat, the Indian.

Walter Burns, in charge of the rubbing and massage squad, is a negro who has been with Johnson continuously for the last eight years. He is regarded as an expert in his line.

Barney Furey, a negro who had charge of the roadwork department before Flanagan came out, has also been with Johnson for the last eight years, and, according to the champion, the camp is never complete without him.

The sparring partners, Marty Cutler (white), and George Cotton and Dave Mills (colored), are strapping young heavyweights, who, in their capacity of human punching bags, have given the champion admirable service.

In addition to these men, Al Kaufman, the giant young heavyweight who has been training at the Johnson camp prior to his fight with Sam Langford, frequently donned the gloves with the champion, and these tilts never failed to furnish the real excitement at the camp.

His Business Manager.

Johnson's business affairs are looked after by Sig Hart, who has been connected with the champion only since last October, but whose acquaintance with him dates back twelve years. Hart is one of Johnson's favorites, and it is thought to have been mainly on his account that George Little, who was known to Hart, was deposed. Hart is a veteran at the ring game, having been bantam weight champion eleven years ago.

Frank Sutton, a Pittsburg negro who was formerly the trainer and a sparring partner of Bobby Dobbs, the colored lightweight champion, joined Johnson's camp some time ago to look after the big fellow's cuisine. He has officiated as Johnson's cook before, and the champion is never entirely happy while training unless Sutton is in the kitchen.

The last, but not the least important of the big negro's training staff is his huge 90-horse power automobile, a battleship gray, torpedo bodied affair that Johnson handles with cleverness and skill. This motor car has given Johnson more fun and his staff more worry than any one thing in his weeks of training. He loves the big toy, and, driving it himself, tore over the roads at a terrific pace until Promoter Tex Rickard felt constrained to interfere. He did not relish the thought of a mishap to the fighter, and some three weeks prior to the fight persuaded Johnson to put his machine into the repair and paint shop, thus keeping the negro out of harm's way until the important event was over. Johnson is a chronic speed fiend, and while the car was at hand he never whirled away from camp but that his trainers expected a message telling of disaster.

bers of the league, while there is no standard to compare from, the attendance has been very satisfactory.

With the support of the fans there is but little doubt, it would seem, but that the M-W is destined to be one of the fast little leagues of the country.

Three players are due to join the White Sox tomorrow. They are Louis La Mont, a pitcher, who comes here very highly recommended; Schmirler, the southpaw who was with the team last season, and Schwab, the catcher who comes from Clinton, Ill. Schwab is said to have hit away up in the Illinois circuit and, in addition to this, is said to have a nifty whip.

Mike Kelley of the St. Paul team has highly recommended the catcher to Mr. Kuehnow. If Schwab is anywhere as good as the many nice things that have been said about him, he should make good behind the bat for the Sox.

As stated before, the event of Schwab making good behind the mask and pad, it is likely that Helding will be given a tryout at the third corner of the diamond. How valuable the catcher will prove at the third corner of the infield remains to be seen. Johnson has been playing an in and out game at the difficult corner, and a change may be beneficial to the team.

If La Mont proves to be a star twirler, the staff of the Sox will be strengthened greatly through the acquisition of Schmirler and the man who comes from Cincinnati. We are in need of twirlers, and the coming of the new men will prove welcome.

Dietrich and Blancke have so far proved only fair. Blancke has the unfortunate habit of having one bad inning. Dietrich has got away fairly well, but has yet to prove that he is a star.

For a team that started so gally and so joyfully at the head of the pennant parade, Rochester has had a rather rough sledding. The descent of the team has been gradual. The Doctors are not so very far ahead of the Red Wing brigade or ahead of Duluth, either. On the next trip to the Head of the Lakes, which begins tomorrow, the medical men are due for a lower rung of the ladder. The Rochester bunch didn't show much when the team was here. Why the team should be ahead of the Sox is a mystery hard to explain.

Rochester will open a series here tomorrow afternoon. On the glorious Fourth, when the eagle is supposed to scream and the air become vibrant with the motion of a liberty-loving people, the Doctors and the Sox will tie up for two games. There will be a game in the morning and one in the afternoon. The Sox will make strenuous efforts to grab off both of these games. It is the earnest hope of the Sox that they will soon pass both the Rochester and Red Wing team, and that the start will be made as early as possible.

Cruise Held Monday.

Monday has been chosen by the officials of the Duluth Boat club as a fitting day for the cruise to the Spirit Lake branch of the club. Many members of the club are planning to spend a quiet day there, away from the noise of the city. Many launch parties have already been made up. A large number of sailboats will also make the trip. It is believed that the biggest fleet of launches and motor boats that ever went up the bay and river will leave Monday.

American Yacht Wins.

Travemunde, Germany, July 2.—The American yacht Westward won the emperor's cup in the schooner race from Kiel to Travemunde yesterday. The Germania was second and Hamburg third. The emperor's yacht Meteor was towed in. The race was sailed in a strong breeze and rain.

CELEBRITIES OF SPORT WORLD FLOCK TO RENO

Nevada Mining Camp Waiting Expectantly for the Big Battle.

All Training Activities Have Ceased in Both Fight Camps.

Reno, Nev., July 2.—Training activities having ostensibly ceased in both the Johnson and the Jeffries camps, Reno has settled down with what quiet it may to await the big battle on Monday. There being little of interest to the fighters headquarters the greater part of the crowds remain downtown today packing the streets, hotels, gambling places and fight headquarters. Discussion regarding the merits of the principals is rife and each man seems to have many supporters. But the arguments are cool and as yet the police have not had any trouble with the throng which has come here to see the contest.

Fight followers do not expect any surprises from the Johnson camp. The negro has said he is through and his word is taken for it. But it is well known that the whimsical Jeffries may changed his announced plans at any time. The result is that no one would be surprised at anything the big pugilist might do. Therefore, while few are journeying out over the dusty trail to his camp, every one keeps in close touch with the white man's movements for fear that he may decide to take on some fighter or several fighters some day—or for that matter, night before the championship contest.

A good example of the fans' distrust of Jeffries was shown yesterday and last night. Following the arrival of Sam Langford here, the report gained circulation that the negro and Jeffries would box fifteen rounds during the evening. At the time the story started the ex-boilermaker's camp was deserted, except for his immediate associates. A report that the Langford man had been seen going toward the Jeffries camp, with his fighting paraphernalia came next.

Exodus to Springs.

Then began a general exodus from the city to Moana Springs. They traveled in wagons, on street cars and in automobiles. Some even expressed the belief that Jeffries might box fifteen rounds with Langford, Jim Corbett having said such a program would suit him nicely.

But the visitors were disappointed. Jeffries did not box. Corbett assured every one that there would be no more boxing at the camp. Langford said he had no intention of boxing with Jeffries; but these reiterated assurances did not satisfy the crowd, and many were up early today to keep a watchful eye on Langford and make sure he did not slip away to Jeffries' place to participate in the big man's unique sunrise exercises.

While the gambling places are well filled at all hours, the scarcity of bettors at the commissioners' headquarters is somewhat surprising to the wagering fraternity. Betting improved a bit last night, however. At Tom Corbett's it was announced today that about $15,000 was placed on Jeffries yesterday at 10 to 6½. With two exceptions the amounts were under $2,000. Jim Corbett has $5,000 at his brother's place to bet on Jeffries. A New York man has left $10,000. Both wagers are to be placed at the prevailing odds.

Will Clear $100,000.

Rickard has recovered from all nervousness he may have felt over the financial outcome of the battle. He now believes the profits from the battle alone will amount to $100,000. "I expect the receipts to be about $250,000," he said. "Our expenses have been a little less than $150,000. We should clear about $100,000."

Seat sales here since the pasteboards were brought up from San Francisco by Jack Gleason have been highly pleasing to the promoters. Practically all of the $50, and $10 seats are gone. The higher priced seats sold quickly on account of their location, and a large part of them were reserved before the sale opened here.

Many bought the $10 seats because they were high and spectators who held them will get the benefit of a breeze, if one is blowing.

Celebrities continue to arrive here on every train. Frank Gotch, the champion wrestler of the world, created a stir about the hotels last night when he walked around greeting friends.

Among the celebrities were the Australian fight impressairio, Hugh McIntosh; Tommy Burns, ex-heavyweight champion; Bill Lang, champion heavyweight of Australia; Abe Attell, the premier feather; W. Corbett of Sydney, Australia; Referee Eddie Hanlon, George Harting, the veteran timekeeper, and a host of others.

Shortly after George Harting's arrival it was announced that he had been selected as the official timekeeper for the match. Harting has counted out 1,100 defeated fighters. Four of the men to whom he gave the fateful "eight, nine, ten" died from their punishment.

Pick Jeff to Win.

With the exception of McIntosh the Australians predict Jeffries will have little difficulty in disposing of Johnson.

Burns, immediately upon his arrival, gave out the following statement to the Associated Press:

"In my match with Johnson I learned that the big negro is not much of a fighter, though he is a good boxer. It will take more than boxing, however, to win next Monday's fight. I found that Johnson's left hand was of very little value to him. He can't use it as freely as his right, and it has not the strength of his right—certainly there is no knockout in it. His right, though, is dangerous, and he uses it to best advantage in a clinch. Time and again he would catch me with his left by the back of the neck, jerk my head forward, and, letting go suddenly, shoot in his right to my face. But he can't succeed with a trick like that on a big man like Jeffries.

"In my fight with Johnson I hurt him as much as he hurt me."

Johnson said today he was content with his condition and "had no worries." His actions back up his words. He pranced around the hotel in his usual fashion and refused to talk fight with anybody. "Everybody ought to be happy," is Johnson's philosophy.

Sam Berger, Jeffries' manager, spent the forenoon in town. He was scheduled to look over the arena arrangements in behalf of his charge, and proposes to go out to the battlefield later in the day.

Sam Langford, the colored middle weight, arrived on the morning train. Langford made an attempt to hire a conveyance to visit the Johnson camp, but Joe Woodman, his manager, having in mind his own experience at the champion's quarters yesterday, dissuaded his charge from the risk of incurring a similar rebuff.

LOW SCORE IN HIGGINS PLAY

Northland Women Golf Players May Win on Showing.

The women golfers of the Northland Country club made a very good showing in the play yesterday for the Craft W. Higgins trophy, a trophy that is contested upon the same general lines as the Tom Morris cup. Women teams of the clubs that are members of the Western Golf association play against par for the trophy, the club making the lowest score securing possession of the trophy.

Yesterday the score of the Northland team was 20 down to par, which is considered very good, and which is also lower than the score made last season. This may give the trophy to the local club. All of the scores of the various clubs have not been turned in as yet.

Mrs. Alexander played 10 down to par; Mrs. Crosby, 6; Mrs. Winton, 4 down; and Mrs. Moe played even with par.

Mrs. Winton has returned from the Glen View Women's open tournament, where she won a silver cup in the consolation handicap.

ROWING AND SAILING EVENTS AT CLUB.

Sailing and rowing events will be held at the Duluth Boat club today. The third race in the 25-foot class Duluth Boat club burgee event is scheduled. The Feather and the Scud are tied for first place in this series of races. The Feather won the first race, the race of last Saturday going to the Scud.

The winner of the race of this afternoon, if that boat is either the Scud or Feather, or possibly the Peter Pan, will probably win the burgee.

The second race in the sailing class will be between the Alleger and the Minotaur. The event has already been won by the Allegro, as far as points are concerned, but it is probable that the Minotaur will sail the race, anyway.

The lapstreak series of four-oared races will be continued. Two of these races have been won by the high school crew, and this afternoon the hilltop boys will make an effort to cinch the gold medals.

The junior eight will be sent over the course in a time row, if the water is at all favorable.

OFFICIAL MEASUREMENTS.

Champion Jack Johnson was measured yesterday by Tom Flanagan, his manager. The figures follow: Six feet one inch; neck, 17¼ inches; chest, unarmed, 43½ inches; chest, expanded, 42¾ inches; biceps, 16 inches; forearm, 14½ inches; wrist, 10½ inches; waist, 30 inches; thigh, 23 inches; calf, 15 inches; ankle, 9½ inches; reach, 72 inches; weight, 209 pounds; age, 32 years.

TWO AEROPLANES CRASH ON THE GROUND.

Oakland, Cal., July 2. — Clifford O'Brien, in a Farman biplane had successfully circled the Emeryville track several times today, when a gust of wind caught him as he passed the grandstand. His aeroplane turned over and crashed to the ground a distance of 200 feet. As he extricated himself from the wreckage he saw the Curtiss machine of Samuel Smith swooping down upon him. O'Brien barely had time to jump aside, as Smith's biplane, caught in the same treacherous puff of wind, crashed down upon the Farman machine. Both aeroplanes were wrecked. When Smith was dragged out, it was found that one of his ribs was broken and that he was seriously hurt.

Mr. J. S. Bartell, Edwardsville, Ill., writes: "A few months ago my kidneys become congested. I had a severe backache and pain across the kidneys and hips. Foley Kidney Pills promptly cured my backache and corrected the action of my kidneys. This was brought about after my using them for only a few short weeks and I can cheerfully recommend them." REMARKABLE WORK OF DULUTH MARKSMAN SHOWN BY TARGET

With the remarkable score of 461 points (forty-eight out of a possible fifty bulls-eys, as shown by accompanying cut), Oscar L. Olson of Duluth, was declared winner of the annual indoor championship match of the United States Revolver association.

The conditions called for fifty consecutive shots with revolvers at twenty yards, on the standard American target with inner or ring counting ten points 1.12 inches diameter.

This match is open to everybody and is shot on ranges of clubs affiliated with the association, on official targets and under the auspices of a representative of the association.

Mr. Olson has been known as an expert revolver shot for many years, and was high man on the fifteen-man American team which defeated the French revolver team in the International shoot in 1905, his score being 554 points or fifty-seven out of sixty bulls-eyes at fifty yards.

BLOWOUTS NUMEROUS

Hot Weather Is Causing Auto Owners Much Tire Trouble.

Roads About Duluth Are Too Dusty To Be Used.

Blowouts are the chief trouble encountered these days by Duluthians who own or operate automobiles.

The extreme heat is responsible. The repair shops and places where tires are vulcanized are rushed to death. There are but few who have not had blowouts during the siege of hot weather that is at present making Duluthians uncomfortable.

Blowouts can very easily be averted if care is taken. The extreme heat coupled with the fact that the tire is pumped up to its full capacity, is the cause.

After running some distance the rubber becomes hot and weakened and the natural result is a break in the fabric.

During the hot weather the tires should contain about twenty pounds less air pressure than during the cooler weather. This lessens the strain and there is not nearly so much danger.

It seems to the repair men as though everybody in town has experienced this trouble and they are warning the people of the cause.

The hot weather causes engine trouble too. When the thermometer is from 90 to 95 and a pull has been made on intermediate, the engine will naturally become very hot. After making the ascent to the boulevard at Lincoln park or at Fourteenth avenue east, drivers have found it necessary during the hot weather to allow their engines time in which to cool off. A long pull on low gear is even worse and engines with the best of cooling systems become red hot and the water in many of the water cooled cars gets to the boiling point.

It is a very easy matter to run dry of oil these days also. It is thinner and runs more freely. More is used than in ordinary weather and the shop men are warning the owners of these facts.

The roads about Duluth are ground into fine powder. Not in years has it been so dusty. The dust is from two to three and even four inches deep. Running on country roads is not in the least pleasurable due to these facts. Behind the car even though it be running ever so slowly, rises the dust in a cloud so dense that it is impossible to see anything.

For this reason there is but little country running done these days. The Pike Lake, Rice Lake, Maple Grove and nearly all the other roads out of Duluth are in this condition. Most of the running is now being done about town. This gets tiresome, but many prefer it to the dust encountered on the country roads.

BURMAN WINS FIRST EVENTS

Auto Records Are Smashed at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Two Minutes Are Clipped Off the Fifty Mile Mark.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 2.—Records went down in motor races at the speedway yesterday. Burman, driving a Buick, was the hero of the opening events of the three-day meet which is to include the 200-mile Cobe cup race next Monday.

He won the 50-mile and the 10-mile races for cars of 231-300 cubic inches piston displacement and the 15-mile race for cars of 301-450 displacement. He clipped two minutes off the 50-mile record, going the distance in 40:3.7 and taking the honor away from Harroun, who held the previous record, which was 42:41.83. In the 10-mile race he pulled the record from 8:16.08 down to 8:14.46.

Burman's team-mate, L. Chevrolet, pressed him closely in the 50-mile race and beat him in the 5-mile race for cars of 161-230 displacement. In this event Chevrolet cut the record from 4:41.17 to 4:40.8.

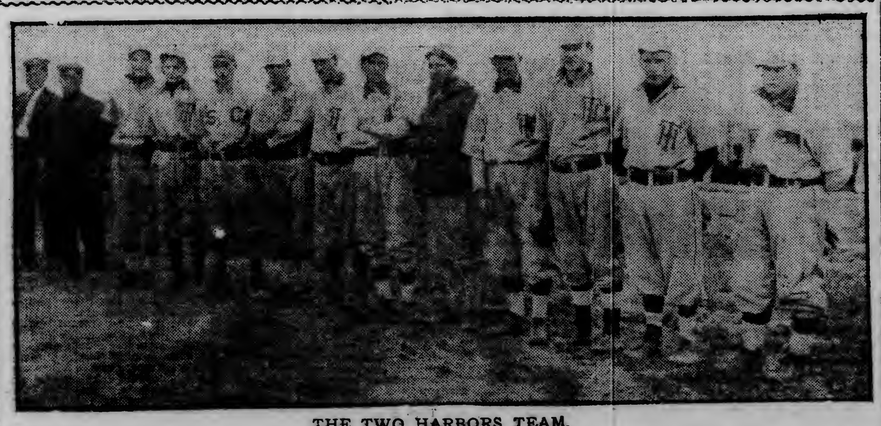

Burman's only disappointment was losing the Indianapolis speedway helmet, which is worth $50 a week to the winner. Hearne with a Benz took it away from him in the 10-mile free-for-all event. Grant driving the Alco car with which he won the last Vanderbilt cup race, easily led in the 10-mile event for the heavy machines of 600 displacement. The afternoon had a brilliant climax in the 50-mile race. Chevrolet and Burman led. Burman jumped into the lead. They quickly drew away from the field. At the five miles Chevrolet was ahead, at record-breaking speed. Harroun, Marmon was out early because of engine trouble.

After five miles the race had resolved into a see-saw contest between Chevrolet and Burman. Both forced their engines to the limit and to the finish they kept from one minute to two minutes ahead of the best previous time in the class. With a sensational spurt, Burman pulled in front of Chevrolet in the home stretch and was first over the wire of the timing machines. The field was well behind. Pearce (Fayal) finished third; Fox (Pope-Hartford) fourth and Heineman (Fayal) fifth.

DULUTH, A TYPICAL LEADER OF THE OLD FRENCH REGIME

One of Remarkable Characters of His Times—Once Had His Home on Place d'Armes, Montreal.

Montreal Standard: Affixed to a building on Place d'Armes, Montreal, and, therefore, near the great church of Notre Dame, is a marble tablet bearing this inscription: "In 1675, here lived Daniel de Gresolon, Sieur Dulhut, one of the explorers of the Upper Mississippi, after whom the City of Duluth was named."

Besides the spelling of the name used in the inscription there were a number, one being that used in the name of the United States city at the head of Lake Superior, and which is, therefore, today the one best known, and in fact the only one now in use.

The man whose memory the little tablet recalls, and whose name of the Western city preserves, was one of the remarkable characters of his times. He was a contemporary of La Salle, and a cousin of La Salle's loyal lieutenant, Tonty.

"He belonged," writes Parkman, "to that caste of the lesser nobles whose name was legion, and whose admirable military qualities shone forth so conspicuously in the wars of Louis XIV. Though his enterprises were independent of those of La Salle, they were at this time (1680) carried on in connection with Count Frontenac and certain merchants in his interests. * * * The rudest part of the work fell to Du Lhut (Duluth), who with a persistent hardihood, not surpassed even by La Salle, was continually in the forest, in the Indian towns, or in remote wilderness outposts planted by himself, exploring, trading, fighting, ruling lawless savages and whites, scarcely less ungovernable, and on one or more occasions varying his life by crossing the ocean to gain interviews with the colonial minister amid the splendid vanities of Versailles * * * He was without doubt a habitual breaker of the royal ordinances regulating the fur trade; yet his services were great to the colony and the crown, and his name deserves a place of honor among the pioneers of American civilization."

The French Regime.

During the French regime Canada was to some extent an exporter, the goods she sent abroad consisting of some timber and wheat and an herb called ginseng, for which there then was, and still is, a profitable market in China.

But the backbone of her trade and the life of the colony was the beaver-skin. From the outset the government tried to regulate and control this trade, but with rather limited success. The policy was to bring the trade home to the colonists; to prevent them going to the Indians, and induce the Indians to come to them. At Montreal, which may be called the Western market, a fair was established, and thither every summer came the Indians from the Ottawa Valley and the upper lakes with their canoes loaded with furs.

A short distance above the town a place was assigned them; and there they drew up their canoes, unloaded their packs of beaver-skin, slung their kettles, and encamped for the night.

The Grand Council.

Between St. Paul street and the river there then existed a large open field or common, and there the grand council was held.

The governor usually attended, seated in a huge arm-chair, and around him in semi-circle squatted the hunters and warriors, ranged in the order of their tribes.

Long, rhetorical and usually empty speeches were made, and the peace-pipe went round.

On the following day trading began, and practically every inhabitant of Montreal sought a share in its profits.

A similar fair was set up at Three Rivers for the Algonquins to the north. Then sprang up a tendency for traders to venture beyond Montreal, running the risk of being murdered by Iroquois in order to intercept the Upper Lake Indians on their way to the fair, and purchase their furs before they reached the market.

This was illegal, but it could not be wholly prevented, and it was often engaged in by secret agents of high officials at Montreal and Quebec, who enforced the law against others, but violated it themselves.

The Illicit Trade.

But the illicit trade did not end here, for young men were continuously escaping into the woods and trading with the Indians beyond the remotest settlements. The profits of the trade were great, and the life possessed the fascinating elements of adventure and danger. These bushrangers, or "coureurs de bois," as the French called them, were repeatedly legislated against by means of edicts, and yet the authorities did not dare deal with them, lest they should go over to the English colonies or become dangerous outlaws.

A Leakage of Young Men.

There was a leakage of hardy, adventurous young men from the settlements to the forests; and among them were many sons of the seigniors and petty nobles, the "gentilshommes" of the old regime.

Some of theme were the great explorers of their times; and perhaps it is not too much to say that our geography owes more to them than to any one other class of men.

On the Great Lakes in the wastes of the Northwest, on the Mississippi and the plains beyond, we find the roving "gentilshommes," chief of a gang of buslirangers, often tenants or habitants from his own seigniory—sometimes proscribed by the government, sometimes leagued in contraband trade with its highest officials; a hardy vidette of civilization, tracing unknown streams, piercing unknown forests, trading, fighting, negotiating and building forts. * * * It was they, and such as they, who discovered the Ohio, explored the Mississippi to its mouth, discovered the Rocky mountains, and founded Detroit, St. Louis and New Orleans.

Duluth One of the Leaders.

One of these leaders in exploration and trade was Duluth, who once had his home on Place d'Armes, Montreal.

In the notes to Vol. LXII of the Relations of the Jesuits will be found a brief sketch of this notable man.

of St. Germain-en-Loye, and had served in the French army before coming to Canada in 1676.

He was a military officer, a native

Two years later he left Montreal with seven Frenchmen to explore the country of the Sioux, which in a general way consisted of what is now the western part of the state of Wisconsin, Minesota, Dakota and the country as far west as the Rocky mountains.

Took Possession of Sioux Country.

In 1679 he took possession of the Sioux country in behalf of the king of France, after having reached the Upper Mississippi and travelled over a considerable portion of the territory that contains its head-waters.

It was while he was on this trip that he fell in with Father Hennepin, for a time one of La Salle's companions in adventure.

La Salle was then laboring to plant a colony on the Illinois river. An outpost had been set up; and from there, with two French companions, Hennepin was sent to explore the Upper Mississippi. They set out in a canoe in the spring of 1680, and by paddling down the Illinois came to the Mississippi.

While ascending the latter river they were captured by a large party of Sioux, and although the Frenchmens' fate for many days hung in the balance, their lives were spared, and they were taken to the Sioux villages, not far from where stand today the cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

It was while visiting the spot that Hennepin gave to the cataract there the name it still bears, the Falls of St. Anthony.

A little later in the season Hennepin and his two French fellow-travellers, accompanied the Sioux on a buffalo hunt. One day while near the Mississippi an alarm was given; but upon reaching the point of supposed danger nothing more formidable was found than two old Sioux squaws, who brought startling news. A Sioux warparty had been east to Lake Superior, and by the way had met five "spirits," as the Sioux called whitemen.

This greatly roused Hennepin's curiosity; and he was very anxious to learn who these whites were who had, like himself, ventured so far into the unknown West.

Met the Five Spirits.

A couple of days later he and the Sioux met the five "spirits" a few miles below St. Anthony's Falls.

They proved to be Duluth and four other well-armed Frenchmen.

Duluth was now on his journey of exploration which he had set out to make two years before.

He left Montreal in the autumn of 1678 to explore the region of the Upper Mississippi, and establish friendly relations with the Sioux and their kindred, the Assiniboines, to the Northwest.

In the following summer he held a grand council at the head of Lake Superior, where the city of Duluth now stands.

At several places he planted the king's arms and took possession of the country for France.

"In all this," writes Parkman, "he acted in a public capacity, under the authority of the governor; but it is not to be supposed that he forgot his own interests or those of his associates. The Intendant angrily complains that he aided and abetted the 'coureurs de bois' in their lawless courses, and sent down in their canoes great quantities of beaver skins consigned to the merchants in league with him, under cover of whose names the governor reaped his share of the profits."

The "five spirits" were welcomed by Hennepin and the Sioux; and all returned to the Sioux villages, where a grand feast was held. Then the Frenchmen set out together, traveling down the Mississippi until the mouth of the Wisconsin was reached. Ascending the river to its source, a short portage brought them to Lake Michigan.

Returned to Montreal.

Hennepin returned to Montreal, and soon after sailed home to France, but Duluth spent a number of years more in the West.

Where Fort William now stands on the north shore of Lake Superior, Duluth built a fortified trading post. In 1684 he caused two Indians who had murdered several Frenchmen on Lake Superior to be shot.

In this affair he displayed great courage and coolness, undaunted by the crowd of excited savages who surrounded him and his little band of Frenchmen.

Two years later he was ordered by Denonville, then governor of Canada, to fortify Detroit. He accordingly went there with fifty men and built a palisade fort, which he occupied for some time. With a party of Upper Lake Indians he assisted the same governor in his invasion of the country of the Senacas.

Massacre of Lachine.

During the summer of 1689 the Iroquois perpetrated the massacre of Lachine. During the panic that followed Duluth did all in his power to guard the frontier and restore something like confidence at Montreal. Of one of his exploits that summer brief mention is made. While patroling the Lake of Two Mountains in the Ottawa, a short distance above St. Anne de Bellebue, he came upon twenty-two Iroquois in canoes. As the two flotillas approached each other the Iroquois fired upon the French. The latter reserved their fire, and, paddling swiftly up to the Indians and before they could reload their muskets, poured upon them a deadly volley, killing or wounding on the spot. Three were captured and one escaped.

Duluth, six years later, was in command of Fort Frontenac (Kingston), where he suffered severely from the gout, which, strange to say, had been the torment of this hardy man of enterprise and adventure for a quarter of a century.

In a dispatch of Vaudreuil to the colonial minister, written in 1710, the governor announces the death of Duluth, which occurred in the previous winter.

Vaudreuil adds this brief comment: "He was a very honest man." The Canadian historian, Charlevoix, calls him "one of the bravest officers the king has ever had in this colony."

POSTAL BANKS ARE UNDER WAY

First Meeting of Board of Trustees Is Held in Capital.

Washington, July 2.—The first meeting of the board of trustees, consisting of the postmaster general, secretary of the treasury and attorney general, which is to have charge of the organization and supervision over the postal savings banks, was held yesterday. The board named a committee of departmental officers to work out the details of the system and submit a report to the trustees as soon as possible. This committee will hold daily meetings, and another meeting of the trustees will be held in a few days.

Applications were received from a considerable number of banks throughout the country asking that they be made government depositories for postal funds, and from a number of postmasters requesting that their offices be made postal savings banks.

Theodore L. Weed, chief clerk of the postoffice department, was made secretary of the board of trustees.

TOURISTS' DOGS ARE IMMUNE FROM DUTY.

Washington, July 2.—Milady's pet dog can be carried into Canada and back, or anywhere else in fact, at will, without the fear of customs officials imposing a duty, under a decision announced by the treasury department. The decision holds that the provisions of the treasury department relative to the registration of horses of domestic origin taken abroad for personal use by the owners, are extended to dogs and other domesticated animals taken abroad for their personal use. This puts the dog and the horse on the same revenue immunity basis.

When the sun sets tomorrow night another world's champion will have put the prefix "ex" before his name and will begin that long, hopeless downward path to oblivion that is the great tragedy of the prize ring. One by one these world's champions rise, flare brilliantly for awhile and then gradually become dimmer and dimmer on the horizon, to fade into nothingness, unnoticed, forgotten, often unmourned.

Of the list of comparatively recent champions it is fairly easy to keep track. They become theatrical stars of greater or less magnitude and so manage to keep themselves before the public.

Fitzsimmons, Corbett, Kid McCoy, Jack O'Brien, Tommy Burns, Joe Choynski, Tom Sharkey, Battling Nelson, John L. Sullivan, Jake Kilrain—all are in the news from day to day.

But there were other men whose names were equally well known, who enjoyed equal popularity and prosperity, but who have gone—where?

There was Jim Dunn, a wonderful fighter forty or fifty years ago. There was that great trio of rivals, Arthur Chambers, Billy Edwards and John H. Clark. There was the little marvel, Joe Gans. There were Paddy Ryan and Kid Lavigne, Jack McAuliffe, Mike McCoy, Jack Dempsey, Charlie Mitchell, Jem Mace, Peter Jackson, the mighty, and Peter Maher, the "Irish champion," who could "lick any man he thought he could lick." There were Elwood McCloskey, George Dixon, Gus Ruhlin, Terrible Terry McGovern, Young Corbett, wonderful little Danny Dougherty, Jimmy Britt, Joe Goddard, and Mike Donovan.

What has become of them all?

It might seem that any man who who follows the boxing game closely could tell offhand where these world-famous men are now, whether dead or alive, rich or poor. But the question has been asked of practically every recognized authority and not one man has been able to answer with any degree of certainty with regard to more than three or four of the ex-champions on the list.

Most of these old fighters are alive today. Some of them—though the minority—are prosperous; most of them have been ruined by gambling, by dissipation, by too much generosity to false friends. The search for their later lives has unearthed tragedy in almost every case.

A Prosperous Ex-Champion.

Jim Dunn is the one shining exception to this rule. He was wise enough to retire early, to enter business and politics, and today he is rated a wealthy man. He is the last connecting link between the present generation of fighters and those of days which have become history, but he is not proud of his early feats in the squared circle and does not care to have them referred to.

Dunn is now nearly 70 years of age and is on another of his semi-annual trips to Europe. Last January he retired as sewer commissioner of Brooklyn, N. Y., and is living in the luxury he has earned by his own efforts since his retirement from the ring.

It was Dunn's fight with William Davis on May 16, 1865, that earned him the heavyweight championship. There were no purses then such as there are now, and this battle which had as its stake the premier title of the world was fought for only $1,000 a side. It was a stubborn fight, but Dunn was proclaimed the winner after forty-three rounds.

Dunn fought less than any other champion. His superiority was quickly proved and he retired almost immediately on winning the title. He is an Irishman by birth, having come to this country from County Kildare as a lad and, when he retired from the ring, he settled in Brooklyn, which has always been his home since his landing in America. He has become a power in Brooklyn local politics and is known as one of the most honorable and goodhearted men who ever walked in shoe leather. His old age is almost an ideal one, for, besides having all the money necessary to procure him every comfort he desires, he has scores of friends who are fond of him not because he was once champion heavyweight fighter of the world, but because they know him and love him for the splendid man that he is.

The Great Trio of Their Day.

In the history of the prize ring the the names of Arthur Chambers, Billy Edwards and John H. Clark are always linked. They were the great trio of their day and the question of supremacy was never decided among them. From the Atlantic to the Pacific their feats were known and they were the popular idols that Sullivan and Jeffries later became.

Of this famous trio, only one fell upon evil days, and even he seems to be able to care for himself without appealing to the charity of his friends. This is Chambers, who now lives in Philadelphia, but who is none too generously supplied with this world's goods. Edwards became manager of the Hoffman house bar in New York and prospered until his death; and Clark, now reaching old age and palsied, is nevertheless surrounded by all the luxuries his heart can desire and is living in Atlantic City, where the climate is best for a man with his nervous ailment.

Chambers was a big, rugged, strong fighter, dangerous in rough work and with the endurance of an ox. Clark and Edwards were like greyhounds, agile, supple, clever and splendid ring generals. They fought in the days before fighting was a well paid game and often their greatest battles netted them scarcely as much as a good preliminary fighter now gets for a single bout. Clark "showed" for a week in a theater at one time in the height of his career and offered to meet all comers, four rounds each night. These were not merely exhibitions with novices. One of the men who faced him during that week was the redoubtable Billy Edwards himself. It was as strenuous a week of fighting as any men ever put in and it was the general opinion that it must have netted Clark a tidy little sum.

"John," said a friend of his not long ago, "how big a pile did you get for that week?"

"I hate to tell you," answered Clark, "I've never told anybody, but I suppose there's no harm now. I got $50."

"Fifty dollars a night?" asked the friend.

"Fifty dollars for the week," replied Clark sadly. "I was born too soon. I could have made a fortune if we had had the prices you pay pugilists today."

Clark was a splendid husband and father, and the care he took to give his children a good education is meeting with its reward today. His son, J. Alfred Clark, is proprietor of an iron foundry in Philadelphia and is a wealthy man. He sees to it that the old gladiator lacks nothing for his comfort.

Clark is one of the most modest men alive. He will talk freely of anything except his triumphs in the ring. Not long ago he was sitting in the back room of a sporting resort when the proprietor came up to him.

"Come on out, John," said the proprietor. "There's an old friend and admirer of yours out in front."

"Who is it?" asked Clark.

"John L. Sullivan."

Clark, shaking from palsy, half rose from his seat and then sat down again.

"No," he said, "I'd rather not. John knew me in my prime and I don't want him to see me this way."

The Latter Careers of Chambers and Edwards.

Arthur Chambers is another victim of the love of gambling which seems to get such a hold on so many of those in the "fight game." He made plenty of money and saved it and, in September, 1892, he was rated a fairly wealthy man for those days.

In that month he went to New Orleans to be present at the Sullivan-Corbett fight. He was a great admirer of John L. and he felt that it was like picking money off bushes to get a bet down on the burly world's champion. So he covered everything in sight, confident that his profits would justify the odds that he had to give.

While he was in New Orleans, he received a "tip" from a friend that a horse named Onaway was bound to win in the next day's races. It was one of those inside tips which meant that everything was practically fixed up and that there was not much chance of losing. The odds against the horse were good, and Chambers felt that it was a glorious chance for those who had inside information to "make a killing." So he passed the tip to a number of friends and they all adjourned to a poolroom across the street from their hotel to get their money down. These friends, however, were inclined to be cautious. They did not play the horse to win and advised Chambers to follow their example and play him to come in the money, taking smaller odds, but allowing for any possible slip-up. Chambers, however, was so confident of the source from which the tip had come that he ridiculed their timidity and put his last dollar on Onaway to win.

It was the old story. Somebody blundered and the horse finished second or third. Chambers lost everything he had in the world except the money he had put on Sullivan, and he looked to the victory of John L. to make good what he had dropped on Onaway.

But John L. lost. Chambers was broke.

He has never recovered since that day. Nobody seems to know just what he is doing for a living. Jack McGuigan, the famous referee and matchmaker, expressed it best to the writer when he said, "I guess he's just doing the best he can."

Billy Edwards prospered and became more popular in his retirement than he had been during his ring career, if that were possible. He made the Hoffman House bar one of the most noted resorts for sporting men in the country, and his reputation for honesty was so general and so well founded that it was quite the thing for sports who made large bets to put the money into Edwards' hands without taking so much as a receipt for it. In this way Edwards handled over $1,000,000 of other people's money, yet there was never 1 cent unaccounted for or a dispute over any of his dealings as stakeholder. He died in prosperity and he had a host of good friends to mourn him.

The Redoubtable Jack Dempsey.

Jack Dempsey, who stood ready to fight any man in the world except John L. Sullivan, died of consumption in Portland, Or., on Nov. 1, 1895. He was a clean liver, a man of no dissipated habits and he made a fortune in the ring, but he was one of the most generous men that ever pulled on a mit, and every cent of it went to help his friends or in generous deeds which will never be recorded. He was fortunate in having married a splendid woman, the daughter of a fairly prosperous blacksmith in Portland, and during the last days of his life, when he was too weak to earn a living, she took care of him and furnished the comfort that eased his final moments.

Dempsey kept a gymnasium and boxing school in Portland just before his death, but he was not physically able to make it a success. The rigors of his constant training for fights through many years had produced his tubercular trouble and left him a weakling. He was never a heavy nor a powerfully built man. He had arms like a woman—smooth and slim and beautifully rounded, but without the slightest indication of muscle. His hitting power lay in the muscles of his back; his shoulder blades were literally imbedded in great layers of strong muscles that gave him a punching power that was feared by every man in the ring in his day.

As already remarked, Dempsey stood ready to fight any man in the world except John L. Sullivan. Sullivan was too much for him physically and in power of endurance, and Dempsey was frank enough to admit it. But no other man was barred, no matter how big and strong. Dempsey was one of the greatest ring generals that the boxing game ever produced, and his skill made him more than a match for most of the aspirants for his title.

He was much like Bob Fitzsimmons in his tactics, and it was not until the lanky Australian developed that Dempsey's star began to wane. In Fitz, Dempsey found a man whose ring generalship was equal to his, whose skill was superior, whose tactics were much the same and whose freshness was too much for the veteran "Nonpareil." Dempsey never recovered from the terrible beating that Fitz gave him in their thirteen-round battle at New Orleans in 1891, and from that time on he steadily sank, his crushed spirit giving him no resistance to the encroachments of consumption. But his generous heart still made him the idol of the sporting public and he was popular everywhere.

A Generous Man of Muscle.

His kindly nature is illustraed by one incident which, so far as the writer knows, has never appeared in print. Dempsey and big Dave Campbell were matched to fight in Oregon. They had to go down the Columbia river in boats to escape the sheriffs, but the ring was finally pitched on the turf and the men were ready. As the bell was about to ring, one of the spectators, now a United States senator, jumped into the ring and offered to bet Dempsey $2,500 that he would lose.

"I've only got six or seven hundred," said the "Nonpareil," "but I'll bet that."

The fight had gone only a few rounds when it was seen that big Campbell was a beaten man. Dempsey turned to Johnny Keegan, whom he had just whipped in San Francisco, but who was now his second, and whispered, "I'm going in now and break that big nose."

Scarcely had the sound of the gong died away, when Jack's fist shot straight for the prominent nasal organ of the giant opposite. Campbell spun around and around, groping blindly and helpless from the stunning effect of the blow. Then he fell to the turf and was counted out, and his championship aspirations were ended. His nose was broken.

In those days the loser of a fight usually came out with a minus quantity in his bank account. On the way up in the boat, Dempsey's friends were rejoicing at the victory and were loud in their praises of the champion when Jack suddenly took off his derby hat, tossed a couple of gold coins in it and began passing it around, saying:

"Come on, boys. Campbell is a game man and now he is broke. Let's give him a good sendoff."

No man in that crowd dared refuse Dempsey, and the coins—they had little use for bills on the coast in those days—began raining into the hat until it was full to the brim. Dempsey walked over to his fallen foe and put the hat into his hands.

"There you are, Dave," he said. "That's more than I made out of the fight, so you come out best after all."

Prosperous Charlie Mitchell.

Charlie Mitchell is prospering today. Like many another fighter, he turned, after his retirement, to the business in which he had spent most of his money and he is now the proprietor of a well-paying public house, or saloon, in England. The beating that Corbett gave him at Jacksonville, Fla., in 1894 ended his fistic career.

Old Jem Mace, heavyweight champion from 1870 to 1873, probably fought more battles than any man alive. He is today a pensioner under the old age law in England. He is past his 79th birthday, but he is still a tall, straight, active man, well in body but empty of heart.

"One million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars I took out of the prize ring," he said when he applied for his pension a year ago, "and all gone. Ten championship cups and four championship belts I have won—all silver with diamonds and precious stones—and they are all gone. I have got a bust of old Tom Sayers left and I would let that go for a couple of sovereigns, for I have got nothing else left.

"More than 500 I have battled with and have beat them all. Only two beat me—Bob Brettle and Tom King—but they were both by accident and I beat them both in other fights fair and square.

"Since I lost my wife, nothing has gone right. I always wanted a master and since she died I have had nobody to tell me. But I can go three rounds today with anybody as well as I ever could."

Peter Jackson, mightiest of negroes, died of consumption in Australia on July 24, 1901. He seems to have been in fairly comfortable circumstances during the final years of his life, though he was not by any means as wealthy as his big winnings in the ring should have made him.

Old Peter Maher, the "Irish champion," tends bar in various saloons now and then and only a short time ago he reappeared in the ring. It was at Jack O'Brien's club in West Philadelphia, and the former great fighter was put on in a preliminary against a mere novice. The "go" was stopped in the second round to save Peter from the merciless punishment that was being handed to him. Yet Peter was a good one in his day—good enough to stop Joe Goddard and Jim Jeffords and other big fellows.

Elwood McCloskey, the gamest little man of them all, is now blind from the punching he received in hundreds of battles. He is a familiar figure about the fight clubs of Philadelphia, being led around by his boy and droning his "It's not necessary to be askin' your pal alongside of you who I am, who have I fought, how did I lose my sight. Purchase one of these little books and it will tell you all. They are only a dime, ten cents." McCloskey met the best of the lightweights and was the only one found willing to face Battling Nelson when the champion first appeared in the East.

George Dixon died in Baltimore and his grave is marked by a magnificent memorial sculpture erected by the friends who stuck by him until the end. The first and last time that Dixon was knocked out was by Tommy Murphy in 1905. Gus Ruhlin is prosperous and happy and has used his winnings to good account. He never was a champion, but he was good enough to put Tom Sharkey out in fifteen rounds in 1900. Terrible Terry McGovern, twice within recent years confined in insane asylums, is about again and being cared for by his family, and his old enemy, Young Corbett, is living on a weekly stipend, doled out to him by those who organized a benefit given for him a month or so ago.

Little Danny Dougherty, peer of all the bantam weights and the undisputed champion of his class not many years since, keeps a poolroom and cigar store in Reading, Pa. At a recent bout in that city Dougherty boxed in a preliminary with a second-rater and the way the former champion was easily man-handled by the novice aroused the pity of the crowd.

The True Story of Joe Goddard's Death.

The real conditions under which Joe Goddard died and the financial circumstances of the fighter are known to but few persons. One man, who knew Goddard well in life, was under the DULUTH'S FINANCIAL STRENGTH.

Here are a couple of items that may penetrate whatever gloom the hot weather and the crop situation have made:

Duluth's bank clearings for the week ending June 30 were $3,126,000, a figure that puts it in the same class with cities very much larger. This is an increase of 21.4 per cent over last year, and Duluth's increase was greater than all but seven of the twenty-three cities showing an increase.

Bank statements are being published in The Herald, and they show that the Duluth banks have deposits of $22,000,000, or about $275 per capita.

Truly Duluth is bulwarked strongly by its banks and its business.

NORTH DAKOTA INSURGENCY.

If North Dakota will hurry up and count the returns from its primary election, the country will know just how serious it is in its reputed insurgency.

Just at present it looks a good deal like a drawn battle. The state seems inclined to insurgency, but not very positive about it. Unless belated returns change the results, the stalwarts and insurgents each have a senator and a congressman on the ticket, with the state ticket headed by a stalwart but fairly equally divided between two factions.

On the governorship C. A. Johnson, stalwart, has again been nominated for governor, and so has Governor Burke on the Democratic ticket. Governor Burke beat Mr. Johnson two years ago quite comfortably, and unless appearance are deceiving he should beat him again this year with even greater ease.

The least encouraging feature of the situation, from the viewpoint of those who hope to redeem the Republican party by putting the insurgent element in control, is the lack of interest indicated by the light primary election vote. Perhaps it isn't so much lack of interest as it is that the farmers were busy with other very important matters, such as crops. If that is the case, there will be more leisure in November for a real expression of public sentiment.

SENSE FROM WALL STREET.

Wall street is not entirely a den of bigotry and ignorance. From it, at encouragingly frequent intervals, come flashes of intelligence that show enlightenment and progressive vision.

For instance, the Wall Street Journal handles political and economic topics with commendable good sense and a clear perception of the inevitable, to which the majority of Wall street denizens have not yet adjusted themselves.

Again, George W. Perkins of the house of Morgan has on several occasions expressed his belief that regulation of big business in the interest of the people is not only inevitable but desirable, and has urged corporation managers to meet it half way.

And now comes to hand a circular from the banking house of John H. Davis & Co., 10 Wall street, which makes light of the absurd terrors of railroad men over the new railroad law, and speaks plainly about the situation of the plain people. After showing that the United States supreme court has held repeatedly that railroads are entitled to reasonable rates and cannot be deprived of that right by the state, the circular ridicules the statements of railroad alarmists who declare that recent railroad legislation has ruined the credit of American railroads, and points out that the railroad with which is associated one of these alarmists has just placed equipment bonds to the amount of $22,500,000. "Moreover," says the circular, "railroad credit was never better than it is today, and gross earnings of nearly every road are the largest of record; and it is gross return that measures volume of business."

"There are two parties to a railroad contract," continues the circular, "the company which serves and the public served. Each has fixed rights, but too often the rights of the second party have been ignored. The new law simply provides for the protection of both parties to this contract and the speedy determination of disputed questions." This is good sense. The railroads have no need to fear any injustice from the new railroad law, or from any railroad law likely to be passed.

Here is more good sense from the same source: "Tariff reform dominates politics and radical reduction in duties on necessities of life is bound to come. Thinking people with votes are determined that the cost of living shall at least come down to the level prevailing in Canada. Old party lines are obliterated for the common platform that favored manufacturers must be content with reasonable, instead of exorbitant, profits. The abominable woolen and cotton schedules are thoroughly understood, and will go first. We are confident that horizontal reductions at reasonable intervals of 10 per cent in the existing tariff to the extent of 50 per cent would do little or no harm to business, but would in fact soon stimulate it because of increased demand. Dullness in the woolen trade can be directly traced to exorbitant prices, for people cannot buy as they would like to. Compared with foreign markets, prices of clothing, etc., are scandalous. The people generally are realizing the truth, that too many congressmen have not represented constituents—on the contrary, certain favored interests. Therefore, a wholesale change will be tried. Eight years of Roosevelt, Cannon, Aldrich et al. have convinced large sections of the country that it would be worth while to try a change, provided that such men as Governor Harmon of Ohio or Judge Gray of Deleware could be induced to lead. It should be a pleasure, not cause for timidity, to anticipate a campaign in which the high standard of the candidates and definite purpose to correct tariff abuses are the issues, and not mere party fetich."

That's sound reasoning. It couldn't have been expressed better in the "insurgent West" than it has been in reactionary Wall street.

CARE WITH THE NEW TOOL.

President Taft had a conference with Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission yesterday about the administration of the new railroad law. Judging from the report of the meeting which comes from Beverly the president made it clear that "the added authority given to the commission by the new statute is not to be used arbitrarily or for the purpose of hindering the railroads in the conduct of their legitimate business. The power to suspend new rates, probably the most direct weapon placed in the hands of the commission, is to be used only in exceptional cases."

Though not quite like the old rhyme of the superlatively cautious mother, it is enough like it to suggest it:

"Mother, may I go out to swim?"
"Yes, my darling daughter;
Hang your clothes on a hickory limb,
But don't go near the water."

Of course nobody would favor using the new law or any other law "for the purpose of hindering the railroads in the conduct of their legitimate business." No law should be used to hamper any legitimate industry in the conduct of its legitimate business.

The president's word of caution about the use of the new tool is intended, plainly, to salve the wounds of the railroad managers, who shrick loudly if any exertion of government functions is proposed in their direction. Also, no doubt it is intended to reassure Wall street, which is in a particularly shivery mood these days and likely to take fright at the rustling of a leaf.

New freight rates, when proposed by a railroad, should not carry the presumption that they are just and proper. The attitude of the commission should be one of alert suspicion. No new rate should go into effect until it has been proved reasonable and necessary.

The president's attitude apparently is that each new rate should be presumed reasonable until it is proved unreasonable. While that doctrine is fair and merciful when applied to a man whose life or liberty is in jeopardy, it does not apply to proposed rate increases. It is the people's pocketbooks that are in jeopardy then, and the people's pocketbooks, not the railroad treasuries, should have the benefit of any doubt.

THE EDUCATIONAL NEEDS OF THE MANY.

The kindergarten is a preparation and a foundation for the grammar school. The grammar school is a preparation and a foundation for the high school. The high school is a preparation and a foundation for the university. The university is a preparation and a foundation for a professional career.

The conventional school system, then, is a connected and correlated whole, with its prime object that of completing the education of the few who can afford to keep on until they get the whole of it. There is no completed result short of the university. Not even the high school gives a completed, well-rounded preparation for anything except college.

This is all very well for the few who are in a position to complete the program, but it shows a shocking disregard of the needs of the many.

Of the total number of pupils that enter school, less than 1 per cent complete the high school course. More than half fail to complete the grammar school course. Hardly 10 per cent even enter the high school. Yet the 99 per cent of pupils who fail to complete the high school course leave school without completed equipment of any kind.

Nowhere does custom restrain progress more than in education. Yet there are gratifying signs that the day is near when the public school systems will cease exerting their whole energy for the few, and will begin to do something for the many.

When the schools of New York open in September they will take up a new course in which the elementary school term has been cut to six years. Not only that, but a considerable amount of high school work has been moved down into the two-year intermediate course—the seventh and eighth grades—which follows the elementary studies.

The object, of course, is to provide some completed equipment for the majority of pupils who are unable to finish the seventh grade.

Nor does that complete the reform. In the country agricultural education is provided, and in the cities industrial training and household economics will become important and permanent features of the courses. Thus the pupils who, because of their poverty, are unable to complete even the grammar school courses, will leave school possessed of practical elementary equipment that will be of real service to them in life.

The pupil completing the elementary course in six years will have studied English six years, beginning with reading and language in the first year, adding spelling and penmanship the second and grammar in the sixth or last year. He will also have had six years of arithmetic planned to enable him to read reasonably large numbers at sight, to write numbers rapidly from dictation, to add problems five figures wide and twenty numbers deep accurately at a fair rate of speed (in about two minutes), to perform all fundamental processes in arithmetic rapidly and accurately, to reason quickly and explain simple problems, to handle ordinary fractions—common and decimal—without hesitation, and to comprehend the fundamental principles of percentage and their application.

This is a long step forward. It is to be hoped that the breaking down of the old system will follow rapidly in other states, including Minnesota. The needs of the many have been sacrificed to the demands of the few too long.

MAKING THE ISSUE CLEAR.

At last the country has reason for being grateful to Joseph G. Cannon.

He has promised to be in the next congress, and to be ready to resume the responsibilities of the speakership if the party calls him.

In other words, he is a candidate for re-election to congress and for re-election to the speakership.

It is a good thing he has made this plain. It will make the issue in the congressional nominations and elections very much clearer.

There are a great many Republican congressmen who had hoped that Cannon was eliminated. They had hoped that the widespread objection to the man had penetrated at last through his pachydermatous hide and scorched his soul with a realization that he is not wanted.

It would have been much easier for them if this had been the case. When asked how they stood on the Cannon issue they could say that there is no Cannon issue, because Cannon's re-election is out of the question.

In fact, this is a device that has been used very freely by timorous Republican congressmen who dare not brave the anti-Cannon sentiment in their districts, but who wish to retain their profitable and pleasant relationship with the Cannon machine in congress. If they came out against Cannon they would please the voters, but they would jeopardize their standing with the organization. If they came out for Cannon—but they dared not do that.

So they have been evading the issue by answering questions as to their stand on Cannon by declaring that Cannon is not an issue any longer.

And now comes Cannon himself to make it clear that he is an issue, and that he has no mind to make it easier for timid statesmen by modest self-effacement. Modest self-effacement is not exactly in Cannon's line, anyway.

It will be a great deal better, on the whole, if Cannon remains right where he is until this issue of Cannonism is fought out to a finish. If he should withdraw, while he would be eliminated the issue of Cannonism would remain, but it would be less clear. The Cannon organization would put in his place Congressman Tawney or some other dependable sergeant of the Old Guard, and matters would go on just as satisfactorily to the System as they did before. The people would have no better show before a speakership dominated by a faithful retainer of the Cannon machine than they have had before the speakership dominated by Cannon.

UNUSUAL, BUT SOUND.

Acting President Hutchins of the University of Michigan in his recent baccalaureate sermon gave the graduating class some sound, hard sense that seems to have taken well, because the university correspondents described his sermon as "the most masterful ever delivered from the platform of old University hall."

Said Dean Hutchins: "You are probably wiser today in your own estimation than you will ever be again.

"The possession of a diploma will not insure success.

"The moderate estimate accorded to this certificate of attainment by the practical and energetic man of affairs will be a sore surprise and disappointment to you, but as a matter of fact that man will take your diploma exactly at what it is worth. This skeptical attitude of the world is justified by the facts.

"You have as yet seen too little of the world to be conscious of your own limitations."

Perhaps similar sentiments have been expressed before in baccalaureate addresses, though probably not so bluntly. To many of the graduates it must have felt like a dash of cold water, but, like a dash of cold water, it was bracing and strengthening.

In too many such addresses the natural self-glorification of the student who has mastered his course and gained his coveted certificate of attainment is coddled and cultivated. Like the graduates, the university heads have a tendency to exaggerate the importance of success in college. Like the graduates, too many college presidents forget that so far as real life is concerned, education follows graduation instead of preceding it.

Dean Hutchins gave the Ann Arbor class its cold plunge before the graduating exercises were finished. In most cases the cold plunge does not come into after graduation—but be sure it always comes.

It is always amazing to the college graduate that the world refuses to yield obeisance, but he soon gets used to it, and learns that if he would have the world do him homage it must be by making use of his training to some practical purpose. There is nothing about the mere fact that a man has been trained that makes him admirable. What counts is the use he makes of his training.

None but the enivous decry the advantage of a "college education". Fortunate indeed are those who are able to get it. It should make a man more fit to do his life's work. It should make a better and more efficient citizen out of him. But the college graduate—and undergraduate, too, for that matter—must realize that his training gives him value only as he makes use of it. The finest product of the best university is utterly worthless unless he puts his equipment to purposeful use. Without use, a college education is merely a frivolous adornment. By use, it becomes valuable equipment.

The possession of a diploma no more insures success than the lack of it is a bar to success. The lack of it may be a handicap, though it has not seemed to handicap many; but the possession of it is only a means of succeeding—it is not success itself.

THE MENACE OF THE FIRECRACKER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Is the city of Duluth really going to allow fireworks display on the Fourth as of old? If I had anything to say about it, I would emphatically say no. Under present existing conditions I would not allow one firecracker to be sold, nor any to be fired that might now be in the possession of individuals. Why? Are not our city and suburbs now menaced by fires of a very serious character? Shall we allow ourselves to increase this danger to life and property by mere foolishness?

Shall we adhere to the penny wise and pound foolish idea? For the net gain to a few merchants by selling firecrackers for a few hundred dollars we risk fires that might cost thousands of dollars. Let us for once get next to the fact that this is no joke. Our pumping station at Lakewood is worked to its full capacity and can not supply the demand. What if a serious fire should threaten our business district? Suppose it was caused by a firecracker? We might as well give these things a serious thought now, now it costs us nothing. On the Fifth we may have to foot the bill for its face value.

I have spent thirty-eighth years in Duluth, but never here or any other place have I seen more favorable conditions for fires than they are just at the present time. Everything is like powder and a mere spark of fire is all that is needed. As a citizen I voice my opinion, and as a citizen I cast my vote at the last city election for my representatives in the city administrative chambers and I leave the rest to them. Respectfully yours.

DEFENDS THE SPIRIT OF THE FOURTH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It is not often that I take part in a newspaper discussion, but I was interested in reading the communication published in your paper of June 30 signed "Tom Myhre" and headed "Sees the Fourth as a Hollow Mockery." I am inclined to be charitable and to think that this is only another instance in which the excessive heat of the last few days has, to some extent, unbalanced the mind of another person, whose name would indicate that he is not a thorough American.

Mr. Myhre was unwise enough to use the thoughts and almost the exact words of a well-known scholar and thorough American without being fair enough to use quotation marks, or to give credit where it was due.

An unbiased person, who is at all familiar with history, will see at once that the writer of that communication does not know of all the causes and the reasons why, on the 4th of July, 1776, a certain Declaration of Independence was adopted, and copies of it sent out to the different states. I believe that Declaration "declared the causes which impelled them to the separation" and the list of those causes would not be bad reading for Mr. Myhre on the morning of July 4, and then he should go out and celebrate the Fourth, not by blowing himself or any one else up, or by having his children blow their eyes out, but celebrate it as a loyal American in the way that the day should be celebrated. I would suggest that Mr. Myhre get on the right side of life and do his part of the celebration right, whether other people do so or not, and the idea will get out of his head that the world has gone entirely wrong. It is just barely possible that if Mr. Myhre would first cast out the beam out of his own eye, he might see clearly to cast out the mote out of his brother's eye.

A Song of the Plow.

I.
(Morning.)

Idle, comfortless bare,
The broad bleak acres lie;
The plowman guides the sharp plough-share
Steadily nigh.

The big plow horses lift
And climb from the marge of the sea,
And the clouds of their breath on the clear wind drift
Over the fallow lea.

Streaming up with the yoke,
Brown as the sweet-smelling loam,
Through a sun-swept smother of sweat and smoke
The two great horses come.

Up through the raw, cold morn
They trample and drag and swing;
And my dreams are waving with ungrown corn
In a far-off spring.

It is my soul lies bare
Between the hills and the sea;
Come, plowman Life, with thy sharp plowshare,
And plow the field for me.

II.
(Evening.)

Over the darkening plain
As the stars regain the sky,
Steals the chime of an unseen rein
Steadily nigh.

Lost in the deepening red
The sea has forgotten the shore;
The great dark steeds with their muffled tread
Draw near once more.

To the furrow's end they sweep
Like a somber wave of the sea,
Lifting its crest to challenge the deep
Hush of Eternity.

Still for a moment they stand
Massed on the sun's red death,
A surge of bronze, too great, too grand,
To endure for more than a breath.

Only a billow and stream
Of muscle and flank and mane
Like dankling mountain cataracts gleam
Gript in a Titan's rein.

Once more from the furrow's end
They wheel to the fallow lea,
And down the muffled descend
To the sleeping sea.

And the fibrous knots of clay,
And the sun-dried clots of earth
Cleave, and the sunset cloaks the gray
Waste and the stony dearth.

O broad and dusky and sweet,
The sunset covers the weald!
But my dreams are waving with golden wheat
In a still strange field.

My soul, my soul lies bare,
Between the hills and the sea;
Come plowman Death, with thy sharp plowshare
And plow the field for me.

—Alfred Noyes,

Time to Stop.

Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph: A messenger boy was told to deliver a telegram to a certain Chicago minister on a Sunday morning at the hour when the preacher was in the pulpit.

The boy gained entrance to the vestry door, and he was at a loss to know how to reach the minister, who was then in the midst of his discourse. He finally succeeded in attracting the attention of one of the ushers, to whom he whispered:

"How long has dat guy been preachin'?"

"About thirty years," said the usher.

"Well, I guess I'll wait. He must be nearly done," said the boy.

FUSION, NOT REPUBLICAN.

Atlanta Constitution: President Taft believes he has made good, personally and throughout his administration.

That is the keynote of a signed statement given to the press in which he jubilates over the legislation achieved by the present congress. He also intimates that the administration has accomplished "what it started out to do" during the first term of congress instead, according to custom, of devoting the entire four years of the administration to the fulfillment of a definite program.

Surely there is an element of the pathetic in the assumed confidence with which the president gives fervent thanks for the things the country yet considers held in abeyance.

Undoubtedly he has been led to such a statement through the commendable desire to reconcile the warring elements of the Republican party, giving the G. O. P. in congress a clean bill upon which to fight for its life in the fall elections.

The strategy will not avail.

Passing by for the moment, the president's defense of the railroad bill and other administration measures, since none of these laws may be gauged until tested by actual operation, it remains that what has been accomplished during the present session is—

Not due to President Taft and the Republican regulars, but to that contingent of able-bodied insurgents who in alliance with the Democrats have been responsible for every bit of progressive legislation enacted at the current session.

And these victories were won virtually over the opposition of the president.

When he gave aid and comfort to the plan to club the insurgents into submission by withholding patronage and when, in at least four speeches he laid significant stress upon "party regularity," he set his face firmly against that one element within his party that reacted accurately to public sentiment.

Had his efforts and those of the reactionaries prevailed, there would not have been even the present shred of accomplishments at which to "point with pride."

The insurgents, with the aid of the Democrats, fought and won their own victories over the stubborn opposition of the regulars aided, indirectly at least, by the administration.

Only at the eleventh hour, when the regulars knew they were whipped and with the sentiment from the country had made itself unmistakably manifest, did they abandon their efforts at obstruction and reactionarism, and agree reluctantly to a compromise program which will probably be shot to pieces once it is compelled to face the test of practical enforcement.

The president is a poor politician if he thinks voters in America can be misled in so palpable a manner. People have been following the newspapers for the past six months. They know the influences dominating at Washington. They know the Republican party, as such, is entitled to hardly a fraction of the performances of the present congress.

They know, too, that it was Democratic aid that stiffened the backbone of timid insurgents enough to make even qualified victory possible. And present prospects point the result as an overwhelming Democratic house in the fall elections.

Poluted Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Killing time may mean the suicide of success.

Optimism is sometimes due to a shortage of experience.

The worm usually turns after it is too late to make a get-away.

Many a man has been stung by the political bee in his bonnet.

The man who pays as he goes seldom gets beyond the speed limit.

Man is tow, woman a spark—and his Satanic majesty works the bellows.

On the other hand, did you ever hear of a man marrying a woman to reform her.

The man who shaves himself might be perfectly happy if he could cut his own hair.

Many a man would enjoy being cast away on a desert island. Then he wouldn't have to call on his wife's relations.

L' Envoi.

(With apologies to Kipling.)

When the Fourth's last cracker is busted
And youth's last finger is burned;
When the pistol with powder is rusted
And the pin-wheel's last circuit turned;
We shall rest—and faith, we shall need it,
For eleven months and a half,
Till the new return of the summer
Renews the powder trust's laugh.

And those that are good shall be deafened.
They shall hear the cannon roar,
They shall hear the horns and the drumbeats
Till their very eardrums are sore.
They shall curse the noise and the odors
And the day when our land had birth;
They shall long for the hour when midnight
Brings quiet again to the earth.

But when, in the dusk of the evening,
The rockets whiz to the sky;
When the Roman candles are roming
And the pyrotechnics fly;
Then the hardest of hardened cynics
Will smile as he thinks of the way
He used to burn powder and fingers
Every Independence Day.

Shackles.

Kansas City Times: The time is coming when we will have to shackle cunning as we have already shackled force.—Theodore Roosevelt.

Two powerful, fighting men have to go far out in the sage brush to find a state of law in which they can even pummel themselves. Nowhere would they be permitted to knock down other men or take their rights from them by the might of brawn.

We have shackled force.

And now we question the right of combined shrewdness and intellect and immorality to take the benefits of privilege by the "right" of controlling legislators and politicians. We see that it is no more right, and should be no more legal, to euchre the people out of their inheritance than to physically beat them up.

We are shackling cunning.

The other night while saying her evening prayers, her spirits, always high, were actually irrepressible, and her petition was punctuated with snickers and smothered giggles.

"Do you think the Lord will like that kind of a prayer?" asked her mother reproachfully.

"Nope," returned Mildred glibly. "Not much! He'll gimme 'bout 60 on that!"

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The New Kind of Fourth.

The change in the character of the celebration in many cities and towns of Independence day, represents something more than a wiser use of a great national holiday. It is symptomatic of the growing prevalence of a new attitude on the part of the American people generally toward their common interests and aspirations. When a boy substitutes long trousers for short ones and begins to agitate for a tuxedo coat, you do not diagnose the situation simply by saying, "George is becoming more particular with regard to his clothes," but you say, "George is becoming a man."

So it is possible for a nation to mature. It, also, can put away childish things and devote itself to objects and pursuits more worthy of the period of development at which it has arrived. And the United States is really getting along in years. It is a child yet, to be sure, compared with Great Britain a mere infant when contrasted with China, but 134 years constitute quite a span of time, and we must confess that though we have been young a long time, and that a certain dignity of demeanor, a certain temperateness in our pleasure, befit us.

If the new plans for the Fourth contemplated only the doing away with unnecessary noise and the prohibition of dangerous firearms, the movement would deserve our support, for the bandaged heads, bleeding fingers and maimed legs and arms that have hitherto followed in the train of the traditional Fourth of July celebration are a disgrace to any social order that calls itself civilized.

But it would be difficult to arouse general enthusiasm over a Fourth of July celebration that was purely negative. "Safe" and "sane" are good words, but they do not make one's blood tingle. Merely repressive measures never appeal to the popular heart. The small boy is still with us, and if we forbid him to rise at 1:45 in the morning and to pull the church bell and to take the neighbor's gate off its hinges and to bang away with his firecrackers the rest of the day, we are bound to provide some other outlet for his pent-up energy, his effervescing patriotism.

So these various schemes in different places for a new and interesting type of Fourth of July celebration deserve support. They are in the line not of repression only, but of reconstruction. They call for creative ability. And the best of them rely for their success not on a few imported experts, but on the cordial and thoughtful participation of many persons, and particularly of many young people, who are being shown ways whereby they may utilize their special gifts to the end that the whole community may be interested and profited.

A "safe" Fourth is not necessarily a noiseless Fourth. But instead of deafening cannon crackers and the din of tin horns that grate like nails on the sensitive nerves of invalids, let us have trained choruses of school children, singing joyously the hymns of the republic. Color and life and motion we still must have or it will not be Fourth of July, but the old-time processions of "antiques and horribles," with their outer costumes and other burlesque features, would better give place to pageants and pageants of a more educative and artistic type. The possibilities of the "floats" depicting some historic scene or episode relating to the national life or to prominent persons influential in our progress from stage to stage, are only just beginning to be realized in this country. Bright boys and girls can get as much fun by helping their teachers and parents work out "color schemes" and musical programs and effective exhibits, as they can by burning gunpowder all day long.

The new type of Fourth is only one expression of the forces at work in our country which aim to conserve its resources, human and material, to unify all classes in society, to do away with unsightly and unseemly things and to bring to bear upon our popular amusements the helpful influence of art, education and even religion itself.

All hail, then, to the new Fourth of July. It does not mean a less happy or less enthusiastic day, but one more rational, more educative, more in keeping with our advancing national ideals, and one stimulating those who participate in it to a nobler patriotism.

"That so?"

"Yes, we're to be addressed by Mrs. Wantavote. Just think, she's been arrested four times."

Washington Star: "Coeducation is a good thing. The boy gets his study and his courting finished simultaneously, and is then ready for work."

The Weather.

Oh, say,
Don't you love the weather this way?
The keen, crisp air of the bright, sharp days,
The crinkling crack of the bedded snow,
The white, cold touch of the sun's short rays,
The fresh, clean breath of the winds that blow?
And hear the merry sleigh bells,
Jingling far and near,
Each its cheery story tells,
Ringing sweet and clear.
Ain't it all fine?
Ain't it the goods.
From the town's white streets
To the cold, brown woods?
Shiver and shake and blow on your fingers,
Bundle up warm and face the breeze,
Bright blue skies
And dancing eyes—
Don't have much show in days like these,
Do they?

THE SPANISH "WAR"

By SAVOYARD.

Senator Depew has been telling some tales about the Spanish war, if we can imagine a physical encounter between a giant and a pygmy a war, and there is little in what Chauncey says about it that is news to the public. The Spanish war was as much of a blunder as the putting of the shackles on Mr. Davis, or the putting of the halter on Mrs. Surratt, was an infamy. Depew says that McKinley told him that the "war" was wholly unnecessary, and that it would have been avoided but for the hotheads in congress and the yellow press. He might have added that it would not have been pulled off if William McKinley had been endowed with the stern moral stamina of Grover Cleveland or the imperious will of Thomas B. Reed. If either of these had been president, there would have been no war, and Spain would have withdrawn from Cuba without the firing of a hostile gun by our republic.

Again, the Spanish war was another of the innumerable blunders of the Democratic party in congress that forced a dozen years' lease of power on the Republican party. The yaller journals with office-made lies from Cuba excited the mob, and Democratic and Republican orators in congress mistook the clamor of the rabble for Vox Dei, for there are congressmen in both houses who are profound in the belief that war, pestilence and famine are mild public chastisements compared with their retirement from the public council.

And so the Democratic minority, excellent gentlemen, kindly of heart, generous of impulse, patriotic of sentiment, turned themselves into so many Molochs, each proclaiming a recipe for war. Perhaps there were exceptions. They did not care a rap for Cuba. They did not believe that Wall street would allow the country to go to war. On the Republican side of the hedge Molochs were as thick as dandelions in April, and they too clamored for war. One Republican senator shed tears over it. And what an opera bouffe it would have been if it had not been so costly in human life—by disease—and treasure!

The capers of the yellows in New York were positively amusing if they had not been completely disgusting. There were intervals of about fifteen minutes between editions filled with silly lies written in the respective offices about the cruelties practiced by the Spaniards in Cuba. Murder by starvation was the burden of their mendacity, when at that moment there was more starvation in the city of New York in a week than there had ever been in Cuba in a year.

Amos Cummings, a member of congress from New York, went to the chief reconcentrado camp in Cuba and got as good a breakfast for 50 cents, American money, as would have been furnished him in this town of Washington at the same price. Down there was a fellow who was known as the "living skeleton." He had traveled the world round as a freak of nature in shows, but he never made so much money as now. The yellow papers printed his carcass in 100 attitudes as a living example of the hellish cruelty of Weyler. The fellow was at Matanzas, and when he saw an American coming, afar off, he would begin to scrip, hold out his hat, and many a time was it filled with American money.

The Democrats were proceeding with their grand exploit of "putting the Republicans in a hole." But the Republicans were already in a hole. There were 100,000 hungry officeseekers that Mark Hanna had no bread for; but the Democrats forced the war, and that made a place for every devil of them, and more, too. As usual, the Democratic party was going through its grand stunt of pulling chestnuts out of the fire for the G. O. P.

And so the Maine was sent where it had no business to be, and got blown up, whether by accident, or by Spaniard, or by Cuban, will never be satisfactorily established.

But it made the war that was like a ring fight between John L. Sullivan and Alexander H. Stephens. The navy and the marine corps could have fought the thing without the aid of a single soldier, regular or volunteer, and yet we hear of "Spanish Veterans!" Spain had been the mirror of chivalry. She had saved the cross from the crescent. Her history was mingled glory and infamy. Cervantes was compensation for the Inquisition. She first lighted the fires on the altar of modern political civilization. The very American congress that forced this crowning humiliation on the proudest people of all time had its germ in the Spanish polity of the Astirias, for our parliament was evolved out of the cortes.

But now Spain was nothing but valor and memory, helpless before the young giant of the West, and all she could do was to go to the scratch and get knocked out. That she did with a dauntless intrepidity worthy the days of her grandeur when the Spanish infantry was what the phalanx was to Sparta, what the legion was to Rome, what his Ironsides were to Cromwell, what his guards were to Napoleon.

But they must needs call to arms an immense volunteer army, not to die on the field, but to perish in the camp. There was nobody to fight. What a pity it was not England, or Germany, that we confronted. And so the boys from the city and the country volunteered, hoping to fight for the flag, when there was no fight. It was impossible, for it takes two to make a fight.

As for the cost, it was frightful; as for the graft, it was limitless. And the end! When Abraham Lincoln called for volunteers to coerce a soverign state, it changed the republic into a nation, and when William Jennings Bryan, with his uniform on, came to this town and jammed the Treaty of Paris through the United States senate, the nation was transformed into an empire.

As the Frenchman said, "the wine is drawn and it must be drank." We are in for it. What shall we do? There is but one course of safety, absolute safety, and that a hard and fast British alliance, offensive and defensive. The Anglo-saxons united may defy all comers, and keep the peace throughout Christendom and pagandom. Soon Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand will be mighty nations, each with teeming millions, of power incalculable, resources inexhaustible, and wealth beyond computation.

Let these and us take for motto what is inscribed on the great seal of Kentucky:

"United we stand; divided we fall."

If that shall be the fruit of the Spanish war, that folly will turn out a blessing; otherwise, we must get a larger standing army and a navy to meet all comers.

But our country is far from finished. We need billions and tens of billions to make our material development equal to that of France. Our railroads call for billions; so do our rivers and harbors and canals. Our country highways are clamorous for other billions.

As the cub reporter says, "the end is not yet."

DEMOCRACY IN RELIGION

THE PEOPLE'S CHURCH IN SCHENECTADY, N. Y., A UNIQUE APPLICATION OF THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.

By LIVY S. RICHARD, Editor of the Boston Common

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

A significant experiment in democratic religion is in progress in Schenectady, N. Y. It is called The People's Church and its inspiring factor is Rev. Dr. George R. Lunn, who resigned from the pastorate of the most aristocratic congregation in that city to champion the interests of common humanity.

Schenectady is a peculiar city. Originally controlled by conservative natives, it is today in the grip of absentee capitalism. In ten years its population has leaped from 30,000 to 80,000 and the bulk of this "outlander increment" depends for its daily bread upon two immense industries, the General Electric company, employing, at maximum, 17,000 workers, and the American Locomotive company employing between 6,000 and 7,000.

Dr. Lunn, full of faith in the efficacy of the Christian religion to solve those problems, came to the pulpit of Schenectady's most substantial congregation resolved to battle for a bettered social order.

He began by insisting that what mattered most was not what doctrines a man professed to believe in but how he behaved himself as a man and brother.

There arose a crusade to exile certain notorious women outcasts. He did not join, but affirmed that women who were driven into social uncleanness by the scant wages of un-Christianized industry might not be half so guilty in the sight of God as women whose unearned wealth had been in part recruited by high rentals derived from dealers in vice.

The street railway system in Schenectady had been owned and managed by the General Electric company. It had given good car service, had sold six tickets (called "red tickets") for a quarter and had been liberal with transfers. When the New York Central and Delaware & Hudson steam lines conceived the plan of securing control of trolley traffic in the Mohawk valley, "refined compulsion" was put upon the General Electric people to sell the Schenectady trolley system.

On May 14, 1907, the new management said: "The desire of the company is to extend its service and to continue the use of the so-called "red tickes;" but justice to the company makes it unwise that it should guarantee in perpetuity this low rate of fare."

On March 1, 1908, the fare was raised to the flat 5-cent rate. Although the general manager of the company was a member of the finance committee of his church, Dr. Lunn headed a citizens' committee which first conferred with the president of the company in a fruitless endeavor to secure a revocation of the raise; and later carried the whole traction situation before the state public service commission.

But it was in his contact with the politicians that this fighting parson stirred up the biggest hornet's nest. William W. Wimple of Schenectady was in the state senate when Governor Hughes began his effort to delegalize bookmaking. Mr. Wemple voted with the racing interests. For this he was roundly censured by the Schenectady Ministerial association. But Dr. Lunn thought it would be a good thing to have the governor come over to Schenectady and make a speech. The president of the Ministerial association was absent from the city, hence, Dr. Lunn went ahead on his own responsibility; hired a theater; secured the governor's promise to appear; by three hours' telephoning organized a reception committee, and had the meeting all arranged before the Republican leaders knew about it. When they woke up they were especially solicitous that Senator Wemple should be on the platform; but Dr. Lunn would not have it that way.

The governor came, addressed a crowded and responsive audience, and, in the following election, Senator Wemple was elected to stay at home.

Dr. Lunn's purpose in attacking political graft, law-breaking and injustices was not primarily economic but spiritual; to make religion vital among people alienated from the conventional church. As he said:

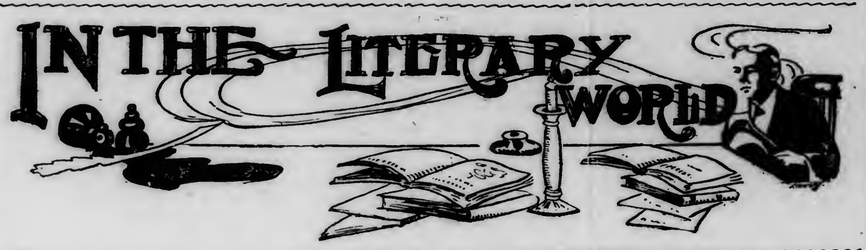

"The church has failed to recognize in the great cry for better conditions and a fuller and more complete life generally, coming from the laboring classes, a real word of God for this age, a veritable voice of the eternal calling all men of good will into active service."

What followed was what could have been expected. In spite of the continued support of a few broad-minded men the run of parishioners having interests to defend took umbrage at this vitalizing of gospel precepts; friction arose, tongues wagged and finally, though the congregation by vote of 269 to 101 urged him to stay, Dr. Lunn resigned and the consistory, with half its membership of eight about to retire voted 7 to 1 to accept the resignation.

So Dr. Lunn left the aristocratic pulpit in Schenectady and went to a theater to preach—to a meeting place in which has been born a strictly democratic church. This meets twice each Sunday. The evening I attended, 1,500 substantial looking, interested men and women crowded pit and balconies, sang with gusto songs of democracy to familiar hymn tunes, bowed reverently in prayer, repeating in unison the Lord's prayer, and listened intently to a practical and pointed talk on every-day religion. The People's church has no creed and its government is exceeding simple. There is only the congregation, the pastor and an advisory council, the latter consisting of one of the principal surgeons of the city, two business men, an electrical engineer, three wage-earning working men, one leader in the labor movement, and two places left open for women. The initiative and referendum are applied in that twenty persons may unite to bring any subject to the pastor's or congregation's attention. Once a month there is an open forum discussion. Expenses are met by plate offerings and pledge cards.

When Dr. Lunn left the First Reformed pastorate 1,500 working people in writing wanted him immediately to organize a People's church, but he insisted upon first testing the attendance and spirit. That test he thinks is now complete—certainly the People's church appears to be on a sound financial as well as upon a vital human interest basis. Five months have yielded steady increase of interest with enlarging usefulness and growing support. If this pace shall be maintained, the life and outlook of Schenectady must in time be profoundly influenced.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

THE PURSUIT. By Frank Saville. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.50.

It is something of a novelty in romance to find "our hero" getting the worst of it steadily. In this story he is outwitted at almost every turn, is beaten up and shot until one wonders that there is enough left of him to keep on, and he doesn't win out until the end of the book. Meanwhile, the villain, cool, rascally and suave, goes scatheless and triumphant. The villain is trying to kidnap his own son, with a view to blackmailing his rich father-in-law, and the hero is trying to baffle the villain because they are cousins and of the same name, a name which the hero is anxious to redeem, particularly as the beautiful and brave heroine has a prejudice against it and against him because he wears it. The pursuit of the villainous father and his child starts in Gibraltar, goes through Tangier and Spain, and ends in Messina during the time of the earthquake. It is stated that the author personally has gone over every foot of the route, and that is easy to believe, the descriptions are so real. However, it isn't a travel book. The descriptions are hardly descriptions; they are more like impressionistic hints at the background that give reality to the scenery of the drama. It is a lively story, with something doing every minute, and it makes good summer entertainment.

ADDRESSES AND PAPERS ON LIFE INSURANCE AND OTHER SUBJECTS. By John Dryden, president of the Prudential Insurance company of America and United States senator from New Jersey. Newark, N. J.: Published by the author.

In this volume, copies of which have been placed on file in the larger libraries of the country, the originator of industrial life insurance in the United States writes instructively and entertainingly on this and other subjects. He treads on the exceptions and early problems of the business, as well as the social economy and practice of what he claims to be one of the most effective methods of family portection ever devised. Mr. Dryden also points out the opportunities of life insurance as a career, and shows that only one-fifth of the population carry legal reserve life insurance. Senator Dryden urges a reduction in the tax on life insurance, and the placing of insurance under national supervision to bring about uniform laws. Included in the handsomely bound volume are the author's speech favoring a lock canal at Panama, and short addresses on Abraham Lincoln and Alexander Hamilton.

WHAT TO DO AT RECESS. By George E. Johnson, superintendent of playgrounds, parks and vacation schools, Pittsburg. New York: Ginn & Co. 25 cents.

This little book answers the inquiry from teachers everywhere for practical directions for the use of the school playgrounds. The teacher is told just how to begin, what apparatus to provide, and what games to play—also, how to play them. The needs of the primary, the intermediate and the grammar school pupils, girls and boys alike, are considered in turn. It is easy to read, very suggestive, and deals with essentials.

WHY DR. HOBSON BECAME A QUACK and other stories. By P. H. Noyes. New York: Cochrane Publishing company. $1 net.

The humorous and genial apothecary of Lancaster, N. H., in this book tries his 'prentice hand at literature, beginning with a long story about a man who became a quack physician because people are so credulous and imaginative about their ailments and prefer to be given humbug rather than good sense. Then follow several short stories about doings in the Eastern Star and other local social circles. There is a tendency to caricature that doubtless will delight the natives of Lancaster, but the lack of training in literary expression and the crudity of the humor make it rather unlikely that the book will have wide circulation.

Of Books and Writers.

Small, Maynard & Co., have ready a new book by Rev. Charles F. Dole, the author of "The Ethics of Progress," "The Spirit of Democracy," etc. It is called "The Coming Religion," and the author dedicates it:

"To all readers interested in the great questions of religion;

"To conservative readers who hold to the reality under traditional forms of faith;

"To readers skeptical about religion, but open-minded and willing to be persuaded."

The temper of the book is optimistic; its manner and method distinctly common-sense.

"Our effort," says the author, "has been to show and illustrate the fact that men are not less but more religious than they suppose. There is one memorable modern life which clinches our argument, namely, the life of Abraham Lincoln. In no conceivable sense can this be described as a life of conventional religion. Here was no member of a church; there was not a creed in the world to which he could have given his assent. He was caught up into no seventh heaven of mystic ecstasy. But this plain man, at his best, in his faith in goodness and truth and justice, in his trust in God, in his trust in and love for the people, walked before men as a veritable son of God. On his ethical side there seem to have been moments of his life when, as truly as any of the mystics, he was one with God. No American of any church would be willing to go to a heaven where Abraham Lincoln and such as he would be shut out. The truth is, that the whole world is at heart already on the basis of the new religion."

The Sturgis & Walton company announces that it will publish early in the autumn "Hunting Camps in Wood and Wilderness," by H. Hesketh-Prichard, F. R. G. S., F. Z. S., etc., author of "Through the Heart of Patagonia," "Don Q," etc. The book will tell of the experiences of a hunter and trained naturalist in Patagonia and British North America.

The same company announces that it will publish next autumn, a book to be entitled "Famous Impostors." It is being written by Bram Stoker, the well known novelist and biographer of Sir Henry Irving. Mr. Stoker will present various types of swindlers, pretenders and humbugs of international reputation.

Another Sturgis & Walton fall books will be "The Suffragette," by Miss E. Sylvia Pankhurst. The author of this book, which is to be in a manner the official history of the English equal suffrage movement, is a daughter of Mrs. Pankhurst, the founder and honorable secretary of the Women's Social and Political union.

In his new book, "Astir, A Publisher Life-Story," (Small, Maynard & Co.), John Adams Thayer, who was one of the publishers of Everybody's Magazine in the famous "Frenzied Finance" days, tells an amusing story of the phenomenal increase in the circulation of the magazine at that time. "The July issue wherein 'Frenzied Finance' began its spectacular career," says Mr. Thayer, "also contained the first instalment of a serial which we had arranged to publish long before the Lawson project arose. In the early autumn Hall Caine performed his pilgrimage to London to call upon his publisher. The latter, having transatlantic connections, mentioned to the author that the circulation of Everybody's Magazine had made extraordinary gains. 'Yes,' said Mr. Caine, 'I expected it. That is the American magazine which is publishing my new story, "The Prodigal Son."'"

In his investigation of industrial conditions in the Canadian Northwest, James Oliver Curwood, author of "The Danger Trail," (Bobbs-Merrill), has run across some interesting and unusual business methods, to be found only in a pioneer country. As an example, the bookkeeper of a logging camp was found to be keeping his accounts in the snow. This was not such an unreasonable thing, perhaps, but Mr. Curwood inadvertently destroyed the accounts of an entire day by literally walking through the ledger. Logs were counted by the time required to pass a given point in the river as they passed down the stream. A farmer reaped up the wheat gathered from his 800 acres in a mound and sold it by the foot instead of by the bushel.

In his recent book, "The Chinese," (Bobbs-Merrill), John Stuart Thomson concludes his appeal for a fleet on the Pacific stronger at all times than Japan's, with these pregnant words: "In a Chinese cradle, under the mysterious yellow robe, really lies the commercial future of the Pacific states of America. Shall it be rocked by a faithful hand, made steadier because of the backing of a mighty fleet, or shall the nursling be tumbled out to be jiu-jitsued, gear-throttled or stein-smashed? The fleet shall say." Mr. Thomson argues that the Anglo-British alliance only substituted Japan for Russia as the aggressor against the American doctrine of "non-partition of China" in practically occupying those two of China's twenty-one provinces where American trade exceeds that of any other nation. The London Times also is campaigning for Russian and Japanese control of the three Manchurian provinces, "treaties and agreements notwithstanding," on the plea of "economic gravitation." Apparently only America is sincerely allied to the proposition of preserving the integrity of China, and Mr. Thomson's book urges a mighty fleet to back up our altruistic diplomacy on the other side of the Pacific against all comers. The Chinese-American side of the question is certainly the correct one—morally, commercially and ethnically—and Japan has been allowed sufficient expansion in the absorption of Korea. China should be saved, not alone because of her immortal past, but because of her glorious future, and this is America's mission across the Pacific.

This has been a busy season for the woman novelist. Of the six best sellers throughout the United States, as reported in the last number of the Bookman, four are by women, namely: "By Inheritance," an American story with a Southern background, by Gertave Thanet (Miss Alice French); "The Kingdom of Slender Swords," a Japanese tale by Hallie Ermine Rives; "Lady Merton, Colonist," Mrs. Humphry Ward's new book, and "The Rosary." It is not often that the men novelists are so "outsold" by the opposite sex.

What is it that makes a book sell? The question has been asked over and over and has never been fully answered; but perhaps some light is shed by the following account of a book just now prominently before the public—Mrs. Watt's "Nathan Burke. (Macmillan). This novel was published about two months ago. It was immediately taken up by the critics and generally declared to be one of the finest novels published in America in years; but, though the critics read and liked it, the public refused to buy. Booksellers said it was too long. The public, they declared, had lost its taste for good fiction and wanted nothing but the short trashy novel that could be read in an hour and thrown aside without a regret. Evidently the publishers of "Nathan Burke" refused to accept this interpretation of the public taste. A second edition was printed, although apparent demand for the book was of the smallest. Then came signs of a change. The people who were reading "Nathan Burke" began to talk about it to their friends. Booksellers found their talk diminishing before they knew it. The change, when it actually arrived, was sudden enough to be positively startling. The publishers' records show that the sales on a certain day were less than sixty copies. The next day the sales were 315, the third day 705 and the fourth day 1,800. This was only a few days ago and now "Nathan Burke" is in its twentieth thousands and selling at a rate that bids fair to make it one of the great successes of the year. And once for all it has confounded the pessimists who assert that the reading public prefers trash to the big, vigorous stories of the Dickens and Thackeray type.

Among the Magazines.

Mr. Roosevelt's article, which leads the July Scribner, contains one of the most interesting episodes of his trip, the journey which he took alone, cutting loose from the rest of the party, and making a trek to the head-waters of an equatorial river, the Nyaro," in pursuit particularly of the oryx, "a bold and hard fighter, which when cornered, will charge a man." During this excursion Mr. Roosevelt took his own photographs, a number of which are reproduced in the article. "Those days alone in the wilderness went by very pleasantly," he says, "and, as it was for not too long, I thoroughly enjoyed being entirely by myself so far as white men were concerned." Later he joined the main safari and heard an account from Kermit of an exciting lion hunt. One incident of this journey was that, when at Neri, he received from Peary the following cable: "Your farewell was a royal mascot. The Pole is ours." Madame Waddington tells most charmingly of a summer vacation in Venice, picturing the social life as lived in an old palace by an English family of prominence, and reproducing the never failing delight and picturesqueness of Venetian life. The illustrations, some of them in color, are from paintings by F. Hopkinson Smith, who has spent every summer there for twenty years. An article of great pertinence at the present time is by Elmer Roberts, entitled "Some Reflections on the Growth of the German Navy." It clears up a great deal of misinformation which is prevalent on this subject.

The July Metropolitan is a "Roosevelt number," with a striking cover cartoon of the ex-president and a leading article, "Lo! The Conquering Hero," in which Walter Wellman offers an interesting exhanation of how and why Roosevelt captured Europe. An article that will cause a sensation is "The Capitalization of Amateur Athletics," by James B. Connolly, a barehanded attack on the methods of the Amateur Athletic union and its business connections. Shall it be Spaldings, a third article of equaly strong appeal to a different class of readers is Professor Munsterberg's "The Educational Unrest," a thoughful and lucid account of the educational problem in our colleges and schools. "An American Museum of Safety" describes a new movement for safeguarding the lives of workingmen. Some glimpses of the little-known personality of Charles Frohman are furnished by George Stronge Bryan, and H. W. Collingwood continues his series of little essays on country life with "Summer Boarders." James Oppenheim has written one of his strongest stories in "Joan of the Mills," and "Corporal Rank," by John R. Ellyson is a war-time episode of rare pathos and beauty. Other contributors are George S. Chappell, Katherine Holland Brown and Richard Wightman.

Both as to cover and contents the month-end edition of the twice-a-month Popular Magazine has a suggestion of virility that compels attention. The cover is by Leyendecker—a wonderful study of a boat crew on the river. W. B. M. Ferguson's latest novel, "The Looting of the 'Eurania,'" is published complete in this issue. Ferguson's "Cat Island" and "Garrison's Finish" were capital stories but this new novel of his, in many respects, better than either; a remarkable thing about it that there isn't a girl in it. Roy Norton contributes the first of a series about the miners of Willow Creek. The rowing story is by Gilbert Patten. It tells how the Yale stroke met the greatest temptation of his life, and is called "Vesner of the Crew." Dane Coolidge, whose new novel, "Hidden Water," was concluded a few weeks ago in the Popular, contributes a splendid short story, "The Coyote of Tres Palmas."

While perhaps it cannot be said that The Housekeeper for July muckrakes midsummer hot days, it can at least be shown that the airy freshness of the pages puts the blistering heat to shame by teaching so many ways in which it can be overcome. The abundant fiction pages offer amusement for an afternoon in the hammock. Lilian Bell tells some new facts about satisfactory summer sanitation. The fashion plates show airy garments. But, best of all, mayhap, are the household and cookery pages, for we must eat, whether at home or picnicking, and just how to make the table appetizing is very worth while knowledge.

The pictorial section of The World's Work for July contains excellent views of the funeral procession of the late King Edward. Another very striking picture is one of the kaiser and Mr. Roosevelt on horseback at the review of 12,000 German troops given for the benefit of the ex-president. Views of Glenn H. Curtiss on his epoch-making flight from Albany to New York may also be found, as well as a picture of the Country Life in America aviation trophy. In addition, this number contains full-page portraits of the late William Sydney Porter ("O. Henry"); Peary and Shackleton, seen together, Yung Wing, Louis D. Brandels, Abraham Flexner.

The Popular Science Monthly for July contains the following articles: "A Naturalist in the Straits of Magellan," by Dr. Charles Hasins Townsend; "The Future of the Human Race," by Prof. T. D. A. Cockrell; "Middle and Distance Running," by Charles E. Hammett; "The Symbolism of Dreams," by Havelock Ellis; "Modern Medievalism," by Dr. Frank T. Carlton; "The Nature of Disease and of Its Cure," by Dr. James Frederick Rogers; the Paleontologic Record; "Paleontologic Evidences of Climate," by J. W. Stanton; "The Migration and Shifting of Devonian Faunas," by Prof. Henry S. Williams; "Paleontologic Evidences of Adaptive Radiation," by Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn; "Instinct and Intelligence in Birds," Prof. Francis H. Herrick; "The John Hopkins University;" "Medical Eudaction in the United States;" "Robert Koch."

The July Lippincott's is one of the strongest issues this enterprising magazine has brought out in a long time. There is a fine complete novel, entitled "The Lady Thalia," by Henry C. Rowland. This is a stirring tale of the Balkans, full of border warfare, yet the sterner side of the narrative is softened by a charming love interest, as well as by not a little humor. "The Lady Thalia" ought to appeal to even the most jaded literary appetite. Mary Roberts Rinehart, Elsie Singmaster, and other favorites contribute short stories. Mrs. John Van Vorst writes of "The Markets of Paris," and there are also offerings of various kinds by John Kendrick Bangs, Thomas L. Masson, Ellis O. Jones, Willard French, and many others. "Walnuts and Wine" is fully up to this humorous department's usual high standard.

The July issue of the Atlantic is remarkable for the variety of interest of the leading articles and the excellence of its fiction. There has rarely been a number of the magazine covering so wide a range of present day human interest. The leading paper, entitled "Puritanism," by Guglielmo Ferrero, the distinguished Italian historian, gives a glimpse of the author's impressions of America. Doctors and medical students will be particularly interested in two suggestive papers entitled "The Plethora of Doctors," by Abraham Flexner, and "Medical experimentalism on Animals," by Dr. Frederick L. Wachenheim. Professor Flexner vividly summarizes the unwholesome effect of a multitude of inferior medical schools on the profession and practice of medicine, and Dr. Wachenheim writes a temperate and well-judged paper on the value of experimentation on animals. The series of papers on the newspaper press is enlivened by a characteristic paper on "The Personal Equation in Journalism," by Henry Watterson. Like the doctors and journalists, the ministers will read with interest Francis E. Leupp's "The Minister and the Men," a discriminating expression of the opinion of the layman. The man of letters will be attracted by "An Educational Emergency," by Edward O. Sisson, and "Learning," by John Jay Chapman. The business man will read with interest "Gold Production and Investments," by F. S. Mead; the historian, "Welle's Diary of Reconstruction;" and the student of civics will be rewarded by reading "A Problem in Civilization," by Brooks Adams.

Among the special features of the July number of the American Review of Reviews are illustrated articles on "The Case of Paladino," by Prof. Jesepi Jastrow; "The Los Angeles Aqueduct," by Joseph Barlow Lippincott; "Cancer is Known Today," by Dr. Isaac Levin, of the department of pathology, Columbia university; "The Disease-Carrying House-Fly," by Dr. Daniel D. Jackson, bacteriological expert of the New York city department of water supply; and "What the Railroads Are Doing to Open up Newfoundland," by Sir Edward Morris, prime minister of Newfoundland. There are also excellent portraits of Speaker Mooney of the Ohio house of representatives, who is mentioned as a gubernatorial possibility in his state. Adachi Kinnosuke, the Japanese writer, contributes an enlightening study of the critical situation in China indicated by the recent riots, and there are brief practical articles of interest to business men on "Live Stock and Land Values," by A. G. Leonard of Chicago, "Reducing Interest Rates on Savings Deposits," by John Harsen Rhoades, the New York banker, and "Irrigation Securities and the Investor," by E. G. Hopson, a government engineering expert—these articles admirably supplementing the department of "Finance and Business," becoming an important and indispensable feature of the magazine.

The issue of Harper's Weekly for June 25th contains some excellent photographs of Mr. Roosevelt's homecoming and reception. To this number Charles Johnston contributes an amusing article entitled "Humor in the Days of the Pharaohs." John Kendrick Bangs writes upon "Danger-Signals at Monte Carlo"—the warning conveyed by picture postal cards illustrative of the gambling palace, which he wisely heeded. Under the title "Greater Love Hath No Man," F. W. Splint tells of some acts of heroism performed by firemen. This issue contains a story by Leo Crane, entitled "Gosnell's Girl"; a continuation of William Winter's trenchant theatrical criticism; and the customary humor and editorial features.

Can This Man Read Your Life?

The rich, poor, exalted and humble seek his advice on Business, Marriage, Friends, Enemies, Changes, Speculations, Love Affairs, Journeys, and all events of Life.

MANY SAY HE REVEALS THEIR LIVES WITH AMAZING ACCURACY.

Free Test Readings Will Be Sent for a Short Time to All Duluth Herald Readers.

Has the veil of mystery that has so long shrouded the ancient sciences been raised at last? Can it be that a system has been perfected that reveals with reasonable accuracy the character and disposition of an individual, and so outlines the life as to assist in avoiding errors and taking advantage of opportunities.

Roxroy, a man who has for twenty years been delving into the mysteries of the occult, making a scientific study of the various methods of reading the lives of people seems to have reached a higher round in the ladder of fame than his predecessors. Letters are pouring into his office from all parts of the world telling of the benefits derived from his advice. Many of his patrons look upon him as a man gifted with some strange, mysterious power, but he modestly asserts that what he accomplishes is due alone to an understanding of natural laws.

He is a man of kindly feeling toward humanity, and his manner and tone immediately impress one with his sincere belief in his work. A huge stack of grateful letters from people who have received readings from him adds to other convincing proof as to his ability. Even Astrologers and Palmists admit that his system surpasses anything yet introduced.

The Rev. G. C. H. Hasskarl, Ph. D., pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, in a letter to Prof. Roxroy, says: "You are certainly the greatest specialist and master of your profession. Every one consulting you will marvel at the correctness of your detailed personal readings and advice. The most sceptical will consult you again and again after corresponding with you once."

If you wish to take advantage of Roxroy's generous offer and obtain a free reading, send your date, month and year of birth, state whether (Mr., Mrs. or Miss) and also a copy of the following verse in your own handwriting:

To read people's lives,
And would ask what for me
You have to advise?

SOCIETY

No excitement other than an effort to keep cool was tolerated by society during the week.

The weddings that had been planned months in advance had of course to come off, but aside from that, every other engagement that could possibly be postponed until Christmas time was adjourned. After gasping for breath during the day time, people tried every legitimate means to keep cool during the evening, and universal sympathy has been extended the two hot individuals who tried illegitimate means and had to pay $3 in court for the privilege of bathing in Lake Superior in the superlative of scanty attire.

People who never before broke the commandment about not envying your neighbor's house nor his lot, nor his man servant nor all the rest of the things mentioned broke down when it came to the revised version that included automobiles. Every one who could, rode in an automobile this week, and it became very good form to prolong rides till sunrise, the cool of the day being the time to ride.

The week-end was never more cordially welcomed and many people left today to spend the holiday in the country. Several went to Isle Royale, others have gone to the Spirit Lake branch of the Boat club and the little lakes and nearby resorts will have many visitors from Duluth for the week-end.

The following social item from the Topeka Capital for Thursday will be of interest to many Duluthians:

"A very pretty home wedding took place last night at 7 o'clock, when Miss Florence Burge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Burge, 1100 West Eighth avenue, was married to Guy Elmore Diehl of Duluth, Minn. The ceremony was read on the porch, which was screened in with white canvas and decorated in quantities of garden flowers. French baskets filled with daisies and coreopsis were hung between the pillars, which were wound in asparagus and festoons of green were used on the white background. There were fifty guests who heard the ceremony, read by Rev. Francis L. Hayes of the First Congregational church. A cousin of the bride, Miss Kate Lowman of Toulon, Ill., played Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bride, who is an unusually pretty girl of a classic type, wore a beautiful gown of white marquisette over white satin, trimmed in baby Irish lace. There were princesse panels in the front and back of the lace and the bodice was effectively trimmed in a lace bolero. The bride's bouquet was a shower of sweet peas, and her long veil was fastened in her hair by a white Grecian band. The maid of honor, Miss Lenore Monroe, and the bridesmaid, Miss Marcia Williams, wore yellow mull gowns and carried shepherdess baskets filled with daisies. Miss Cynthia Monroe was the ring bearer, and she carried the ring in a lily. She wore a very pretty white embroidery frock with a yellow sash and a yellow bow in her hair. The bridegroom's best man was his brother, Alfred Diehl of Coleraine, Minn., and Barton Phelps acted as usher. After the wedding a supper was served and throughout the entire house there was a charming decoration of garden flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Diehl left last night to spend a month in a primitive spot on the border line between Canada and the United States, called Lake of the Woods. They will make their home in Duluth, where Mr. Diehl is employed as mining engineer by the Oliver Mining company. Out of town guests who were here to attend the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowman of Kansas City, Mrs. Annie Diehl, who is the mother of the bridegroom, of Elroy, Wis., Miss Kate Lowman of Toulon, Ill. Miss Lowman has been a guest at the Lee Monroe home and will return to her home today.

The wedding of Miss Loraine Amanda Ballou and John Bern Barstow took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Ballou of 2931 Lake avenue south. The wedding service was read at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Edna M. Ballou, and the groomsman was R. W. Barstow of Barnum, Minn. A number of out-of-town guests were present for the ceremony. Mr. Barstow and his bride left for a wedding trip to the Twin Cities, and after July 15 will be at home at Royalton, Minn.

The wedding of Miss Mabel Marguerite Hallen and William E. Conway took place Wednesday morning at St. James' Catholic church. The service was read by Rev. Father Brockmeyer. The bride was attended by Miss Olive Lemire, and the bridegroom nad as his attendant William Cronin. OUR YOUNG FOLKS PAGE

The Flag Brigade.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

THE Glorious Fourth was coming! Only a few days more for the Boys of the Flag Brigade to wait! And each individual Boy of the Brigade was full of happy anticipation. They had been drilling for weeks—ever since Tommy Ryan's father came home one evening to say: "Hello, Sonny! You'd better be getting ready for the Fourth. It's on its way here!"

Then it was that Tommy talked the matter over with his comrades, Frankie Bryant, Jimmy Lamont, Ned Brown, Billy Downs and the clown of the "band," Fatty Hoover. It was Fatty who always "cut up capers" and made his companions laugh till their sides ached.

"Let's have a fing brigade," Tommy had suggested, when the boys had assembled in Billy Downs' father's stable. Tommy had called the meeting, and was acting as "spokesman."

"Good!" cried Frankie. "I've got three flags at home."

"Yep, let's have a burgade," acquiesced Jimmy, not knowing just what a brigade meant, but knowing it would be something of a patriotic nature. "Must we all have flags, Tom?"

"Sure," explained Tommy. Then the conversation became general, and very soon a plan for the Glorious Fourth was outlined, and Tommy was to have full management of its development. "We'll all march, carrying flags, and we'll sing something, too," Tommy said.

"What'll we sing?" asked Ned Brown, who had a lusty voice and loved to sing. "Let's make it, 'Anybody Here Seen Kelly.'"

"Oh, no!" protested Billy. "Let's sing, 'There's a Hot Time in Old Town To-night.' For we'll make things hum, won't we?"

"Say, don't you kids know what the Fourth means?" asked Tommy, in a disgusted tone. "You fellers would better be learning what was done on the Glorious Fourth of July. Gee! The idea of singing such songs! Why, we'll sing national airs, 'Old Glory,' and such songs."

"Old Glory means the flag," said Frankie. "I never heard of a song by that name."

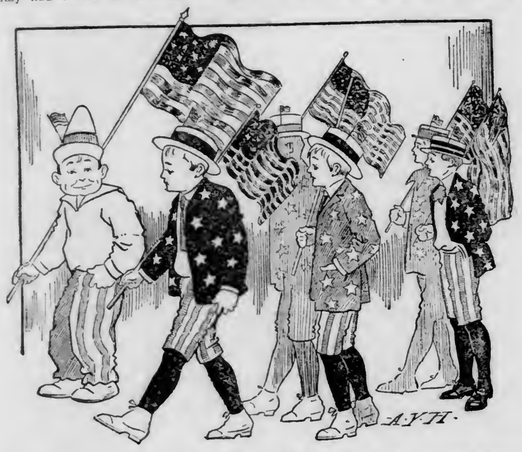

"Well, there's a song that has some big name," said Tommy, excusing his own mistake. "Anyway, we'll all sing 'Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue.'"

"Yep; I know every word of that," said Fatty. "And I know a funny parody on it, too."

"Well, you can keep the parody in your pistol pocket on the Fourth," declared Tommy, a real master of the situation, as it proved. He meant to have everything go off in a most patriotic and dignified manner on the Fourth. And he would put up with no nonsense, not even from Fatty.

"All right, Pal," grinned Fatty. "I'll sing the old-fashioned song with the rest of the bunch. But—what are we to do, anyway?"

"Well, this is my scheme," explained Tommy, sitting on the edge of the manger while his hearers sat on some straw at his feet. "Early in the morning we'll get up and be ready for the Great Parade, which is to take place at 10 o'clock. Uncle Andy is to be marshal of the day, and he'll let us in the parade, see? Then, after the parade is over, we'll all go to the picnic grounds—along with the other folks—and have a good time celebrating.

Fatty carried the brigade's standard and each of the band carried a smaller flag.

Pa said he'd give me a half dollar to spend just as I pleased—only I was not to please to buy firecrackers, for they are too dangerous in a crowd where there are wimmen and chil'ren." And Tommy looked important as he spoke of "wimmen and chil'ren." He hardly felt that he might be classed with the latter.

"Well, I'll have about a quarter to spend as I like," said Frankie.

"And I'm going to have lots of peanuts and lemonade. I love 'em both."

"I'll not have more than a dime," complained Fatty. "Daddy won't be home over the Fourth, an' Mammy doesn't believe in letting kids have much money to throw away, as she calls spending money on the Fourth for stuff to eat and drink. She's the same way about a circus day. But——" and Fatty's face cleared, "I know what I'll do. I'll stand on my head and do some tricks for a crowd of chaps and their guris, and the chaps will toss pennies to me. Oh, I'll earn some spending money on the Fourth!"

Then the meeting was adjourned till the following day, when all would assemble with their flags. And then would begin their drill, directed by Tommy—Captain Thomas, as the boys now began to call him.

"I can just see that our brigade will be a howling success," said Jimmy, hopefully. "And I bet we'll get into the paper, too."

"Sure we will," affirmed Tommy. "Uncle Andy knows Mr. Heart, the editor of the paper, and I'll ask Uncle Andy to tell him to mention us in the Fourth of July notice."

A happy smile went over each expectant face, and as the boys started toward their respective homes each in his own mind saw his own name shining in huge letters in the columns of the Weekly Mail, the one paper the town afforded.

The following days were busy ones for the members of the Flag Brigade, and each night found Tommy tired out from drilling his band. The boys had decided on uniforms and their mothers, anxious that their young patriots should appear in the parade duly dressed for the occasion, were making the uniforms according to Tommy's design. The coats were to be made of blue cotton with large white stars dotted over them. The trousers were to be of red and white striped calico, representing the stripes of the flag. Their heads would be covered by straw hats from the bands of which would float little flags.

But Fatty declared he could not wear so dignified a uniform, so he designed a costume for himself which was made after the style of a clown's suit. One-half of the suit was made of red, white and blue striped cloth, while the other half was of bright green. Fatty explained that the red, white and blue half was for the U. S. A., while the green was for "Auld Ireland, from which not one of his ancestors had come, as they had all been very French."

The morning of the Glorious Fourth dawned and the Boys' Flag Brigade was out in flying colors. Fatty was the most brilliant in color of the lot and walked in the very front of the ranks, which came two by two, Tommy commanding. Fatty carried the brigade's standard and each of the band carried a smaller flag.

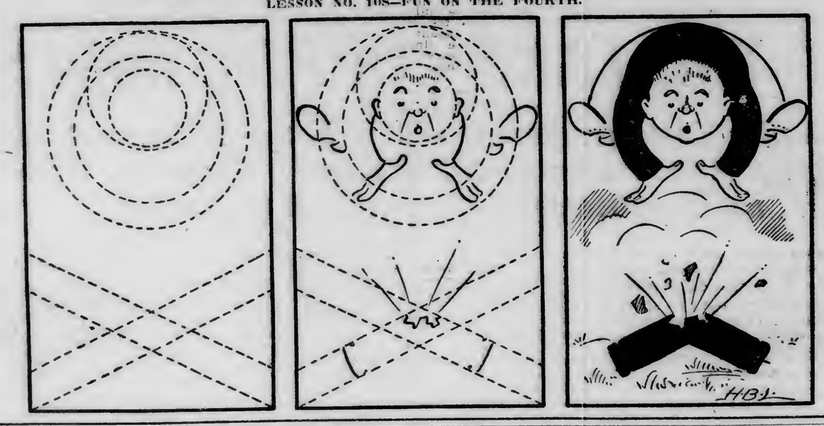

While passing in front of the reviewing stand and while directly in the eye of Mr. Heart, editor of the Weekly Mail, the boys began to sing in their best voice the stirring song, "Columbia." To be sure Fatty was not in the key, and as his voice carried above the others a laugh went up from the listeners. But the boys did not mind that. Indeed, Fatty was aiming at fun-making, and when he heard the merry laughs at his expense he was more than happy.

And so the day wore on, the grand parade ending at 11 and the townspeople going to the picnic grounds a mile from the village. There the brigade had the best time of their lives, Fatty performing so many clever and laughable tricks that he was the recipient of dozens of pennies. And you may know that ice-cream, lemonade, peanuts and candy were indulged in by every member of the band, Fatty being able to pay his part of the expenses. And when evening came every mother's son of the Flag Brigade declared he had never before enjoyed himself as he had on that Glorious Fourth. And in the Weekly Mail the Flag Brigade was written up at great length and special glory given to Captain Thomas, who became one of the leading young patriots of the little city where he lived.

And many proud parents met on the evening of the Glorious Fourth to talk over their sons, the members of the Flag Brigade.

Little Rag-a-Muffin.

A STORY FOR WEE ONES. BY MAUD WALKER.

LITTLE RAG-A-MUFFIN lay on the floor, utterly miserable. She lay face downwards, so that she could not see anything that was going on about her. But she could hear. And that was almost a pity, too, for the things she heard made her more and more unhappy.

Rag-a-muffin was nothing more or less than a rag doll, and a very soiled one at that. She had been in existence about six months, which is quite an age for a doll. But now, in the sixth month of her age, came the first real sorrow she had ever known. She had a rival. And a most beautiful rival, too. A rival with a hard, pink china face, hands and feet, and with honest hair on her head. And this rival had only come on the morning of my story. Indeed, it was the rival's appearance which had thrown Rag-a-muffin into such despair on the floor, face downwards.

But to go back a bit: it really was not little Bee Davis' fault so much as it was the fault of Bee's grandfather, for it was that old gentleman who brought Miss China Face to his little granddaughter. It was Bee's fifth birthday, and granddaddy thought it nice to fetch her a fine china doll for a birthday gift. He must have forgotten about poor Rag-a-muffin, for he certainly was old enough to know that a little girl can love only one doll at a time, and the last arrival nearly always throws the first dolls in the shade, so to speak.

Well, when Bee's grandfather opened a long box and produced from it the beautiful china doll, with the honest hair all tied up in a brand new ribbon, Bee's face was all expectation, and she ran to granddaddy, crying out: "Oh, is she for me, granddaddy?"

And then, when granddaddy said, "It certainly is for the sweetest little girl in all the world," Bee knew it was for her, and ko-plunk on the floor went Rag-a-muffin, face downwards!

And there the poor one lay, so unhappy that she did not care to exist. And she was only six months old, mind you! And as she lay grieving her poor sawdust heart out she heard her little mother, Bee, saying such lovely things to the new china doll. And evidently Miss China Face was enjoying the caresses that had formerly belonged to her, though she, poor rag thing, could not see what was going on, her eyes being fixed against the carpet. But she heard!

"Oh, you beau-ti-ful dolly!" Bee would say. Then Rag-a-muffin could hear her kiss the hard-faced doll. Oh, the pain that shot through her heart at this proof of transferred affection.

"You are the lovest Dolly I ever had," said Bee, tenderly. "See that rag thing on the floor? She was my best Dolly till you came."

And this almost broke Rag-a-muffin's heart in a dozen pieces. Only one poor little hope kept her from just dying of sorrow.

That same evening Bee's mother picked Rag-a-muffin up and carried her to Bee's room. There she put her on a shelf just above Bee's white little bed. On this shelf lay many forgotten toys, some in a maimed condition. There was a wagon with a wheel gone. There also lay a tin soldier with his head smashed into the funniest shape one ever saw and his sword off. A little Noah's ark, without a single animal, rested on a pasteboard box filled with odds and ends of all sorts of little toys.

And so she was doomed to this! Dear, honest, affectionate Rag-a-muffin!

But of one thing she was glad. She lay with her face upwards and could see all about the room of her little mother, Bee.

For many, many days Rag-a-muffin lay on that shelf between the maimed tin soldier and the crippled wagon, too sad to speak a word to the fellow-sufferer, Tin Soldier. Perhaps he could have told a harrowing tale, too, had she opened conversation with him. But she preferred to suffer alone. So she passed days and days and nights and nights, her lot becoming sadde, and sadder. But always there was one little hope which kept her alive. And that little hope held her in good stead one day.

And this is what happened through that hope:

All of a sudden one afternoon Bee came rushing into the room, climbed right on to the bed (and her slippers were dusty, too!) and lifted Rag-a-muffin into her arms. Oh, the joy to Rag-a muffin! And what is more astonishing, Bee kissed Rag-a-muffin's very dirty face!

Ko-plunk on the floor went Rag-a-muffin.

"I'd 'most forgotten you, Rag-a-muffy," said Bee. "I have been playing all the time with Princess Anna. You know she's my china doll. But what do you think has happened? Why, that naughty Cousin Dick had Princess Anna in his arms and went and fell down the hill by the park and broke Princess Anna all to smash. Only her hair is good. I'll fetch her remains here and lay 'em on the shelf."

Then away ran Bee, her first and dearest love, poor, little, soiled Rag-a-muffin, held closely to her breast. And after that Rag-a-muffin was so happy that she did nothing but smile and smile and Cousin Dick made a face at her, saying: "I'd like to make her mad so as to see her quit grinning."

But Bee replied: "You could not make Rag-a-muffy quit grinning. Her mouth is painted that way. But I think she's so pretty, I do. And she's worth a dozen china dolls, for they can't stand anything at all without getting smashed. And just see Rag-a-muffy! Why, she can be tossed about like a ball and never gets scratched!"

"Yep, and gets up grinning as ever," replied Dick. "But that's like a gurl, anyway. Must have a rag doll."

Effect of Coming Earthquake On Domestic Animals.

It would seem that domestic animals are especially susceptible to the threatened danger of approaching earthquakes. It is reported on good authority that just before the earthquake in Chili, in 1825, every dog left the city before the inhabitants felt the faintest suggestion of it. And in Java, in 1867, immediately before the earthquake, every rooster crowed lustily and left the doomed city. It is said that on the Orinoco River the crocodiles invariably leave the river's banks just previous to an earthquake. Five days before Elike was destroyed by earthquake (in 373 B. C.) it is reported that moles, mice, weasels and serpents were driven out of the ground by the impending catastrophe, and that they showed great signs of anxiety and fear. Just before the great Sicilian earthquake of 1783 animals that nest underground came to the surface, as well as various kinds of fish that came from the waters of the bay.

There are seven different kinds of 1908 pennies.

BETINA AND MABEL SPEND A HAPPY FOURTH.

BY HELENA DAVIS.

OH, isn't it just too disappointing?" cried Betina early on the morning of the Fourth as she stood by the window looking out at a pouring rain.

"Yes, it certainly is, Sister," agreed Mabel, who was also watching with disappointed eyes the downpour without. "And from the appearances of the sky it will keep up all day."

"You mean it will keep coming down," declared Betina petulantly. "And we had expected to have such a glorious day in the woods—with all our best friends, too. It is really too bad."

"And after Papa had engaged a picnic wagon for the day, too," said Mabel. "And Mamma has gone to all sorts of bother fixing a lovely picnic luncheon. And all our pretty flags and flowers—with which to adorn the wagon—lying in the parlor, waiting to be put to use. It is so terribly disappointing. I could just cry."

"Now, my dears, don't take it so to heart," said a sweet voice behind the girls, and the sisters turned to see their old grandmother entering the room. She was neatly dressed in a black summer silk, her snowy hair done in a simple and becoming style. Her face was beaming with youthful happiness, quite in contrast to the expressions on the faces of Mabel and Betina.

"Oh, good morning, Granny," cried Betina and Mabel in a breath. Then as they both ran to kiss her good-morning, Betina said: "How lovely you look this morning, Granny dear. You always look so pretty; but prettier than usual this morning. And you are all dressed as if to go out, too. Don't you know it is pouring pitchforks?"

Grandmother smiled. "Yes, I know the gardens and fields are in great luck this morning," she said. "They have been thirsty for several days, and now they are getting a good drink."

"But it might have rained yesterday or tomorrow," complained Mabel. "We did so want to go to the country today. And you know every plan has been made for a day out in the woods. Mamma and Papa are both disappointed, too, though they won't say as much as Sister and I do. And Granny, I don't understand your cheerfulness when the rest of the household are in sorrow."

"Sh-h!" said Grandmother, putting up a warning finger. "Do not say sorrow, dear. Sorrow comes from more serious causes than a mere changing of plans for a day of pleasure. You may be disappointed, but you are not sorrowing. And if you would like me to tell you why I am dressed in my best frock, and smiling so happily, come sit beside me in the library and I will tell you of a Fourth of July forty-five years ago today."

Mabel and Betina were eager to hear Grandmamma tell of her past experiences, and their faces cleared as they went to the library, one on either side the dear old lady. When they were comfortably seated beside the big bay window, through which came a scent of damp lilacs and roses, Grandmother began:

"Well, just forty-five years ago today came a great and happy event in my life. And in memory of it, I always dress myself in my best on the anniversary of that day. You see, my dear granddaughters, this is the first Fourth of July I have spent with you."

Grandmother stopped to sigh and look into distance. Betina whispered: "Yes, Grandpapa died just after the Fourth of last year. And then you came to live with us."

"Yes, my dear; but even before I lost dear Grandpapa I always observed the Fourth, and no matter where we were on that day, we both put on our best clothes, made merry by going to some place where a celebration was being held, or to visit with friends who helped us to celebrate, not only the glorious Fourth, but our own anniversary day."

"Oh, then you and Grandpapa were married on the Fourth of July," exclaimed Mabel. "Was that it, Granny?"

Grandmamma shook her head, smiling the while. "No, dearie, we met for the first time on the Fourth of July, just 45 years ago today. And, oh! how handsome and noble your grandfather was that day. I shall never forget how I really lost my heart to him when my cousin Robert introduced us. You see, he—your grandfather—was a college chum of cousin Robert's, and was spending the vacation at Robert's country home. I went out from the city to stay over the Fourth at Uncle Clem's home, and there met the young man who a year later became my husband. You see, your grandfather graduated with honors the following spring and soon after that proud event we were married."

Again grandmother paused to look into distance, and a soft little sigh fell from her smiling lips. "Oh, it seems as though it were yesterday," she went on. "I reached Uncle Clem's home—a fine old Southern plantation—on the evening of the third of July. Cousin Robert and his visitor, young Andrew Harden, had gone to the city for fireworks with which to celebrate on the following evening. So I did not meet Andrew till the next morning. And when I came down to breakfast he and Cousin Robert were standing in the great, wide hall, looking out on the most beautiful rain I ever saw fall. Before coming down stairs I had sighed and said to Cousin Betty, 'Oh, isn't it a pity to have a rain on the Fourth?' But Betty had replied, 'No, Cousin Hattie, we need the rain so much. Papa was saying that if it did not rain within two or three days the crops would be ruined. But we'll have all sorts of fun in the house today, for we'll have a great crowd of young folks with us. They'll come from all the plantations round about in spite of the rain.'

"And so they did come, by buggyfuls, on horseback and in wagonettes. And we made merry till about 2 o'clock, when we sat down to a splendid Fourth-of-July dinner. And then it was that your dear grandfather—then in his twenty-third year—responded to Cousin Robert's most able and patriotic toast. And how proud I was of him, too, though he was yet almost a stranger to me. And how we all cheered him to the echo when he sat down, his noble young face flushed from excitement! Oh, it was such a happy day! And all the while the rain poured without. But sunshine glowed within.

"Well, soon after dinner, much to our surprise, the clouds cleared away, and one of the finest afternoons in my memory was ours to enjoy. We made merry on the broad veranda till after the sun went down. Then, after a light supper in the spacious dining-room, we girls hurried to our rooms and dressed for the evening. And when we returned to the drawing room we found the boys had also donned evening attire, and had cleared the dining-room preparatory for a dance. Three of the finest musicians of the county had been engaged for the occasion and furnished the music for us.

"It was a happy moment for me when your grandfather—young, handsome, Andrew Harden—asked for the first dance, which was the Virginia reel. And before the evening was over I had promised to allow him to call on my home in the city, to meet my parents."

Again Grandmother lapsed into a short silence, closing her eyes this time as if to shut out everything which had passed since that happy day, 45 years ago. And just as she was about to continue her narrative the door opened and in came her daughter, Mabel's and Betina's lovely mother. She was smiling and excited.

"Why, here you are, you three pretty dears," she cried. "And I have been looking all over the house for you. Don't you see that it has stopped raining, and the sun is coming out gloriously? We'll have our picnic after all, for Papa has just had a long-distance phone from Bentonville that it has not been raining there at all, and that the woods are in a perfectly lovely condition. So, come, the young folks will all be here in a few minutes, and Papa has phoned for the picnic wagon."

"Oh, isn't that lovely?" cried Betina and Mabel. Then, turning to Grandmamma, Betina whispered: "Oh, Granny, now I shall always want to celebrate the Fourth of July after this—on your account and on dear Grandpapa's too. And I shall never mind if it does rain on that day."

"Oh, good morning, Granny," cried Betina and Mabel in a breath.

MISSING WORD PUZZLE.

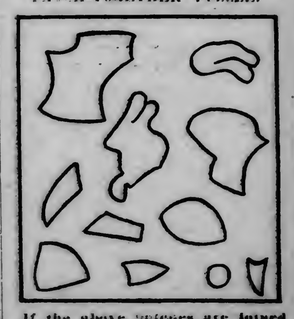

There are nine words omitted from the following story. Supply the right words in the spaces left open for them and you will find that a very common animal figures as the first syllable of each word:

Two boys hired a —— for one day to go on the water fishing. One caught a fine ——, but in doing so he almost caused a —— by being spilled out. He laughingly remarked later that he was so frightened during the accident that he nearly had ——. When safe on dry land once more the boys saw a —— in a tree, and ran for dear life. They tried swimming a river, and were almost drawn into a ——. However, a lovely —— tree grew close at hand and they saved themselves by clinging to its limbs. When they reached home in the evening they passed a pleasant hour looking through the —— of a new museum in which many mummies from a —— in Egypt were displayed.

DIAGONAL.

This diagonal contains six words of six letters each. If the words are rightly guessed and written one below another their diagonal letters, beginning with the first letter of the first word and ending with the last letter of the last word, will spell a name which appears once on the year's calendar of months. The crosswords are: 1. Something belonging to a ship. 2. A man who goes in quest of game. 3. One of the ten digits. 4. Something so often perpetrated on the people by dishonest men. 5. A favorite dish of the Germans. 6. A pupil who absents himself from school.

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

WORK BEGUN AT THE SUMMIT

Sinking of the Large Vertical Shaft Will Be Resumed---Property to Be Operated as a Low-Grade Proposition.

Globe, Ariz., July 2.—A force numbering fourteen men has been put at work on the claims recently purchased by the Venture Exploration company and the Gibson Copper company. The Summit Copper company has been incorporated to carry on the development of the claims. Since acquiring possession of the property the purchasers have been having the camp thoroughly overhauled and made suitable for accommodating a large number of men. As soon as both camp and plant are put in condition, sinking of the large vertical shaft, which at present is 268 feet deep, will be resumed. This shaft has three compartments, each of which is four feet wide by 5.5 feet long. The plant already installed at this shaft includes two 200-horse power boilers of Stirling make, a Sullivan compound air compressor, capable of running ten machine drills and a 14 by 16 double drum hoist, with a substantial gallows frame newly built.

In working the property as a low grade proposition, the new management will, to a large degree, disregard the old workings from which the high grade ore was extracted in great quantities.

John T. Hamilton, a brother of T. W. Hamilton and W. H. Hamilton, who have charge of operations at the Cactus mine, has gone to the Summit mine, where he will have charge of the designing, erecting and operation of the concentrator, which will soon be constructed to treat the disseminated ore already available. Mr. Hamilton is an experienced mill man and his connection with the Summit company gives assurances of capable direction of future milling work. It is estimated conservatively that fully 100,000 tons of disseminated chalcocite ore have previously been extracted from the Gibson mine, incidental to the taking out of the high grade ore, and is contained in the main dump at the inclined shaft. The specifications for the mill have not, of course, been completed. The low grade ore at the Summit mine will probably average 3 per cent copper, or over.

Charles Myer has been appointed superintendent of the Summit mine.

ELENITA COMPANY'S REPORT

Has Same Sort of Veins As on the Calumet & Sonora's Ground Adjoining and Sinking Has Begun—Other Valuable Properties.

Bisbee, Ariz., July 2.—A report of the conditions and the work accomplished at the Elenita company's properties in Sonora, Mexico, has been issued. The directors of this company are: Thomas F. Cole, L. W. Powell, F. H. Hereford, H. B. Paull and Joseph Curry. The report says:

"The Elenita Development company, through its Mexico corporation, the Lomita Mining company, S. A., owns two properties in Sonora, Mexico. The first of these consitss of 1,628 acres in the Cananea district adjoining the Cananea Consolidated Copper company's grounds. No work is being done on this property at present, the idea of the management having been that it was best to await developments in the adjoining ground, which would enable us to develop our ground with a greater degree of definiteness and consequently a smaller outlay of money.

"The recent development on the Calumet & Sonora ground adjoining the Southeast portion of our ground has resulted in showing up very valuable deposits of lead, zinc and silver ores and that company is now producing at a very material profit. A recent careful examination of our property shows the same sort of veins existing on the ground and it is the intention of the management to begin sinking on these veins within the next few days.

"The second property is located near the town of San Felipe on the Sonora river, about 100 miles south of Cananea. Here the company own soutright 2,466 acres and has under bond 593 acres.

"The San Felipe property includes an intrusion of porphyry in granite. Large areas of porphyry are iron stained with solid iron gossan and copper stain showing here and there through the iron stained areas. There are also three large veins of quartz and iron oxide with copper stain and copper carbonate seams; also seams of lead and zinc ore. These veins are from 3 to 150 feet wide and from 35 to 5,000 feet long. On all three veins there are small antigua workings from which the old records show considerable silver has been taken. According to these old records the San Felipe vein is supposed to have produced over $1,000,000,-000 worth of silver.

"The included Carman claim has a large outcrop of copper stained gossan following a band of limestone in granite. In this gossan a vein of 45 per

ALTAR PLACER GOLD FIELD

District in Sonora, Mex., Being Extensively Explored---Gold-Bearing Area Covers Much Larger Territory Than Was Originally Known.

Mexico City, July 2.—The Altar placer gold field in Sonora, which has been attracting much attention in mining circles recently because of the discovery of a process by which the rich values could be extracted from the cement formation, is being extensively explored. It is now said that the gold-bearing area covers a much larger territory than was originally known. The dry placer machines are being rapidly installed and the results obtained from their operation are said to warrant the early conclusions as to their success. With the building of a railroad to Port Lobos the development of the field is expected to increase rapidly.

A vein from four to ten feet wide, the ore of which assays $8 gold, 2,990 ounces silver and 8½ per cent copper, is being opened up in the mine of Dr. Carl Bungardt in the Urique district of Chihuahua.

The Compania Minera de Panuco, which operates a high mine in Sinaloa, is negotiating for the sale of its property to a syndicate of Americans for $6,000,000 Mexican.

W. Roland Cox of New York has acquired title to about 1,500 acres of mining land in the Magdalena district, Sonora, and it is being exploited for copper under the direction of Prof. C. R. Tolman of Tucson.

There is enough ore on the dump of the Natividad y Anexas mine in the Onaxaca district to keep the treating plant in operation for a year at the rate of 100 tons a day. A new vein is being exploited.

The reopening of the Toledo smelter of the Yaqui Smelting & Refining company at Toledo, Sonora, after a shutdown of four years on account of the hostile attitude of the Yaqui Indians in that region and other difficulties, marks the beginning of a new era in a wide territory tributary to the plant. The plant cost about $750,000 gold. Roads had to be constructed over which to haul the material. After lying idle for more than three years the complete rehabilitation of the plant became necessary and this work was recently finished. Another delay was caused by the failure of the coke shipments to arrive promptly. The chief factor that enabled the reopening of the smelter was the construction of the Southern Pacific railroad of Mexico's branch to the property. This road places the smelter in transportation connection with some of the richest mining districts of Western Mexico. The present capacity of the smelter is 200 tons a day, but this is to be increased.

An option to purchase the San Fernando mines in the Juarez district of Durango has been obtained by a syndicate of Los Angeles, Cal., men from John T. Canfield of Culiacan, Sinaloa. These mines were formerly owned by a strong company of Americans which invested more than $1,500,000 gold in the construction of about ten miles of railroad, the installation of a hydro-electric plant, mill and other equipment. The store of ore apparently gave out soon after these improvements were finished and the mines were abandoned. Mr. Canfield took hold of the property. The lost vein is said to have been recovered.

The Jimulco Mining company recently encountered new ore bodies in its mine in the Jimulco district of Coahuila. The company has $20,000 which it will disburse in dividends this month, making all told $2,000,000 that it has paid. There is a big ore reserve now in sight.

AT THE ARIZONA-MICHIGAN

Crosscut From Telfair Shaft Is Approaching Old Dominion Fault---Sinking of Vertical Shaft at National to Be Resumed.

Globe, Ariz., July 2.—At the Arizona-Michigan the south crosscut on the 500-foot level of the Telfair shaft is now 1401 feet long. Its face is in a hematite-stained shale, marked by occasional streaks of quartzite. Less than 100 feet more of drifting should reach the Old Dominion fault, which has never yet been explored in the Copper Hill district. On the eastern portion of the property the Blackbird shaft is 300 feet in depth and is being sunk by a whim at the rate of two and one-half feet daily. It is bottomed in shale. Crosscuts twenty-five feet long have been cut in opposite directions from the shaft on the 300-foot level. One has penetrated the vein on the west side of the shaft. The vein is about five feet wide and is filled wth talc, iron and manganese. Drifting in both directions on the vein will soon be commenced from the crosscut.

National.

At the Williams shaft of the National Mining Exploration company, the west drift has reached a length of 660 feet on the stringer of ore which thus far has been followed for 210 feet. The entire face of the drift is in iron and the ten-inch stringer at present averages 12 per cent copper across the streak. It also contains a trace of gold and assays six and one-half ounces of silver to the ton. Sinking on the shaft has been started from the 708-foot point. The ore stringer recently turned toward the northwest and its dip also altered from north to south. The main vein, of which this stringer is an offshoot, may soon be encountered.

Sinking of the vertical shaft will be resumed today from the 708-foot point, at which work was discontinued several weeks ago, chiefly for the purpose of hastening the drifting on the 660-foot level. Sinking will probably be continued to the 800 foot mark and a new level will then be established at a depth of 778 feet.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Production Continues Normal and in Excess of Demand, But None of Mines Producing at Full Capacity—Algomah Securing Exceptionally Fine Showing of Copper Ore.

Houghton, Mich., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The copper production of the Lake Superior district continues normal, and at a rate apparently slightly in excess of the demand for this particular brand of copper. The various smelter yards and the docks are well filled with copper. The urgent rail shipments of the metal a few months ago have ceased and metal movements by water continues slow. There seems to be no disposition on the part of the local companies to follow the lead of the Western producers and curtail production, though on the other hand none of the mines are producing at full capacity. The Calumet & Hecla Mining company has ordered a suspension of operations in the Whiting shaft for the purpose of making repairs. The shutdown of this shaft will operate to decrease production somewhat. Though no concerted movement to curtail production is evident, several of the companies are curtailing operations always for the purpose of making repairs to shafts or for the reason that developments are unsatisfactory. The effect is that a gradual reduction in the total output for the district will be brought about.

Lake.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Lake Copper company the control of the property was passed to Eastern interests. William A. Paine of the Copper Range Consolidated succeeds R. C. Pryor as president. The new management has made no announcements regarding its plans for the future but increased activity at the property is looked for. The mine is showing well at the several points of attack and is yielding a small production. The single shaft opened on the property has reached the seventh level at a depth of about 1,000 feet. Openings though not extensive are estimated to have placed 2,000,000 tons of copper rock in sight.

Algomah.

The Algomah Mining company next south of the Lake mine, is securing an exceptionally fine showing of copper ore in the shaft which is being sunk in the presumed srike of the Lake lode. A depth of about twenty feet has been attained in the shaft all in rich copper ore. A little native copper is disclosed in the surface trench within a few hundred feet of the Lake shaft, and it is expected that the copper ground carrying the metal native will be encountered direcly underlying the ore body in which the shaft is sinking.

Victoria.

The Victoria Mining company has several survey crews in the field engaged in the power possibilities of the Ontonagon river. The company plans to build an electrical power plant and dispose of its surplus power to the neighboring mines. The situation in the Victoria mine shows a little improvement at times but is in general no better than it has been in times past. The new shaft has attained a depth of 300 feet and will be sunk to greater depth as rapidly as possible. Nothing of importance in the way of copper ground has been developed at this point. The single producing shaft opened on this property is yielding between 400 and 500 tons of rock daily. The copper content of this ground is painfully low being somewhat under ten pounds fine copper per ton of rock milled.

Superior.

The Superior Copper company continues to maintain a small though steady production without forcing operaions and is centering its efforts in development work. The No. 1 shaft is sinking steadily below the fourteenth level, and the No. 2 shaft is down below the fourth level. Nothing of importance has been disclosed in the work at the latter point, but in the No. 1 shaft good copper ground continues to be opened at all points from the sevenh level downward.

Quincy.

The new Pontiac shaft of the Quincy Mining company is down around 900 feet and sinking steadily. Nothing of particular importance is being opened at this point, and no disappointment is felt as values at this point are quite generally found at considerable depth. Several drifts northward at greater depth in the Menard shaft of the company have passed well into the territory that will be mined

CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVING

Development Work on North Butte Bringing to Light Valuable Ore Bodies—Great Things Promised for Butte & Superior With Big Concentrator Running Under New Organization.

Butte, Mont., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The declaring of a 30-cent dividend by the North Butte company directors at the quarterly meeting recently is generally regarded as a good stroke of business policy as it gives assurances to the stockholders that conditions are improving in the mine. It is stated that the management in this city have assured the directors that the development work now proceeding on the veins of the Edith May and Jessie on the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels as well as the extensive work on the Croesus claim is bringing to light valuable ore bodies which will in time again make the property one of the best producers in the district. However, it will take a considerable time before this prospective ore is ready to be hoisted, and in the meantime some heavy expenditures will have to be met.

The Original Group.

The Clark properties known as the Original group of mines and now owned by the Anaconda Copper Mining company, have submitted to the county assessor a statement of the year's work for assessment purposes. The report shows net proceeds for the year of $181,359. The principal items contained in the statement are: Number of tons of ore extracted 226,492, gross yield per ton $8.19, total gross yield $1,834,585.20, cost of extraction, $915,970.55, cost of transportation, $48,-763.47, cost of reduction, $688,492.12: cost of labor, $547,751.40, cost of supplies $368,218.15. The Clark properties are being worked up to about the same extent as formerly.

The Heinze Properties.

The Heinze properties, so called, did not show any net proceeds, according to the sworn statement filed with the county assessor of this county. It stated that while a large amount of the work was done by the Davis-Daly company, the work consisted chiefly of development work "and that there were no net proceeds to report for taxation." The La France company which has control of the Lexington mine is in the same position as the Davis-Daly company according to the report filed. The Colorado mine of the Davis-Daly company is still idle and nothing can be ascertained when work will be resumed. Some people are of the opinion that just as soon as the assessment is paid into the treasury the word will be given out to put a force of men at work, but there are others who do not believe that anything of a substantial character will be done until Mr. Heinze returns from his European trip.

Butte & Superior.

The plan for refinancing the Butte & Superior company will be voted on at a meeting of the stockholders to be held at Duluth July 9. The general plan proposed is already known. It proposes a reduction of the authorized capital from 1,200,000 shares, with a par value of $5, to an authorization of 250,000 shares, with a par value of $10, and an indebtedness limit reduced from $3,000,000 to $1,500,000. The shareholders are to exchange their holdings at the rate of ten shares for one of the proposed decreased authorization, which will ditsribute among the stockholders about 120,000 shares of the new capital stock. There is to be a sale of $1,000,000 of 6 per cent first mortgage sinking fund bonds, to net the company not less than 92 per cent of their par value, the bonds to carry a convertible privilege at $20 per share, such privilege to be exercised by the holders of the bonds at any time within five years from the date of issue. The bonds are to run for a period of not less than ten years, with the right of call on the part of the company at any interest date, after the expiration of the first five years, at 105 per cent. The arangements which have existed with the American Metal company as to financing and the erection of a concentrator are declared closed, and the company is to erect a 1,000-ton concentrator. It is specified that the payments to the sinking fund are to begin at the end of the first year, after the completion of the concentrator. The payments are to be in such annual installments as will be represented by the number of years of the bond period remaining from the date at which such payments are to commence. Hayden, Stone & Co. of Boston are to handle the bonds, and the entire scheme of reorganization has their hearty approval. The directors claim that the Butte & Superior in the best zinc property in America, and that under the new organization, with the big concentrator in running order, the company will be able to pay an annual dividend of $10 per share.

Washoe's Transfer.

The property of the Washoe company passed into the hands of the Anaconda company March 31, according to to the deed of transfer filed a few days ago with the clerk and recorder in this city. This deed was executed in New York May 31, but it is stated that the transfer became effective March 31.

Elm Orlu's Output.

The prospects of Butte is becoming a great zinc center as well as a great copper center are certainly quite encouraging. With the Butte & Superior company producing 1,000 tons a day in the near future as predicted by the management, and the Elm Orlu largely increasing its output and with other mines soon to be operated, the district will make a very respectable showing for a starter. The Elm Orlu company is a Clark corporation and

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Electrification of Marquette Range Mines of Cleveland Cliffs Company Making Good Headway—Rogers, Brown & Co.'s Ohio Mine Closed Down—Bates Company to Develop New Mine.

The electrification of the Marquette range mines of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company is proceeding with satisfactory headway. There are two big generating plants, one at Negaunee and one at Princeton. The former station is furnishing power to the Maas, Negaunee, Cleveland Lake, Cleveland Hard Ore, North Lake and Barnes properties. The Princeton station is serving the Princeton No. 1 and No. 2 properties and the Stephenson mine. While both of the plants are now running smoothly, they will be operated to even better advantage when a heavier load is carried. At present the Negaunee station is generating about 300 kilowatts, and the capacity of the turbine is 1,500. The capacity of the turbine at Princeton is also 1,500 kilowatts. It will perhaps be several years before either plant will be operated to its full capacity. The only important work still to be done in connection with the transmission system is the installing of motors and other equipment at various mines and shops. All of the towers have been completed and the main lines have been strung. The towers extend a distance of twenty-five miles, with an average of ten towers to each mile. The plants are constructed so they can be operated separately or jointly. With the stations in full commission a big saving will be effected in labor and fuel costs.

Ohio Closed Down.

Rogers, Brown & Co.'s Ohio mine, located in the Michigamme district of the Marquette range, has been closed down. This is because the same quality of ore can be produced in sufficient quantity at the adjoining Portland property at a much lower cost per ton. The Portland is a steam shovel proposition, while the Ohio is wrought by the underground method. The Ohio had been in continuous operation for five or six years past, and it still contains a large deposit. The Portland is being operated under contract by Hoose & Person of Iron Mountain, Mich., and preparations are being made for a big output. The stripping of the overburden was started last season, in addition to which 80,000 tons of ore were mined by steam shovel and were shipped before the close of navigation. A second large pit is now being opened., The first pit, which has been stripped for a considerable area, is now shipping heavily. The ore in sight is sufficient for fully five years' operations, and the full dimensions of the deposit are still to be determined. The overburden at both pits varies in depth from a few inches to thirty feet, so that the stripping expense is not particularly heavy., The formation is hard, however, and it is necessary to blast down the ore before handling it with a shovel. The Ohio had been employing 100 men, some of whom have been taken on at the Portland. The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, which is operating the Imperial mine, in the same district, is employing 150 men at that location, and the Catherine Mining company, which last fall started to explore a promising Michigamme property, is at present employing twenty men.

Valuations Reduced.

The valuation of the realty of the mining companies operating within the city limits of Ishpeming, Marquette range, has been fixed by the board of review at $3,411,000. This is a reduction of $50,000 from the figures of the preceding year. The assessed valuation of the Steel corporation's Hard Ore and Hematite properties has been fixed at $835,000. This is less by $100,000 than the valuation made in 1909, but as the Section Sixteen mine has been placed on the roll at $600,000, while last year it was down for $500,000, the Steel corporation's total of $1,435,000 remains the same. There were no changes in the valuation of any of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's properties compared with last year, and the total assessed valuation in this case is $1,526,000. Of this sum, $891,000 is assessed against the Moro and Lake mines; $510,000 against the Cliffs Shafts property, and $125,000 against the Salisbury. The valuation of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company's Lake Angeline mine has been reduced from $500,000 to $450,000. The personal valuation of the several mining companies has been cut by something like $200,000, this being done on account of the smaller stocks of ore now on hand.

LIVE OAK'S WINNING STREAK

Churn Drilling Shows Constant Increase in the Ore Body---Drills Being Used at Cactus With Very Good Effect.

Globe, Ariz., July 2.—Live Oak maintains the "winning streak" that within the past few months has placed it in the front rank of proven ore deposits. Its drifting, stoping and other underground development have been characterized by unbroken success, and the churn drills have disclosed ore in every hole, showing the ore body to be of such extent that the mine will be one of the notable copper producers of the future.

On the 200-foot level drift No. 207, a southerly crosscut from drift No. 208, has reached a distance of thirty-seven feet and has been in chalcocite ore all the way.

Drill hole No. 8 is 310 feet in depth and has just entered the ore-bearing schist. It is 1,300 feet west and 500 feet south of the vertical shaft, and by encountering ore, has proven the ore-body to extend in an unbroken body that distance (1,300 feet) westerly from the shaft. Hole No. 5, 200 feet north and the same distance east of No. 8, encountered ore in abundance. As the record of exploration exists to date, the Live Oak is not only a proven mine, but one of notably extensive ore body.

Cactus.

At the property of the Cactus Copper company, operations are being confined to prospecting with a churn drill. The first hole was sunk to a depth of slightly over 500 feet, outside the mineralized flow of water, which should prove a valuable asset to the company in future mill work and for general use at the camp. The first hole was put down several hundred feet northwest of the Hamilton shaft and a few days ago the drill was moved to its second location, 200 feet west of the first hole. Drilling in the latter hole has been under way several days, but is still in the overburden of the ore body.

Two more churn drills have been ordered for use in hastening the prospecting of the Cactus property. The management expects to begin sinking a large, permanent working shaft outside the ore body as soon as the drilling inaicates conslusively where such a shaft can be located.

THE GIROUX CONSOLIDATED

Expected That Shipments Will Soon Start to the New Smelting Plant at Tooele—Has Secured Low Haulage Charge.

Salt Lake, Utah, July 2.—Since General Manager E. P. Mathewson is credited with making an official announcement to the effect that operations at the International smelting plant near this city will begin treating the first ores from the Utah Consolidated mine Aug. 1, there has been some interesting speculation regarding what would be the effect at the Giroux properties in Ely, in consequence of the starting up of this smelting plant.

It is generally understood that the ores from the Giroux properties are to be shipped to the new Tooele smelting plant, even though no official announcement of this subject has been made. Everything has pointed toward this disposition being made of the Giroux high grade ores, since it became known that Thomas F. Cole and associates of the Cole-Ryan syndicate had obtained control of the great Ely estate from the Giroux family. Just recently the Giroux has built immense ore bins at the mine, completed the spur railroad line around the mountain to the new working shaft, and has its shaft completed to sufficient depth to reach the main ore bodies that were developed by the old Alpha shaft.

The haulage charge from the Giroux mine to the new smelter at Tooele is said to have been agreed upon, and that the charge is fixed at $3 a ton for the highest grade ores in the mine. This is considered a reasonable charge, and the ability of the Giroux people to get so low a haulage rate is said to be due to the fact that the Western Pacific railroad line is in the field for new business. The ore will be delivered over the Nevada Northern line to the Western Pacific at Shafter, the Western Pacific agreeing to furnish the ore cars.

If there has been no mistake in the time set for blowing in the smelting plant it is highly probable that mining and shipping will be inaugurated within a few weeks at the Giroux, as the smelting company will need a large surplus of ore for its furnaces, and will want this ore delivered a long time ahead of the blowing in of several of its furnaces.

The cost of smelting the Giroux ores will be very low, according to the advices received in this city. It is claimed that in the Utah Consolidated one of the best fluxing products for copper ores of every character is found. For this reason the International Smelting company is anxious to get an immense tonnage of copper ores, on which it will be able to give a very low treatment charge. In this manner it will not only be able to treat all of the Cole-Ryan mine product very cheaply, but it will be the strongest competitor in the smelting field that has ever dared to compete for supremacy with some of the other large corporations engaged in this business in the West.

MONARCH IS IN NEW HANDS

Two-Thirds Interest in Property Sold to North Fork Company—Bryan and Monitor Companies Will Resume Work Soon.

Spokane, Wash., July 2.—The Monarch Mining company has sold a two-thirds interest in the Monarch mine, near Murray, Idaho, to the Coeur d'Alene North Fork Mining & Smelting company for $175,000. The company also has a lease to work the remaining one-third interest and an option to buy it. Seventy-five thousand dollars has been paid in cash and a mortgage for $100,000 given on the two-thirds interest. The lease provided that the new company shall work the property as a whole and issue to the Monarch company $499,000 of its paid-up and non-assessable stock and $100 capital stock to a person to be named by the selling company. After the note for $100,000 is paid the new company shall pay one-third of its net earnings, or less than 75 per cent of the net production of ore, to the Monarch company. It is also provided that at least two dividends shall be paid annually after the note is paid, in 1912. The financing of the deal is represented by two conveyances of the two-thirds interest sold to the North Fork company, given as security for loans to Oscar B. Bergstrom of New York for $100,000 and to B. F. Hendricks of St. Paul for $75,000.

John E. Steen, manager of the Granite & Allie property, near Murray, Idaho, which was formerly worked for gold, who was in Spokane this week, said that the shaft is down 155 feet and all in ore of concentrating grade. It is expected to run levels at 200 feet and began producing immediately afterward. The ore runs $63.50 a ton, the value being mainly lead, with a showing in gold and silver. Steam drills are used. Mr. Steen said:

"The cyanide plant and stamp mill of the early days will come in handy. We expect now to renovate the old mill, put in rollers and turn it into a concentrator. We have now on the property some 1,600 feet of flume, which furnishes the power for the mill, in the mine we are using steam to run the drills. If the ore shows increases in value during the next fifty feet our shaft goes down as much as it has improved during the last fifty feet we can sack half of our ore on the dump and ship it without concentrating."

Announcement is made that the Bryan and the Monitor companies will resume work on their properties near Saltese, Mont., in a short time. The Bryan, which has been closed since the middle of the winter, is a lead-silver mine and is operated by E. R. Day and others, most of the owners being interested in the Hercules mine. Much shipping galena ore has been revealed. The Monitor is a copper property which, it is believed, will have big value when depth is attained and a long tunnel run to tap the workings at depth, so that the mine can be developed economically. At present work has to be done through the shaft. J. L. Ballor of Spokane has charge, under an option from the Success Mining company.

W. M. Walker and J. Leicht of Spokane have taken an option for $30,000 on the Emma group of eight claims. The property is owned by I. B. Ferguson, Lewis Preager and Anna Matheson. It lies in Gold Run gulch, three-quarters of a mile from the town of Murray, Idaho, and is one of the best known gold producing properties in the camp. In an early day it was a producer of much rich ore, but lack of transportation facilities discouraged the owners and little has been done since then. Work has been started in a new tunnel, in which some good ore is exposed. Only a few feet from the portal a vein several inches in width was cut, carrying high values in gold. The property is interlaced with narrow veins of quartz, which carry gold values.

COBALT MERGER HANGS FIRE

Nipissing and Kerr Lake Companies, With Perhaps Crown Reserve, May Join Operating Plan—Camp Showing up New Ore.

Toronto, Ont., July 2.—The Nipissing company at Cobalt is extending its prospecting work considerably this year. The company is now preparing to build two new shafthouses on several of the veins recently discovered close to the tract owned by the Chambers Ferland company. Another shafthouse will also be built near the edge of the Gillies Limit, where one of the more recent veins that promises particularly well has been uncovered. Considerable trenching has already been caried out on this land and it has been opened up for several hundred feet.

There is still talk about the Nipissing and Kerr Lake companies getting together sooner or later. At least enough is known of the matter to state that negotiations looking toward this end have certainly not been abandoned. The Crown Reserve may also figure in such a deal, but it is doubtful if the La Rose company will figure in this merger should it ever be put through.

Experts who know the camp thoroughly figure out the relative merits of the properties in line of seniority at Cobalt about as follows: Nipissing,

BATHING SCENES ALONG PARK POINT.

During the excessive heat of the last two weeks, Park Point has been the favorite resort of the small boys of the city, and not a few of their elders.

Down both shores of the Point, at almost any hour of the day, groups of happy brothers may be seen, getting relief from the heat. Usually the lake water is too cold for comfort, but in such weather as Duluth has seen for two weeks past, the surface water becomes warm, and the chill of the deeper water is welcome. The bay water is almost two warm for enjoyment for those who like a vigorous swim and a rub down after it. But the children spend hours paddling about in it, and seem to find relief from the heat.

In spite of the large bodies of water near the city, there is a scarcity of good bathing places. The lake is too cold as a rule, and the shores unfit for bathing. The streams are too shallow, except in a very few spots, and the harbor near the Duluth entrance is too dirty. The bay shore of Park Point and the St. Louis river banks are the choice "swimmin' holes," and they have certainly been well patronized.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Non-Union Employes of Homestake Company Will Adopt Benefit Plan Abandoned When Lockout Came—Ore Struck on Crown Mine.

Lead, S. D., July 2.—Supt. T. J. Grier of the Homestake Mining company has issued a statement to all employes, in which he urges the re-establishment of the employes' mutual aid fund along lines similar to those in operation before the labor trouble commenced last fall, at which time the old benefit plan was abandoned.

The plan Mr. Grier suggests to his non-union employes is to take $1 a month from each one's wages, the fund thus established being for sick, accident and death benefits, the company agreeing to contribute largely to it each month and to furnish all clerical help, office supplies and work in connection with managing the fund. It is understood the plan has practically the unanimous consent of the employes.

The Mineral Hill Mining company, operating in the Custer Peak district, on the south fork of Box Elder creek, has commenced sinking a two-compartment shaft, which will be put down 600 feet. The ground, which consists of 500 acres, has been well prospected and numerous ledges of ore assayed. The main ledge is forty-five feet wide and contains both copper and gold, the former predominating and is of milling value. The company is in good shape financially and is prepared to give the property a thorough development.

Ore has been struck by Messrs. Schrader, Lewis, Wyatt and McNickel on the Crown mine near Rochford. The owners have been running a tunnel which is in eighty feet, and encountered the north end of the ore shoot, forty feet from the footwall and eighty-six feet in depth. The ore averages about $4.50, although some of it runs as high as $10. The vein is a large one and is being opened up as fast as possible. From indications the values will increase further in, and after driving another 100 feet a crosscut will be started.

Col. James A. Clark, veteran prospector and mining man, who has large holdings through the central and southern hills, has just purchased the Con Liston and Juniper groups, on the divide between Battle Creek and Buckeye gulch, adjoining the townsite of Keystone. For years the properties have been idle, although as a prospect, thoy showed up well.

Last fall an old prospector took them and opened a large ore shoot from which assays were secured running well up into the hundreds. Two veins were found on the Con Liston. The showing induced the then owners to commence work and over 100 tons of ore were extracted and shipped. This ran better than $3 per ton. But wrangles among the owners followed and operations ceased, which gave Col. Clark his opportunity to get hold of the property.

STILL SHIPPING MUCH ORE

Superior & Boston Is Third Largest Producer in the Globe District---Drifting From McGaw Shaft to Be Started in Short Time.

Globe, Ariz., July 2.—The Superior & Boston property maintains its position as third largest producer in this district and continues fortunate in development of mineralized areas.

At the Gardner shaft the winze on the fourth level is still in the Black Oxide vein that it has followed about 130 feet. This winze has constantly been in ore averaging 8 per cent copper, besides having a high copper content.

The company shipments to the Old Dominion smelter continue at the rate of two carloads of ore daily that average between 9 and 10 per cent.

The McGraw shaft is being sunk and is well below the 700-foot level. When it shall have attained a depth of 800 feet and a sump, drifting will be started from that depth and the Great Eastern vein will be explored thoroughly. This property is an exceptionally well managed one, whose orderly and economical program of development has gained the confidence of all who are interested in its progress.

Superior & Globe.

The vein which was opened 475 feet north of the shaft on the 650-foot level of the Superior & Globe workings about ten days ago, has since been explored from wall to wall, but except for occasional copper stain a little native silver and considerable iron, no ore has been disclosed. The vein proper is slightly over five feet wide, where opened by the crosscut, but the broken ground in which traces of copper were found is fully eighteen feet wide. Drifting east and west on the vein has been commenced.

The crosscut is being further extended in the expectation of opening another vein several hundred feet north of the ore recently passed through.

Supt. H. V. Snell is awaiting the arrival of a diamond drill which may reach Globe at any time. According to its present plans, the company will employ a drilling crew and conduct its own prospecting work from the 650-foot level rather than let a contract for the diamond drill operations. As the Superior & Globe property has several large, well-defined veins, the diamond drilling to determine the nature of their filling at depth should be an undertaking of great interest to those connected with the property.

GREATEST GOLD SENSATION

Wonderful Strike Almost at Doors of Stewart City, B. C.---Mammoth Gold Reef Is Traced for Almost Twenty Miles.

Seattle, Wash., July 2.—One of the greatest mining sensations in the history of the province is furnished by the confirmation of the great gold strike almost at the doors of Stewart City, brought by passengers on the Camosun, which reached Vancouver Wednesday of this week.

The stories of the richness and extent of the discovery and the stampede at Stewart and Prince Rupert were quickly circulated about the city. As a result a great rush northward to British Columbia's latest Eldorado is anticipated. The Portland Canal Miners' extra, under date of June 10, says:

"A mammoth gold reef, unkonwn in extent but traced for almost twenty miles, lies at Stewart's door, and according to mining men who, following news of the discovery, rushed to the location, it is the greatest free milling reef ever discovered in the north and perhaps in the world. Although Portland canal district is now full of prospectors this greatest mineral belt of all lay undiscovered. It is very easy to reach and in consequence hundreds of men are now trekking toward it anad it is stated there will be room for all to locate, for the great white reef can be seen for miles as far as the eye can reach.

"It is purely a free milling proposition and the first rock of the kind in any considerable quantity that has been found here. News of the discovery was brought down to the camp Thursday by C. M. Delgrove and Louis Anderson, who have been on the reef several weeks prospecting. They kept closed mouths until Clotier & Richie returned assays of $49, an average for 3,000 feet, and $6, an average from five claims. As a result of the news the entire prospecting fraternity is now headed for the south fork of Bitter creek, about thirteen miles inland from Stewart.

"Delgrove and his partner followed the creek for miles and found excellent float all along which had broken off the reef towering 2,000 feet above them. Retracing their steps they followed the reef back to the Moonlight group, through which it passes, on over the Roosevelt group, and could still see the same general formation on toward Mount Gladstone. The discoverers are certain they have found the reef from which the streams hereabouts obtain their gold and which has for ages been supplying gold to the famous Unak river and Alaskan creeks.

"'It is the greatest thing I have ever seen, and I have prospected in many localities,' stated Delgrove. 'It is almost unbelievable. A thousand stamps could be worked for a hundred years on the ground we traversed and scarcely mark the reef, for it is many miles in extent and in places more than 200 feet high, as I judge.

"'It is more than a mountain of ore an entire range of it in fact. Great porphyry dikes extend through the reef and between them lies the ore, in places 30 to 1,000 feet wide. It is my opinion the reef will eventually be traced on down the canal and it will prove the greatest mineral discovery ever made.'" cent zinc ore outcrops about 8 feet wide by 50 feet long.

"In addition to these large showings which cover most of the area of the property, there are many small ore veins of quartz and iron oxide often showing copper stain, but except for early antigua workings, no work has been done on the property up to the time it was acquired by this company.

"Development work was started at San Felipe by this company about Oct. 1, 1909. Since that time we have run 3,715 feet of tunnels and drifts and sunk approximately 320 feet of shaft and winzes. This work has been done in seven tunnels, six winzes and one shaft.

"While our work has as yet developed no commercial ore with the exception of zinc ore on the Carman claim, indications have been very favorable.

"The leaching in the Josefina vein is much deeper than we expected, but the great body of leached material carrying copper which we have developed here, seems an almost certain indication of ore. As the work from now on will be in the mineralized areas for the most part, we feel confident that we should soon locate the values."

Kerr Lake, Crown Reserve and La Rose.

Surface prospecting at the Nipissing property is meeting with success. During the month of April, when this class of work was carried on for two weeks three new veins were uncovered, and in May, five veins, Nos. 137 to 141 inclusive, were added to the list. According to the report for May all the discoveries made that month had good indications and many of the veins contained silver ore. Among the most important of the latter were Vein No. 139, which was two inches in width and showed high-grade ore for twenty-four feet, and No. 141, on which silver was encountered at two feet below the surface. Additional work led to the discovery of a branch of No. 141, where three inches of high-grade ore was exposed for thirty feet in length.

With the Crown Reserve company declaring its regular quarterly dividend of 15 per cent, being 6 per cent regular, with 9 per cent bonus, the total disbursement from this dividend amounts to $265,322.

In the past eighteen months the Crown Reserve mine has been the heaviest dividend paying mine in the Cobalt camp in accordance with capitalization. They first started dividends in July two years ago, when 4 per cent was paid to the shareholders. A year before that the company had just barely been organized, and had not accomplished any work. During 1909 they paid four quarterly dividends of 15 per cent each, in addition to the declaration of a special Christmas dividend of 10 per cent, payable a few days before Dec. 25. This year three other dividends have been declared which brings their gross total to 120 per cent, which is indeed a record for a Cobalt mine.

The total disbursement of the Crown Reserve mine amounts to $2,122,576.80. This was paid on their $2,000,000 capitalization, while some 250,000 shares still remain in the treasury.

through the Pontiac shaft, and are without exception in good commercial ground.

Mohawk.

The Mohawk Mining company continues to obtain better than average results in the new No. 6 shaft where drifing is in progress and at the fourth and fifth levels. The situation in several of the other shafts is also much improved, particularly so in No. 5 shaft, where considerably better ground than the average run opened in the mine is being developed. The copper content of the rock yielded by the mine has shown considerable improvement in recent months due entirely to the bettered conditions in the south shafts, and the improvement is apparently growing with depth in this end of the property.

Centennial.

The operations of the Centennial company, with the cessation of stoping, are now confined wholly to drifting, and an effort is being made to reach into the underlay of the South Kearsarge and Wolverine mines as rapidly as possible. The character of Centennial ground in that direction has been consistently better than that opened to the southward, and it is hoped that the openings now being driven will develop sufficient territory of a character already in evidence in these openings to make the Centennial a profitable producer. Both shafts are bottomed at the thirty-fifth level and will not be sunk to greater depth in the immediate future.

organized for the purpose of developing and operating a mine in the so-called Hall-Yackel lands at the western end of the Menominee range. The property is located in section 19, 43-34, Iron county, Mich., and is controlled by Ladenberg, Thalmann & Co., of New York, operators of the Florence mine in the Wisconsin portion of the Menominee district. Much exploratory work has been done at the new property the past two years. This work has recently been suspended and a shaft will be sunk. This will be a difficult task, as the overburden is deep and contains a great deal of quicksand. At its Dober mine at Iron River, the Steel corporation is erecting seventeen additional cottages for its employes. It is also building a new "dry," which will be as near fireproof as it is possible to make it.

CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVING

for the first time shows a profit on the year's operations according to the report filed with the county assessor for taxation purposes. The statement shows that the company made a net profit for the year of $181,357. There were 55,996 tons of ore mined, which yielded $10.34 per ton. It is stated that the cost of extraction per ton was $4.25; total cost of extraction $237,875; cost of transportation $142,220; cost of reduction, per ton, $2.59; total cost of reduction, $145,094; gross income, $579,438; mining expenses, $273,875; construction expenses, $34,085; total expenditure, $59,274.

To Sell Stock.

A few years ago Joseph A. Coram, a well-known mining man who resided in Boston, pledged to M. S. Largey of the State Savings bank of this city 15,000 shares of Davis-Daly stock and 2,500 shares of Mexico Consolidated Mining and & Smelting company stock for $101,000. As Mr. Coram has failed to redeem the stock, which he put up as security for the loan, Mr. Largey announces that he proposes to sell the same at public auction.

Butte-Balliklava.

The Butte-Balliklava company, notwithstanding that it is shipping ore every day, is gradually increasing its ore reserves and it is only a question of a short time before the management will take up the matter of increasing the daily shipments to the amount which can be handled by the East Butte smelter. In the development work the ore values continue to maintain the high grade encountered from the 700 to the 1,200-foot levels. It is stated that the output for the month of June will run a little over 500,000 pounds of blister copper and possibly some 38,000 ounces of silver.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS ONCE—NOW FORGOTTEN

impression that Joe had left considerable property and that his last few years had been spent in comfort. It was only after a thorough search and the final location of the man who settled Goddard's estate that the writer was able to learn the real facts in the case and to discover that Goddard, like so many other once-prosperous fighters, died in poverty and spent his last days living upon the bounty of his friends.

"I was with Goddard a few days before he died," said the first man. "Joe had saved a comfortable sum of money and had bought a place near Phoenixville, Pa. Then, for some reason which I never knew, he sold the place and took on another fight. He went over to a little town known as Matchtown, near Merchantville, N. J., to train. The election came on while he was there; it was a bitter contest and Goddard in some way got mixed up in a fight at the polls. During the melee he was shot in the head by a revolver bullet.

"They took him to the Cooper hospital in Camden and he lay there for many weeks. His skull was so tough that the bullet had split into two pieces and the doctors were able to extract only one of them. Apparently he got well and he left the hospital, but soon he began to act queer and we sent him back to the hospital. Here they performed another operation and Joe became violently insane. A third operation was performed but it was not successful, and Goddard died a raving maniac."

"Those facts of Goddard's death are correct as fare as they go," said Theodore G. Murphy, proprietor of a well known sporting hotel in Philadelphia, "but they don't go far enough. Goddard lived here for weeks without paying a cent before he went to Matchtown. He was so hard up that he took part in a six-day walking match to try to make a little money.

"He lived entirely on credit and the charity of his friends for many months before his death. When he finally did pass away, a Merchantville hotel man named De Forrest and I buried him, and I took charge of his trunk, which was all he left. He had a wife and four or five children in Australia and I wrote to them. They were sure from the letters he had written that he must have accumulated quite a fortune, but when I opened his trunk I found nothing but a lot of old photographs, his boxing gloves and bank books, both American and English, showing deposits of thousands and thousands of dollars. Where had it gone? Gambled away. Joe was a born gambler. He would bet on the weather if he couldn't find anything else to bet on, and he never refused to take a chance. So he lost every cent of the big fortune which he made in the ring."

Paddy Ryan died some time ago in Troy, N. Y., with just about enough of this world's goods left to bury him.

Ryan won his great pugilistic fame by defeating the redoubtable Joe Goss in eighty-seven rounds at Collier Station, W. Va., May 30, 1880. Goss had had a career that made him a much feared man, but Ryan took his measure, only to lost his laurels to the great John L. Sullivan in the historic battle at Mississippi City, Miss., on Feb. 7, 1882, which gave the championship to John L.

Boxing Teacher and Actor.

Kid Lavigne, one of the wickedest hitters of his weight the ring has ever seen, is teaching boxing in the Middle west. He tried a short time ago to get into the ring again, but he found that even the second rate boys of today were too young and strong and speedy for him, so he had to give it up. He is doing fairly well with his boxing lessons, and can be rated as at least self-supporting, but he is no longer the same great lightweight of his palmy days, from 1894 to 1902. His defeat by Jimmy Britt in 1902 and by Young Erne in 1907 showed him that his ring career was over.

Jack McAuliffe, the idol of the whole country and one of the most feared fighters of his day, is now big and fat and husky and is drawing a good salary doing a monologue on the moving-picture circuits. He weighs about 200 pounds now and he is as happy and as hearty a man as you would wish to meet, and it is said in theatrical circles that he will soon be a regular headliner on the leading vaudeville circuits. Somebody in a vaudeville combination has taken hold of him and drilled him in his "act" and Jack is really "making good."

He doesn't look much like the 133 pounds of nerve and muscle that beat such men as Billy Baltz, Billy Myer and Billy Frazier in the great days from, say, 1886 until McCuliffe's virtual retirement at the end of 1892. He and Kid Lavigne went a six-round no-decision bout in New York in 1896, but it was not the same old McAuliffe and the Kid was in his prime.

Mike McCoole was rated as one of the best money makers of the prize ring in his day. But he was like the John L. Sullivan of old—the money came easy and it went just as fast as it came. McCoole loved high living. He loved to gamble and to eat and drink and to spend lavishly on his friends, and so his fortune dwindled until it was all gone.

Almost before he knew it, he was penniless. He worked as a stevedore on the docks of St. Louis, but the hard labor and the exposure were too much for the constitution ruined by a life of dissipation and when he collapsed there was not a friend left to care for him. He was taken to the City hospital as a charity patient and there he died and was buried in a pauper's grave.

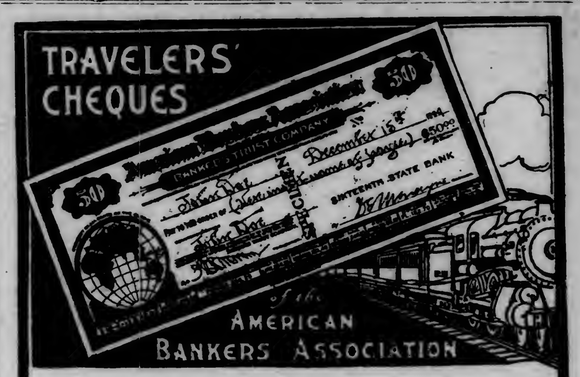

It was McCoole's defeat at the hands of Tom Allen in St. Louis in 1873 that ended the former's career and won the championship for Allen. McCoole had won the title from Allen in 1868, but the life he led in the intervening four years had made him far from the dangerous fighter he was when he had wrested the laurels from Bill Davis in 1865.

The Pathetic Fate Awaiting Joe Gans.

Joe Gans, one of the greatest little fighters who ever drew on a glove, is today sinking slowly into a painful and a pathetic grave. Only a few weeks ago, his friends in Baltimore sent him west with the hope of prolonging his life a little, but consumption has a firm hold on him and there is no chance of his recovery. Gans was another who loved the goddess Chance and what he didn't lose he gave to his friends or his family. He is more fortunate than many others in finding these friends and relatives grateful enough to take care of him now that he is no longer able to care for himself.

Gans made plenty of money in his day, but he was never able to command the prices that white fighters of less than his ability received. The biggest purse he ever won was in his fight with Battling Nelson for the lightweight championship of the world at Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 3, 1906. Of the purse of $33,500, Gans received only $11,000 for winning; he was forced to agree to give Champion Nelson the balance of $22,500, win, lose or draw. He was afterward twice knocked out by Nelson, July 4, 1908, and Sept. 9, 1908. These were the last two fights of his long career, which began in 1891 when he was seventeen years of age.

Mike Donovan, the marvel of them al, is sixty-three years of age now, but he fights with all the vigor of youth in his work as instructor at the New York Athletic club. He gave lessons to former President Roosevelt and he has taught the "manly art" to some of the bluest blooded men in the country, but he is as modest and unassuming as a schoolgirl, and he loves to sit and talk of his old friends when bare fists were the weapons and when two men in the ring were never separated, but allowed to fight until one went down, and that constituted a round.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

COURT BARS JURY TRIAL

District Judge's Action Final in Assessing Judicial Ditch Damages.

Decision of Vast Importance to Northern Minnesota Just Made.

Warren, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Andrew Grindeland, in a decision filed yesterday, holds that in a judicial ditch proceeding the parties assessed are not entitled to and cannot have a jury trial. In the early summer of this year judicial ditch No. 20, costing in the neighborhood of $60,000, was established and ordered constructed. Thirty-six parties who deemed themselves aggrieved by the assessments placed upon their land, demanded a jury trial.

Judge's Order Is Final.

The judge holds that while a county ditch proceedings an appeal can be taken and a jury trial demanded, yet in a judicial proceeding where a judicial ditch or a state ditch is involved, no such right exists, and that the order of the court fixing the amount of assessments is final, subject to an appeal to the supreme court only.

This is an important decision to the northern part of Minnesota, and especially to the people of the Fourteenth judicial district, where more than a million and a half dollars are being spent this year in ditch work.

IRONWOOD MAN FOUND GUILTY

Assistant Cashier of Defunct Ironwood Bank Faces Five-Year Term.

Marquette, Mich., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Guilty of making false entries in the books of the bank, but not guilty of embezzlement or misapplication of funds, was the verdict of the jury in the Beddow trial after nine hours of actual deliberation. In connection with the verdict, the jury, through their foreman, G. T. Werline, recommended that Beddow's sentence be made as light as possible.

More specifically, the jury found the former assistant cashier of the defunct Ironwood First National bank guilty of counts 6 and 7 of the indictment and not guilty as to the first five counts. The sixth count relates to the debit entry of $6,200, made against the commercial account of Olson and Bergquist, without the knowledge or authority of that firm. The entry itself was made in Herman Dietrich's handwriting, but Dietrich claimed that he had made it on the order of Beddow, though Beddow denied any connection with the matter.

Draft on Duluth Bank.

The seventh count relates to a false entry on the draft register by which the bank was defrauded out of $7,200. The evidence in this matter showed that Larson had borrowed a draft for $8,900 from the cashier of the Bank of Ironwood, which had been repaid the following day by a draft for a like amount on the City National Bank of Duluth, which draft had been made and signed by Beddow as assistant cashier and given to the cashier of the Bank of Ironwood by Beddow in the Curry hotel after banking hours. When this draft was entered by Larson in the draft register the next day, it was entered as $800, instead of $8,000. Beddow footed up the column of drafts issued for that day, the total of which was something over $7,000. As Beddow had made the draft for $8,000 and the next day footed it as $800 into a column, the total of which was less than $8,000, it was the contention of the government that he must have known that the original entry by Larson and the footing made by himself was false.

Under the federal law the minimum penalty for each of the counts of the indictments of which he was found guilty is five years' imprisonment and the maximum penalty ten years' imprisonment for each count. This means that five years is the lightest sentence that the court can impose on Beddow and twenty years the heaviest.

BOYS FIND BODY.

Former Barnes County Auditor Meets Mysterious Death.

Valley City, N. D., July 2.—A party of boys roaming along the river bank just below the rapids Wednesday afternoon, discovered the nude body of a man some twenty feet from the bank. They gave the alarm and Deputy Sheriff Helmas and Dr. A. W. MacDonald went at once to the scene of the tragedy and the body proved to be that of Tom Gunderson, one of the oldest and best known citizens of Barnes county.

Mr. Gunderson had not been missed from the office of Platou & MacDonald, where he kept books, and his death is shrouded in mystery. The body was discovered some 300 or 305 rods down the Rasmussen road from where the automobile road branches off to go to the fair grounds. At this point the timber is thick and the trees quite large. His clothing hung on the branch of a tree in orderly array while the nude body rested on the bottom, the head and lower end of the trunk under water but the back projecting above. The water did not exceed two and one-half feet deep.

Tom Gunderson was one of the best known and most popular men in Barnes county. He was county auditor for many years and held several positions of trust and honor during his residence here.

BRAKEMAN KILLED.

Young Staples Man Hurled to Death Near Little Fork.

Brainerd, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph W. McGivern, aged 22 years, unmarried, a brakeman on the Minnesota & International railway, was instantly killed Thursday night while switching on a work train at Little Fork. The crew had come in from their run and were switching, a bull-dozer being a part of their train equipment. Reports state that no one saw the accident. It was dark and it is presumed he fell from a car, struck on his head, dragging two car lengths and was then flung into a ditch, where the crew found him dead, with his neck broken and one leg broken. Near him his lantern, still burning, was found.

The deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney McGivern of Staples. His mother and Mrs. James Willis of Brainerd are sisters. The deceased was a member of the Catholic church.

EFFECTIVE REMEDY FOR THE SKIN

Zelmos Gives Permanent Relief from Skin Eruptions and Disfigurements.

Those who suffer from disfiguring blotches, pimply skin, Eczema, Salt Rheum, etc., know full well that the various "cure-alls" on the market can give them at best but little temporary relief, but never effect a cure.

Science has at last given us a logical and effective remedy for skin diseases. Zelmos, the new preparation, is a salve which is readily absorbed by the skin, and leaves no objectionable trace of any kind. Zelmos is marvelous in allaying irritation and itching, while the worst cases of Eczema, Psoriasis, Pimples, Barber's Itch, etc., disappear as if by magic from the use of this wonderful remedy. It gives almost instant relief from Sunburn, Chafing and Prickly Heat.

In connection with Zelmos Salve, there have been prepared Zelmos Tablets, for internal use. These Tablets contain the most effective blood purifying agents, in combination with well-known vegetable laxatives in most minute quantities. This internal remedy acts fully in harmony with Zelmos Salve for external use, and the result is a most effective remedy for all skin diseases.

Zelmos can be purchased from the Leithhead drug store or any druggist, price 25 cents per box or $1 per large jar. Zelmos Tablets, 50c per box of fifty tablets. Sample of Zelmos Salve will be sent free on request by Eagle Laboratories, Marbridge building New York.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

SUMMER DULLNESS IN REAL ESTATE MARKET

Warm Weather Affects Business and Deals Are Held Up.

Revival of Interest in Acres Near the City Limits.

The extremely warm weather of the past week has affected all markets, and the real estate market has suffered with the others. With most people real estate transactions are side issues to their regular business. During warm weather it usually takes all the energy one can summon to attend to regular business, and there is little time for side issues.

Few deals have been recorded during the past week and little progress has been made on deals that are in the negotiation stage. The real estate dealers are not complaining. They say that the quiet condition of the market is seasonable, and it really isn't as quiet as it has been at this time in other years.

There is a good undertone to the market. Prices are high at some points, but they are not below actual values in any part of the city, and the demand has been greater than the supply for many months. The inquiry now, even in the warm weather, is good, and there are at least prospects of business in all classes of property—investment, speculative and consumptive—if one may speak of the use of real estate as home property as a consumption of it.

Inquiry from out-of-town parties continues strong, and dealers say it is from a good class of investors, who are willing to put their money into any city in which they see probabilities of good returns. Much of the inquiry is in regard to acres near the city, that apparently being the favorite speculative proposition with people entering the real estate field in a growing city.

One of the most notable developments in the real estate market during the past few weeks is a revival in the activity in acres. Acres all around the city were freely dealt in about a year ago, but a reaction came and that class of property was almost neglected for some time. It was thought that all of the acres had been taken out of the market, temporarily at least.

The market garden talk and the different propositions which have been before the people of Duluth during the past few months have revived the interest in acres, and dealers report that there is a strong inquiry for acres—not only those in the immediate vicinity of the city or within the city limits, but for some miles beyond.

Two considerations actuate those who buy acres in most cases. The land is immediately available for farming or market gardening and there is more than a possibility that at some future time the city will extend its limits far back on the hill and take in as residence property land that is now regarded as useful only for farming and market gardening.

Several deals in acres have been closed during the past few weeks and the dealers say that several other notable deals are pending. Acres near the city are hard to obtain, however, and negotiations are slow, even if they are ultimately successful.

During what is regarded as a seasonable dull period in the market, the interest in low-priced residence lots has not abated. The purchasers of that class of property are not showing any preference as a whole to any one addition, but each new platted tract that goes on the market in any part of the city receives its full share of attention.

When one real estate firm sells out 400 lots in a residence district in one week, there is some demand for residence lots. That has been done several times lately, and other firms are preparing to do it, for the demand is such and the easy terms offered so broaden the market that the demand can absorb all offers readily.

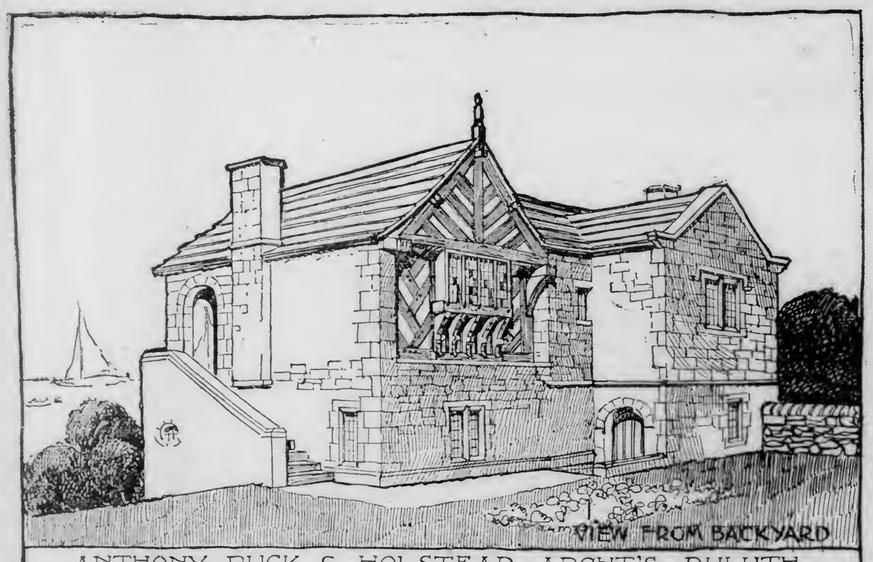

The demand is not only from local people who buy residence lots for actual use, but it extends outside of the city as well. Many local people, who cannot afford to go into the market on a large scale, are buying the residence lots on easy terms as a saving proposition, with an eye to the speculative features as well. Out of town people who know of the opportunities for profit in Duluth real estate are following the same course in order to get in on a portion of the crops when the harvest comes.

Although lots in the vicinity of the steel plant have not been in the limelight lately, the interest in them has by no means subsided. It is said that some new additions are being platted in that vicinity and will be put on the market soon. The different companies having property near the steel plant site have been deluged with inquiries from local people and outside people alike.

The indications are that during the next few weeks there will be pronounced activity in lots in the vicinity of the new plant. As the work progresses, the demand will become greater, and by the time the plant is put in operation most of the land in that district will be sold and values will be on an increase, which should be great after the plant begins work and the population in that district begins to increase.

ARE YOU PLANNING TO BUILD? HERE IS AN OLD ENGLISH HOUSE COSTING $6,000

ANTHONY PUCK & HOLSTEAD ARCHT'S DULUTH

The introduction and general use of machinery in this era has exercised a most harmful influence on the quality of craftsmanship—or perhaps it would be better to say the abuse of machinery. In hundreds of ways, outside the scope of these notes, it has improved the lot of man. Ruskin and Morris railed at machinery, but it is still here, and likely to be for the rest of time. But the hope for the craft is that it will not be used so freely as hitherto in the hopeless attempt to imitate hand-craft. There is hope perhaps in striking some middle course, that will admit of a free use of machinery for the plain sailing work, with the provision of handcraft for those parts which it is intended shall be made interesting.

There must then be a revulsion of feeling against the excessive use of machinery, if Americans are to leave behind any artistic work which can hold its own with that of the eighteenth century or previous centuries. It would be a sorry task to undertake to fill a bay in the state museum with a representative selection of the crafts of that period, and the best that one could obtain would be probably the productions of the solitary man, working entirely on an uncommercial basis; whereas Chippendale and his like were tradesmen anxious for custom first of all, and essentially representative of the time they lived in.

The above sketch based on the traditions of the Elizabethian period of English architecture, would give scope for the handcraft, of the old time joiner and mason. The former could show his skill in the construction of the half timber framing which would be tenoned and pegged together and not held to studding with nails. The masons could lay the rubble wall, (why not local rubble selected for its variety of color and not as usually for the monotony of its black unweathered interior); fitting bonding, and coursing the stones to give life and strength to the wall; a beautiful piece of craftsmanship showing the constant thought of its builder in his selection and placing of his materials in their most appropriate positions.

The first floor plan shows a living room, dining room, kitchen and pantry and the second floor three bedrooms with closets and bathroom. A balcony is placed on the second floor instead of taking up the more important space on the first floor. The balcony will give an elevated prospect of the lake, and its outside staircase, a winning card, (In these days of high prices) for the matron who makes her house, a home to secure the desirable steady young man lodger, who is never at home, but to sleep. The finish would be in stained pine and white enamel with maple floors.

The above house would cost inclusive of heating and plumbing in Duluth and vicinity, $6,000.

INCREASE IS SURPRISE

Good Showing in Building Inspector's Report for Six Months.

Residence Building Boom Is Responsible for Great Activity.

The activity in the building line this year has by no means come up to early season expectations, so that the report of Building Inspector S. M. Kielley for the first six months of the year, showing a substantial increase over the corresponding period of 1909, is a surprise to many people.

During the first six months of last year permits were taken out for a number of large buildings. This year the number of big buildings has fallen off greatly, so that the increase is due solely to a great increase in the number of residences and small apartment houses constructed.

The situation is a peculiar one, yet it is beneficial to the city. The homes make the city and when homes are being erected in great numbers the large buildings will come later. The home-building movement has never been so great in Duluth as it is at present and if last year's record-breaking figures for building are exceeded this year, the city will have grown considerably, for the increase will come almost entirely from residences costing from $1,500 to $5,000.

The increase for the first six months of this year over the corresponding period of 1909 in the estimated cost of work for which permits were issued amounts to $253,450, as announced in The Herald yesterday. Since the first of the year the work for which permits have been issued is estimated to cost $1,749,589. During June, 132 permits were issued for work estimated to cost $399,000, against $180,850 during the month of June a year ago.

The Ray residence on the southeast corner of Fourth avenue east and Third street, recently purchased by Martin Smith, is being extensively remodeled on plans prepared by C. F. Wangenstein. The alterations amount to an entire remodeling of the interior at a cost of about $10,000.

Mr. Wangenstein is preparing plans for a large addition to the high school at Grand Rapids, Minn., and also for an addition story on a brick hotel at Coleraine. He let the contract this week for a brick block to be constructed at Hibbing for Mrs. D. E. Harkins.

W. A. Hunt is preparing plans for a two-story building to be erected just west of the municipal court building on the south side of Superior street between First and Second avenues east. It will front twenty-five feet on Superior and Michigan streets and will be two stories on Superior street. The cost will be about $16,000.

Mr. Hunt will have plans for the remodeling of the Bradley block, which was gutted by fire recently, out for figures next week. ACREAGE IS THE FEATURE

Large Tracts and Residence Property Figure in Realty Deals.

Investment Market Almost Neglected During Warm Weather.

Improved residence property, low-priced residence lots and acre tracts figured in the real estate transactions of the past week, while the investment market was almost entirely neglected. The acreage deals consisted mostly of property outside of the city limits, and comes under the farm land classification, although near enough to the city to be available for market garden purposes.

The lots sold were in all parts of the city, many being in the new additions recently put on the market. Improved residence property sold was not very high priced, and the market for that class of property was dull, as it was in all other classes.

Leon Lum has purchased, through the office of A. W. Kuehnow, eighty acres about one and one-half miles north of Proctor. Mr. Lum will improve the land, and make it a scientific farm and summer home.

Mr. Kuehnow also reports the sale of 120 acres in section 33, 52-14, to a present resident of New Ulm, Minn.; 160 acres north of Nickerson to H. Siefert of Austin, Minn.; forty acres at Five Corners to a Duluth man, who will improve the land.

FARM AND RANCH TO FIX FOOD COST

J. Ogden Armour Expresses That View on Return From Europe.

New York, July 2.—The farm and the ranch will decide whether there to be any modifications of food prices in the near future, is the opinion of J. Ogden Armour, who with his wife arrived today on the steamer La Provence from an automobile tour in France. Mr. Armour said he would leave at once for Chicago.

"I do not think there will be a material change in prices until the new crop of corn is harvested and until, I may add, we get a new crop of live-stock," said Mr. Armour when asked about possible reductions in food commodity prices.

"The latter matter," he added, "is one which is seldom seen in its true light, I fear, by the general public. At any rate, it has not been given due significance in the agitations which have sprung up recently in regard to the price of food supplies."

Mr. Armour characterized as "ridiculous and untrue" published reports that large quantities of meat were being held in storage.

MORE THAN 100 MOTOR BOATS IN PARADE.

There are 125 motor boats of the Duluth Boat club and every owner has been invited to participate in the all-day cruise Monday to the Spirit Lake branch of the club. The majority of the owners have signified their intention of joining in the parade and each boat will be dressed as gaily as many as the craft will accommodate.

The record attendance of the season at the branch is expected and every provision is being made to accommodate the crowds. The members who desire meals at the branch may make reservations by telephoning to the steward at the Spirit Lake house. A program of informal sports to last the entire day is being arranged. The other branches of the boat club will be open Monday but no special celebration is being planned.

TO LIVE LONG, DON'T WORRY

John Zeitlin Gives Advice on His Hundred and Sixth Birthday.

New York, July 2.—One hundred and six years old today, John Zeitlin took time to tell congratulating friends that he had no secrets for longevity.

"I don't let anything worry me," he said, "for it makes one old. What I say is: If you want to eat, eat; and if you want to drink, drink."

Zeitlin has been in this country a quarter of a century, but has only learned two English sentences—"How do you do?" and "Get out of here."

SHIP SUBSIDY DEAD.

Congressman Steenerson Claims Prime Movers in Deal Have Quit.

Crookston, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Halvor Steenerson, who returned yesterday from Washington, accompanied by Mrs. Steenerson, in discussing the work of congress, placed the railroad bill in the forefront with the postal bank act next.

Discussing the ship subsidy affair, in which he figured prominently he said:

"I guess those subsidy suckers have about reached the end of their string, and are tired of the game of intimidation and libel, and are sorry they ever began it. Their pet measure seems to be laid on the shelf. I tell you, that is a pretty influential crowd that I had to deal with there, and few people realized what it all meant. I am very grateful to the many friends in Crookston and elsewhere, who, when the fight was the hottest wrote me letters of encouragement. It made me feel good that my efforts in behalf of right were appreciated at home."

MARINE NEWS

SEARCHING FOR THE UNADILLA

Men Who Sent Bloody Ear Believed to Be on Board.

Cleveland, O., July 2.—The mystery of the bloody ear, which was received yesterday by President Harry Coulby of the Pittsburg Steamship company enwrapped in a scrawled threat of death, will be placed in the hands of the postmaster-general's department today, according to announcement made last night.

An attorney representing Mr. Coulby left for Washington to ask the further assistance of the postoffice department and the department of justice.

A request has been sent to all lake ports to watch for he schooner Unadilla, which is believed to have on board the two men suspected in connection with the case. Five thousand dollars reward will be offered for the discovery of the men who cut the ear from the head of Sailor Edward Frazer in Buffalo and sent it to the president of the United States Steel corporation's steamship branch.

There is a curiosity over the length and breadth of the Great Lakes to know just where the barge Unadilla is.

Not during the present season has the Unadilla been to the Head of the Lakes. The Unadilla is generally used for the transportation of lumber and as a rule plies between Buffalo, Cleveland and Tonawanda. It is possible, but hardly probable, that the Unadilla might be on her way to the Head of the Lakes. Marine men here say that it is much more probable that the barge is in the neighborhood of some of the Erie ports.

THREE BOATS LAID UP IN DULUTH HARBOR.

The Yosemite and Sultana of the Tomlinson fleet, and the Salt Lake City of the Hawgood company, have been laid up at the Head of the Lakes, awaiting the development of more business.

The laying up of the three boats is in line with the policy of the independent boat owners to dock at least 20 per cent of the independent carriers until the freight business on the Great Lakes develops sufficiently to warrant the placing of these carriers back into the business.

The three boats in question are the first to be docked at the Head of the Lakes because of lack of business, though a number of steamers have been tied up at the docks at the lower lake ports.

BURGLARS TAKE NOISE MAKERS

Fourth of July Window Display Is Stolen While Owner Sleeps.

Juvenile burglars broke into the confectionery store of August Johnson, 320 North Twentieth avenue west, early this morning and got away with a quantity of fireworks, firecrackers and other Fourth of July explosives, while the family was asleep in an adjacent room and upstairs.

Taree plates of glass were broken so that the thieves could reach inside and clear the window display of the fireworks. The windows were broken by throwing stones through the plate glass. When Mr. Johnson arose at 6 o'clock this morning he found three large stones on the floor.

As this is not the first burglary of its kind that has occurred at the West end this summer, the police will investigate thoroughly into the affair and attempt to bring the culprits to justice.

RAIN REPORTED AT FIVE POINTS

Light Showers Fall in South Dakota and Minnesota.

Half a hundred dispatches to The Herald from all parts of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota report rain last night at only five places: Huron, S. D., Pierre, S. D., Mitchell, S. D., Millbank, S. D. and Montevideo, Minn. Twenty messages from various portions of North Dakota failed to mention rain in that state. It is generally clear and warm.

The showers reported were light. At Montevideo, Minn., the precipitation was .18 of an inch; at Pierre, S. D., .02; Huron, S. D., .04; Mitchell, S. D., 04; Millbank, S. D., .26.

Local showers fell at the places mentioned in South Dakota and none in North Dakota. Hot weather continues in the Northwest, although it is slightly cooler in the lake region and in the Red River valley.

HELP WANTED—MALE.

WANTED—THE NAVY IS A GREAT organization, requiring about 47,500 men. As more vessels of greater tonnage are built each year, it requires more men, which means continued opportunities for advancement, and steady employment at good pay.

Men of the seamen branch, machinists, firemen, carpenters and other mechanics; stewards, cooks, bakers, stenographers, typewriters and men for the hospital corps are needed. Boys over 17, without trades, may enlist as apprentice seamen.

The life is healthy, and different forms of athletics are encouraged. The food is wholesome and plentiful, and the opportunity to save money is excellent.

The Atlantic fleet will probably visit the Mediterranean next fall, and there will be ample time for visits to points of interest.

Parents of boys over 17 should investigate the advantages of the navy as a career for their sons. Four years of training in the navy is a useful experience, and a man holding an honorable discharge from the navy will find it a valuable asset.

Apply for full particulars at the Navy Recruiting Station, Postoffice building, Duluth, Minn., or write for illustrated booklet to the Bureau of Navigation, Box 204, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

WANTED—ABLE-BODIED MEN FOR the U. S. Marine Corps, between the ages of 19 and 35. Must be native born or have first papers. Monthly pay $15 to $69. Additional compensation possible. Food, clothing, quarters and medical attendance free. After 30 years' service can retire with 75 per cent of pay and allowances. Service on board ship and ashore in all parts of the world. BIG FIGHT GAME IS MAKING LAST STAND IN THE RENO ARENA

Jeffries and Johnson Ready to Decide Honors of Prize Ring.

Odds May Favor Negro at Ringside---Delaney to Help Him.

Negroes in South Pray for Him---Hindu Seer Tells of Vision.

Reno, Nev., July 4. 7:30 a. m.—The weather is cloudless with a cool west wind. Maximum temperature will not exceed 85 deg.

Reno, Nev., July 4.—When the sun that today lifted the rays above the sage brush hills enclosing this ordinarily peaceful valley, sets over the white capped Sierras there will have passed into comparative oblivion one of two mighty men—James J. Jeffries or John Arthur Johnson.

Out of the southeast came a cool wind and the clear sky gave promise of a perfect day for what promises to be the last great heavyweight prize-ring battle in the United States. Here between the fire of Eastern reformers and the deep sea of the coast politics, the pugilists are gathered in their last stand.

Never before in the history of the prize-ring have so many fighting celebrities and sporting characters met in one narrow street. The gong for the first round is scheduled to ring at 1:30 o'clock, Pacific coast time, but what with introductions and the fuss of the moving picture game it probably will be a half hour later before time is called.

Odds Remain Unchanged.

During the morning many automobile parties sped out to the two camps on the edge of the city, seeking a last tip from the wise ones. The pool rooms were busy taking bets. During the early hours the odds remained the same as last night—Jeffries the favorite at 10 to 6½. They were pushed down to 6 at one time by a bet of $10,000 on Jeffries made by H. H. Frazee of Chicago, who will manage Jeffries' 'round-the-world tour—if—

George Considine of New York bet $5,000 on Jeffries at odds of 10 to 6½ and announced he had more at the same price. Larger betting is looked for at the ringside with a possible change of odds in favor of Johnson. E. E. Smathers of New York said he would bet $20,000 on Jeffries later.

Dress at Their Camps.

The latest news from the camps is that both men will wait until the last minute before motoring to the ringside. They will dress at their camps, even to putting the bandages on their hands.

Both men arose early and went out for short spins on the road to limber up. Johnson had not made his final plans, but Jeffries decided to have all

LITTLE BROWN HEN LOCKS OWL IN COOP

Birdland Battle Ends in Victory for Domesticated Fowl.

Traverse City, Mich., July 4.—A big brown owl last night became hungry for a little brown hen, kept in a patent coop by Orson Parker, of Old Mission. The owl was brought to town today to be stuffed. This was made possible by the redoubtableness and sagacity of the hen.

When the owl invaded the coop the hen gave battle. Both fowls were considerably damaged, but the hen triumphed. She got out of the coop, managed to shut the door and held the owl a prisoner.

Her owner awakened by the commotion, went out and found the hen standing guard before the coop, the owl vainly endeavoring to get out.

The owl was still alive and kicking when brought in, but will be stuffed with something besides the little brown hen.

TWO KILLED IN FAMILY FIGHT

Missouri Man Shoots Divorced Wife's Husband and His Own Daughter.

East St. Louis, Ill., July 4.—One man and a young girl were killed, another man was probably fatally injured, and a third man seriously injured, when Roger Higginbotham, aged 40, of Kansas City, attempted to forcibly remove his daughter from the home of his former wife here Sunday. He killed the latter's present husband and his own daughter.

The dead are:

MICHAEL MOSER, East St. Louis.

EVELYN HIGGINBOTHAM, aged 11, shot through the head.

The injured are: Robert Higginbotham, shot through the chest, probably fatally; Henry C. Fallauer, shot through the arm and the chest, condition critical.

Higginbotham was divorced from his wife five years ago, and two years ago she married Moser, retaining the custody of her daughter, Evelyn.

Says Democrats Can Control Next Congress If They Will.

New York, July 4.—Champ Clark of Missouri, Democratic leader of the house of representatives, attacked the Republican party and spoke of the Democratic outlook in a speech at the Tammany Hall celebration of July 4 today. He said:

"Democrats celebrate the birthday of the republic under more favorable auspices this year than at any time since 1893.

"Republican factionists are at each other's throats in the house of representatives, in the senate and throughout the land. More power to their arms!

"I bring to you the glad tidings of great joy that the Democrats in the house of representatives have laid aside the weight which for years did so easily beset us, that of fighting each other, and recently have presented a solid and united front to the common enemy. We are no longer a feeble, wrangling, querulous, dispirited body, but a courageous, vigilant, virile, hopeful, militant band, not only ready but eager for the fray.

Some Democratic Victories.

"Notwithstanding the fact that at the beginning of this congress the Republicans had forty-seven majority in the house, and even after the casualties in the Fourteenth district of Massachusetts and the Rochester district of New York, they still have forty-three majority, we have fought several drawn battles with them and have gained some great victories—notably on March 19 last, when we performed the great surgical operation of clipping Mr. Speaker Cannon's claws.

"In that momentous movement in the cause of good government every Democratic member did his duty, and, in the immortal words of Admiral Schley, 'There is glory enough for all.' So utterly were the Republicans routed, so thoroughly were they demoralized, that Mr. Speaker Cannon publicly declared that there was no longer a Republican majority in the house.

Chances for Rip Van Winkle.

"If a member of the Sixtieth congress had gone to sleep March 4, 1909, and, after the manner of Rip Van Winkle, had slumbered till the evening of June 17, 1910, and had then looked into the house and seen it pass a rule by the enormous majority of 201 to 1 to prevent committees from pigeon-holing or smothering bills, which resolution I introduced, he would have pinched himself to see if he were awake. Had any man been bold enough in the early days of this congress to predict that such a thing

CLAIMS HE WAS LIBELLED TO LORD

Neoga, Ill., July 4.—Rev. R. B. Fisher, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, has been made defendant in a $5,000 libel suit following his refusal to tell the Lord he had wronged Jacob Strohl, a wealthy German farmer.

"Oh Lord, make Brother Strohl a better man; cause him to pay his debts and have him cease backbiting," fervently supplicated the preacher in a prayer that startled his congregation and started Strohl upon a line of action culminating in today's suit.

Strohl offered to drop the matter if the preacher would make another prayer and straighten things up, but preacher refused and suit followed.

SHOW A TENDENCY TO OBSERVE THE FOURTH WITH LITTLE NOISE

TWIN CITY BOYS HURT

Toy Cannon and Firecracker in Bottle Cost Their Eyesight.

Chicago and St. Louis Are Enjoying Sane Fourth This Year.

St. Paul, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Twin Cities started early to furnish Fourth of July casualties when William Brenkel, aged 14 years, had one eye destroyed yesterday afternoon by the explosion of a toy cannon.

About the same time, Francis Hardy, a Minneapolis boy, received injuries which may make him totally blind. A large fire-cracker placed in a milk bottle blew the bottle into bits and some of them hit young Hardy in the face penerating his eyes.

Quiet in Chicago.

Chicago, July 4.—Chicago's first "sane Fourth" celebration began with the temperature at 65 deg. Early indications were that the day would be comparatively quiet. One citizen reported that in a six-mile ride downtown he did not hear a single detonation until he reached the federal building, where a few messenger boys were setting off small crackers in a subdued and listless way.

The record of injuries yesterday was only two persons and there were but three fires due to pre-Fourth activities.

Thousands of persons lined the streets for miles along the line of the parade, which was the main event on today's program. Tonight troops of the regular army, nearly 3,000 of whom are encamped on the lake front, will give a military tournament. Seats for 40,000 persons have been provided by public subscription.

St. Louis Is Sane.

St. Louis, Mo., July 4.—The first sane and safe Fourth of July resulted in no accidents being reported to the police up to 9 o'clock. Permits to shoot fireworks were issued by the mayor.

IS GRANDMOTHER AT THE AGE OF 33 YEARS.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 4.—Mrs. Blanche Austin, 33 years old, is a grandmother, and Mrs. Margaret Rhodes, 54 years old, is a great-grandmother since the arrival of a lusty baby girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rolland of North View. The baby represents the fourth living generation of the family. Mrs. Rolland is 16 years old and a daughter of Mrs. Austin.

Usual Early Morning Din Greatly Modified---Picnics Popular.

Main Celebration of the Day Held at West Duluth.

The 134th anniversary of the nation's birth was observed today in Duluth in a patriotic and sane manner.

At noon the celebration had been the quietest in the history of the city. Accidents were few; there were no fires of importance, and the city seemed disposed to celebrate the anniversary of the nation's natal day with some sense of fitness and some conception of what was appropriate at a time when patriotic sentiment is uppermost.

The principal organized celebration was held in West Duluth. Smaller commemorations were held at Proctor and Duluth Heights. There was to have been a display of fireworks from the Northland club this evening as a climax to the day's ceremonies and festivities, but this will probably be called off as a result of the mayor's action in requesting that no fireworks be used.

Congressman Miller spoke at the West Duluth celebration and Judge Alfred Jaques, who will be his opponent at the election in the fall, read the Declaration of Independence. The Duluth Heights celebration opened at 1:30 James A. Wharton spoke. There was music and sports at both places. At Proctor a program of sports, music and speeches was arranged.

The weather in a large measure was responsible for the quietude of the Fourth. Editorial preachments, with the nation's annual toll of dead and injured as themes, undoubtedly have helped to crystalize a public sentiment which is revolting against the usual method of waving the Grand Ole Flag. Yet the weather must be given much credit for the satisfactory manner in which Duluth observed the Fourth.

COPIES "COMICS," BREAKS HIS NECK

Ohio Boy Dies As Result of Trying to Imitate Stunts.

Toledo, Ohio, July 4.—Curtis Miller, aged 7, met a peculiar death at his home on Jefferson avenue, when he went upstairs to find the "funny papers" to amuse himself with. The boy, after finding the papers, attempted some gymnastic performance on the bed such as he saw portrayed in the "comic" supplement, and dislocated his neck, dying instantly.

CHIEF JUSTICE FULLER OF THE SUPREME COURT DIES

HEAD OF NATION'S HIGHEST TRIBUNAL DEAD

MELVILLE WESTON FULLER,
Late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.
(Born 1833; Appointed 1888; Died 1910.)

Nation's Foremost Jurist Suddenly Called By Death.

Had Been Head of Highest Tribunal Since October, 1888.

Leaves Indelible Mark on Legal History of the Country.

Bar Harbor, Me., July 4.—Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller of the United States supreme court died of heart failure at his summer home in Sorrento at 6 o'clock this morning.

The death of the chief justice was entirely unexpected, as he had been in apparently good health lately and there had been no premonitory symptoms of any kind of trouble. Yesterday he attended church as usual, and when he retired last night he was to all appearances in his customary health.

Death came about 6 o'clock this morning. His daughter, Mrs. Nathaniel Francis, and Rev. James E. Freeman, who was a guest of Justice Fuller at his Sorrento cottage, "Mainstay," were with the jurist when he died.

The funeral services will be held at Sorrento and the interment will be at Chicago. The date for the funeral has not yet been fixed.

Chief Justice Fuller was in his 78th year.

For many years the chief justice has spent his summers at Sorrento, a summer colony located on Frenchman's Bay, five miles from Bar Harbor.

Third in Length of Service.

Washington, July 4.—To Chief Justice Fuller fell the honor of third rank for length of service as presiding justice in the highest tribunal of the American government. For twenty-two years he was chief pustice of the supreme court of the United States, but Chief Justice Marshall presided over the court for thirty-four years and Chief Justice Taney for twenty-eight years. With the future rests the determination of his rank among the eight chief justices of history for ability and accomplishments.

Before Grover Cleveland sent his name to the senate on April 30, 1888, for confirmation as chief justice, he was practically unknown except to members of the legal profession. In Maine, where he was born in Feb. 11, 1833, he had been known as a well behaved, rather scholarly lad. He had gone to Bowdoin college, and incidentally, there won most of the prizes for elocution. He had gone down to Harvard law school for one year.

Won Fame in Church Case.

Finally he blossomed forth as a full fledged lawyer and politician of a high minded sort of his native city of Augusta. He became an associate editor on a Democratic paper called "The Age," and about the same time was elected president of the city council and then city solicitor. Soon thereafter he left Maine for the greater opportunities of life in Chicago.

From 1856 to 1888 he lived in Chioutside his immediate circle of friends and associates at the bar until he undertook the defense of Bishop Cheney, on a charge of heresy. His knowledge of ecclesiastical history. His knowledge

AUTHOR OF OLIVIA LETTERS IS DEAD

Mrs. Emilie E. Briggs Dies in Washington in Eightieth Year.

Washington, July 4.—Mrs. Emilie E. Briggs, who did noteworthy work in the "sixties" as a newspaper correspondent, died yesterday afternoon in her eightieth year. She was the author of the "Olivia" letters, written from Washington during the Civil war.

Stood Up in the Boat.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 4.—John Boyer and Curtis Swanger were drowned at Canal Dover, near here this afternoon, when the boat in which they were rowing was upset. One of the young men stood up in the boat, overbalancing it.

IS SAVED BY FIRE CHIEF

Engineer Owes His Life to Johnson's Presence of Mind.

Fireworks Cause $20,000 Blaze in Superior Manufacturing Plant.

Ben Armstrong, an engineer in the employ of the American Bedding company, in Superior, was saved from death by electrocution this morning by Chief Johnson of the Superior fire department.

Fire broke out in the building this morning at about 6 o'clock. Its origin is not known, but it is believed fireworks started the blaze. The loss amounts to between $15,000 and $20,000, fully covered by insurance.

While the fire-fighters were trying to halt the progress of the flames, Engineer Armstrong accidentally grabbed a live wire. Unable to free himself from it, he was in the greatest danger, and but for the quick wittedness of Chief Johnson probably would have been killed. The chief picked up a board and swung it against the wire, knocking it from Armstrong's hands. The engineer's hands were severely injured, but that is about the extent of his injury.

At noon the fire was under control and practically extinguished.

BUYS HORSE TO PLEASE HIS DOG

Ohioan Gets Equine Back to Soothe Canine's Feeling.

Springfield, Ohio, Jluy 4.—Because his bulldog refused to be comforted since he sold his horse, Arthur Baker, a member of the Matinee club, went to Dayton and purchased back his flyer at an increased price. The horse was sold last week. It and the dog were boon companions since the canine's eyes were opened.

Since the horse was taken away the bulldog has done nothing but yelp and howl, and has positively refused to eat the food offered it. Mr. Baker could not stand it any longer, and he got the purchaser, Joe McMillen of the Gem City, to sell him the horse back.

When the horse was returned to the Baker stable the canine ceased barking and yelping, and the greeting between the two dumb animals was most affectionate.

CATHOLIC EDUCATORS TO MEET IN DETRIOT

Detroit, Mich., July 4.—Five hundred distinguished prelates, many of them pioneers in the cause of Catholic education, were expected to register today at the opening of the seventh annual convention of the National Educational association. The convention will remain in session until Thursday.

CONGRESSMAN BROWNLOW DYING

Tennessee Member Cannot Survive Many Hours Longer.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 4.—Congressman Walter P. Brownlow of the First congressional district of Tennessee, who is critically ill at Johnson City, shows symptoms of uraemic poisoning, indicating that he is nearing death. He was semi-conscious last evening and was able to take nourishment. He now lies in a semi-conscious state, being still rational when aroused.

LINER BALTIC IN SEA COLLISION

Rams Oil Tank Steamer Which Disappears---Seaman Is Missing.

New York, July 4.—With a six-foot hole in her side, the White Star liner Baltic docked today, while her passengers hurried ashore and congratulated themselves on their escape from what might have been a fearful mid-sea disaster.

The big Baltic, in the black of night, last Thursday, jammed into the oil tank steamer Standard, bound from Philadelphia to Copenhagen. The shock of the impact aroused the sleeping passengers, who hurried to the decks in grave apprehension. As the Baltic lay rolling in a swelling sea and the water swashed into the jagged wound in her bow, Capt. Ranson and his officers went among the passengers and quieted them.

Other Boat Disappeared.

No help was asked for by the oil tank, which drifted off and disappeared in the mist. Some of the passengers of the Baltic thought the oil tank was making water.

Repairs were made and a patch was placed over the hole in the Baltic's bow. After a delay of more than two hours, the Baltic steamed away on her course for New York. A seaman was reported missing after the accident, and it was thought that he was knocked overboard by the impact.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

MAYOR "REQUESTS" THAT NO FIREWORKS BE USED

Instructs Police to Prevent Any Displays During the Evening.

Morning of Fourth Is Marked By But Very Little Noise.

"I regret very much to in any way curtail the pleasure of the young people or interfere with the business of dealers, and had hoped that a friendly shower might save the situation. But the risk is so great that I must appeal to the good sense of the community and request that no paper balloons, rockets or other inflammable projectiles or set pieces be exploded or fired until the first evening after rain has fallen. This, I believe, is a reasonable request, and I hope it will be complied with good untiredly.
"M. B. CULLUM, Mayor."

Fire works of all kinds are absolutely prohibited in the city limits tonight.

Following the announcement in The Herald Saturday night that such action would be taken in the absence of rain, Mayor M. B. Cullum last night issued a carefully-worded "request" to the public to abstain from pyrotechnics. The "request" is backed up by orders to the police to enforce it.

The ban does not include the small fire crackers, torpedoes and other noise-makers dear to the heart of the small boy.

But it does positively put a stop to all celebrations which have been planned for tonight, whether of a public or a private nature.

The step is taken because the protection of property must come before the satisfaction of the Fourth of July spirit. The city is as dry as tinder, susceptible to the slightest spark. In the absence of the hoped-for rain the step became imperative and was taken by the mayor only after he had waited until the last possible moment.

He is willing, however, that the fireworks be burned up the first night following a sufficiently heavy rain to insure reasonable safety.

Strict orders have been issued to the police to make arrests wherever the instructions relative to fireworks are not followed. Should it be necessary special men will be sent out for the sole purpose of putting a stop to the red fire.

The danger from the night celebrations is much greater than from the day noise-makers. The large pieces shoot high into the air, landing hundreds of feet away, beyond the sight of spectators. Many drop on roofs, where a big fire could be under way long before it would be noticed. The same is true of isolated brush and grass fires which might soon run into residences or buildings in the present dry state.

The mayor has plenty of power to take the action announced under an ordinance which prohibits the use of fire-crackers or explosives until a permit has been received from the city's chief executive.

The police are further instructed to prevent the careless use of explosives. That means that the cannon crackers shall not be set off where they are liable to start fires, such as in close proximity to buildings, dry lumber, rubbish piles or wooden sidewalks.

The celebration up to noon was universally pronounced the "safest and sanest" which Duluth has ever experienced. The customary volumne of noise was lacking. Spasmodic explosions were heard over the city, but the deafening din so familiar on other Fourths was lacking. No serious accidents have been reported and no bad fires have as yet resulted. Premature celebrations have also been noticeable by their absence. The action of the police in making arrests Saturday and yesterday had a decidedly dampening effect upon the ardor of patriots who couldn't wait until today to show it.

Eight youths were brought in Saturday before midnight. After their crackers had been confiscated they were released on their own recognizance to appear in court later. Four arrests were made last night for the same offense.

LAMBASTS THE G. O. P.

would come to pass before the summer solstice in 1910, he would have been in imminent danger of being clapped into a straight jacket and a padded cell.

"The regular Republicans gave up their adhesion because they knew full well that if they did not do so we would force it through without their help and in spite of their opposition.

Republican Pie-Hunters.

"Most assuredly that was a pitiful conclusion for that vast array of Republican pie-hunters which, drunk with victory and power, paraded the streets of Washington, March 4, 1909, with flags flying, drums beating and bugles blowing. Their arrogance then, as they serried ranks swept by, and their utter demoralization and humility now, recall the opening stanzas of Bryon's splendid poem, 'The Destruction of Senneracherib.'

"I submit to a candid world that the Democrats of the house of representatives have set a fine example to Democrats everywhere and deserve well of the country. Our unity of purpose and unity of action should become contagious, to the end that we may sweep the land from sea to sea and hurl from power those who have abused the sacred trust which the people committed to their hands.

Cost of Overconfidence.

"But we must fight if we would win. The Republicans are so split up that some folks seem to think that all we have to do is to stand still and see the salvation of the Lord. Such overconfidence may cost us dear. The sure way to win is to fight today, tomorrow, and every day till the polls close on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

"Special privilege, which Jefferson fought in his day and over which Andrew Jackson, of blessed and heroic memory, triumphed in his day, is firmly intrenched in power now through years and years of Republican maladministration, and cannot be rooted out without a terrific struggle. The beneficiaries thereof will pour a stream of gold like unto the River Pactolus into the Republican boodle fund, with which to debauch the voters of the land and then recoup themselves by more of special privilege granted by the men for whom they buy the offices.

"For years that endless chain has been in operation, and it will continue to operate till our system of government is thoroughly purged of every variety and every vestige of special privilege.

The Tariff Graft.

"The tariff graft—one species of special privilege—became so offensive that five or six years ago even certain Republicans became dissatisfied and began to demand a revision downward. First there were only what the doctors call sporadic cases of Republican dissatisfaction; but the Republican dissenters increased so rapidly that in the spring of 1908, Hon. Sereno E. Payne, chairman of the great committee on ways and means and ex-officio Republican floor leader in the house, was driven into declaring that he violated no confidence in stating that the Republicans would revise the tariff. His statement was equivocal, as he did not say whether the revision was to be down or up, but, considering all the circumstances under which his utterance was made, he intended it to be understood as a promise of revision downward; and to do him perfect justice he claims that his bill is a revision downward.

Clamor for Revision.

"Clearly he has been imposed upon by his arithmeticians for his bill revises it up about 1.71 per cent on the average. His declaration, however, did not allay the clamor among Republicans. It swelled into such a roar that when the Republicans held their national convention in 1908 they were forced to promise tariff revision in their platform. Again the promise was equivocal, as it did not state whether the revision was to be up or down. But the demand for tariff revision downward was so strong and so insistent that a majority of Republican orators and editors declared that the revision was to be downward.

"On that promise they won. Having got in, they proceeded to revise it upward. So that in the impending campaign the overshadowing issue is whether men in conducting a campaign are under obligation to tell the truth or whether they are licensed to palter in a double sense—to keep the word of promise to the ear and break it to the hope.

"Query: Is it any less dishonest to secure offices under false pretenses than to obtain money in that felonious manner?

Taft's Winona Speech.

"President Taft himself admitted in his Winona speech that the woolen goods schedule is too high and ought to be reduced. I agree with him on that; so do you all. Why, then, have they not reduced it? It is eleven months lacking one day since he signed the Payne-Aldrich-Smoot tariff bill. He is a Republican. Both houses of congress are Republicans by overwhelming majorities. As the Democratic floor leader in the house I guaranteed that if the president would send in a message urging that the woolen goods schedule be cut to a reasonable basis, so that the people could have cheaper clothing and cheaper blankets, and Mr. Chairman Payne would report such a bill and put it upon its passage, every Democrat would vote for it, and every Democrat in the house applauded my offer, thereby proving that I spoke their sentiments. That was on May 21, but the president has never sent in any such message and Mr. Chairman Payne has never reported any such bill.

Woolen Goods Schedule.

Every newspaper in the land that commented on my offer to the president said that it was a fair proposition and should be accepted. By reason of Republican refusal to cure that great outrage hundreds of thousands of people must shiver and freeze through the ensuing winter.

"Doctors and philanthropists are waging war against the great white plague, which the woolen goods schedule of the Payne-Aldrich-Smoot tariff bill does so much to foster. Shame upon men who will not remedy such a gross outrage, an outrage whose eistence they admit, an outrage which they have abundant power to stop!

"If we have the next house—as I believe we will have—we will honestly and courageously report a bill to revise the tariff down to a revenue basis, pass it through the house and send it over to the senate. Perhaps by that time the senate, yielding to the public demand, will also pass it. If it does not, we will go to the people on that issue in 1912.

Definition of "a Democrat."

"A Democrat is a man who believes in Democratic principles and who votes the Democratic ticket. In recent years there has been much straggling from the ranks. I cordially invite all backsliders to come back home. I also heartily invite all others who are dissatisfied with Republican misrule and Republican extravagance to join with us in the crusade for the overthrow of the Republican machine. We will give them a warm welcome, not inquiring too closely into their political pedigrees or political antecedents. The doors stand wide open.

"There is no mourners' bench in the church Democratic. Even life-long Republicans will be welcomed on the good old principle that—

"'While the lamp holds out to burn,
The vilest sinner may return.'"

LEE STATUE IS OPPOSED.

Duluthians Return From Meetings of Patriotic Societies.

Col. and Mrs. E. F. Heller have returned from the Twin Cities, where they attended the encampments of the Sons of Veterans and the ladies' auxiliary. It was the twenty-sixth annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans and the eighteenth annual meeting of the auxiliary organization. Rev. U. S. Villairs of Minneapolis was elected commander of the Sons of Veterans and Miss Burnett of St. Paul is the new head of the women's order. A resolution was adopted declaring it to be the sentiment of the allied organizations that Lee's statue should not be enshrined in the capitol at Washington. Action was taken providing that the organizations shall meet next year at St. Paul when the Minnesota G. A. R. and W. R. C. are in session there. Past Colonels Heller and Wing had a resolution adopted discharging the debt of the division on the Memorial building at Mason City, Iowa.

THE WALK-IN-THE-WATER

The first steamboat to ply regularly between ports on the Great Lakes as a mechanical and commercial success to the extent of paying dividends to its owners was the Walk-in-the-Water. This singular name was suggested by an incident related by an old navigator of the lakes.

When Fulton first steamed his boat the Clermont up the Hudson in 1807 an Indian standing on the river bank exclaimed: "Walks in water!"

The man of the forest saw the paddle wheels revolving and comprehended that when a paddle struck the water there was a step forward. The name Walk-in-the-Water, however, being so long, was not generally used. Being the only boat of her class on Lake Erie, where she plied regularly, the new vessel was usually designated the the Steamboat.

This historic vessel, which well earned the title of pioneer steamboat on the Great Lakes, was built early in 1818 at the mouth of Seajaquada creek, in the village of Black Rock. On her first trip, says Cassier's Magazine, the Walk-in-the-Water stopped at Dunkirk and Erie and arrived off Cleveland about noon the following day.

"On Aug. 24, 1818," says an eye witness, "an entire novelty—the like of which not one of the 500 inhabitants had ever seen—presented itself before the people of Cuyahoga county. On that day the residents along the lake shore of Euclid saw upon the lake a curious kind of vessel making what was considered very rapid progress westward without the aid of sails, while from a pipe near its middle rolled forth a dark cloud of smoke, which trailed its gloomy length far into the rear of the swift gliding, mysterious traveler over the deep.

"They watched its westward course until it turned its prow toward the harbor of Cleveland and then returned to their labors. Many of them doubtless knew what it was, but some shook their heads in sad surmise as to whether some evil powers were not at work in producing such a strange phenomenon as that on the bosom of Lake Erie. Meanwhile the citizens of Cleveland perceiving the approach of the monster, hastened to the lake shore to examine it 'What is it? What is it? Where did it come from? What makes it go?' queried one and another of the excited throng. 'It's the steamboat! It's the steamboat! That's what it is!' cried others in reply. 'Yes, yes! It's the steamboat!' was the general shout; and with ringing cheers the people welcomed the first vessel propelled by steam which had ever traversed the waters of Lake Erie."

This is what some members of the Swedish Mission church at the West end think and an effort has resulted in the organization of a summer school at which the Swedish language will be taught to children, whose parents attend this church.

The instruction will be with the view of retaining the language among the children, as many believe that the mother tongue is not being spoken as much as in the past. The school will last for four weeks and will be in charge of Rev. J. J. Daniels and Prof. A. H. Oberg.

The first sessions will be held Monday, July 11.

MOUNTAIN MACHINERY.

Mexican Herald: The transportation facilities in many parts of Mexico are still very costly and the methods in many places are very crude. In some parts the transportation of merchandise and machinery is carried on by the use of ox carts, although in Western Mexico, where the mining industry is extensive, the Mexican burro is a most important factor and is preferred because of its being a swifter carrier and safer in the dangerous mountain passes.

Thus the traffic between the railroad stations and the interior points is largely handled by burro transportation. These little animals are worth from $12.50 to $20 each, United States currency. They average about 500 pounds in weight and will carry weight up to 300 pounds, traveling from twenty to forty miles a day, according to the condition of the country.

The class of machinery used in these mining countries is often specially built to suit the mode of transportation and in order to transport by single burros must be designed and built to allow for dismantling, so as to form a load of moderate weight for these animals to carry.

Certain types of American mine pumps, for instance, have been developed to meet the requirements of crude transportation over the mountain passes and terraced ranges of our own country and old Mexico, Colombia, Peru and Chile, as well as into other mining regions of Central and South America.

CLASS IN GOOD MANNERS.

St. Paul Pioneer-Press: Miss Margaret Lannon, principal of the McKinley school, agreeing with Lord Chesterfield that "good manners are to particular societies what good morals are to society in general; their cement and their security," and realizing the importance of the subject, has instituted an innovation in school instruction by devoting a part of the time usually spent in the classroom to what the children call "good manners class."

This class includes every member of the school, which has an average attendance of between 800 and 1,000, and is held in the assembly room on the third floor at irregular times and without notice. Here the children are allowed to ask questions pertaining to good manners. Each child asks a question and then answers it himself. The rest of the pupils listen and make corrections.

Miss Lennon lays no claim to the honor of suggesting the new idea. She gives all the credit to a 15-year-old boy named Alfred D'Arcey. Alfred was born in Antwerp, Belgium, where he was educated under private tutors to speak four languages. He came to America a year and a half ago and entered the McKinley school.

One day he startled his teacher by rising in class and deploring the ill-manners of the American children as compared with the better class in his native land and by asking why good manners were not taught in the schools. Miss Lennon heard of his remark and immediately decided to try his suggestion.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, July 4.—Business in pig iron in the New York and New England territory last week was light. In the Philadelphia district a fair tonnage of basic and negotiated and a fair number of orders were booked by Buffalo furnaces for Central and Western New York foundries. The business that was placed indicated a further dropping tendency in prices, Eastern Pennsylvania selling down to $15.40 delivered. The aggregate sales in the East were scarcely 25,000 tons. In other sections, that is in the Pittsburg and Chicago territory and in the southwest, there was also contraction in business. In all sections total sales for the week were 75,000 tons. June contracts, however, aggregated about 490,000 tons, making June sales, next to July, the heaviest of the half year.

The excessive supply of iron is still the ruling factor. Even estimating the June output of coke and anthracite iron 90,000 tons less than in May, the total output for the first half of 1910 was record-breaking, being estimated at 15,000,000 including charcoal iron.

Business in finished steel products was also smaller, but specifications and shipments on contracts were satisfactory. Railroad equipment orders, too, were smaller last week, but for June rail contracts aggregated 115,000 tons. Orders were also placed for 9,300 cars and 250 locomotives, while structural contracts called for 160,000 tons of fabricated steel, including 73,000 for railway bridges. Shipments of wire products aggregated about 30,000 tons, a decrease of about 5 per cent from the preceding month. A little easier tone was reported in steel bars, independent interests taking some business in the East on the basis of 1.40 base Pittsburg.

AFFAIRS OF KELLIHER.

County Attorney McKusick Issues Pertinent Statement.

Bemidji, Minn., July 4.—County Attorney Chester McCusick has issued the following statement relative to the affairs of the village of Kelliher which were recently investigated by a deputy public examiner and many irregularities found:

"I have examined the report on the affairs of the village of Kelliher, which has been filed by the public examiner in the county auditor's office, and desire to make a statement regarding the same, in order that an injustice may not be visited upon the heads of the present village officers of Kelliher.

"The report, so far as the figures and facts go, is absolutely correct, and standing alone might create the impression that the affairs of the village had been grossly mismanaged, but when taken in connection with the situation in that village and viewed in the light of surrounding circumstances, it can cast no discredit whatever on the present village council, nor upon their predecessors in office."

FERRY ATTRACTS MANY.

Mr. Filiatrault's Novel Boat Feature of White Face River.

White Face River Valley, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. Filiatrault are now nicely settled in their bungalow which was recently completed. It is the most attractive place along the White Face river. In this connection the Jungle ferry proves to be an attraction. People from the Eastern cities, Duluth and all the range towns who hear of it come to see Mr. Filiatrault's new invention. It will carry ten or twelve passengers. Every day of the week brings some new party that wants to see the ferry. Mr. Ryan of Chicago says it's the greatest thing he ever saw. And he is also perfectly delighted with the country. Tourists can run the cars in without hesitation, spend a few hours and return to their busy offices.

Miss Dale Montgomery arrived here from Grennell college at Iowa, where she has been studying. She will spend her vacation days at their summer home, which is also very nice. Mr. Montgomery will soon construct a bungalow also on the banks of the beautiful White Face river.

Mrs. Marshall and two little sons have come from Conneault, Ohio, to spend a few weeks at her brother's home, E. J. Filiatrault.

Ed Randall is completing the road work, which he took by contract. The road is being built along the state ditch and proves a great satisfaction among all. The state ditch is another improvement to the country.

Mrs. Lorin Preston recently returned from her home in Gordon, Wis., where she has been visiting.

FOUND GUILTY OF SMUGGLING CHINKS

Richard Wagner Convicted of Bringing Mongolians Illegally Into This Country.

Marquette, Mich., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Richard Wagner was found guilty in the federal court aiding and abetting in the smuggling of four alien Chinese into this country. There were four counts in the indictment originally, one of which charged a violation of the United States immigration act and the other three violations of the Chinese exclusion act. In his charge to the jury Judge Denison struck out the count based on the immigration act and one other count, which charged aiding and abetting Chinese to get into this country by land. Count two, on which he was convicted, charges aiding abetting Chinese to get into the country by water. On the last count of the indictment the jury was unable to agree, but count two contains the essence of the whole charge against Wagner.

Wagner received the verdict of the jury unmoved. The maximum penalty for the crime of which he has been convicted is imprisonment for one year and a fine of $1,000, and the minimum penalty one day's imprisonment and a fine of $1. Another indictment has been filed against Wagner, charging the same general offense, but in an entirely different instance.

TEDDY TALKS TO KANSANS

Three Deep-Dyed Insurgents Come Satisfied From Oyster Bay.

Say Roosevelt Congratulated Them on War on Railroad Bill.

Oyster Bay, July 4.—Three Kansas insurgents of the deepest dye talked with Col. Roosevelt for three hours at Sagamore Hill Saturday afternoon, and went away satisfied. When they had gone, Col. Roosevelt called them "fine fellows," and said they discussed the "work of the recent session of congress."

All agree that the Ballinger-Pinchot controversary was not broached.

The visitors were Senator Joseph L. Bristow and Representatives Victor Murdock and F. H. Madison, all of whom fought hard for Roosevelt policies when he was in the White House. That he appreciated their services, he made known today with emphasis; the insurgents were more emphatic in their praise of the colonel.

Col. Roosevelt plunged into an explanation of the conference at once after the visitors departure.

"Those Kansans are among my most loyal supports and were during the seven years I was in the White House," he said.

Talked About Congress.

"Can you tell what was discussed?" was ventured.

"These fine fellows and I have been discussing the recent session of congress," Col. Roosevelt said. "But I wish to say right here that we have not been discussing the Ballinger-Pinchot trouble. My friend Madison is one of the judges in that case and I would not have it appear that I wished to exert any influence in the matter.

"I owe an especial debt of gratitude to Representatives Madison and Murdock for the stand they took at the time when Representative Tawney offered a resolution providing that none of the appropriations for the secret service might be used in investigating the conduct of members of the senate and houhe. At that time, also, a resolution of censure, aimed at myself, was offered in congress; and Madison and Murdock fought it to the end. Madison and Murdock were right in that fight—the provisions for the secret service should never have been stricken out."

Refers to Old Fight.

Here the colonel paused a moment, then, like a shot, he said:

"Would you like to know the secret of that fight? It was just this: A number of members of congress realized that I was hitting at them. I am mentioning no names.

"Senator Bristow did great service to his country in the postal investigation. He found the rascals and I put them out."

This concluded the colonel's talk bearing on the visit of the insurgents.

The three insurgents came down off the hill a little diffident, much impressed with the fact that they were a local center of news, and rather chary of the situation.

"Now, boys," Victor Murdock admonished, "whatever you write don't say our faces were wreathed with smiles. Here is what we have to say, with the permission of the colonel. This statement will stand for all of us and there is not a word to add to it."

Dictated a Statement.

Mr. Murdock then dictated the following statement: "All three of us were anxious to see Mr. Roosevelt, because we don't believe he had three stauncher supporters of his policies throughout his term of service, and we believe he knows this better than anyone else.

"Bristow was his right-hand man in uncovering and punishing the postal frauds, and Madison and I were among the thirty-five who stood up for him when the fight was made to deprive him of the use of the secret service men in uncovering just such misdeeds as the postal frauds.

"Naturally we feel much pleased to find him absolutely unchanged." (Murdock's voice rose a little unconsciously, in emphasis, as he pronounced the last two words.)

"Absolutely unchanged," he repeated, "in his attitude toward public questions; and also to find how close he has kept in touch with what has happened in the last year and a quarter.

Spoke of Railroad Bill.

"Nothing more pleased us than his at once congratulating us and those associated with us in having succeeded in putting into the railroad rate bill the provision vitally necessary in order that it should represent progress along the lines of proper control of interstate common carriers."

As they boarded the train, Senator Bristow said to a correspondent:

"My son, I can say one thing to you. Theodore Roosevelt is a bigger broader man today than before he went away. That man is a marvel. What he says tingles. When he speaks he speaks the truth, and the naked truth, wirether truth naked is beautiful or ugly. It comes out like a shot, and like a shot, it goes right to the mark. I never saw him show such incisiveness. His jaw has a new angle of determination. He seems to me not only broader, but more alert."

CALL ON TAFT TO REVISE CABINET

Iowa Republicans Adopt Resolutions as to Party Unity.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 4.—Pleading for a united party and urging the elimination of rancor and strife, many county conventions in Iowa Saturday adopted resolutions calling upon President Taft to remove from his cabinet those who have attempted to read the insurgents out of the party.

The resoltulons rang with a hearty indorsement of Senators Dolliver and Cummins and the Iowa congressmen who fought the tariff bill.

President Taft was indorsed only insofar as he has made effort to carry out the progressive principles.

The principles of conservation as laid down by Theodore Roosevelt and as expressed by Gifford Pinchot were indorsed.

Cummins Names Delegates.

Senator A. B. Cummins was permitted to name Polk county's sixty-six delegates to the Republican state convention at the convention here. Resolutions indorse the administration of President Taft and Governor B. F. Carrod in general terms and commend in enthusiastic language the work of Senators Cummins and Dolliver at the recent session.

GOVERNORSHIP "IMPOSSIBLE"

Roosevelt Replies to the Republican Club at Utica, N. Y.

Utica, N. Y., July 4.—About ten days ago the Republican club in this city passed a resolution putting forward the name of Former President Theodore Roosevelt as a nominee for governor in this state. The secretary of the club, Fred B. Adams of this city, now has published a letter from Col. Roosevelt which says:

"May I, through you, cordially thank the Republican club of Oneida county for its message of appreciative good will?

"Believe me, I appreciate it, and I trust you will make the club understand that I do appreciate it. But I also ask that the club at once stop any agitation to have me nominated for governor. It would be an absolutely impossibility for me to accept.

"With high regards, sincerely yours,
"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

ENGINEER IS BLOWN FROM CAB

Man From Another Train Boards Runaway and Prevents Collision.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., July 4.—John Brennan, engineer of a switching locomotive in the yards of the Delaware & Hudson railroad was blown from his cab by a bursting steam pipe and the locomotive, freed from human restraint, swept toward Lake Placid. Rushing toward the runaway from Lake Placid was a passenger train which had left that village at 5:37 o'clock. With no one at the throttle, the runaway sped on, but the escaping steam from the broken pipe caused it to slow down, while almost sumultaneously, Frank Rochelle, engineer of the passenger train, set his emergency brakes. The train came to a stop not fifty yards from the runaway, which was now making wheezy progress. Rochelle sprang aboard the runaway and closed the throttle and it was backed to a siding by train hands. Brennan, the victim of the explosion was severely scalded.

Salt River Flows Inland.

A current of water will flow back and forth in a tidewater river, but on the island of Cephalonia, near Greece, is the curious phenomena of a river steadily flowing inward from the sea and disappearing. All worry over a good table beverage for the warm weather will be eliminated if you will but try Golden Grain Belt beer. It is pure, cool and refreshing, and does away with that fatigued feeling that comes with the warm weather. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

WALKER ON THE METAL

Boston Writer Says Agreement Must Result From Unsettled Conditions.

Walker's Copper Letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper continues dull, but the decline in prices seems to have halted. Lake is 12¾ cents and electrolytic 12⅝ to 12¾ cents a pound. Sales are being made almost every day, but no very large lots have been known to change hands recently. The one bright spot in the situation is the steadily increasing foreign consumption. European consumers who manufacture copper into wire, sheets, various other shapes and compositions and ship it all over the world are evidently finding an increasing demand as the price declines. With the general revival in business throughout Europe has come a resumption of electrical construction and equipment, which is encouraged to some extent by the low price of copper. All of these factors are helping to check the growth of the surplus supply. There is good reason for the belief, however, that consumption in this country, which has grown quite steadily since the 1907 panic, is now beginning to fall off; but notwithstanding this the world markets are still taking more copper than ever previously.

"Porduction continues to increase slightly. While innumerable small mines have reduced their output or discontinued shipping to custom smelters, because of the low price of the metal, the Butte district, Greene Cananea and the big porphyry mines of Utah and Nevada are steadily increasing their outputs. All of the copper mines are virtually selling their ore for much less than it is reasonably worh, but they are encouraged to continue operations in order to maintain their working organizations. When a big copper mine shuts down its miners and other employes are forced to leave town and seek work elsewhere; and when the time for a resumption of operations comes, it requires a long period, sometimes one or two years, to bring together and organize a new working force. At such times as the present the mines are really operated for the employes, who in many cases get all of the profit arising from operations.

"A few of the producing mines are now operating at an actual loss, dissipating their ore reserves and, by producing a considerable tonnage of copper, aggravating their own troubles. For illustration, it has been figured recently that on a 13½ cent copper market Tamarack was showing an average profit of 29 cents per ton of ore mined and treated. If these figures were reliable, the company must now be receiving 10 cents or less for each ton of ore taken from the mine. Figured on this basis, it would require 30,000,000 tons of rock, yielding 22½ pounds of copper to the ton, to equal the value of the company's stock, now selling in the market for $3,000,000, without any allowance for profit, interest, maintenance or depreciation. It is extremely doubtful if as much as 30,000,000 tons of rock of this grade remains unmined in the Tamarack property.

"Out of the present disorganized and depressed condition of the metal market there is practically sure to come some kind of an agreement, merger or combination which will give the trade stability and increasing profits to producers. If no Moses appears, the trouble will correct itself in time. Copper mining securities are so low and profits so small that the development of new properties is being discouraged. Some of the large producers, which are now helping to flood the market with metal, are exhausting their ore reserves very rapidly. Consumption will continue to increase, but there will come a time ultimately when the growth of production will halt or decline and copper will again sell at 25 cents.

"I understand that a number of companies have under consderation the voluntary curtailment of 10 to 20 per cent of their output. The argument in favor of this is the protection of stockholders by the conservation of the values existing in their properties. The situation is one that calls for voluntary action. If producers generally would curtail 10 to 20 per cent there is no doubt that their aggregate profits would be larger in the coming two years than they will if the present policy of excessive production is continued uninterrupedly."

TAFT HAS WIRED TO BALLINGER TO COME.

Beverly, Mass., July 4.—President Taft's ten-day period of absolute vacation which was to have begun with the close of the strenuous Fourth of July, has been postponed.

The president has sent a telegram to Secretary of the Interior Ballinger asking him to come to Beverly next Tuesday for what probably will be an all-day conference.

The vacation may begin next Wednesday, but the president has his doubts about it.

TRAMMER KILLED.

Hit By Rock in Isle Royale Mine, Dying Later.

Hancock, Mich., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Herenier, a trammer at the Isle Royale mine, was struck by falling rock Friday and died three hours afterward as the result of the injuries received.

Herenier was loading a car and pinching rock from a chute. A large boulder tumbled down the incline and caught the trammer, hurling him against the car. His body was badly crippled, but it was thought at the time that his injuries were not fatal. He was brought to the hospital here, where he died.

The man was about 26 years of age and had been working in the local mines for about three weeks. As far as is known he had no relatives in this city. Very little is known of him.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

Contagious Blood Poison is the most powerful and destructive of all blood disorders. It corrupts and vitiates the entire circulation and manifests itself in the most hateful and loathsome symptoms, such as ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored spots, and even sores and ulcers on different parts of the body. The poison causes the hair and eyebrows to fall out, and sometimes the finger nails come off and the entire glandular system is attacked. No medicine can cure Contagious Blood Poison which does not rid the circulation of every particle of the insidious virus. The least taint left in the blood will break out afresh, when treatment is left off. S. S. S. is the real and certain cure; it goes into the blood and by removing every particle of the poison, and adding rich, healthy qualities to the circulation, forever cures this powerful disease. All who suffer with Contagious Blood Poison may cure themselves in the privacy of their own homes by using S. S. S., and following instructions contained in our Home Treatment Book, which which we will send, together with any medical advice desired, free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

Maybe if the present encouraging sentiment for the reform of Fourth of July celebrations keep on growing, there will yet be room on Independence day for some consideration of what the day means.

The old-fashioned Fourth, which still prevails in many places though in most places it is dying out simply because it has become wearisome and nothing has come in to take its place, tends to make one rather pessimistic about the state of patriotism in this country.

There is so much noise and so little thought, so much confusion and so little consideration of the significance of the day, so much that is destructive and so little that is patriotically constructive, that the belief that there is less real patriotism in evidence on the Fourth of July than on any other day of the year almost seems justified.

The Independence day orator works in a few things about the splendid significance of the day, but who listens to the Independence day orator?

The editorials written in observance of Independence day according to custom also dwell, as a rule, upon the meaning of the day; but who reads a Fourth of July editorial?

There are cannon crackers to be exploded, even at the cost of life and limb and property. There are fireworks to be set off, even if they set the town afire. There are picnics to be undergone, outings to be taken, ardent liquors to be consumed, noises to be avoided if possible, shattered nerves to be restored, also if possible; there are so many things to be attended to, so many pleasures to be enjoyed or nuisances to be avoided, that it is small wonder that the least conspicuous factor in the day set apart to commemorate a nation's birth is the spirit that gave that nation birth.

But let nobody imagine for a moment that this means that the spirit of patriotism has suffered any decline in this country. The American people are just as glad that Washington licked Cornwallis as they ever were. They believe just as firmly in government of, by and for the people today as they ever did. They have just as much faith in democracy, just as much confidence in their own power of self-government, just as much love for the flag and the nation of which it is the emblem, as they ever had.

The only trouble is that so many extraneous matters have crept into the Fourth of July observance that people no longer have any time on that day to think about the real spirit of the occasion. On the first, second and third of July they are busy getting ready for these things and dreading some of the conventional features that they must submit to. On the Fourth they are busy doing what is expected of them on that day. On the fifth, sixth and seventh they are busy repenting and feeling glad because the nation only has one birthday a year. After that they are back to the routine again, all but the five or six thousand whose lives or limbs have been offered as a sacrifice to modern methods of celebrating the Fourth.

The American people are patriotic enough, as they show almost any time during the year—except early in July—whenever occasion offers. And pretty soon, perhaps, it will be possible so to tame the Fourth of July that it will be possible for them to be patriotic and to express their patriotism on that day also.

"THE REAL UNDER DOG."

Under the above caption Hutchins Hapgood in the Cosmopolitan magazine discusses the situation of the salaried man in these piping times of high prices, and says: "In the well grounded alarm due to the greatly increased cost of living, and extending to everybody except the rich, the one whose panic is most justified by the situation is the salaried man: With rising prices and increased cost of living, wages have increased, though not in proportion to the increased cost; but the tendency for salaries to increase is much less marked. Salaries in general have increased very little in the last ten years, and during that time the general cost of living has increased by about 50 per cent."

The situation of the wage-earner is bad enough, in all conscience. Wages have risen, but they have not kept pace with the increased cost of living, though curiously enough one of the excuses offered for the increased cost of living is that wages have advanced. But on the average, the salary-earner is in even worse shape than the wage-earner.

Mr. Hapgood gives as an instance the situation with the salary-earners in the railroad business. Of the 1,672,074 railroad employes about 5 per cent receive salaries, while 95 per cent receive wages. "The great bulk of the salaried employes, the 65,700 general office clerks, received an average of $2.18 a day in 1897, and an average of $2.20 a day in 1907." While their pay had gone up 2 cents a day, the cost of living had increased 50 per cent.

Says Mr. Hapgood: "One-sixth to one-tenth of all wage-earners may be said to be salaried. There is no absolute line to be drawn between the wage-worker and the salaried worker. The difference is social. The social demand on the clerk is greater than that on the wage-earner. He must conform to standards of dress, to the higher education of his children. His ideals are, as a whole, those of his employer. His general standards of life are economically high, and the pressure exerted on him by rising prices is consequently severe. The higher in the social scale the salaried worker stands the more he feels the economic strain. His social standard of living is increasingly out of proportion to his salary. The efficiency of all brain-workers is affected for evil by mental strain or worry."

It is easy to make light of the "social requirements" of the salaried worker, but to him they are serious indeed. For his own self-respect, if not for his standing in the office and in the community, he wishes to live decently, to dress his wife and children decently and to live in a decent house. In many cases these things are absolutely essential to permanent and successful employment. Yet not only are these standards rising, but the cost of keeping up to them is increasingly marvelously. Salaries, of course, do not begin to keep pace with the bare increase in the cost of necessities, not to mention the increase in standards and in the cost of "keeping up appearances."

No doubt there are many false standards among the salaried classes. No doubt there is much extravagance. Yet there can be no doubt whatever that there is real hardship, or that the greatest pinch of the present situation is felt by the salaried workers.

TAFT AND THE SUPREME COURT.

The death of Chief Justice Fuller, one of the strongest figures on the supreme bench, provides the fourth place in that tribunal which President Taft has to fill. That makes four out of the nine places, and it may very easily be that before his term expires President Taft will have become responsible for a majority of the bench. In this time of change and unrest, when problems of tremendous import press for solution, this is a task of the very highest responsibility, and it is a crucial test of Taft's fitness.

Already he has appointed Lurton to succeed Peckham and Hughes to succeed Brewer; and now he must appoint two to succeed Moody and Fuller.

THE SCHOOL ELECTION.

Saturday, July 16, the annual election of directors of the independent school district of Duluth will be held.

Three directors will be elected, the terms of L. A. Barnes, W. G. Crosby and L. C. Harris being about to expire. These three directors are candidates for re-election, and W. M. Evered, Albert Baldwin, A. Borgen, S. W. Hill and A. G. Macauley have been nominated for places on the board.

If the usual thing occurs, the issue at this election will be decided by a very small percentage of the voters. In spite of the fact that women may and do vote at school elections, the total vote cast is usually about 10 per cent of the vote at a general city election, though only men may vote at such elections.

Yet quite as much depends upon the character of the men elected to the school board as upon that of any public official.

The school board spends nearly as much of the money raised in Duluth by taxation as the city council, and sometimes it spends more. So from the financial viewpoint the election of school directors is highly important.

The school board directs the public school system of Duluth, and surely there is no public function more important than that.

Yet a fight over the job of sheriff or county treasurer will arouse keen and widespread interest, while the election of school directors attracts no interest whatever.

That Duluth has been so well served by its school board is due more largely to the fact that, generally, speaking, only a high class of men seek the position of director, than it is to any care taken by the public in its selection of directors. As a matter of fact the people never have taken any care at all of the school board. There have been in the past rather spirited contests over school directorships. Yet not even when such a contest was on, and when friends of opposing candidates were working zealously to get out the votes, was it possible to poll a vote as large as could be polled, for instance, by a lively contest over the comparatively negligible office of coroner.

All of which comes to the point that the people of Duluth, men and women alike, ought to get out and vote at the coming school election; that they ought at least to find out who is running and decide which three of the eight are best qualified for the responsibility.

If a thousand votes are cast at the election July 16 it will make a good showing compared with the average. In point of fact there ought to be 15,000 votes, and the election should be decided by a large and representative proportion of the voters, not by a handful.

Still, maybe the few who do vote at school elections make up in quality of citizenship what they lack in numbers. There are very sound arguments in favor of that view. If you vote at the school election you will become one of the select few who show a vital and intelligent interest in the public affairs of your city.

A VALUABLE PUBLIC SERVICE.

That is a very pleasant thing the Y. M. C. A. is doing in throwing open its swimming pool to the boys of Duluth during July, and in providing free swimming lessons for all boys between 10 and 18 who apply between 9 and 11 o'clock in the morning.

Every boy should learn to swim—so should every girl, for that matter—and its just as important that a safe and comfortable place should be provided for them to swim in as it is that there should be parks and playgrounds. Until the community provides swimming pools for the boys, the timely offer of the Y. M. C. A. pool should be appreciated.

At present there are practically no safe and wholesome places for the boys to swim in, and the available pools in the creeks and spots on the bay shore are unregulated and dangerous in more ways than one.

The garden hose makes but feeble headway against that accumulated deficiency of nearly ten inches in rainfall since March 1.

The Republican newspapers will be happy—for a moment—if they can convince John Lind that he oughtn't to run for governor.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WHY NOT IRRIGATE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

"Now is the time for all good men" on land around Duluth, or elsewhere in Northeastern Minnesota, to irrigate their crops, even if they are compelled to do it by hand, from the nearest stream or lake, commencing every evening about sunset. If the people of Dakota had our lakes and streams, their fields would not be dry.

CITIZEN.

Duluth, July 3.

DULUTH AND THE DISTINGUISHED TOURISTS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

When a man's got a grouch and is aware of the facilities provided for the removal of same, he unloads it on the editor. So here goes.

Heard a chap—pretty good citizen and business man, too,—grumbling the other day about what he said was the total absence of effort on the part of the people supposed to be responsible for such work to advertise the city among visitors. He said he never saw any literature accessible to the traveling public that boosted Duluth. Also he said that Duluth should pay more attention to the distinguished persons who come here. Many of that ilk make the lake trip in the summer, and in the fall and winter are to be found in California and Florida. My friend's theory was that if these people were made much of here, they would be talkers and boosters of Duluth there, the result that Duluth would get more and more visitors of the same stripe.

All fine enough. But my grouch stands, just the same. It's this. If my friend smoke the cigarette he rolls—practice what he preaches—it would help some. I never caught him doing any of these things. Let him roll up his sleeves and push the advertising campaign in his own sphere and personally pay a lot of attention to the prominent people who come here. He'll find that he's not alone in the business of boosting Duluth.

It seems to me that this is the appointed time to get busy all along the line.

CHILDE HEROLDE.

Duluth, July 3.

Half and Half.

Said the robin to the worm:
"It is very wrong to squirm
And hold back.
Visitors should be addressed
In a manner self-possessed
That you lack."

Said the worm: "I must refuse
To admit the course you choose
Shows good taste,
When you ask folks out to dine,
To insist, if they decline,
Is misplaced."

Said the bird: "You cannot get
Such a hold on etiquette
As is mine.
You would better yield the point
Or you'll dislocate each joint
In your spine."

"No!" exclaimed the worm, "I'll fight
For my principles, despite
All your chaff."
Here the tension snapped, and so
Robin came out best, although
Each kept half.

Blanketing Roosevelt.

Des Moines Register and Leader: A few of the headlines under which the Eastern newspapers announce the adjournment of congress will serve to show what is in the political wind:

New York Times:
TAFT'S HAS HAD MORE DONE THAN ROOSEVELT IN ANY SESSION—REPUBLICANS ARE MORE HOPEFUL.

Philadelphia Ledger:
FACE FALL ELECTIONS CONFIDENTLY IN VIEW OF TAFT'S ACHIEVEMENTS IN LEGISLATION.

New York Sun:
NOTABLE EFFECT OF PRESIDENT TAFT'S POPULARITY.

By His Tact and Firmness He Has Got Nearly All the Legislation He Recommended—No Recent First Session of Congress Has Accomplished So Much.

New York Tribune:
PRESIDENT TAFT'S CAPACITY FOR LEADERSHIP AND FITNESS FOR HIGH OFFICE AMPLY PROVED.

PARTY PLEDGES REDEEMED.

Republicans, United, Face Campaign With Confidence of Victory—Progressive Legislation Put on the Statute Books.

These newspapers have no political affiliations in common, but they have this in common, they are one and all opposed to any revival of Rooseveltism, or any resurrection of Roosevelt, even down to the New York Tribune.

Of course, there is a great deal of this recognition of the president that is sincere. But that is not enough to account for the unanimity with which Republican, Independent and Democratic newspapers magnify his part. It is the Roosevelt shadow that they are all watching.

There was probably never before in our politics so concerted a movement to blanket a man and his policies as there is today with reference to Roosevelt.

The Pursuit.

"They are chasing horse-thieves with motor-cars in Kansas now."—News item.
Come, crank your swift auto and jump to the wheel,
We need all the strength of its quivering steel,
For forty-five horses are gone in the night,
And we must give chase to the robbers in flight,
If forty-five horses are stolen and gone
A motor of sixty should catch them by dawn,
And we'll run down the thieves as they gallop away
And string them up high as they do in a play.
Across the "pray-rare-ree" we buoyantly bound,
With wheels that seem scarcely to stay on the ground;
The sparker is working with perfect eclat,
The pistcn is doing much better than that.
The——hist! there's a cloud in the distance, and see!
The robbers are scattering tacks as they flee!
Swing off from the path, take a chance at the fence—
The way that she cleared it is something immense!
And now we are close on the trail—let 'er go!
They're riding their best, but their best is too slow.
You 'tend to your driving, I'll shoot when I must.
Bang! There is one robber who's bitten the dust.
Surrounded by autos they give up at last,
The horses are saved and the robbers bound fast,
And the manager says he is sure it will go
As the finest of films at a vaudeville show!

—Berton Braley in Puck.

Next Year's Prices.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"To the jeweler's shop, kind sir," she said;
"To the jeweler's shop to buy a chop
And a gram of steak with which to top
The midday meal of a grain of bread
And a whole half-turnip, kind sir," she said.

—Garrard Harris in Puck.

TAFT—AND NOVEMBER.

New York Press (Rep.): Democratic newspapers and politicians are exulting over the prospect of the first national Republican defeat since 1892. The World asserts that the next house of representatives will be Democratic, that President Taft will lose his own state of Ohio, and that there will be great Democratic gains everywhere.

If the Republican party depended for its success on a comparison of Taft's record with the records of his predecessors and on a matching of what the present congress did with what any other congress has done, we think there would be little doubt that the country would refuse to turn over the house of representatives to the opposition and bring the procession of progress to a stop in the middle of the Taft term.

Unfortunately there are other factors to be reckoned with. The Allds and Aldridge scandals in New York have undeniably weakened the Republican party. Proofs that votes were purchased to elect Senator Lorimer in Illinois are damaging. The revolt against Senator Lodge in Massachusetts, following the loss of a strong Republican congress district there, is significant of the New England feeling. Rock-ribbbed Iowa is not satisfied with the rule of the Republican majority, as the vote at the recent primaries demonstrates. The purchase of Republican nominations by lavish expenditures at the primaries in Pennsylvania will have a serious effect in that Republican Gibraltar. Also the fact that the great majority of the Republican membership of the house stood by Speaker Cannon in his fight with the combined insurgents and Democrats fails to inspire the mass of voters with faith in the theory that the party is rid of Cannonism, and arouses the suspicion that if the Republican control of the house continues it will be dominated by the old influences.

Mr. Taft is simply doing what his predecessors have done—that is to say, he is granting immunity to the law-breakers who are squeezing higher prices out of the American consumer. And we fear that this abuse of the American people by the violators of the Sherman act will cause the voters at the coming election to forget the excellent works that the Republican president and congress have achieved in several other directions.

If Mr. Taft were to give orders to a new attorney general in the spirit of the popular governor of Ohio, telling him that "guilt is always personal" and commanding the enforcement of the Sherman act against individual criminals, there would be a tremendous shift in political sentiment in the United States. • • • Above all else the people want the cost of living to come down, and they are well aware that this will be achieved only by the simple enforcement of this criminal law along the lines advocated by Governor Harmon, the man who has made the president's own state of Ohio Democratic.

Another Billion-Dollar Session.

New York World: In their efforts to juggle the figures of the appropriation bills Republicans in congress show how worried they are by their party's extravagance during the session just closed.

Retrenchment was the watchword pronounced by Mr. Taft seven months ago. It was repeated with favor both in the house and senate. A new era of strictly business methods was to be ushered in with the new administration. But as the session progressed the promises of economy were forgotten. A few reductions were effected here and there, but they were greatly outbalanced by expenditures authorized in other directions. Far from making use of his veto power, Mr. Taft approved every appropriation bill, no matter how padded, that was sent to him.

Now that explaantions are in order, Representative Tawney, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, and Senator Hale, chairman of the corresponding committee of the senate, have prepared statements, and they are $95,000,000 apart. The simple old way was to report the aggregate of all appropriations made and expenditures authorized, and permanent and regular charges for interest and sinking fund. To escape the inevitable bad showing, Representative Tawney selects only such items as he says will fall due during the next twelve months as though that relieved congress at this session of responsibility for them. He proposes to deduct $38,000,000 for the Panama canal, because some day bonds may be issued to pay it. He strikes off public buildings and improvements, for which congress provided but for which payment may be delayed. Figures may not lie, but used in that way they may prove anything or nothing.

The truth of the matter is there has been another billion-dollar session of congress—a $1,027,000,000 session of congress, as Representative Livingston proves—and this is in the face of Mr. Taft's pledges of economy; and another annual deficit of about $45,000,000 for the twelve months ending June 30. For three successive years now the Roosevelt and Taft aadministrations have incurred immense deficits, aggregating $195,000,000, and retrenchment is still an unfulfilled pledge.

Important Dates.

Mark Sullivan in Collier's: The Sixty-first congress has practically ended. It has but three more months of active existence—the short session lasting from next December until March. The next congress, a most important one, covering the period of the next presidential election, is actually being chosen during these passing days. It is one of the curiosities of our system that this next congress, which will not hold its first regular session until December, 1911, will be elected one year and one month before, and is being nominated during the present months. The dates of the next primaries are these:

July 23, Texas; Aug. 2, Kansas; Aug. 2, Missouri; Aug. 2, Oklahoma; Aug. 16, California; Aug. 16, Nebraska; Aug. 30, Idaho; Aug. 30, South Carolina; Sept. 6, Wisconsin; Sept. 6, New Hampshire; Sept. 13, Michigan; Sept. 13, Washington; Sept. 15, Illinois; Sept. 20, Minnesota; Sept. 24, Oregon; Sept. 27, Massachusetts.

The only state which makes its nominations in October is New York, where the date of the local conventions is some time during the fifth week preceding the November election. In a few states (chiefly where direct primary laws have not yet been adopted) the nominating conventions are still subject to the call of the local party organizations, and the dates can not be given.

Pessimism.

A gentleman at 3 a. m. I met upon my stair.
I asked him what his business was,
and if he'd take a chair
"No, thanks," said he, "but I will take your cash and watch and chain,
And since you've been so courteous, I think I'll call again."
"But what's your business, sir?" I asked, "Pray tell me who you are."
He answered not, but I suspect he was a burglar.

I try to love my fellowman; my philanthropic alm
Has been to treat all human kind, both high and low, the same—
A course that helps one, I've been told, to reach a better shore;
But, do you know, I do not care for burglars any more.

I met a wayward wild cat in a lone, sequestered wood.
A brute whose character I thought was much misunderstood;
I hoped if I spoke soft to him, and skillfully beguiled
His mood with kindly gentleness he would not be so wild.
But he expectorated for a brief and breathless space,
Then leaped upon my chest and wrote his name across my face.

I try to love created things of every sort and size,
A theory of life that's held by all the great and wise.
Ere that I held in high esteeem all creatures, great and small,
But, do you know, I do not care for wild cats now at all.

This is a great tribute to a man who nineteen years ago was in a small trading business in Duluth.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Do You Think They'll Be There?

St. Cloud Times: Old Joe Cannon has intimated that he may be a candidate for speaker in the next house. There are members in the present Minnesota delegation who will support him should this situation arise.

The Spark and the Fire.

Appleton Press: Some still claim that Rosevelt is the insurgent movement and without him it must perish. Roosevelt bears about the same relation to insurgency that a spark does to a prairie fire. A spark can start a fire, but it can't stop it and the fire will go on after the spark has gone out. Let Roosevelt go his way, and a fig for the road he may take. He may say that he didn't mean it and insurgency will grow, or he may declare himself delighted at its growth during his absence and insurgency wil continue to grow in a normal way.

The Editor and Vacation.

Red Wing Free Press: Vacation time is again with us and our minds wander to shady nooks on the river bank, to quiet haunts in the still quieter woods, to deep pools where hungry fishes await the baited hook, to restful hammocks—Paper bill! Express bill! Light bill! Oh, yes, we had almost forgotten that the life of the country editor permits of no vacation time; no, not even peaceful reveries. What's the use?

Not a Bad Idea.

Hibbing Tribune: Congress has created a bureau of mines, and the Minnesota state legislature will do well to follow suit—with a school of mines at Hibbing.

Saving Near-Insurgents.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: During the course of the coming campaign some of the very best political spell-binders of the country will be seen and heard in Minnesota. There are a number of near-insurgents in this state that must be saved to the stand-patters, even if it takes all of the "talent" at the command of the Taft-Aldrich-Cannon machine to do it.

Will Not Go Down.

Middle River Pioneer: It is announced that President Taft will use his utmost endeavors to promote party harmony. He will urge regulars to vote for insurgent nominees and vice versa. In a word he would have the people sacrifice principle to party. This is in dire contradiction to the general spirit of the times and will not go down with the American people.

The Weight of the Ballot.

Roseau Region: The man who goes to the polls nowadays to vote generally feels—and is given to feel—that he is not casting his ballot lightly or inadvisedly in the perfunctory fulfillment of an ordinary day's routine. He does not think of election days as merely a whole holiday, affording timely relief from his ordinary arduous occupation. He thinks first of the ballot, and secondly of the diversions that may follow. He considers it his first duty on election day to vote, and to vote intelligently, and he does not regard the sacred right of suffrage as a joke.

Even the Post Holes Missing.

Ogilvie Sentinel: After standing pat on tariff, voting with the Cannon crowd against the insurgents and now getting good with Ballinger, Mr. Tawney won't need to worry much about his political fences down in the first Minnesota district. He will do well if he can even find the post holes.

Athletics and the Heart.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson in the July Outing: In the game of life hearts are trumps. The greatest single danger of athletics to the heart occurs when, for example:

A boy has had, it may be, a comparatively mild attack of one of the infectious fevers, typhoid, pneumonia, influenza or tonsilitis; he is still a little weak and his heart beats more rapidly and violently than it should on exertion, but the team needs him, or he is anxious for a certain record, and he starts back into training with a heart which has not fully repaired its damage. Or a girl cannot resist the temptation of a long-anticipated dance when she is barely convalescent.

Suddenly one day the heart can no longer drive on its overload of blood and down goes the runner or oarsman or dancer in an attack of heart failure. These are the cases that bring discredit, and deserved discredit, upon athletics—deserved because every one of them could be avoided by intelligent medical examination and the exercise of a little ordinary common sense and judgment in the exclusion from athletic contests or training of all boys or men who are recently convalescent from any attack of infectious disease.

Every athletic trainer or coach ought to be compelled by law either to take a medical degree, or at least such physiological or medical training as that possessed by a trained nurse, for instance, which would enable him to recognize these dangerous conditions of the heart and to discover when it is doing badly under training. Then one of these pitiable accidents should cost him his position at once.

A Genuine Surprise.

July Lippincott's: "We have the surprise beautifully planned," said young Mrs. Westerleigh to the guests, "and Frank doesn't suspect a thing. I think he has even forgotten that today's his birthday. He will get home from the office at about 7 o'clock. Then he always goes upstairs to take off his coat and put on his smoking-jacket for the evening. When he is upstairs I will call out suddenly, 'Oh, Frank, come down quick! The gas is escaping.' Then he will rush down here, unsuspecting, to find the crowd of friends waiting for him."

It went off exactly as planned. Westerleigh came home at the regular hour and went directly upstairs. The guests held their breath while Mrs. Westerleigh called out excitedly, "Oh, Frank, come down quick. The gas is escaping in the parlor."

Every light had been turned out, and the parlor was in perfect darkness. There was a rapid rush of feet down the stairway, then a voice said, "I don't smell any gas."

"Better light the jet," Mrs. Westerleigh suggested tremulously. "Here's a match."

There was a sputter and suddenly the room was flooded with light. Everybody screamed. The hostess fainted.

For there in the center of the room stood Westerleigh, attired only in a natty union suit, with a fresh pair of trousers carried over his arm.

Birthday parties still form a forbidden subject of conversation at the Westerleighs'.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Washington Herald: "I foolishly pointed out to my girl just where I was unworthy of her."

"Well?"

"She and her mother have started right in to effect the necessary improvements."

Washington Star: "Do you think that you can make my daughter happy?" asked Mr. Cumrox.

"She has been happy with you, hasn't she?" rejoined the confident youth.

"I think so, sir."

"Well, if she's that easy to please, there ought to be no difficulty."

Cleveland Leader: "You say he actually likes having his wife be a suffragette and all that?"

"Yes."

"And a fox would be enough for the wolf, wouldn't it, dad?"

"I suppose so. Go on and play."

"A fox would be satisfied with a hawk, and a sparrow would satisfy a hawk, eh, dad?"

"And a spider would make a meal for a sparrow?"

"Yes, yes! Now—"

"Wait a minute, dad. Now we're coming to it. A spider would be satisfied with a fly, wouldn't it?"

"Ye-es, my son."

"And a drop of molasses would be enough for a fly, wouldn't it?"

"Well, supposing it would?"

"Yes, that's just it, dad. Now, what I want you to tell me is this: Could a man keep a lion for more than a year with a quart of molasses?"

And then the sound of a falling slipper awoke the echoes of the stilly night.

That the Duluth Young Women's association, which found itself but a few weeks ago impeded to hunt for three new workers in the posts of general secretary, physical director and domestic science instructor is not the only state association in such straits is proved by the announced resignations of five workers from the Minneapolis association. TRY THIS DINNER

Milk Soup.

Take four large potatoes and two onions, cut fine and boil in two quarts of water until thoroughly done. Strain through a colander, put back into the kettle, add a pint of milk, three tablespoons of minute tapioca, a lump of butter the size of an egg, season with salt and pepper. Boil slowly and stir often for fifteen or twenty minutes. Serve with croutons.

Meat—Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb.

Remove the bones, fill with a well-seasoned stuffing and sew up, cover the bottom of the pan with thin slices of salt pork and sliced onion. Sprinkle with chopped sweet herbs, lay the meat in, dredge with salt and papper, and add a little water. Cook slowly for two hours. When done, take up the meat and serve with a border of green peas.

Vegetables—Cauliflower au Gratin

Boil a head of cauliflower after it has soaked in salt and water for half an hour. (It is easier to handle it tied in a cheesecloth). Drain and put in a baking dish. Blend two tablespoons of butter with one of flour, and add one cup of milk and half a cup of grated Parmesan cheese. When smooth season to taste, then pour over the cauliflower. Sprinkle with crumbs, dot with butter and brown in a moderate oven. Serve from the baking dish.

Dessert—Apple Taploca Pudding.

Use three-fourth's cupful of pearl taploca, one quart water, one lemon, one-half teaspoonful of salt, seven apples, fourteen teaspoonfuls of sugar. Soak the taploca over night in the water, or if the fine taploca is used three hours of soaking will suffice. One hour before dinner time place the water and taploca in a double boiler and boil until taploca is transparent, usually about thirty minutes. Stir it often and add the salt just before taking the taploca from the fire. Pare and core the apples, place in the cavity made by each core two teaspoons of sugar, and divide the juice of the lemon among the seven apples. Place a little dot of butter on the top of each apple, arrange the apples in a baking dish, pour the taploca over them and bake until they are soft, usually thirty or forty minutes. Serve hot with cream and sugar.

WILL BE SEEN IN "MISS ANANIAS" NEXT SEASON

MISS ADELAIDE THURSTON.

Miss Adelaide Thurston, regarded as Duluth's own particular offering to the American stage in the role of charming commediennes, is in the city the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Sawyer of West Duluth.

Miss Thurston has just completed her plans for next year and she will appear in the South and East in "Miss Ananias," and will take the piece to New York. Miss Thurston is here for a two or three weeks' vacation and will go later to Wisconsin for a visit with friends and then on to the East.

She has not visited Duluth professionally in two years and although her plans are not definitely made for next season it is probable that her tour will not include Duluth. "The theatrical situation is really at a crisis just now, with the syndicate and anti-syndicate, and all that sort of thing that most people are waiting for the situation to clear," said Miss Thurston this morning. "My managers will be Mr. Hope and Cohan and Harris, and I suppose I will tour the South and be in the larger cities. The one night stands are not going to be numerous in my bookings next year.

"I hope that I may have my little sister with me next season, but that is not definitely decided. I saw her last evening in Mr. Forbes' support in "Merely Mary Ann," but she didn't have anything to do but look pretty. I think she did that well, don't you? And by the way your stock company here ought to become tremendously popular. I thought Miss Wayne charming in her work of Mary Ann and Mr. Forbes is offering a fine list of plays."

Miss Thurston will be the guest of honor at many affairs during her visit, but all will be of an informal nature as her visit to the West is for the purpose of a home visit and a rest. Her next season in "Miss Ananias" will open about Oct. 1.

NURSERY IDEAS

Prevention of Chafing.

When a baby is not properly dried after his bath, chafing will ensue, and to cure this, wash the chafed parts with barley water made rather thick, dry gently and grease thoroughly with white vaseline or boracic acid ointment.

Many nurses affirm that greasing the skin is a better protection against chafing than powdering. A pot of white vaseline should always be part of the furnishing of a baby's basket.

Always, if possible, use rain water for washing small children; if not, keep a little bag of oatmeal in the nursery.

Prompt Treatment for Colds.

A child's cold should be treated directly as it makes its appearance, and in this way it will be prevented very often from becoming really bad.

Give the little one a hot bath, dry him quickly and put him into bed, and then let him have some hot milk to sip. See that he does not throw the bed clothes off whilst he is perspiring after this treatment. Rub his chest and back with camphorated oil in the morning and at night.

When to Give Sweetmeats.

Don't let the children get into the habit of eating chocolates, biscuits and sweetmeats between meals. This practice leads to many troublesome little ailments connected with the digestion. A little good chocolate may be given at night before the teeth are washed, or at any other time, just once a day, but not at odd intervals.

For the Invalid Child.

To prevent bed sores appearing when a little one is lying ill in bed, the parts most likely to be affected should be washed twice a day with warm water and soap, thoroughly dried, and then gently rubbed with a little eau de cologne and water mixed in equal proportions.

WEDDING WILL UNITE TWO GREAT FORTUNES

MISS DOROTHY RANDOLPH.

One of the most notable country weddings of the year will occur at "Wildfield Farm," Philip S. P. Randolph's place at Narragansett pier, today, when his daughter, Miss Dorothy Randolph, becomes the wife of John R. Fell. The wedding will unite two great fortunes and a large company of fashionable folk from Philadelphia and New York will be guests at the beautiful show place. Miss Randolph made her debut two years ago in Philadelphia. Mr. Randoph is a multi-millionaire. Mr. Fell is a son of the late John R. Fell from whom he inherited a great fortune.

ARE MEN BRAVER THAN WOMEN?

By AMANDA MOORE.

Courage is one of the finest qualities of the human race; but woman is afraid of a mouse, spider or a beetle. How can her courage ever equal man's, or, as some claim, surpass it?

The broad facts prove, however, that whilst the world owes much to its men of courage, women have frequently superior moral courage, and often show physical courage of the highest order.

Woman, it is true, accomplishes far less frequently such feats as life-saving from fire or water at personal peril. Her sphere is so much narrower than man's, and she is brought less often into contact with outer danger than he is. Besides, she is hampered by her clothing.

Ask a brave man to accomplish feats of physical courage in a woman's trailing skirt and tight garments, he will tell you that this is a most unfair request.

Notwithstanding these impediments, however, when occasion arises woman is not inferior to man in physical courage, but throws herself wrecklessly into danger. We need only recall the thrilling exploits of the women during the days of the French revolution; how some of them, dressed as men, fought battles; how others accomplished the most heroic feats to protect the lives of the men they loved.

Who has not admired Catherine Douglas, who, when James II of Scotland, at Perth, asked the ladies to defend him, put her arm through the staples of the door when the bar was broken.

But courage is not the less true because passive. The highest effort is not encouraged by the flourish of trumpets; the greater and more difficult courage is silent, it is moral courage; nor is it heroic, as the world understands that word.

Woman has certainly the greater courage of endurance. Who but a woman can have the courage to continue doing the tasks of every-day existence, when great sorrows have come into her life? It is not that a man does not suffer, but he has an outside world to absorb his attention, and a woman must bear her sorrow amid the burden of every-day life.

She may be afraid of a mouse, but experience has proved that woman can be as enduring as man under the heaviest trials and calamities.

The writer knew intimately a certain lady who at the height of prosperity was fussy, exacting, domineering, despising all those who were inferior to her. When her husband lost his fortune her character changed altogether. She became devoted to her husband and her children, gay, amiable, generous. She worked untiringly for fifteen years to support her family, while the husband entirely collapsed and spent his life lamenting the fact that she had to work.

Whatsoever we may think about the Nihilist, we cannot gainsay that physical and normal strength is required to be a Nihilist. It is a fact that among the miserable exiles in Siberia many more women survive than men. The men yield to despair, die rapidly, commit suicide, or become mad. The women, with greater moral courage, and more endurance, never cease to hope against all the heavy odds the bride over 12 years of age. In Austria a couple are supposed to be capable of conducting a home of their own from the age of 14. In France the male must be 18 and the female 16 before they are allowed to marry. In Greece and Portugal the male must have seen at least 14 summers.

Warning to the Pretty Girl.

The pretty girl, who really could wear "anything," insults her beauty by placing erections on her graceful head that would render Venus herself peculiar looking, if not plain. She ties in her skirt at the knee and wobbles along instead of walking with her natural easy gait. If nature has endowed her with soft curves, she undergoes all sorts of treatments in order to obtain the hard, angular lines that dame fashion has ordained should be "the thing" for the moment.

TRUTH A THING TO BE

By WILLIAM ALLISON MAYSON.

Truth is often limited to a question of accuracy as to matter of fact. I think that it is a greater thing than that.

I think that it was Prof. Drummond who said, "Truth, gentlemen, is not a thing to do, it is a thing to be."

Jesus did not say, "I do the truth," but, "I am the Truth." The Truth is something which is within us, a good deal more than it is something without us.

It lies a good deal more in what we are, than in what we do or say. A man may have most correct opinions, and a most accurate judgment, and may be unimpeachable in the facts, and yet the Truth may not be in him.

At bottom, Truth is sympathy and love. What a man may say may be accurate from the point of view of mere matter-of-fact, but if he says it in a spirit of bitterness or hate, there is, because of this, a distortion, an inherent wrongness in it; because there is wrongness in him, and he cannot separate himself from the words he utters.

A man once spoke something about his neighbor behind his back to do him hurt. When he appeared before the bar of heaven, the Great Judge asked him about the matter, and the man pleaded that what he had said was strictly true. And the Great Judge said, "Knowest thou not that I judge by the heart and not by the lip. How could it be that what thou saidest was the truth when thy whole spirit was awry with love, and an offense against mercy?"

Life is a deeper thing than logic, and Truth an immeasurably vaster concern than outward accuracy and correctness.

HINTS FOR THE BOUDOIR

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

How to Have Shapely Arms.

The arms require special attention if they are to appear pretty and well rounded.

In the first place, when short sleeves are worn, if the arms are red, the circulation must be attended to, and to stimulate this, though massage with a good cold cream is necessary, as well as bathing night and morning in plenty of hot water and a good plain soap. The bathing should be finished off with a good rubbing with a rough Turkish towel.

Rubbing tends to keep the arms smooth and soft; and the massage, besides inducing good circulation, will give firmness to the flesh, and add much in improving the shape of the arm.

One of the best exercises for developing the muscles of the forearm is as follows: Stand erect and extend the arms straight out, closing the hands tightly. Now raise the forearm, and try to touch the shoulder, then go back to original position. Repeat this about ten times every morning on rising.

Another simple exercise is to clasp the hands at the back of the neck, working the elbows first forward and then backward.

Keeping the Hair in Curl.

The subject of keeping the hair in curl is one that is of immense interest to women in summer. White of egg, quince juice and the like are unpleasant to use and produce a sticky, "floury" appearance, most inartistic and unbecoming.

The proper way to curl the hair with an iron is to dampen slightly and curl slowly, holding on the iron until almost cool. Then slip the iron through, and put an invisible pin into the curl to keep it tightly coiled until the hair is dressed. By that time the hair has cooled thoroughly in the curl, and will last for hours longer than if curled in the ordinary way.

ORE TO BE GOT BY DIGGING

By FERDINAND C. IGLEHART,

A shepherd was watching his flocks in a desolate district in the southwestern part of New South Wales, called Broken Hill. He noticed some stones at his feet that were full of shining specks. He had an idea there was gold there. He took a spade and pick and dug for days, for months. His health began to fail, but he continued his work, getting only red earth as a reward. One day he stuck his pick into a rock so tightly that he had to have a neighbor help him to get it out. That rock had rich silver in it, and led to the discovery of the fabulously rich deposit known as Broken Hill mine.

A reporter visited James Whitcomb Riley and said to him: "Would you mind saying something about the obstacles over which you climbed to success as a poet?" "I am afraid it would not be a very pleasant story," he said. "A friend came to me once completely heartbroken, saying that his manuscripts were constantly returned and that he was the most miserable wretch alive. I asked him how long he had been trying. 'Three years, through sleepless nights.' 'My dear man,' I answered laughingly, 'go on. Keep on trying till you have spent as many years at it as I did. I struggled through years, through sleepless nights, through almost hopeless days. For twenty years I tried to get into one magazine; back came my manuscripts eternally. I kept on. In the twentieth year that magazine accepted one of my articles.' Tell your readers that our young Americans have right at their hand the richest material any country ever offered. Tell them to be brave, to work in earnest, to dig, dig, dig. Look what Bret Harte got out of California! Gold? Yes, of a finer assay than miner ever dreamed of. Dig, dig. Fabulous wealth waits but to be uncovered."

In getting gold for the body, truth for the mind, or love for the soul, men must dig, dig, dig. In the enrichment of individual character people must dig, dig, dig.

YOUNG MEN AND MAIDENS

By MISS EXPERIENCE.

Just for Luck.

A fad of young women at present in the wearing of good-luck charms on their lorgnette chains or watch fobs. They must number exactly thirteen, to counteract evil influences. So popular have these become that all of the pet superstitions—which are not confined to the young by any means—are considered by the ingenious jeweler, who makes a variety of collections with just thirteen in every dangling bunch.

Some of these charms and their especial virtues are as follows:

1 Split chestnut—good morning. 2 Amethyst—heart loyalty. 3 Owl—wisdom. 4 Heather in glass—eternal love. 5 Four-leafed clover—luck. 6 Scarab—fidelity. 7 Antique money—luck at games. 8 Pine cone—preserves from sickness. 9 Seaweed in glass—preserves from accident. 10 Poppy—to forget grief. 11 Holly—overcomes all obstacles. 12 Auvergne bell—guide in the right path. 13 Hazelnut—long life.

THE ETIQUET OF RIDING

By MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

Riding has become a popular diversion in the North of late. It has always been popular in the South, where the people go about on horseback for convenience as well as for pleasure, and girls are accustomed to the saddle from babyhood.

In cities and public parks young ladies never ride without an escort. If the escort be a groom, he rides a little in the rear, with a vigilant eye to offer any service that may be necessary.

An English authority gives these directions:

"Absolute neatness is the most important point about a riding-habit, and anything bright or remarkable is always considered in bad taste. The hair should be very compact, the habit quiet in color and simple in cut. A girl never looks to more advantage than in her habit, and she may feel a pardonable pride in being well turned out.

"In mounting, the habit should be gathered up and held in the left hand; the rider then places herself as close to the horse as possible, with her right hand on the pommel. The gentleman who is assisting her then stoops and places his right hand, palm upward, at a convenient distance from the ground. The lady puts her left foot into his hand, and then springs upward into the saddle as he lifts her."

One must remember that in riding it is essential to be on good terms with one's horse. A person who forgets this and loses self-control is almost certain to be a bad rider and to spoil his horse.

In learning to ride, learn to understand the horse. This good friend of ours possesses as much individuality as a human being. No two horses are precisely alike any more than two children in a family are alike.

The first essential in riding is a firm seat; the next a nice hand on the rein.

A girl should learn to ride as early in life as a boy, and as fearlessly. In these days she may, if she choose, abandon the side saddle, which many women consider dangerous, and which is certainly not comfortable, and ride just as her brother does, on the man's saddle. The vogue of the divided skirt has made this possible, and a woman is not singular who rides precisely as a man does.

The bicycle is not now quite so fashionable as it was a few years ago, particularly in cities, although women who live in the country find it one of the joys of the summer days.

Once having learned to ride well, a woman is independent with regard to errands, short trips and occasional excursions. Nothing is pleasanter than to take a trip through a beautiful country on a wheel, in good company, by which I mean with a friend like-minded, who enjoys outdoor air and exercise.

Husbands and wives may enjoy great pleasure by riding either a horse or a bicycle. The advantage in the latter case is, perhaps, that the bicycle takes little room and requires comparatively little care, while the horse must be cared for with the same anxiety and discretion that one gives to any other member of the family.

the EVENING STORY

A MOUSE

By Irene Smith.

Slow-moving and outwardly calm, though his heart was going pit-a-pat, he sat beside her on the Chesterfield near the evening lamp with its apple green shade, and let his eyes wander over her gleaming hair and shapely neck. She was short of stature and slender. Vivacity was expressed in her every feature, and in her brown eyes lurked always the spirit of mischief. A mouse suddenly ran across the floor, stopped at the very toe of the slipper on which her eyes were for the moment fixed, then dived under the lounge. She barely stirred.

"A woman in a million!" he exclaimed.

"Surely you saw the mouse?"

"Oh, yes, I saw it."

"And you were not afraid?"

'Chief among all the virtues is bravery," she said, and smiled up at him with an expression in her eyes that made his head swim.

He leaned towards her, his lips seeking hers. He thought his movement swift, but he found his nose pressed against the flowered kimono of a Japanese lady pictured on her fan.

"I have always thought it a pretty pictures," she said innocently. "Are you short-sighted?"

"My sight is excellent," he answered, wiping some drops of perspiration from his brow, "but I am cursed with undue deliberation in my movements. My intention was to kiss you."

"Oh," she exclaimed, regarding him with a perfect imitation of astonishment, "I do not believe in kissing until one is engaged."

"Aren't we engaged? he asked with a note of alarm in his voice.

"Is that your understanding of the matter, sir?"

"I do not pose as an authority on such questions," he said, slowly; "but I remember that when last night I asked you to marry me you said 'yes.' That 'yes' should be sealed by deed or mouth."

"Oh,-but an engagement is not an engagement until it has been publicly announced."

"Pardon me, I am not thinking of kissing you in public."

"And last night," she said, with charmingly counterfeited reproach in her tones, "I thought you so—so considerate."

"You do me an injustice," he said, quickly. "The moment you had said 'yes' you ran from the room."

"It was so considerate of you not—not to run after me," she said, affecting intense gratitude.

"This time I do not deserve your commendation," he replied. "I am so confoundedly slow that when I had made up my mind to run after you the psychological moment had passed.

"Dear me, I am so disappointed in you."

"For being so slow?"

"Wretch!"

"Darling, let us announce our engagement at once."

"So your firm has signed that deed of partnership with you?"

"No; but they have promised to do it the day after tomorrow."

"Poor boy! But you know papa well enough to understand that he places no reliance on promises."

"Must I wait then till the day after tomorrow?"

"Surely, you would not have me to go against my fixed principles?"

"Oh, I am not asking you to kiss me—that is, at present."

"If I were capable of committing a crime, sir; I would be no cowering accessory before the fact; I'd do the deed boldly with my own hand."

"Am I to understand that you force me to adopt extreme measures?"

"I hate conundrums."

"Well, I am going to kiss you."

"Sir! Without my consent?"

"Of course, I'd much prefer—"

"You do not dare!"

"I dare do all that may become a man."

"Papa is in the next room."

"He, fortunately, is hard of hearing."

"I shall scream."

"You have a most charming voice."

"So papa thinks. If I scream he will come instantly."

"Then why scream?"

"Your flippancy will save you, sir. I am a girl of my word. If you kiss me, I shall scream."

He seized both her hands and kissed her. As soon as she could command her voice she screamed; then she jumped upon the lounge, and, with her skirts wrapped close about her ankles, screamed again. As her irascible old father burst into the room she shrieked:

"A mouse! A mouse!"

"Bah!" said her father, and went out again.

The mouse crept from under the lounge and regarded them inquiringly. The girl resumed her former position beneath the lamp. He smiled at her with the light of a liberal education shining in his eyes.

"Scream as loudly as you please, but your father won't come to your rescue after that," he said.

"Men have taken advantage of the weaker sex ever since the beginning of the world," she replied, with excellently simulated indignation. "But you have nothing to be so triumphant about. Our engagement is virtually announced. After you had gone last night I told papa everything."

Whereupon the mouse scurried away to its hole, evidently satisfied that its mission had been accomplished.

WOMAN AND HER WORK

By MRS. GEORGE BRANDT WINTHROP.

If a woman has abilities which will enable her to do more difficult work than dusting she has, of course, every right to secure for herself time free from the obligation to dust. It is everyone's duty to make the best of herself.

A woman who has, let us say, capacity for art, ought not lightly to give up the whole of herself to household drudgery. But, her art will be none the happier for thinking household drudgery in itself degrading.

On the contrary, she is much more likely to do better work in her own field—she will certainly be a much more amiable and a much happier woman—if she gives some part of her time to the placid, simple labors of the home.

What, after all, is the meaning of this imperious condemnation of sweeping and dusting and the rest of it? It seems a little late in the day to go back to the old Greek notion that every sort of manual labor is vulgar and degrading. All the modern reformers of education are earnest in preaching the value of useful physical work.

And in this modern education accords with the conclusive of ordinary observers of human nature.

We, all of us, know that the women who are utterly helpless if a servant fails them, are not the best companions, the best friends, or the best people. The much-quoted proverb that heaven helps those who help themselves is found to be true in the individual and personal experience of every one of us, not only in material matters, but in character.

Moreover, unless a woman is very sure she can be doing more useful work, she has no right to dispose all the household on some one else's shoulders.

As a matter of practice, we find that women who are most anxious to avoid the ordinary work of the home are not those who do anything of importance.

PREACH ON PATRIOTISM

Independence Day Sermons in the Churches of Duluth.

Pastors Plead for Humanity and Unselfish Acceptance of Duty.

Patriotism was the theme of sermons in Duluth churches yesterday, the spirit of Independence day pervading everywhere. A broader humanity and more unselfish acceptance of duty and service were discerned by the speakers. Following are some excerpts from yesterday's sermons:

Rev. A. W. Ryan, St. Paul's Episcopal church: "In America today the communal spirit is taking sway over the spirit of individualism and Americans are getting over their modesty about interfering in the affairs of other people when such interference is in a good cause.

"Americans, are beginning to realize that it is right and proper and Christian to share the fruits of their natural gifts with other people, as well as their spiritual life. Such a disposition of the people of one country toward the people of all others is in the cause of the larger Christianity. Out of it grooms a greatly enlarged social relation. This tendency is manifested in recent legislation, such as the postal savings bank bill."

Rev. Charles R. Oaten, Lester Park M. E. church: "The world is looking to America in a strange and expectant way. The 'American spirit' has become a byword among nations, while the 'American ideal' is beginning to dominate all races. The lofty purpose that this nation stands for its the finished type of the character and manhood, which consists of three elements—mental, moral and spiritual. This nation is the foremost in all three, and it will give the world the highest testimony of what 'Christian' manhood and 'Christian' character mean."

Rev. W. G. Boyle, Asbury M. E. church: "The sense of liberty without a corresponding sense of obligation and service may sometimes become a curse instead of a blessing. In our own case it lead to the Civil war and has brought all the great commercial abuses upon us, from which we are now striving to free ourselves. But the day is breaking and the shadows are disappearing. All over our beloved country men are beginning to feel that the glory of the nation rests not only upon our liberty, but also upon he enlightened and sympathetic co-operation of our people."

Rev. E. F. Stidd, Merritt Memorial M. E. church: "The key to America's continued greatness, is in the individual righteousness of its citizens. May the historians of the future say: 'The Hebrews gave us a monotheistic religion, Greece gave us intellectual stimulus, Rome gave us law, but the Anglo-Saxon race and the American nation gave us the open Bible, a vitalized Christianity and individual righteousness.'"

Rev. James A. Roberts, Garfield avenue mission: "The Fourth of July was not made merely for sports and a good time. It was ordained as a special day for good Americans to make a fresh start."

NO WILD BERRY CROP THIS YEAR.

There will be no wild berry crop this year.

Those who have been anxiously awaiting the ripening of the berries say that owing to the drouth there will be but few berries.

Duluth is famous for its annual crop of raspberries and other wild fruit which annually thrives on its hills. Each year the hills are thronged with people, some of whom pick the berries for amusement and others who pick them to sell.

To those who pick them to sell, the fact that there will be but few this year will be a real calamity. Many women and children annually make pin money in this way while others are dependent upon the money for a part of their support.

The berries that are "put up" for winter use this year by Duluth housewives will come mostly from outside the city. As these berries are usually costly, but little fruit will be prepared for winter use this year.

MORE ABOUT THE PHENIX COMPANY

Irregularities in Fire Insurance Business Reported in New York.

Albany, N. Y., July 4.—Irregularities in connection with the management of the Phenix Insurance company of Brooklyn are again set forth in a report made to State Superintendent Hotchkiss by state insurance commissioners.

Following discoveries of gross irregularities in the management of the company, President George H. Sheldon was removed from office late in December and later was indicted. He died before the indictment could be pressed. The Phenix Insurance company and the combined companies are now known as the Fidelity-Phenix Fire Insurance company and are doing an active business.

The examination just completed covers the transactions of the Phenix Insurance company of Brooklyn since the last previous examination, which was as of the statement June 30, 1887. It had been particularly searching as to the recent years of the company's existence.

Fake Surplus Given.

The present examination was made on Sept. 30, 1909, and the examiners find at that time a surplus above capital of $437,200 instead of $1,546,648 as claimed by the company.

"It is expected," says a statement by the department, "that the facts developed by the report as to the falsity of the company's statements will be brought to the attention of the district attorney of New York county."

GETS ONE YEAR AT STILLWATER

Frank Reynolds, Fake Solicitor, Is Sentenced By Judge Ensign.

S. M. King, the negro preacher who solicited funds in Duluth on a pretense that he had erected a church and wanted help to pay for it, admitted Saturday when he was arraigned before Judge Ensign of the district court that his real name is Frank Reynolds.

He pleaded guilty to getting $50 under false pretenses from A. L. Ordean and asked the judge to show him mercy. Judge Ensign sentenced him to one year at Stillwater.

Under the name of King the man visited the business men of the city asking help in the way of funds for his church. From several of them he secured from $25 to $50. He finally struck Manager Lee of the Spalding hotel. The head waiter at the hotel informed Mr. Lee that King was an imposter.

King made his escape to Superior, where he was arrested and brought back to Duluth.

MOBS TAKE LIVES OF THREE NEGROES

Murder of Farmer and Assault on Girl Are the Causes.

Charleston, Mo., July 4.—Two negroes were lynched here Sunday afternoon for the murder of William Fox, a planter of Mississippi county. They were taken from the county jail by a crowd of infuriated citizens, who broke down the doors with sledge hammers. The negroes were alleged to have shot Fox in the back while riding in his wagon about two miles from town, Saturday night. He died after identifying his assailants.

The mob rushed in upon the frightened negroes and with yells took them outside. One negro was hanged immediately in the jail yard after he had confessed his guilt and begged for his life. The other negro was hurried into an automobile and taken to the spot where he had hidden the revolver with which Fox was shot. This weapon obtained the negro was taken back to Charleston.

In the presence of nearly 5,000 people, who yelled their approval, the second negro was hanged from the yard-arm of a crossing signal.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that "the negroes came to their deaths at the hands of parties unknown."

Lynching in Alabama.

Dothan, Ala., July 4.—News has been received of the lynching at Columbia, in this county, of a negro who wase charged with criminal assault upon a white girl. Because of rumors of further trouble at Columbia, Governor Comer ordered the local military company to hold themselves in readiness for riot duty.

TAFT WITHDRAWS 8,495,731 ACRES

Signs First Order Under Law Passed By the Last Congress.

Beverly, Mass., July 4.—President Taft yesterday took the first step in his own conservation policy by signing orders of withdrawal covering 8,495,731 acres of power site, phosphate and petroleum lands. He also appointed the five engineer officers of the army, who are to constitute a board which will pass upon the reclamation projects to be completed under the recent appropriation of $20,000,000. The president has summoned Secretary Ballinger for a conference on Tuesday, when various phases of the work to be done in the near future will be gone over.

First Act Under Law.

The withdrawal orders signed by the president are the first specifically authorized by law. The right of the president to make withdrawals has been questioned in the suits now pending in the federal courts, and the president secured the passage of the bill by the last congress giving him definitely the authority to withdraw lands pending special legislation for their disposition. The bill was made an administration measure and was finally approved the day congress adjourned.

The areas involved in the power sites withdrawn are as follows: Arizona, 107,550 acres; California, 47,819 acres; Colorado, 201,549 acres; Idaho, 230,953 acres; Montana, 122,515 acres; Nevada, 14,501 acres; New Mexico, 14,536 acres; Oregan, 176,721 acres; Utah, 379,912 acres; Washington, 55,439 acres; Wyoming, 103,396 acres.

JEWS SEE HOPE OF NEW NATION

Thirteenth Meeting of Zionists Is Held in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 4.—Coincident with the celebration of this country's birth anniversary, prominent Jews from all sections of the American continent met in Pittsburg to conceive a nation of their own. Three hundred delegates of the American Federation of Zionists, together with 2,000 local Jews, rallied under the Stars and Stripes and the Zionist banner at meetings yesterday and last night. It is the thirteenth year they have met to solve the problem of their race, and it was the tenor of addresses that the hope of a national haven in Palestine for the oppressed Jews of Europe will soon be realized.

Dr. Harry Friedenwald of Baltimore, who is retiring from the presidency after six years' service, reviewed the federation's work under his administration and expressed hope that from now on the Zionist movement would be taken up more extensively by the younger generation of Jews.

Tribute to Dead Leaders.

A tribute was paid to three leaders of the movement who died this year, Naftolie Embler, poet and author; Livingbloom, the leader of Zionism in Russia, and Oscar Numrai, who was affiliated with the national body.

A telegram from the London correspondent of a New York Jewish newspaper was read to the effect that the Turkish government had conceded the right of the Jews to hold property in Turkey. The announcement was greeted with applause and it was also announced that the greater executive committee of the World's Zionist federation would meet soon to decide in what way the Jews could best proceed to take advantage of the privileges in Turkey.

At last night's mass meeting President Friedlander and Dr. Israel Friedlander of New York, Dr. Samuel Margolis of Boston, Joseph Barondess of New York and several local leaders were speakers.

TWO KILLED IN AUTO AT DEADLY CROSSING.

New York, July 4.—On the same crossing at Valley Stream, L. I., where twenty persons were killed in a tally-ho wreck some years ago, an automobile owned by Andrew Crawford of Riverdale, N. Y., and containing Mr. Crawford, his two daughters, Jeanette and Charlotte, and their chauffeur, was struck by a Long Island railroad train Sunday afternoon. Both young women were killed and the chauffeur was seriously injured. Mr. Crawford was tossed with the others but escaped with a few scratches.

BAPTISTS NOT GIVEN ITALIAN PROTECTION.

Rome, July 4.—James P. Stuart of St. Louis, who was sent by the American Board of Baptist Missions to Italy to investigate the Baptist missions in this country, and who, with a number of other church workers, was attacked by a mob at Avellino at the time of the earthquake early in June, has sent a message from tha district to the effect that the protection promised by the Italian government has not been forthcoming.

Premier Luzzatti urged upon Stuart the advisability of remaining away from the district until calm is restored there.

Probe Bankruptcy Frauds.

Washington, July 4.—The department of justice expects that a number of indictments will be returned during this week by the grand jury at Montgomery, Ala., which for nearly a month has been investigating the so-called jewelry and furniture bankruptcy frauds which had their ramifications in several of the Southern states, notably Alabama.

Bids for Porto Rican Bonds.

Washington, July 4.—Bids will be received at the bureau of insular affairs of the war department next Thursday for an issue of 425,000 4 per cent gold bonds of the government of Porto Rico. The bonds will bear interest from Jan. 1 last and will be redeemable at the pleasure of the government of Porto Rico after Jan. 1, 1920. Each bid must be accompanied with a certified check for 2 per cent of its actual amount.

(BY BRUCE.)

Smiling Schmirler, late of the Comiskey White Sox, and more recently still of the Peoria team, celebrated the home coming of the Sox yesterday by pitching a victory over the Rochester Surgeons, the score being 4 to 2 in favor of the Sox.

The return of the somewhat abused Sox was celebrated by a large and enthusiastic crowd. The fact that Jack Schmirler had been advertised to be on the firing line helped to swell the attendance, for the big fellow was a prime favorite here last year.

As for Schmirler, he appears to have more than he had last season. He has more smoke, and in addition he has all the breaks and change of pace that made him one of the most effective of the Sox twirlers the season we copped the calico.

Yesterday's game was slow and was at times marred by wrangling. Anderson was not calling them to the satisfaction of the players of either team, and as a result the auburn-haired indicator holder had a strenuous day. He imposed several fines and ordered McNeil from the grounds and also gave several brief warnings, before the trouble in any way subsided.

Funny Mr. Vance.

For the sacrilegious offering a funny and somewhat emaciated man named Vance was mounted on the mound. It is whispered around that Mister Vance was called to the Detroit Americans this present season. Just how he got there would make interesting reading, for yesterday the Vance boy showed nothing but a rather akward delivery. Three runs were scored very quickly off his weird pitching.

After the trio of dents had been made in the plate in the last of the first, Cy Young, the third, the elongated southpaw that formerly roamed in the pitching pasture of La Crosse, was trotted forth. This Young has been a hoodoo for the visiting Sox for some time, and yesterday it was very fortunate that the Sox were early in the happy vineyard mood for gathering runs, for after the advent of the tall Cy only one lonesome run was scored by the local band of hopes.

In the last of the first, Anderson uncorked the genial flow of hospitality by drawing four of Mr. Vance's shoots that were very far from being true. Taylor brushed aside his personal feelings in the matter and sacrificed the runner to second. Here Manager O'Brien came nobly to the rescue, doubling along the left foul line, sending the fleet-footed Anderson across the hilarity pan.

A brief moment later a passed ball permitted the heroic Irishman to go on to third. He was scored by Altermott's single. Altermott went to second on the second passed ball of the inning and was pushed further along the line of progress by Vashlider's sacrifice. A wild pitch sent Col. Roosevelt Altermott over for the third run of the illustrious inning.

Again in the second of the second did we add further elation to the large and bright day. Anderson got to first on a scratch that he beat out by a fraction of a hair's breath. The throw to catch the small man was wide and he went to second while the spheroid was being searched for among the automobiles. Andy stole third and came home when Vasbinder hit one over second base.

In the fifth the first run of the visitors from the hospital town, was scored. Bovan was given a base on balls and scored when Uncle Cy Young accidentally hit a wild pitch to deep center for three bases.

Again in the eighth the visitors threw a scare into the hopeful fans by scoring one and threatening to score even more. Dunn singled in this frame, advanced two bases on an infield out and scored when Holding permitted one of Schmirler's shoots to escape the passionate clutch of his mitt. Fast work retired the Surgeons, Ollie's decision at third almost causing a riot and heart failure even among the most strong and robust of the visitors.

A double bill will be the grand holiday offering for today. Rochester will be the opponents of the Sox upon both occasions. Cummings and Dauss will probably be the pitchers carded for the stellar work in today's games.

Holstrom was delayed yesterday in arriving from St. Paul, and as a consequence was not in the game of yesterday. La Mont, Schwab and Schroder are expected here today or tomorrow. If any of these players arrive they may get in one of the games today.

Arrangements have been made for the receiving of the fight returns. "The Battle of the Century" is scheduled to begin at 1:30, Nevada time. That will mean, if the fight begins promptly, that the first returns will be received in Duluth about 3:30.

Never before in the history of prize fighting has there been so much interest shown in any pugilistic encounter. For that reason it is believed that the fight returns will cause one of the biggest crowds in the history of holiday games.

Look below for the first rift of gladness we have enjoyed for some few days:

Wolford Is Wild While Baertschi Keeps Hits Well Scattered.

Mique Malloy's Red Wing Indians were easy for the Superior Red Sox at Superior yesterday, the home team winning, 12 to 2. Wolford was wild and his support was bad in spots. Baertschi kept the hits scattered and had better control than he had shown for some time. Arundel's work was not satisfactory to either team.

SUPERIOR AND LA CROSSE IN TIE GAME.

La Crosse, Wis., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—La Crosse and Superior battled for eight innings to a tie in the final game of the series Saturday, the contest being called to allow the Superior team to catch a train for home.

The Superior score in the first came as the result of errors by Doll and hits by Kourick, Clemens and Chase. Prater's error in the seventh followed by a double by Lizette gave them the tying run. Dahlgren gave four passes and allowed a triple by Doll in the first and triples by Doll and Connell, singles by Wais and Prater and a sacrifice by Kuehn which counted as three for La Crosse in the fifth.

ROCHESTER AND WAUSAU PLAY TIE.

Rochester, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A ten-inning contest resulted in a tie, 2 to 2 in the Rochester-Wausau game Saturday.

The game was called to allow the local team to catch a train. McNeil for Rochester should have had a shut out, but costly errors and poor support allowed Wausau two runs. McNeil allowed only three hits. Schieffer for Wausau was hit freely.

Score: R. H. E.

EAU CLAIRE MAKES CLEAN SWEEP OF SERIES.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eau Claire made a clean sweep of the series by defeating Red Wing Saturday 6 to 2 by hard and opportune hitting off Weidel. The hitting of De Haven, Denner and Kading was a feature. Morrow kept the visitors' hits scattered, but errors let in two runs.

Malloy protested the game on the grounds of Eau Claire playing Russ Bailey, Malloy claiming Bailey didn't belong to Eau Claire. Bailey took Carter's place when the latter was benched for disputing a decision by Anderson, calling what appeared to be a safe hit by Callahan's foul.

Callahan's base running also featured.

OUTCASTS BARELY ESCAPE SHUTOUT FROM WINONA.

Winona, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winona defeated La Crosse by the score of 4 to 1 yesterday, the great pitching of Baillies being responsible for the victory. Baillies held the visitors to four hits and would probably have scored a shutout, had not Killian thrown to second with a man on third, allowing the runner to score.

Whittaker pitched good ball for the Outcasts, errors behind him counting in the run getting. Score: R. H. E.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 4.—In a pitchers' battle between Lindaman and Yingling, the former came out victorious, Indianapolis defeating Toledo yesterday, 2 to 1. SOME EXPERT OPINION REGARDING THE FIGHT

Alfred Henry Lewis, author—It will be as though one were armed with a sword of steel against the other's sword of lead. Jeffries, by the sheerest dint of temper and trenchant bitterness, should split his foe open like a mackarel.

Jack London, author—It is the fight of fights, the crowning fight of the whole ring and perhaps the last great fight that will ever be held. Johnson the fighting boxer, will go up against Jeffries, the boxing fighter. Both are cool, both are experienced, both are terrible. It will not be a short fight.

Abe Attell, fighter—There is nothing to it but Jeffries.

John L. Sullivan, fighter, actor and reporter—It will be a great fight. Johnson grows in public opinion each day.

Tommy Burns, fighter—Jeffries will win inside of twenty rounds. I'd fight Johnson any day, but you couldn't drag me into the ring in front of Jim Jeffries.

Sam Langford, negro fighter—I'se awfully sorry they're goin' to fight. I wanted to lick Johnson, but when Mr. Jeffries gets through with him, there'll be nothing left for me to take a punch at.

Bob Fitzsimmons, fighter—Jeffries will hit that nigger once and Johnson 'll turn white. Why, Jeffries can kill him.

James J. Corbett, actor and fighter—It will be Jeffries in a walk.

Al Kaufmann, fighter—Johnson will win. Jeffries has shot his bolt. If Jeff forces the fight, Johnson will win all the quicker.

Billy Muldoon, noted trainer—I like Jeffries because he is the huskier. The fight may go to the limit, with Johnson playing for the waiting game.

Tom Flanagan—I look for Johnson to win inside of twenty rounds.

Robert Edgren, noted sport writer—Jeffries will win; there will be no other ending.

T. A. Dorgan, "Tad," sporting writer—It's going to be the peach of a scrap, take it from me.

Tex Rickard—The scrap will be on the level.

"Big" Tim Sullivan, stakeholder—If the fight isn't on the level you'll see me coming through the ropes with a rush.

Governor Dickerson of Nevada—I am convinced that the fight will be absolutely honest.

Roger Cornell, trainer—Jeffries will win inside of twenty rounds. He will carry the fight to the negro all the time.

Sam Fitzpatrick, Johnson's former manager—If a little fellow like Tommy Burns can send Johnson to a hospital, what will Jeffries do to him?

BIG EVENT ON MOTOR SPEEDWAY

Many Famous Entries for 200-Mile Race at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 4.—The annual 200-mile motor car race for the Cobe trophy will be run this afternoon at the Indianapolis speedway and in the great crowd that is expected to attend it will be many members of the Chicago Automobile club of which the donor of the trophy, Ira M. Cobe, is president, and automobile enthusiasts from other cities. The event was a road race last year, over the Crown Point, Ind., course, and was won by Louis Chevrolet.

BURGEE RACE UNDECIDED

Twenty-Eight-Foot Class Races in Doubt as Result of Protests.

The races Saturday at the Duluth Boat club were completed in but one class, the 32-footers, for the reason that a double protest was made in the 28-foot class, both the Scud and the Feather claiming that they were fouled.

In the 32-foot class burgee series, the burgee will go to the Allegro, the burgee will go to the Allegro, the Brewer boat. The Minotaur was not able to enter the races of Saturday, owing to a split sail, but as the Allegro has sufficient points to win, there could have been no difference in the result.

Dr. Lyman's Feather and the Scud were tied for first place in the 28-foot burgee series prior to the race of Saturday. Each of th boats had sixteen points. Upon the final decision in the race of Saturday will rest the winning of the pennant.

Both skippers claim to be without blame. The foul occurred at buoy 3.

The lapstreak four-oared race went to the high school crew, the Marshall-Wells four finishing right at the stern of the victorious hill top oasmen.

The result of the race in the 28-foot class, not allowing for the judge's decision, which will be made later; follows:

Scud, Holland	1:29:15
Feather, Lynam	1:31:30
Zephyr, McCrea	1:33:36
Peter, Pan, Jamar	1:34:13
Merry Widow, Trux	1:37:09
North Wind, Farrell	1:44:33

BETTING HERE FAVORS JEFFRIES AT 10 TO 7.

Betting in Duluth on the outcome of the fight of this afternoon favors Jeffries at the odds of 10 to 7. Reports from the various places where wagers are generally made are to the effect that there is not very much Jeffries money in sight, but that there is some Johnson money waiting to be covered.

The odds here are about the same as in other cities of the country, though in some places where the Jeffries sentiment is more rabid, money upon the white man is being offered at odds of 10 to 6½.

According to report there is not a great deal of betting here, as there is some suspicion of the whole affair.

CONNIE MACK A WIZARD AT DEVELOPING YOUNGSTERS

BAKER OF PHILADELPHIA.

Connie Mack's long suit is developing young players. In Baker he has one of the best third sackers on the diamond. Mack also developed Collins and Barry, who, with Baker and Harry Davis, compose the Philadelphia Athletics' infield. He obtained Cy Morgan, however, through a trade with the Boston Red Sox, to whom he gave Schlitzer in return. Schlitzer has passed into the minors, while Morgan is one of Connie Mack's best twirlers. The Athletics have a good chance to win the pennant in the American league.

MORGAN.

NECROLOGIC

After a brief period of suffering, the News-Tribune ball team passed peacefully away yesterday morning at Athletic park.

Death was due to the injuries received in a ball game with The Herald scribes, the final score of which was 11 to 10, at the end of the allotted seven innings. There weren't any mourners, everybody appearing to be satisfied with the outcome. In fact this is the second News-Tribune ball team the Herald has helped to lay peacefully away, the same feat being performed last year.

In addition to the injuries received during the struggle, the News-Tribune team seemed to be suffering from an acute attack of "charley horse," which may have contributed somewhat to the fatal outcome. The symptoms of this disease were plainly in evidence from the erratic movements of the arms and legs of the patient. Christy Mathewson Getty and John Bruce Kling Liggett of the Herald team, were at the bedside of the patient throughout his illness, and made his last moments as peaceful and easy as possible, soothing his pillow with occasional strikeout.

Joe Tinker Fife and Johnny Evers McCarthy smoothed the patient's pillow with timely hits, and Tyrus Cobb Naughton, Samuel Crawford Strand, and Tris Speaker Mack sent bouquets, while Harry Steinfelt Armstrong and Frank Leroy Chance Rockwell laved the patient's head with cool towels.

In the absence of any real friends of the team, the corpse will probably be taken charge of by the county, and interment will be made at the Potter's field. The Herald players took up a collection this morning toward the funeral expenses, but the only contribution was a plugged nickel from John Bruce Kling Liggett, who attached a condition to his gift, stipulating that the umpire be buried alive with the team. The last seen of the umpire was a hatless figure disappearing over the hill at Oneota, so The Herald catcher's contribution had to be returned.

The coroner refused to investigate the "young murder," claiming that it was justifiable homicide.

FROM THE PRESS BOX

Umpires have bad days as well as baseball players. Perhaps Anderson had a bad day yesterday. But at that, whether he is working well or not, this same Anderson is boss of the field. He lets the players know that he is running the game, and that is more than some of the other umpires in this league can lay claim to doing.

Anderson may have got off badly yesterday, but taken on the whole, he is the best judge of play in the league today.

• • •

George Washington Dauss, with the exception of one bubble on a low one yesterday, played the bag like one to the manor born. Once in a while the footwork of the twirler was somewhat to the Francis Wilsen comedy effect—yet he held on to the ball, and really, now, that is one of the important elements of success in a guardian of the initial sack.

• • •

Young's triple was the result of a lusty swing at a curve that was high and on the outside corner of the plate. Uncle Cy is rather tall and has a long and wiry reach. He just cut loose at the bait and when the ball was retrieved in deep center the tall underhand artist was within a few feet of third. After such a sweet hit it is a shame that the pitcher could not have been scored.

• • •

Why Mr. Vance was grabbed by Detroit was not shown by his work of yesterday. He worked like a player who was losing the use of his arm. He didn't seem to have either curves or speed. Maybe, though, yesterday was one of the hoodoo days for Vancy. If he didn't show Hughey Jennings any more than he showed yesterday in our fair midst, it is a cinch that he didn't remain in big league society longer than the punch was served.

• • •

Tall and red-headed Mr. Fisher, for he is, has some snappy whip. Sometimes it requires the tall boy some time to get the ball out of the tender fold of his mitt, but once the ball is on its way to the second sack, it sure do travel. Mr. Fisher stands like a tall building, and when his long and sinewy arm is raised in classic pose, he seems able to drop the ball on a precipitous heave into the mitt of the second baseman. The dazzling haired receiver should have his picture "took" standing next to the Alworth building and send a few back to the folks.

Grogan of the Doctors is well known to some of the fans in these parts. He used to be with the old Fargo team of the Northern league days. Grogan is a very nifty fielder, but is rather luke warm when it comes to batting.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 4.—Hot, humid weather is the prospect of the people's regatta this afternoon on the Schuylkill river which is held annually on "Independence day under the auspices of the city of Philadelphia, the council appropriating $5,000 in prizes and expenses.

RICH PICKINGS FOR THIEVES

Deserted Houses Offer Many Opportunities to Porch Climbers.

Just to be on the safe side, don't leave your pocketbook on the piano at home when you go a-picnicking today.

If you do leave it there, you may not be able to spend what's in it. Some porch-climbing second story worker may use it to mitigate the cost of high living.

The possibilities of the day in the way of rich pickings for an able and industrious patriot whose experience fits him for the task of rifling the homes of other and absent patriots are great. It is to be hoped that they will not be too alluring.

So many Duluthians are away from home today that there is danger in the situation. Thieves break in and steal at any time. A holiday such as the Fourth of July appeals to them most eloquently, but not virtuously. Expediency controls where thievish activities are concerned. Therefore, naturally, it is expedient to have someone about the house today, to keep watch and ward over the chattels thereof.

astounded those who conducted the case, and his argument of the cause of the bishop before the supreme court of Illinois is referred to still as a forensic effort seldom, if ever surpassed in that court.

He was a delegate to the national conventions of the Democratic party in 1864, 1872, 1876 and 1888.

Gave Up $30,000 Income.

The Maine boy who had "gone West" accomplished much, however, notwithstanding his quiet life. He had laid the foundation for a deep understanding of the commercial laws of the country and along this line he had performed services for clients that were estimated to have netted him an annual income of $30,000. These accomplishments led the Republican senators from Illinois to urge upon the Democratic president the appointment of Mr. Fuller as the successor of Chief Justice Waite.

The nomination of Mr. Fuller, then 55 years of age, was followed by a memorable contest in the senate. The judiciary committee, with its Republican majority, to which the nomination was sent April 30, held up the appointment until July 20. Then the committee reported it to the senate without recommendation." For three hours that body debated in executive session whether to confirm or reject the nomination.

Attacked by Evarts.

The attack on Mr. Fuller was led by Senators Edmunds, Evarts and Stewart. Senators Cullom and Farwell defended him. The reports that he had been a "copperhead" during the Civil war and that he did not possess the requisite ability as a lawyer were gone over.

Finally by a vote of 41 to 20, his nomination was confirmed.

Since that day the entire court, as it then existed, has passed away with the single exception of Justice Harlan. Of those prominent in the fight over his confirmation, only Senator Cullom remains, and President Cleveland, who thus honored the Illinois lawyer, has likewise gone to his grave.

Throughout his service, Justice Fuller was noted for the dignity with which he filled the position. He possessed that humor, whether on the bench or off of it. Although small of stature not more than 5 feet 7 inches, his wealth of silvery hair and classic features made him a commanding figure wherever he appeared.

Resembled by Mark Twain.

Probably Mark Twain resembled the chief justice in physical appearance more than any other man of prominence in recent years. Frequently the humorist was mistaken for the jurist. One day a young lady accosted Mark Twain on the street and with an apology that she had never seen the chief justice before, asked for his autograph. The author wrote:

"It is delicious to be Fuller.

"But as heavenly to be Fuller.

"I am cordially yours,

"MELVILLE W. FULLER."

The late chief justice, as far as known, never expressed his opinion of what he thought of Twain for playing this little joke on him.

Justice Fuller reflected to a great extent his research into literature by the style of his opinions and addresses. In the earlier days after going on the bench he wrote some poetry, and now and then lapsed into poetical touches in his opinions from the bench.

Combined Poetry and Law.

One of the best illustrations of this was the opinion he handed down in the case of Hammond vs. Hopkins.

He concluded his opinion by saying:

"In all cases where actual fraud is not made out, but the imputation rests upon conjecture, where the seal of death has closed the lips of those whose character is involved and lapse of time has impaired the recollection of transactions and obscured their details, the welfare of society demands the rigid enforcement of the rule of diligence. The hour glass must supply the ravages of the scythe and those who have slept upon their rights must be remitted to the repose from which they should not have been aroused."

His death today recalls his own words on such events expressed at the centennary of the court twenty years ago.

Leaves Indelible Impress.

"Judges will be appointed," said he, "and will pass. One generation rapidly succeeds another. But whoever comes and whoever goes, the court remains, keeping alive, through many centuries we shall not see, the light that burns with a constant radiance upon the high alter of American constitutional justice."

Chief Justice Fuller leaves an indelible stamp on the laws of the country. Among his most famous opinions are the following:

The income tax decisions, in which the income tax law was held to be constitutional.

The Danbury hat case, in which labor unions were held to be amenable to the Sherman anti-trust law.

The Western Union Telegraph company vs. the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in which the state was denied the right to tax telegraph messages, except when intra-state.

The Bank of Washington vs. Hume, in which the insurable interest of the wife and children in the life of the husband and father was recognized as distinguished from the claim of creditors.

Inman vs. South Carolina Railway company, in which the railroad was denied the power to exempt itself from liability for its negligence in the shipment of goods.

Moore vs. Haddin, in which married women were made to bear liabilities, such as those growing out of the fraudulent sale of land, as well as the legal rights.

Leisy vs. Haddin, in which the state was denied rights over original packages of liquor in interstate commerce, an opinion which led to the passage of the Wilson liquor law.

His Life in Washington.

Chief Justice Fuller lived in Washington in a manner to uphold the best traditions of the high office he occupied. He spent much time in work and study, yet found time to move among his fellow men in a social way. He was not a clubman, in the accepted sense of that word, but he was occasionally seen both at the Metropolitan club and at the Chevy Chase club. He was particularly fond of outdoor life, and spent as much time as possible in the open air. His summer home near Bar Harbor, Me., he devoted much of his time to study. He delighted to entertain visitors there in a quiet unostentatious way.

Chief Justice Fuller was twice married. His first wife was Calista E. Reynolds. In 1866 he married the daughter of the late William E. Coolbaugh, a Chicago banker of distinction. Chief Justice Fuller had eight daughters, all of whom have married.

He was a rich man outside of his salary, and through his first marriage he inherited a property which rents for $20,000 a year. His second wife was also wealthy.

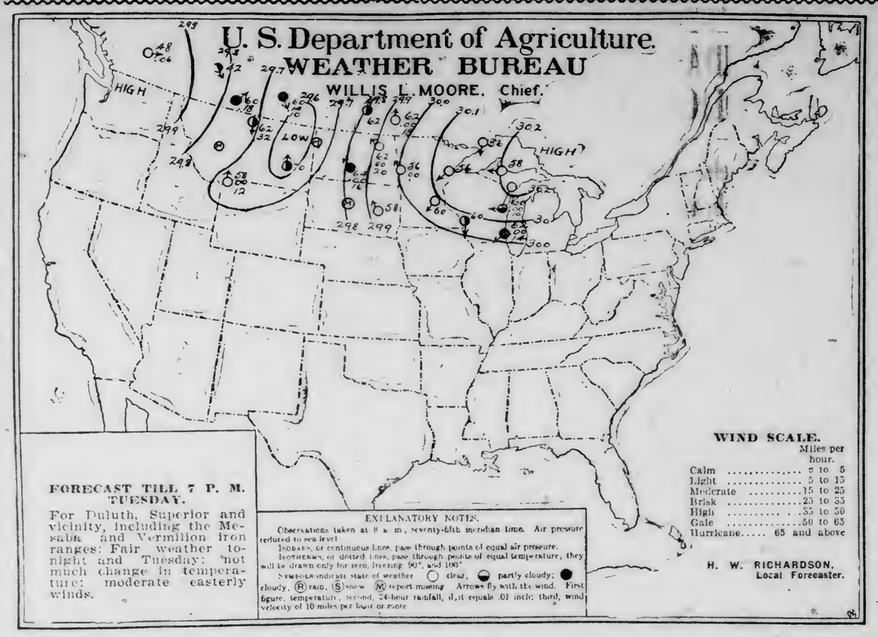

Shortest Man in the Court.

Chief Justice Fuller was the shortest man on the supreme bench. He was not over five feet seven inches high and did not weigh over 150 pounds. He had, however, a dignified bearing, and when he sat in his gown upon the bench he looked as big as the biggest.

Justice Fuller had a remarkably fine face. His forehead was high and full, his nose large and straight, his eyes blue and his complexion of a colorless white. He had a great mane of silver-white hair, which he combed well up from his classic brow, half covering his ears, and which fell upon the collar of his gown at the back.

Like most of our great men, he inherited his most prominent quality of brain through his mother. She was the daughter of a chief justice of Maine, Nathan Weston.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

Though the cool weather was welcome, the sudden change of tactics by the weather man yesterday was disconcerting. After the mercury had been shooting up to above 90 degrees almost every day for two weeks, the 62 degrees as a maximum temperature yesterday wasn't exactly comfortable, if a relief. Prayers for rain are still unheeded and Duluth stands in fear of the possibilities of the carelessly thrown firecracker and the stray rocket.

Fair, warm weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:19 and it will set at 8:06, giving fifteen hours and forty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Dry weather prevailed except that scattered light rains fell over Southern Saskatchewan. Eastern Alberta and Northern Montana in connection with a disturbance central this morning over Saskatchewa. Moderate temperatures were the rule throughout the Northwest during the last twenty-four hours."

Upper lakes: Moderate to brisk northeast and east winds except light variable on Superior; generally fair tonight and Tuesday.

Chicago, July 4.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; rising temperatures Tuesday.

Wisconsin and Iowa—Fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight; Tuesday fair.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer in west portion tonight.

BIG FIGHT GAME IS MAKING LAST STAND IN THE RENO ARENA

his trainers except Red Cornell and Farmer Burns precede him to his quarters at the arena. Cornell and Burns will remain at the camp to give him a final rub.

On the way to the arena Jeffries will take his wife to a newspaper office, where she will wait until the fate of her husband has been decided, getting the returns round by round. Mrs. Jeffries hates prize fighting. She is sure, however, that "her Jim" will win.

Corbett and Delaney.

When the fight starts it will be more than a battle between the two principals. Jeffries' chief second will be James J. Corbett, who was champion until whipped by Fitzsimmons. Johnson's chief second and sole adviser during the fight will be Billy Delaney. Delaney trained and fathered both Corbett and Jeffries when they were young fighters. He is Jeffries' enemy now, and Johnson depends upon him to tell him weak points in his opponent and to advise him just when to sail in. Fight experts say this presents one of the most dramatic touches that could be imagined. It will be a test of the best ring generalship this age has produced.

In Johnson's Corner.

Besides Delaney in Johnson's corner will be Sig Hart, Al Kaufman, Doc Furey, Prof. Burns and Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion of the world, who will act as timekeeper for Johnson.

The telegrph companies estimate 750,000 words of press matter will go out over the wires if Johnson wins. If Jeffries wins it will be much less. The estimate is 200,000 words. Added to what has been written during the last year, the history of the two men who will face each other this afternoon would fill as many columns as that of any king or president that ever lived.

A force of 100 expert telegraph operators has been gathered here. They have been brought from as far east as Chicago. A carload of modern equipment was sent on from the East and set up. Tourist sleepers were parked for the accommodation of these men. Extra precautions have been taken along the line to safeguard the wires and the company has increased its roster in all principal offices and repeater stations from coast to coast.

Big Day on the Wires.

One wire official said that outside of the San Francisco disaster of 1906, no greater volume of matter has been handled for a single event in the history of telegraphy.

On the eve of the biggest thing in his life Jack Johnson sat with a party of friends yesterday afternon and talked jokingly of his career.

"Tonight," he said, "I am thinking of the hard road that I've traveled since I left home when I was 12 years old. I ran away as a kid, stowed away on a cotton steamer and landed in New York.

"I didn't have a nickel. As the ship docked I went on deck and, standing in the center of a crowd of passengers, with my longest face and my saddest eyes, I announced that a worthless colored boy, without friends, family or money, was about to jump overboard.

Johnson in Monologue.

"I walked to the rail and told everybody to keep away from me. My old cap I had allowed to fall on the deck. As I turned around about to try my bluff at the fatal plunge a woman threw a dollar in my cap. A shower of money followed and my first meal in the big city was chicken.

"Since that time, for twenty years, I have traveled over most of the world and have had my ups and downs. But my ambition has been realized. I have taken my old mother out of that Galveston shanty where I was raised from a baby and I've put her in the best house I could find in Chicago. She's got everything she wants and I'm happy."

The women of Jeffries' household have been finding four-leaf clovers and the men have been bringing in old horseshoes, but to the fighter's mind the best indication of good luck that has come to him was in the shape of a yellow dog.

Jeff Has a Yellow Dog.

While the members of the family were at the dining table last night waiting for Jeffries and Frank Gotch to come in, a vagabond dog wandered in and crawled under Jeffries' vacant chair. Attempts to drive the visitor out were useless.

Jeffries returned at dark. A large steak had been prepared for him. As he entered the room he saw the dog. He laughed and said:

"Well, here's a yellow dog with good luck to me. We'll just make him the mascot. He's welcome to stay."

And cutting the steak in two, Jeffries tossed half of it to his new friend.

Pool Room Jammed.

Up to 10 o'clock the betting has stood steady at 10 to 6 with Jeffries the favorite. San Francisco special trains brought thousands from the coast cities and the majority of these came prepared to bet on Jeffries. The big pool room was jammed until late last night and filled again at sunrise. Jeffries money was at all times on hand and the call was for those who fancied Johnson to "walk up and back the big black man."

"Who wants Johnson at even money on twenty rounds?"

"Even money that Jeffries will win in twenty rounds?"

There were many tickets written at these figures but the sums were usually small. The big bettors apparently have placed their money at better odds.

Johnson Money Gives Out.

Late last night there was a big commission sent from Tim McGrath, who was handling several thousand dollars it is said, for a pool of San Francisco men. Most of the sums was placed at 10 to 6½, but the Johnson money was soon exhausted and the figures dropped to 10 to 6. There it has remained since and the indications are that there will be little if any change before the men get into the ring.

Reno Is Jammed.

By 7 o'clock this morning the breakfast problem assumed a phase that boded ill for luncheon and dinner. Throughout the night and the forenoon the special and regular trains had added their cargoes to the thousands already on the ground, and most of them had gone foodless for hours. As each found the place full of people, two men were in a ring around which gathered thousands. One was a white man and the other black. I knew they were Jeffries and Johnson. They began fighting and fought for a long time."

"How many rounds?"

He answered:

"Thirty-five to forty. Then I saw the white man stretched out on his back while the crowd shouted 'Johnson wins.' I feel it is my duty to tell you of this vision."

SUPERIOR CLIMBS POLE; KILLED BY WIRE

While in search of the family cow, which had wandered away Saturday evening, Frank Fitzgerald, 23 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald of 112 Oakes avenue, climbed a pole near the railroad yards in the vicinity of winter street, became entangled among the electric wires and was so severely burned that he died yesterday morning at St. Mary's hospital.

Fitzgerald was in the employ of the Great Northern road as a switchman. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the Sacred Heart cathedral with burial at Calvary cemetery. He is survived by his parents, three brothers and three sisters.

Paper for Johnson.

Washington, July 4. — Prayer that Johnson might be the victor in today's battle was offered in some of the colored churches here last night. Rev. W. A. Gibbons at the Mount Carmel Baptist church asked that "in case Johnson was the victor the public would accept the verdict and do justice to him regardless of color or previous conditons, and that he might be returned to his aged mother and spared to do much for the cause and uplift of our race."

In several of the white churches yesterday sermons were preached which intimated that Christianity revolts at the possibility of such a contest.

Excited in the South.

Atlanta, Ga., July 4.—Negroes in the South everywhere are praying for Jack Johnson and for a black victory at Reno today. The excitement among the blacks is intense. For the first time Independence day is being enjoyed as a real holiday by the negroes. For months they have talked about the big fight. Of late it has been the one important topic of conversation. Almost to a man the negroes believe Jack Johnson will win and many of them have put their small savings on the black man.

"Vision" Shows Johnson Winner.

New York, July 4.—A man who said he was Rev. Augustus Abber Sign Solomon, a Hindu of Seattle, Wash., called up the newspaper by telephone from Paterson and said he was the man who predicted McKinley's death, the Paterson flood, and all the disasters of recent years. He said:

"These things all appear to me in visions. Now I had a vision this morning. I was asleep in my room here when I seemed to awake and found the place full of people. Two men were in a ring around which gathered thousands. One was a white man and the other black. I knew they were Jeffries and Johnson. They began fighting and fought for a long time."

"How many rounds?"

He answered:

"Thirty-five to forty. Then I saw the white man stretched out on his back while the crowd shouted 'Johnson wins.' I feel it is my duty to tell you of this vision."

The Rhinelander Grand
Will keep your food cool and sweet with less ice than any other refrigerator on the market. We guarantee it to do all we claim, and we'll prove it to you.

PIERCE PLAYERS OPEN SEASON

Duluth Producers Branching Out--New Idea in Stock Companies.

AMUSEMENTS FOR THE HOLIDAY.

Lyceum—Gus A. Forbes Stock company in "Old Heidelberg," matinee and evening performance.
Bijou—High class vaudeville.
Lyric and Orpheum—Moving pictures and illustrated songs.

The Pierce players, a stock company organized by the producing company composed of H. E. Pierce, manager of the Lyceum, and I. L. Morrissey, made their first appearance last night at the Grand in Superior. Their presentation of "Strongheart," the college play in which Robert Edeson scored a brilliant success, was enthusiastically received by the audience.

The title role was taken by Will Jossey. Miss Blanche Douglass appeared as Dorothy Nelson, Wayne Ross was Tommy Taylor and Lester Howard played the difficult role of Billy Saunders. Miss Jane Hampton was Molly Livingston, Irwin Hardy the college grind and Joe Kemper, the freshman substitute.

The Pierce players will play the Copper & Iron circuit during the coming season in repertoire. Three plays will be used in each trip of the circuit, which will take about six weeks. The first three plays will be "Strongheart," "The Squaw Man," and "The White Horse Tavern," all of which are well known as the vehicles of stars. The company is probably the most pretentious theatrical organization ever formed in Duluth. Special scenery will be carried and if the favor with which the company met in Superior last night is any criterion, it should have a most successful season.

The production is a revelation of what can be done in Duluth, as all the scenery was designed and painted in the Lyceum studio.

FIGHT RETURNS AT THE MATINEE.

Fight enthusiasm is spreading rapidly and the management of the Lyceum has made special arrangements for the returns from the Jeffries-Johnson bout to be announced this afternoon to the theater patrons between the acts of "Old Heidelberg," which will be presented.

The most interesting bill of the season by the Gus A. Forbes company at the Lyceum will be given this afternoon and this evening when "Old Heidelberg" will be played for the first time in Duluth. The most elaborate production of the season is promised and there is particular interest as members of the Normanna Singing society will appear with the company, singing the German songs incidental to the play, which deals with student life at the old university town. Mr. Forbes will be seen as Prince Karl, the role made famous by the late and great Richard Mansfield. Miss Justina Wayne will appear as Katie, the humble sweetheart of the prince, and the other members of the company, several of whom have won particular success in roles in "Old Heidelberg," are especially well cast this week.

The play is a charming one and the advance sale for both this afternoon's and this evening's performance has been large.

parks, clubs and amusement places. A large population was thus scattered and the noise of its energies was dissipated, so far as Duluth was concerned. The mayor placed a ban on aerial fireworks and the request to the public that it should not explode this class of combustibles met with a hearty response. There were many people especially those who celebrated in the residential districts, who did not explode fireworks except only the smallest crackers, because of the exceeding dryness of grass, shrubbery and roofs. The fear of possible fires was a potent check to the safety-valve of many peoples' emotions.

Sporting events attracted large crowds. The morning baseball game between Duluth and Rochester was well attended and indications pointed to an exceptionally large crowd at the afternoon game. Nearly 100 crafts of varied description and sizes participated in the annual cruise of launches, motor boats and sailboats from the main house of the Boat club to the Spirit Lake branch, where water sports were held, including a baseball game on the St. Louis river. Many enthusiasts played golf and tennis at the Northland Country club in the morning and in the afternoon. There were social festivities at both the Boat club and at the Country club.

Judging from the celebration in Duluth there appears to be a reaction of public sentiment in respect to the observance of the country's natal day. There seems to be an inclination to imbue the young idea with the "Spirit of '76," and less of a desire to fill the hospitals and morgues with injured and dead victims sacrificed to a sanguinary hysteria generally void even of the primary instincts of patriotism.

AT WEST DULUTH.

Industrial Parade and Patriotic Addresses Attract Large Crowd.

Starting with a big parade on Central avenue at 10 o'clock this morning, the principal celebration of Independence day is on at West Duluth, thousands of people attending from all parts of the city.

Long before the hour of the parade, people lined up on both sides of West Duluth's principal thoroughfare in readiness for the event, and when the march ended they trooped over to Fifty-sixth avenue west and Bristol street, where Congressman Clarence B. Miller delivered an open air patriotic address.

The parade elicited much praise from the people who witnessed it. The line of march was from Raleigh street along Central avenue to Grand, west on Grand to Fifty-seventh, along Fifty-seventh to Bristol, ending at Fifty-sixth and Bristol. A platoon of police led by Lieut. Charles Wilcox of the West Duluth police department headed the parade. C. C. Salter, marshal of the day, followed, in charge of the first division.

The first section included a large representation from the three local militia companies, the Third regiment band, five automobiles, the first one carrying Hon. C. B. Miller, orator of the day. General Chairman L. A. Barnes, Judge Alfred Jaques and Hon. G. J. Mallory, master of ceremonies.

The second division in charge of M. J. Filiatrault, aide-de-camp to the marshal, was headed by the new Duluth City band, a West Duluth organization, and included the civic societies of West Duluth, the school children each carrying a flag, and the veteran organizations.

The third division was headed by Edward Shanks. This part of the parade was interesting. There were at least fifty calithumpians and floats. The floats represented the business interests of the city. The prizes to be awarded to those taking part in the parade will be announced later.

At the speaker's stand at 11 o'clock, L. A. Barnes, chairman of the celebration, after a few brief remarks, introduced Hon. G. J. Mallory, master of ceremonies, who in turn called upon Judge Alfred Jaques to read the Declaration of Independence, after which Hon. C. B. Miller delivered the oration of the day.

Mr. Miller pointed out in his address that the present day duty of Americans consisted in preserving liberty, the heritage of their forefathers, and in improving their opportunities. The real meaning of liberty as interpreted in the Constitution and Declaration of Independence, he stated, should be construed to mean the utmost freedom along the lines of individual effort, and not with caste or property as a standard.

He spoke of the present-day problems of government and touched on the prosperity of Duluth, predicting a great future for the Zenith City. He said that much progress had been made along the lines of liberty since the Declaration of Independence.

The afternoon will be given over to games and sports, for which prizes will be given. There will be dancing at several of the West Duluth halls all afternoon and evening.

FIRST MEETING IN MANY YEARS

Members of Algonquin Club Gather on the Steps of Postoffice.

The out-of-town members of the Algonquin club are being entertained today by the resident members.

As a result of an agreement drawn up and signed fifteen years ago five of the seven members met this noon as per agreement on the steps of the postoffice building.

Since he days of the club's activity the members have drifted to all parts of the country. One member who is ill in California is unable to be present, as is another member who was unable to be present on account of business reasons.

It was a glad meeting that took place today.

A. C. Pearson, Daniel Mahoney and Charles Jostin are the Duluth members who are showing the "old boys" a good time. The plans include an auto trip and other sight-seeing excursions about the city so that the out-of-town men may observe the change that has taken place during the past few years.

OBITUARY

Henry Harrison Smith, president of the Diamond Iron works of Minneapolis and a pioneer lumberman and manufacturer, is dead at his home, 1838 Bryant avenue north. He had been ill for three months. Mr. Smith was a prominent figure in the development of the lumber business. He was born in St. Stephens, N. B., May 27, 1838, and moved to Minnesota when he was 27 years old. He was employed by a lumber company on the St. Croix river and later engaged in the lumber business for himself with headquarters at Stillwater. He was familiar with the northern part of the state and saw much of the active life in its camps.

He moved to Minneapolis nearly thirty years ago and built the Diamond sawmill. This was burned five years ago. He established the Diamond Iron works twenty-six years ago and remained at the head of the company until his death. Later he established the Diamond Boiler works, of which he was president.

Mr. Smith is survived by his widow, Julia C. Smith, and two daughters, Mrs. Emma M. Wilkinson and Mrs. G. A. Bingenheimer.

George Washington Stokes, 92 years old, once the valet of Gen. U. S. Grant, died in Baltimore, Md., July 2. He attended the famous general faithfully, and at the end of the war Gen. Grant wanted to take him home. Stokes declined, and went to Baltimore.

"NOW IS THE TIME FOR EVERY GOOD MAN" TO SWAT THAT FLY.

Patriotic Duluth, on this day of patriotism, is confronted by a national peril. The fly "has come." He's here in myriads, and so's she. The fly and his pack of germs is a great evil and should be eliminated, so everyone says, but the hot weather has brought him here in force and, patriots all, the germ foes declare that without patriotic and united effort he cannot be eliminated. Infant mortality during the heated term is ascribed in large part to the germ carrying propensities of the fly. With the fly has come that stinging nuisance, the mosquito. For verification of this statement, inquire of any fisherman.

BOY IS KILLED AT CHIVARARI

Body Is Found During Temporary Lapse of Noise Making.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 4.—While there was a truce pending negotiations between the leaders of a chivarari party and Peter Stephenson, the newly wed, at Jasonville last night for treating money some one found on the ground the dead body of Chauncey Bealing, aged 14. He had been shot through the head.

This morning Jennings Wise aged 14, admitted he did the shooting. He said it was accidental and done when the party was making as much noise as possible.

The dead boy's mother is in Terre Haute hospital in a critical condition from an operation and cannot be told of the death of her son.

YONKERS RACE MEETING OPENS

Brighton Handicap Will Be the Feature of the Week.

New York, July 4.—This week's big race on the program of the Empire City Racing association, which will open a twenty-six-day meeting at Yonkers today, will be the $6,000 Brighton handicap, one mile and a quarter, on Saturday. Indications point to a sensational race. S. C. Hildreth has eight eligibles—Fitz-Herbert, King James, Restigouche, Firestone, Joe Madden, Fayette, Dalmatian and Hampton Court.

As King James has been sent to Saratoga, it is thought that Hildreth will depend on Fitz-Herbert or Dalmatian to win this big event. Fitz-Herbert must carry 133 pounds, which includes a four-pound penalty for winning the Brooklyn handicap, in which event he carried 130 and ran the mile and a quarter in 2:05¾. Dlamatian gets in with 105 pounds, which is considered to give him an excellent chance.

Hilarious to Enter.

The Keene eligibles are Sweep, Maskette and Hilarious, but Sweep will hardly start because he must take up an eight pound penalty, which would make his impost 125. Hilarious and Maskette, however, are in well with 122 and 123 pounds respectively and at least one of them is expected to face the barrier.

Prince Imperial, the 3-year-old Orlando-Dixoletta colt, now owned by Daniel L. Coffey, is a sure starter with 97 pounds, while R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s Glambala, winner of the Suburban and Commonwealth handicaps, will carry 123, including eight pounds penalty.

The Distaff stakes, for 2-year-old fillies, five furlongs, will also be decided on Saturday with Keene's Sweep Away and Jest, the Newcastle stable's Bashti and others in the list.

TEDDY KEEPING HIS OWN COUNSEL

Talks With Griscom About Situation In New York State.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 4.—Col. Roosevelt's preliminary survey of the field of battle has been completed. Like a good general, he has nothing to say of what his plans will be. There is any amount of speculation, some of it so concrete as to take form in confident assertion, but if the colonel himself is to be believed when he speaks of his own campaign, the enemy will hear from him when the first gun is fired, and not before.

Lloyd C. Griscom, president of the New York Republican county committee, did not stay over night on Sagamore Hill, as he had expected, but hurried to town under cover of darkness, taking Dr. Albert Shaw with him. Before he left he was able to give Col. Roosevelt a first hand account of just how the colonel was beaten last week at Albany.

The results of the conference, which are expected to have an important bearing upon the fall campaign in New York state, have not been disclosed. It is known, however, that the real object of the conference was to diagnose the ills of the Republicanism in the state.

Col. Roosevelt went to church Sunday morning with Mrs. Roosevelt. The rest of the day Col. Roosevelt spent amid the pastoral scenes of Sagamore Hill.

Strong Endorsement of the Neal Cure

Atlantic's Mayor

Hon. S. W. W. Straight, Atlantic, Iowa

To Whom It May Concern:

Soon after it was publicly announced in this city that Hon. J. E. Bruce had associated himself with the Neal Institutes Company of the United States, he advertised that for the purpose of giving the people of this city and county, where he has lived something over 28 years, a practical demonstration of the Neal treatment and cure that we would bring Dr. Neal to the Atlantic hospital for the purpose of treating any persons afflicted with the drink habit who might make application. He publicly stated that he would be glad to receive some of the worst cases that might be picked up in the county. I had a man that I had sentenced to jail a number of times from drunkenness, he was one of the worst drunkards I ever knew and probably the worst in the city. He had neglected his family, was a wreck physically and mentally and seemed to be beyond any earthly help. He was treated for three days under my observation at the Atlantic Hospital by Dr. B. E. Neal and at the end of that time he was discharged and to every appearance perfectly cured.

The resuls of the tretment in his case is truly marvelous. This treatment took place in the early part of January and I have seen this man frequently since and have made frequent inquiries about him, he is wonderfully changed and improved mentally and physically. Immediately after his treatment he took up honorable employment and is today working and supporting his family. I personally know of three other very similar cases that were treated at the same time, and so far as I can learn the results are substantially the same. Senator Bruce is one of our most prominent and leading citizens, has resided in this county for 28 years—is a man of remarkable business ability. He stands above reproach, and has shown good judgment in associating himself with said company. I have no hesitation in giving this treatment and Senator Bruce as well, my unqualified recommendation to all my brother officers and those who may be interested.

S. W. W. STRAIGHT,
Mayor.

HEAVEN AND HELL IN THIS COUNTRY

Egyptologist Says Teddy Roosevelt of Old Days Lived in America.

Boston, Mass., July 4.—A Boston Egyptologist, Aurin F. Hill, has, according to his own views, settled the mooted question as to where heaven and hell are located. If it is of any particular interest to residents of this country they may be glad to know that both are located on this continent.

Mr. Hill says that hell begins with the Pacific coast, and that the Garden of Eden of Genesis was somewhere in Mexico or Central America. He adds that the Egyptian heaven is located in the vicinity of Boston. He has reached this conclusion after a study of the translation of the hieroglyphics in the British museum which were taken from the tombs of great men in ancient Egypt.

He firmly believes that, in reality, this is the old world and not the new, and as proof cites the ancient pottery and relics of bygone centuries which have been unearthed in Mexico and South America.

The ancient Egyptians, that is the greatest among them, were in the habit of voyaging to America to see the God of the world, the Teddy Roosevelt of those times.

"NONE ARE SO BLIND"

As They Who Refuse to See. If You Suffer, Go Personally to the Electro-Radio Institute at Your Very Doors. Read the Thousands of Testimonials of Cures Effected. Get the Free Examination and Diagnosis. All Without One Cent of Financial Outlay.

Napoleon Bonaparte refused to believe in the claims of Robert Fulton as to the possibilities of steam navigation. As a result, the ambition of his life, the invasion of England was unfulfilled.

What is the ambition of your life? If you yourself are in perfect health; if you, yourself, know of no friend or dear one who suffers, then this advertisement is not for you. But if you yourself, are a sufferer, you full well realize that the one ambition of your life is health. If you, yourself, are near one who suffers, you realize that it is the ambition of that sufferer's life to regain health! Are you, then, going to cause "history to repeat," and, like Napoleon, fall in life's ambition because of little faith?

The Electro-Radio Institute possesses one advantage over all other great innovations in the story of a world's progress in that not one cent is required for a full convincement of its claims.

It advertises because it has something absolutely new and unique for the cure of disease, the radio current. Why should it not advertise? This is the day of advertising. Our banks advertise. Many of the latter support uniform ball teams playing Sunday ball with the name of their particular church blazoned across their shirt fronts. This is not solely because they believe in healthy sport for healthy youngsters, but because it advertises. Is the Institute to be blamed because, possessed of a miracle-working commodity, it tells of this commodity through the press? Assuredly not.

The new electro current, radio, is the wonder of the twentieth century. For the treatment of catarrh, deafness, paralysis, stomach, liver and kidney disorders skin diseases, nervous ailments peculiar to women, etc., it is not even approached by any other form of electric treatment. At no other place in the middle west can this new treatment be obtained. Your disease is not guessed at. It is seen with the naked eyes of not only the specialists but of any friends or relatives who happen to be present. This mechanical diagnosis is obtained by means of the Diagraphoscope, which shows every minute bone in the sufferer's body, the heart in action, the rise and fall of the diaphragm, etc. Your trouble once absolutely ascertained, a flood of the new current is poured into your body by means of glass tubes, especially constructed for the many different parts of the human anatomy. The treatment is painless, and is taken with-out disrobing. This deluge of life-giving electricity removes all harmful germs and diseased conditions and rebuilds with healthy tissues and blood cells.

As in the cases of Mrs. A. Pruessner of 2016 Texas avenue and Mrs. T. J. Hobbs of 3501 Friend street, both of these parties had suffered for years and were instantaneously relieved of their suffering. Mr. W. B. Watson of the First National bank building and countless others who would not begrudge many times the cost they have been to in this wonderful method.

This is an age of wonders and we have the greatest wonder of the age. Write us or come at once. Hours, 9 to 12, 2 to 4, 7 to 8. Sundays, 11 to 13.

Old-Time Celebration of Fourth Is Being Observed Generally.

Hibbing, Virginia and Eveleth Celebrating Day in Fine Style.

Hibbing, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fourth is being celebrated here today in a notable style. Beginning with a parade in the morning and followed by patriotic exercises at the city hall and then by a ball game between the local team and Perry Worden's All Stars of Minneapolis, after which there were numerous sports, there has been something doing all the time. About $1,500 will be spent in the celebration. The weather is clear and cool, making the day ideal.

The display of fireworks tonight will be the most brilliant seen in this section. It will consist of fifty numbers and cost $300. There will be many patriotic numbers.

Judge Hughes at Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The celebration here today is of the old fashioned sort along sane lines. The parade beginning at 9:30 a. m. made up of city officials, the fire department, public, secret societies, school children and many others was a notable one.

At the official grand stand the Declaration of Independence was read by Edward Berg, prayer offered by Rev. Henry E. Neff and an address made by Judge Martin Hughes, of the district court. The Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg Railway company ran a special train into the city and brought a big crowd. This evening there will be an elaborate display of fireworks which will be sent up from a float in Virginia lake.

Eveleth Is Celebrating.

Eveleth, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The celebration here today is a hummer. The parade participated in by the Duluth fife and drum corps, two bands, the militia and many others, starting at 9:20 a. m., was one long to be remembered. After the parade came the patriotic exercises during which John Dwan of Two Harbors delivered an eloquent address. The prizes for the parade winners will be announced later in the day. The sporting events will be taken up at 1:30 p. m. A large crowd has gone out to view them. The baseball game between the Curtises and the Knights of Pythias is attracting much attention. A firecracker scared a horse last evening, sending the animal scurrying down the street, bumping into and upsetting John Mascussi's pop corn machine upon the latter, severely bruising him. The machine was wrecked.

Coleraine Whooping It Up.

Coleraine, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The greatest celebration of the Fourth ever seen on the Western Mesaba is going on here today. The village is full of visitors and everything is moving along nicely. The parade was of course the chief feature of the morning. This followed a ball game between the steam shovel men and the locomotive engineers. The patriotic exercises began at 10:30 a. m.

The machinists and blacksmiths engaged in a stake-driving contest at the ball park at 11 o'clock for money prizes and at 1 o'clock there will be various kinds of races pulled off.

Taconite and Coleraine will play ball at 3:30 o'clock for the gate receipts and a $50 purse and supper after the game. At 6:30 there will be hub and hub and novelty hose races for the firemen, a tug-of-war, canoe and rowing races and swimming race, and all will be topped off with fireworks at Trout lake, dancing at the high school, and an athletic entertainment at the ball park in the evening.

Elba Is Celebrating.

Eveleth, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A celebration is going on at the Elba location today. Considerable money has been collected, which will be given as prizes for the winners in the races as well as in the parade that will be held in the morning. The game between Elba and Biwabik was played in the morning at Elba in connection with the celebration.

CAUGHT KILLING DEER.

Summer Purvis, Homesteader Is Fined $50 at Tower.

Tower, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sumner Purvis, a homesteader living near Eagles Nest lake, was arraigned in municipal court charged with killing a deer out of season, and was fined $50 or sixty days in jail. Friends paid the fine.

Purvis was caught by Deputy Game Warden James Beatty. Mr. Beatty was camped near the lake and hearing a rifle shot during the early morning he hurried to the spot and came upon Purvis skinning out a fine fat buck. Purvis was unacquainted with the game warden and evidently took him to be a cruiser as he volunteered the information that he intended to bring ten venison to friends of his in town. This exactly suited Mr. Beatty, who stated that he was coming to town and would gladly assist in getting out the game. The offer was accepted and the two of them came down on the afternoon train. When they reached here Purvis was arrested.

CRAZY MAN IS FOUND CLIMBING SOME TREES.

Virginia, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Rizin was arrested by Deputy Sheriff W. H. Oppel on the charge of being insane. He was found near Lake Junction climbing trees. He seemed to imagine that he was another Jumbo elephant whose mission in life was to stop trains by bunting his head against the engine. Fortunately he did not succeed in getting any experience in that line. Rizin was taken to Duluth.

TWO HARBORS NINE WINS.

Defeats Virginia Sunday in First of Three Games.

Virginia, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Two Harbors baseball team defeated the Virginia nine in a fast and entertaining game here yesterday by a score of 3 to 1. John Phyle of Minneapolis pitched for Virginia and Fred Anthony wore the bird cage for the home team. Aside from Phyle and his brother, John, the Virginia team is made up of all home players. Another game was played this afternoon and the third of the series will be pulled off tomorrow. Two Harbors has a strong team and the Virginia bunch did well to hold them down to three runs. Phyle pitched a splendid game and the local fans are enthusiastic over his work of the first game of the season.

MAIL SERVICE ON RANGE IS BETTER

Mail Is Pouched on Cut-Off From Nashwauk to Grand Rapids.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Beginning today the postal service has considerably bettered the mail service on the range by pouching the mail from here to Grand Rapids over the new Great Northern cut-off.

Heretofore there has been mail service on this line only to Nashwauk, but beginning Monday all towns on the line from Virginia to Nashwauk will pouch mail to Grand Rapids, connecting there with the West, and mail will also be pouched from Grand Rapids to Nashwauk and towns east of Nashwauk.

This change of service will give the range much better mail facilities with the West, and will also greatly improve the mail facilities between Virginia, Buhl, Chisholm, Hibbing, Keewatin and Nashwauk.

No mail can be sent on this line as yet, however, to Calumet, Marble, Holman, Taconite, Bovey or Coleraine. All mail for these points must still go over the Missabe by the way of Alborn.

The new service will be a material benefit to Hibbing and to Chisholm. Mail received at the Hibbing postoffice before ten minutes of 6 will go to Grand Rapids that night and will be in St. Paul at 1:35 the next day, a gain of about eight hours.

A mail car is currently needed in this line, so as to give local connections for the different range towns, and the service will undoubtedly be inaugurated before very long.

MARINE NEWS

BUSINESS IS AT A STANDSTILL

Bunching of Boats Will Undoubtedly Be Result of Holiday.

Following the general holiday observed as far as possible by the boats on the lakes today, it is expected that there will be a bunching of vessels toward the middle of the week.

There is little work going on today. No work is being done at the Missabe docks. There is nothing doing at the docks at Two Harbors and the Great Northern docks at Superior are idle.

The result will undoubtedly be a scramble for docks tomorrow morning. Many boats will arrive today and tomorrow morning the congestion will begin.

HARBOR IN HOLIDAY GARB.

The local harbor is in holiday attire today.

Everywhere there are flags. The government boat Vidette is in full holiday regalia with a strip of flags from bow to stern.

The large ore boats in the harbor are bedecked with bunting and flags and the tugs, ferry boats and smaller harbor craft are brilliant with Uncle Sam's colors as they ply the waters of the bay.

From all the buildings on the bay front flags are flying and the boat club presents a pretty spectacle with hundreds of flags floating in the breeze.

As far as possible the sailors are allowed at least a part of the day up town. Small boats from the larger vessels are continually landing sailors on the docks and taking back those who have had their time ashore.

GIVE UP CHEWING TOBACCO.

The traditional man-of-warsman who made it a practice to roll his quid to the other side of his cheek and spit on his hands before taking to the guns is decidedly a thing of the past, according to the reports of the navy department.

The quid of chewing tobacco is no longer an essential characteristic of the man behind the guns, says the Bluejacket. He is coming to the conclusion that he doesn't care for chewing tobacco or that it is not a nice habit or that he hasn't time to chew and be about his business too.

Last year the navy department contracted for 220,000 pounds of chewing tobacco, for the use of the men of the fleet. This year the contracts will call for about 70,000, less than one-third of that amount.

There was a time when chewing tobacco was as important a feature of the ship's commissary as the allowance of grog was to Capt. Kidd's crew and Capt. Marryat's sailors. But the modern sailor has changed his habits.

He is a daintier sort of person by far, a cleaner cut, more orderly being who has not lost altogether his social perspective. Nowadays the sailor prefers a cigarette to the quid of tobacco, but on the whole he is less inclined to both nicotine and grog than he has ever been before.

WAR ON WOLVES AND COYOTES.

Denver Republican: State Game Commissioner T. J. Holland will have a dreaded name among the coyotes and wolves before he goes out of office, for he is determined to wage a war of extinction against the "varmints."

Commissioner Holland believes that coyotes are responsible for destruction of more game in Colorado than an army of pot hunters thirty times as large as those which annually flood the deer sections. All during the summer and winter they are chasing the deer, pulling down young fawns in the late summer and capturing helpless animals in the deep snow when winter comes.

Therefore he will issue instructions to all game wardens to poison coyotes and wolves. The government has perfected a new wolf poisoning system that is said to work very effectively. And the old strychnine carcass will be worked to the limit to deplete the bands of killers which range all over the mountains and plains of Colorado.

In the early days, according to Commissioner Holland, coyotes rarely frequented the mountains. Hardly an old trapper or pioneer remembers ever having seen coyotes in the mountains. Sustenance was far easier on the plains for two reasons: The game was more easily caught and the coyotes did not have man to depend upon. When men went into the mountains the refuse they threw away from their living would keep a coyote alive for a long time.

The mountain coyotes now hang around ranch houses and towns more than anywhere else, and in the night time steal into pilfer and gorge. They always find plenty to eat either by killing game or stealing from men. Commissioner Holland thinks that he can do much toward preserving game and killing coyotes by using poison, especially as the new game law provides bounty money.

THINKS NEW YORK EXPENSIVE.

New York Sun: "I find New York a dreadfully expensive place," said an American woman who has for several years made her home in London, and who arrived from Europe about a week ago. "After living in London, stopping at a hotel here seems extravagance of a high order to a person of moderate income.

"In London I paid £1 a day, which is less than $5, for a bedroom, sitting room and bath. This, mind you, at one of the most fashionable hotels in the English capital. Here at a hotel which is big, but which has no pretensions to being fashionable, I am charged $6 a day for an ordinary room and bath.

"When I landed from the steamship my trouble began. I have five trunks. To get them and myself to my hotel cost me $9—$5 for a carriage, $3 for expressage and $1 for tips. In London the same would cost me three shillings and four pence—83 cents.

"In the first place the cab would have cost only a shilling and sixpence at the outside, and the trunks, put on top of it, would have cost only tuppence (four cents) each. For tips I should have had to give a porter sixpence and the driver of the cab sixpence, and everybody would have been satisfied.

"Last night an exceedingly modest dinner cost me $4.80. I had only raw oysters, half a chicken, a vegetable and a small bottle of wine. At my hotel in London the same meal, better served would have cost not over $2.50 at the outside. This morning two eggs and a pot of coffee for breakfast, served in my room, cost me $1.

"Then there is one thing that annoys me dreadfully. When a visitor calls and I happen to be in the restaurant the page as soon as he enters the dining room begins calling at the top of his voice, 'Mrs. Blank!' 'Mrs. Blank!'

"I heard an English woman and her husband complaining at dinner last night—they are at my hotel—that they were being charged $14 a day for their rooms. No wonder there are so few foreigners coming to New York."

According to a clerk in one of the hotels that cost many millions to build, the way a lot of English people who come over here solve the question is to stop at a high priced hotel and get along without a bathroom.

"It is very seldom," he said, "that an Englishman who comes here asks for a room with a bath. When they learn the prices they hasten to assure us that they can get along without a bathroom, and they put up here rather than go to a hotel where they could get a room with bath for much less than they can get a single room here."

DR. HYDE SENTENCED FOR LIFE---MUST STAY IN JAIL SIX MONTHS

The Convicted Poisoner Has Nothing to Say as to Sentence.

Appeals From Conviction and Is Denied Bail By the Court.

Will Be Kept in Custody Pending Action By Supreme Court.

Kansas City, Mo., July 5.—Dr. B. C. Hyde, convicted of having poisoned Col. Thomas H. Swope, the millionaire philanthropist, was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor by Judge Ralph S. Latshaw in the criminal court here this morning.

An appeal to the state supreme court was filed by Hyde's attorney and until it is taken up by the higher court the prisoner will remain in the county jail here.

The noted case was called by Judge Latshaw as soon as court was opened this morning. The doctor and his wife, who had stood by him so faithfully, sat side by side and held each other's hands. Judge Latshaw promptly overruled the motion for arrest of judgment and commanded Dr. Hyde to stand up.

Before passing sentence he asked the prisoner if he had anything to say. Dr. Hyde, smiling and very calm, replied:

"I did not understand you, judge."

Nothing To Say.

"Have you nothing to say why sentence should not be passed upon you?" replied the judge.

"My attorneys will talk for me," said Dr. Hyde simply.

At this point Attorney Lucas for the defense arose and told the court he had nothing to say. Then, as Dr. Hyde remained standing, Judge Latshaw continued:

"The judgment of the court, Dr. Hyde,

NO POSTOFFICE BANKS THIS YEAR

Board of Trustees Wants to Talk Over Plans With Taft.

Washington, July 5.—Such meetings of the board of trustees of the proposed postal savings banks as are held during the summer will occur at Beverly. This has been agreed upon by the three members, Postmaster General Hitchcock, Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh and Attorney General Wickersham.

The organization of postal banks has been informally discussed by members of the board but no plans will be made for putting them into operation until the board has had an opportunity to talk over the matter with the president. It is not believed that the first of the postal banks can be opened this year.

MORE TEXTILE MILLS CLOSED

Five Thousand Men Affected By Additional Shut Downs.

Providence, R. I., July 5.—Many textile mills in Rhode Island which have not previously announced a curtailment of production have been closed for from one week to a fortnight. The American Yarn company, the Slaton Manufacturing company, United States Finishing company and Royal Wearing company's mills in Pawtucket and Central Falls are among those shut down. They employ about 5,000 persons.

NAUGHTINESS IS DANGER SIGNAL

So Says Speaker at Child Study Meeting of Educators.

Boston, Mass., July 5.—The National Educational association convention here divided today into eighteen separate meetings, each assigned to the consideration of a specific topic. Three phases of child study were developed by the kindergarten and elementary school departments in joint session.

"We have learned that all of the so-called naughtiness of children may be merely danger signals indicating disturbances somewhere," said Maximillian P. E. Crossmann of Plainfield, N. J., discussing "Danger Signals to Young Children" in the child study section. "The time may come when there will be a science of parenthood," he said. "Teachers should consider themselves students of child nature not child tamers."

That it is time gifted children be given as much attention as the defective and inefficient was the statement of Supt. Robert J. Aley of Indianapolis.

RENO SLIDES OFF THE MAP

Celebrities Leave Town That Was World's Capital on Monday.

Sporting Men Say Johnson Could Have Won in Fewer Rounds.

Reno, Nev., July 5.—Jack Johnson, with his bass viol, his trainers and his camp equipment, is speeding toward Chicago, on his special car, Redondo, on a train that left Reno soon after midnight and will reach Chicago Thursday morning. He is under contract to fill vaudeville engagements for a time and says he will be glad to get another fight soon, but so far as can be learned no man in the world is really eager to get into the ring with him.

Jeffries, the wealthy farmer, will leave for his home in Southern California upon his special car Graymont at 7:30 o'clock tonight. As a result of the fight he is probably $100,000 richer, and the damage to his body and the humiliation of his spirit will be healed by time.

Reno Has Shrunk.

Every train, east or west, is still crowded to its fullest capacity with people eager to reach their homes. Most of the prize ring celebrities have departed, and Reno, yesterday capital of the world, has shrunk to its normal station.

The talk among the sporting authorities who still remain here deals with the amazing superiority of Johnson in yesterday's battle. It is agreed that Johnson could have put his man out much sooner, and it is said that he wished to give the moving picture men films of proper length. Stories are told of attaches of Jeffries' camp who hedged at the last moment, being dissatisfied with their man's condition and temper, and placed bets on Johnson.

The negro population of Reno is not nearly so happy today as might be ex-

Detroit, Mich., July 5.—Edward Weiss, aged 26 years, today shot and killed his sweetheart, Gertrude La Bowitz, aged 17, and then turned the gun on himself. He is dying. The dead girl's blind sister was with her at the time of the shooting and is said to have told the officers the victim met her death on refusal to marry Weiss.

Spain Excited Over Fight.

Port of Spain, July 5.—There was considerable excitement here over the Jeffries-Johnson fight. Large crowds awaited the news at the telegraph office. Upon learning of Johnson's victory the colored population became wild with excitement.

Autoists In Trouble.

Paris, July 5.—An automobile containing five Americans which was reported damaged at Chalons-Sur-Saone last night belonged to Burton William Waldo of Vicksburg, Miss. The women were not badly hurt and were able to resume their journey.

NEGRO SLAIN IN FIGHT ROW

New York Colored Man Dies in Aftermath of Reno Battle.

Marine's Throat Slashed at Washington---Riots in Many Places.

New York, July 5.—Police still were keeping active patrol today in the "black belts" of New York to check any further sporadic race trouble engendered by the outcome of the Jeffries-Johnson fight. The resentment caused by the defeat of Jeffries at the hands of a negro caused scores of street fights, negro hunts through the streets and petty outbreaks all through the night.

One negro was killed early today, his assailant escaping, while several badly bruised negroes are in hospitals recovering from injuries and fright.

The "black and tan" zone was the scene of the only race killing reported. George Crawford, a negro waiter, had an altercation with an unknown white man over the question of what Jeffries

HULDA ALSAKER KILLS HERSELF

Former Duluth Woman Drops 120 Feet at International Falls.

International Falls, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hulda Alsaker, a servant in a local hotel, who came from Duluth six weeks ago, committed suicide last night by ascending the pulpwood conveyor at the paper mill and dropping to the ground, a distance of 126 feet. Every bone in her body was broken, and some were forced through the skin.

The woman had been despondent and had acted strangely for several days. A watchman saw her climb the stairs to the top, and then hang by her hands and drop.

Neither the Duluth nor Superior directory gives the name of Hulda Alsaker.

CONDITION OF SPRING WHEAT, JULY 1.

	Gov't, June 1.	Herald, July 1.	Est. Crop. July 1.
North Dakota	93	60.5	78,637,632
Minnesota	93	82	77,144,256
South Dakota	92	74	40,451,456
			196,233,344
Total estimated wheat for three states			196,233,000
Gov't estimate June 1, for three states			258,665,000
Loss in three states			62,432,000
Final yield last year			232,450,000
Loss from yield last year			35,217,000
Condition of wheat, three states, July 1			72.5
Snow's estimate			67.2

These estimates are based on the government's increase in acreage as estimated June 1, 1910.

The Herald Estimates Loss of 20.1 Per Cent Since June 1.

Crop Will Fall 62,432,000 Below the Government Figures.

Damage Is Reported to Be Most Severe in North Dakota.

The Herald estimates a general loss in spring wheat in the three Northwestern states since June 1 of 20.1 per cent.

On June 1 the condition was 92.66, compared with 92.8 for the entire spring wheat crop. On the outlook July 1, The Herald estimates the condition of the wheat in the three states on that date at 72.5 per cent, indicating a crop of 196,233,000 bu in round numbers, compared with the government's estimate of 258,665,000 bu on June 1.

The loss has been most severe in North Dakota, the condition of wheat in that state being estimated by The Herald at 60.5 per cent, compared with the government's estimate of 93 per cent on June 1. In Minnesota the condition is estimated at 82 per cent compared with 93 per cent as estimated by the government on June 1. The South Dakota plant is estimated by The Herald at 74 per cent compared with 92 per cent as indicated by the government on June 1.

Dry weather in the last few days has made the situation in the Northwest more acute and the plant probably has deteriorated slightly since the reports upon which the foregoing estimates are based, were received.

According to The Herald's estimates the wheat yield of the three Northwestern states, which produce the bulk of spring wheat will be around normal, based on indications July 1, although every day that rain does not materialize will witness deterioration of the plant. The estimated yield July 1 of 196,233,000 bu is equal to that portion of the spring wheat yield of last year

WILD THINGS FLEE FLAMES

Part of Northern Michigan Forests Swept By the Fire-God.

Fishing Party Has Narrow Escape From Death---Traffic Hindered.

Negaunee, Mich., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forced to choose between facing men and being burned to death, the wild creatures in the woods north of here are fleeing by thousands from sheltered places to the open country. The pine and hardwood lands north of Negaunee are a mass of flames. The woods are as dry as tinder and the fire is spreading over an immense area.

In the Dead river district several hunting lodges have been destroyed, as have skidways and logging camps.

A fishing party arrived here last night from Dead river after a hard race with the flames. At times they were nearly surrounded by burning stumps, and were forced to beat out the flames with branches. Their horse was burned, but not seriously.

The burning of the bridge to Ishpeming has intercepted traffic.

Bush fires are threatening the destruction of the famous hoist of Dead river.

MICHIGAN AERONAUT IS KILLED BY FALL.

Macomb, Ill., July 5.—R. G. Herrguth of Levie, Mich., who fell from a trapeze while making a balloon ascension at a Fourth of July celebration at Bushnell yesterday, died today as a result of injuries received.

DYNAMITE IN A PAINT CAN

Causes Terrific Explosion at Brainerd, Doing Large Amount of Damage.

Many Windows Broken, Sleeping Cook Injured and Waiter Thrown From Bed.

Brainerd, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon a section of the business district was jarred by a loud explosion. Some one placed a stick of strong explosive, presumably dynamite, in an old paint can, covered it with dirt and set it off in the alley between West's restaurant and the rear of Patek's furniture store.

The explosion shook the block and was heard a half a mile away. It shattered twenty-two windows.

Walter May, cook at West's restaurant, was sleeping on a cellar door thirty feet from the explosion and was cut by falling glass from the windows above. Leonard Bailey, a waiter, was sleeping upstairs and the shock threw him out of bed. Lon Everett states he saw three men run away from the scene of the explosion.

Three Unknown Men Implicated.

Women in the vicinity say that three men were implicated in the work. A man in a brown suit fixed the fuse while his two companions who wore dark clothes, one of them carrying a coat hanger, ran in the alley to a place between Sherlund's plumbing shop and the Citizen's State bank. When the explosion occurred all three scattered. The man who caused the explosion appeared to be drunk. He ran east through the alley to Seventh street. The other two ran east on Laurel street.

A hole a foot deep was made in the ground, while near by were scraps of the yellow oil paper generally found wrapped around dynamite.

BRAINERD YOUTH SHOOTING VICTIM

Accidentally Shot By Another Youth With an "Unloaded" Pistol.

Brainerd, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Allen Buley, aged 11, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Buley, was shot by Oscar Swanson yesterday afternoon. Swanson, aged 14, is employed in the gun store of R. D. King. Buley came in and bought some fire crackers, made his payment and was about to leave the store when Swanson called his attention to a revolver in the window, a 38 Hopkins and Allen. As Swanson twirled it around the weapon was discharged, the soft lead bullet going through the wooden door of the show case, through the glass and into the right side of the Buley boy, three and one half feet from the muzzle of the gun.

The wounded boy ran across the street to his father, who is the driver at the central hose house, gasping, "I'm shot."

He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital and Doctors C. S. Reimestad and R. A. Beise probed for the bullet which was extracted after two hours. The bullet penetrated his right side, splitting a rib and striking just below his liver. The slug went in sideways. Two incisions were made by the surgeons, who found the bullet in his back, one and one half inches from the spinal column. The boy will recover, providing no other complications set in. The Swanson boy states it was an accident as he supposed the gun was not loaded.

POINDEXTER AND TEDDY TO MEET

Insurgent From Ballinger District Will Visit Oyster Bay.

Oyster Bay, July 5.—One of Col. Roosevelt's important political conferences was scheduled for today with Representative Poindexter, an "insurgent" from the state of Washington. Mr. Poindexter comes from Secretary Ballinger's district, and won his place in the house on a platform of insurgency. PRINCE WEDS IN SPITE OF MOTHER

Miss Dorothy Deacon Is Bride of Antoine Albert Radziwill.

London, July 5.—Miss Dorothy Deacon, daughter of the late Edward Parker Deacon, and Prince Antonine Albert Radziwill were married today in St. Mary's church, Cadogan square. The ceremony was a quiet one, without bridesmaids, and only a few relatives and near friends attended. Lord Grey de Ruthyd gave away the bride. Prince Radziwill married against the determined opposition of his mother, who is supposed to be in Austria to attend the wedding of a younger son. This London ceremony was postponed a few days ago because necessary documents wanted by English law had not arrived, and it was then reported in society that the objections of the prince's mother had prevailed.

GERMAN SHOT FOR CHILEAN MURDER

Found to Have Substituted Slain Man's Body for His Own.

Santiago, Chile, July 5.—Wilhelm Becket, former chancellor of the German legation, was shot here today for the murder of a Chilean messenger of the legation on Feb. 5, 1909.

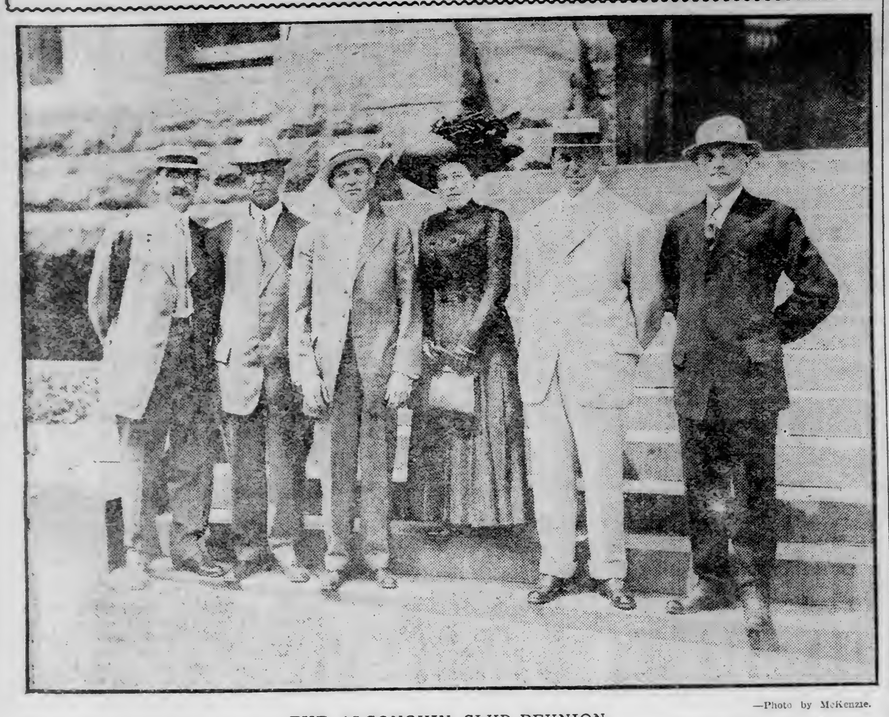

Beckert embezzled funds of the legation and attempted to cover up his crime by making it appear that he had been burned to death. He murdered the messenger and left the body in the legation building, at the same time disappearing himself. He was captured before he could leave the country. An examination of the body disclosed its identity. The erman government waived Beckert5s diplomatic privileges and left the case to the Chilean courts.

THE ALGONQUIN CLUB REUNION.
From Left to Right—A. C. Pearson, Robert Knebel of Sioux City. Iowa; Louis Goldnamer of Elizabethtown, Ky.; Mrs. James G. Vivian, Daniel Mahoney, Charles Josten.

True to their agreement made in writing fifteen years ago, five of the seven original members of the old Algonquin club met on the steps of the local postoffice at noon yesterday. Two of the members, Charles G. Goodrich and Arthur M. Barsness were unable to be present. That the ties of earlier days are not forgotten is proven by the fact that Louis Goldnamer came from Elizabethtown, Ky., and Mrs. James G. Vivian, the woman in the picture, was a great friend of "the boys" at the time they lived together at 130 West Third street fifteen years ago.

SON OF W. E. COREY VISITS DULUTH

Party of Young Men From Pittsburg Seeing the City.

A party of young men from Pittsburg and other Eastern points is "seeing Duluth" as an incident of their summer vacation trip.

The party includes Alan Corey, son of President William E. Corey of the United States Steel corporation; Clifford and Phillip Wright, Hamlin Baker, Morgan O'Brien, Paul Badger, Frederick Daly, James Garland, Meade Robinson, Egbert Mersereau and James Dahl.

It was rumored that Mrs. Corey, the young man's mother, also is in the city but members of the party denied that she is here. When the Corey youth and his friends made the lake trip last summer, Mrs. Corey was with them, and it was believed she might be here now, but not disposed to make the fact of her presence known.

Mrs. Corey is the first wife of the steel magnate. The second Mrs. Corey and the former husband of Alan Corey's mother, spend much of their time in Europe.

MEET TO ADOPT THE PLATFORM

South Dakota Republicans Are Not Expected to Indorse Tariff Bill.

Sioux Falls, S. D., July 5.—The Republican state convention met here today to adopt a platform upon which to wage the coming campaign. Everything indicated that the convention would commend the Taft administration in a general way, but would not indorse the tariff bill, to which South Dakota progressives, who were said to have control of the convention, are strongly opposed.

RULES ARE FIXED FOR LONG FLIGHT

Week's Time Allowed for the Chicago-New York Aerial Race.

Chicago, July 5.—Regulations to govern the proposed aeroplane race from Chicago to New York were made public here today by J. C. Schaffer, publisher of the Chicago Evening Post. The Post, in conjunction with the New York Times, offers a prize of $25,000 for the race. The contest is to begin at Chicago, Oct. 8, with not less than three entrants, who must have previous records of sustained flights of an hour or more.

In case of adverse weather the start may be delayed until Oct. 15. The time limit of the race is seven days, the contestants being allowed to make as many stops as their discretion will countenance. All must start on the same day, the intervals between their taking flight to be considered in determining the winner. Should all leave the ground at the same moment, the winner will be he who first lands in New York.

To win the prize of $25,000 the winner must make the flight before any flight of the same or greater distance has been made in any part of the country.

SUPERIOR DROWNS WHEN LAUNCH CAPSIZES

James T. Newgard Loses His Life at Billings Park.

James T. Newgard, 19 years old, of 2715 Twenty-third street, Superior, met death by drowning yesterday afternoon at Billings Park, when an overloaded launch collided with a log, capsized and tossed its eight occupants into the water. With the exception of Newgard all escaped by swimming ashore.

Newgard and Roy Hayes, who owned the launch, were taking out a party of friends for a pleasure trip. On board were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas and baby, and another man, woman and child. The boat was running at full speed when a log was struck, despite the efforts of Newgard, who was at the wheel, to steer around it. The launch was overturned in the twinkling of an eye. Thomas and the other man, whose name was not learned, swam ashore with their wives and children. Hayes, half owner of the craft, did likewise, but Newgard sank.

Patrolman Gustafson and a corps of volunteer searchers recovered the body by dragging the river, about two hours later.

East End Cubs Make Clean Sweep at Solon Springs.

The Crescent baseball team added another victory to its list when it defeated the Comets yesterday, 15 to 5.

The East end clubs made it three straight from the Solon Springs Sunday and yesterday. The Sunday score was 18 to 3; the second game yesterday morning was claimed by forfeit, 9 to 0, and in the afternoon the team won, 8 to 4. The team returned last evening.

The newly organized Pirates of the East end were defeated by the Boxcar Herders yesterday in a game played on the gas plant diamond.

JACK JOHNSON'S MAMMY PLEASED

She Holds Reception at Home in Chicago---Jeffries Is Downcast.

Chicago, July 5.—Although Chicago is the home of Jack Johnson, and most of its colored population boast, truthfully or otherwise, of some acquaintance with him, the celebration of the black man's victory did not result in overburdening the various branches of the municipal court today. Those whose exhilaration resulted in charges of disorderly conduct and assault and battery numbered exactly thirty-six. The police force in the "black belt" was doubled last night, but the blue-coats were disposed to let the negroes "have their fling," and made no arrests where another course was possible. The judges, too, were lenient today and let the offenders off lightly.

Mrs. Tiny Johnson, mother of the champion, received the homage of friends and strangers alike at her home, 3344 Wabash avenue. She was particularly proud of a newspaper clipping in which Johnson, after the fight, was quoted as saying, "I want to get home to my mammy."

Jeffries Going South.

Reno, Nev., July 5.—"Jeffries, of course, is bitterly disappointed," said Sam Berger today. "He feels, as he said after the fight, that the weight of public opinion drove him back into the ring and that his failure may be viewed leniently, although he knows he did his best.

"Jeffries is in good spirits, considering his disappointment. He is going back to his home life. We expect to spend a day or two in San Francisco and then go South. If we do not make connections with the railroad tonight we will go down tomorrow."

Berger was seated in the restaurant at the resort figuring over a pile of checks for the meals consumed by the camp trainers. He said that all of the loser's share of the purse and picture money had been turned over to Jeffries and his work as manager was the last settling of bills.

Jeffries went to the baths this morning as usual. He kept away from the visitors who traveled out to the springs, and did not care to make any additional statement. He has talked little of the fight since he was brought back to his cottage, a beaten, bruised, brooding figure.

As he walked around his house this morning, his stride seemed noticeably unsteady and his big head hung down on his breast. The swelling around his right eye was still evident and there were numerous slight bruises and contusions around his nose and mouth, but his face showed little discoloration, the work of the rubbers and trainers having gone far toward removing the signs of defeat.

Beaten and Disheartened.

Returning to the cottage Jeffries went out on the lawn and sat down, his big head hanging down and his eyes fixed on the ground. Him every move stamped him as a beaten and disheartened man. He took no part in the talk about himself and his companions fell in with his mood. The little group sat in silence.

Mrs. Jeffries was not to be seen. It was said about camp that she had completely recovered from the shock caused by her husband's defeat, but she still feels the strain.

Johnson was $120,600 richer when Jim Jeffries went down for the last time in yesterday's fight. He took 60 per cent of the $101,000 purse, which amounted to $60,600, a bonus of $10,000 and he sold his picture interests for $50,000.

Jeffries took a fortune out of the defeat at Johnson's hands. He received 40 per cent of the purse, amounting to $40,400; the bonus of $10,000 and he sold his picture interest for $66,666, making his total $117,000. The owners of the picture films are calculating on a million dollars profit.

Most of "the salesmanship that sells things" begins in the advertising. Sometimes it's completed there—sometimes by the store salesman or saleswoman.

BALLINGER IS GUEST OF TAFT

Secretary Denies That He Has Any Intention of Resigning.

Beverly, Mass., July 5.—Secretary of the Interior Ballinger arrived in Beverly this morning, lunched with President Taft at Burgess Point and this afternoon was engaged in a conference with the chief executive on the subject of the reorganization of the United States reclamation service. The beginning of work under the new $20,000,000 issue of the certificates of indebtedness, authorized to complete irrigation projects in the West, also was discussed.

The usual crop of resignation rumors came to Beverly with Secretary Ballinger, but he soon put a quietus on these.

"I am not a quitter and never have been," he declared. "I did not bring along any resignation and don't intend to leave any."

As soon as the reclamation work is under way under the new order of things, Secretary Ballinger will leave Washington for a visit to several of the Indian reservations. Then he will go home to Seattle for a brief stay and an opportunity to look over private affairs.

WHEAT JUMPS ON CROP NEWS

Nervous, Light Trading Characterizes the Chicago Pit.

Chicago, July 5.—On nervous light trading, wheat this afternoon showed an advance of 2¼ to 4¾ cents, the latter in the December option. Worse and worse drouth conditions in the spring crop zone were responsible. Plowing up of some wheat fields was said to have been started in many places in Minnesota. The North Dakota crop, it was alleged, had gone too far for rain to be of help.

Damage north of the Canadian Pacific railroad was estimated at 10 to 25 per cent and south 25 to 65 per cent. The price of the September delivery here reached $1.01⅜ and December $1.02¾. An additional gain of ⅜ of a cent was registered at the close.

THE BEST SHOTS IN ENGLAND.

Lady Pictorial: Experts declare that the four finest shots in Great Britain are Lord Ripon, Lord Walsingham, Lord Ashburton and Prince Victor Duleep Singh. The prince of Wales's shooting is so clever that he stands quite apart even from this category.

Lord Ashburton has for years held the record in partridge driving and his parties at The Grange with a bag of 700-odd brace to six guns were such a triumph of good organization that his head keeper was summoned to Sandringham to explain his methods.

Lord Ashburton began to shoot when only 11, and has had some memorable experiences. Lord Ripon was a child of 9 when he first shot, and since that time he has made many records. But the biggest records seem to have been made by Lord Walsingham. Among women the best shots with partridges are Violet Lady Beaumont and Mrs. Launcelot Lowther.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND.

In the Hoffman House, New York, a group of politicians were discussing the death of Patrick H. McCarren, the Republican leader.

"McCarren," said a lawyer, "knew how to handle men. He met straightforward men with straightforward methods, and tricky men he bested with willer tricks than their own.

"Once he illustrated his policy to me with a story. He was like, he said, the rich Peter Higgins.

"When Peter was young and gay, two of his friends, being hard up, put up a game on him.

"'Peter,' they said, 'you might pay us that $2 we lent you.'

"'When did you lend me $2?' said Peter hautily.

"'Why, night before last, when you were drunk,' was the reply.

"'Oh, yes,' said Peter; 'I remember now. But, hang it, I paid you back.'

"'Paid us back? When?'

"'Last night, when you were drunk. Don't you remember?'"

DEFECTIVE PAGE

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Duluth will happily have a safe and sane Fourth next year. Minneapolis was a year ahead of this city in this respect and yesterday was a quiet one there, but the women of the city, representing almost every women's organization, including the Women's club and the Federation of Women's clubs, planned that the children of the city should have a happy time and an all day outing was arranged for the children at Loring park.

Parents with their children were welcome and there were especial treats for the children thus chaperoned, but the particular care of the committees were the unattached children who came by the hundreds. Independence day was celebrated royally, and because of the "safe and saneness" there was no need for the temporary hospital headquarters which were arranged in case of accident of any sort. Flags, crackerjack, sandwiches and lemonade were provided in huge quantities, enough to satisfy the little folks. The Elks provided a free bout show for the children who were taken through by guides. A band played patriotic music during the whole day and the most stirring tunes and marches were chosen. The band was surrounded during the entire day by the children and their parents. A number of kindergarten teachers had volunteered their services and played blind man's buff, soldier boy, the Cat and rat, and other games with the little folks, organizing and directing new parties the entire day.

During the afternoon musical programs arranged by the Thursday Musicale and the Appollo clubs were given. There was another band concert, and more lemonade and sandwiches were dispensed.

Such an Independence day was never observed before in Minneapolis. The children had a happy time, without any injuries, or deaths, or life long disfigurements reported.

The women of Minneapolis interested in yesterday's affair are planning to continue it next year, only, instead of the one park, each park in the city will be made the center for such Independence day programs.

It is possible that some such plan may be followed in Duluth when the safe and sane measure goes into effect. The Minneapolis idea was most heartily supported by the citizens and contributions were most generous.

CLUBS ARE CROWDED

Many Duluthians Spend Day at Favorite Resorts.

Every park and clubhouse in the city and the suburbs was taxed to its capacity yesterday in accommodating the holiday crowds. Picnics and informal outings were the feature of the day, and the crowds of holiday makers started in the early morning cars to reach their destination and returned on the late night cars, weary but happy. Every park in the city had its crowd of picnickers and the weather was pleasant for out-of-door parties. More than 200 guests were at the Spirit Lake branch ow the boat club for the day, and tennis matches, a baseball game, canoeing and informal pleasures comprised the program. Several hundred of the boat club members called at the main house and the Oatka branch. No formal program was arranged, but almost all the craft of the club were on the water, there were tennis games and in the evening the informal dancing parties.

A large number of the Country club members and their guests gathered at the Country club for the fireworks celebration in the evening, which did not come off because of the danger of starting fires. A number of dinner parties were entertained there. The day was a happy one throughout the city.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To Make Windows Opaque.

If you want to shut off the view from any window you can do it very cheaply by dissolving in a little hot water as much Epsom salts as the water will absorb. Paint over the window while hot, and when dry you will have a very good imitation of ground glass.

To Clean Tarnished Brass.

Badly tarnished brass may be cleaned with ease if first rubbed with salt and vinegar and oxalic acid. Following with a good wash of soap and water, then polish with any good cleansing preparation.

A Simple Paint Remover.

When a house is being done up paint is not infrequently spilt on the door steps, and it is found very difficult sometimes to remove. In that case make a strong solution of potash and wash the steps, simply leaving the solution to soak in. In a short time the paint will become soft, and can then be washed off with soap and water. Then use cold water. Paint which has been left on for some time will yield to this treatment.

Fuller's Earth for Gloves.

Fuller's earth is excellent for cleaning suede gloves. Put the gloves on the hands, and rub the earth in well with a small soft brush. An old nail or tooth brush answers the purpose admirably. Some people use a mixture of the earths and powdered alum in equal quantities.

To Fold a Blanket.

Nearly every one keeps an additional blanket at the foot of the bed in case it is needed on a cold night. A very convenient way to arrange this is to fold the blanket back and forth like a fan, and if one takes hold of the top edge it draws up evenly and without any trouble.

PROPER SALUTATIONS

By MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

"The bow is the touchstone of good breeding," was once said by a French writer of note.

On no one of the trivial observances that good society calls for is there a more unerring test of the breeding, training, nurture of culture of a person than the manner in which the salutation of recognition is made.

An inclination of the head is often sufficient between gentlemen, or a gesture of the hand, or the mere touching of the hat; but in bowing to a lady the hat must be lifted entirely from the head.

A bow does not entail a calling acquaintance, and to neglect it shows neglect in early education as well as a deficiency in cultivation and in the instinct of refinement.

A gentleman walking with a lady returns a bow made to her (lifting his hat not too far from his head) although the one bowing is an entire stranger to him.

It is a civility to return a bow although you do not know the one who is bowing to you.

Bowing once to a person on a public promenade or drive is all that civility requires.

Gentlemen lift their hats when passing ladies who are strangers on staircases, in corridors, in elevators, and entering public rooms. Should they have occasion to pass ladies who are already seated in lecture and concert rooms, or the like, they should beg pardon for disturbing them. A man removes his hat in a hotel elevator.

A lady receiving gives her hand to a stranger as to a friend, when she wishes to bestow some mark of cordiality in welcoming a guest to her home, but a gentleman ought not to take the initiative in handshaking.

If a lady offers her hand to a gentleman he should not grasp it too cordially, as it takes but a slight pressure to be painful when rings are worn.

A gentleman must not shake hands with a lady until she has made the first movement. It would be exceedingly rude and underbred not to give his hand instantly should she extend her own.

A lady does not take a gentleman's arm, nor does he presume to take hers, unless she is fainting, or a cripple.

THE ADVANTAGES OF A HOBBY

By CONSTANCE CARRUTHERS.

There is too much jerry-built domesticity nowadays. Machinery has done as much as anything else to destroy the true home atmosphere.

When things can be bought so cheaply it seems hardly worth while to weave fabrics of wondrous strength and beauty and to lay by in lavender-scented chests stores of household linen. So the housewife is left with a great deal of time on her hands.

Every woman of leisure ought to have a hobby of some kind. Otherwise she is apt to develop into a crank.

This is particularly true of the unmarried woman. Her particular form of crankiness often takes the form of an engrossing egotism. She is always on the lookout for sympathy and kindness from other people; but she never thinks of cultivating those virtues herself.

Yet few people have such opportunities for doing good as the unmarried woman of means. There are thousands of people waiting to be helped—the sick and the sad and the suffering. To enter into the lives of other people is the only cure for this form of mania, which usually develops into melancholia and sometimes into madness.

the EVENING STORY

TWO OF A TRADE

By Austen Sanderson.

I.

"Go on!" said the housemaid, at the area door.

The young man "from the matrimonial company" shook his head. "It'll come, sooner or later," he declared. "I've known hundreds of cases, through bein' in the business—"

"But what makes you think of me—of all people—"

His eyes met hers. "Ah! it's plain enough," he said.

She laughed scornfully. "What—my face?" she asked. He obliged with the expected denial.

"If you'll overlook the presumption," he said, "I'll be so bold as to say you're a remarkably handsome girl, and a pleasant spoken, sensible girl, too; as I can see—just the sort any man might take a fancy for. That's what I mean when I say it's plain you'll not be long in getting married."

"Well, upon my word," said the housemaid.

"I only wonder you haven't been told it before," he went on moodily. "But they'll come—depend upon it—not in single spies, but in battalions, as the saying is. And when they do, Miss, let me beg of you, as one who's suffered, don't play with 'em—don't lead 'em on merely to 'cast 'em aside. But you wouldn't; I can see you're too kind-hearted to do a thing like that."

"I certainly wouldn't," she said, with a trace of eagerness. "But—excuse me, but I really can't help it—have you been unfortunately in love?"

He sighed. "Ah! it's a sad story," he said, shaking his head. "Two years ago it was, but it might 'ave 'appened yesterday." He sighed again.

"I'm sorry," said the housemaid sympathetically. "I shouldn't have mentioned it. But p'raps one of these days you'll meet some one who'll help you forget."

"P'raps," he said, brightening suddenly, "though somehow I never thought so till this minute. I believe it's your kind sympathy, if I may say so."

"I'm sure I'm glad if—"

He hesitated. "I suppose, Miss," he said, "you wouldn't take a bit of a walk with me one evening?"

"Well, really, Mr——I don't even know your name."

"Courtney, Miss — Reginald Courtney."

She tried "Mrs. Reginald Courtney" and found it good. Also "Florence Amelia Courtney" sounded better than "Florence Amelia Biggs."

"Well, Mr. Courtney, I'm sure if I could help you in any way—"

"That's a promise. And now," he went on dramatically, "let me learn the name of the fair being who 'as taken pity on me."

"Mr. Courtney," she protested. "Well, there, then—Miss Biggs."

"The only name I shall think of from this minute."

"What things you do say! And what about the other lady?"

"Well, now, if I hadn't forgotten her! I declare, Miss Biggs, you're a marvel."

She laughed. They exchanged meaning glances.

"Now, Miss Biggs, which evening may I 'ave the great pleasure of seeing you again?"

"Well, there, really, I don't exactly know. You see, we're going away the day after tomorrow."

"Going away?"

She nodded. "The colonel always shuts up his town house in the summer and goes to Scotland. A few of us upper servants are going, too, to make the family a bit comfortable. I've never been to his Scotch place yet, but cook says it's awfully wild, and the natives are that uncivilized you can't understand a word they say."

"But ain't he afraid of leaving the house empty—"

"Ah! you may be so; but not he! Perfectly pig-headed, I call it."

"P'raps he knows there's nothing to tempt burglars," observed Mr. Courtney, easily.

"Nothing to—my word! You should just see what he has got. The young ladies have often asked him to put it in the bank, but he's that set on his own opinion—why, this year he's persuaded the young ladies to give him what jewelry they're not taking to put it in the safe with the rest. Nice little haul it'd be fer any burglar who happened to pop in. Ugh! talking of it gives me the creeps."

Mr. Courtney was sympathetic. "Don't talk about it," he said. "Suppose we talk of ourselves. Now, ain't I to see you again before you go?"

"Well, I'd don't know," said Miss Biggs with maidenly hesitation. "P'raps I might step out to post tomorrow evening about 8—"

"I'll be there. Miss Biggs, you don't know—"

"Hush," said Miss Biggs, "there's cook. Oh rewwar, Mr. Courtney—till tomorrow at 8!"

* * * *

"Tomorrow at 8," Mr. Courtney learned, (besides certain matters connected with the colonel's property) to call Miss Biggs by her Christian name; and as they parted he kissed her and swore that he would be always true.

"I don't think," he said, with his eye on her retreating figure.

II.

Two evenings later Mr. Reginald Courtney found himself in the colonel's deserted study, eyeing the safe by the light of a bull's-eye lantern.

"Don't look much of a job," he soliloquized, "and if darlin' Florrie's a truthful little girl I ought to be able to take a 'oliday after it." He knelt down on the floor.

A switch clicked, and suddenly the room was flooded with light. Mr. Courtney turned around with an unparliamentary word.

Near the door stood a young man in evening dress. "I suppose I should say, what are you doing here?" he observed, "but that's so hackneyed. Stand still, please. Before I came to interview you I provided myself with a little friend of the colonel's; that makes me equal to five, so, you see, you're hopelessly outnumbered."

"It's a cop!" said Mr. Courtney.

"As you remark. It is a 'cop.' Now, how did you gain admittance?"

"Kitchen window," growled Mr. Courtney.

"A truthful son is the delight of his father. Afraid you're not much of a delight to your paternal ancestor, though, Mr. Sikes."

"Look here, guv'ner, lemme go. I ain't taken nothing—"

There was a soound of heavy steps on the stairs leading to the basement.

"That's a policeman. Afraid it's no go, William. Right turn! By your left, quick march!" They met the policeman in the hall.

"Now, then," said he.

The man in evening dress nodded cheerfully; he seemed very well satisfied with himself.

"Evening officer," he said. "I was looking for you ten minutes ago, but I couldn't see you anywhere about, so I came in myself. Here's your man. I saw him climb in at the kitchen window, so, as I knew the colonel had left a lot of valuables in his safe, I followed, and collared him just before he began operations. I suppose you noticed the light in the study, and came in the same way?"

"That's right, sir. Hold out your hands, you. It was a risky thing you did sir, you'll excuse me."

"I suppose it was. I was rather excited, I expect—we're not all used to capturing burglars, as you are, you know. Do you want me to come to the station with you?"

"Well," said the gratified officer, it's not absolutely necessary, if—"

"Here's my card." The policeman took it and read: "Viscount Broadstairs, 9908, Fermyn street," with increasing respect.

"I'm afraid you'll be wanted as a witness, sir," he said.

"Well, it can't be helped. Did you fasten the kitchen window? No? Then the man they send round from the station can get in that way. We'll slam the front door. Now, the house is all snug again. I don't think your prisoner 'll give any trouble. Good-night, officer."

He walked away briskly, but at the end of the station he halted. "It'll be half an hour at least before anyone comes round from the station," he said. "Short time, but it can be done. 'None but the brave'—." He returned to the colonel's front door, opened it with a key, and went into the study.

From one pocket he took a small shaded glow-lamp. Then from various parts of his clothing he drew certain metallic implements, not to be found in ordinary tool sets; and, kneeling upon the floor, he applied them in turn to the door of the safe.

* * * *

When the truth came out, Mr. Courtney called his captor—who was certainly not Viscount Broadstairs—a "mean 'ound!" He said it was a case of 'dawg eatin' dawg." On the other hand, Miss Biggs declared that hanging was too good for Mr. Courtney, whom she described as a "low curr!"

Perhaps they were both right. It happened in the dog days.

YOUNG MEN AND MAIDENS

By MISS EXPERIENCE.

The short, plump girls are brisk, and often have the faculty of looking at the bright side of things.

Most men find little women fascinating; they are easier to caress, and have nestling, coaxing ways about them. There is something about a little woman that is clinging, and, looking up to a tall man, she seems to appeal to his protection—he views her with the idea that she is to be taken care of.

"Of what stature is she?" demands one of Shakespeare's heroes of another. "Just as high as my heart," he answered, thinking gladly how his little love's head could rest there.

Cheerfulness Brings Beauty.

The woman who would keep beautiful, or because so, must, first of all, be cheerful. A cheerful spirit is a miracle worker in producing faces of the highest beauty, those that radiate the restfulness of easy and unforced joy of heart.

No one acquires this spirit merely by effort for the thing itself. There are women who pretend cheerfulness because it seems an accomplishment to be desired. That kind of cheerfulness does not give out the proper radiance. The woman who has an occupation has the best start in the quest of a genuinely cheerful spirit. If she has something to do in which she is interested she has no time to mope, to pine for the impossible.

Something to do—that is the secret. Honest hard work does not cause wrinkles, but it brings beauty.

Parents of Lady Love?

There can be no doubt that thousands of young couples are kept apart, and finally drift asunder, through the man having to support his father and mother, and having hyper-conscientious scruples about leaving them, even when he can make them an allowance.

But if a man is genuinely in love, if he feels that a certain woman is necessary to his happiness and that hers depends on him, he owes to that woman an allegiance which should not be broken on any account whatever, and the parents who would look coldly or angrily on him because he sought a new alliance are selfish in the most guilty degree.

Many a woman's happiness is wrecked in this way. A man courts her, the two agree to wait for a while, and then the man discovers—when all the girl's affections have been pledged, and it is possibly too late for her to take other chances—that he cannot leave his parents. Good son though he may be, he is a weak-minded creature.

ADAPTABILITY OF WOMEN

By ALVA ARMSTRONG.

Unequal marriages are a constant proof of the adaptability of women. Each daughter of Eve believes she is born to rise in the world, and, while she is young and pretty, feels herself—not without justification—the equal of a queen.

A wealthy man, of quiet habits and mature age, married a penniless country girl. "At least I shall have peace at home, and she'll not want a perpetual round of gaiety like a society woman," he said to a friend who expostulated against so unworldly a match.

Alack and alas! the little wife, amenable and humble for the first few months, soon developed amazingly in a congenial atmosphere. She was fresh and original, and attracted admirers by the score

HEAVY PASSENGER TRAVEL ON LAKES

North West Bringing Large Crowd on Second Trip of Season.

The big steamer North West will come in this evening, and reports received at the Great Northern office from the Soo this morning stated that there is a large crowd on the boat.

The Octorara of the Anchor line is in port today. The big vessel did not bring a very heavy passenger list up from the lower lakes, though the officials of the line state that the travel is increasing.

Reports from the Soo indicate that the smoke and fog of last week has somewhat lifted and that boats are not threatened with the danger that was caused by the pall of smoke and banks of fog.

Passenger agents here state that the present month, especially after the Fourth of July, will witness a very heavy travel, as there are a great many conventions and the railroads are also hauling a great many people from the East and West.

ASHLAND HARBOR HAS BUSY MONTH

During June 113 Freight Vessels Entered the Northern Wisconsin Port.

Ashland, Wis., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Counting only freighters, 113 vessels entered this harbor last month, not counting tugs, passenger boats and small sized vessels.

The question of how many vessels enter port is no longer asked to obtain a measure of the commerce of that port. It is now a question of tonnage. These 113 vessels, which brought coal here, or carried ore away, have a total tonnage of 315,000, and it would take 400 vessels of the size of the lumber carrier L. Edward Hines, the large sized lumber carrier recently in port, to equal that tonnage, or 5,000 vessels of the size of the Skater. In other words, 400 lumber vessels of the size of the Hines, or 5,000 vessels of the size of the Skater, would represent a volume of business equal to that of the 113 vessels which carried cargoes to or from this port in June.

The ore shipments from the Northwestern ore dock were over 600,000 tons, which beat all previous June records, the record for June, 1909, being less than 300,000 tons.

Coal receipts for June also broke all records, beating the June record of 1907, which was the banner month of the banner year, over 20,000 tons. The comparative season record for coal up to July 1 for five years is as follows: 1906, 161,365; 1907, 205,861; 1908, 50,528; 1909, 119,191; 1910, 237,104.

The total coal received at Ashland last year, up to the close of the season was 488,395 tons, and Ashland was the seventh port on the lakes in amount of coal received.

TWO SENTENCED BY JUDGE CANT

Joseph Vean Must Do Time in Jail or Pay Fine.

For committing an assault on Roy Karkeet on June 17, using a beer bottle as a weapon, Joseph Vean has been sentenced to spend ninety days in the county jail or pay a fine of $100 by Judge William A. Cant of the district court.

Vean was accused by the grand jury of assault in the second degree. He appeared before Judge Cant, admitted his guilt and was sentenced.

Wainoe Paavola will spend sixty days in the county jail for having stolen $190 from a fellow workman at Sparta location at the town of Missabe. He pleaded guilty to the charge placed against him by the grand jury.

With these cases the criminal actions for the May term come to an end. There has been but few trials. Most of those indicted by the last grand jury pleaded guilty.

There are some twenty cases of a criminal nature to come up for trial during the July term. They consist mostly of assault and larceny charges.

POSLAM'S GREAT WORK IN CURING ECZEMA

Uniform Success in the Treatment of All Surface Skin Diseases.

The remarkable work which poslam, the new skin remedy, is accomplishing in the eradication of eczema includes cases of many years' standing, the trouble having affected all parts of the body.

"For fifteen years I have had eczema on my head," says Mr. E. C. Staton, Woodbridge, Va., "the scalp being nothing but blotches. I found that the first box of poslam helped me, and now my scalp seems to be entirely cured, leaving it clear and perfectly white. I think it is the greatest remedy in the world for this disease." All other skin disease, including acne, tetter, shingles, barber's itch, piles, salt rheum, skin scale, etc., are relieved and cured by poslam in like manner, itching being stopped at once. The less serious troubles, such as pimples, red and inflamed noses, fever blisters, sunburn, etc., respond so readily that results are seen after an overnight application.

Write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th street, New York City, and they will send you by mail, free of charge, in plain wrapper, enough poslam to cure a small affected surface, clear the complexion or remove pimples.

Poslam is sold by the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co. in Superior.

SAYS BOARD TOOK CHANCES

L. N. Case Not Notified When Brewery Creek Was Flushed.

L. N. Case, manager of the water and light department, is quite angry because the members of the board of public works didn't comply with the charter provision requiring them to notify the water board before taking water with which to flush Brewery creek several days ago.

He declares that the reservoir was nearly emptied and that the consequences might have been serious had a big fire broken out. He claims in a communication sent to the board this morning that the pumps should have been kept working full force in order to keep the reservoir full.

The board this morning let the contract for sprinkling London road to E. G. Walton. He bid $45 to lay the dust on the highway with Solvay calcium chloride. The chloride preparation has been used by the park board and found to be satisfactory.

NEW ORDINANCE IS PREPARED

Sealer of Weights and Measures Will Be Given Greater Power.

The council will probably receive the new ordinance from the sealer of weights and measures tonight. Sealer Duren has found that many dealers have been selling six quarts for a peck, the customer being cheated of two quarts on each purchase. The ordinance will also give him further powers in the matter of testing scales and locking certain kinds after they have been examined.

The amendments to the wheelage tax asked by the business men have been completed by the city attorney and will likely come up tonight or next Monday night.

Following the bitter complaints as to insanitary conditions in certain parts of the city, Alderman Shartel has prepared a resolution, the passage of which it is hoped will help remedy the situation. It emphasizes the necessity of prohibiting the use of alleys, streets and yards for dumping purposes. The garbage accumulates because of neglect of residents and the department is asked to make reports of all such instances. The present ordinances cover the territory and allow plenty of power to the authorities, but the resolution is for the purpose of putting more stress on their enforcement.

COMMISSIONERS HOLD MEETING

At Least $30,000 Needed to Start St. Louis County Sanatorium.

At the meeting held Saturday by the St. Louis County Sanatorium commissioners, it was decided that at least $30,000 would be required to start the sanatorium.

Reports of the officers were read. Those present were: Dr. E. L. Tuohy, Commissioner George A. Gray and the secretary, Dr. William M. Hart.

The many sites under consideration for the new building were discussed but no definite site was decided upon, the commission deciding that it is better to go slowly in the matter.

Dr. Hart gave a short account of his visit to the Walker sanatorium. He told of how much good the institution in the woods is doing. There are at the present time about sixty patients at the institution and the number of cures is remarkable, stated the doctor.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney and bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more. Sold by all druggists.

SHOT SNIPES ON SUPERIOR STREET

Paul Hull Visits Duluth After Thirty-Five Years' Absence.

Paul Hull of Chicago, who has charge of the newspaper division of the Chicago postoffice, is visiting Duluth. He will remain here for a week or more.

Mr. Hull is the son of Col. J. J. Hull, who many years ago was landlord of the Clark house. The son has not lived in Duluth for thirty-five years, and he has been here but once before since this was his home. He is naturally greatly impressed with the growth and progress of the city, and is amusing himself by recalling old scenes and comparing them with conditions he finds now.

Where commerce and industry now hold their sway, Mr. Hull frequently went snipe shooting.

He is the owner of Duluth real estate and while here will investigate its location and value. It is not improved.

World's Largest Gymnasium.

The new gymnasium of Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., one of the suburbs of Chicago, is not only the largest and most complete in the world, but is a building that marks a new departure in gymnasium construction as well. During this warm weather be sure there are a few bottles of Golden Grain Belt beer in the ice chest and a case in the cellar for a supply. There is nothing better in the way of a table beverage. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

IS LEPROSY CONTAGIOUS?

Youth's Companion: There is possibly no disease the presence of which inspires greater fear in the public mind than does leprosy. This is perhaps in a measure due to the loathsomeness of the disease in its later stages, but it is in most cases simply fear of a name.

The disease or diseases spoken of as leprosy in the Bible are popularly supposed to be the same as the leprosy of today, and the evident fear the leper inspired in the people of old is held to justify the dread with which he is still regarded. The Biblical descriptions do not, however fit modern leprosy, so that whether the fear of the "leper" of olden times was or was not justified it should not be allowed to color the view with which the leper of today is regarded.

Leprosy is indeed an infectious disease, that is to say, it is due to the presence in the tissues of a bacillus, known generally as Hansen's bacillus, after the Norwegian physician who discovered it; but whether it is contagious under the ordinary conditions of modern life in temperate climates, at least, is held by specialists in diseases of the skin to be very doubtful.

Of the few lepers known to the physicians in all the larger cities some are cared for in hospitals, others live at home and visit the clinics or the doctor's office from time to time yet an instance in which another person has acquired the disease from any of these lepers is unknown.

There are many diseases more to be dreaded than leprosy because more rapidly fatal, more painful or more contagious, yet none of them except perhaps smallpox is more feared.

The illogical terror of leprosy may be the cause of great cruelty to those afflicted. There are thousands of people who show culpable indifference to the enforcement of the laws against spitting in public places, although they know full well that the success of the crusade against tuberculosis hinges largely upon care in this regard. Yet these same persons would fly in horror from any place that had harbored a leper.

FARMERS HAVE MUCH TO LEARN.

Anything like an accurate estimate of the loss to American farmers through lack of knowledge in regard to exact adaptations of soils to crops and varieties is impossible, says the Review of Reviews, but the figures would no doubt be startling.

Aside from knowing the absolute effect of soil, correct soil usage requires that the grower take into account the climatic environment—the effect of latitude, altitude, etc. The soil, for example, that produces a high grade Sumatra cigar wrapper in Florida and Southwest Georgia will not produce this type nearly as well in Eastern North Carolina, but does produce an excellent quality of the bright tobacco used in the manufacture of cigarettes and graulated smoking tobacco.

The delicious Albemarle Pippin apple of Virginia succeeds best only on a black loam soil in sheltered mountain coves between 1,000 and 2,000 feet elevation. In the lower elevations of the North Carolina fruit belt the coves on the north side of mountain slopes are best suited to fruit, while the coves with southern exposure require a higher altitude to give the required climatic environment.

Peaches do well on the Eastern shore and in the mountains of Western Maryland, but are generally unsuccessful on the intervening Piedmont plateau, where frosts are apt to kill the early fruit buds.

NO PLACE FOR ETIQUETTE.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Prof. Isaac Schwatt of the University of Pennsylvania, who, besides occupying the chair of mathematics at that institution, adds to the gaiety of nations by his idiosyncracies both of speech and manner, is constantly the unconscious author of stories that delight his many friends and students.

During the last year Prof. Schwatt had a class in higher mathematics in which all the students with a few exceptions were men. It is the professor's custom to lecture with a large ham sandwich in one hand from which, to punctuate his flowing periods of eloquence, he takes a large bite. On this day—a particularly warm one—the professor had covered two large blackboards with numerals and was starting on a third, when he paused and, after remarking: "Vimmin eggscuse me," pulled off his cuffs.

Ten minutes later he again ceased figuring and, wiping his steaming brow, looked reproachfully at his girl students in the front row. Suddenly he took a desperate determination.

"Vimmin or no vimmin," he shouted, "Isaac Schwatt takes off his coat. To de pure all tings vas pure."

Some Exciting Races.

Some very exciting races took place in the afternon, especially in the men's 100 and 200 dashes in which Marvin Van Buskirk came in first. A race not on the program was put on between ponies belonging to Earl Rodda and George Constantine. The fathers of the two boys bet on the respective merits of the ponies and Constantine came in first in two heats, in the second of which he gave his opponent a twenty foot head start.

Militia Beat Eagles.

Directly following the races a parade headed by the Fayal band followed by the Eagle and militia teams in full uniform marched out to the ball grounds, where the ball game was played for a purse of $25 and the largest share of the gate receipts. In a game which was very close during the first eight innings the militia won by a score of 7 to 4. Parks was on the mound for the militia boys and he pitched a good game except for one inning. Borier for the Eagles was not very well supported, errors contributing much to the scores. Dale Corveny drove in two runs for the militia in the first half of the ninth which settled the Eagles. The bateries were, for militia, Parks and Andrews; for the Eagles, Borier and Tevarrow.

The dance given by the Degree of Pocahontas at the Vall hall in the evening attracted a large crowd.

Virginia Day Success.

Virginia, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The celebration here yesterday passed off without a hitch and with no fatalities. Judge Martin Hughes' speech was the hit of the day and the parade, in which a large number of the Virginia business houses were represented, was one of the features of the day's program. The fire works in the evening were enjoyed immensely. It is estimated that there were about 3,000 visitors in the city to enjoy the nation's holiday.

In the afternoon the baseball game between the Virginia and Two Harbors team called out a big crowd to the Oliver grounds. The game resulted in Two Harbor's defeat by a score of 8 to 1. John Phyle was again in the box for Virginia and pitched a splendid game. The third game of the series was played this afternoon.

HIBBING PICNIC HAS SAD ENDING

Man and Woman Are Drowned in a Small Lake Near Bengal.

Hibbing, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a sad ending to a family picnic held at a small lake near Bengal yesterday, when, as told briefly in Monday evening's Herald, Mrs. A. McKenzie and A. H. Farr were drowned while out in a boat. Mr. Farr's 5-year-old daughter was saved by clinging to the boat. The bodies were recovered.

The Farr and McKenzie families live in the same house on Washington street, Hibbing, Mrs. McKenzie being a sister-in-law of Mr. Farr. The two families, including the children of the Farrs and Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie, left early yesterday morning for Bengal for a picnic. Mr. Farr and his 5-year-old daughter and Mrs. McKenzie embarked in a small boat, while the rest of the party watched them from the shore. The boat capsized, Mr. Farr and Mrs. McKenzie sinking and the child hanging on to the side of the boat, whence she was rescued a few moments later. Those on shore were helpless so far as saving the older persons were concerned for they apparently stayed at the bottom, catching the long weeds. Mrs. McKenzie was found clinging with death grip to the weeds and Farr was only a short distance away. There was little trouble in locating the bodies and conveying them to shore.

Mr. Farr and a brother and Mrs. McKenzie were engaged in the house moving business in this city. Farr was about 45 years old and Mrs. McKenzie about 25.

Many friends thronged to the depot to wish Mr. Greenway a safe journey and success in his new field.

The retirement of Mr. Greenway was made the occasion for a splendid showing yesterday of his high standing in this community when he was presented with a beautiful silver service in a rich mahogany case, the gift of the miners and others of the district.

Supt. M. J. Curley of the Canisteo and Walker pits accompanied by many friends of the returning official visited the Greenway home, where Mr. Curley in a few well chosen words made the presentation. No information can be gleaned from the Finns who were around Loyva as to who did the stabbing.

TAFT'S FOURTH IS STRENUOUS DAY

President Visits Four Cities During the Daylight Hours.

Boston, Mass., July 5.—President Taft spent a busy Independence day in Boston and three adjacent cities of Everett, Somerville and Cambridge. Motoring up from Beverly, he made a hurried call at Everett, where he saw 1,900 school children. Continuing on to Somerville, he reviewed a typical Fourth of July parade.

Hurrying into this city he saw Boston's effort toward a "safe and sane" Fourth and indorsed the movement in a characteristic speech in which he expressed the hope that it would spread throughout the Union.

After a luncheon at the City club, he motored to Cambridge, where he was the guest for an hour of President Lowell of Harvard. His speech to the National Educational association in the Harvard stadium closed the public day, and it was a somewhat tired official who climbed the steps of the summer capitol at Beverly at sun down last night.

James Dragotis Fined for Putting Dynamite on Car Tracks.

Clark Blauvelt Stole Slot Machine to Get "Stake" for Holiday.

Next time anybody asks James Dragotis, a Superior street shoe shiner, to put dynamite caps on the street car tracks, he will be liable to try handling him the way Johnson did Jeffries.

Yesterday he accommodated a stranger in this manner. A minute later he was in the hands of a policeman who marched him to police headquarters, charging him with putting explosives on the car tracks.

He was released on $10 bail and when he pleaded guilty in police court this morning he paid a fine of $10

Clark Blauvelt was broke yesterday and decided to steal the gum slot machine in the saloon of George Holmes on West Michigan street to get a "stake" with which to celebrate the Glorious Fourth. He smashed the machine open on the street and secured a handful of nickles, which were found on him when he was searched at headquarters. He entered a plea of guilty in police court, and was fined $50 and costs or thirty days over the hill. He went over.

John Matheson went to the sheriff's boarding house for fifty days in lieu of $50 with which to pay the fine imposed on him for disorderly conduct in front of the Lenox hotel. He was "making faces" at the women employed in the hostelry and making himself a nuisance generally.

* * *

Peter Sever asked for a preliminary examination when arraigned this morning on the charge of stealing $70 from Albert Laundry. He claims that he is innocent. The police doubt that he is guilty.

* * *

Alex Winfield wound up a three days' spree—the occasion being the return of the day on which the Declaration of Independence was signed—in police court this morning. Winfield has been arrested three times on the same charge. Each of the first two times he was able to put up bail and pay his fine, but this morning he was "dead broke" and went over the hill for ten days.

NEEDLESS SUFFERING SAVED.

Anti-Alcohol Remedy That is Worth Trying.

The wretchedness attendant upon hard drinking is in many cases absolutely needless as proven by enthusiastic letters sent from wives and mothers of drinking men, whose homes have been rendered happy by the use of White Ribbon Remedy. This remedy is odorless and tasteless, and may be given with or without the knowledge of the patient. Contains absolutely no habit-forming drugs. $1.00 per box, or $5.00 for six boxes. At the E. M. Tredway store, 108 West Superior street, or direct from the White Ribbon Remedy Co., Boston, Mass.

SALOON FIGHTS FOLLOW RING BATTLE.

Duluth had its quota of fights following the announcement of the outcome of the Jeffries-Johnson battle. The police were called into over half a dozen saloons in the central part of the city to quell what threatened to become minor riots. Intense feeling was displayed in some instances, but in no case was there any bloodshed, although it is claimed that stabbing and shooting affairs were narrowly averted. Several battered faces and some black eyes show as evidence today, and it is extremely fortunate that some of the principals of one or two of the frays are not in the hospital. No arrests were made.

CHINESE DON'T USE LATHER.

Baltimore American: "One of the chief trials of the average man is the way his razor pulls when he proceeds to erase the beard from his face," remarked Julian V. Apperson, of St. Louis.

"Some years ago I was in China and I noticed that the cunning barbers of that country instead of putting lather on the faces of their customers used a number of hot towels instead. I went through the experience and became a convert to the Chinese system. To this day when I go to shave, in lieu of soap I steam my face with hot water, and find that this method takes all the wiriness out of the whiskers far better than lather, so that if the blade is reasonably sharp you can shave without any torture incurred in the pulling process."

DEFECTIVE PAGE

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Declaring that there is a plan afoot by which certain Twin City Republican leaders are going to knife Sam Gordon, nominee for lieutenant governor, because of his pledge to give the county optionists a square deal if he is elected to preside over the state senate, Alvah Eastman declares the G. O. P. of Minnesota will have a rocky road to travel. In his paper, the St. Cloud Journal Press, Mr. Eastman serves notice on Governor Eberhart that if he hopes to gain advantage and votes, it is up to him to see that the campaign managers to be selected this week are not allies of the brewery gang.

Sam Gordon to Be Slaughtered?

"For every vote that Sam Gordon loses through the manipulations of the brewery gang, Eberhart will lose two in the country precincts," declares Mr. Eastman.

The idea underlying the Journal-Press' editorial is one that has made the pending selection of the Republican campaign committee an extremely interesting development, one that is awaited with interest in every part of the state. It will be a positive indication of the nature of the campaign to be conducted by the Republicans and therefor will have an influence on the Democratic state convention and its program.

The Hibbing Tribune may be rather mixed in its diction in this instance, but it holds tenaciously to the idea that Fred W. Johnson of New Ulm will be the dark horse in the Democratic state convention in Minneapolis on the 28th. "He has all the graces and the winning personality of his late brother," remarks the Tribune. "As an orator he is far superior to John A. Why shouldn't he prove just as good a vote getter?"

Another Nomination by the G. O. P.

In common with many Republican papers of Minnesota, the Tribune shows a great and growing interest in selecting a candidate for the head of the Democratic ticket. There is no real objection heard to this pastime, as it is argued that the Republican editors can in no other way have a look-in on the game of selecting the next governor of the state.

There is no doubt that the people want John Lind. This the Tribune concedes, but adds:

"If Linds puts any serious obstacle in the way of his own nomination, Fred Johnson will be sprung on the Democratic convention at the psychological moment."

It's entertaining, at least.

• • •

A few of the disgruntled lawyers of Duluth, peevish over their failure to nominate Judge Dibell and disposed to accuse Odin Halden of responsibility for that failure, are said to be interested in a plan to bring out an opposing candidate for the Republican nomination for county auditor. Mr. Halden, it was generally supposed, would have no opposition at the primaries, and practically none in the election, although the Democrats may have at least a nominal candidate for the office.

Lawyers Have Grouch Against Halden

Mr. Halden has been so able an official and so thoroughly-going a booster that there is not likely to be any substance in such a project as this rumored movement to take revenge for an imagined wrong.

Inquiry among men who attended the St. Paul convention, including many lawyers, leads to the conclusion that there is no ground upon which any one can fairly base the charge that anything was done by Mr. Halden or any one associated with him to further the candidacy of Walter J. Smith to the detriment of the candidacy of Judge Dibell.

• • •

F. B. Myers, who was a delegate to the Republican state convention and is a resident of Duluth, is quoted by the Times of that place as enthusiastic in praise of two Duluth men, "In plain terms and without mincing matters," says the Times, "Mr. Myers says that W. J. Smith was nominated for state treasurer because of the active assistance of Odin Halden and E. B. Hawkins, two men experienced in state affairs."

Halden and Hawkins Are Warmly Praised.

"The rest of them were enthusiastic, but tyros in the game of politics," said Mr. Myers, "it was the fine work done by these old-timers that saved the day. Of course, they would not have been nearly so strong if the delegation had not been tied by the unit rule.

"And it was not trades that made the victory possible," continued Mr. Myers. "But one little deal was made, and that was with Caswell, candidate for supreme court clerk. Otherwise the delegation had to depend upon the merits of its claim from a political standpoint. By that I mean the justice of the situation, and it was really on that plea that we won. But Halden and Hawkins were acquainted and knew how to put the matter to the other delegates. Outside of these two men we did not have the support of a single politician of state-wide reputation. The range delegation and the forty or so visitors could do enough yelling, but when it came to getting votes, we left that to Halden and Hawkins, and they delivered the goods.

"In saying this, it is not my purpose to belittle the wonderful campaign made by Mr. Smith, for he did wonders in getting acquainted and making friends, is clean-cut and thoroughly equipped for the job, but do desire to give credit where credit is due. The two Duluth men mentioned stuck to us through thick and thin, and did more than all the rest of the delegation to bring about the nomination of Mr. Smith, aided by the unit rule that was in force throughout. For without this unit rule Smith would not have been named."

Editor Koen of the Aurora News, who also publishes the Biwabik paper, referring to Halden, says in the editorial columns of the News:

"In taking off our hat we do it in all good grace. We like the fellow who is able to make good. If he makes good with our opposition we dote on him. If we caught him in an alley we might cut his figurative throat because of his hatred for us, but we are pleased and delighted beyond measure in this instance to be able to record that the two Duluth politicians here mentioned did on the occasion heretofore referred to bow to the range; they did all in their power and their power was admittedly supreme to bring about the nomination of the man wanted for state treasurer.

• • •

The Eveleth News, discussing the results of the Republican state convention, takes a rap at Duluth politicians in general and the lawyers among them in particular, because of their insistence upon attempting to force the nomination of Dibell. In connection with the rumored opposition to Auditor Halden at the primaries, the following from the columns of the News is of interest as reflecting range sentiment:

"Norsky Warhorse" Wins Range Approval.

"Speaking of Duluth politicians we except Odin Halden, the Norway warhorse, who stood true to the range candidate and was largely instrumental in bringing about his nomination by constant and tireless efforts in watching every move made on the political checker-board at the state convention. The more we see and hear of Halden the better we understand the imputation that he is a shrewd politician, since his is the faculty of toting square by his friends and fidelity to his word once pledged. In the main it is the one great virtue of success in politics, just as ingratitude is the cardinal sin. The News doffs its hat to Odin, as a man after our own heart."

As an afterthought the News says: "The Duluth papers were loyal to Smith—no gainsaying that."

• • •

Friends are endeavoring to persuade C. O. Baldwin to become a candidate for the state senate in the Fifty-first district. Mr. Baldwin is a Democrat. The movement to make him a candidate, it is explained, is in no way to be construed as reflecting in the remotest way on the incumbent, Senator Laybourn, who is a Republican. However, there seems to be a feeling among many Duluthians—not all of them Democrats, either—that Mr. Baldwin is peculiarly qualified to serve the constituency at this time. It is believed that he is the best man available for the place, that he can do more good for Northern Minnesota in the coming session of the legislature than can any other man who might be selected for the place.

C. O. Baldwin For The Senate.

Just what Mr. Baldwin's decision in the matter will finally be is problematic. It is hoped and believed by friends who have spoken with him of his suggested candidacy that he will get into the race and consent to represent the Fifty-first at St. Paul next year.

However, they have no positive assurance from him that he will do it.

• • •

Al H. Jester's withdrawal from the race for senator in the Sixty-first district, in favor of Albert Berg of Spooner, former secretary of state, is tending to clarify the situation there. The rivals remaining in the field are A. L. Hanson, who represented the district two years ago, and Mr. Berg. Political observers say the chances favor Berg.

• • •

Senator H. F. Peterson, who has filed as a candidate for renomination in the Sixtieth, will be opposed by either Robert J. Wells of Breckenridge, who has served in the house since 1901 and was a candidate for nomination for state auditor, or Charles Marden of Barnesville, an attorney.

• • •

In the Sixth commissioner district of this county there is going to be a lively three-cornered fight for the Republican nomination unless there are withdrawals. Neil McInnis, chairman of the county commissioners, is a candidate for renomination and re-election. Peter Cosgrove of Gilbert has filed as a candidate, and Axel E. Carlson of Virginia is the latest to break into the game. Mr. McInnis is a resident of Eveleth, and with candidates in the field from these three towns, some fur is likely to fly.

MANY DEAD FROM WRECK

on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road. The latter was attempting to make a siding to give the passenger train a clear track when the flying limited, traveling at a rate of fifty miles an hour, flashed around a curve and crashed into it.

A misunderstanding of orders caused the disaster, which was one of the worst that this section of the country has ever experienced. The crash when the trains met was terrific, the freight made up of coal cars, that cars and box cars loaded with lumber. Directly behind the passenger locomotive and the tender was a combination baggage and smoking car, followed by a day coach and a chair car. All the dead and injured were in the first two cars, there being six passengers in the smoker and twenty-one in the day coach.

Seats Torn From Fastenings.

The engines locked into a mass of smashed steel and iron, the heavy passenger locomotive telescoping its smaller fellow as far as the cab. Every seat in the day coach was torn from its fastenings, the roof was thrown to one side, and the heavy weight of massive timbers hurled with awful force, struck among the men and women in the coach.

All bodies from the wreck have been identified but one, that of a woman about 45 years old.

The wrecking crews worked all night and the track was cleared early today. No more bodies were found in the debris.

Seek To Place Blame.

Officials are now trying to place the blame for the wreck. It is known a misunderstanding of orders caused the frightful catastrophe, but which train crew was at fault has not been decided.

It is almost certain that in addition to the coroner's inquest an investigation of the disaster will be made by the railway commission. Both the Big Four and the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railway companies, it is said, are inclined to place the responsibility for the accident on the other. It is said that the state railroad commission will determine this point.

Statement By Coroner.

Coroner Burnett gave out this statement today in regard to the wreck:

"I had a talk with the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton train crew—John Weaver, conductor, and Harry Hamel, engineer—last night. Both had waiting orders to pass the Big Four flyer at Poasttown, or in other words, the Big Four train to wait at Poasttown until 1:08 and if by that time the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton freight had not passed it was to come, each train waiting for the other.

"Hamel claims to have looked at his watch as he passed Middletown and it was just 1 o'clock. The trains collided at either 1:02 or 1:03. Hamel claims that his train was almost at a standstill when the crash came, as he reversed his engine, applied the air and then jumped."

Mrs. A. S. Garringus of Columbus, Ohio, whose husband was among the killed is missing according to word received here today. It is believed that she was the unidentified body.

Baby In Cornfield.

A 7-months' child, alive and uninjured, was found in a cornfield adjoining the scene of the wreck this morning. The child had been there since 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon when it is believed it was hurled into the field in the collision.

The injured: William Henson, engineer; Frank Willis, fireman.

in his prime could have done to Johnson. The white man ended the argument by striking Crawford over the head with a blunt instrument. The negro died later in the hospital.

Negro Nearly Lynched.

Nelson Turner, a negro, was nearly lynched for yelling to a crowd of white men in the "San Juan section:

"We blacks put one oveh on you whites and we're going to do mo' to you."

Then Turner drew a revolver, which missed fire, and in a trice the crowd was on him. He was being hauled to a lamp post when the police rescued him.

There were race troubles in all the boroughs of the city but the police say no further trouble is expected.

Nothing but champagne was served last night in "Baron" Wilkins' cafe in the "Black and Tan" belt, where Johnson makes his New York headquarters. Blacks bought newspapers from white newsboys for 10 cents a piece, refusing to take the change.

In the theaters, the moving picture houses, in Madison Square Garden, American League park and Hippodrome field, where the returns were called out and fighters of varying note posed in illustration of the blows, the crowds were sad and moody after the first few rounds. Kid McCoy, who felt proud of representing Jeffries, had to humble himself in mock defeat to "Battling" Johnson, posing as the champion.

Rioting In Many Places.

Rioting broke out like prickly heat all over the country last night between whites sores and angry that Jeffries had lost the big fight at Reno, and negroes jubilant that Johnson had won.

A white man was shot in Arkansas and a negro was fatally wounded at Roanoke, Va., but the tension that existed everywhere vented itself chiefly in street scuffles. Here and there a knife flashed, and a few scattering shots were fired, but there were more broken heads and black eyes than serious wounds.

In all, there were disturbances in eleven cities, from New York, Pittsburg and Philadelphia in the northwest to New Orleans, Atlanta, St. Louis, Little Rock and Houston in the South and Southwest. In no case did the brawl amount to a serious race riot. There was more rioting in the city of New York almost than in the whole country combined.

As the night progressed the rioting grew more serious. In New York disgruntled whites fired a negro tenement. At Mounds, Ill., a negro constable was killed and another man was mortally wounded; street rioting broke out in Kansas City and Norfolk, and two negroes were shot at New Orleans.

Marine's Throat Slashed.

Washington, July 5.—In a fight late last night resulting from clashes between negroes and white men over the championship battle at Reno, Thomas Mutdle, an enlisted man of the United States marine corps, had his throat cut and is at the casualty hospital in a serious condition.

Another white man, who was found unconscious late at night in Pennsylvania avenue after a free-for-all fight, was taken to the hospital, where it was discovered he had sustained concussion of the brain.

Several other participants in street fights were reported severely injured, but no fatalities have resulted.

Five "Arthur" Johnsons.

Fight fans to the number of 134, who had color prejudices and showed them last night when the returns came in from Reno, lined up in police court today and paid fines, took suspended sentences or went to jail. Caught in the police dragnet that was spread over the local race riots were 102 others who escaped trial by forfeiting bail.

It was a sorry line of prisoners that faced the justice. There were five "Arthur" Johnsons, and numerous Johnsons of other given names. Negro women stood beside white men with bandages over discolored eyes and told the justice they thought they had a right to hurrah for "Arthur."

One soldier, charged with obstructing the sidewalk, told the court he had stood on the corner because he was paralyzed with fear when surrounded by a crowd of negroes.

Many Arrests Made.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 5.—More than 100 whites and blacks, some with their heads bandaged or showing other evidence of their participation in last night's race riot following Johnson's victory at Reno, were stood up before police magistrates today to receive punishment. As a rule the disturbers of the peace were released with a fine, but those more seriously involved in the riots were held in bail for court or sent to the county prison for short terms.

It was a wild night among the rougher element of colored people in the negro sections, but no one was seriously hurt either in the riots or in the hilarious celebrations of the negro champion's triumph.

The disturbances were not confined to any particular part of the city or public parks, fights breaking out nearly everywhere that the two races intermingled. The police were looking for trouble in the event of Johnson's victory and ruled with an iron hand when the trouble came. Clubs were freely used in quelling the disturbances.

WHEAT CROP IS SEVERELY DAMAGED BY LONG DROUTH

which has been used. The reserves in the Northwest probably amount to more than 30,000,000 bu. The Herald estimates the loss on July 1 compared with the final yield last year as 35,217,000 bu.

The best portions in North Dakota are in the extreme southeastern and the extreme northwestern counties. In South Dakota the damage is chiefly in the large counties north of the Chicago & Northwestern line. In Minnesota the chief damage has been in the Red river valley and the western portion. The plant in the southern part is in good shape.

The early sown wheat has suffered irremedial damage, but the late sown wheat will make a good crop if rains materialize soon. Compared with the expectations of the trade, The Herald's report may be characterized as bearish. No attempt was made to estimate abandoned acreage, as it is too early to tell with any degree of accuracy what acreage has been abandoned and what are the prospects for future abandonment.

DR. HYDE SENTENCED FOR LIFE—MUST STAY IN JAIL SIX MONTHS

is that you be confined in the state penitentiary at Jefferson City at hard labor for and during the period of your natural life."

A moment later Dr. Hyde had resumed his seat by his wife at the attorney's table.

His attorneys asked the court to grant bail. This Judge Latshaw said he could not do and then Mr. Lucas presented an affidavit for an appeal to the state supreme court. This was accepted by Judge Latshaw and Hyde was remanded to the county jail.

Must Stay in Jail.

The court said the prisoner would be kept there until the supreme court had passed finally on his case. As the court does not meet until the first week in September and as it has a heavy docket, it is the belief of the attorneys that the case cannot be reached for at least six months.

During today's proceedings in court Dr. Hyde maintained the same deliberate demeanor that marked his conduct through the long trial. He did today what attorneys said was an unusual thing. After having been sentenced and before he signed the affidavit for appeal, the doctor calmly read through the long document word by word, giving no sign of emotion. Finally, having completed the perusal, he affixed his signature, turned toward his wife and engaged her in conversation.

A minute or so later the doctor and Mrs. Hyde were conducted to an anteroom where they were permitted to confer for some time. Then Hyde returned to his cell.

Johnson Not Race Hero.

Johnson is not a hero among most of his race who have met him.

"If we can make arrangements for a special car on a westbound train, Jeffries will leave for San Francisco tonight," said Sam Berger, manager for the defeated champion, today.

"Well, it's all over and I feel happy today," was Tex Rickard's greeting to the newspaper men when he came down to breakfast. "It went through without a hitch and we hold the world's record for attendance, purse and receipts.

Bank Hasn't Finished.

"I don't know how much money we took in. The bank has not finished counting it, but I figure we will clear $100,000 on the gate receipts, besides our interest in the pictures. There were 20,000 people in the pavilion. The seating capacity was a little over 19,000. All the seats were sold except three or four hundred, possibly more, of the $30 and $40 places. But there were a couple of thousand standing around the upper rim of the arena, so I am confident we hold the record for a prize fight crowd in the country if not in the world.

"We still hold a sixth interest in the pictures. We held a sixth interest before the fight for $33,333," and Rickard took a check for the amount from his coat pocket and handed it around.

Fighters Out of Picture Deal.

"As it stands now, neither Johnson nor Jeffries has any interest in the pictures. Jeffries sold his third for $66,000 and Johnson got $50,000 for his.

"I don't want to look back over the past few weeks. It is too painful to think of. I can forget it now that we came through in such fine shape.

"It was a wonderful crowd in many ways. No one ever saw a more orderly one. There was practically no police protection, but in spite of this 20,000 men came here, went through every sort of discomfort in the way of travel, loss of sleep and meals, sat in a boiling hot sun for two hours and yet there was not the least sign of disorder.

"The only time that there was anything like disorder was when the crowd at the gate that clamored for tickets became so large that it threatened to wreck the box office.

Money in the Hole in the Fence.

"Then I got up on the ticket booth and handed down tickets as fast as I could and Gleason knocked a hole in the fence and took cash from all comers for admission without tickets. We must have collected three or four thousand in cash at this hole. A lot of the fellows handed $2 and $5 bills, but I let it go at that and they saw the fight mighty cheap.

"As to the fight, I believe you all saw it and can judge of Jeffries' chances as well as I did. I saw after Jeffries got that jolt that closed his eye, that Johnson had it on him in every way. He did not have the steam. There was no snap and his footwork was slow.

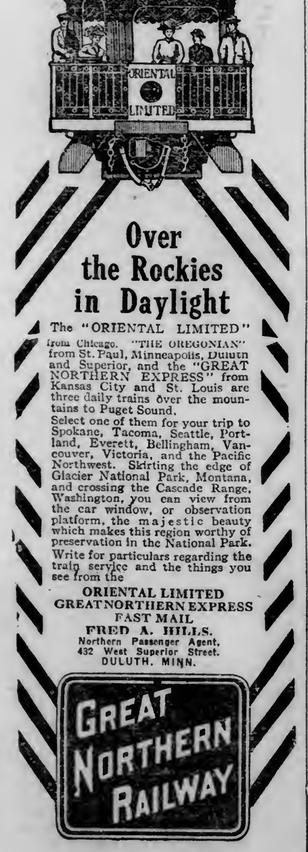

"While Jeffries was not counted out, Berger getting into the ring before the count of ten, he could not, I believe, have got up again. If he had he would have been such a defenseless mark I don't think I would have allowed Johnson to hit him, but would have given a decision then and there."

"Is Life Worth Saving?"

Mrs. Mollie McRaney, Prentiss, Miss., writes that she had a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble, and that four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured her sound and well. She closes her letter by saying: "I heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to any sufferer of kidney disease. It saved my life." Sold by all druggists.

THE FIGHT.

It is to be hoped that the colored brothers will be magnanimous in their treatment of the white brothers now that the supremacy of the black race has been so firmly established at Reno, where Professor Jack Johnson, colored, yesterday made a neat and complete job of polishing off Professor Jim Jeffries, white.

On the whole, judging from the long list of reports of "race riots" following the negro's victory, the black folks have less to reproach themselves for than the white folks. In a considerable proportion of the rows irritated white people seem to have been the aggressors, though here and there negroes precipitated trouble by getting too "cocky" about the triumph of the representative of their race.

There doesn't appear to be any occasion for making a race issue out of yesterday's performance at Reno. The negro obviously was the better man, very much the better man. He had the upper hand almost from the start, and the white man was saved from the humiliation of a knockout only by the magnanimity of the referee and the urgent pleas of Jeffries' friends. While Johnson walked out of the ring with scarcely a mark, according to the report "Jeffries was dragged to his corner bleeding from nose and mouth and a dozen cuts on the face. He had a black, closed eye and swollen features, and he held his head in his hands, dazed and incoherent." We take it that the administering of bruises and cuts and black eyes and swollen features is the object of the game, and that he who gives the most and takes the least has a right to the victory.

The fight probably has cost the sporting section of the country close to half a million dollars. The victor takes down a good-sized fortune, and the loser carries home a comfortable wad. Since this is probably the last great fight that will be held, the impulse to "get the money" seems to have been very strong, and very successful.

The most vital thing about the fight was the widespread interest taken in it. Admitting that it is brutal, that it appeals to instincts that are an atavistic resurrection of the beast in humanity's ancestry, that there is nothing edifying about the spectacle of two men getting up before an audience to see which can deliver the most punishment—admitting all these things, there is no gainsaying the fact that the list of those who watched the fight with keenest interest includes pretty nearly everybody, and that among them were most of those who cry out loudest against the survival of this primitive and brutal amusement.

The fight game is on its last legs, and it is well. Nearly all the states have forbidden it by law, and even Nevada, which has gained unenviable notoriety by giving open house to prizefights and easy divorces, shortly will change its laws so as to bar both. The chances are that the triumph of the black race in the ring will be permanent, and that the last of the great fights has been held. The world will be no worse off for the passing of this sport, but there will be many who will miss it, even though thousands will not admit that they miss it. There is little to be said for the prizefight except that interest in it is very human, and humanity ought to be about ready for more uplifting interests.

And incidentally, now is the time for a record-breaking revival down in that Kansas town where they held special prayer meetings for Johnson's success.

TO WHAT END?

The New York papers tell a thrilling story of how a New Jersey man condemned to death for murder was saved by a reprieve just as the executioner was about to turn the switch that would have sent through his body a fatal current of 2,100 volts.

And the condemned man was peevish about it, and when you hear the story you may experience some of his feeling.

The man, whose name is Arthur Rose, was strapped in the electric chair, and the electrician was waiting with his hand on the switch for the second signal to send the current through the body of the condemned man when the frantic cry "Stop! Stop! A stay!" rang through the death chamber, and Rose was literally pulled out of old Charon's skiff just as his journey was starting.

The story goes that never in the history of New Jersey or any other state, has a life been saved by a reprieve in a manner so sensational or by such a narrow margin. Had there been the slightest slip anywhere along the line Rose's lawyer would have found his stay of no use.

Rose's execution was set for 9:15, and there were no delays. Everything was in readiness. Rose had been fully prepared for the event. His lawyer had told him he intended to apply for a stay, but Rose didn't see any use in it. "It won't do any good, and it will only spoil all the plans," said Rose, with commendable consideration for the arrangements of his executioners.

Nevertheless the lawyer worked like an electric motor for hours. He massed his authorities into telling arrays, and went forth into the streets to find a supreme court judge who could sign a stay. There was only one judge in town, and he was on his way to his country home. The lawyer dashed for the station in an automobile, with utter disregard for the speed ordinance. He found the judge about to step into the train. Talking 300 words to the minute, the lawyer rattled off his reasons and authorities, and convinced the judge just as the train was starting.

"Write out an order and I will sign it," said the judge, as the engine whistled and the wheels began to turn. The order was hastily scribbled on a strap of paper and handed to the judge through the car window by the lawyer, who was running alongside the moving train. The judge hurriedly scrawled his signature and threw the paper out of the car window. The lawyer caught it on the fly, dashed out of the station, jumped into his automobile, and shot away toward the prison. There he brushed past the guards, shouted that he had a reprieve, and arrived in the death chamber just in the "nick of time.".

And the prisoner? "Rose was anything but pleased," says the report. "He did not throw his arms about the lawyer and thank him with tears of gratitude for the noble work he had done in giving him at least another month of life. In fact, he expressed considerable dissatisfaction, and remarked that now it 'would have to be done all over again.'"

It was very thrilling and dramatic, but as the condemned said, "What's the use?" Rose, a few weeks ago, accused his wife of infidelity and then cut her throat at the breakfast table. There was no doubt of his guilt; there is almost no doubt that the death chair yet will claim him. The stay was granted on the ground that there had been an error in the trial.

Life is sweet, and men cling to it under circumstances sometimes unbelievable. But while this lawyer deserves credit for his enterprise and loyalty, it is doubtful if he has done any great service either to society or his client.

SMOOTHING THINGS OVER.

Taking advantage of an eleventh-hour flurry of congressional industry which has created the superficial impression that the administration has accomplished a great deal, Republican party managers and Republican organs are engaged very assiduously in the attempt to make the people forget the conspicuous and ignominious failure of the administration and the party in the real business that confronted this congress—the revision of the tariff.

If these agents of the party can contrive to make noise enough about what happened at the session lately closed to conceal the flaws in the session's achievements, and above all to distract attention from the shameful travesty of tariff revision that disgraced congress and the administration, there is hope of Republican success this fall.

The only question is how easily can the people be fooled by these devices.

One Republican newspaper which is helping in this attempt to smooth things over illustrates the situation with a double cartoon. The first cartoon is "The homecoming of Congressman Blank after the special session which passed the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill." The congressman is sneaking home in the dark, using the garbage can as a step over the back fence. He is saying: "Oh, why did I vote for the tariff bill?"

The second cartoon is "The home-coming of the same congressman after the first half of the Sixty-first congress, which passed the corporation tax bill, the railroad bill, the statehood bill, the postal savings bank bill and other bills." The congressman, chest inflated, head proudly erect, and a self-complacent smirk on his face, is stepping grandly along, while the assembled villagers take off their hats to him and boast of his acquaintance.

That is the way party managers and party organs would like to have it. They would like to believe that the deathbed repentance which produced a handful of laws more remarkable for the principles grudgingly conceded than for any actual reforms they accomplish will divert public attention from the hideous injustices perpetrated by the special session of 1909 in the guise of tariff revision.

That hope will be justified only if the people are as easily fooled as they used to be. They have been fooled often enough. They have shown a capacity to swallow hypocritical pretenses that is almost incredible. They have, for a time, believed that the foreigner paid the tariff tax, that the protective tariff was in the interests of labor, and that the farmer was one of the chief beneficiaries of protection instead of one of its chief victims. They believe these things no longer. The old false rallying cries fall on deaf ears. Are they likely, in these circumstances, to be fooled again into ignoring the wretched infamy of the Republican party's revision of the tariff? Can the party managers, by dangling a few ill-made toys before the eyes of the people, attract their attention away from their real grievance—the failure of the Republican party to revise the tariff in accordance with its promises and with the demand of the people?

The one great issue before this administration and the present congress was that of honest tariff revision. That issue cannot be settled and will not be settled until it is settled fairly and rightly. Any attempt to obscure that issue must be predicated upon a contemptuous belief that the people's capacity for being fooled is without limit.

THE CELEBRATION.

On the whole, yesterday's celebration of the Fourth of July seems to have been pretty decently civilized. In Duluth it was more than ordinarily quiet and free from disaster, though there were several fires and accidents that were due to the celebration. In New York, Boston and other large cities where public sentiment against the insane Fourth has crystalized into sensible laws governing celebrations, the quietest Fourths on record were held, and though few were killed or injured, there seems to have been quite as much fun as though there had been more casualties.

There is hope for the future of the Fourth of July, and it is particularly comforting to know that hereafter explosives will be outlawed in Duluth, an ordinance having gone into effect at midnight last night barring all fireworks except such as are conducted by committees or societies with the consent of the council and under city regulation.

The "safe and sane" Fourth, tried out in a number of cities, is proved to be a success, and it will shortly be the rule and not the exception.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

OPEN LETTER TO COUNTY BOARD OF CARLTON COUNTY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

To the honorable county board of Carlton county, Minn: On June 6, 1910, I appeared before your honorable body with an economic question, namely, a poor farm for Carlton county, and explained to you the people's needs. I also stated where you could secure one section of land for $1,600 for such purposes. You were all opposed to the proposition with but one exception, Charles Johnson. Not even was there anything said about this matter in your proceedings in the Carlton Vidette.

Would you kindly state why these proceedings were not properly published? Are you afraid to tell the voters and taxpayers the truth? I am not. I always tell what I stand for without fear or favor. I stand for justice and humanity. Are you ashamed to have a poor farm in Carlton county, something that is sadly needed, judging from your various published reports? Are you ashamed to have a poor farm on one side while on the other is an enormous pile of wealth? There's an opportunity for you to change such conditions if you will put do your duty.

Anyway, I would like very much to learn why the proceedings of your honorable body were not published as they actually occurred. Yours very respectfully, LORENZ DENZLER.

Carlton, Minn., July 2.

WHAT THE TARIFF COSTS US.

On Woollen Clothing.

Henry George, Jr., in New York World: Going into a small custom-tailor shop to learn the price of clothes, I was told that a suit that last year cost me $35 would this year cost me $40.

When I protested at the increase the tailor replied: "I must get that for wool clothes. Otherwise I ask you less and give you cotton and shoddy."

He took from his shelf some small strips of cloth. To my eyes they were of excellent texture. He frayed the edge of one, and, drawing from it a thick thread, untwisted it. It showed a dusty, short-fiber stuff which signified nothing to my untutored eyes until he explained that this was a mixture of cotton and shoddy. Shoddy is nothing more or less than old clothes ground up. They are ground into powder and are first blown and then rolled into the "woollen" cloth. The shoddy in the strip of cloth the tailor was showing me made a kind of dust on his fingers. The test for the cotton came on touching a lighted match to the frayed part, it burned freely. A purely wool fiber shrivels up rather than burns.

"Either people pay the higher prices for woollen clothes," remarked the tailor, "or else they pay the former lower prices and get cotton and shoddy mixed with the wool. Such clothes do not wear; they turn rusty and get weak and rotten."

This indicates the situation with woollen clothing throughout the country. As prices go up the material deteriorates. This has been the obvious tendency for the past twenty years. The figures for the last decade are not accessible, but it is a plain, bald fact that our woollen mills used one-tenth less wool in 1909 than in 1890, while they used 2,000,000 pounds more of cotton and 15,000,000 pounds more of shoddy. Heaven and the protected woollen manufacturer know how much less wool and how much more cotton and shoddy are being used in "woollen" clothes in this year 1910 than were used in 1900.

And yet our woollen manufacturing barrons are not all to blame. Underneath them are the wool-growing barons, or, as Franklin Pierce describes them, "those flockmasters of Montana, Washington, Idaho and Wyoming who pasture their sheep over our great ranges where * * * they are destroying the very soil, denuding the hills of trees and thus impairing the patrimony of the nation." These "hoofed locusts," as they have also been called, demand and get heavy protection against foreign raw wool.

From this it follows that our woollen manufacturing barons have to pay a high price for their wool and are in turn protected against the foreign woollen manufacturer. In consequence, the American public has to pay for its woollen clothes double the price it would pay if foreign wool and woollens could come in free of duty and compete in our markets.

The Temper of the Committee.

Collier's: A United States senator, in the course of debates with other senators, frequently remarks that "the gentleman spoke with an insolence which will not appear on the pages of the Record," or "with a manner which will not appear in the text of his remarks." And so it is only infrequently that certain words can be detached from the record to show the uniform attitude of sneering brutality which the majority of the Ballinger committee had for Glavis, his counsel, and all who were identified with the effort to introduce light into the interior department. Lawler, in the course of his absurd performance on the stand, libeled two men, J. B. and C. P. Connolly, by fastening on each of them the imputation that he had trampeled on women and children when the steamer Republic went down. The charge was so unfounded that Lawler, two days later, sent to each of the men an unequivocal retraction and apology. A Democratic member of the committee, Mr. James, sought to put in the record a brief and formal denial on behalf of the Connollys, so that years hence Lawler's charge might not appear on the printed record uncontradicted. Mr. Olmsted of Pennsylvania thereupon remarked: "Are we investigating the sinking of the Republic?" This is typical of the fairness and justice of the majority of the committee.

The Tour of a Smile.

My papa smiled this morning when
He came downstairs, you see,
At mamma; and when he smiled then
She turned and smiled at me;
And when she smiled at me I went
And smiled at Mary Ann
Out in the witchen, and she lent
It to the hired man.

So when he smiled at someone whom
He saw when going by,
Who also smiled and ere he knew
Had twinkles in his eye;
So he went to his office then
And smiled right at his clerk,
Who put some more ink on his pen
And smiled back from his work.

So when his clerk went home he smiled
Right at his wife, and she Smiled over at their little child
As happy as could be;
And then their little child, she took
The smile to school, and when
She smiled at teacher from her book
Teacher smiled back again.

And then the teacher passed on one
To little James McBride,
Who couldn't get his lessons done
No matter how he tried;
And Jamesy took it home and told
How teacher smiled at him
When he was tired, and didn't scold.
But said: "Don't worry, Jim!"

And when I happened to be there
That very night at play,
His mother had a smile to spare
Which came across my way;
And then I took it after while Back home, and mamma said;
"Here is that very selfsame smile
Come back with us to bed!"

Like An Inspiration.

Life: Mrs. Von Pater was a greatly troubled woman. Along with the possession of many millions left to her by her late husband had come certain responsibilities. Just at the present moment she was going to Europe.

She spoke to a friend about it one day, or, to be quite fair, it was the friend who first spoke to her.

"I suppose," said the friend, "that you are going to Europe this year?"

"Oh certainly."

The idea of not going to Europe was something that had never remotely occurred to Mrs Von Pater. She had always been to Europe. She would always go.

"When do you start for Europe?" asked another friend.

"Just as soon as I can get ready. I have bookings—"

Thus it was with every one she met. They wanted to know just when she was going, and how long she would be over there. In the meantime Mrs. Von Pater waxed thinner and more anxious.

She hated the thought of Europe. She was tired and longed with an infinite longing to pass a summer in one of her own homes. Besides, all the usual preparations, which once were matters of high enthusiasm, no longer interested her.

She worried about it—night and day she had it on her mind. It was always Europe staring her in the face—the same old Paris, same old Rhine, same old Riviera, same old Alps. Distressing thought!

And then suddenly one night, as she tossed on a sleepless couch, a brilliant idea came to her. It came like an inspiration. It was one of those rare thoughts that come only once in a lifetime.

It suddenly occurred to her that, after all, she did not have to go to Europe. The more she thought of this the more she was convinced that she was right.

"Strange," said Mrs. Von Pater, "that I never thought of this before."

And she stayed at home and was happy ever after.

A Rare Game of Golf.

Washington Star: "When Mark Twain came to Washington to try to get a copyright law passed, a congressman took him out one afternoon to Chevy Chase," said a correspondent.

"Mark Twain refused to play golf himself, but consented to walk over the course and watch the congressman's strokes.

"The congressman was rather a duffer. Teeing-off, he sent clouds of earth flying in all directions. Then, to hide his confusion, he said to his guest:

"'What do you think of our links here, Mr. Clemens?'

"'Best I ever tasted,' said Mark Twain, as he wiped the dirt from his lips with his handkerchief."

THE STATE CONVENTION.

A Wonderful Feat.

Appleton Press: Republican "harmony" can perform miracles. Listen. It caused "progressives" to indorse insurgent Clapp because of and standpat Tawney in spite of, and "regulars" to indorse standpat Tawney because of and insurgent Clapp in spite of.

The Joke of the Year.

Willmar Tribune: The Republican state convention indorsed the Aldrich tariff bill as a fulfillment of Republican party pledges, and then—indorsed the congressmen who voted against the bill.

That Platform.

Red Wing Free Press: Surely the Republicans of Minnesota should feel proud of this platform. Their candidates should declare from the housetops that if elected they will do their utmost to give the people more of the same tariff legislation which has fostered more trusts, created more money powers and caused more suffering among the common people than all other corrupt legislation combined.

Election Is Different.

Fergus Falls, Wheelock's Weekly: The Republican state convention did the expected in renominating Governor Eberhart. His election is not so generally expected.

Bad Ones, Indeed.

Anoka Union (Rep.): Some bad spots on the political moon.

True To Its Record.

St. Cloud Times (Dem.:) Again the Republican party was true to its record—it rejected the only old soldier aspirant—C. M. Sprague.

Putting It Mildly.

Perham Bulletin: The ticket as nominated by the Republican state convention last week, is giving better satisfaction to the people than are the resolutions adopted by the convention. The Minnesota Idea was not incorporated in the platform and the "scratch my back and I'll scratch yours" policy is not meeting with universal favor.

A Platform of Evasion.

Albert Lea Standard: The platform is cowardly. It dodges the tariff, endorses in the same breath the toadyism of Taft, the rectreancy of Tawney and the other Cannon congressman, and the insurgents Clapp, Davis and Lindbergh—and thus by necessary implication the Democrat Hammond—and altogether makes strikingly evident the lack of honest convictions and exposes the sham pretence of the rulers of the party in this state. They stand for the offices for spoils, that's all, and expect again to fool the people by appealing to party, prejudice and by pretending to favor everything, uncertainly, and nothing frankly, in order to win.

It Was Very Good Argument.

Anoka Union: In view of the proceedings at the state convention, the Union is more in favor than ever of extending the primary election law to the state offices.

Tit for Tat.

July Lippincott's: A Long Island man was holding forth with respect to the "borrowing habit" so common in suburban communities, when he was reminded of the following instances:

A writer of miscellaneous matter, being just then engaged on an article on pessimistic literature, learned that one authority he wished to consult—Eduard von Hartmann—was to be found in the library of a lawyer of the place. Accordingly, the writer repaired to the lawyer's house and asked the loan of the volume.

"You are entirely welcome to it," said the owner, "but you mustn't take it from my library. I'm sorry, but I've lost so many books through lending them that a year ago I registered a solemn vow never to let another volume leave my house."

The writer thanked the lawyer, but of course he did not avail himself of the privilege extended him.

Some time later the lawyer came to the writer and asked to borrow his lawn-mower.

"I am delighted to lend you my lawn-mower," said the writer, "though it is my rule never to permit it to leave my lawn. There, however, you may use it to your heart's content."

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Sunny-faced people seldom posses shady characters.

A girl thinks it romantic to be married until she is.

Unsalaried offices frequently have occasion to seek the man.

His Satanic majesty holds the mortgage on many a rich man's property.

A jealous woman with a handsome husband is entitled to a lot of sympathy.

You would never suspect how smart some people are if they didn't tell you.

It's difficult for a girl to cultivate her voice and her friends at the same time.

And the things that do not concern a woman are generally the things that give her the most concern.

If a girl with a dimple still retains it five years after marriage it's proof positive that her marriage wasn't a failure.

A Prayer for Newspaper Men and Writers.

Walter Ranschenbusch in July American Magazine: O thou great source of truth and knowledge, we remember before thee the writers of books, the newspaper men, and all whose calling it is to gather and winnow facts and to inform the people. Grant them a determined love for honest work and a staunch hatred for making of lies, lest they pervert the judgments of our nation and teach us to call light darkness and darkness light. Suffer them not to drug the mind of our people with falsehood and prejudice. Since the sanity and wisdom of a nation are in their charge, may they count it shame to set the baser passions of men on fire for the sake of gain.

Grant them boldness to turn the unwelcome light on those who love the darkness because their deeds are evil. Put into their hands the shining sword of truth, and make them worthy sons of the champions of the people in the past who held truth to be a holy thing for which men should die. Make them realize that they have a public function in the commonwealth, and that their country may be saved by their courage and undone by their cowardice and silence.

Grant them the heart of manhood to cast their mighty influence with the forces which make the people strong and free, and if they suffer loss, may they rejoice in that as proof to their own souls that they too have been friends of the common man and servants of the higher law.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "That early robin," remarked Yorick Hamm, "struts about like a popular actor."

"He has a right to be chesty," declared Hamlett Fatt. "He gets plenty of press notices."

Pittsburg Post: "Our ticket is composed of Mr. Wombat of Ohio, and Mr. Bunk of New York. That's a winning combination, hey?"

"It used to be. You are evidently a politician of the old school. Now our ticket is composed of Mr. Brown of Harvard, and Mr. Robinson of Yale."

Smart Set: Stuyvesant—Like most men I have my faults.

Gladys—Perhaps; but they are so insignificant that no girl would feel justified in marrying you to reform you.

Washington Star: "You trust promoters are blamed for everything that goes wrong."

"Yes," replied M. Dustin Stax, "but that can't last. The baseball umpire will soon be along to take some of the blame."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Oh, Maud," said the other girl, "did you notice that this seaside hotel advertises to furnish young men escorts?"

"I knew the kind," said Maud, bitterly. They are such silly sissies that a girl feels like a chaperon every time she walks out with them."

Meggendorfer Blaetter: Sick Wife—Doctor, I will double your fee if you will prescribe me a trip to the seashore.

Doctor—Very well, madam, I shall do so.

Sick Wife—What were you intending to prescribe?

Doctor—A trip to the seashore.

Kansas City Journal: "Would it be any harm to deceive her about my age?" inquired the elderly millionaire.

"Probably not." "I'm 60. How would it do to confess to 50?"

"I think your chances would be better with her if you claimed 75."

American College: "I enjoy a quiet smoke," said a man to a fellow-passenger of a liner.

"Well," said the stranger moving across the deck, "you will never be troubled with crowds while you smoke cigars of that brand."

Pittsburg Post: "What's the matter, old man? You're all of a shake."

"Somebody swiped the sporting page of my newspaper. I've got to have my daily baseball dope or I'm no good for anything."

How We Became a Democrat.

Homer Sigler in Appleton Press: A Republican is born, not made. Born of Whig and abolitionist stock, by all the rules of heredity we ought to be a Republican, and way back in ancient times when the "Plumed Knight" was running for the presidency, we were as good and as noisy a one as could be desired. We exchanged many a black eye in the service of Blaine, but soon after we began to read and then we soon discovered that we could not be a Republican without doing violence to our conscience. We had been taught that Republicanism was as much an essential of respectability as Presbyterianism, and it took more courage than we then had to openly vow that we felt democratic. When we went to a Presbyterian college we found nine-tenths of the students and all the august faculty save the professor of economics and sociology, were Republicans. This made it harder still to be a Democrat. But we felt it coming over us. The more we studied the more we became convinced that the genuine Democrat is a man with a principle that all men should have an equal chance for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and that the genuine Republican is a man with a purpose—to fill the pockets of the few at the expense of the many. We grew in strength. In spite of ridicule and abuse, we became openly Democratic. It was the proudest victory of our youth when we could hold up our head and say without blushing, "I am a Democrat." And then we discovered that when the Republicans had been shouting, "dampfool," "jackass," "mugwump," "ignoramus," "off-scouring," "anarchist," "copperhead," "demagogue," instead of telling off Democrats, as we when a boy supposed they were, they were simply calling out their own names like the chick-a-dee or the kill-deer. Then we discovered that while they had a monopoly on nearly everything else, the Republicans had no monopoly on ridicule. With voice and pen we began feeding them the dope and we've been at it ever since, and the thicker the Republicans the better we like it, for the nearest a sinner can come to performing a miracle is when he dishes out ridicule to Republicans for he can satisfy a multitude with a small chunk, they are so vulnerable.

At the Door.

I thought myself indeed secure,
So fast the door, so firm the lock;
But, lo! he toddling comes to lure
My parent ear with timorous knock.

My heart were stone could it withstand
The sweetness of my baby's plea,
That timorous, baby knocking, and,
"Please let me in, it's only me."

I threw aside the unfinished book,
Regardless of its tempting charms;
And, opening wide the door, I took
My laughing darling in my arms.

Who knows but in eternity
I, like the truant child, shall wait—
The glories of a life to be
Beyond the heavenly Father's gate?

And will that heavenly Father heed
The truant's supplicating cry,
As at the outer door I plead,
"'Tis I, Father, only I?"

FOURTH TAKES TOLL OF ONE LIFE AND SEVERAL FIRES

Lester G. Tobie Is Drowned While Bathing in the Lake.

Several Minor Accidents and One Costly Fire on Holiday.

Lester G. Tobie, 35 years of age, was drowned in Lake Superior about 300 feet from the shore while bathing about 6 o'clock last evening. He was either caught in an eddy which he was unable to withstand, or was seized with a cramp.

The body was recovered this morning, when a crew of life savers dragged the shore line. It was taken to the Stewart undertaking rooms. No funeral arrangements have been made.

His death was the only fatality of Duluth's Fourth, which, however took its usual tribute in fire and minor accidents of a more or less serious nature.

Tobie and a party of three women and a man had gone to the boat club on Minnesota Point with the intention of bathing on the lake side, but the water was found to be too cold. Mr. Tobie went in the lake alone while the others sought the warmer waters of the bay. When they returned to look for their companion he couldn't be found.

The life saving station lookout had seen him swim out about 300 feet and then suddenly sink. A boat was immediately sent to the scene but no trace of him could be found. The search for the body was continued this morning.

Mr Tobie was an expert swimmer. The unfortunate man was unmarried and resided in a flat of the Bridgeman & Russell apartments on West First street. He is survived by his mother and sister, living in Prairie City, Ill., a brother in Kansas City, and another sister in Nevada. The relatives were immediately notified of the accident.

Minor Accidents.

Chris Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. O F. Lee, had his face torn badly and may lose the sight of one eye from a firecracker, which he put in a bottle and exploded while holding it in his hand. His father had told him not to celebrate with firecrackers, but he obtained one from a neighbor boy and decided to make the most of it. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Bernard Ryan, 9 years old, struck his head on a rock while diving in a swimming hole. An ugly cut in his head was sewed up at St. Mary's hospital. He resides at 614 Twentieth avenue west.

Neal Vance, a member of the Rochester baseball team, is in a very serious condition at St. Mary's hospital, having been struck on the head with a pitched ball during yesterday afternoon's game. His skull was fractured and his recovery is in doubt.

John S. Griffith sustained a broken collar bone in a tussle with friends. It was set by a local physician.

Cecil Bavor, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Bavor, was shot in the leg by a 32-caliber cartridge exploded on a rock by a boy. She was standing about fifty feet away when shot. The injury is not very serious.

The Day's Fires.

In addition to the large fire which gutted the warehouse of the Wilson Bros.' Fruit company on West Michigan street, the department answered alarms to several lesser conflagrations. The residence owned by Gust Bergquist at 1927 West Fourth street, was damaged to the extent of $1,500. The blaze is thought to have been started by fire crackers. The roof of the residence of I. B. Hoover, 213 Mesaba avenue, was burned through by fire, which started in a clothes closet. A brush fire at Fourteenth avenue west and Third street was put out after it had burned several acres, and several lesser brush and grass fires were reported in other parts of the city.

The number of arrests was unusually small. But few were charged with drunkenness and the other were booked up on minor offenses.

The Fourth was the sanest and safest which the city has experienced since it outgrew its village skirts. The "request" of Mayor Cullum that no fireworks be displayed last night was quite generally obeyed. Where it was not, a policeman politely "requested" the offenders to desist. The big celebrations scheduled in different parts of the town were postponed until after the first drenching rain, but during the day the use of firecrackers was unrestrained. But there wasn't nearly the volume of noise that has characterized other Fourths.

Several small balloons were seen floating towards the sky, but the police were unable to learn who started them out. As far as could be learned they were not instrumental in starting any fires.

The biggest celebration was probably planned for the Country club at the golf grounds. More than $1,000 had been invested in expensive red fire, but realizing that should they be allowed to burn up their pieces the same permission would have to be granted others, the officers of the club put the fireworks on the shelf until a later date.

A Few Short Weeks.

Mr. J. S. Bartell, Edwardsville, Ill., writes: "A few months ago my kidneys become congested. I had severe backache and pain across the kidneys and hips. Foley Kidney Pills promptly cured my backache and corrected the action of my kidneys. This was brought about after my using them for only a few short weeks and I can cheerfully recommend them." Sold by all druggists.

LAST UNSAFE AND INSANE FOURTH

New Ordinance Regulating Fireworks Now in Effect in Duluth.

Yesterday saw Duluth's last "unsafe and insane" Fourth.

At midnight the new ordinance prohibiting the sale or use of firecrackers, fireworks or explosives of any kind, went into effect.

Next year no dealers will have any stock on their shelves to gladden the heart of the small boy. Every effort was made to clean them out before midnight and those who didn't succeed will likely burn up the remnants the first night after a rain.

Never again will the Roman candle or the skyrocket indiscriminately illumine the skies on the night of the nation's birthday. Under the ordinance now in force, passed several months ago, the only celebrations allowed are those in charge of clubs or other organizations. And they must first obtain permission from the city council. Further, all the displays must be under the eagle eye of the fire warden.

HIRAM CARPENTER'S WONDERFUL CURE OF PSORIASIS

After 20 Years of Intense Suffering When All Thought He Had but Short Time to Live. Earnestly Prayed to Die. Condition Deplorable Beyond Description.

Tries Cuticura. Eureka! Relief at Once. Stopped Terrible Burning Sensation from Word Go. In Six Weeks Skin Smooth as This Paper.

"I have been afflicted for twenty years with an obstinate skin disease, called by some M. D.'s. psoriasis, and others leprosy, commencing on my scalp; and in spite of all I coulu do, with the help of the most skilful doctors, it slowly but surely extended until a year ago this winter it covered my entire person in the form of dry scales. For the last three years I have been unable to do any labor, and suffering intensely all the time. Every morning there would be nearly a dustpanful of scales taken from the sheet on my bed, some of them half as large as the envelope containing this letter. In the latter part of winter my skin commenced cracking open. I tried everything, almost, that could be thought of, without any relief. The 12th of June I started West, in hopes I could reach the Hot Springs. I reached Detroit and was so low I thought I should have to go to the hospital, but finally got as far as Lansing, Mich., where I had a sister living. One Dr. —— treated me about two weeks, but did me no good. All thought I had but a short time to live. I earnestly prayed to die. Cracked through the skin all over my back, across my ribs, arms, hands, limbs; feet badly swollen; toe-nails came off; finger-nails dead and hard as a bone; hair dead, dry and lifeless as old straw. O my God! how I did suffer.

"My sister, Mrs. E. H. Davis, had a small part of a box of Cuticura in the house. She wouldn't give up; said, "We will try Cuticura." Some was applied on one hand and arm. Eureka! there was relief; stopped the terrible burning sensation from the word go. They immediately got Cuticura Resolvent, Ointment and Soap. I commenced by taking one tablespoonful of Cuticura Resolvent three times a day after meals; had a bath once a day, water about blood heat; used Cuticura Soap freely; applied Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. Result: returned to my home in just six weeks from the time I left, and my skin as smooth as this sheet of paper. Hiram E. Carpenter, Henderson, N.Y."

"We hereby certify that we are acquainted with the aforesaid Hiram E. Carpenter, and know his condition to have been as stated. We believe his statement to be true in every particular." L. B. Simmons & Son, Merchants; G. A. Thompson, Merchant; A. A. Davis; Millard E. Joiner, Merchant; John Carpenter; A. M. Leffingwell, Attorney and Counselor-at-law, all of Henderson, N. Y.

The above remarkable testimonial was written January 19, 1880, and is republished because of the permanency of the cure. Under date of April 22, 1910, Mr. Carpenter wrote from his present home 610 Walnut St. So., Lansing, Mich.: "I have never suffered a return of the psoriasis and although many years have passed I have not forgotten the terrible suffering I endured before using the Cuticura Remedies."

Since this cure was made by the Cuticura Remedies, they have made their way to every part of the civilized world. A 32-page booklet describing humors and affections of the skin will be mailed free to those desiring further information by the Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation, Boston, U. S. A.

HALF TOWN BURNS DOWN

Only Serious Fourth of July Disaster Is at Benton, Pa.

Chicago, New York and Other Cities Find Sane Day Good Thing.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 5.—Fire at Benton, Columbia county, last night, caused by a firecracker lodging in a barn, destroyed half the town. The Benton Argus plant, a hotel, bank and principal stores, and twenty-five dwellings are in ashes.

One Killed in Chicago.

Chicago, July 5.—According to the police reports, at midnight, the Fourth of July celebration here had resulted in one death and injuries to twenty-two persons. Last year forty-seven were injured and one killed.

Sane in Des Moines.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 5.—Although there were minor injuries reported as a result of yesterday's celebration, there were no serious accidents. The day was the sanest ever held in Des Moines. The only July Fourth fire resulted in $6,000 loss in Iowa City, caused by firecrackers.

One Death in New York.

New York, July 5.—The first denatured "safe and sane" Fourth in New York city passed into history last night with not a single death by gunshot wounds, explosions, or burns to mark its exit, with very little noise and comparatively few people to hear what little noise there was.

The only fatality in any way connected with the celebration of the Fourth occurred at night. While watching the fireworks display on Riverside drive, Miss Sophia Giese was struck on the head by an aerial bomb that failed to explode, and was killed.

The near elimination of the toy pistol, the cheap revolver, the firecracker and the torpedo made itself felt first in the city hospitals. Although they reported an excess over the usual run of accident cases, the number was insignificant as compared with the hundreds of former years. Fires were few. Sick rooms blessed the absence of noise.

There were patriotic addresses, patriotic songs and the old-fashioned reading of the Declaration of Independence.

No Firecracker Fatalities.

Omaha, Neb., July 5.—Six persons lost their lives in and about this city yesterday. Four occupants of a rowboat on Carter lake were drowned by the capsizing of the boat; an unidentified boy mot death under an automobile and a colored man is dead as the result of a quarrel.

Celebrate in Berlin.

Berlin, July 5.—Nearly 500 Americans joined in the celebration in honor of the Fourth. They chartered a steamer on the Spree and indulged in baseball and other games at Gruneau. Ambassador Hill made a brief speech in which he toasted President Taft and the emperor. Greetings were sent by cable to the president.

If your "big think" just now is about clothes, you'll find "thought food" in plenty in the ads.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

"WHITE MAN'S HOPE" IS DECISIVELY CRUSHED BY GREAT BLACK CHAMPION

Jeffries Is Beaten Down and Vanquished in Fifteenth Round.

Knock-Out Is Technically Avoided By Referee and Seconds.

White Man Never Has a Chance Against Wonderful Negro.

Reno, Nev., July 5.—John Arthur Johnson, a Texas negro, the son of an American slave, today is the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world.

James J. Jeffries of California, winner of twenty-two championship fights, the man who was never brought to his knees before by a blow, has passed into history as a broken idol. He met utter defeat at the hands of the black champion.

While Jeffries was not actually counted out, he was saved only from his cowering shame by his friends pleading with Johnson not to hit the fallen man again. At the end of the fifteenth round, Referee Tex Richard raised the black arm and the great crowd filed out glum and silent.

Jeffries was dragged to his corner bleeding from nose and mouth and a dozen cuts on the face. He had a black, closed eye and swollen features and he held his head in his hands, dazed and incoherent.

Johnson walked out of the ring without a mark on his body, except a slight cut on his lip which was the opening of a wound received in training.

Ring experts agree that it was not even a championship fight. Jeffries had a chance in the second round, perhaps, but after the sixth, it was plain that he was weakened and outclassed in every point and after the eleventh round, it was hopeless.

Could Not "Come Back."

It was the greatest demonstration the ring has ever seen of the failure of a fighter to "come back" after years of retirement. The youth and science of the black man made Jeffries look like a green man. The great Jeffries was like a log. The reviled Johnson was like a black panther in his alertness and defensive tactics.

Jeffries fought by instinct, it seemed, showing his gameness and his great fighting heart in every round, but he was only the shell of his old self. The old power to take a terrible beating and bore in until he landed the knock-out blow was gone.

After the third round Johnson treated his opponent almost as a joke. He smiled and blocked playfully, warding off the bear-like rushes of Jeffries with a marvelous science, now tucking a blow under his arm, again plucking it out of the air as a man stops a baseball.

Out of the sea of opinions and arguments that bolstered up this fight and made it the talk of the world, these pinnacles of fact have been cast up:

The fight was on the square. Of that there was no doubt after the first round.

There was no evidence or hint of the famous "yellow streak" on the part of Johnson. Johnson proved himself so absolutely Jeffries' master that experts such as W. Corbett, the Australian sporting writer and ring expert, declared that Tommy Burns had put up a better fight against Johnson, and that the black man was only playing with the other man.

End Comes Quickly.

The end was swift and terrible. It looked as though Johnson had been holding himself under cover all the rest of the time, and now that he had measured Jeffries in all his weakness, he had determined to stop it quickly.

Jeffries had lost the power of defense. A series of right and left uppercuts delivered at will sent him staggering to the ropes. He turned and fought back by instinct as though he was dying hard.

With the exception of a few fast rounds, the fight was tame. Jeffries did not have the power in his punch to hurt Johnson after he had received blow after blow on the jaw, and his vital power was ebbing. But even before this stage came, Jeffries could not reach the black. The blows, almost all of them, landed with all the speed taken out of them.

The fifteenth round started with a clinch after Jeffries had failed to land on the body. Johnson then tore loose and before the spectators were prepared for the finish he had sent Jeffries down with lightning-like left and right blows to the jaw. Jeffries reeled and fell half way through the ropes on the west side of the ring. Those near him say that he had lost sense of his surroundings, and that the faces at the ring side were a blur to him. His time had come. He was feeling what he had caused others to feel in the days of his youth and power.

Johnson came over to the spot and stood poised over his adversary, his body ready for a left hook if Jeffries regained his feet.

Jim Corbett, who twice had gone down before Jeffries' blows and who had stood in Jeffries' corner all during the fight telling Johnson what a fool he was and how he was in for the greatest beating of his life, now ran forward with outstretched arms crying "Oh, go back, don't hit him."

Game to the Last.

Jeffries painfully raised himself to his feet. His jaws had dropped, his eyes were nearly shut, and his face was covered with blood. With trembling leggs and yielding arms, he tried to put up a defense, but he could not stop a terrific right smash in the jaw, followed by two left hooks. He went down again. Jeffries' physician and other friends jumped into the ring.

"Stop it," they cried. "Don't put the old fellow out."

Sam Berger, Jeffries' manager, ran along the ring calling to Bob Armstrong: "Bring that towel—you know what I mean—don't let him get hit."

From Johnson's corner, his seconds were calling to him to quit. Then the referee stopped the time-keeper and it was all over.

The soothing liquids were applied to the fallen champion's bruised face but his heart was something that could not be reached. As soon as he regained his sense of position and of the rapid fire of events that had pushed him into oblivion, he took his head in his hands and groaned.

"I was too old to come back," he said.

Corbett and Joe Choynski and Brother Jack and the others were ready to cry, but they united in trying to cheer the defeated man.

In an instant after the crowd realized that the fight was over, the ring was stampeded by a wild throng. The short end betting men were hilarious, but in the great mass of the spectators, there was a feeling of personal loss. Hope had lived in thousands of breasts until the last minute and now their idol had crumbled and this black man stood peerless. They could not help but admire him, and there was little animosity shown towards him. For the most part, the people were silent, just readjusting things in their minds. Hundreds swallowed the bitter pill of heavy financial loss.

Fight Late in Starting.

With no preliminaries of hand-shaking or picture-posing, the men faced each other at 2:45 o'clock.

There was no attempt on the part of the Jeffries men to frighten the negro. They figured he would be trembling with fear at the sight of the white monster and there were many cries of "Cold feet, Johnson" when his entrance in the ring was delayed.

And when the men stood up at last to fight it out, each was on their own resources and it was plain that the negro was very nervous.

The men smiled at each other. Jeffries feinted, Johnson gifted away and they smiled again. Johnson tried out a straight left and tapped Jeffries' face. They clinched and worked cautiously for body blows, but there was little snap in either and they were still waltzing when the round ended.

At the opening of the second round Jeffries came up with his old crouch and his left arm stuck out like a scantling. This was the blow and the attitude that carried him to glory in the early days of his fighting career.

But there was a change in the negro. He had found himself. This was no terror of the mountains to be afraid of. Here was a simple boxer and in his heart, Jack Johnson believed he was master. Six years ago, when Johnson whipped Jack Jeffries, he walked up to Jim, who was in his brother's corner and said: "I can whip you too."

And this conviction was uppermost in him when the second round began. The slight indecision and trembling of Johnson's mouth and the glint of trouble in his eyes, was gone. He forced the fighting and in a clinch made his first attempt at his carefully developed right uppercut. Jeffries took it without flinching. He tried another but missed. The men wrestled and Johnson showed that he was as strong as Jeffries.

"All right Jim, I'll love you if you want me to," said Johnson as they clinched just after the gong rang.

Between the whisking of towels and dashing of water and hasty gargling, Delaney poured into Johnson's ear some golden advice. He knew now—probably knew long before the battle—just how it would end. Did he not know every inch of Jeffries' body and the limitations of his brain? Each blow taught him what had happened in five years of easy life and where the cigarettes had sucked power from the once mighty man.

Jeffries' Last Chance.

In the second, third and fourth rounds, Jeffries had his chance if he ever had one. The fight showed that he could not stay long. His friends claim now that if he had started with his entire force he could have reached Johnson with the sleeping punch. On the other hand, men, whose opinions are valued on these matters, say that wrestling bouts. The men refused to break in clinches, and six times half a minute passed without a blow being struck.

At the beginning of the fourth round, Richard became disgusted with the way things were going, and when Corbett told Jeffries to take it easy as he started for the center of the ring, the referee said: "Quit this motion work—get busy, boys."

Jeffries assumed his crouch and started for Johnson as if he would mow him down with one blow. But the black was not there. His shadow fell across the spot where Jeffries' blow was aimed. They came together and Johnson missed for the fourth time a damaging right uppercut. Here he began to try out his new blow—a left upper cut, testing it for the first time.

Johnson kept up a fire of jokes and repartee, sometimes with Jeffries, often with Corbett and again with sporting writers.

"He will kill you, Jack," yelled a sporting man who had bet $10,000 on Jeffries. "That's what they all say," retorted Johnson, and for answer he shot a snappy left to Jeffries' face and they came to a clinch. In this round Jeffries landed the only blow that came near hurting Johnson. It was a body blow that made the black wince. It was the only round in which Jeffries had an advantage and at the opening of the fifth Johnson came up as good as new.

Only One Side to It.

The pace up to and through this round was slow. Neither man was badly hurt. The tide of battle in this time flowed into the Johnson corner, and victory for the black man was only a question of rounds.

Johnson opened up his heavy battery at the opening of the fatal round. It seemed no great effort to him to finish it all. There was only one side to it.

Less than an hour of fighting had served to bring to an end the career of the man hitherto believed invincible, and had settled the questions that have been agitating the sporting world since Johnson won the championship from Burns.

The story of the fight by rounds follows:

ROUND ONE.

Jeffries walked in and feinted. Both smiled and Johnson gave ground. Johnson led a straight left and landed lightly on Jeffries' face. They were cautious in the clinch, Johnson shoving Jeffries away. Jeffries walked in and hooked a left to the neck and in the clinch sent a blow to the body. Johnson responded with a left, and they continued to stand breast to breast, trying for short inside blows. As they broke Jeffries sent a left to Johnson's neck, and the negro stepped in but missed. Time.

The gong rang when they were clinched. The fighting was tame and they turned to their corners, Jeffries looked back over his shoulder and laughed.

ROUND TWO.

Jeffries assumed his crouch, but missed his first attempt. Johnson feinted, but Jeffries stepped nimbly away. Jack sent a left to Jeffries' face, and as they clinched, ripped in a hard uppercut to Jeffries' chin. They held together and each willing to give way a little, Jeffries sent a right to the ribs and took a left on the face at close quarters. Jeffries crouched and waited for Johnson, but he was not willing. They came together without a blow and Johnson tried his uppercut, but missed. Jeffries put his right on Jack's shoulder and pushed him. When they broke Jack shot his left hard to Jeffries' face and tried his uppercut, but missed it again. There was a lot of wrestling and not much fighting. The gong rang without a good blow having been struck.

ROUND THREE.

"Take it easy, Jeff," said Corbett as they walked to the center.

Jeffries smiled and led for the head with left but missed. Johnson hooked a stiff left to the body and right to the head, but neither blow was hard. They shoved and pushed each other about the ring. Jeffries hooked a left to body and got under Johnson's right. Jeffries stood breast to breast and they held and shoved about the ring. Johnson sent two left jabs to the face and tried his right for the chin, but missed the latter. Jeffries smiled at the left blows, and continued to bore in. It was simply a wrestling bout thus far. Jeffries kept walking on calmly, but missed a left body blow, Jack blocking him perfectly. Jeffries did not seem to breathe hard, but Johnson appeared nervous as he was rubbed down.

ROUND FOUR.

Jeffries took his crouching position again and walked into him. He missed and they came together in a lock. Johnson tried his right for the chin, but missed and they began an exchange of talk.

"Don't rush, Jim. Don't you hear what I'm telling you?" asked Johnson as Jeffries forced him back and they came to a clinch.

Jeffries put a left to the face and started the blood from Johnson's lip. The crowd yelled, "First blood for Jeffries!" but Johnson only smiled. As Jeffries walked in, Johnson shot a snappy left to his face, and they came to a clinch. Jeffries sent a left to Jack's face; Johnson came back with a right, but Jeffries neatly ducked it and the round ended. Jeffries' round.

ROUND FIVE.

Jeffries walked straight out to Jack and tried to land his left. They both sparred carefully, and Jeffries' left for the body was blocked. In the clinch that followed Jeffries shoved Jack back easily. When they broke Jack swung his left for the body but missed. Johnson shot an uppercut and cut Jeffries' lip slightly. As they broke Jack landed a left to the face and Jeffries came right back with a left on the body. Johnson held Jeffries' arms and as they broke Jack again tried an uppercut. He missed, but stung Jeffries on the face with a left.

"Go on, Jeffries!" shouted Corbett. "That left is a joke."

Jeffries stepped in and shot a straight left to Jack's head, and the crowd cheered. The gong found them in a clinch.

The pace was slow up to this time, with damage to neither man.

ROUND SIX.

Again Jeffries crouched. They stepped around each other. Johnson trying to send in stiff lefts to the face. One of them cut Jeffries' cheek a bit. Again they lolled in each other's embrace, but neither willing to take chances. Jeffries rushed but missed a left for the body and took a left on the chest in return. Johnson kept up a running flow of language to Jeffries when they came to a clinch, but Jeffries calmly chewed gum and waded in. Jeffries missed Jack with a left and took a left and a right on the head. Jeffries got a left on the face. Johnson closed Jeffries' right eye. Jack missed two rights. Jeffries' nose was bleeding when the gong rang.

When Jeffries took his seat his seconds got busy with his eye, but Jeffries assured them that it was O. K. and they only sponged his face. Johnson's round.

ROUND SEVEN.

Jeffries walked right in, but before he had a chance Jaack led with right and left and missed. Jeffries' eye was badly swollen and he rubbed it with his glove. He feinted and tried to draw Johnson on, but the negro declined to come in. Jeffries stepped in with a left for the body, but missed it and took a left on the head. Jeffries hooked a left to the head and Johnson laughed loudly. Jeffries got in a left in the face twice at close range. Jeffries butted his way into another clinch but failed to land. He drew Jack's head and shot a left to the face. Jack's lips bled. In a close quarter Jack sent his left to the face twice and Jim's lip bled. This round was somewhat faster.

ROUND EIGHT.

"Come on Jeff," said Jack as they faced each other.

Jeffries "came on" and got a left in the face. He missed Jack's body with a left and took two lefts on the face. "Hello, Jimmy!" said Jack to Corbett as he leaned on Jeffries. "Did you see that one?"

Jeffries walked into a left to the face and then they mauled each other without hurting each other.

"Come on, break," said Jeff as Jack held his gloves.

Rickard did not touch the men, but allowed them to take their time. Jeffries missed twice with his left and took a left on the face. Jack tried several times to put his right through, but failed to connect. Jeffries shoved Jack about, seemingly with ease. The gong found them locked.

Johnson's blows up to now had been snappy and cleaner than Jeffries' had, but outside of a bruised eye Jeffries was not hurt.

ROUND NINE.

Jeffries stood up and walked into a left to the chest.

"Make him fight, Jim," yelled Corbett.

"Never mind, just wait," responded Johnson.

Johnson walked in and tried a left for the body. Jeffries got inside of it and put his head against Johnson's chest and shoved the black fellow back to the ropes. Jeffries took it all calmly and seemed to be waiting the opportunity. Jack failed for the head. He stepped in quickly and shot a left hard for the body, but Jeffries' glove was there first. Jeffries walked into two left jabs on the face that did no damage. He swung his left arm around Jack's neck as they came together. His wrist landed hard on the ribs and Johnson did not appear to like it

ROUND TEN.

They came up quickly. Jack shot a left to the face but Jeffries brushed it away and responded with a left to the body. Jack again missed a lightning right for the jaw and they mauled about the ring in a clinch. Jeffries put his shoulder against Johnson's body and shoved him back. At close range Johnson sent a left uppercut to the mouth and as they broke missed a right for the jaw. Jeffries got under a left lead and seemed to want to wear Jack out by bearing down his weight and shoving him about. Jeffries struck two lefts to the face from a clinch and got one of the same kind in return. Johnson took two lefts in the face when they broke, Johnson stepped in quickly and shot a left to the body, just as the gong rang.

Jeffries appeared to be fresh as he awaited the gong, and waiched Jack. Johnson was also fresh, but appeared less at ease as he frowned across the ring at Jeffries.

ROUND ELEVEN.

They walked up carefully, Jeffries finally trying his left once to find it blocked. He took a left on the face three times, but smiled and talked to Jack in the clinches. They broke away and Jack sent a stiff left uppercut to the face and a right to the body. He kept Jeffries bobbing his head to escape the right upercut whenever they got together. In a clinch Jack sent three uppercuts to the face in quick succession. Jeffries appeared tired. They shoved about, Jeffries with his head on Jack's shoulder, and when they finally broke Jack hooked his left hard to the nose. The blood flowed from Jeffries' nose and lips. He appeared slow compared with Jack's snappy blows. Just before the call of time Jeffries rushed to Jack and sent left and right to the body, but Jack was going away and was not hurt. Decidedly Johnson's round.

ROUND TWELVE.

Jim walked forward, waiting for a chance to get inside the negro's impenetrable defense. Jack simply waited and then threw back or hooked a left to the face.

"Thought you said you were going to have me wild," said Johnson.

Jeffries said nothing.

Jeffries rushed and butted in till his head rested on the black man's shoulder, and then tried to rip in body blows. They were blocked almost before they were started, however, and the negro's blocking drew a cheer from the crowd. Jeffries forced him to close quarters, but got a left on the sore nose for his reward. His nose bled freely and as he turned to take his seat at the gong he spat out a mass of blood. Jeffries was not worried apparently.

Jeffries looked fresh. Johnson seemed to gain confidence as the fight progressed.

ROUND THIRTEEN.

Putting his right glove before his face, Jeffries walked into a clinch without a blow. When they broke Johnson sent a left to the body and a right uppercut touched the chin.

"Stick there, Jim," shouted Corbett.

Jeffries stuck until he was forced away. Then he took two lefts and a right uppercut to the face. Johnson sent in three lefts to the face in quick succession and then uppercut to the face. Jeffries seemed tired and slow. He could not solve the negro's defense and took all the blows that came his way. Jack stood back and swung left to the face, then calmly clinched. Jeffries continued to come in in spite of the punishment.

This round was all Johnson's. Jeffries' eye was almost closed.

"Cover up," he said Corbett between the rounds. "You will get him."

ROUND FOURTEEN.

Jeffries walked straight into a left and they hung onto each other. Jack tapped the big fellow on the face with the left twice, blocking Jeffries' attempt at close fighting. Shambling forward, Jeffries took three straight lefts to the face and got in a left to the face lightly.

Jeffries' lefts were simply picked out of the air by the clever negro before they could get within six inches of his face.

"How you feel, Jim?" said Jack as they stood clinched. "How you like 'em, Jeffries?"

Jeffries was sober and made no response. He walked into three lefts in quick succession.

"They don't hurt," said Jeff.

"I will give you some of them now," said Johnson, and he proceeded to send in two lefts to the face.

ROUND FIFTEEN.

When the men faced each other it was plain to all that Jeffries was in distress. His face was puffed and bleeding from the punishing lefts and rights no had received, and his movements were languid. He shambled after the elusive negro, sometimes crouching low with his left hand stuck out in front, and sometimes standing erect. Stooping or erect, he was a mark for Johnson's accurately driven blows. Johnson simply waited for the big white man to come and chopped his face to pieces. They came into a clinch after a feeble attempt by Jeffries to land a left-hand blow on the body, and as they broke away, Johnson shot his left and right to the jaw in a flash. Jeffries staggered back against the ropes. His defensive power seemed to desert him in an instant Johnson went at him like a tiger. A rain of lefts and rights delivered at close quarters sent Jeffries reeling this or that way. Another series of short, snappy punches, and the big white giant went down for the first time in his ring career. He fell under the top rope, over the lower one, and onto the overhang of the platform. Resting on his haunches and right elbow, Jeffries looked around in a dazed way, and got up at the count of nine. While he was down Johnson stood almost over him until Rickard waved him back. He stood ready to strike, and when Jeffries arose from his knees he dashed in again. Jeffries reeled about and tried to clinch, but Johnson eluded him and as the old champion swung around to the south side of the ring, he jolted him twice on the jaw. Jeffries sank to his knees, weak and tired, but got up again at the count of nine. It was then that Jeffries friends began to call to Rickard to stop the fight.

"Stop it, stop it," they shouted from all sides "Don't let him be knocked out."

Rickard gave no heed to these appeals. Jeffries was helpless now and as he staggered to a standing position, the negro was waiting for him. A left, a right and another left, short, snappy, powerful, found their way to Jeffries' chin and he went down for the third time. Again he sprawled over the lower rope, hanging half outside the ring. The time-keeper raised and lowered his arm, tolling off the seconds. He had reached the count of seven when some of Jeffries' seconds put foot inside the ropes and Rickard walked between the fallen man and the negro champion. Placing his hand on Johnson's shoulder, he declared him the winner. While Jeffries was not counted out, this was a merely technical evasion. It was evident that he never could have got up inside of ten seconds.

BIG SUM CHANGES HANDS ON FIGHT.

Reno, Nev., July 5.—It is estimated that over a quarter of a million dollars were won and lost in Reno alone on the outcome of yesterday's fight. Betting Commissioner Corbett announced that three wagers of $10,000 each and several approximating $5,000, which were entrusted to him at the ringside by men of national prominence.

DAWSON WINS IN LAST FIVE MILES

Exciting Finish to 200-Mile Race at Indianapolis Speedway.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 5.—Dawson, driving a Marmon car, snatched victory from Burman, with a Marquette-Buick in the last five miles of the annual 200-mile race for the Cobe trophy at the motor speedway yesterday. Burman, who had led nearly all of the long way, flashed over the wire of the electrical timing machine only three seconds behind the winner. A pause for a new tire at the 195th mile cost him the race.

Undeterred by rain that had fallen since morning, thousands were in the stands when the fourteen entrants lined up for the big feature of the motor meet. Burman did not stop once until the 180th mile, when a front tire blew up. He made a quick change without losing first place, but fifteen miles farther the new tire gave way under the strain and had to be replaced, and Dawson, who had been steadily pressing in, darted to the lead and to the final triumph.

GREAT CROWDS DESERT RENO AFTER BIG FIGHT

Few Linger to Discuss Result on Scene of Battle.

Crowd Largest That Ever Saw a Pugilistic Event.

Reno, Nev., July 5.—Reno is as busy disgorging the fight crowds today as it was on Saturday and Sunday welcoming them. The get-away began within three-quarters of an hour after Jeffries went through the ropes yesterday afternoon and trains have followed one another out of the city in quick succession with every car packed to capacity. All the evening and into the early hours today automobiles swept out-bound for the coast and the California valley cities, for the mining camps far out in the Nevada desert and places more remote, and today Reno begins to look normal as far as population is concerned.

The restaurants are still limited to rather scanty bills of fare and the hotels uncomfortably full, but the biggest day in the history of the little city is gone.

Here and there groups of fight experts still linger on the shady side of the principal street and in the cafes and hotel lobbies. The big battle is, of course, the one topic and is discussed in the cold calm that has followed previous enthusiasm. The big man's decisive, unqualified and thorough whipping seems a personal sorrow to these men of the sporting world.

Admiration for Johnson.

There is no animosity against Johnson, rather keen admiration of his ability as a fighter and his beautiful sparring, but apparently most of these men had persuaded themselves into the belief that the Jeffries who motored to the ringside yesterday, was the Jeffries of six years ago. The fight had not gone five rounds before they began to doubt that belief and in the eighth they felt sure they had been self-deluded.

With Johnson the one undisputed world's champion, the next question is who will wrest it from him? King followers agree that no man now in the game measures up to the job. Very little attention is paid to Sam Langford's challenge and the black champion himself regards it as a joke. He said last night he would disregard a challenge from that source, so apparently it means a wait for an unknown.

No one knows just how many people saw the big fight or what the gate receipts were. No turn-stiles were used and the tickets were on sale in so many places that only approximate figures can be given. The lowest estimate of the gate money is $23,000 and the highest $270,000. Guessers among the promoter's staff place the attendance at from 18,000 to 20,000.

At all events it was the biggest crowd that ever saw a prize fight and the rates were so far ahead of any other engagement that the record disappears.

"Yellow Streak Not There."

In all the fight talk and the dissentions of yesterday afternoon's event one thing stands out sharply—there is no more mention of Johnson's yellow streak, the thing that has been written and talked about ever since he came into ring prominence. The experts who sat at the ringside agree in saying that not once did he give any indications of fear. His nervousness in the first round was apparent, but no one who watched him in that period of the fight could fairly attribute it to anything else than natural nervousness, a kind of stage fright. He was not afraid of the big man who faced him from the other corner but rather afraid from the knowledge that his all was at stake.

His statement given out at his quarters last evening has been well thought out, but his remarks as he stepped back to his corner after Jeffries had been battered down were spontaneous and show his state of mind when the heat of battle was still on him.

As his friends and the newspaper men crowded about him while he lay back in the hands of his seconds, he said:

"Jeffries never could hit me. He could not penetrate my defense. I have always known this and he has just found it out. When he crouched I made him straighten up and then I picked him to pieces. I used everything there is in pugilism on Jeffries and he could not stand the strain."

The Pitcher and the Well.

Jeffries' people had little to say, were too sorely hurt and disappointed. Jim Corbett, who was Jeffries' chief adviser, said last night while the day was being talked over at Jeffries' camp:

"It was simply the old story of the pitcher and the well—once too often. It has happened to a whole lot of us and that it must happen to Jeffries was just as sure as fate."

Frank Gotch sized the ex-champion as follows:

"Jeffries' head and his heart were right, but his hands and feet were not. Early in the fight I noticed him fall on some of the stunts he used to perform so well, and right then and there I knew he did not have a chance. Jim believed himself to be in great condition and I have no doubt he was, but his trainers could not bring back the form of his younger days."

True to his character, the vanquished fighter remained hidden from the gaze of the chance visitors.

At the resort where the new champion prepared for his great fight, there was little to indicate that he had ever been there. When suddenly he withdrew to his private car last night, sparing no effort to get started toward the applause that awaited him in the East, his packing was done at great speed.

Johnson's departure was delayed until almost 2 o'clock this morning by a tie-up in the railroad trains. His train was due to leave over the Southern Pacific at 9:45. The party is due to arrive at Chicago Thursday afternoon.

ONE WOMAN DELIGHTED

Johnson's Mother Says She Knew Her Jack Would Win.

Friends Rejoice With Mrs. Tiny Johnson in Her Chicago Home.

Chicago, July 5.—"Gracious me, if there isn't poor old Jeffries now. To look at him you wouldn't think he would refuse to shake hands with my boy."

Mrs. Johnson was speaking, Jack's mother. She was sitting in her home, the home that Jack's prowess had made possible. She was surrounded by many admiring friends and undoubtedly she was the happiest woman in the world, although deeply offended because Jeffries had refused to shake hands with her son when the fight commenced.

Mrs. Johnson never had wavered in her belief that her brawny son would defeat Jeffries. Persons have come to her from all parts of the country and put the case in her hands, so to speak, and to all of them she said: "Bet your money on Jack. He will do just as he said he would do. He told me before he went away that he would bring back the championship just the same as he took it to the fight and he'll do it. That boy never promised me anything but what he did it."

Mrs. Tiny Johnson is as game as her fighting son. On the stage of a theater, where she heard the returns yesterday, she was the coolest of the many hundreds present. As round by round came in every one saluted her with deafening cheers but she smiled only once and that was when the flash came that Jack had won. At first she could not speak and it was a full minute before she could find her voice and then she exclaimed: "I knew it all the time. He said he'd bring home the bacon and the honey boy has done it."

When the victory was announced, Mrs. Johnson was lifted on the shoulders of friends and carried to her automobile. When she arrived home, she was lifted from her seat and carried triumphantly into her home. Thousands of spectators gathered in front of the house. They insisted on Mrs. Johnson showing herself. She did. She went up to the second floor, and, carrying a life-sized poster picture of her son Jack, stepped out on to the roof of the front porch. Waving the picture in one hand and a bunch of flowers in the other, she began the song: There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," and the immense crowd joined in.

As she was being carried into her home from the automobile, Mrs. Johnson: "All the North and South never turned out such a here as Texas. You know Jack is a Texas boy and he was fighting when he was 15 years old, but you bet he never let me know about it and I was surprised when I found out he was the best human fighting machine in the world. There were $0,000,000 people against him today, but he beat them all. If his father had only lived to see it! It's certainly grand to be the mother of a real hero."

AFTERMATH OF THE FIGHT

The Passing of James J. Jeffries From the Prize Ring.

Suspicion That the Public Was Played for a "Come On."

(BY BRUCE.)

And another fighter has passed into oblivion.

The wasted nerve tissue, those long years of dissipation, those nights of high lights and the taking of toll that father time exacts of the greatest of them—you have the answer.

A mighty monster of a man, a Hercules in these days of complex and refined civilization, James J. Jeffries in the days of his youth and before dissipation sapped the wonderful vigor of a marvelous physique, was a man among 10,000,000.

Yesterday in the glaring sun of the Nevada desert, he faced a giant negro, sprung from a slave mother of Texas birth, and the savage in the negro won.

It might have been back in those earlier and more vigorous days that James J. Jeffries, coming, ever coming, brushing aside blows as if they were but the bothering stings of an insect, would have at last cornered and beaten down the black with those staggering blows that no living man could weather.

But the memory of man is short and he clings tenderly to idols. The Jeffries of yesterday and the Jeffries of today—the substance and the shadow!

James J. Jeffries has passed from the circle of pugilistic light. Even as John L. Sullivan and Jack Dempsey, who went down to seeming impossible defeat, so has the seemingly impossible happened in the present case—the mighty Jeff has fallen.

It was pointed out here, and often, that precedent was terribly and cruelly aligned against the fighter in his game and grim effort to "come back." To all outward appearances the same immense strength was there, the same vitality, the same old ability to withstand punishment. The fight told a pathetically different tale.

And as to the "capital I brigade." They were there in force at Reno. They told the public that Jeffries would win—there was no chance in the world for him to lose. They can all go way back and be silent for a while.

There are athletes, superfluous as this may seem to say, who look great in the training room and before the great test. How miserably they fail when the time for the great trial for strength, stamina and latent reserve force comes!

James J. Jeffries is just another case in point—as if the stupid world needed another case along the strewn highway of battered wrecks of men who have been showing the striking truth, that a man can't come back after he has wasted his strength in the lap of luxury.

A mighty man, monstrous and bear-like, his prodigious strength was wasted and his God-given health and power exchanged for a mess of pottage. In the face of this he was lured from the slothfulness of debauchery and set upon a task more elusive than the cornering and capturing of Halley's pet comet.

The Hangers On.

He has lost and the shame of it can be distributed among an even dozen grafters, who since the rather humorous training period of "the undefeated champion" have played the public as a "come on."

Sam Berger, James J. Corbett, Joe Choynski—it is to laugh. The fat and wheezy Berger, whose small ferret eyes spied the dollars of the game and lost sight of even common decency and fairness. James J. Corbett, "Gentleman Jim," and the smoothest of them all, Joe Choynski, the has-been, the relative of Berger's a once honest fighter, who was lured to the cause by the reward of dollars—here you have part of the crowd that perpetrated upon the public the biggest hoax since the days of the perpetual motion machine.

Jeffries might have sincerely thought he could come back. He is not as bright as he might be, and it is hard for a mighty man to believe he has lost his strength. But there were those around him who knew deep in their hearts that the big fellow had passed from athletic greatness, and they used their knowledge only to deceive Jeffries, perhaps, and to defraud the public, absolutely.

It is passed. The experts have told all, never forgetting to mention themselves in the story. They have all been wrong, terribly and grotesquely wrong—and there is faint suspicion that some of them wagered on Johnson while boosting the stock of poor old Jeff.

As for the fight—enough said. The one fact remains: never have we known how great a fighter this Johnson is, nor do we know today, in the bright splendor of his achievement of yesterday.

He might have whipped Jeffries in his prime. He is a lazy and unromantic hunk of pugilistic craftiness. For these many years he has shambled across the pugilistic horizon, attracting little attention, content to fight for the sake of existing.

Then suddenly he broke through the lower crust and thrust his black personality on the focus of public craze. Could he fight? The dear public remembered the Marvin Hart and Hank Griffin incidents in his career, and answered "no."

He fought Burns and Ketchell, romping and joking lazily through the fights, as if they were the least serious consideration in the world. He grinned and talked and boxed like a machine—and still the public declared that Jeffries would kill him.

It is over, and the once greatest fighter of the century has fallen to the insane lust for money. James J. Jeffries will retire to the quiet of his Los Angeles farm, soon to be forgotten.

John Arthur Johnson—a weird and foolish negro, physically a perfect type, will plunge once more into those foolish extravagances that delight his fancy. He may go the way of the others, for life moves fast for a world's champion. His highest ambition has come—he has defeated James J. Jeffries.

SUMMING UP OF RESULT BY FIGHTERS AND REFEREE

By Jack Johnson: "I won from Mr. Jeffries because I outclassed him in every department of the fighting game. Before I entered the ring I was certain I would be the victor. I never changed my mind at any time.

"Jeffries' blows had no steam behind them, so how could he hope to defeat me? With the exception of a slight cut on my lower lip, which was really caused by an old wound being struck, I am unmarked. I heard people at the ringside remark about body blows being inflicted upon me. I do not recall a single punch in the body that caused me any discomfort. I am in shape to battle again tomorrow if it were necessary.

"One thing I must give Jeffries credit for is the game battle he made. He came back at me with the heart of a true fighter. No man can say that he did not do his best.

"I believe we both fought fairly. There was nothing said between us which was rough. He joked me and I joked him. I told him I knew he was a bear, but I was a gorilla and would defeat him.

"For the next few weeks I shall play in vaudeville. Then I shall go to my home in Chicago to rest. I do not think I shall fight for several months because I do not know a man now who could give me a good battle. No attention will be paid to Sam Langford's challenges. I don't consider he would give me a fight that would draw."

By James J. Jeffries: "I lost my fight this afternoon, but did not have the snap of youth I used to have. I believed in my own heart that all the old-time dash was there, but when I started to execute, the speed and youthful stamina were lacking. The things I used to do were impossible. For instance, I used to shoot in a right-hand body punch, a sort of short-range blow that never used to fail me. But when I tried it today, the snap was not there, and it was only a love tap.

"I suppose most of my trainers and helpers will say that I did not box often enough. It would not have made any difference if I had sparred a dozen times oftener than I did. I simply was not there, and that's all there is to it.

"I guess it's all my own fault. I was getting along nicely and living peacefully on my farm, but when they started calling for me and mentioning me as 'the white man's hope,' I guess my pride got the better of my good judgment. At that, I worked long and hard to condition myself, and I was fit, so far as strength goes, but the old necessary snap and dash, the willingness to tear in and crush, were not with me.

"Six years ago the result would have been different, but now—well, I guess the public will let me alone after this."

By Tex Rickard, referee and promoter: "Jack Johnson is the most wonderful fighter that ever pulled on a glove. He won as he pleased from Jeffries and never was in danger. I could not help but feel sorry for the big white man as he fell beneath the champion's blows. It was the most pitiable sight I ever saw. As a matter of fact, I thought way down in my heart, that Jeffries would be the winner of the fight.

"The fight was won and lost when Jeffries went through the ropes the first time. This is official. The other knock-down does not count. It was this way:

"Jeffries was brought to his knees and as he arose, dazed, Johnson hit him with a succession of lefts that sent him through the ropes. As he lay there, several of his seconds caught hold of him and helped him to his feet. Under the rules of the game, which I have read thoroughly while certain people were saying that I wouldn't referee the fight, this disqualifies Jeffries and Johnson was the winner.

"I thought the seconds were going to carry Jeffries to his corner. Instead, they shoved him into the ring again to be beaten further while I was doing all I could during the confusion to stop the fight.

"Jeffries couldn't hit Johnson and Johnson could hit Jeffries whenever he pleased. Jeffries was not as good as the last time he fought."

DULUTH EAGERLY AWAITED NEWS FROM THE FIGHT

In Duluth as in other cities of the country interest in the big fight yesterday was keen. All during the day crowds waited anxiously for the first word from the ringside. Long before the men entered the ring, a crowd began to gather in front of The Herald building and by the time the black champion and the white man faced each other at Reno, the crowd was so large that there was no hope of more than a very few seeing the bulletins posted in the window of The Herald.

The bulletins were read off through a megaphone to the expectant crowd. Every apparent advantage to the white man was enthusiastically cheered, while Johnson's steady gain through the early rounds and his final victory drew applause from the few colored people in the crowd and groans from the white men.

The Herald was connected by direct wire with the ringside and through the Associated Press service, the crowd was informed of the happenings in the arena within a very few moments after they occurred.

The sale of the extra editions of The Herald last evening broke all records in the history of The Herald. Within five minutes of the time the flash came over the Associated Press wire in the office of The Herald that Johnson had won in the fifteenth round, the first extra was on the street and was being eagerly snapped up from the newsboys.

A few minutes later, the second extra, with a full description of the fight by rounds, was on the streets, and it met with a sale for an hour that taxed the capacity of The Herald presses. Men, women and children in all walks of life were anxious to get the result of the fight and the details of the black man's victory.

Except among the colored population of the city, the regret over Jeffries' defeat was general. People took the news sorrowfully and little surprise was expressed, though the disappointment was keen. White men had hoped that the white man would win. There were no demonstrations in Duluth, however, the colored people rejoicing in their own homes and their clubs, and not attempting any public celebration of the victory of their champion.

(BY BRUCE.)

As far as the baseball faithfuls were concerned yesterday, the dear old eagle had a weakish scream and things were not as they were in the days of youth and burned fingers—our baseball team lost two games to the eminent surgeons of Dr. Mayo's village—4 to 0 in the morning and 6 to 5 in the exciting matinee performance.

We lost the morning game for the simple reason that we could not hit Chief Chase. Vasbinder contributed a grievous error in right that started the scoring of the visitors, and as we could not fathom the deep sea curve of the red skin, the game was placed on the debit side of the book.

Great Excitement Prevails.

The afternoon was one long to be remembered. Between the fight returns and the eleven innings of intense and always interesting battling, every fan had his fill of Fourth of July exhilaration. The announcement that Mistah Jack Johnson had won the fight acted as a cold douche and sent cold chills chasing the warm and gay sunlight of the early afternoon.

McNeill, the star Hibernian flinger of the Doctors, was sent to the mound for the matinee. He chewed gum and acted chesty and was finally driven from the box. Thus are the woes of chesty people often made prominent and also painful.

The visitors bunched hits off Blancke in the fourth, scoring again in the seventh, ninth, tenth, and last inning. The plugging Sox scored one run in the tenth, and it looked as if we had placed the game on ice. It was not to be, and the boys from the rejuvenation town will leave with two victories tucked in their medicine packs.

In the second game Schirrier was sent in to bat for Helding—just why, no one seems to know. In the afternoon game Vance, once a recruit for the Detroit Tigers, was struck in the head by a swift in curve pitched by Dauss. The player was carried to the bench and later taken to St. Mary's hospital. His condition is reported serious.

Red Wing comes this afternoon for a series of three games. Just at the present time the contest between Duluth and Red Wing to see which team will escape from the cellar, which is dark and lonesome, is a close one.

While we were losing two games to the Rochester team, Red Wing was losing three straight to Superior. We fondly hope to take three from the Indians during their stay in our city.

The game this afternoon will be called at 3:30 and George Dauss will probably be on the mound for the Sox.

The detail of the two games will be found below:

Superior Takes Both Morning and Afternoon Games From Indians.

Superior took two close games from Red Wing yesterday. The morning game was won by a rally in the ninth inning, while the afternoon's game was a battle all the way through. Both games were exciting and filled with interest. The heavy hitting of the Red Legs in the morning game and the clean playing of both teams in the afternoon game featured the two contests. BIG THRONG AT BEMIDJI

Firemen's Tournament in Beltrami County Seat Well Attended.

Visitors Welcomed By Mayor Parker and President of Tournament Association.

Bemidji, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The celebration of the Fourth and the opening session of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament association combined to make yesterday a red-letter day in this city. A thousand or more visitors from adjoining towns were on hand yesterday to celebrate Independence day and witness the beginning of the firemen's tournament. Mayor Parker welcomed the visitors while Earl Geil, president of the tournament association, joined in the greeting to the visitors. Thomas

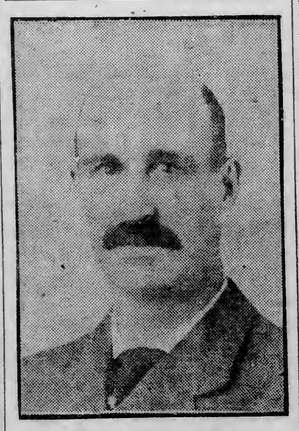

EARL GEIL,
President of the Association Who Welcomed the Visitors.

R. Johnstone of Crookston, treasurer of the association, responded. P. J. Russell, the orator of the day, delivered a notable address.

In the parade, during the morning, the Ada and Crookston fire department tied for having the largest number of men in line Hallock was first for the best appearing department. The parade was participated in by two bands. Company K, Bemidji fire apparatus drawn by teams, four fire departments, a large number of floats and callithumpians and private citizens in carriages.

Result of Contests During the Afternoon.

Company K gave an exciting sham battle. Staska of Warren won the 200-

MAYOR J. C. PARKER
Of Bemidji.

yard foot race and Kahn of Ada was second; Helgeson of Ada, third; time, 21 2-5 seconds. The 100-yard dash also brought a bunch of fast men to the tape. Staska of Warren and Boyd of Crookston tied for first place; Dennis of Bemidji, third. Boyd refused to run off the tie and forfeited first place to Staska. A Buick auto, driven by C. W. Jewett, won the one-mile race from a Parry automobile, driven by John Moberg.

Old-Timers Attending.

Among the veterans who are here is Thomas R. Johnstone, who assisted in the formation of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament association at Crookston fifteen years ago, and who has been very prominently identified with all movements tending to better the service and help the firemen of the Northwest ever since. Mr. Johnstone is at present treasurer of the National Firemen's association, as well as being chief of the Crookston fire department, and treasurer and member of the executive committee of the tournament association.

Frank Jeffers of Red Lake Falls is another veteran who is enjoying the tournament to the full. Through an unfortunate accident, Mr. Jeffers, some three years ago, lost both of his legs; but he is here with two artificial limbs and no one who is not intimately acquainted with him would know but that he was walking about on the limbs which nature endowed. There is no more popular fireman at the tournament.

Earl Geil, John Goodman and Garry Brennan of the Bemidji fire department are among the older ones in attendance. They ran with the original Bemidji team, which won four championships in succession.

A. G. Rutledge, honorary member of the Bemidji department, is another who was instrumental in organizing the association at Crookston and who has attended nearly every tournament.

It is expected that A. C. Schmidt of Crookston, the first president of the association, and E. A. Nelson of Hallock, an early president, will be here during the tournament, when a reunion of the "old guard" will be held, and early races and events will be discussed.

A SPECIAL TREATMENT FOR SKIN DISEASES

General Remedies Usually Are Useless for Eczema, Scrofula, Etc., Which Are Now Cured By Zelmos.

This is the day of the specialist. Any one who suffers from torturing and disfiguring skin diseases knows very well that it is a very serious matter, and also knows that special treatment is necessary.

It has been the custom for so long for the usual salves, lotions, etc., to be recommended for any kind of skin troubles that those who suffer from Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Barber's Itch, Pimples, Carbuncles, etc., have come to the conclusion that there was no cure for these distressing diseases.

Zelmos is the name of a new preparation, and it means new hope for those who suffer from the disfiguring and irritating affections of the skin, most of which troubles come from impurities in the blood.

Zelmos Salve gives quick relief from the terrible itching. Zelmos Tablets combine the active principles of the best blood purifiers with the most effective vegetable laxatives in minute quantities.

Zelmos is the most effective treatment for skin diseases and eruptions ever offered to a suffering public. It gives almost instant relief from Sunburn, Chafing and Prickly Heat. Zelmos is for sale by the Leithead drug store and all druggists. Price, 25 cents per box or $1 per large jar. Zelmos Tablets, 50 cents per box of fifty tablets. Sample of Zelmos Salve will be cheerfully sent free on request by Eagle Laboratories, Marbridge building, New York.

CANDIDATE IN OVERALLS.

John Strange, Paper King of Menasha Not Afraid of Work.

Menasha, Wis., July 5.—The John Strange Paper company, named after and owned largely by one of the candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, is the largest paper mill here, having a daily capacity of 65,000 pounds of paper. Its product consists of Manila, parchment, fiber, colored print, trunk paper, express, boards and specialities. The mill has six 1000-pound beating and four Jordon engines; one 110-inch four-cylinder and one 82-inch Fourdrinier paper machines, and is equipped with both water and steam power.

Mr. Strange himself is not only a politician, but is a manufacturer and workman as well. He can be seen at his mill in overalls directing and aiding in the repairing of the machine, as may in home as when he presided over the senate as lieutenant governor. He has built up a most successful business in the paper industry, notwithstanding the fact that he has found time to devote to other purposes, among them being that of holding and devoting his efforts to state offices.

Starting in a poor man, Mr. Strange worked himself up until he became associated with T. V. Lawson in a sawmill and lumber business in 1880. The following year he became full owner, and added a wooden ware plant. In 1887 he converted the building into a paper mill. In 1892 the John Strange Paper company was incorporated and in 1906 the mill entirely rebuilt.

CROP YIELD 65 PER CENT.

Is Estimate of Authority Who Looked Over Fields.

St. Cloud, Minn., July 5.—H. C. Ahlers, general agent of the International Harvester company, has returned from a trip as far west as Bismarck, where he was called by the death of the company agent at that place. Mr. Ahlers obtained all possible information regarding the crop outlook, which he confirmed by personal investigation. His judgment is that the crops for 1910, based on the present outlook, will be about 65 per cent of the average crop. The grain crop, such as rye, wheat, oats and barley, will be hit hardest, while corn and potatoes promise to be up to the average. Mr. Ahlers has had much experience in the study of crop conditions, and is one of the best experts along this line in the country, and his predictions can be relied upon as near the facts as it is possible to obtain.

MONTANA LAND OPENING.

About 600,000 Acres to Be Opened North of Glendive.

Aberdeen, S. D., July 5.—George B. Haynes of Chicago, formerly immigration agent for the Milwaukee road, while here enroute West announced that the government has just issued notice of the opening of 600,000 acres of land for settlement in Dawson county, north of Glendive, Mont. This land will be opened for settlement immediately, and any one can go on it now, although filing cannot be commenced until July 19. The government gives "squatters' rights" up till this time. No drawing is necessary to secure the land in this opening, but it is to be filed upon in the United States land office at Miles City. The tracts contain 320 acres apiece, and the person filing on a piece must remain there for five years to prove up. No charge is to be made for the land, except the charges for filing and proving up, which will not amount to over $30 in any case, so that a great opportunity is offered for actual settlers to secure land in this fertile region. The land is of black loam, and is excellent for small grains, having an abundance of rainfall and being level throughout the county.

Grand Marais—The rock crusher was started up last week just to demonstrate that it can do the business. The county commissioners witnessed the performance and, presumabaly, were well satisfied. At a meeting of the board the machine was ordered paid for.

St. Cloud—The largest amount of water ever hoisted out of the Mississippi river by the St. Cloud pumping station pumped during the month of June just past. During this period 34,415,420 gallons were forced out of the river through the mains, a fact which is due to the excessive long and dry spell which continued through the greater part of the month.

Onamia—Dr. J. P. Corbett, city bacteriologist and J. A. Jensen of Minneapolis, both of whom were here last fall investigating Mille Lacs lake as a source of water supply, came again last week and spent Tuesday on the big lake. They were ascertaining the levels since the dry spell came on.

Baudette—News has been received from Phippen, Sask., that the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Harper, had been brightened by the arrival of a fine baby boy.

Staples—Mrs. C. R. Foster of this place was severely injured in a runaway near Osakis. The horses became frightened by an auto and started to run. Mrs Foster seems to have suffered the most in the runaway. She was unconscious when picked up and remained so for some time.

SNATCHED FROM THE JAWS OF DEATH

Thomas L. Brown, a Popular Employe of the Soo Railroad, Relieved of a Monster Parasite, 100 feet in Length, By Electro-Radio.

Hearing about the wonderful cures performed daily by the Electro-Radio experts in the Southern Express building, Thomas L. Brown called yesterday to see what could be done in his case. "For fifteen years," he said, "I have suffered the agonies of death. My case has been diagnosed by some of the most celebrated physicians, from indigestion to cancer and as a last resort I have come to you to find out my true disease. Is it possible for you to do so?" He was placed before the Electro-Radio forces and given a thorough examination in all parts of the body without any results whatsoever. The doctor had almost given up in despair of ever finding this man's trouble, when he thought of one more test and that was for the tenia, or tapeworm. He was once more placed upon the diagraphoscope and those penetrating rays turned on the body; the cause was discovered. A monster tapeworm lay cuddled in his stomach, sapping all the vitality and nourishment out of his food that should have gone to him. In less than an hour's time after it was located this horrible monster was removed, put in a jar and placed on exhibition, where it was viewed alive and squirming in the dish by fifty people who were present in the offices at the time. Never in the history of Memphis was anything like it ever seen before, they all exclaimed.

When interviewed by a reporter, Mr. Brown stated: "I have been treating for years what I was told was stomach trouble. It was very seldom indeed that I could sit down and eat a hearty meal that I did not have a ferocious appetite one hour afterwards. To think that I have taken all this medicine these many years without relief. Apparently no one could find the cause of my trouble, and I will relate my feelings. I suffered much with sick headache and constant constipation. I believe I would have died without purgatives. I could eat ravenously at times; again the smell of food would make me sick and I could not eat a bite. I would grow so dizzy at times that I imagined I was growing blind and would topple over. My stomach would bloat terribly; it seemed there was a knot or ball in that region. My greatest fear was my heart. A times I thought I would die, and the mental agony was terrible. My lungs pained and sometimes I would have a severe cough; again I was so nervous I would cry like a child, for why I did not know, but I do know what Electro-Radio has done for me. I am the happiest man in Memphis today. This is only one of the many cures they have performed. If it will cure my disease, what will it do for others? It will cure you, that is all. I want the so-called incurable cases that have been every place else, as I have, to come and look at this awful worm and place yourself under this wonderful new treatment. The great lady physician has arrived direct from New York city and is now giving free advice to women upon disease peculiar to their sex. Many are cured every day of Piles, Eczema, Scrofula, Goiter, Paralysis, Stricture, Gall Stones, Appendicitis, old running sores and all diseased conditions of the blood and nerves. This is an age of wonders and they have the wonders of the age.

Hours, 9 to 12, 2 to 4, and 7 to 8; Sundays, 11 to 12. Free consultation and examination. 810 Alworth building.

CLOUDY

Duluth enjoyed really fine weather Independence day. The highest temperature was 68 deg., but Duluthians still have unpleasant memories of the excessive heat of last week, and low temperatures are still welcome. Prayers for rain are still unanswered, and they are becoming more insistent. Today dawned bright and fair and the forecast gives no hope of rain.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:19 and it will set at 8:05, giving fifteen hours and forty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A disturbance of moderate intensity that is central over Manitoba caused light showers in that province and in Montana during the last twenty-four hours. Showers also fell over South Atlantic and West Gulf states, the Lower Mississippi valley, Nebraska and Colorado, due to the influence of low pressure conditions over Arizona and off the North Carolina coast, respectively. Warm weather prevails in the central valley states and along the Atlantic cost.

A high pressure area over North Pacific districts is causing cooler weather over Montana, which condition will reach the Dakotas and Western Minnesota tonight."

General Forecasts.

Upper lakes—Moderate southerly on Superior and light to moderate east to south winds on Michigan and Huron; fair tonight, followed by unsettled Wednesday.

Chicago, July 5.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p.m. Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Fair and warmer tonight; Wednesday unsettled.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight, possibly becoming unsettled Wednesday; rising temperature.

Lyceum—Forbes Stock company in "Old Heidelberg."

OLD HEIDELBERG WELL PRESENTED

Forbes Stock Company Seen in Richard Mansfield's Success.

Duluth is awakening to the fact that the best stock company in its history is appearing at the Lyceum and yesterday the attractive holiday bill "Old Heidelberg" drew almost capacity audiences at both the matinee and evening performances.

One bill may be well presented by a stock company during a season or the leading man or woman may be especially pleasing, but such uniform excellence in the production and the caste as Mr Forbes has chosen to offer is unusual and most gratifying to the people in quest of summer amusement.

"Old Heidelberg" is the best work that the company has done during the season. The play is a beautiful one and one that was highly popular in the repertoire of the late Richard Mansfield. It is being presented for the first time in Duluth by Mr. Forbes and his company.

"Old Heidelberg" is a romance of German university life. William Meyer-Forster wrote it, and the Forbes company has staged it in a very commendable style. The story of the play revolves about Earl Heinrich, member of a princely house, who is a student at Heidelberg, and while there falls in love with Kathie, the belle of the town. Later he goes home to his principality and ascends the throne. Returning to Heidelberg, he is accorded by everyone the deference and homage usually given a monarch, except for Kathie. However, arl is unable to take her home with him, as he desires to do, and the story of the play revolves musically about their love for each other.

As the Prince Mr. Forbes has the best opportunity offered him thus far this summer. He is the slender, boyish Prince to the life and his first scenes at the university when he scarcely knows how to work into the common life of the young people, are admirably done. He realizes well the subtle, appealing phases of the character and he makes the pathos of the story felt by his auditors.

Miss Justina Wayne as Kathie, the niece of the German innkeeper is delightful. The freshness and vivacity and naivete of the ingenous and friendly little German maid are refreshing, and the early scenes between the Prince and Kathie were greeted with applause.

The play is one that gives opportunity to the other members of the company and some especially good work is being done. Frank Jamison does a fine piece of acting as Dr. Jutter and James Kyrle McKurdy as the Valet de Chambre held the tone of his scenes wonderfully well. Miss Fiske as the German great aunt of Kathie did her small part in the intelligent manner which is expected of her by those who have watched her characterizations during the season. An especially interesting feature to this week's performance is the incidental singing of the students and the Normanna Singing society is assisting the company this week. They sing the songs well and their stage appearance is remarkably easy and much interest was shown yesterday by the friends of the singers in the audience.

"Old Heidelberg" will be given every evening this week with Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees. The bill for next week will be "A Navajo's Love."

NEW VAUDEVILLE AT THE BIJOU

Three Large Holiday Crowds Amused on the Opening Day.

Another good vaudeville bill is being presented this week at the Bijou theater. Yesterday three large holiday crowds filled the popular playhouse, and the new program seemed to be greatly enjoyed.

"The Saintly Mr. Billings," the title of a sketch presented by Emmet Devoy and company of three was probably the number most enjoyed, although each number was all that could be desired if the enthusiasm of the audience is to be taken as a standard from which to judge. The playet has much human nature in it and it seems to get across the footlights.

Stuart Collins and his banjo girls have a musical act that is, to say the least, enjoyable. The members of the troupe handle the banjos like genuine Southerners. No musical troupe has ever been given a more generous reception in Duluth, and they deserve it.

Maxwell and Dudley mix comedy with music. It is a good mixture for both the comedy and the music are enjoyed. They are master hands at extracting laughs.

Stokes and Ryan have a dialogue that is very funny, and Miss Ryan sings in a pleasing manner.

Ernest Yerxas has a novelty posturing act that made a big hit yesterday. Nothing of its kind has been seen at the local house.

James B. Adams is, as usual, singing the illustrated song and the moving pictures, which are more interesting than ever, end a first-class entertainment.

DECIDE THIRD NEGRO NEED NOT BE LYNCHED.

Charleston, Mo., July 5.—A third lynching within twenty-four hours was threatened here yesterday afternoon, when a negro, whose name was not learned, was captured by a crowd of citizens after he had used rough language in addressing a white woman. The negro's captors investigated the case and decided that his defense did not justify another lynching, and he was allowed to go.

WEST END

STONE THROWERS TOO NUMEROUS

Boys Annoy Auto Drivers and Break Church Windows.

West end people are much incensed over the antics of a gang of small urchins who appear to have a mania for throwing stones at passing automobiles and vehicles and also at houses and other buildings having windows, churches not being excepted.

A small church building at 214 North Twentieth avenue west owned by the congregation of the Ebenezer Norweglan Lutheran Brethren church has several broken windows. The St. Paul's Lutheran church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, has also suffered.

A number of the churches have protected their expensive windows by screens. There will be an effort made to bring the youngsters into court.

BUSY WEEK AT THE BETHANY CHURCH.

This is a busy week at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street.

Today, the summer school sessions started in the church parlors, with Rev. Victor Lindeblad, a theological student, in charge of the classes. The enrollment was about fifty. The school will last for six weeks.

Tomorrow afternoon, Mrs. Dahlin will entertain the Westra society at her home, 706 Garfield avenue.

The ladies' aid society will be entertained Thursday at the home of Mrs. Swan Johnson of 1834 Minnesota avenue, Park Point.

The Tabitha society will meet Thursday evening at the home of Miss Tillie Johnson, 710 North Twenty-third avenue west.

The annual Sunday school picnic of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will be held Thursday, July 14, at Pond du Lac. The trip up the river will be made on a chartered boat, probably the Newsboy. The day will be spent in games and picnic sports. About 500 will attend.

The Luther League will give a moonlight excursion in the near future.

VISITS DULUTH WITH HIS BRIDE.

Rev. Theodore Ekblad and his bride of Rock Island, Ill., are spending their honeymoon in Duluth, as guests at the home of the groom's brother, Dr. J. W. Ekblad, a West end physician, who resides at 2120 West Second street.

Rev. Mr. Ekblad has been extended a call to the pastorate of the Pilgrim Swedish Lutheran church at Superior, but as yet has given the Superior congregation no answer. Before returning to Rock Island, he will look over the field, with the view of accepting the call.

Little Girl Dies.

Frances E. Brown, 9 years old, of 2129½ West Third street died last evening of Bright's disease after a long illness. The body will be sent to Rice Lake, Wis., tomorrow, where burial will be made.

Aid Society Meetings.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Swedish Lutheran church will meet for its regular monthly meeting at the church parlors, corner of Third street and Sixth avenue east, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Lund and Miss Lovisa Lindgren will entertain.

The young ladies' society will also be entertained by Mrs. Lund and Miss Lindgren at the church parlors in the evening.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM AT SWEDISH CHURCH.

The Young People's Society of the First Swedish Baptist church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street, held an interesting program yesterday at the church parlors. A. Thoren gave a history of the national anthems; Esther Hagberg read a paper on "Celebrating the Fourth," Walter Hammerback recited some quotations, and the Misses Olga Hagberg and Ellen Renstrom sang. The principal talk was given by Carl Person.

West End Shortrails.

Arthur Gilbertson of St. Paul is a guest at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Myra Hunter, of 20 North Twentieth avenue west for a few days.

Charles Glover of 1902 West Second street has as his guest his mother, Mrs. J. Glover, of Flint, Mich.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Central Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the church, Twentieth avenue west and First street. A full attendance is urged.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Coleman of Virginia are visiting at the home of Mrs. Coleman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sommerville, Twenty-sixth avenue west and Sixth street.

Rev. and Mrs. John J. Daniels of the Swedish Mission church are expected to return this week from a two weeks' trip to Chicago.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church have made plans for a picnic Thursday afternoon at Lincoln park. The ladies will bring basket lunches. An informal program will be carried out.

Division No. 6, Ancient Order of Hibernians, have about completed the arrangements for the annual picnic, which will be held July 20 at Lincoln park. It is planned to have an orchestra for the afternoon and evening and a good program of sports will be carried out.

Mrs. William Leonard of 2708 West Fourth street will entertain the Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church at her home Friday afternoon.

"Foley Kidney Pills Have Cured Me."

The above is a quotation from a letter written by H. M. Winkler, Evansville, Ind. "I contracted a severe case of kidney trouble. My back gave out and pained me. I seemed to have lost all strength and ambition; was bothered with dizzy spells, my head would swim and specks float before my eyes. I took Foley Kidney Pills regularly and am now perfectly well and feel like a new man. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Sold by all druggists.

MEN OF BRAINS

Never allow rheumatic troubles or any other disorders of the human system to develop into chronic conditions. It is not only poor policy to do so, but it is extremely dangerous, and absolutely unnecessary, and men who have any regard for thesmelves whatever, and who value the advantages of good health, never put off until the last moment a matter so important as that of an unsettled state of their health.

Therefore, we say again, that if there is anything wrong with your system, and you are a man, we can cure you if your case is at all curable, and if we see that, after a careful examination and consultation, your case is incurable, we will not hesitate to tell you that we cannot cure you.

If all the advantages of modern methods and the skill we have attained in our long practice of medical science CAN cure you, you'll be cured. Come and see us, or write. Do it now—today.

THE CROWD WATCHING THE PARADE.

West Duluth people generally complied with the request of the mayor in regard to the shooting of fireworks and with the exception of the fireworks display of the celebration committee, there was practically no display in the evening.

The committee in charge of the celebration, changed its plans in regard to the fireworks and selected a location on the bay front, where the rockets would fall in the water.

The display was an elaborate one and wound up the biggest celebration of July 4 that West Duluth has ever had. The committee in charge of the event will get together today to wind up the affairs. The judges in the parade contest yesterday were L. R. Clarke, Joseph Chestock and F. H. Wade. The prizes were awarded as follows: $15 for best float, C. J. Petruschke; second, a case of liquor to the Scott-Kriedler company; most comical float, Fred Deboer, $5.

The Danish Brotherhood had the largest turnout in the civic societies and won a prize of $10, while the Modern Woodmen received a similar amount for being the best appearing lodge.

A program of sports and prizes was given at which the following were winners:

Boys under 5 years of age, John Bothwell; girls under 5 years, Mary Nelson; boys under 12, first prize, suit of clothes, Roland Clark; second prize, watch, Mathew Ulahovich. girls under 12 years of age, first prize, Brownie camera, Laura St. Arnold; second prize, box of candy, Inez Larson; girls under 16 years, first prize, pair of pumps, Ethel Gorgan; second prize, bottle of perfume, Ethel Little; boys under 16 years, Ernest Anderson; Young ladies' race, Caroline Sorenson. SWIMMING HOLE READY

Many People Use Resort Provided By Popular Subscription.

Plans of Lieut. Charles Wilcox of Police Department Carried Out.

That the new "Wilcox swimming hole" at Sixty-third avenue west, will be a popular breathing spot during the summer is evidenced by the large number of bathers, mostly boys, who have made use of the place every day since it was completed last week.

The swimming hole is at Sixty-third avenue west and the river. Here there is a sandy beach, with an area of about 600x800 feet, where the water is inclosed by stakes and ropes and which is not over four and one-half feet deep at any place. A bathhouse has been built, 12 by 24, and two spring boards have been provided, one for the boys and one for the men.

Lieut. Charles Wilcox of the West Duluth police department is fostering the movement and with other interested West Duluth people has gone ahead with the work of securing the site and putting up the bathhouse and making other necessary improvements for a public bath.

Most of the lumber needed to erect the building was donated by the Alger Smith, Virginia & Rainy Lake, Red Cliff and American Lumber companies, while the Northern Hardware company furnished a portion of the hardware needed. The remainder of the expense, for labor, ropes, roofing, drayage, etc., has been made up by popular subscription. A sum of $89 was raised and the following were the donors:

ATTEMPT TO SAVE CHUM FATAL

Joseph Santarre Contracts Pleurisy Diving for Drowning Friend.

While in bathing with Bertill Bertilson, the Oneota young man who was drowned last week, Joseph Santarre, 18 years old, developed a bad case of pleurisy, from the effects of which he died this morning at St. Mary's hospital.

Young Santarre is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Santarre of 120 North Fifty-second avenue west and was well known about West Duluth. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from St. James Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west, with burial at Calvary cemetery.

Santarre, at the time of the drowning of Bertilson, was the first to help try to save the life of the young man and when his body sank in the water Santarre dove down after it but did not succeed in locating it.

Besides his parents, Santarre is survived by three sisters and three brothers.

BOYS STARTED FIRE "FOR FUN"

Dangerous Blaze on Hillside Results From Thoughtless Act.

West Duluth boys may learn that it may turn out to be a serious thing to set a grass fire "just to see the firemen run" if an example is made of one or more of a number of boys, who set fire to the hillside at West Duluth about noon today in order to see the department answer a hurry up call.

The fire got beyond the control of the youngsters and when the fire department got there, they found that they could not reach the fire with water and resorted to the back fire method. The fire was under control at a late hour this afternoon. Several of the men are watching it.

This morning about 11 o'clock about a block of grass burned over at Fifty-ninth avenue west and Tacony street. The firemen had been in only about twenty minutes before they were called out to fight the fire, which it has since been learned from other boys, was purposely set by some boys "for fun."

The police will investigate.

HOW BROTHERS MET AFTER TWENTY YEARS.

Chicago Tribune: "I won't charge you for that shave, pal, because you're my long lost brother."

Thereupon Thomas Rich, barber, 1204 West Taylor street, wiped the remaining flecks of lather from a patron's face, stood him up, and said:

"How are you, Ernest?"

"I'm pretty good, Tom. How are you?

Then they shook hands and went home to supper.

"As soon as I had him shaved I found a scar on his face I put there myself when we were playing Indians twenty years ago," Rich said. "We were separated when boys and had lost each other for twenty years."

HUGHES FOR HIGH PLACE

Governor May Be Made Chief Justice of Supreme Court.

Six Members of Tribunal Likely to Be Named By Taft.

Beverly, Mass., July 5.—While the president declines definitely to commit himself in any way, it is regarded here as practically certain that Governor Hughes of New York will be the next chief justice of the supreme court. No appointment of a successor to Chief Justice Fuller will be made until congress meets again. By that time it is believed the president will have appointed also a successor to Justice Moody, in whose behalf the retirement bill was passed at the session of congress just closed.

In the selection of an associate justice, President Taft will take plenty of time for deliberation. It is believed the president will be informed as to Justice Moody's intentions as to retirement within the next month or two, so the chief executive is practically casting about for two men.

Fourth Vacancy in Two Years.

The probable retirement of Justice Moody will make the fourth vacancy in less than two years. It is not unlikely that before his term of four years has expired President Taft will have been called upon to appoint six out of the nine justices forming the supreme tribunal. President Taft told some of his friends recently that he was anxious above almost anything else that his administration might be known for the character of his appointments to the federal bench.

It can be positively stated that the president is entirely open-minded as to the supreme court vacancies. One of the most likely candidates spoken of here is Justice Swayze of the New Jersey supreme court. He has been strongly recommended to the president and is said to have had an excellent chance for appointment to succeed the late Justice Peckham should Governor Hughes have declined.

The president is anxious to secure men for the supreme court between 40 and 50 years of age. The appointment of Justice Lurton was an exception and it is believed he would not again select a man of that age. For that reason there is little talk of Senator Root of New York and Secretary of War Dickinson, who were prominently regarded as possibilities.

Condolence From Roosevelt.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 5.—Theodore Roosevelt sent the following message of condolence to the daughter of Chief Justice Fuller:

"Mrs. Jeanette Fuller Francis, Bar Harbor, Me.—Respect and sympathy from both Mrs. Roosevelt and myself. I admired the chief justice as a fearless and upright judge and was exceedingly attached to him personally."

"Theodore Roosevelt."

Message from President.

Boston, Mass., July 5.—President Taft sent the following message from this city to Mrs. Nathaniel H. Francis, eldest daughter of Chief Justice Fuller:

"Your telegram was forwarded to me here. I am greatly shocked to hear of your father's death and I extend to you and to all the members of your family the heartfelt sympathy of Mrs. Taft and myself.

"Your father honored me with his friendship for twenty years, which enabled me to know his sweet and lovable nature and his noble character as a man. He was a great justice and noted for his independence of thought and courage of action. His career entities him to the gratitude of his fellow countrymen and leaves a memory of which his family may well be proud.

"W. H. TAFT."

Had Considerable Fortune.

Chicago, July 5.—Chief Justice Fuller died possessed of a considerable fortune, most of which is in the form of Chicago real estate, which the jurist acquired forty years ago and which is now valued at $1,000,000. Other smaller and less valuable parcels of real estate will bring the total of his realty holdings in Chicago up to $1,500,000.

High tribute is paid the chief justice by the most prominent members of the Chicago bar, many of whom knew and practiced with him when he made his home here.

OPENING WEAK BUT RALLY LATER

Coppers Decline Early in Session---Shorts Cover at Close.

Coppers declined from a weak opening but rallied toward the close when shorts covered. The London market opened weak and the death of Chief Justice Fuller will necesstate a readjustment of the United States supreme court, a factor which the professionals do not regard with favor. Any disturbing element is looked upon by them with disfavor. Traders are conservative and there did not appear to be any buying of an investment character.

The reported failure of a London bank and the weak bank statement of Saturday started the selling at the opening today. There was a raid by the Keene crowd and values were extremely weak and depressed until toward the close when pressure was taken from the market which rallied on buying by profit-taking shorts.

Some of the big copper mines are reducing their outputs on account of the continued low price of the metal, profitless operations and large stocks. No concerted effort to curtail the copper output is noticeable but there are many individual instances of spasmodic character. The possible production of the Guggenheim group of copper properties has been sold for July and August and the first two weeks of September. This includes the product of the Nevada Consolidated and the Utah Copper company. The United Metals Selling company has made small sales of copper for shipment abroad.

The carpet market is steady at 12½c for electrolytic. The foreign inquiry is good but there is very little actual business. The copper producers will issue their monthly statement Friday and many people think it will make a better showing than was predicted earlier in the month. Exports of copper in June were more than 4,000,000 pounds in excess of the May exports. Estimates of a probable increase in stocks range from 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 pounds.

Tradink here was light. Butte-Alex Scott full paid sold at $7. Denn at $2.87½, Red Warrior at $1.56¼, Butte & Superior at $1.06¼, Calumet & Sonora at $12.50, Calumet & Corbin at 47c, 50c, 48c and 49c, Cliff at $1.18¾, Keating at $1.06¼ to $1.12½, Tuolumne at $2.75.

Amalgamated sold at $60.25, $57.87½ and $58.75; Steel common at $71.37½ to $68.02½ to $69.37½; Butte-Ballaklava at $13.50, $13.75,, $13 to $13.25; Butte Coalition at $16.75 to $16.37½; Giroux at $6.75, $6.87½ and $6.50; Greene at $6.75 and $6.87½; Calumet & Arizona at $50.50, $49 to $50; North Butte at $21.50, $20.25 to $20.50; Superior & Pittsburg at $9.87½ to $9.50 to $9.75.

The 80,000 shares of stock, about which some stockholders of the Butte & Superior were concerned, is explained by President A. B. Wolvin. It appears that the interrogators were unduly excited. Mr. Wolvin says the stock will remain in the treasury and he explains in detail the disposition of it as follows:

"Regarding the 80,000 shares of the new capitalization, to which you refer, will advise that this amount is in excess of the number of shares necessary for exchange purposes and the 50,000 shares additional for conversion purposes, and most certainly will remain in the treasury as treasury stock, and can only be used for the needs of the company.

"There seems to be a concerted effort on the part of certain Duluth and Butte brokers to hammer this stock, evidently with no other purpose than their own selfish gains. The stockholders in any corporation are part owners thereof, and anything detrimental to their interests as a whole is the same individually. In the same manner that which is good for the aggregate is good for the share owner, no matter how large his holdings.

"The Butte & Superior property is one of the very best in this district; the management are high-class business men, trying to administer their affairs in a business-like way; many of the stockholders are such by reason of their faith in both the property and management and their holdings represent savings rather than surplus capital invested. There has never been any effort on the part of the management to assist the stock market in this issue, as they have been too busy making a mine; however, with the change in the issuance as proposed, the amount of trading will naturally be lessened, as the stock will be on a much higher basis and a great deal of trading will be taken out of the hands of some brokers."

A telegram to The Herald today from Butte said that a rich strike of copper had been made in the gumbo on the 1600 level of the Butte Alex Scott.

That values increase at depth in the Radersburg district of Montana is being proved at the property of the Keating Gold Mining company, which is now drifting on the 500-foot level from the Blecker shaft. Shipments have been made in the last few days averaging $42 to the ton. The ore was shipped without sorting as it was taken from the drift. The vein has widened in the last 100 feet and the drift is entirely in ore.

Since installing the new electric surface plant the Keating Gold Mining company has made great progress in its development work and has opened up ore bodies that promise to make the company one of the heaviest producers of gold in the state of Montana.

A station is being cut on the 600-foot level and as soon as this is completed the ore bodies on that level will be opened up. The company is operating two shafts, one end of the property being worked from the Keating shaft to a depth of 400 feet and the other end by the Blacker shaft, which will be put down to greater depth and from which the entire property eventually will be operated. A heavy tonnage of high grade ore is in sight.

HIGH SOUNDING NAMES

Youth's Companion: Fashions in names, especially feminine come and go and come again, sometimes for some traceable reason, usually with none. Not many years ago there was in the United States a marked revival, generally thought to be due to the recent activities in research of genealogically inclined "daughters" and "descendants," of the names popular among our foremothers, which had previously for a long while been considered commonplace.

Nurseries and kindergartens showed a crop of quaintly reminiscent little Susans, Ruths, Eunices, Priscillas, Judiths and Dorothys. This fashion fortunately still prevails, but not alone. A few years ago a fancy was imported from England for "jewel names," and although it never became so popular here as there, it found response in a fairly frequent bestowal of such names as Pearl, Ruby, Jacinth, Crystal, Garnet, Beryl, Emerald or Esmeralda and even an occasional Diamond.

For the last two years flower names have caught the favor of young English mothers in fashionable society and the chronicles of British "nobility and gentry" show many christenings by the names of Violet, Lily, Rose and Myrtle, and not a few by flower names less familiar, such as Iris, Ivy, Daphne, Laurel, Lavender, Fuchsia, Heatherbell and Verbena.

The duchess of Sutherland has a daughter, Lady Rosemary Millicent Leveson-Gower, and Lady Angela Forbes named her little girl Marigold.

Not all these names, despite their pleasantly flower-like suggestion, can be accounted successful, but the little maids who bear them are luckier than some of their elder sisters, named when the fashion of odd names, from old Welsh, Scotch or Saxon chronicles or the poets of even parental invention were popular.

The English society reporter for the last two or three seasons has had to record the doings of debutantes bearing distinguished surnames, prefaced by such disconcerting Christian—rather un-Christian—names as Venetia, Aurea, Ela, Linnie, Eldrydd, Dulcibella, Canfreda, Laline, Morwenna and Leigarde.

One noble family, especially the Tollemaches, name their babies queerly, Rhona, Mariota, Artemesia, Elfeyda, Hersilia and Lyonesse are far enough from the usual; but they have done worse. Even a princess royal might have been excused for a righteous howl of protest at the font had she had to submit, as did one poor infant Tollemache, to being christened by such an appalling sequence as Lyonella Fredgunda Cuthbertha Ethelwytha Ideth Ysabel Grace Monica Oranella Plantagenet.

ST. PAUL WILL HUSTLE SOME

Preparations for Big Conservation Meeting Will Be Rushed.

Secretary Shipp Is on Hand to Conduct the Affairs.

St. Paul, Minn., July 5.—Special to The Herald.)—Overflowing with optimism and with enthusiasm, Thomas R. Shipp, secretary of the National Conservation congress, arrived in St. Paul this morning to take charge of the preliminary work in arranging the program for the greatest conservation congress ever held in the history of the world, which will meet in St. Paul Sept. 6 to 9 inclusive.

"I know we are very late in getting started," he said this morning, "but I do not think that is discouraging. You see we will have to work under high pressure, and I find that I can always do more and do it better that way than when I have lots of time.

"Between now and the first of September we will send out 50,000 invitations, besides mailing much information, answering inquiries and other things. This is no child's play in which the local committee will find itself buried, but real hard work and plenty of it."

To Be Opened By Roosevelt.

Speaking of the program, which is only partly completed, Mr. Shipp said: "Col. Roosevelt will arrive here early on the morning of Sept. 6, and I think you may say that he will open the great meeting. The question of postponing the congress was broached to Mr. Roosevelt a week ago last Friday by Mr. Pinchot when he called upon the ex-president at Oyster Bay. Mr. Pinchot suggested that a date early in October might be better, but the colonel said that he already had made arrangements that precluded the changing of the St. Paul date."

The headquarters of the conservation congress probably will be opened tomorrow. They will be in the capitol, in the office of the lieutenant-governor and the adjacent committee rooms.

MAN AND HIS THEATER TICKET.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I can always tell a city man from a country or small town man," remarked Jim Kelly, ticket taker at the Hippodrome. "A city theatergoer invariably has his tickets ready and holds them out about on a level with his waistline so that I can take them without raising my hands.

"The man who's come to town on an excursion or on a shopping tour stops to get his tickets out of a large pocketbook and then hands them to me over his shoulder as he passes through, or up as high as his head, as if the doorkeeper was going to reach down after them from the ceiling. It's surprising how easy it is to spot them."

UNMUSICAL NEW YORK

London Journalist's Impeachment of the Metropolis—Better Musical Conditions Outside of Gotham—The Stimulating Example of Boston.

New York, July 5.—Are Americans unmusical barbarians?

Hermann Klein says New Yorkers are, and he ought to know. A musical journalist with twenty-five years' experience in London, he came to the American metropolis in 1901 to teach singing. He lived in New York up to a few months ago. Besides teaching he wrote articles for the papers, enjoyed the friendship of many leading musicians, including the versatile Hammerstein and generally was in the thick of things. He himself produced some Sunday evening popular concerts which, if not financially successful, were hailed by the critics as excellent of their kind.

Finally Mr. Klein went back to England to write his book, "Unmusical New York." It is a caustic production. The author says expressly that he does not mean America. He admits—something no real N'Yoarker ever does—that there are other cities. Some of them, furthermore, have a musical life of their own. Of one city, Mr. Klein says:

"As an Englishman I cannot be accused of partiality in this matter. Well, if you demand of me—Are the Boston audiences more genuinely musical? Are they better trained to understand and appreciate the fine points in an important performance? Are they more difficult to satisfy, less fickle when they are satisfied? I reply unhesitatingly, Yes!"

New York, this English critic evidently thinks of as pretty close to the musical limit. "The city of huge fees and tempting salaries where success can be rapidly achieved with the aid of a neatly executed boom and an onterprising press agent," is his characterization. Again he says: "To speak of New York as an essentially musical city is to proclaim it as that which it is not. It is a place where there is much music, and where more money is spent on music than anywhere else in the world. That New Yorkers pay for reputations rather than for musical merit is shown by their indifference to American musicians.

"Because until quite recently the names of MacDowell, Parker, Chadwick, Converse and others have been neither familiar nor acceptable to the paying public of New York, to print those names today on the posters outside Carnegie hall may not be to court disaster as it would have done one time, but it is still an unprofitable and possibly expensive proceeding."

In spite of its thousands of music teachers New York has no conservatory that stands to the city as "the Conservatoire de Musique does to Paris, the Hochschule to Berlin, the Royal Academy of Music to London." These endowed music schools abroad, Mr. Klein urges, have their orchestras, their public performances, their valuable system of examinations. They bring the entire musical population of the empire into actual touch with a common Alma Mater. New York "society" looks down upon musical education with undisguised contempt—an evidence of the low state of the musical arts in the great city.

Are other American cities as badly off in a musical way?

Take Boston as a typical American city which has a musical mind of its own. The Puritan capital, thanks to its very religiosity, got an early start in music. The first manufactures of church organs and pianofortes, the first orchestral associations, the first great conservatory of music, the first modern symphony orchestra, first distinctive local operatic enterprise, stand to the Hub's credit.

Since Gottlieb Graupner, a Hessian flute player, started the earliest of American orchestral organizations the musical societies of Eastern Massachusetts have multiplied until now a mere list of them occupies pages in the musical directory.

Founded in 1853, by Dr. Eben Tourjee, the New England Conservatory of Music has grown from small beginnings until today with nearly 3,000 students and a big corps of teachers it is the largest and best equipped conservatory in the world. It does just those things the lack of which Dr. Klein complains of in his survey of New York. An orchestra is maintained with full complement of pieces, giving frequent concerts before critical audiences at which the younger players are helped by the presence in their ranks of professionals from the Boston Symphony orchestra. A choral organization gives opportunities to vocal soloists. The foundation is laid at the conservatory by which, through graduate work at the opera school of the Boston Opera company, advanced students are enabled to make their debut in opera in this country. The examinations are as severe as those of the best foreign conservatories. The conditions of living for the thousands of music students in Boston are superior to those in any freign city.

Since 1881, the Boston Symphony orchestra has, by general acknowledgement, become not merely the first American organization of its kind but one of the three or four best in the world.

Grand opera, housed in a magnificent opera house in the educational center which is upbuilding in the Fenway district of Boston, brought to this country for the first time the kind of opera which every sizable European city has long had. The example of Boston is proving contagious, and other cities of the United States are forming plans for their own opera.

Within recent years, a thoroughly creditable school of American composers, some of whom Mr. Klein mentions with approval, has appeared, mostly of men and women living in New England. Among such writers of serious music are George W. Chadwick, author of many works which have met with European consideration, director of the New England conservatory and one of the eminent living Americans; Horatio Parker, professor of music at Yale university, a former pupil of Mr. Chadwick's; the late Edward MacDowell, whose best work was accomplished before he went to New York to live; Frederick S. Converse, of the board of trustees of the conservatory in Boston, author of the romantic grand opera, "The Pipe of Desire," and many other works; younger men such as two recent prize winners, Henry Hadley, now director of the symphony orchestra at Seattle, and Arthur Shepard, recently recalled from his conductorship at Salt Lake City to teach at his Alma Mater, the New England Conservatory; able women composers, like Mrs. H. H. A. Beach and Miss Margaret Ruthven Lang.

It has been proved that a musical atmosphere can be created in an American city as a result of hundreds of well attended concerts and recitals, brilliant operatic performances, opportunities for good light music, municipal concerts, peoples' singing classes and conservatory training for large classes of school children. All the larger and some of the smaller American cities are developing musical taste. They are making America a musical country whether or not it is true that New York is unmusical.

MOLASSES IN THE TOBACCO.

That Is Why the Smoker's Tongue Is Burned Occasionally.

"Say, I'll have to drop this brand of smoking. It nearly burns the tongue off me. What's the matter with it?" said the smoker.

"It's been made up with a little bit too much molasses," said the tobacconist. "The tobacco intended for winter sale always has a little more molasses in it than summer tobacco.

"They've several reasons for adding molasses to tobacco," he continued, coming back to the end of the counter. "In the first place, if the leaf wasn't made just the least bit sticky it would be apt to crumble to a very fine powder that would choke up your pipe, especially in winter, when tobacco gets extremely dry.

"So when they add a little molasses to the cut leaf they make a thin, sticky film over it. This keeps the tobacco in good shape and the molasses locks the nicotine in the body of the leaf.

"Nicotine, you know, will evaporate and he lost if the tobacco is exposed long enough. Then when the nicotine is gone you might as well smoke the cabbage leaf the comic papers talk so much about for all the satisfaction you get.

"Plug tobacco is simply leaf glued together with molasses and then pressed into a block. If you'll take a plug of smoking and put it in a damp place outside somewhere and then come back after a week or two to look at it you'll see a pile of square cut leaves, perhaps five or six inches high. This is because the tobacco will have lost its molasses glue, not from the molasses having been washed off the leaf, but from its having fermented into vinegar.

"The film of molasses keeps the leaf moist and pliable. This is because of the sugar crystals in it. If you've ever noticed salt in wet weather you'll often have seen how it gathered the wet. The sugar crystals act exacty like the crystals of salt, but to a less degree.

"When you fellows that smoke pipes say that tobacco burns your tongue you're away off. The tobacco hasn't a thing to do with it, and your tongue isn't being burnt, it's being scalded."

"From the moisture in the tobacco?" asked the customer.

"Party," said the tobacconist, "but mostly from moisture you'd not think was in the tobacco. There's a great deal of water in the little sugar crystals over and above what you'd expect they might collect from the air.

"When you melt this sugar in your pipe each crystal dissolves first in a little pool of water, and makes material for steam, in addition to the free water in the tobacco that you can feel with your fingers.

"This hot steam makes a regular steam heating system between the bowl of your pipe and your tongue, and while you think your tongue is being 'burnt' you're actually getting it parboiled."

"Has all tobacco molasses in it?" the customer asked.

"No," said the tobaccionist. "The very cheap tobacco smoked by the natives of Cuba, Porto Rico, Mexico and those countries, in the form of cigarettes, hasn't any molasses in it. Molasses isn't needed once the manufacturers have their leaf made up in the form of cigarettes, because they use a very heavy paper cylinder, with the ends tucked in. This keeps the leaf from falling out, even if it's crushed a little through the thick paper.

"You'll get twenty-five of those cigarettes for about 2 cents. The workingmen smoke them all the time because they're too lazy even to roll their own cigarettes. The coolest pipe smoke you ever had will be yours if you'll only go to the bother of buying a few bunches of these cigarettes and emptying the tobacco into a par."

WHEAT HAS AN UPTURN

Advances Sharply at the Opening After the Holiday.

Flax Also Strong and Buoyant, With Little Trading.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 5.—Wheat was up sharply at the opening and after a slight recession on profit-taking, values advanced slowly. The undertone was firm. Statistics were bullish and there was very little rain in the Northwest over the holidays. Temperatures are cool but warmer weather is predicted for the Dakotas tomorrow. Trading was only moderate.

July wheat opened at $1.17 and sold at $1.16⅞ to $1.17⅛ and closed $1.17 asked. September opened at $1.09 bid and sold at $1.11, $1.10¾, $1.11 $1.10⅞-1, $1.11⅛, $1.10⅝-¾, $1.12, $1.11⅛, $1.12, $1.11⅜ and closed $1.11⅜ asked. December sold at $1.09½ July closed 2c up, September 4⅜c up, December 4½c up.

Flax was strong and trading was comparatively light. Values were steady after the opening. July opened at $2.10 bid and sold at $2.15, $2.14 and closed at $2.15. September opened at $1.94 bid and sold at $2.00, $2.13, $2.09 and closed at $2.10. October was $1.81 bid and sold at $1.90, $1.99, $1.95, $1.98. July closed 5c up, September 17c up and December 27c up.

Values in wheat and flax made sensational advances chiefly because the light buying power was unusually efficient due to a lack of pressure.

Cash closed 1@2c over July, the position of the cash market being easier. Oats closed 1¼c up, rye and barley were unchanged and durum closed 3⅜c up.

The advance at the opening today was based on climatic and statistical bullish conditions. Statistics as well as crop conditions inflamed pit sentiment and the opening was sharp, July being 3c up from Friday. September opened strong and at noon was 4½c over Friday's close and appeared to be pegged at that level.

The crowd played for a break after the strong opening but the market went the other way. There was very little pressure and the buying power which was light was exceedingly strong as it met with practically no opposition. Cables were higher, the visible decrease was 1,107,000 bu and the decrease in the world's shipments was 808,000 bu. The Missouri crop report made the condition of winter wheat 76 compared with 68 on June 1.

The government's report will be issued July 8 and traders look for a exceedingly bullish report on spring wheat and bearish returns on winter wheat. They will be disappointed if neither materialize. Le Count wired today that the North Dakota crop would be more than 45,000,000 bu. This is slightly more than 33 per cent of the estimated crop June 1 and appears to many traders to border on the ridiculous. Many of the bulls are not inclined to follow the advance until after the government's report is made public. The advance has discounted the damage to the crop, many people think, and they also believe that there has been as much exaggeration about the spring wheat crop as the winter crop. The same experts who failed to kill the winter wheat are the most active now in killing the spring wheat. Many traders cannot forget this and some are cautious about following the sharp upturns.

There is a deep-seated belief that the spring wheat crop will be only moderate while early reports indicated a bumper yield. On present conditions it seems likely that the three North western states will not fall far short of 200,000,000 bu. The deficiency in moisture is the most serious obstacle in way of the advancement of the spring wheat. There is a low barometric pressure over North Dakota and Montana fell last night and today along the international border, chiefly on the Canadian side. Manitoba got many showers and local thunder storms. There was practically no rain in the three states over the holidays, the few showers being immaterial. The temperatures are cooler, which is a favorable factor. Clear weather, however, is predicted for tomorrow in North and South Dakota and it is expected that temperatures will advance.

There is a fair amount of wheat coming to northwestern primary points from the farmers. Receipts have been larger than a year ago and the reserves in the terminals are heavy. The free selling of the farmers in the face of what some people term a "calamity," is puzzling to the bulls. On the other hand the speculators in the country are heavily long and almost to a man are bullish. Winter wheat sales to arrive have been small, but there is a tendency to be more free handed. Cash prices are holding firm and the Southwest reports that most of the new crop grain that is coming in is on consignment. Compared with former years the amount of wheat sold to arrive has been exceptionally small on account of the uncertainty of the spring wheat crop. The milling demand in the Southwest is dead and mills are waiting for new wheat. In the Northwest the flour trade is fair and sales are about normal for this period of the year.

Spring wheat mills are reported to have sold a fair amount of flour for shipment in the fall. Prices of the best grades have sustained a rapid advance but it is probable that sales are being made on a basis lower than the prices quoted. There is no export business. The bulls think the low grade stuff that may be sent abroad will take care of any surplus wheat that may exist. The bulls have assumed as a certainty that this country will be on a domestic basis and that the bearish situation which exists abroad may be ignored. Europe will not need any of our wheat in the coming crop year, according to present indications. Whether farmers will hold onto enough wheat to prevent stocks from accumulating remains to be seen.

The speculative element would like to see a break, but the country speculators have put up big margins and it will need a sharp downward movement to shake them out.

Thrashing returns from the Southwest are large and some areas that were called failures are making large yields. Many counties in Kansas which were put out of business by the experts show conditions of from 88 to 95 per cent.

Le Count wired from St. Cloud, Minn.: "Prospects in Southern Minnesota are fine as far north as Richmond, Minn. From there to St. Cloud crop much lighter and will make about half crop. Think Minnesota is in the best condition of any of the three states. Red River Valley is bad but the greater part of the wheat territory is south of the burned district. I think prospects for the three states as follows: North Dakota 45,000,000, South Dakota 36,000,000 and Minnesota 75,000,000 bu. The above estimate depends on whether the southern part is not blighted by hot weather. Weather very hot, no signs of rain."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Little Wheat Is Offered and Prices Go Up Sharply.

Chicago, July 5.—So bad had drought conditions become today in the Northwest that at Detroit, Minn., farmers were reported to have turned cattle into the wheat fields. Only a few scattered showers were heard from, not amounting to anything. In consequence, little or no wheat was for sale here at the opening. Before buying orders could be filled prices were bid up sharply. Even at the advance, selling pressure was not heavy. Shorts in Liverpool were said to be covering freely. The European visible supply and the amount on passage both showed unexpectedly large decreases. Above all the forecast for tonight gave no promise of rain in the Dakotas or Minnesota. Initial sales showed an advance of 1⅛@1¼c to 3¼@3⅜c. September started in at 99¼c for 1,000 bu, a rise of 1⅛@1¼c to 2⅛@2¼c. A further advance followed to $1.00½c. Notwithstanding the sharp differences in prices, the volume of business was quite restricted.

A large decrease in the visible supply caused an additional advance. Crop damage reports grew in gloominess throughout the day. The close was strong with September at $1.01¾, a net rise of 3⅝@3¾c.

Corn was extremely dull. Quotations, however, were marked up in sympathy with wheat. September opened ⅛@¼c to ¼@⅜c higher at 60⅝c, sold 60¾c and 60⅝c and went to 60⅞c.

Limited offerings allowed the influence of wheat to send prices still higher. The close was strong with September at 61⅜@61¾c, a net gain of 1¼c.

Congestion in July oats forced the price of that option up 1c and helped other months. September started ⅛c lower to ¼c higher at 38⅜c to 38¾c and advanced to 39c.

Pork shorts set the pace in provisions. July pork opened 62½c higher at $25 and September 27½c to 37½c up at $22.70 to $22.80. There was practically no reaction. Other products started 2½c lower to 7½c up, but some further gains. First prices for September were lard, $12.25; ribs, $12.32½ to $12.37½.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Very Unsettled Tone at Start and Market Has Little Support.

Prices Recover Late in the Day and Close Is Irregular.

New York, July 5.—A very unsettled tone characterized the opening stock market today. The advance during the three days' holiday in London affected only a part of the list, the metal industrials and some of the leading railroads showing weakness. Chesapeake & Ohio was lifted 1½ and Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central a point. The United States Steel stocks and Pennsylvania declined 1 and Union Pacific and American Smelting ¾. Reading, after opening up ⅜, ran off 1½ below last Friday's close.

There were a few fitful rallies, but the whole market soon sank back to a low level. Some of the largest declines in the first hour's trading were Reading 4, Union Pacific 3½, Northern Pacific 3¼, United States Steel 3⅛, St. Paul 2⅝, Atchison 2⅝ and Rock Island 2.

Stocks had no support except from occasional covering by shorts and the rapid decline left only a small margin from the low prices of last week. The bank statement of Saturday was taken to indicate probable calls for further stock market liquidation. Chief Justice Fuller's death seemed to point to further delay in settling the Sherman law cases. Strike talk by Pennsylvania railroad employes and the strength of wheat were factors. Union Pacific declined 4½, National Biscuit 4, Louisville and Nashville 3, Atlantic Coast Line 2½, American Car 2⅜, Missouri Pacific and American Smelting 2¼ and the list generally 1 to 2 points. A slight rally threw the market into dullness. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed rather irregular and dull. Prices moved towards recovery late in the day, Reading rising 2¼ over its low price and other stocks 1 to 1½. The close was quiet and free from nervousness.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

"I know that a conspiracy exists to accomplish my downfall," he said. "Whether it succeeds or not does not matter, as the time has come when Spain will place herself abreast of modern nations."

Executive Will Have Ten Whole Days of Real Vacation.

Beverly, Mass., July 6.—With not a single entry in his engagement book for the next ten days, President Taft began a real vacation period today. The executive officers have turned down all requests for audiences with the chief executive, and the only callers allowed on Burgess Point up to July 16, will be social friends of the Taft family.

IS KEEPING COLUMBIA BEFORE PUBLIC EYE

HARRY THURSTON PECK.

New York, July 6.—Harry Thurston Peck is stirring up the animals at Columbia university. Peck was divorced from his first wife and has married a second, but recently a suit was brought against him based on letters he was said to have written between the divorce and the second marriage. They were addressed to a stenographer. President Butler of Columbia asked Prof. Peck to resign. Prof. Peck has refused to resign without charges and has given out public statements claiming a state of revolution against the present head of Columbia among the professors employed there.

CANNON ASKS WHO SAID SO

Speaker Then Refuses to Comment on Poindexter Matter.

Washington Insurgent to Be Aided By Roosevelt in Campaign.

Washington, July 6.—"Who gave out that news; Poindexter?"

That is what Joseph G. Cannon, speaker of the house of representatives, asked a newspaper interviewer late last night upon his return to Washington, after a trip to a neighboring seashore resort. Informed that the intimation that Representative Poindexter of Washington would have the sympathy of Former President Roosevelt in his candidacy for senator from that state had come from both Mr. Poindexter and Col. Roosevelt, Mr. Cannon declined to comment further upon the situation "until he knew more about it."

Calls Poindexter Rank Socialist.

Washington, July 6.—Secretary Ballinger of the interior department returned to Washington from Beverly today. Referring to the report from Oyster Bay that Former President Roosevelt had espoused the cause of Representative Miles Poindexter as a candidate for the senate to succeed Senator Piles of Washington, the secretary said:

"If the published report is true, Mr. Roosevelt has been led astray by the deception of those who claim to be his friends."

He added that he had taken no active part in the politics of Washington for

DROWNS GIRL TO FOIL KIDNAPERS

Colorado Woman Holds Daughter's Head in Tub of Water.

Durango, Col., July 6.—Crazed by the fear that her 6-year-old daughter would be kidnaped, Mrs. W. R. Luxton, wife of a well-to-do ranchman living ten miles from Cortez, drowned the child in a washtub to save it from what her unbalanced mind considered a worse fate.

Mrs. Luxton was found last night by Sheriff Gawaith seated on a doorstep of the sheriff's home here. She told an incoherent story of a conspiracy to kidnap her daughter, and declared she had thwarted the plotters by holding the child's head in a tub of water until she was dead.

The little girl's body was found in the tub at the Luxton ranch.

SUBMARINE STARTS ON 650-MILE CRUISE.

Provincetown, Mass., July 6.—To demonstrate the practicability of the submarine for long ocean trips, the Salmon left here today on a 650-mile run to Bermuda. It is expected that the run will be made in about seventy hours.

DO NOT TEACH BOYS TO MILK

Agricultural Schools Are Scored By Dick J. Crosby at Boston.

David Starr Jordan Makes Bitter Attack on Football.

Boston, July 6.—That the boy who wants to learn to dig a ditch, harness a horse, use a plow or milk a cow, would go in vain to the colleges of agriculture in the country, Dick J. Crosby of Washington, D. C., a specialist in agricultural education, told the department of rural and agricultural education of the National Educational association convention today.

There are 300 more secondary schools and colleges teaching agriculture than there were eighteen months ago, he said, but they teach theory only.

Prof. G. F. Warren of Cornell university expressed the opinion that the farmer without an agricultural education was headed for the poorhouse.

Farming and Education.

He quoted figures to show that ten college-bred farmers averaged $847 yearly income against an average of only $318 for the farmers whose education had been limited to the district school. Most of the teachers used to say, he said, that any fool could farm. Now they say agriculture is too difficult for high school.

"Industrial education does not mean an educational revolution," declared Arthur D. Dean of the New York state educational department, addressing the department of manual training. "A portion of agricultural and industrial practice can be expressed in mathematical form."

He told the department that employers must permit boys and girls to attend continuation schools for the preservation of American citizenship.

Scores Entrance Requirements.

That uniform college entrance requirements hampered schools of all

STANDARD OIL MAN PREVENTS BIG FIRE

Goes Through Flames to Turn Off Oil From Danger.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 6.—While firemen poured powerful streams of water upon him, W. A. Weaver, superintendent of the Atlantic Refining plant (Standard Oil company), dashed daringly through flames and smoke early today and shut a valve which prevented fire spreading from a burning still of benzine to great tanks of oil nearby. Thirty thousand barrels of oil were stored.

Many people called from their beds by the peril cheered the superintendent as he came scorched from the burning still. What probably would have been a catastrophy similar to that at Sheridan several years ago, when 200 people were seriously injured in a gasoline explosion, was prevented, and the loss confined to the benzine still.

NORTON IS THE WINNER

Contest for Secretary of State in North Dakota Settled.

Democrats Get Enough Votes to Nominate Their Ticket.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although it is a week today since the primary election in North Dakota took place, it was only last evening that enough of the returns had been received to make positive the result of the contest for the nomination for secretary of state and for superintendent of public instruction on the Republican ticket. P. D. Norton, insurgent, is the successful candidate for the first place, while E. J. Taylor, stalwart, wins the other place.

Chairman J. L. Cashel of the Democratic state central committee has been busily engaged looking up the Democratic vote. In twenty-three counties he has found 6,800 votes, and he stated that the total count would be between 11,000 and 12,000, assuring the nomination of the ticket by a safe margin of about 2,500 to 3,000 votes.

The contest for the Democratic senatorial nomination is also still unsettled, both Duis and Bruegger running very close in the reports at hand so far.

The Republican Ticket.

The makeup of the Republican ticket has now been made definite with the

GIRL IS SHOT FOR MISSING "DATE"

Kansas City Contractor Fires Four Bullets Into Her Body.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—Miss Ruby Hirsch, aged 22 years, was shot and fatally injured by Edward Baker, a contractor, 47 years old, at her home here last night, because she failed to keep a luncheon engagement with him. After shooting the girl four times Baker fled, but was arrested today by officers who found him six miles south of this city.

CORNUCOPIA FIRES DEFY RAIN---BOAT CARRIES REFUGEES

Heavy Downfall Merely Gives Slight Check to the Flames.

Weary and Smoke-Grimed People Taken to Bayfield By Steamer.

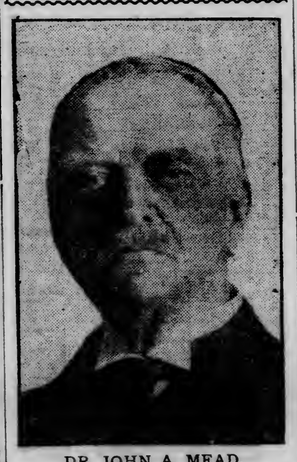

Ashland, Wis., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hampered, but far from extinguished by a heavy rain that fell for two hours last night, the fires that encircled the town of Cornucopia today are springing up with renewed fury, and there seems little, if any hope, that the place can be saved.

Thirty-five women and children—smoke-grimed and weary, and with eyes red and swollen from the smoke in which they have lived for the last two days—arrived in Bayfield last night on the small steamer Barker, which went to the relief of the threatened town.

The refugees arrived in Bayfield in sad condition. They had fled to the boat as soon as it reached a landing place at Cornucopia, and had taken with them few personal possessions. Some were not even wholly clothed.

Two Other Persons Probably Fatally Injured in Texas.

Pratt of St. Paul, a real estate and tax agent of the Chicago Great Western railroad, whose automobile was struck by a street car here last night, died of his injuries at a hospital today. Mr. Pratt is said to have purchased the machine recently. He was thrown to the pavement and his skull fractured.

INQUEST OVER WRECK ON FRIDAY

Blame for Ohio Disaster Laid on Dispatcher By Engineer.

Hamilton, Ohio, July 6.—Further investigation by Coroner J. A. Burnett of Butler county of the disastrous wreck at Middletown Monday has been deferred until the formal inquest is begun, according to announcement made by him today. The inquest probably will be called for Friday, July 8. The findings of the coroner may not be announced until they are filed with the county clerk. This procedure usually occurs about ten days after a hearing. Upwards of a score of witnesses have been summoned by Dr. Burnett.

Blames the Dispatches.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 6.—A statement from J. W. Wall, pilot engineer of the Big Four passenger train which crashed into a freight train of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railway, places the blame for the wreck on Train Dispatcher Smith of the latter system at Dayton, and in this he was partially confirmed by F. A. Gould, general superintendent of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton.

Mr. Gould was unwilling to go further than say, "Some such reason was responsible for the accident," but railroad men about the headquarters of the two systems here accepted the explanation offered by Wall as containing the right cause.

TORNADOES REPORTED

Wires Are Down and Great Damage Done Near Dakota Line.

Brush Fires Are Checked in Several Parts of Minnesota.

Duluth Gets Half Inch of Rain After Long Drouth.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grain on about one hundred sections of land in Northern Grand Forks county was either totally or partially destroyed by hail last night, while in Polk county, Minn., Northland township received a very bad blow. The storm in Grand Forks county was particularly severe at Mecklnock, Inkster, Honey Ford, McKinnock and Manvel. Windows were smashed and trees stripped of foliage and small houses were wrecked.

St. Paul, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Western Minnesota and Eastern South Dakota were visited last evening by severe wind and electrical storms, which may have caused loss of life, and did great damage to cities and farming communities.

The storm seems to have followed a well defined path west from Benson and Madison, Minn. Details are meager. Wires are down west from the points and telephone and telegraph messages could not be sent through at points on the Great Northern and Minneapolis & St. Louis roads from these cities as far west as Watertown, S. D., where the storm appears to have spent itself.

ALASKA LANDS FOR HOMESTEADS

First Steps for Opening Are Made By Geological Survey.

Seattle, Wash., July 6.—The first steps for the opening of agricultural and other areas in Alaska to homestead entry will be taken by Topographer R. H. Sargent of the United States geological survey, who left for the North last night to make public land surveys in the territory. Mr. Sargent and nine assistants will begin work in the Tanana valley in the vicinity of Fairbanks.

It is estimated there are 100 parcels of land already under settlement in the valleys around Fairbanks, but these are not subject to homestead entry until the surveys are made.

After organizing the work at Fairbanks, Mr. Sargent will go to Cordova, where he will make preliminary examination of the Copper River valley. He will return to Washington in October.

CHASE MEN IN LEADEN HAIL

Harlem Police Land Alleged Crook After Hard Battle.

New York, July 6.—After a running fight between safe crackers and police in Harlem today, in which thirty shots were exchanged, the police, facing a rain of bullets, chased one fugitive up an elevated railroad stairway and captured him after a desperate hand to hand encounter. The second man bolted into a tenement house and disappeared.

The burglars showed fight from the start when found by Zerando Di Angiles, proprietor of a First avenue cafe, drilling holes in a safe in which Di Angiles for the last month has kept from $6,000 to $7,000 belonging to Italian societies. As they dashed out of the place they opened fire.

Yelled for Police.

Di Angiles, though the bullets whistled close to him, was not injured and yelled for the police. Three officers responded and the chase through the streets with a running exchange of shots, continued for several blocks.

Policeman Albinger finally cornered a man, who gave his name as Frank Picel, on the L stairway. The man seized the officer by the throat and choked him almost into unconsciousness, before other officers came to his aid. He denied being a professional burglar and said he did not know the name of the man who escaped.

TAFT GIVEN SUPPORT

South Dakota Republicans Give Him Hearty Indorsement.

Cannon and Aldrich Are Condemned in Strong Language.

Sioux Falls, S. D., July 6.—The Republican state convention today gave President Taft much heartier indorsement than was anticipated by many. The president was commended for his declarations of loyalty to what are known as the Roosevelt policies, and his administration was indorsed as having read many substantial measures of reform into the statutes.

The convention, in all reference to the Cannon and Aldrich policies declared against them in strong language.

Cook Again Chairman.

Willis C. Cook of Sioux Falls was re-elected chairman of the Republican state central committee.

The platform declares the new tariff law should be revised immediately; the Payne tariff law is declared a step in the right direction, but should have made many reductions; it declares for national physical valuation of railroads; for a graduated income tax; for federal system of regulating corporations; for conservation of natural resources. The new rules in the national house of representatives are commended and still further modifications are favored to curb the power of the speaker. The Recall and other state reform measures are declared for.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 6.—P. J. Carrigan, a sailor and placer miner, who arrived in Colorado Splngs a few days ago, says that he himself climbed Mount McKinley and found there the copper tube and records left by Dr. Cook to establish the latter's claim of having first ascended the mountain.

OHIO WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN RAIN BARREL.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 6.—Drowned in a rain barrel, the body of Mrs. Henry Hodges was found by her son today, after she had disappeared from her home in Milford, Ohio, fourteen miles east of this city. Mrs. Hodges had been ill during the day and was not in her room when the family awakened.

MARKET RALLIES AFTER OPENING

Advances Until Noon, Holding Firm Until the Close.

After a weak opening buying strength developed in the copper market today and the market advanced until toward noon when it stopped and marked time the remainder of the session. The crowd which has regarded selling as the proper thing to do for several days quickly switched and shorts ran to cover. The market wanted to believe that the Standard Oil interests came to the support of the market and the public was informed to that effect.

The volume of business was moderate. Rains in the Northwest contributed to the better tone. Rumored imports of gold changed the sentiment of many professionals who deserted the bear side.

Trading here was light. Butte-Alex Scott was strong on the report that the developments on the 1,500-foot level are only twelve feet from the big ore bodies which have been opened up on the 1,600-foot level. RATES—FIFTEEN WORDS FOR FIFTEEN CENTS.

SOO IS ALLOWED TWO BUTTER RATES

Commerce Commission Makes Ruling on Dairy Product Charges.

Washington, July 6.—The interstate commerce commission today announced a decision to the effect that the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railway lawfully may maintain two rates, of 40 and 20 cents per 100 pounds respectively, on shipments of butter and eggs eastbound out of St. Paul and Minneapolis via Manistique, Mich.

The lower rate is on shipments originating at the concentrating points, so far as its line is concerned, and traffic upon which it has had a haul into the concentrating points; but it may do this only under proper tariff provisions connecting the inbound with the outbound movements, and then only when the inbound movement to the concentrating point proceeds under rates on file with this commission.

If your "big think" just now is about clothes, you'll find "thought food" in plenty in the ads.

MANY CITIES PUT BAN ON PICTURES OF FIGHT

St. Joseph, Mo., July 6.—Mayor Clayton said today he would not interfere with the display of the Johnson-Jeffries fight pictures here.

"I want to see them," he said, "and I want my boys to see them."

Washington, July 6.—Moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight cannot be shown in this city nor elsewhere in the District of Columbia. The District commissioners today instructed the superintendent of police to prohibit the films under the law which gives the commissioners authority to preserve order by police measures. The word went out to the proprietors of more than 100 theaters who expected to reap a harvest as soon as the fight films arrived.

Commissioners are convinced that to allow the pictures to be shown would cause a repetition of the riotous scenes of the night of July 4, when the police made 238 arrests and quelled many street disturbances.

Opposed in Boston.

Boston, July 6.—Officials of the Christian Endeavor society were much pleased today over the result of their movement against the exhibition of the pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight. Urgent telegrams have been sent to all the branch societies throughout the world to continue the agitation against the pictures.

Mayor Fitzgerald, who has the granting of all licenses for exhibitions here of this nature, said today that Boston ought to take the lead in banishing the pictures of such contests, and that he did not think that the pictures of the fight would be exhibited in this city.

In Socialist Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 6.—The Johnson-Jeffries fight pictures will not be permitted to be exhibited in Milwaukee. Mayor Emil Seidel today sent word to all theater managers in Milwaukee advising them against entering into contracts for presentation of the pictures. The mayor gives as his reason that such an exhibition is detrimental to public morals and particularly to children.

Governor Takes Action.

Richmond, Va., July 6.—Governor Mann today said he would request officials of every city and town in Virginia to prohibit showing the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures. Mayor Richardson and Police Chief Werner today emphatically declared they would use every means to prevent the pictures being shown here, and would invoke aid of the board of police commissioners.

Forbidden By Mayor.

Norfolk, Va., July 6.—Mayor Reed of Portsmouth, Va., announced today that he would forbid the exhibition of pictures of the Johnson-Jeffries fight.

Louisville Draws Line.

Louisville, Ky., July 6.—Mayor William O. Head announced that the exhibition of the Johnson-Jeffries fight pictures would be prohibited in Louisville. The mayor says he fears race riots.

Even In Africa.

Capetown, July 6.—There is a widespread demand here for the prohibition in South Africa of the pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight, owing to their effect upon the natives.

Prohibited In Maine.

Portland, Me., July 6.—The exhibition of fight pictures in Maine is prohibited by a law passed by the legislature in 1897. The law reads:

"Whoever publicly exhibits any photographic or other reproduction of a prize fight shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500."

"Under no Circumstances."

Savannah, Ga., July 6.—Mayor George W. Tidman stated today that under no circumstances would he permit the showing of Johnson-Jeffries prize fight pictures in Savannah.

Oh You Pittsburg!

Pittsburg, Pa., July 6.—The police announced today the anti-fight picture agitation would have no effect in Pittsburg unless the pictures, when shown, proved to be the cause of race trouble.

Hadley Will Watch.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 6.—Governor Hadley said today that if the exhibition of the Johnson-Jeffries prize fight pictures starts race riots or produces public disturbances in the state, he will prevent, as public nulsances, their display.

Providence Is Unfavorable.

Providence, R. I., July 6.—No exhibition of the Jeffries-Johnson pictures will be allowed in Providence, said Chairman William A. Luther of the board of police commissioners today.

Not for Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., July 6.—Police Judge Southgate today issued a signed declaration that the pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight will not be exhibited here. The negro population of Lexington is about as large as the white, but no trouble had been experienced as a result of the Reno fight.

Again State Law.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 6.—Because of a state law, moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight cannot be shown in this state.

Forbidden In Harrisburg.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 6.—Mayor E. S. Meals today issued an order prohibiting a display of the Reno prize-fight pictures in this city.

Peary Invites Roosevelt.

Portland, Me., July 6.—Commander Robert E. Peary has sent an invitation to Former President Roosevelt to visit the explorer's summer home on Eagle island, Casco bay, some time this summer.

Most of "the salesmanship that sells things" begins in the advertising. Sometimes it's completed there—sometimes by the store salesman or saleswoman.

JEFF NOT KNOCKED OUT

Rickard Says He Was Disqualified By His Seconds' Action.

Adds That Big Fighter Was Unable to Get Up Alone.

Reno, Nev., July 6.—"Was Jeffries disqualified, or was he knocked out?" is the point Tex Rickard is being asked by telegraph from several Eastern cities to decide.

Rickard finds it difficult to make an official ruling on the technical points involved, but is disposed to rule that interference of Jeffries' seconds in helping him to get up after the second knockdown constituted a disqualification. He had this to say on the subject today:

"Jeffries was not counted out, although I am positive he never could have got up within ten seconds when he went down the second time if his seconds had not put their hands on him and pushed him up. This assistance disqualified Jeffries, and I was trying to get between the fighters to stop the fight on that account when Johnson sent him down for the third time with a left and right on the jaw.

Theoretically Disqualified.

"The pictures will show that I got between them when this third knockdown came, and gave the fight to Johnson before the timekeeper could count ten. Therefore, I believe I should stand as a disqualification, although as I have said, Jeffries would have been counted out had the disqualification not occurred."

Rickard's attention was called to the widespread agitation against the pictures of the fight being shown, particularly in the Southern states.

"I still hold a sixth interest in the pictures and am naturally interested, but I don't think this agitation will amount to anything except to advertise the pictures. The feeling will die out in a few days."

Reno is like a deserted village today.

WILL TALK TO REGULARS, TOO

Roosevelt Also Says He Is to Have Meeting With Beveridge.

New York, July 6.—Theodore Roosevelt is to talk politics with the regulars" as well as the "insurgents." At his editorial office today, after an automobile ride from Oyster Bay, he announced that he was to see William Barnes, Jr., and James W. Wadsworth, Jr., two of the leaders of the New York state Republican organization which last week went counter to the wishes of Governor Hughes and Col. Roosevelt and defeated the direct nominations bill.

Col. Roosevelt set no date for his interview with them. His talk with Mr. Barnes at least, will be delayed for some time, as the Albany man sailed today for Europe for a rest of a month. The colonel refused to make any comment on Mr. Barnes' statement that he didn't take his orders from a former president or governor.

Will See Beveridge.

Col. Roosevelt said also he is to see Senator Beveridge of Indiana and Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York soon.

The colonel received a delegation of Pittsburgers today and promised to make an address in Pittsburg in the fall. His visitors were H. D. W. English, president of the Pittsburg Civic commission; Allen T. Burns, secretary of the commission, and Charles F. Fuller, general secretary of the Associated Charities of Pittsburg. His address is to be delivered in the Pittsburg exposition building and will be on some subject bearing on civics.

Ex-Governor A. J. Montague of Virginia also called on Mr. Roosevelt.

You can be sure about some things only by answering some want ads—some important things, too!

SAYS BIGELOW IS SOON TO GET OUT

Milwaukee Friends of Banker Say Taft Has Signed Parole.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 6.—That Frank G. Bigelow, ex-president of the First National bank, now serving a ten-year sentence in the Leavenworth federal prison, is to return to Milwaukee within the next fortnight under a parole signed by the president, is the report persistently circulated among the friends of the former banker in Milwaukee.

Warden Knows Nothing of It.

Leavenworth, Kan., July 6.—Warden McLaughlerty of the federal prison here said that he had heard nothing of an official nature regarding the parole of Frank Bigelow. The parole board has not been organized at Leavenworth yet and there is no official channel here through which an application could pass to become effective so soon.

Denied at Washington.

Washington, July 6.—Officials of the department of justice emphatically deny that President Taft has signed a parole for Frank G. Bigelow, the Milwaukee banker, and say that present records do not favor his release in advance of the expiration of his sentence.

Will Close at 1 p. m. Saturday.

The Gray-Tallant company announces that it will close at 1 p. m. Saturday until further notice. This makes the Saturday closing movement gain considerable strength. It is hoped others will fall in line.

MAN'S FIGHT WITH CROCODILE

Story of an Old Sailor's Determination to Bag His Game.

Chambers's Journal: It is only a few months since the incidents happened that I am about to relate. My work took me on a visit up a river to one of those timber cutting camps where are felled and rafted the great hardwood logs so valued in the Chinese market.

G., the white man in charge, was a characteristic old "hard case," who had started life before the mast in a sailing ship and drifted in a beach combing fashion to our colony, where he had been given, almost in charity, a subordinate billet in ono of the large timber companies. Arriving in my boat at the little jetty or landing stage, I was astonished to find G. lying on a rattan couch within a few yards of the bank with a heavy express rifle across his knees gazing intently at a rough pagar or fence erected in the stream.

Hanging from this fence and a few feet above the water were the corpses of a monkey and several pariah dogs; while half a dozen ducks, each tied to the fence by the leg with a long string, flapped about on the water and quacked dismally in their efforts to escape. I was just wondering whether the whisky bottle or too much solitude accounted for this state of affairs, when I noticed that G.'s leg was swathed in rough bandages from knee to ankle.

Throwing myself down near him in the welcome shade, I learned the following story: Two nights before G. was sleeping peacefully in his little palm leaf house in a clearing about twenty yards from the river bank when his dog began to growl and refused to be silenced. G. turned out and walked round the hut to ascertain the cause of the disturbance, but seeing nothing addressed himself to the dog in his usual lurid and picturesque sailing ship language and retired to bed again. Five minutes later he was once more aroused by a yelp from the dog, and this time really annoyed he seized a stick and sallied forth to inflict dire punishment on the disturber of his dreams. Suddenly a dark form glided swiftly from the shadows and G. felt himself seized by the right knee as in a vise.

Stooping to free himself, he found he was in the grip of a large crocodile whose teeth were firmly embedded in flesh and bone. Backward and forward the struggle swayed, the crocodile striving to pull its destined victim to the water's edge and G., hampered as he was by his imprisoned leg, fighting for his life to reach higher ground. At last the beast, hurling its victim to the ground with a shake of its powerful head, began to drag him swiftly toward the water. Poor G., feeling, as he expressed it, that it was "all over bar the shoutin'," determined to make one last effort for his life, and taking advantage of a momentary halt as the brute was steering past a tree stump, he sat up and succeeded in getting both his thumbs into the reptile's eye sockets, the only vulnerable part of a crocodile's head.

The rest of the story is perhaps best told in G.'s own words, or as nearly as circumstances (and the editor) will permit: "So soon as I gets me thumbs made fast in 'is eyes 'e opens 'is mouth to shout an' lets go my leg. Then first thing next mornin' the coolies lays 'is breakfast for 'm, as you see, an' I gets into his chair, an' 'er I stays if it's a month." Vainly I tried to persuade G. to come away with me to the next station and see a doctor. I argued with him. I implored him, but it was absolutely useless. He refused to move from that chair till he had bagged his crocodile, and I was at last obliged to leave him, having dressed his leg and exhausted every known means of persuasion short of brute force.

I met him again a week later in a hospital bed suffering severely, but quite happy in the knowledge that the bones of that crocodile were bleaching in the sun outside his house. Poor old G.! Only a few weeks afterward the habit of clearing creepers from his path in the jungle with the butt end of his loaded and cocked rifle proved fatal to him.

STORIES OF ANDREW JOHNSON

A Good Tailor—His Education—Views of His Opponents.

"About a year before the Civil war Judge Pepper, who had been a blacksmith before he became a lawyer, sent Andrew Johnson a set of fire irons which he had made himself. Johnson, then the governor, presently sent the judge a coat, which he had made for him. When he told my mother of the incident," says a writer in Harper's, "she said:

"'Did you really make that coat, governor?'

"'I put some stitches in it,' he said. 'Pepper shouldn't get ahead of me with the people. When I was a tailor I was a good one.'

"He refused an invitation once to dine with A. V. Brown, a leader of the Democratic party in Tennessee and afterward Buchanan's postmaster-general, although all of the guests were to be fellow Democrats, and let them know that on that day he had dined with his washerwoman off bacon and cabbage.

"He made no secret of his unlettered youth, and once brought my mother a magazine containing a sketch of his life in which it was stated that his wife, Flora McCardle, had taught him to read after they were married when he was 21 years of age. He said the statement was inaccurate, but substantially true; that when they were married his wife brought her school books to their home and his study of them aided his education materially.

"After he rose to prominence his admirers used to point out that he made few mistakes in grammar and that his English was pure, but he never learned to divide his words correctly in writing and sometimes made ludicrous mistakes in quotations. Once in a public speech he spoke of the 'Lays of Ancient Rome,' as having been translated in Macauley; and in another speech, he quoted: '"And the worthy of their steel," as Shakespeare says!'

President Johnson seemed to believe that those who opposed him politically would harm him in every possible way. About 1857 his arm was broken in a railway accident and was so badly set by a country doctor that Dr. Paul F. Eve, then considered to be the best surgeon in Nashville, who was called later, decided that it must be broken again and reset.

"The operation was performed in a bedroom in a hotel on Cedar street in Nashville, where Johnson boarded, the arm being pulled around a bedpost, and the first bedpost selected for the purpose was fluted or grooved. After Johnson had nearly fainted from the pain he asked whether a square bedpost could not be used, and the breaking was completed with the aid of a square post. Mr. Johnson, when he told my mother of this incident, said that Dr. Eve had purposely used the grooved post in order to torture him, because he was a Democrat and Eve was a Whig."

and the aeroplane in flight over a park of the late Queen Victoria that she had never looked into a shop window. Neither did she ever see a telegram, and of the modus operandi of the every day coommunicator she had not the slightest conception.

An amusing story is told that on one occasion, when having tea with a lady at Windsor, she was much struck with a buttered delicacy which was offered her, inquiring of what it was made and whether her servants could achieve the same—it was nothing more nor less than a buttered bun toasted!

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

James T. McCleary, who formerly represented the Second district in the national house of representatives, but who was dislodged from that position because he didn't make good as a representative, is out with the cocksure assertion that W. S. Hammond, his Democratic successor, likewise has not made good. Without too severe a primary contest, opines McCleary, "any good Republican who should be nominated" can defeat Hammond.

McCleary Has Taken Stand for Ward.

Continuing, the little schoolmaster says:

"Although several men have been mentioned for the Republican nomination, Albert M. Ward of Fairmont is the only one who has actually filed for it. Mr. Ward, is therefore, the only actual candidate in the field. Among others the name of N. F. Ellsworth of St. James (Mr. Hammond's home town), has been mentioned and he has made some effort to secure support. And, without solicitation on my part, my name has been mentioned. From voluntary assurances that have come to me, I feel confident that I could secure the nomination. And with thorough knowledge of the conditions, I believe that I could be elected.

"The success of the Republican party in the nation, however, is serious to the interests or ambitions of any man. The fight for the house this year appears quite likely to be close. The result in the Second Minnesota district may determine whether the next house shall be Republican or Democratic. Therefore in the interest of party harmony in the district I make the suggestion. If Mr. Ellsworth and the other men who have been mentioned will refrain from filing for nomination, I will cheerfully do likewise, thus making Mr. Ward the unanimous nominee of the party. And in the campaign to follow I shall gladly join the others in helping to give Mr. Ward an old-fashioned Republican majority."

If Mr. McCleary can only have his way. Mr. Hammond will have no need to fight hard for re-election. Taking him at his word, and granting that no other Republican will file, Col. Ward has about as much chance to defeat Hammond as Joe Cannon has of being elected president as a candidate against Roosevelt. And if he has his way as his way will be most widely understood, Hammond still will profit. A hot three-cornered fight between Ellsworth, Ward and McCleary for the nomination would split the Republican strength in the Second worse than ever and Hammond's election would be a formality, nothing more.

Prospects are good for a lively ante-primary war in the Second. Mr. Ellsworth is eager to make a try for the seat in congress. He has been assured of support in many quarters, and there is small chance that he will accept the little schoolmaster as his mentor.

Pierce Butler, the prominent St. Paul Democratic lawyer who has been mentioned as a probable candidate for the state senate against Senator Hackney in the Merriam Park district, will not be a candidate, it is said. The suggestion is advanced that perhaps Mr. Butler's decision not to run is based on the statement made by John Lind to the effect that, as a member of the board of university regents, he is barred from being a candidate for governor. Mr. Butler also, is a member of the board.

Butler's Chance To Test That Statute

Lawyers unanimously hold that the statute to which Mr. Lind refers is unconstitutional. It might be a good move to persuade Mr. Butler to file as a candidate for the senate and then bring a friendly suit to test the law.

In the Forty-seventh legislative district there is likely to be a merry war over the Democratic nomination for senator. J. E. C. Robinson, the member from that district in the last legislature, is a candidate for renomination and re-election. His rival at the primaries is J. D. Sullivan. Senator Robinson was one of the able and energetic members of the minority two years ago and he is needed in the senate again, this without any intent to reflect upon Mr. Sullivan, whose Democracy is not impugned.

Lively Fight in the Forty-seventh.

The fight for the nomination is becoming exceedingly spirited, and the Republicans of the district profess to see a chance to elect a senator of that party because of the bitterness that is said to have been created by the Democratic rivalry. However, this view of the struggle is purely partisan and may be overdrawn. It is to be hoped that the Democratic candidates will not imperil the seat by too strenuous campaigning before the primaries.

Lawrence Wisniewski is being urged to make the race for the house. Speaking of him, the Foley Independent says he is "a deep student of public questions, absolutely incorruptible, broad minded and able, and should he decide to enter the arena would draw heavily from divers sources." The district, says the Independent, would indeed be fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Wisniewski in the legislature.

J. M. Thoen is mentioned as the probable Republican winner at the primaries for the house nomination.

Silberstein & Bondy Company

THREATENED TO KILL HIM

W. J. Olcott Swears Out Warrant for Arrest of John R. Heino.

Claims Attorney Made Threats to Shoot and Stab Him.

John R. Heino, a local attorney, was arraigned in municipal court this morning on a warrant sworn out by W. J. Olcott, president of the Oliver Mining company, charging him with threatening to stab and shoot the complainant.

The police claim that Heino went to the Olcott residence Sunday night in a carriage. Ringing the door bell, it is said that he told Mr. Olcott that he would kill him. At that time Heino was taken to the police station upon complaint of Mr. Olcott, forfeiting bail the next morning.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Olcott swore out a warrant for the arrest of Mr. Heino. Mr. Heino was notified of the fact by telephone and, according to promise, appeared in court this morning, where he entered a plea of not guilty. His trial was set for next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Attorney Thomas J. McKean appeared with Mr. Heino.

Following the printed legal preface, the complaint states that John Heino "did wrongfully, unlawfully and willfully threaten to commit an assault on complainant and to stab and to shoot him, the said complainant, contrary to the statutes in such case made and provided and against the peace and dignity of the state of Minnesota, and complainant has just cause to fear, and does fear that said John Heino will carry out said threats and commit said offense."

The cause of the differences between the two does not seem to be well known. Mr. Heino, as an attorney, has had charge of numerous damage suits against the Missabe road and the mining company, of which Mr. Olcott is an officer. Mr. Olcott told the police yesterday that he hadn't seen Mr. Heino before Sunday night and did not know him. Neither could he account for his actions.

BIG DAM WILL KEEP LAKE LEVELS UNCHANGED.

Detroit, Mich., July 5.—To prevent a possible reduction of levels in the upper lakes and rivers, resulting from enlarging the outlet of the Detroit river by the construction of the new Livingstone channel in the Lime Kiln Crossing at its mouth, the government will build a dam nearly a mile long from Bois Blanc island to a point near the edge of the new Rock Cut channel. It is to be built of rock taken from the excavation work and will be completed about the time the new channel is finished.

CAMPAIGN FOR CLEAN ALLEYS IS STARTED.

The health department has started a vigorous campaign for clean alleys in the city. Special men have been put to work in the sections which have produced the most complaints during the hot spell with strict instructions to see that the offensive places are promptly eliminated. Where the orders are not followed arrests will be made.

The department is determined to remove or cause to be removed all piles of filth and rubbish which have accumulated. The odors are extremely bad and are considered a serious menace to the health of the community. The city is at present in excellent shape, with very few contagious diseases. No chances of any kind will be taken, whether force has to be used or not.

WILL DISCUSS POINT OF ROCKS

Interested Citizens to Hold Meeting at the City Hall.

Property owners and others interested in the removal of the Point of Rocks will meet at the council chambers tonight at 8 o'clock to discuss the question from all standpoints. Plans will be offered for the solution of the problem which has been vexing the city for many years.

The cliff divides the city and offers a big obstacle to its growth. But one street is now open for traffic. Because of the impossibility of putting through another street under present conditions the travel is greatly congested and considerable property which would otherwise be valuable is worth next to nothing. An effort will be made to find a plan whereby the necessary funds can be raised to cut away the stone barrier.

Several tentative propositions have been put forth and it is the intention of those back of the meeting tonight to decide upon one of them. Considerable money will be needed. All realize the necessity for some action, but no one has yet shown how the financial end can be successfully managed.

HAD A TRIP WITH EX-PRESIDENT

Former Duluthian Crossed Ocean on Steamer With Theodore Roosevelt.

C. S. Sargent, formerly a resident of Duluth, but now of Fairbanks, Alaska, is visiting in the city after having spent some months in Europe. On the return trip across the water, Mr. Sargent was a passenger on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, which also had on board ex-President Roosevelt.

During the voyage to American shores Mr. Sargent had several chats with the ex-president. The Alaska man says that Mr. Roosevelt's knowledge of the parts of the country he has never seen is positively remarkable. He asked many questions about Alaska, showing that he had studied the conditions there.

"The untiring energy displayed by Mr. Roosevelt is the most wonderful part of the man," says Mr. Sargent. "He seems to have time for everything. On the way over he had much writing to do, yet he was always ready to meet people and grant interviews."

Mr. Sargent is a brother of Mrs. W. A. McGonagle of this city and may visit here for some time.

CLOQUET MILLS ARE SHUT DOWN

Cloquet, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Low water in the St. Louis and other streams has caused a temporary shut-down of the sawmills. A good many men left the city yesterday and today, but many of the mill men are remaining here for a time, hoping that the rain of last night will bring more and the mills be enabled to run again, as they surely will just as soon as a sufficient stage of water is in the rivers. The companies are as anxious as the men for a long sawing season, and work will not be delayed a moment longer than can be avoided. The fact that the mills are not operating has not yet become of serious moment, for business has been good here this season, and the feeling is general that the present lull in the easy prosperity which has been manifest in Cloquet all summer is only temporary and not much anxiety is felt as yet.

$5,000 DOCK IS A WRECK

Ramsey Street Structure Is Useless and Is Rapidly Decaying.

The Ramsey street dock, which the city built two years ago at an expense of $5,000, is fast going into decay from neglect and disuse. Business men at West Duluth are wondering what the city intends to do with this property.

The dock was built for the express purpose of giving West Duluth people an opportunity to get aboard excursion boats without having to go up town, but since it was built no boats have ever landed at the dock, presumably because the water was too shallow.

The sand and gravel which was dumped between the pilings has been washed away to a large extent and the walk leading to the dock is in bad shape.

RAIN PUT OUT BRUSH FIRES

Summer Homes Along the St. Louis River Are Now Safe.

Cottagers with homes up the St Louis river brought welcome news to West Duluth this morning, stating that the drenching rain of the early morning extinguished fires which have been raging for the past two weeks along the shore line.

Settlers and West Duluthians having summer homes at Fond du Lac have been fighting fire day and night for the past few days to save their property from destruction. Despite this, several summer homes were consumed and at least four or five West Duluthians are losers.

PLAN TO FILL IN RAVINES

West Duluth Business Men Want Old Bridges Removed.

Bridges along Oneota street, which are not in a safe condition and which need constant repairs are causing no little concern among business men in the western part of the city, who are of the opinion that the city should fill in the ravines.

By a provision in the franchise granted to the Canadian Northern railway, the bridge at Forty-ninth avenue west is to be replaced by a steel structure by the railroad company, but there is an agitation to have the other two ravines at Forty-third and Fortieth avenues filled in, as has been done with those on Grand avenue.

All bridges along Oneota street are now patchwork as the board of public works finds much repairing to do to the old structures every year. Delays in traffic are often caused because they can only stand a certain amount of strain.

The matter will probably be brought up in the West Duluth Commercial club in the near future.

Infant Daughter Dies.

Myrtle L. Nystrom, 6-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nystrom of 4612 Oneota street, died this morning. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the family residence with burial at Oneota cemetery.

WILD STRAWBERRIES ARE BEING PICKED.

Wild strawberries are ripening in the vicinity of Smithville, but the crop is poor on account of the recent drouth.

The berries, although small, are sweet and excellent for preserving purposes. Enterprising girls and boys of West Duluth as well as many of the older people are picking the fruit this week. Many of the pickers bring the berries into the city, where there is always ready market for them.

Smithville people say that raspberries will be ripe in about three weeks.

WORKMAN FALLS AND IS KILLED

Charles Fagerlee Meets Death at Site of New Steel Plant.

While stepping from one beam to another, when at work yesterday afternoon on the trestle of the Minnesota Steel company, under construction at New Duluth, Charles Fagerlee, 27 years old, fell thirty feet and was instantly killed.

The accident occurred about 4 o'clock and was witnessed by several fellow workmen. Fagerlee, it is thought, miscalculated the distance between the beams. He struck on a large timber, crushing his head in a horrible manner.

Coroner McCuen was notified and ordered the body removed to the Villatrault undertaking establishment, where it awaits funeral arrangements. Fagerlee has a brother, John, who is a lumber grader at Bemidji. The funeral arrangements will be made as soon as he arrives in the city. He leaves no other relatives.

Fagerlee had been employed by the Interstate Dredge & Dock company since January. The coroner has decided that death was purely accidental and that no inquest will be necessary.

GOOD QUALITY OF GRAPHITE

Cuyuna Range Find Promises to Be Very Valuable.

Graphite on the Cuyuna range promises to be one of the big features of that ore region. Facts that have developed in the wake of the discovery of the precious black stuff lead to the belief that the Cuyuna deposits will exceed in extent and value any other such find in the country.

The highest assay that has been made of samples from the land owned by T. R. Foley of Aitkin, who has done all the drilling for graphite that has been attempted to date, shows that it runs from 45 to 75 per cent. This assay was made by Dr. F. T. Howard of the University of Wisconsin. What it means will be readily understood when it is said that the average of the known deposits of graphite is about 10 per cent.

Thomas Fleg and A. Hammel are among the Duluth men who own land in the vicinity of the Foley tract. Mr. Hammel has been a student of graphite for some years, and has accumulated quite a library relating to the subject. He is enthusiastic in his conversation concerning the Foley find and what it means to the owners of other lands in that region. He plans to begin drilling operations on his land some time this summer.

MAY ESTABLISH BRANCH IN DULUTH.

It is rumored that Griggs, Cooper & Co., of St. Paul, the wholesale grocers, plan to establish a branch house in Duluth. The concern is now building a large manufacturing plant in the Midway district in the Twin Cities and is looking over the situation here with the aim of putting in a branch house at the Head of the Lakes to serve as a distributing point for the Twin City establishment.

Esben Broe, who has been in Duluth for some time as local representative of the firm, neither confirms nor denies he report. He has moved his family to Duluth, however, and says he will make his home here permanently.

BOYS RUSH TO Y. M. C. A.

Hundreds Take Advantage of Free Swimming Lessons in Pool.

Many Stand in Line Awaiting Turn to Get Into Water.

Almost every boy in town is taking advantage of the free swimming lessons being given at the Y. M. C. A. each morning. At least, that is the way it seems to those who have the boys in charge.

This morning there was one class of twenty-five boys leaving the building, another class of twenty-five was taking their after-swim run around the track; another twenty-five was getting dresses; another class of twenty-five was in the swimming pool, and more than 125 boys were in line in the main lobby of the building awaiting their turn.

Only twenty-five are allowed in the pool at once so that they can be well watched by the instructors. Physical Directors Wegner and Batchelor are teaching the boys.

That the boys appreciate the pool is proven by their laughs, happy faces and wild shrieks of delight as they plunge in. The number of boys increases each day. July 4 was the first day. There were sixty-six on that day. On the second day the number increased to 112 and today there were nearly 200.

It is found that only a very few of the boys know how to swim. They are taken in classes to the gymnasium where the principles of swimming are explained to them and the strokes shown. They are then taken to the pool where they get the actual practice. Each class stays in the water twenty minutes, which is considered long enough at one time.

The free swimming lessons will be continued during the present month. Each boy is required to sign his name and address to a slip of paper. This is all that is necessary to gain admittance. Free towels are given the boys so that no money is required.

Those who have the lessons in charge say that they are greatly surprised to find that more than three-fourths of the boys do not know how to swim. The boys range in age from 8 to 16 years.

To the boys who learn to swim during the month diplomas will be given. The length of the pool is sixty feet. Those who can at the end of the month swim the sixty feet will be given a certificate.

The number taking advantage of the free swimming lessons at the association proves more than ever that a public swimming and bathing place in Duluth is an absolute necessity. With all the water facilities of the Zenith City, the boys and girls grow up without knowing how to swim. This is shown by the great number who know nothing whatever about the art.

FIREMEN RACE THROUGH MUD

Nevertheless Fair Time Is Made at the Bemidji Tournament.

Bemidji, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rain of last night left the street and race track in poor condition for the firemen's tournament this morning, but as the sun was shining brightly it was tried to go ahead with the program. The band was out early. There is a comparatively small crowd in the city for the tournament. The championship coupling contest was run on a muddy course, but good time was made despite the adverse conditions.

Ray Dennis of Bemidji, the champion coupler of the association, again won first place in four and one-fifth seconds. Schible of Crookston was second, in four and four-fifths, and Schniede of Ada was third, in five seconds. Considering the condition of the course, the time was very fast, being but one-fifth of a second slower than the association record of four seconds held by Dennis. Another coupling contest will be held this afternoon on dry ground, when, it is believed, the state record of three and three-fifths seconds will be shattered. The championship hook and ladder race and dag race is being run this afternoon. Business meeting will be held this afternoon, when the place of holding the next tournament will be designated, which will probably be Ada.

MOTOR BOAT HIT A LOG

Occupants Able to Keep Heads Above Water Until Help Arrives.

Ray Brown, clerk at the Commercial club, with a companion, had an exciting and near-perilous experience in the bay last evening, when his power boat got into a battering competition with a log and was punctured.

The boat sank quickly, but fortunately the water was not deep and the occupants were able to keep their heads above water while standing in the boat, until witnesses of the accident came to their rescue in a rowboat.

No great damage was incurred, as the boat was insured and can easily be raised and repaired.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

SEMI-FINALS ARE REACHED

Abbott and Morrow Near Goal in Northland Tennis Play.

In the doubles of the tennis tournament that is being played at the present time on the courts of the Northland Country club the semi-finals have been reached and it is expected that the pairs will meet in the finals of the tournament in a few days.

Abbott and Morrow are the first pair to break into the semi-finals, the defeat yesterday of Dickerman and Fitzgerald advancing them.

Cutler and Duncan won by default from Washburn and Harrison and Spencer and Austin forfeited their match to Marshall and Ireland. The two forfeitures have advanced the play of the tournament and will result in the play being brought to a close perhaps some time in the present week.

The game between Abbott and Morrow and Dickerman and Fitzgerald went to the former pair by the score of 4-6, 6-4 and 6-3.

Several matches are scheduled for the present week. The winners of the tournament will be matched to meet the winners of the doubles of the Duluth Boat club tournament.

TAYLOR WILL QUIT.

Sox Outfielder to Retire From Game—Burns and Howard Coming.

It was announced at baseball headquarters today that Tom Taylor, the outfielder who has been with the team for the past two years, has decided to quit baseball for good and will not be with the team after the next two or three games.

Howard, an outfielder secured from the St. Paul team, and Burns, an outfielder secured from Madison, Wis., team, will be with the team tomorrow, it is reported at the office of the club.

Schwaub, the catcher secured from the St. Paul team, is here, and he is scheduled to work in the game today. It is stated that there will be a still further shakeup in the team, Helding going to third base and Johnson probably being disposed of.

BRODERICK AND CLARK NOT THERE

Indicted Men Fail to Give Bond in Sangamon County.

Springfield, Ill., July 6.—Senator John Broderick of Chicago and Representative Joseph S. Clark of Vandalia, indicted in the legislative bribery probe, Broderick for bribery and Clark for conspiracy to bribe, failed to put in an appearance in the Sangamon circuit court today to give bond as was expected. State's Attorney Burke was informed by Judge Thomas F. Ferns, attorney for Broderick, that the senator would be here tomorrow to furnish the $10,000 bail on the new indictment. Nothing was heard from Representative Clark.

THE TOURISTS FLOCK TO TOWN

The tourists are here.

All along Superior street they are in evidence, and in the hotel lobbies they are numerous. The number here now is small compared with the mid-season throngs, but they are here and are making their presence felt.

In the stores and hotels the souvenir counters are being dressed with increased care, with an eye to the coin-catching quality of the arrangement of pins, paper-weights, cards, and all the souvenir things. Flower stands are appearing where before there were none.

The tourists are here, sure enough. And they are a pleasing group of specimens of the species. They are not of that tribe described in an all-inclusive way as "travelers who come with a clean shirt and a $2 bill and don't change either of them while they are here."

Trips on the bay and lake, drives on the boulevard, visits to the parks and similar vacation doings fill their days, and they seem to be happy.

Manufacture of Sapphires.

The manufacture of imitation sapphires is not difficult, but the manufacture of real sapphires, that is, absolutely like natural sapphires in composition and coloring, is a very different matter. Yet it is being done successfully in a famous laboratory in Paris. The well known food value of Golden Grain Belt beer makes it a favorite in home circles and especially recommended as a tonic and an aid to digestion. Have it on the family table and enjoy its benefits. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

WHISTLING ARROWS.

London Graphic: A curious weapon has arrived at the offices of the Festival of Empire. The weapon, which was sent as a sample by the pageant's armorer, is an arrow of Henry VIII's time, to which cunningly fixed is a small whistle which sounds shrill and clear if the arrow is only just thrown across a room.

It is on record that the archers who formed King Henry's bodyguard tipped their arrows with such whistles so that they "sang through the air."

BROTHER OF RAILROAD KING HERE AS A "HEALER"

F. E. Yoakum Is Talking the Pisgah Movement in Duluth.

Accompanied By Minnesota Woman Who Was Miraculously Cured.

F. E. Yoakum, whose younger brother is that Yoakum who controls millions and railroads in the Southwest, is in Duluth, a guest at the McKay hotel. He is widely known as a healer, and will be in this city, according to the schedule on which he is traveling, until Saturday. He will hold his first meeting at the Bethel this afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. Incidentally, Mr. Yoakum objects most earnestly to being called a "divine healer."

"I refuse to pray for those who call me a 'divine healer,'" he said this morning. "I prefer to be called simply Yoakum."

Accompanying Yoakum to Duluth is Mrs. L. D. Sailor of Lynnwood, Minn. She has been cured of a nervous ailment and gives Yoakum credit for her relief from it.

For eight years Mrs. Sailor has lived in a wheeled chair, unable to walk. Sunday evening she was taken by friends to the hotel at Lynnwood, where Yoakum was to stay while there. There she remained until Monday morning, when Yoakum came.

"Mrs. Sailor was anointed and prayed for in the hotel, and she was instantly cured," said Yoakum, while Mrs. Sailor, frail and gray but with eyes that sparkled with interest in all she saw and heard, nodded approvingly. "At 9 o'clock Monday morning Sister Sailor gave me her chair, to be given by me to the poor. Since then she has been walking when she pleased, and in the hotel here she has walked and run about continually.

"Sister Sailor had undergone surgical operations several times during the time of her illness, but they had failed to benefit her."

Is Not a Fanatic.

In appearance Mr. Yoakum is entirely different from the usual "layer on of hands." There is about him none of the characteristics of a faker or fanatic. He is a tall, up-standing, two-fisted man with gray hair and short, well-kept whiskers. His eyes look sraight into the eyes of the person he talks to and earnestness marks his demeanor.

Years ago Yoakum was a practicing physician, possessed of a sheaf of diplomas and a big practice. Then he became ill. Nervous ailments claimed him and he wasted away to a skeleton. "Thirt-two doctors gave me up to die," said Yoakum. "Then I was healed, through a Presbyterian minister and prayer."

The Pisgah Movement, of which Yoakum is the founder, is thus described in "Pisgah," a magazine published by him at Los Angeles, where the Pisgah home is located:

"The Pisgah movement had its inception nine years ago, albeit only one was then conscious of it. Like many other upheavals, reforms and revolutions, the birth thereof was unattended by ceremony. It sprang from the heart of one man and one woman. The intent was simply a good deed to one drunkard. The fulfillment is not yet; but in the city of Los Angeles alone, 300 sin-weary homeless, friendless, drunkards, tuberculars, cripples and erring girls are being fed, clothed, housed, loved and redeemed to join the thousands who have heretofore come within the sheltering care of the movement, to live upright, wholesome, healthy Christian lives."

The Pisgah Movement.

The basic idea of the movement, as gathered from Yoakum's remarks, is told in the following verses from the Bible:

Luke xiv, 11: "When thou makest a dinner or supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, nor thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbors. But when thou makes a feast, bid the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind."

Isaiah lviii, 7: "Is it not to deal the bread to the hungry that thou bring the poor that are cast out of your house? When thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh?"

Yoakum takes no money for his cures.

"All that I do is without money and without price," he said. "We do take free will contributions for my poor. Those who wish to help feed the poor in the Pisgah home may do so, but whatever is done must be done quietly and without boasting. Should one who has contributed boast of it, then the money he has given will be returned to him. It can do him no good and is not wanted by us.

The Pisgah Home.

"At the Pisgah home there are three general classes. In the Pisgah Home for the Poor, the poor find shelter, in the Ark, fallen girls are housed, prayed for and reclaimed. In the Gardens, consumptives are quartered There are between 200 and 300 people in the home and many cures have been made there.

"This Pisgah home is the largest of its kind in the world. Everyone who applies is received there. Money is never mentioned. Everything is free.

The beginning of the movement was on a scale that hardly promised the development that has come about. There are now a score of buildings on the Pisgah grounds, and the building up of the community began with the removal of myself and my wife from our family home, to give it up to the use of the poor.

"It has been repeatedly said that I am wealthy. This is not true. I have nothing. I go where I am called and do the good I can. But I am not in this thing for the graft. I refuse fees, great and small, day after day. It is not my purpose to make money. I am doing what I can to advance the Pisgah movement. Those who want to contribute to the fund for feeding the poor are welcome to do so. But I will take nothing."

Mr. Yoakum not only receives callers at the hotels, but goes out to call on those too weak to come to him. E. E. Esterly has given him the use of his automobile for this purpose, during his stay in Duluth.

TWO MEN ARE SWEPT TO DEATH OVER DAM.

Cedar Hill, Mo., July 6.—Swept over a mill dam in a frail fishing boat on the Big river near here this afternoon, Oscar Bishop and Charles Kaiser of St. Louis were drowned when the boat capsized in the rapids. The men went down with their arms about each other.

WITHDRAWN LANDS NOT OPEN TO ENTRY NOW.

Washington, July 6.—Entries now cannot be made upon lands withdrawn as susceptible of irrigation until the secretary of the interior has issued the usual public notice as to the unit of acreage, announcing the water charges and when water can be applied, according to the terms of the act passed by the last session of congress providing for the issuance of $20,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness to complete the existing reclamation projects.

There are two forms of withdrawals under the reclamation act. The first prohibits of entries of all kinds, and the second permits entries under the homestead law only. The effect of the new legislation is to prevent entry on any lands withdrawn under the reclamation act until the secretary has issued the public notice.

CAIRO MOB LEADERS MUST COME TO TRIAL.

Cairo, Ill., July 6.—Men indicted by a special grand jury last February for attacking the county jail to take out a negro, will stand trial, according to Judge W. W. Duncan, who has decided that the law against mobs is excellent. The twelve men indicted will come up Tuesday before the circuit court.

WILL CHOOSE SUCCESSOR

Several Candidates for Place Left Vacant By J. P. Boyle.

Four Range Men Want to Be Assistant County Attorney.

Meeting as a committee of the whole, the county commissioners are in session this afternoon, looking over petitions and transacting other business prior to the regular meeting of the county board to be held at the courthouse tomorrow.

One of the things being considered is the appointment of an assistant county attorney to take the place of James P. Boyle, who resigned recently. Among those mentioned for the place are Otto Poirier, A. R. Pelsom of Hibbing, George S. Shea of Virginia, and C. J. McGilvray of Eveleth.

No real action can be taken today. The members are simply talking the matter over. The appointment will probably be made at the regular meeting tomorrow.

At the Thursday meeting it is probable that outside of the appointment little but routine business will be transacted. There are some road petitions and some petitions of villages asking permission to incorporate. The Spina-Kinney matter will also come up for consideration.

Much of the more important business will be put over until the semi-annual meeting of the board, which will take place on July 11. At this time the levy for the fight against tuberculosis in St. Louis county will be made. Under the statutes $20,000 is all that can be appropriated. The county sanatorium commission needs more than $20,000, but as the site of the new hospital has not as yet been selected, the commission will probably ask only for this amount.

DULUTH MINING MAN COLORED FOR A DAY.

One of the queerest freak prize fight bets reported to have been made in Duluth is said to have been paid in Minneapolis yesterday. A prominent mining man is said to have agreed with a friend to walk down Nicollet avenue in Minneapolis with his face covered with burnt cork if Johnson won. The loser of the wager was in Minneapolis yesterday, but his Duluth friends have not learned yet whether he carried out his agreement.

BRIDE DISARMS NEGRO AND MOB LYNCHES HIM.

Houston, Tex., July 6.—At Rodino, near Corsicana a negro entered the home of Hub Bailey, a merchant, and brandishing a knife, threatened a criminal assault upon Mrs. Bailey, a bride of three months. She grappled with him, securing the weapon, and forced the negro to take flight. Posses caught the negro in Richland Creek bottom, and after he was identified he was hanged to a tree nearby.

JULY TERM IS OPENED

Attorneys Show No Disposition to Continue Their Cases.

Calendar Is Very Heavy One for the Summer Months.

The July term of the district court opened this morning with the call of the calendar by Judge J. D. Ensign

The calling of the calendar was a surprise to the judge, for he expected that a great many of the cases would be continued, as the attorneys are not over-enthusiastic about the "hot weather" term of court. This was not the case. Out of the 136 cases on the calendar, 111 of them were marked for trial.

This caused some surprise this morning, as last year the July term was slashed until it was but a mere skeleton.

On the jury term there are 60 court cases and 76 jury trials. Only 16 cases were continued and only 8 were stricken. One case was dismissed.

The calendar is a heavy one for this period of the year, and the judges and attorneys will be busy from this time on.

The grand jury, or rather a part of it, assembled in Judge Ensign's courtroom for instructions, but some of those expected failed to show up and the judge was forced to excuse the jurors until this afternoon, when it is hoped to have the full number present. This morning but 13 showed up, and it is necessary to have at least 16. Usually from 18 to 23 is the number composing this body. With the additional members that will come in this afternoon, the jury will be instructed by the presiding judge. They will then go into immediate secret session for the consideration of some 16 cases.

On the present calendar there are 19 divorce cases. As soon as all the motions by the attorneys have been heard, the divorce mill will begin grinding.

The divorce cases are always the first to be held each term, and they will be rushed through as soon as possible.

LYCEUM—Forbes Stock Company in "Old Heidelberg."

A SERIES OF FIRST PRODUCTIONS.

Gus A. Forbes, manager and star of the Gus A. Forbes company, is giving a Duluth series of first productions, as his company is the first to be seen in this city in several of the bills announced for the season. Mr. Forbes and his players were the first to interpret for Duluth "Merely Mary Ann," "Old Heidelberg," which is being given this week and "A Navajo's Love," next week's play.

"Old Heidelberg" which is delighting audiences at the Lyceum, was made famous by the late Richard Mansfield. It is the first of the real romantic comedies to be given this summer at the Lyceum and it is proving, as romantic comedy always proves, a great favorite with the summer theater goers. The play will be repeated this evening and every evening this week with a Saturday matinee. The bill will also be given Sunday afternoon and evening.

WEST END

AGITATION WILL BE CONTINUED

Hillsiders Are Determined to Have Water Mains Extended.

Despite the fact that Manager Case of the water and light department has stated that owing to the lack of funds, the extension of the water mains up the hillside cannot be made this year, the agitation for the extension will not die out at the West end.

The situation for the past few weeks of dry weather, say the members of the West end Hillside Improvement club, emphasizes the necessity of water mains up the hillside to protect property from destructive fires. Recently some of the wells have dried up and there has been a water famine.

The cost of the proposed extension of water mains is estimated at about $30,000 and engineers say that in order to bring the mains up the hill part of the distance, they will have to go through solid rock.

It is proposed to lay the mains from Fourteenth avenue west and Fifth street to Piedmont avenue, then up Piedmont to Eighth street and out on Eighth street to Twenty-sixth avenue west. Branches up the hillside to Tenth and Eleventh streets are also planned.

WILL MAKE PLANS FOR NORWEGIAN HALL.

At a meeting of the joint committee, representing the five Norwegian orders of the city, which will be held July 15 at the home of L. A. Simonson, on 2108 West Superior street, more definite plans for the erection of the proposed Norwegian hall will be made.

A meeting of the committee was held last Friday, but some of the members of the committee were absent, and it was deemed advisable to postpone the meeting for two weeks, during which time tentative plans will be formulated so that the proposition may be brought to a head at once.

J. F. MITCHELL, Prop.

BABE WHO FELL TWO STORIES UNINJURED.

A miraculous escape from serious, if not fatal injury was that of Edna, the 4-year-old daughter of Isaac Cohen, who fell yesterday afternoon from the second story window of the Cohen home, Michigan street, near Twentieth avenue, only sustaining a slight bruise on her right shoulder. A physician who examined the child stated that she was not internally injured.

West End Shortrails.

Mrs. H. Peterson of 1320 West Fifth street has left for New York, where after a short visit, she will sail for Denmark. After spending the summer abroad, she will return to the West end.

Mrs. John Mattson of St. Paul is a guest this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of 217 Vernon street.

The body of Frances E. Brown, 9-years-old, daughter of Mrs. F. A. Darling of 2129½ West Third street, who died Monday evening, was sent to Rice Lake, Wis., this afternoon. The funeral will be held there tomorrow.

Mrs. Swan Johnson of 1834 Minnesota avenue, Park Point, will entertain the Ladies' Aid Society of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church at her home tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Weldon of 2819 West Second street have left for Fond du Lac, where they will spend two weeks at their summer camp.

Mrs. Bertha Heberlie of Hibbing, who has returned from a trip to Portland, Or., and California, is visiting for a few days with friends in the West end.

Mrs. J. B. Dye of 113 North Twentieth avenue west has gone to Roberts, Wis., on a visit with relatives.

Helmer Severson of Eau Claire, Wis., is the guest of West end relatives and friends for a few days.

A daughter was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. T. Pinsonneault of 11 North Twenty-fourth avenue west.

BAUDETTE CELEBRATED.

Observance of Independence Day in Border Town Success.

Spooner, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fourth of July celebration at Baudette was a great success. The parade, headed by the Baudette band, was orginal and attractive. The Spoonerites, just across the river, took part in the parade. Albert Berg's address was received with great applause. The Declaration of Independence was read by Bert Middleton. Addresses were delivered by Rube Allyn, C. R. Middleton, and Mrs. Allyn rendered a recitation.

The baseball game between Spooner and Baudette resulted in a score of 8 to 2 in favor of Baudette. Baudette boasted of founr Duluth players, who were engaged for the day. Batteries: Thorsen and Schafer; Strum, first base, and Summers, third base. Spooner batteries: Cullum and Wedge.

The log-rolling contest in the water sports was an interesting feature, the two contestants being about equal in the art. Other water sports were canoe and swimming races, walking the greased pole, etc.

The land sports were pulled off at sundown on Main street. The tug-of-war between the Canadians and Americans created great amusement. The Canadians were the winners. Another baseball game after 6 p. m. was played between Rainy River and Baudette; Rainy River coming out victorious.

The various attractions in the evening kept the crowd until a late hour.

EIGHTH DISTRICT CENSUS FINISHED

Supervisor Hollister Has Completed Work and Closed His Office.

Aitkin, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The census work for the Eighth district of Minnesota has been completed and all the help has been released, the last authorization having expired June 30.

The greater part of the thousands of schedules of the 250 districts in this division were completed within the expected time, but there were a few remote districts in which delays were caused for one reason or another. The last schedule is now in Washington and the work of Supervisor Hollister is over except for some of the scattering correspondence.

The local office is not allowed to give out any figures, but the Washington bureau will be giving out bulletins twice a day from now on and the results of the more important places will be known in a short time.

The work for this district which has been directed from the Aitkin office has covered the twelve counties of the congressional district and with enumerators, interpreters, inspectors, special agents and clerks, about 265 people were employed during the actual taking of the census.

HOTEL PROPRIETOR ANNOYED CHIEF

Application for Liquor License Held Up for This Reason.

Because Chief of Police McKinnon had been displeased by Frank Grunau of the Saratoga hotel, who refused to allow policemen to "look over" guests suspected of being criminals, and who according to the chief aided certain criminals to escape from his hostelry, Grunau's application for a liquor license is being held up by the council. The matter came in for considerable discussion last evening at the council meeting and was laid over for a week.

ASKS $20,000 DAMAGES FROM OMAHA RAILROAD.

For being run down by a locomotive, making it necessary to amputate his leg, William Jenzig, a farmer, is suing the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad for $20,000. The case is on in the circuit court. The accident happened in September, 1909. The engine struck him from behind and he claims that he heard no whistle or signal of danger.

In Municipal Court.
For figuring in a "free for all" fight at Allouez on the Fourth, Emil Hendricks and Louis Consertiere were sent to the workhouse in default of a $5 fine. John Hill of the East end was sent up for fifteen days by Judge Parker because he broke a plate glass window with his fist.

George Taylor, who assaulted Henry Lord at the ball park Monday afternoon, was fined $10 by Judge Parker.

The assault case against John Soli was dismissed for lack of evidence.

SAYS FIRE WAS CAUSED BY SPARK

Carlton Farmer Files Suit Against Northern Pacific in District Court.

Claiming that a spark from a locomotive was responsible for a fire which destroyed his home, farm buildings and a quantity of timber, Peter Isaacson of Carlton filed suit in district court this afternoon for $1,900.

Mr. Isaacson is a farmer near Carlton. He asserts in his complaint that the fire which wiped out his possessions was directly caused by a spark from a locomotive. He alleges that the destructive spark was allowed to escape through the negligence of the company and he asks damages on that account.

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE REVENUES ARE INCREASED.

Louisville, Ky., July 6.—The operating revenues of the Louisville & Nashville railroad for the fiscal year which ended with the month of June are in excess of $52,000,000. The statement, which includes the four weeks of June, shows an increase over the corresponding period last year in gross earnings of $6,985,017 and the few remaining days of the month will doubtless carry the increase over the seven million mark.

EARTH SWALLOWS KENTUCKY MAN

Cavein in Big Four Yards Proves Fatal to Oiler.

Louisville, Ky., July 6.—While talking to William Oakes, a fellow employe, Frank Reynolds, an oiler in the Big Four yards, suddenly disappeared today in a cavein of the earth, and despite efforts of railroad employes, two companies of the fire department and the lifesaving crew, was smothered to death in a sewer. Oakes, who narrowly escaped, gave the alarm and threw a long piece of hose into the sewer. Although he could not see Reynolds, a vigorous tugging on the hose notified the rescuers that the man was alive. A detachment of the fire department after four hours work recovered the body.

NO MOVE TO STOP FIGHT PICTURES HERE.

Mayor Cullum, when asked today what action is likely to be taken here, if any, in line with that taken in some other cities toward outlawing moving pictures of the Johnson-Jeffries fight, said that he had given the subject no consideration. The question had not occurred to him, he said.

The announcement has been made made in a number of municipalities that no more moving pictures of prize fights will be permitted, and it may be that the anti-picture movement will reach Duluth.

ORDER SHOWS OFF STREETS

Virginia Council Issues Drastic Orders Against Parker Outfit.

Complaints Made That Concern Has Misused Privileges Offered.

Virginia, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Parker shows which have been occupying the principal streets and avenues of the city since last Sunday were ordered to vacate by the city council last night. Protests were entered by several citizens and prominent business men of the city who appeared before the council.

Ben Milavitz, a well-known business man was the main protestant and Mr. Milavitz thought he had a right to start a game and put upon the street a cane rack. One of the managers of the Parker shows demanded the sum of $25 from Mr. Milavitz to operate upon the street. He refused and was arrested and taken to the city jail. Judge Carey was summoned and Mr. Milavitz was released. Others came forward with complaints of a similar nature.

Grafting Is Alleged.
Protests were made against the carnival people for grafting from small children, the allegations being that sellers of candies, popcorn etc., took money from several children and refused to give back the right change. A young man operating a picture machine was attacked by the secretary of the Parker shows because he refused to produce the sum of $10 for the privilege of taking pictures upon the seats after he had secured permission from the mayor. The young man's camera was broken in the scuffle; later the secretary was arrested and fined $20 and $2.50 costs by Judge Carey in municipal court and made to settle with the camera boy for the damage done.

The principal protest against the carnival company was made from the fact that Chestnut street and several of the avenues were blocked by the different shows in progress. The shows took up so much room that it was almost impossible for teams and other vehicles to pass along the main thoroughfare of the city.

Carnival People to Fight.
It was stated last night that the carnival company would refuse to vacate the streets because they have received permission from the council to use the street for six days.

City Attorney Poirier informed the city officials that they had a right to revoke the permit at any time they saw fit. The company has not as yet vacated, but an effort is being made to compromise the matter by allowing the show to still remain if they regulate their shows so as to not interfere with the usual traffic.

DUTCH RAILWAYS.
The railways of Holland seem to have a pretty hardscrabble time of it. Water competition—that of the canals and of the Rhine—has always been their bugbear. Even now, after fifty years struggle for business, the railways carry only 10 per cent of Dutch freight.

From Amsterdam alone there are not less than 150 lines of local steamers that go regularly to every port of the country, providing a daily service—or rather a nightly service—which enables them to deliver freight from almost anywhere to anywhere in the country every morning. It is only when the canals and rivers freeze up in exceptionally severe winters, says Moody's Magazine, or when in summer there is unusually low water that the railways get for a short time any considerable part of this traffic.

Although the country is almost everywhere on a dead level, construction has been rather costly, on account of the great number of bridges required. For example, between Amsterdam and Rotterdam there are no less than eighty bridges, of which eight are swing bridges.

Sometimes the bridges required to cross the numerous and interesting canals are practically viaducts of a mile or two in length, and long stretches of bridegwork like that across Lake Pontchartrain at New Orleans or the trestles over Great Salt Lake or the approach to Galveston are not infrequent.

All the lines in the country are now operated by two companies, the Company for the Exploitation of the State Railways and the Dutch Iron Railway company. The total length of all the lines is less than 1,600 miles, of which the state operates about 900 and the Iron Railway company about 660, made up of 205 miles belonging to the state, 290 owned by other companies and 165 miles of its own lines.

There is considerable competition between the two companies, which, taken in conection with the sharp competition of the rivers and canals, insures a very good service. Each company pays a rental to the state for the lines belonging thereto which it operates, and each must share with the state in its profits over 5 per cent. The dividends during recent years have varied between 3 per cent and 5 per cent, which in face of the competition, the extremely low rates and the exceptional handicap under which the lines are worked is highly creditable to the management. In 1908 dividends were only 3 per cent.

IT RAINED LAST NIGHT.

The phenomenon of rain occurred last night, and it has been so rare of late that you almost felt like calling up some old settler to verify your impression that the curious substance that was falling from the skies actually was rain. It was real rain, however, and in a very pleasing quantity, though the ground is so dry that it would greedily absorb much more than fell last night.

To imagine how the parched vegetation of forest, farm and lawn welcomed the shower one would have to be deprived of water for a month. Like a draft of cold water to a thirsty throat were last night's showers to the trees, the grass, the flowers and the green stuff in the gardens.

More than five times as much rain fell last night as the whole desert month of June brought to Duluth. Better still, the rain was general. It fell all over Northern Minnesota, and scattered showers reached North Dakota, particularly its eastern part where no rain had fallen for weeks. It was not enough rain, but it will help greatly. It isn't worth so much as it would have been had it come two weeks ago, but it was worth a lot. A fall of .57 of an inch in one night compares very favorably with but .11 of an inch in the entire month of June.

Having found the way, it is to be hoped that the rain will call again.

HE'S LINING UP.

Mr. Roosevelt isn't saying anything about politics, according to his own interpretation of his attitude, but nevertheless from time to time gleams of encouragement for progressives are thrown out from his activities. Yesterday he gave his support to Congressman Miles Poindexter of Washington, a real insurgent who wishes to insurge into Senator Piles's seat. By so doing the Colonel puts himself squarely in opposition to Ballinger, and that means in opposition to the Guggenheims, the Taft administration and other objectionable interests. President Taft has taken the attitude that anybody who heaves bricks at Ballinger heaves bricks at him, and of course he is correct so long as he clings to Ballinger.

Roosevelt's support of Poindexter is a pretty large brick, and it could hardly be hurled at Senator Piles, reactionary Aldrich assistant, without hitting the Guggenheims and other greedy interests as well as Secretary Ballinger and President Taft.

THE PERIL OF MEDIOCRITY.

Mr. Wickersham, attorney general of the United States, in his address before the Harvard law school association pointed out a new peril—that of mediocrity. The danger which awaits the American people, to his notion, is not in the use of money to defeat the ends of justice, or in political corruption, or in the waste of natural resources, or in race suicide, or in Socialism, or in anything which the busy muckrake has dragged to light. It is something more subtle than any of these.

"Contentment with mediocrity," said Mr. Wickersham, "is, in my opinion, one of the greatest dangers which confront successful democracy everywhere." The "hope of averting it rests largely," in his belief, not with parents or teachers or doctors or ministers, but with "men of sound legal education." This is his reason for his belief: "For this same contentment with mediocrity breeds an impatience with any sort of superiority, a desire to belittle all excellence, a readiness to impute wrong motives to anything not easily understood, to accept calumny as truth, and a gradual lessening of desire for advancement, as it is often perceived that peace, which is often mistaken for happiness, is alone to be found by accepting a place in the undistinguished multitude."

This reasoning is neither clear, connected nor satisfying. It roots in the attorney general's dissatisfaction with the public dissatisfaction with himself, with Ballinger, with Hitchcock and with the Taft administration, rather than in any fundamental truth or sound conviction.

To his vision, discontent with conditions that foster aggrandized wealth in one hand and corroding poverty on the other hand is the product of ignorance, of envy, of the commonplace man's irritation at the big man's success. If he had contented himself by pointing out the peril of mediocrity, without exposing his venomous distrust of the people as his reason, he might have said something worth while.

For acceptance of mediocrity is a real peril. It is a peril against which the nation, and every individual in it, needs to be warned.

Says the Boston Globe, in commenting on Mr. Wickersham's alarms: "Mediocrity being innate, and not acquired, being born in a man along with his mental and moral traits, why should not a mediocre man be contented with his mediocrity? His contentment with it will not prevent him from being an honest, industrious, upright man and a most desirable citizen."

That is true, but it is not the whole truth. Somewhere Oliver Wendell Holmes said that the happiest time in a man's life if when he discovers that he is not a genius, as his youthful fancy had led him to believe, but a mediocre human being. After that he need no longer try to live up to his fancied genius, but can be happy in his accepted mediocrity.

But just as there is a scale in humanity, so that some men reach its top, some men reach its foot, and the vast mass cling to its middle, so is there a scale in each individual, whatever his position in the general scale. There are a few geniuses, a few absolute incompetents, and a great many mediocrities. But in each man there is a wide scale of possibility. The real danger is that the individual will not seek to reach the top of his personal scale, but will be content to rest at its bottom, or midway to its top. Each individual has as his particular duty the realization of the utmost of his powers.

It is philosophical to accept with contentment the discovery that you are a mediocre individual. It is shameful to accept with contentment the fact that you have made only a mediocre development of your personal powers, and have not sought to reach the top of the scale of your individuality.

A PLATFORM THAT IS A PLATFORM.

J. Adam Bede is not to be without opposition in his candidacy for member of the legislature. One J. T. Mider, who describes himself as a farmer, is out in the Hinckley Herald with an announcement that if nobody else will do it he will enter the lists against Bede, and he accompanies his announcement with a declaration of principles that is even more remarkable for its scope than that put forth by Mr. Bede himself.

To show his good faith, Mr. Mider makes two pledges that are interesting and unique. First, he pledges himself to support his declared principles to the best of his ability, and to sign in advance a resignation to take effect whenever he fails to live up to his pledges. Second, he proposes to sign a bond in the sum of $1,000, to draw none of his salary until the end of the session, and to forfeit both the bond and the salary if he goes back on any of his promises. To make it really strong, he will plead guilty to perjury which will entitle him to ten years in the penitentiary.

"My prime object in making this announcement," declares Mr. Mider, "is to force the initiative, referendum and recall, and if we don't get it let the blame rest on the people. Also to provide an example whereby our legislature may be purged of its 70 per cent of mercenary members, and further to test how many votes one can get when he runs on a definite and a sure platform as against a man who runs on an equivocal platform that might mean one thing or it might mean another thing or nothing."

Mr. Mider's experiment is very engaging. Truly his example is one that should cause his fellow candidates, and especially those who are members of the legislature, to pause and reflect. If only those members who keep their pledges and follow out their honest convictions were to get pay, the state treasury would be greatly relieved.

Mr. Mider is not niggardly in his composition of platform planks. He has twenty-three—significant number either for his opponent or for himself—and they are all expressive of a positive, vigorous mentality and of firm, strong convictions. The twenty-three planks are subdivided so that the real number of proposals is almost beyond computation. For instance, the first plank covers three broad principles, the initiative, the referendum and the recall. He favors an income tax, women's suffrage, inheritance tax, county option, old age pensions, drainage and reforestation, the abolition of the United States senate, the abolition of the power of the supreme court to pass on the constitutionality of laws enacted by congress, the abolition of injunctions except by jury trial, the public ownership of all public utilities, legislative and judicial reapportionment, a law against nepotism, a free state court for the poor, the repeal of the law of eminent domain, laws giving greater power to the people and less to the corporations, selection of district judges from men who are not lawyers, opposition to log rolling, the renting of lands forfeited to the state for non-payment of taxes, the withdrawal of state lands from sale and their renting in forty-acre tracts, etc.

Truly, this a real platform. J. Adam has something of a platform, too; but if this is a contest of platforms, he may as well admit defeat and go back to his farm.

GUARDING AGAINST "FAKE" CHARITIES.

The Associated Charities, through President E. A. Silberstein, offers an easy and efficient method of guarding against "fake" charities.

All the individual who wishes to see that his generosity is properly bestowed needs to do is to make it a rule never to give to anybody not provided with a card from the Associated Charities certifying that the cause for which contributions are asked is deserving.

The Associated Charities volunteers to do the rest. Upon request, it will investigate all appeals for aid, and if they are found worthy will provide certificates for those who solicit for them.

No city in the country contains more big-hearted people, people who respond readily to the call of distress, than Duluth. For lack of a suitable clearing house for charitable work, much of this generosity has been misdirected in the past. The function of clearing house has been assumed by the Associated Charities, and now it is expanding its work by safeguarding the public against unworthy appeals for aid. It is a useful and a greatly needed service which the association offers.

THE POSTPONED FIREWORKS.

Assuming that there was general compliance with his order against fireworks on the Fourth, Mayor Cullum asks the city council to lift the prohibitory law that became effective July 5, in order that he may fix a day for the explosion of the postponed fireworks. Accordingly an ordinance was introduced postponing the prohibition to Aug. 5, but that ordinance cannot be passed before July 18.

Maybe there are some fireworks that were not set off on the night of the Fourth. The Country club obligingly kept its supply in storage. But on the whole nobody who was abroad on the night of the Fourth will expect to find the general store of preserved fireworks more than scanty.

The spirit of the mayor's proposal is correct, and probably there will be no harm in having a second section of the Fourth as he suggests. There can't be very much good in it, however, and anyway the entertainment, lacking the spirit of the holiday, will be rather tame.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

AN INCIDENT OF JULY 4, 1864.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The coming of Independence day again, reminds me how my Fourth was spent forty-six years ago.

During one of the almost desperate and fiercely contested battles of the Civil war, the Wilderness light on the third day of May, 1864, the Sixty-ninth regiment, New York Volunteers was hard pressed by the enemy and their cartridges being exhausted were compelled to fall back from the ground they had taken the day previous. Having rested a short while and their boxes having been filled with fresh cartridges an aide rode up from headquarters and saluted the colonel and gave the order to charge on the enemy's works and silence their battery of rebel guns.

The regiment was immediately formed into line.

"Attention Battalion," was the order, "by the right quick, march double quick," and the bugler rang out the charge. And at the point of the bayonet the battery was captured after some heavy fighting with a great loss to the regiment. The guns were spiked. The Confederates having in the meantime been reinforced, made a charge on the Union boys recapturd this battery and the boys in blue were forced to beat a retreat back again to their old camp ground. Only one of the commissioned officers was left in command the rest having been either killed or wounded on this retreat. A shell from the rebels loaded with shrapnell fell and burst close to the regimental flag. The color bearer was killed and twelve men and fourteen were wounded as well by this very shell. The rebels with a yell rushed past and over where the flag lay one of the wounded men though bleeding from his wound crawled to where the flag lay and cut the string that held it to the staff. By doing so he had to move the dead body of the color bearer which was lying over the banner. He crawled back to where he had fallen and folded the flag around his body after taking off his coat or blouse as we then called it. The rebels come back directly, missed the flag, but carried the staff back with them. The enemy's stretcher bearers came to bury the dead and attend to the wounded. This boy in blue was taken to Richmond and placed in the hospital, the flag around his body held as sacred as his life.

When he recovered from his wound, he was sent to Andersonville, and on the Fourth of July, 1864 the Star-Spangled banner was still safe around his body. He was persuaded by his tent mates to let them see the flag. He unwound it from around his body. They held it up and were so pleased and elated at the sight of the old flag they sang songs and danced with joy, but there was trouble brewing, for one of the rebel sentries hearing the noise got a glimpse of the flag from the open door of the shack. This being close to the dead line. This sentry called out for the corporal of the guard. The prisoner owning the flag knew what this meant snatched the flag from his tent mates and hid it in the ground inside the shack, a sort of dugout with a blanket covered it over. Directly a guard of twelve men with fixed bayonets marched into the stockade with the governor, Capt. Wirz, and a rebel sergeant, who said: "You Yanks have got a flag here, a darned Yankee flag, now you better give it up or it will be worse for you all."

One of the prisoners said: "We have no flag, but this handkerchief," producing a red one, which he happened to have with him. Wirz said: "You damned Yankees I will have every one of your shot if you do not give up that cursed flag."

The prisoners persisted that they had no flag of any kind. The order was then given to call up the entire detachment of ninety. Wirz ordered every man to be searched and all their tents and shacks, which was done at once but no flag could be found in any of them. Twelve of the prisoners were taken outside. A sort of a trial was held and by Wirz's order were to be shot the next morning at sunrise unless they told where the flag was.

Father Hamilton, who was a frequent visitor in the stockade attending to the dying prisoners hearing of this was very angry and indignant at this outrage, went and pleaded and begged of this monster Wirz, for these twelve prisoers' lives, but the governor was obstinate and said in his broken English: "Yen dey tell me vere dis damned flag is I will let dem go."

Father Hamilton said: "If you commit this murder of these innocent twelve men, prisoners now under your charge I will go right of to Richmond and see the president Jeff Davis and state the matter and lay the facts plainly before him."

Wirz was afraid of this and ordered the twelve back into the stockade, but no rations were served to this mess of ninety on the Fourth of July, 1864. They went hungry, but we had the consolation that they never got that flag. Wirz came in the next day heavily guarded and offered $100 in gold and a free pass to our lines to any prisoner disclosing the whereabouts of this very flag, but none of the prisoners knew anything about it. Of those twelve men taken outside and sentenced to be shot, but three of them lived through the torture of suffering, hunger and thirst and hardships indescribable to leave that vile place, a living hell upon this earth. Of the three that came out, alive one of them held close pressed around his body the flag, above all flags the banner of freedom. JOHN HOLMES.

INDEPENDENCE DAY AND REAL FREEDOM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

July 2 there appeared an article headed, "Defends the Spirit of the Faith," signed by C. A. Coullard.

It intends to be a reply to my article published in your paper June 28.

Mr. Coullard says: "It is not often that I take part in newspaper discussion, but I was interested in reading the communication published in your paper on June 30 signed Tom Myhre and headed 'Sees the Fourth as a Hollow Mockery,' and on he goes and says: "I am inclined to be charitable and think that this is only another instance in which the excessive heat of the last few days has to some extent unbalanced the mind of another person, whose name would indicate that he is not a thorough American."

If my mind is unbalanced by heat, then Mr. Coullard's mind, body and soul are suffering from a very bad cold.

If I have used another thorough American's words and thoughts—a thorough American, mind you—then how can he be a thorough American any more than I? If this thorough American has said what I have said, then he did not know any more than I do, the reasons why on the Fourth of July, 1776, a certain Declaration of Independence was adopted.

I have never said one word against the spirit and the bravery of those gallant heroes who were willing to offer their lives on the battlefields in 1776. These men thought that they gave to us a free country. It is not their fault that we have not got it today. Yes, Mr. Coullard, I still will say that the celebration of the Fourth of July is nothing but a hollow mockery. Surely it is the veriest mockery to tell them who are starving to be content and stand pat in their miserable life. It certainly is a mockery when we see on all sides, in this ceaseless struggle for existence, that capital is more sacred than human rights; life less sacred than property. The professionals on the Fourth of July take no interest in these matters. They stand apart from the wage-earners. Yes, I will yet say from the very depth of my heart, that the celebration of the Fourth is a mockery. Let us not talk about the Declaration of Independence until we have put it to practice. Let us not brag of our republic as long as we will allow two millions of little children all under school age, to work in mills, mines and factories for a starvation wage. There are thousands of children working in the mills in the Southern states for the sum of 10 cents per night. Friend and brother, Mr. Coullard, how would you like to have your little boy, your little girl, in these mills? How much of a celebration could you enjoy on the Fourths. There is not a man in the United States who would be willing to hoist higher the flag and declaration of our country than I would, if you and such as you would help us.

My article in The Herald was not written from an exploiter's view but from a workingman's view. It was a wail from one in the ranks of the great army of toilers. I am trying to "cast the beam out of my eye." How about yours?

"I'll tell you of a good plan, and you will find it works full well; to try our own defects to cure, before of others tell. And though I sometimes hope to be no worse than some I know, my own shortcoming bids me let the faults of others go."

TOM MYHRE.

BRITAIN'S BIGGER DOLLAR.

"In America the seller dominates business, so that the effort is always to increase prices; in the United Kingdom the buyer is the dominating factor, and the tendency is always to lower prices." This is why the Englishman can make a dollar go a considerable distance farther than can the American, according to Zach McGhee, who writes an interesting article on this subject in the July number of the World's Work. He shows how cooperation holds down the cost of living, and he has compended a novel table containing the cost of living per week of a family of five in an English mill town and in a New England mill town.

The table follows:

"Progressives" and "Insurgents."

American Review of Reviews: Mr. Taft's disposition to read those senators and representatives out of the party who voted against the Payne-Aldrich tariff has been the most disruptive and unfortunate thing that the Republican party has had to encounter in its recent history. He has made the mistake of treating these men as if their fundamental attitude was "insurgent" rather than "progressive." The Republican party is instinctly progressive; and when the firm grip of its reactionaries and strict organization men, the party always suffers defeats. The Republicans of the Middle West who have been stigmatized as "insurgents" have for the most part had a long record of party loyalty and service; and to have tried to break them down in their communities for voting against the tariff bill, was to have shown great lack of political disconcert, as well as a lack of tolerance and humor. Mr. Taft's own attitude toward tariff revision, up to one year ago, was exactly the same as that of the group of men who in August of last year, on the final vote, did not stand with the majority. The word "insurgent" arose in a different way, and ought not to have applied where it did not fit the case. The insurgents were simply those members of the house who chose to make the fight against Speaker Cannon's control of business under the existing rules. One by one the worst features of the rules have been modified, without unduly weakening the system required for the dispatch of business. The latest victory of the insurgents was in June, when practically all factions and parties united in conferring upon each individual member the right to ask the house to discharge the committee to which it was referred. The house insurgents have made things very lively thus far in the present congress and the storms they have created have done a great deal of good and very little harm.

The Man Who Made Epictetus Famous.

William Bayard Hale in World's Work: New York has a mayor whom the first few months of his term have erected into a national figure. It is no wonder that the eyes of expectant people everywhere are beginning to turn to him. No personality in the horizon is more striking than that of the grave little man who quotes Latin in a sad voice, while he holds in abashed submission the powerful corruptists of a great city.

It would be nothing strange if a people fond of wise sayings should take a fancy to the man who made Epictetus famous among the men on the street; if a people who were thinking a good deal about high prices and waste should inquire about the mayor who is saving New York millions of dollars; if the hero who tamed the Flatbush toughs, smashed the Brooklyn ring, jailed the Coney Island boss, and chained the Tammany tiger should one day be invited to try his hand on the colossal forces of greed which thus far have defied restraint by the hand of the national government.

"Gus" Thomas's Amendment.

Beau Broadway in New York Telegraph: Augustus Thomas said in his speech at the Friars' dinner to Abbot Rumsey at the Hotel Astor the other evening:

"Coming over on the ship last week a young Chicago newspaper man was called upon, at the captain's dinner, to respond to the toast, 'Here's to the Ladies.' The young fellow said: 'I can't speak, but if you will give me a minute I will write,' and this is that which he wrote:

"'Here's to the ladies;
Not too young, for the good die young.
And, who wants a dead one?'

"To which the playwright promptly moved to amend by adding as follows:

"'Here's to the ladies;
Not too old, for the old die, too,
And, who wants a dyed one?'"

Where She Found Comfort.

July Lippincott's: At a prayer meeting held in the backwoods of Rhode Island, testimonies were requested, and a very old woman tottered to her feet.

"I want ter tell this blessed company," her voice quavered, "that I have rheumatiz in my back, and rheumatiz in my shoulders, and rheumatiz in my legs, and rheumatiz in my arms, but I hev been upheld and comforted by the beautiful Bible verse, 'Grin and bear it.'"

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

•••A telegram from New York states that the Lake Superior & Northwestern Railway company has closed negotiations to float its $2,000,000 of bonds, with which to begin at once the construction of the line to the Mesaba range. Capt. Smallwood, agent of the company, will begin at once to secure the right-of-way. It is expected that most of the first fifty miles will be ready for track-lying next Christmas.

•••At a meeting of the chamber of commerce yesterday, C. E. Richardson, Hovey Brothers and D. W. Scott were admitted to membership. Resolutions of respect were adopted over the death of Capt. R. R. Harvey, a former director of the chamber.

•••The work of removing the bodies from the old Forest Hill cemetery on Fourth street to the new one is being prosecuted slowly, but already there are at least 200 bodies in the new grounds. The cemetery association is organized under the state laws and is by no means a money-making institution. The officers are as follows: President, J. C. Hunter; vice-president, J. H. Upham; secretary and treasurer, R. C. Ray. There is also a board of nine directors.

•••The annual school election will be held July 19. Directors are to be chose in place of A. W. Bradley and J. T. Hale, and a vote will also be held on the further issue of bonds to the amount of $100,000 for the new high school.

•••Edward Hanlan and George Hosmer are the first oarsmen who have arrived for the Duluth regratta. They will row in the single scull race, and Hanlan, Wise, Hosmer and Teemer will row together in the fours.

•••The Marinette Iron Works are building a giant band mill for L. E. White of San Francisco to cut redwood. It will easily handle a log eight feet in diameter.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

A Mild Reproof.

Warren Register: Personally we would be better pleased if the Republican state convention had been more specific and definite in some of its platform utterances. There were several questions about which the committee on resolutions seem to have had an idea they must say something, but not knowing what to say without possibly, stepping on some sensitive person's corns they referred to those questions so briefly as to leave much to be desired.

A Vote-Killing Platform.

McIntosh Times: The Republicans met in convention last week. They nominated a ticket and built a platform. This platform backs up the Taft administration, puts its seal of approval on Cannon-Aldrich, et al, the tariff bill, insurgents and standpatters alike. We must admit that this is hard to understand. Here we have for instance Tawney and Lindbergh, who stood for ideas diametrically opposed to one another (or they have voted that way) and the convention pats them on the back. The Aldrich-Payne tariff, has not been to Minnesota's liking and still the convention says its the finest ever. Why?

It may or may not be politics but that kind of a proposition is what will kill more votes than it will make. People have minds of their own and will be heard from.

Good But For Seven or Eight Reasons.

Sauk Center Herald: The platform has the appearance of a patch work quilt with the handiwork of "the interests" apparent in several squares of the coverlid. The tariff question was dodged, Taft was given unstinted praise, the temperance plank squinted. Otherwise the announcement of party principles appears to be pretty good.

A Dodge and a Straddle.

Albert Lea Standard: The Republican state platform—a dodge and a straddle. The party has evidently lost its courage if not all convictions and should take down its sign. "G. O. P." is a misfit and a joke.

The Lesson of the Convention.

Le Sueur News: The lesson of the state convention teaches more than ever the necessity of placing the nomination of state officers under the primary election law and in the hands of the people. If we are to have a government of the people we must remove the naming of all officers from the hands of the professional politician. If a district judge of the court, close to the people must be nominated in a primary election, why should a supreme court judge, farther removed from the people, be named by professional politicians, for the rank and file of the delegates ordinarily have nothing to do with naming them. When a congressman must have a primary election campaign with the people, meeting and conversing with them, why should the governor of the state be named in any other way. The primary election can be, and is the safeguard. Just so long as the interests can they will not permit the state officers to be named in the primary. Now is a good time to think of this and to see that it is a forced issue in the election of legislative candidates. It is not politics, for it is as good for one party as for another.

That's The Trouble With It.

Rush City Post: The Republican state platform is the subject for some kicks and general commendation. While on some points it don't exactly declare, it is capable of construction to suit both insurgents and standpatters.

Oh, Say Not So!

Royalton Banner: When a cur yelps he has either been hard hit ,tied with a short rope or starved. Now this may be a homely comparison but from the noises coming from the Democratic newspapers the past week, we would judge that they had suffered from all three causes.

Judson Harmon.

New York Evening Post: It will not do to take yesterday's endorsement of Governor Harmon for the presidency, by the Ohio Democrats, as merely a good-natured and unmeaning bringing forward of a "favorite son." Of course, 1912 is a long way off yet, politically, and many strange things may happen before the nominations are actually made. But there can be no doubt that the Ohio governor stands as the most promising presidential candidate of his party now in sight. His firm and clear attitude on the tariff, his vigor and honesty and skill as an administrator, his success in running down rascals and making political corruption in Ohio unsafe as well as odious, mark him as a man to be reckoned with. In presenting him before the country yesterday, the Ohio Democrats called special attention to his own phrase, "guilt is personal." These were the words he used when, as special counsel appointed by President Roosevelt, he urged a legal process against Secretary Morton of Roosevelt's own cabinet. It will be remembered that the delicate Roosevelt would not permit such rough methods to be used against a friend. As he is said to have expressed it, he "would not throw Paul Morton to the wolves." But it is certain that Governor Harmon's rugged honesty and directness on that occasion would be recalled to his credit if he were to be the nominee of the Democrats two years from now. The immediate question, however, is that of his re-election as governor. Fair-minded Republicans in Ohio admit that Harmon has given the state an excellent administration. On state issues he cannot be successfully attacked; and he announces that his campaign will be fought purely on state issues. Yet national questions certainly will be injected. In fact, the Republicans have no hope of defeating Harmon except by trying to heal their own serious differences and inducing the party voters to rally in order to prevent the blow which it would be to President Taft to have his own state carried by a Democrat.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A fatal mistake is to think you can't make one.

Give a boy his choice of a shotgun or a fine education, and the birds had better look out.

The prouder a man can be of having done his duty the madder he usually was when he was doing it.

A man can travel a long journey without thinking of going back home unless his family is with him.

There are mighty few of us who, when we are too early at a social affair and walk around the block several times, have the courage not to pretend we just arrived.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Boston Transcript: He—What kind of stone would you like in the ring, darling?

She—Oh, Jack, dear, I've heard so much about baseball diamonds. Do you suppose they are very expensive?

Chicago Daily News: It was down in the market district.

"What this country needs is plenty of bone and sinew," said the tall one.

"Yes, and plenty of grit and sand," echoed the short one.

"By the way, what business are you in?"

"Oh, I'm a butcher. And you—"

"Why—er—I distribute strawberries when they arrive from the Southern markets."

Life: "Can't you live just as cheap in the suburbs as in town?"

"Yes, but everybody knows it out there."

Judge: "If your hair was bronze I could write a poem on it," declares the long haired-swain.

"I'll have it dyed," offers the fair young thing eagerly.

St. Louis Star: "I'm in a quandary."

"What's up now?"

"I can't decide whether I want a Buff Cochin or a Plymouth Rock design on my new chantecler hat."

Boston Transcript: Mrs. Subbubs (who has hired a man to plant shade trees)—Digging out the holes, I see, Mr. Lannigan.

Lannigan—No, mum, Ol'm diggin' out the dirt an' lavin' the holes.

Puck: Esau had just sold his birthright for a mess of pottage. "That's no good," said his wife. "I'd take it back and exchange it." But, being lacking in feminine shopping ability, he kept the bargain.

New York Sun: Knicker—The price of everything has gone up.

Rocker—Yes, we even get a smaller hole in a doughnut.

Cleveland Leader: "Mrs. Neurich has no idea as to how to treat her inferiors."

"Well, you must remember that it's only been a few months that she's had any."

Life: Mistress—I never allow more than two nights out a week. Isn't that enough?

Colored Maid—No'm. I'se afraid it ain't. You see, I'se a debutante this year.

How Gaynor Would Solve the Railroad Question.

From an interview with William J. Gaynor in July World's Work: Some have come to the conclusion that government should take the railroads and run them in order to end the abuse, the same as Bismarck had to do in Germany many. It is very certain that if the abuse can be ended in no other way the people will compel government to take the roads. They do not intend that their legislatures shall be corrupted and their government controlled by those who control the railroads. This country and government of ours are great enough to do anything. There is nothing radical or startling about government owning and running railroads, when one-half or more of the railroads of the world are owed and operated by government.

For my part I would rather not see government do it. Private enterprise is too valuable to be eliminated from railroad building and management if it can be avoided. My own view, which I express with diffidence, is that it is only necessary for government to appoint the general freight agent of every railroad, for he could stop all rate favoritism at once. It would not be his office to fix the schedules of rates, but only to see that every one paid the schedule rate, no more and no less. The summary dismissal by him of any local agent who gave a false rate, and his criminal prosecution by the government, would soon destroy the evil.

But, at any rate, and in some way or other, this wrong will be righted. The moral sense of the people is awakened and we may trust the result. I am no enemy of honestly acquired wealth, but I have been the life-long enemy of that kind of wrong. Neither do the people hate the rich; they hate only injustice. Even the French, when they undertook to right things, tore down the Bastile, but did not touch the Bank of France.

A Guilty Conscience.

Washington Star: "That view is rather unscientific," said Dr. Simon Flexner, the head of the Rockefeller Institute, at a dinner in New York.

"That view reminds me," continued Dr. Flexner, "of Hopkinson, who was wont to observe Lent very vigorously.

"But on a certain fast day, after three hours of Lent, Hopkinson couldn't resist a luncheon of chops. And as he munched his chops a violent storm came up suddenly, a blue light filled the room and then a terrific clap of thunder shook the building.

"Hopkinson, pale and shaky, laid down his knife and fork.

"'What a fuss,' he muttered, 'over a mutton chop.'"

Overheard on the Stairs.

July Lippincott's: A Washington man inadvertantly overheard some tender exchanges between a recently betrothed couple who, it chanced, attended some social function at the national capital to which the aforesaid Washingtonian was also asked.

It was on the stairs that the happy pair chose to talk the matter over, and it was from the recesses of an alcove, whither he had gone to get his coat, that the Washingtonian proved to be the accidental recipient of the couple's confidence.

"Just think, dear heart!" exclaimed the young woman. "You proposed to me but twenty-four hours ago!"

"Yes, sweetheart," came in thrilling tones, from the fortunate man, "and it seems as though it were but yesterday!"

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The members of the board of the Children's Home met this morning at the Young Women's Christian association to complete plans for the charity tag day for the Home and the Bethel Society of Duluth which will be held Wednesday of next week. The committees are working faithfully and it is expected that Duluth will be most thoroughly canvassed on the appointed day in the interests of these two charities.

The Children's Home and the Bethel society are two of the most popular charities of the city and response has come most gladly from the various people throughout the city to assist in the work for tag day. Banners for automobiles are being prepared all ready to be tied to the machines and they will be left at the various garages of the city and it is expected that automobile owners will do their part in helping to advertise the day.

A meeting of the matrons in charge of the various districts will be held next Monday morning at the Y. W. C. A. and boxes and badges will be given out at that time and the final preparations made. Several hundred Duluth women and girls will assist in the work. Among the interested workers will be the young women of the Forbes Stock company, who will assist the matron in charge of the Lyceum corner. It is planned that next week's tag day shall be the biggest that Duluth has yet experienced.

CENTURY CLUB

Completes Plans for Next Year's Work.

The regular July meeting of the executive board of the Twentieth Century club was held this morning at the club room of the library and the routine summer work for the club was discussed. The year book will be in the hands of the printer within the next few days and will be ready for distribution by Aug. 1.

The formal work of the year for the club will open Oct. 5, when Mrs. France Squire Potter will appear in the first of a series of lectures. Mrs. Potter will be the only out of town lecturer engaged by the club for next year.

The chairmen of the various departments are arranging for a number of lectures by local speakers in connection with the regular study courses. These details will be announced in the year book.

GARDEN MUSICALE.

Mrs. C. A. Duncan Will Entertain for Mrs. R. Knebel.

There seems to be little reason for it and no logic at all, although that isn't very surprising, because about the only place you find anything about logic is in the dictionary and some people think of it when John Stuart Mill is mentioned, but aside from that, logic is very seldom encountered. So all in all it isn't surprising that there doesn't seem to be any reason for it either. Any one who is interested, however, may find all about it by consulting Webster's dictionary.

A MAN'S VIEWS ON WOMEN'S FASHIONS

By JOHN WATSON WHYTE.

Women's fashions owe their utter stupidity not so much to the rapidity with which they ring the changes as to the fact that they are invariably so absolutely out of all proportion.

The continual change, which seems inseparable from women's toilettes, is due, I think, more to the stern decrees of the smart dressmakers and milliners than to the fact that women themselves constantly desire changes. That change in the details of either man's or woman's dress is good for some reasons I have not the slightest doubt, for, if it does nothing else, it helps very largely to make the fortunes of the leading dressmakers and milliners. It is part of the business of those who cater for women's dress to see that it should not be possible for a woman to appear for even a whole season in the same style of hat or gown.

With all this I am willing to agree. These costumers have their fortunes to make, and must endeavor to do so in the most sure and easy way; and this, they seem to consider, lies in creating a continual change in women's wearing apparel. For this I have no quarrel against them; it is only the usual business instinct.

What I object to most strongly is the absence of any sense of proportion in the cosume of the average "smart" woman of today. Take, for example, the short and extremely narrow skirt, the long and equally narrow coat, and the huge hat which surmounts the entire—shall we say, picture?

The "matinee" hats, as I believe these gigantic creations have been called, have apparently been in for a great deal of trouble lately. When it comes, however, to the question of obstructing one's neighbor's views of the stage, I think a great many women can do so without resorting to the wearing of a picture hat.

That we shall never get rid of these hats and headdresses I very much doubt, and what I would suggest is that all the seats in the theaters should be raised sufficiently so as to enable persons sitting in the back rows to see as well as those in the front, no matter how many hats were in the rows before them.

Personally, I do not object to the large hats which are now so much worn. A hat is intended as a frame for the face, and that is the chief reason for the popularity of the style of hat seen in the Reynolds and Gainsborough portraits. What I do object to in the modern woman's hat is the superabundance of birds' wings and feathers with which it is so often decorated.

Chantecler hats and toques are too idiotic for words. If a woman must have feathers to adorn her head, why not let her make more of her hair, and introduce a humming-bird framed in a nest of hair as the "latest thing in hats?"

Another of my pet abominations is the wasp-like waist. Where will you find anyone who has a genuine admiration for a waist so small as to be out of proportion to the rest of the figure? There can be nothing beautiful in anything grotesque, for the soul of beauty is harmony. A neat, trim figure is a decided asset to a woman's appearance, but a wasp-like monstrosity, measuring some 16 inches (the size of the average man's neck), can only be equaled in absurdity by one other fashionable craze—that of wearing numberless animal's heads on the large fur stoles and muffs. One head belonging to the animal might be permissible, but where could one find an animal with some dozen heads?

And last, but not least, amongst the list of silly vanities, which every sensible man must deplore in women's fashions, is the extremely high Louis heel. If women could only see themselves, and how ugly their feet look in very high-heeled shoes, they would soon discontinue wearing them.

TRY THIS DINNER

Breton Onion Soup.

Peel, slice and parboil a pint of white onions. Drain and fry brown in butter. Dredge with flour, add three pints of veal stock, season with salt and pepper, boil for half an hour, strain through a fine sieve and reheat. Add two tablespoons of butter and serve with dice of fried bread.

Meat—Cannelon of Veal.

Run twice through the meat chopper a pound of cold roast veal and one-half pound of boiled ham. Season with salt, pepper and grated nutmeg. Soak a French roll or thick slice of old bread in milk. Add a small onion fried brown in butter and chopped fine. Heat all the ingredients with a cup of cream, seasoning with salt, pepper, grated lemon peel and minced parsley. Add one egg well beaten and pour into a well buttered mold. Bake in the oven until the top is browned. Serve with any preferred sauce.

Vegetables—Spinach Pie Montmise.

Remove the large stems, wash the leaves in several waters, drain, and put them in a saucepan containing some lightly salted boiling water, and boil over a brisk fire until cooked. Immerse it in cold water, drain, and press out all the water. Put a piece of butter in a sauce pan, and when melted add a little finely chopped garlic, two cups of spinach and a spoonful of anchovy paste. Mix them well together, season with salt and pepper, and add a little white sauce. Before serving garnish the dish with poached eggs or small pieces of toasted bread.

Dessert—Rolled Apple Dumplings.

Make a rich baking powder biscuit dough, roll out in a thin sheet, cover thickly with chopped apples, roll up compactly, then cut into slices about two inches thick. Place in well greased baking pan, not too closely together, and pour over the following: Mix one tablespoonful of flour with one cupful of sugar, add one cupful of boiling water, stirring till it boils and thickens smoothly. Flavor with nutmeg or cinnamon. Bake and serve with cream and sugar.

THE EVENING STORY

THE CANCELLED DEBT

By Gertrude Myddleton Butler.

I was standing with my back to the fireplace, glancing at the headlines in the evening paper. Suddenly I laid it down, and looked across the room to where my wife sat at her writing table, addressing the invitations to our forthcoming "at home."

"Di," I said, "I want to speak to you."

"One moment, Jack," she answered without looking up. All her life Di had expected to be waited for. The evening noises came through the closely-curtained windows. At Di's elbow stood a small table crowded with silver trifles; on a chair opposite lay the latest novel and a piece of embroidery. She took another sheet of note paper.

"I'm sorry to interrupt you, Di," I said slowly, "but what I have to say is important."

"Has Charles given notice, after all?"

She looked up quickly as she spoke, her pen held over the ink stand. Charles was my man. Di had a way of counting those things important which nearly affected herself; she obviously gave me credit of doing the same.

"Charles will have no further opportunities of giving notice," I said. "The fact is, we've come to the—end."

"To the end?" Di repeated with a puzzled frown.

"Absolutely," I replied firmly, glancing at the opposite wall.

"I don't understand," she exclaimed petulantly blotting an envelope. "To the end of what?"

"Our money."

"Can't we retrench?" she said absently.

So far, she had barely paid me the compliment of attending. I must make her understand.

"My dear girl," I said firmly, "It is not a question this time of giving fewer dinners, or even selling the motor. It's a question of selling everything."

"Jack!" she cried in dismay. I had her attention at last. She turned round in her chair, facing me, a frightened look in her eyes.

"I'm awfully sorry, Di,' I said, lamely.

"It's rather futile to be sorry, isn't it?" she remarked, with careless cruelty. "It's done now."

"Perhaps it is futile," I retorted, "but it seemed the correct thing to say."

"We haven't spent much time lately in—saying the correct thing," she said with a short laugh. It was not a pleasant laugh. Unfortunately, it was growing more frequent after five years of marriage.

"Look here, Di," I began hurriedly, we've made a most infernal muddle—I'm sorry."

"Oh, don't apologize. I quite agree; it is a muddle."

I bit my lip. Her face wore an expression I hated to see. She was too young to be cynical.

"Di," I said quickly, "there oughtn't to be a muddle. It's only because we each go separate ways, and they happen to be rather expensive ways."

"No more expensive than other people's," she replied.

"Perhaps not, only other people may manage to pay for theirs; I can't," I said dryly.

"How long have you known this?" she asked, with tightened lips.

"I didn't know until this morning that things were hopeless," I answered evasively.

"You must have known something before this. Why didn't you tell me?" she insisted.

Since she asked for the truth, she should have it.

"I didn't tell you, Di," I said slowly, "because in the first place I was a fool; and because in the second place I thought that in the midst of your bridge and dancing, and—flirting" (I hated myself for saying it when I saw her wince), "I thought that you wouldn't understand."

Five years before we had spoken exultingly together of the perfect understanding between us. Di was making aimless lines with her pen.

"Well, we've had our day, like the dog," she said shortly. "What do you propose to do, now its over?"

"I shall go anywhere—and work," I said recklessly.

Di laughed. Perhaps it did sound ridiculous.

"My dear boy," she remarked slowly, "rather preposterous, isn't it? And might I ask what sort of—'work' you propose doing?"

"Any sort," I replied, still more recklessly. "I am strong enough, and young enough."

"And what do you propose that I should do?" she asked, after a short silence.

I hesitated. The pink shade of the electric lamp shed an alluring softness over her white dress and delicate profile. She looked eminently feminine.

"Di——" I began hurriedly, when she interrupted me.

"What suggestions have you on the subject?" she asked.

"I had thought of a small house on the river," I answered, avoiding her eyes.

She made no reply. I thought of a certain summer afternoon in a Thames backwater, and of our plans to have a riverside cottage. I looked up at her; she was studying the nib of her pen, and there was a strained look on her dear face I had not seen before. Perhaps she also remembered that summer afternoon.

"You see, Di," I said gently—anything to take that look from her face—"you see as soon as things were better you might join me, or we might decide to live somewhere cheaply. I've been working it all out, and I think we can manage to keep Henrietta."

I had a sudden recollection of Di as I had seen her that morning, struggling with a refractory veil and calling in distracted tones for her maid.

"Oh, of course, I couldn't possibly do without Henrietta—here," she said slowly.

I looked up; something in the tone of her voice struck me. She could not mean—" But, no—that, of course, was impossible.

"I'm most awfully sorry. I wish you'd believe it, Di," I said again awkwardly; "it seems so much more stupid when we both know that if we had only pulled together it needn't have happened."

"My dear Jack," she exclaimed in a hard voice, "for heaven's sake don't say you are sorry again. Everything in this world has to be paid for, even the mistakes, and they are apt to be expensive. It's one of the little sweets of life. Unfortunately our account for mistakes has——"

"Run on for five years," I interrupted dryly, "and is not paid yet."

"We shall live through it, no doubt," she said shortly, "you away—I in that riverside cottage—with Henrietta. The arrangement is quite admirable," she added, with a slight movement of her head.

"I think it ought to work all right," I rejoined, with a forced cheerfulness. I knew it would not.

Di looked up. "You will, of course, be traveling for your health," she said satirically. "I shall be—hadn't it better be something of the same sort, a rest cure?"

"As you like. I'll leave it to you to put a good face on our movements," I said, lookin gacross at her. She was tidying away her letters, and her back was turned to me.

"Then it is all settled, Di," I said, with a quick sigh. "We shall both be busy, I suppose. There'll be the sale to arrange about later on. Let me know any wishes you may have about it, won't you? I'm going to the club now."

She was still sorting her letters, and I wanted some sign that she cared, that she was sorry. "Di, can't you speak, can't you say something?"

She kept her back to me, and was perfectly silent.

I walked to the door, and then paused.

"Then there is nothing more to be said?" I asked, with my hand on the door knob.

"No," she said slowly—"no, there's nothing more to be said, except—that I'm going with you to Anywhere."

"Di!" I cried incredulously.

Our five years' account was paid after all.

BEND THE HEAD OR STRIKE THE BEAM

By FERDINAND C. IGLEHART,

Benjamin Franklin, in a letter to Dr. Mathes of Boston, says: "The last time I saw your father was in the beginning of 1724, when I visited him after my first trip to Pennsylvania. He received me in his library, and on my taking leave, showed me a shorter way out of the house, through a narrow passage, which was crossed by a beam overhead.

"We were still talking as I withdrew, he accompanying me behind, and I turning partly toward him, when he said hastily, 'Stoop! Stoop!'

"I did not understand him until I felt my head hit against the beam. He was a man who never missed any occasion of giving instruction, and upon this he said to me, 'You are young, and have the world before you; stoop as you go through, and you'll miss many hard thumps.' This advice thus beat into my head has frequently been of use to me; and I often think of it when I see pride mortified, and misfortune brought upon people, by carrying their heads too high."

Over the paths of social life and avenues of the business world there are beams, scattered here and there all along the way, approaching which people who hold their heads very high must either stoop or get a thump. And the streets are full of hats knocked off by these obstructions, and of people whose heads are covered with bruises because they did not take the precaution to bend them. The wicked world will often take a hearty laugh at the ridiculous manner in which these haughty headed people run against the beams.

Little children play a game in which, when an obstruction is approached, there is a cry of "low bridge," and the little ones duck their heads and go under in safety. It would be well if such a lesson of wisdom were to be remembered by them through life, especially by those who are to come up into lives of position and wealth. It would be fortunate if a mashed hat or a bruised head were the only penalty of striking the obstruction over the path. Many are killed by carrying their heads too high. Most of the states compel railroad companies to stretch a line, with strings hanging from it, near both ends of a bridge, that the brakemen on the train may have warning and stoop their heads and pass under the bridge in safety; and yet in spite of such warning, every now and then a railroad man is hit, and killed by a low bridge. Notwithstanding the faithful warnings that are given, haughty-headed men and women are losing their fortunes, and lives, and souls, by striking against the beam across the way.

Young Larson was the first to enter the well and soon became a dead weight on the rope that had been tied about his waist, being overcome by the gas. The rope broke when the father attempted to raise his son. Almost frantic, the elder Larson went into the well for his son, and was only rescued in the nick of time by others who chanced to see that something was wrong at the well.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA FIREMEN IN ANNUAL PARADE

COPY MINNESOTA'S LAW.

Other States Getting Pointers Here on Taxation Legislation.

St. Paul, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota's tax laws are being taken as a model by the International Tax association, according to Allen Ripley Foote of Columbus, Ohio, president of the association.

Mr. Foote is here calling on the tax commission and arranging for the national meeting of the association which will be held at Milwaukee, Aug. 30 to Sept. 2.

"The association is working for uniform laws," said Mr. Foote. "We find as we study the situation in the various states that there are gross abuses now being practiced on the people of the commonwealths. Ohio is particularly offensive in this respect. It is only within the past month that a tax commission was established. Before that the man who promised to do the most toward holding down the taxes was the man elected. Our taxation system was purely political."

He declared that Minnesota is far in the lead in the matter of taxation and says that the other states are being directed to the Minnesota statutes for information as to how best to manage their taxes.

St. Paul, Minn., July 6.—Gideon S. Ives, former lieutenant governor of Minnesota, has been appointed referee in bankruptcy for the St. Paul division of the federal district, by Judge C. A. Willard. WAS SELF DEFENSE.

North Dakotan, Who Killed Son, Will Probably Go Free.

Granville, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. Donnelly, who was arrested near here on a charge of killing his son-in-law, Arthur Price, will very likely be given his freedom. It has been practically established that it was a case of self defense. The fight resulting in Price's death occurred on his farm in a row that he himself provoked, and in which Donnelly, it seems, only tried to defend himself. Donnelly at once gave himself up to the officials. He is grief stricken over the affair.

VERY SANE FOURTH.

No Accidents Marred Red River Valley Celebration.

Crookston, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time in many years, although celebrations of the Fourth were numerous in this section, not a single accident occurred in any of the villages or in the rural districts where special festivities were held.

Many Heard Governor Speak in Red River Valley July 4.

Crookston, Minn., July 6.—Governor Eberhardt was given an automobile tour about the city last evening while here between trains, returning from Fertile, where he spoke July 4, enroute to St. Paul. He was very agreeably surprised at the healthy appearance of the grain on all the heavy valley land.

The winter rye will be harvested this week and stands well, one of the best crops ever harvested, and there is a considerable acreage of it near this city. Over 2,000 people gathered at the Fertile fair to hear his address.

GRAND FORKS FAIR WILL BE A HUMMER.

D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crookston will send a delegation of 500 people to the Grand Forks fair this month, an order for that number of tickets for the event being received here yesterday afternoon. TOO PROUD TO BEG.

Stranger in South Dakota Is in Pitiable Condition.

Sioux Falls, S. D., July 6.—Too proud to beg food or reveal his condition when he ran out of money through inability to secure work, a stranger in South Dakota has been taken in charge by the authorities of Tripp. The unfortunate feature of the matter is that the man, whose name is believed to be Schrader, and whose home is supposed to be in Chicago, has temporarily lost his mind because of lack of food and exposure to the hot sun while making his way over the country in search of work. He was found in an unconscious condition beside a railroad track near Tripp. Had he revealed his true condition he would gladly have been given assistance by the kindly disposed people of the region through which he passed. It is likely he will be sent to the state hospital for the insane at Yankton, in hope that with proper care and food his mind may be fully restored.

CURIOSITY HIS UNDOING.

Moorhead Young Man Seriously Injured While Examining Cracker.

Moorhead, Minn., July 6.—Wanting to see if a firecracker was lighted was the undoing of Clyde Lied, the 13-year-old son of Mrs. Lied, of Eleventh street south. He had lighted a three-inch firecracker and was preparing to throw it out of the door. He was in the kitchen at the time the accident occurred.

The cracker failed to explode the first time and the lad brought the fire cracker near his face to see if it was still lighted. The result was that the cannon cracker exploded, lacerating one of his hands in a most terrible manner and inflicting deep powder wounds about the eyes and face. His legs and shoulder were also torn by the terrific explosion, and his condition was so serious that he was rushed to St. John's hospital. He now lies in a critical condition, there being danger of his losing one of his eyes as a result of his carelessness.

REJECTED SWEETHEART ATTEMPTS GIRL'S LIFE.

Cumberland, Wis., July 6.—Angered because his wooing of Miss Annie Montefusco, aged 16, declared to be pretty, was unsuccessful Emil Carlone, a farmer, aged 23, made an unsuccessful attempt to kill the girl. Concealing himself in some brush he fired a pistol several times at her as she passed then running after her with a razor attempted to cut her. She screamed, her cries attracting nearby farmers who chased Carlone away, but not before the girl had been severely cut about the arm. Her assailant hid in the woods all night and when he comes out will be arrested.

D., July 6.—Thomas Weeks, formerly of Boston, Mass., but for the last five years a resident of Bismarck, where he had been engaged at various occupations, including clerk at the Northwest hotel, and manager of a large livery barn, was drowned in Apple creek, a few miles east of this city, Monday evening. Weeks, with some others attending a picnic, was pitching horseshoes, and when the game was ended a dip in the river was suggested. Weeks started to swim across the creek but when he reached the center of the stream he sank.

Boys Maimed by Rocket.

Barnesville, Minn., July 6.—Roy Fitzpatrick and Loyd Mackenroth picked up a dynamite skyrocket yesterday forenoon at a spot where they shot off fireworks last night, and in some manner the rocket exploded, tearing Roy's left hand off at the wrist, breaking the other boy's jaw and tearing his face. There is fear of blood-poisoning.

GAYNOR SLAPS POLITICAL GRAFT

Denounces System That Taxes Applicants for Stand Permits.

New York, July 6.—Mayor Gaynor has sent to the board of aldermen a message charging that politicians were extorting money in sums of from $5 to $500 from persons seeking aldermanic permits for licensing newsstands, fruit stands and bootblacking stands.

"Persons applying for these licenses," wrote the mayor, "cannot get them until they join a political club and pay that club a specific amount of money, or until they pay some political captains a prescribed sum of money.

"It is too infamous a thing to be permitted to continue."

SAYS FIREFLY PUTS EDISON OUT OF RUNNING.

Manhattan, Kan., July 6.—The aft lamp of the firefly, what lights it, and why it is carried astern, is a question for solution which J. C. Hamilton, professor of physics in the state agricultural college here, is experimenting on.

The firefly, Prof. Hamilton asserts, surpasses anything Edison has done in the amount of light obtained from the energy expended. The illumination, he says, is given off by a peculiar method of oxygenation of waste products which turns all energy into light and none into heat. Before the summer is over Prof. Hamilton expects to have determined just what this method is.

AVIATOR DIVES 100 FEET AND IS UNHURT.

Pittsburg, Kan., July 6.—Arch Hoxsey, in a Wright bi-plane, dived almost straight downward from a height of 100 feet here yesterday, after his engine had gone dead. The machine was demolished, but Hoxsey crawled out from a mass of planes, wires and stays unhurt.

It was the last day of a four-days' aviation meet. Hoxsey was soaring along evenly at a height of 500 feet when his motor stopped. Hoxsey tilted his planes and had floated down gently to within about 100 feet of the ground, when one of the plane stays gave way, the aeroplane's nose dropped and the machine crashed to earth.

S.S.S. REMOVES ALL HUMORS FROM THE BLOOD

The cause of all skin diseases can be traced to some humor in the blood. Healthy cuticles are only possible where the circulation is pure; and therefore the cure of any skin trouble can only come from a thorough cleansing of this vital fluid. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., cannot cure. True, such treatment relieves some of the itching and discomfort, helps to reduce inflammation, and aids in keeping the affected parts clean, but it does not reach the blood, where the real cause is located, and at best can only be palliating and soothing. S. S. S. cures skin diseases of every character and kind, because it purifies the blood. It goes into the circulation and removes the humors that are causing the trouble, builds up weak, acrid blood, and completely cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Poison Oak, and every other variety of skin affection. When S. S. S. has driven the humors from the blood, and purified the acid-heated circulation, every symptom passes away, the cuticle is again nourished with rich, healthful blood, and comfort is given to disease-tortured skins. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

ALDERMEN TAKE A HAND

Indorse the Saturday Half Holiday After a Heated Debate.

Mayor Will Designate Night for Postponed Displays of Fireworks.

Following a heated debate which produced flights of oratory reminiscent of the law enforcement fights, the city council went on record by a vote of 11 to 5 last night as favoring a Saturday half-holiday for the clerks of stores the months of July and August.

The differences of opinion were not over the value of the half day off for the employes in the city, as all made it plain that they favored it, but some of the city fathers declared with shouts and sweeping gestures that the council was "butting in" where it had no right, as the passage of such a resolution was equivalent to telling business men how to run their affairs.

Alderman McDonell asserted that the council had no license whatever to interfere in such matters and Alderman Getchell wanted to know why the council should take up the proposition. Alderman Hogan asserted that if such a resolution was passed by the council the city council would be the laughing stock of all the business men in Duluth.

Alderman Moore jumped to his feet for an animated discussion of the ethics of the question. He declared that it is within the prerogatives of the council to take up any matter which is for the general public good. He believed that it was very proper that the council should pass the resolution, whether it was being introduced for political reasons or not.

Before it was put to a vote Alderman Getchell wanted to know if an amendment had been offered providing that the overworked saloon keepers be also given a half holiday, producing a general laugh. Alderman McDonell's motion to lay it on the table was lost by a vote of 10 to 6, whereupon it was adopted by a vote of 11 to 5.

Mayor Cullum sent in a communication thanking the people of the city for the general observance of his "request" to refrain from the use of pyrotechnics on the night of July 4. He asked permission to designate another night, following a rain, on which the fireworks can be sent skywards. He made a few short remarks, saying that the night of the Fourth he had been called on the telephone by a score of little ones who wanted to get the privilege of having displays at their homes. He said that it would not be right to disappoint these tots. To give him the necessary power, Alderman Shartel introduced an amendment to the ordinance making it become effective Aug. 5 instead of July 5. It will be passed at the next meeting.

An amendment to the wheelage tax, covering the objections raised at the public hearing several weeks ago, was brought in. Following a public hearing next Monday afternoon it is thought that it will be passed in the evening. Automobiles are taxed at 50 cents per horse power and large trucks and delivery wagons on the basis of $10 per ton capacity. One-half fees are required for vehicles which are in use but part of the time, particularly by liverymen who have fewer horses than vehicles. They objected to paying taxes on all vehicles as they claimed they could not use all of them at the same time but kept them to supply the varying demands of their trade. The complete schedule as now proposed is as follows:

Class A—One-horse vehicle	$3.00
Class B—Two-horse or three-horse vehicle	6.00
Class C—Four-horse vehicle	20.00
Class D—More than four-horse vehicle	30.00
Class E—Motor bicycle or tricycle	3.00
Class F—Automobiles, not otherwise classified herein, per horse power	.50
Class G—Automobile trucks, coaches, busses and delivery wagons, per ton capacity	10.00

The stringent amendments to the meat ordinance introduced at the last meeting, were passed without the slightest objection last night. Under it no meat can be sold in Duluth until it has been inspected and every sanitary precaution must be taken.

* * *

The new ordinance of the sealer of weights and measures was introduced by Alderman Hoar. It provides standard measurements to be followed in the city, along the lines suggested by Sealer Duran. He told the council of the radical shortages which he had found in Duluth and of the practices followed by some dealers in the city. Under the ordinance every scale must be tested regularly, and all peddlers who use scales or measures must have them tested and approved by the sealer at least once a year.

* * *

The Twin Ports Supply company asked for a right-of-way for a single track on the west side of Eleventh avenue west and across Railroad street. They explained that they need better railroad facilities to conduct their business successfully.

* * *

The mayor called the attention of the aldermen to the "checkered, ill-considered condition of the streets." He said that this was due largely to the platting, and that no plats should be accepted in the future unless they conformed to the topography of the outlying districts.

* * *

The city engineer reported that the sanitary sewer dumping into Brewery creek at First street can be diverted into the sewer in Eighth avenue at a cost of $213.

* * *

The board of public works reported that the Northern Pacific objects to the opening of Ramsey street across its right-of-way, on the ground that it will interfere with switching and increase danger.

* * *

The Zenith Telephone company was given permission to lay conduits in Michigan street from Sixth to Seventeenth avenues west and the Duluth Telephone company got the same right for Michigan street between Ninth and Garfield avenues. Both companies will remove their poles in this district.

* * *

The board of public works was authorized to advertise for bids for two new steel tank sprinkling wagons to replace some that are getting too old to be of service.

* * *

Upon motion of Alderman Wharton, the Superior aldermen were thanked for the courtesy shown the Duluth men upon the occasion of the last ball game. Another game between the two will be played here in September.

* * *

The board of public works was instructed to notify the city attorney of all contractors who tear up long stretches of sidewalk in violation of the ordinance with a view to prosecuting them. The same instructions were given the health commissioner relative to people who cause offensive odors by throwing dishwater and refuse in the streets and alleys.

* * *

The engineer was directed to investigate Minnesota avenue to learn whether the street can be put in shape for traffic without the expense of paving.

* * *

Repairs were ordered made to the walk between Proctor and Bay View Heights and the road between the Ironton bridge and New Duluth was ordered leveled.

* * *

The Canadian Northern franchise was amended so as to enable the road to pass below the fire hall at West Duluth instead of above it on the Elinor street side.

VETERAN SECTION BOSS HAS RETIRED

Coleman Keeley, Aged 80, Old Great Northern Employe, to Rest.

Crookston, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—After thirty-one years of active and efficient service, "Boss" Coleman Keeley celebrated the Fourth by retiring from the service of the Great Northern, his resignation having been accepted with a proviso that he is to draw $40 per month from the Great Northern railroad as long as he lives.

Mr. Keeley has been section foreman from Euclid to Shirley for thirty-one years and no greater comment on the efficiency of his work could be made than that during all those years there has been but one wreck, and that not a disastrous one. He holds the record as the most efficient section foreman on the Great Northern, and though nearly 80 years of age is vigorous and has steadfastly refused to resign his position, although he has the finest home in Euclid and is independent financially, owning a fine farm adjoining the village, which is operated by his son Martin, the only boy home.

He is also the father of a family of railroad men. Two sons, P. C. and Mark Keeley are Great Northern conductors running out of Crookston; Peter runs out of Thief River Falls on the Soo, Thomas is station agent for the Great Northern at Hallock, and George is yardmaster at Superior for the Great Northern.

In point of continuous service as section foreman he holds the record on the entire Great Northern system, has grown up with the road, is personally acquainted with James J. Hill and was one of the few who went to the home of Mr. Hill, about two years ago on the anniversary of the latter's birthday, none of those attending having been in the employ of the Great Northern less than a quarter of a century. Only a few men on the northern division, Trainmaster S. H. Withey and Conductors D. F. Miller and Thomas Stahl can claim kinship to him in years of service here with the Great Northern.

WANTED UNCLE SAM TO PROTECT COUNTRY.

San Juan Del Sur, July 6.—Released prisoners from Bluefields, who have arrived here, give some brief details of Gen. Estrada's plan to declare the independence of the Atlantic coast. The name of the new republic was to be New Nicaragua, and it was to come under the protection of the United States. It was planned that Gen. Estrada was to be the first president and was to receive $1,000,000. The finances of the new republic were to be controlled by the United States and justice to be administered by five judges, foreigners being eligible.

WOMEN IN BED ARE HURT BY RUNAWAY.

Vincennes, Ind., July 6.—A blind horse, frightened by the explosion of a cannon yesterday, ran away, throwing its driver out of the buggy, fatally injuring him and plunged through a window of the home of Mrs. Anna Duggar and fell on the bed in which Mrs. Duggar and her daughter were sleeping. Mrs. Duggar and her daughter were seriously bruised and both were shocked into hysterics before the men of the neighborhood, attracted by the crash and the screams of the women, could drag the frantic horse out of the house.

MISSOURI SEEKING TO OUST WIRE "TRUST."

Topeka, Kan., July 6.—Attorney General Jackson of Kansas has filed in the district court here an ouster suit against the Missouri & Kansas Telephone company and against the American Telegraph & Telephone company.

The avowed purpose of the suit is to prevent the building up of a monopoly. The suit is based on the purchase of the Wichita & Hutchinson Independent Telephone systems at Wichita and Hutchinson last winter by the Bell companies.

The Bell companies are said to be negotiating for the purchase of the Union Telegraph & Telephone company. This company owns local and toll line exchanges covering practically all of Kansas north of the Kaw river and east of Belleville.

SATURDAY LAST DAY FOR CORPORATIONS TO PAY FEDERAL TAX.

Washington, July 6.—Commissioner Cabell of the internal revenue bureau expects that all corporations which have not paid their taxes will do so before the close of business next Saturday, which is the last day allowed under the law.

Inasmuch as the government is empowered to make seizures by July 20, it is expected the delinquents will pay under protest as others have done, and await the decision of the supreme court on the constitutionality of the law.

GET READY FOR CAMPAIGN.

Republicans and Democrats Will Cover Country.

Washington, July 6.—In waging their warfare for control of the next congress, both the Republican and Democratic campaign committees will have headquarters in the East and West, where will be done the work of directing and sending out literature and spellbinders. The Democrats will be active in three places—Washington, Chicago and St. Louis—under the direction of Representative Lloyd of Missouri, the chairman. The Far West and the Southwest will be handled through the St. Louis office, while the interests of the Middle West and the Northwest will be looked after from Chicago.

Representative McKinley of Illinois, the Republican chairman, expects to open headquarters in Chicago and New York.

ARTHUR P. HEINZE TO SERVE JAIL SENTENCE.

New York, July 6.—The United States circuit court of appeals has affirmed the sentence of ten days' imprisonment passed on Arthur P. Heinze after his conviction of June, 1909, on an indictment charging him with mutilation of the books of the United Copper company.

Because of the mutilation of these books, United States District Attorney Wise said he was unable to complete the government's case against F. Augustus Heinze, who was acquitted on charges of violating the national banking laws. He and Arthur P. Heinze are brothers.

TAFT TO BE AT LOCKPORT DURING OLD HOME WEEK.

Lockport, N. Y., July 6.—On Friday, July 29, President Taft, accompanied by the Seventy-fourth regiment of Buffalo, will come to Lockport as the guest of the general committee of the Old Home Week celebration, which will be held during the week of July 24-30. President Taft will deliver an address and a banquet will be tendered the president in the evening. Friday is Buffalo day and thousands of Buffalonians are planning to come. Governor Hughes has not decided as yet whether he will be able to be present.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

At last the rain came and Duluth greeted it joyfully. Last night's shower was the blessing for which people have been praying. The soil eagerly drank in the moisture and the trees and grass look green this morning. The air is clear and fresh and Duluthians feel better for the change. The sky cleared after the shower and this morning dawned fair and bright, with a welcome summer coolness in the air.

Fine weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:20 and it will set at 8:05, giving fifteen hours and forty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance central Tuesday morning over Manitoba has moved its center to the northward of Lake Superior. In the meantime it caused light to copious local showers or thunder storms over Western Ontario, Northern and Western Minnesota and scattered portions of the Dakotas. Somewhat cooler weather prevails in the latter district this morning, as a result of an increase in barometric pressure. The depression central in the Southwest caused a continuance of high temperature there and further showers over the lower Ohio and lower Mississippi valleys, Gulf states, Kansas and Nebraska. The barometer has risen throughout the Far West and Northwest and continues high over Atlantic and East Gulf states."

General Forecasts.

Upper lakes: Moderate to brisk west winds on Superior and moderate south shifting to west on Michigan and Huron; threatening this afternoon and tonight; fair Thursday.

Chicago July 6.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Threatening this afternoon and tonight; cooler tonight: Thursday fair.

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy and cooler tonight; Thursday fair with cooler in east portion.

Minnesota and Iowa—Fair tonight and Thursday; cooler tonight.

North and South Dakota and Montana—Fair tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

HANDS INJURED BY CARTRIDGE

Boy Touches Match to Blank Shell With Serious Results.

Both hands of Roy Carlson of 215 Pittsburg avenue were badly torn yesterday afternoon when a blank cartridge which he had picked up on the street exploded as he held it.

Seeing no lead and thinking that it was empty he put a lighted match to it with dangerous results. He was attended by Dr. Eklund and Dr. McCuen, who hope to be able to save both the boy's hands. His parents had forbidden him to use firecrackers or to play with any kind of explosive.

exception of one railroad commissioner, the fight between Stutsman, the present president of the board, and J. L. Purcell, being unsettled. The vote today, on the counties reported, is 14,277 for Purcell and 14,270 for Stutsman. The Republican ticket nominated follows:

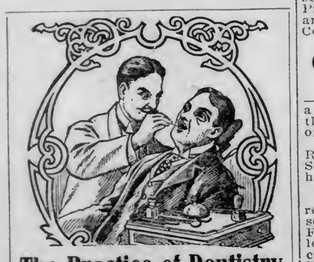

United States senator, P. J. McCumber, stalwart, long term; A. J. Gronna, insurgent, short term.

House of representatives, L. B. Hanna, stalwart; H. T. Helgeson, insurgent.

Governor, C. A. Johnson, stalwart.

Lieutenant governor, U. L. Burdick, insurgent.

DO NOT TEACH BOYS TO MILK

classes was the declaration made by H. L. Terry, state high school inspector of Madison, Wis., before the department of science education.

Denouncing college football as a combination of pure brutality and pugilism that appealed to the love of the sordid, David Starr Jordan, president of Leland-Stanford university, led in the discussion that followed a report made by the committee on moral education in public schools. He added:

"Some day the college presidents and school heads of this country will perhaps be called cowardly and brutal because they did not put a stop to the dangers of football, a sport that destroys the best there is in American youth."

Jordan Berates Football.

The game, he continued, aroused the same love of the world that focused the interest of the country in "a ring way out in far Nevada, where a black man and a white man were pounding each other yesterday.

"No intelligence is required in the game of football," he asserted. "Blacksmiths and boiler makers can play the game as well as men of the finer intellects; in fact, they are considered the best raw material for the game."

President Jordan favored the substitution of the English game of Rugby.

At the second meeting of the general sessions of the association tonight, President James Joyner delivered his annual address. He was followed by Commissioner of Education Brown.

a long time and denied that he headed the party in that state or any wing of it.

"I do not consider Mr. Poindexter a Republican," he continued, "but a rank Socialist, or rather, if he is not one, he will be one soon."

Takes Rap at Newell.

The secretary declined to discuss the reorganization of the reclamation service insofar as it related to Director Frederick H. Newell, whose fate has long been a matter of conjecture, except to say that he considered Mr. Newell's relation to the service as its head a misfortune.

Mr. Ballinger expects to leave Washington within a few days for a Western trip, during which he will visit several Indian reservations and probably some of the reclamation projects. In the meantime he will spend most of his time here in putting into effect the reorganization plan of the reclamation service agreed upon at his conference at the president's home.

Implied by Roosevelt.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 6.—Theodore Roosevlt has made it clear, not by direct statement, but by implication so strong that it admits of no misinterpretation, that he will support Representative Miles Poindexter in his fight for a seat in the United States senate from the state of Washington. They had luncheon together and a conference at Sagamore Hill yesterday, and Mr. Poindexter departed jubilant.

In indorsing Poindexter for the senat, Col. Roosevelt places himself squarely in opposition to Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior, whom President Taft has so warmly defended, and it is the only stand he has taken bearing directly or indirectly on the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

After Piles' Togs.

Mr. Poindexter is opposed to Secretary Ballinger from first to last and hopes to replace Senator Piles of Washington, who seeks another term, and has Secretary Ballinger's support. The secretary and Mr. Poindexter are from the same Seattle district.

Leaving Oyster Bay after the conference, Mr. Poindexter said:

"I found Col. Roosevelt unchanged. He is just the same as ever. He and I worked together always, and he assured me that we always would work together. I am delighted with the result of the visit."

Col. Roosevelt looked happy when he received the interviewers a little later. He was dressed in the crash riding suit which he wears most of the time while he is at home. Seated in his library, he spoke of his talk with Mr. Poindexter in a manner which showed plainly the pleasure which the meeting had given him.

What Roosevelt Said.

This is what he had to say:

"Representative Poindexter and I went over the political situation in the Northwest. He assured me that he was in hearty sympathy with my conservation policy.

"Mr. Poindexter is a candidate for the United States senate and is politically opposed to that wing of the party headed by Mr. Ballinger, the secretary of the interior."

That was all the colonel wanted to have put in quotation marks. What he said otherwise made it quite clear that he had given assurance to Mr. Poindexter that he would support him in his attempt to unseat Senator Piles.

Out-and-out Insurgent.

Miles Poindexter is an out-and-out insurgent whom the people of the state of Washington elected on a radical platform. He has been a firm supporter of Roosevelt policies, especially as related to conservation of natural resources, which was the basis of his platform when he ran for congress. He arrived at Oyster Bay on the noon train and was recognized at once as an insurgent, for he had the same pleased smile that shone on the faces of Senator Bristow and Representatives Murdock and Madison of Kansas when they came here last Saturday.

While the general opinion here is that Mr. Roosevelt is "still feeling his way" as regards his ultimate attitude toward the Taft administration, his new stand is considered the most striking indication of his present frame of mind. That he will still fight hard for the conservation movement which he inaugurated while in office he made plain to interviewers when Mr. Poindexter had gone.

More of Them Coming.

There have been two important "insurgent conferences" at Sagamore Hill since the colonel's return, but more are coming. One of the most potential of these is arranged for Thursday next. On that day five of the best known and mightiest of the insurgents are coming to talk with the ex-president, but Mr. Roosevelt has declined to give out their names.

Governor Hughes is expected here either Thursday night or Friday morning for the long expected conference on New York state politics. He had been expected today. Col. Roosevelt said today, but he telegraphed he would attend the funeral of Chief Justice Fuller at Bar Harbor.

Robert Bacon, ambassador to France, and Gilson Gardner, a magazine writer, were the other guests at luncheon at Sagamore Hill yesterday. Mr. Bacon was a member of the "tennis cabinet" when he was assistant secretary of state during the Roosevelt administration. The colonel and the ambassador fought it out on the tennis court at Sagamore Hill as they used to on the courts of the White House.

Col. Roosevelt left here today for New York in his automobile, accompanied by his son, Kermit, to spend Thursday in his editorial offices.

STORM LEAVES A TRAIL OF HAVOC

it is impossible to say what damage has been done at these and other towns in the storm's route.

Reports received from Breckenridge, Minn.; Grand Forks, N. D.; Sioux Falls, and Brookings, in South Dakota, tell of bad storms and much damage inside the storm belt, but details are lacking. These reports indicate that one or more tornadoes swept through the storm area, and the fact that telephone and telegraph poles are down and wire communication is cut off would indicate damage of a serious nature.

Circus Tent Wrecked.

The report from Watertown says a circus tent was blown down and the stage destroyed by fire. A heavy rain alone prevented a serious blaze.

Rain and Hail.

Crookston, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Breaking a month's drouth, a storm covered a goodly portion of the Red River valley last night, many sections getting a drenching rain while others got only a sprinkle. In Crookston the downfall was light, but southwest of the city several townships received a heavy rain.

West of Angus a heavy rain fell with some damage from hail, the windows of the Osterloop farm house were broken and outbuildings were blown down in that vicinity. Northeast of Euclid the steel granary of the Gerret Smith farm was blown down and in that section a heavy rain fell.

Damage By Hail.

At Thief River a light rain fell, but southwest of that place a heavy wind storm blew down granaries, barns and outbuildings on several farms, and a heavy rain fell. Southwest of Warren a good rain fell also. The showers which were general, cooled things off and immense benefit was done where the rains fell.

Duluth Is Drenched.

From 12:20 to 1:10 o'clock this morning .57 of an inch rain fell in Duluth and its vicinity. The rain was the first in several weeks and the precipitation in this morning's shower was five times greater than during the entire month of June. The rain checked forest fires which threatened Port Wing, Wis., and brush fires in Northern Wisconsin. The rain was general in Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin. Port Arthur reported a light shower and a heavy rain fell at Ashland. The precipitation did not extend as far south as the Twin Cities.

The rain was heavy while it lasted and did not do as much good as might have resulted from a slow soaking rain. The moisture was thankfully received by the farmers in this neighborhood, however, who were not particular how it came. Much of the hay crop in the lowlands will get a respite and some of the hay on the uplands may be saved. The fate of the latter depends on future weather. The rain probably saved many pastures, snatched many gardens from failure and gave crops in this region another chance.

Worth Thousands of Dollars.

The rain was worth many thousands of dollars to Duluth and its vicinity.

The heaviest rain in June was June 15, when .04 of an inch fell. The next heaviest precipitation was June 26, when .03 of an inch fell. The total precipitation for June was .11 of an inch, showing a deficiency of 4.20 inches from normal. The rain last night was about five times as heavy as the precipitation that Duluth got during June.

Port Wing men fought brush fires all day yesterday and at night it did not seem possible to prevent the ignition of some of the city's buildings. The wind changed in the evening which helped the situation slightly. When rain began to fall soon after midnight the fighters returned to town and slept the first undisturbed sleep in several days. Several settlers near Bayfield are reported to have lost their homes and belongings.

There were very few brush fires in Northeastern Minnesota and the benefits of the rain will lie mostly in the recovery of the hay crop, gardens, growing vegetables and fodder grains in this region. Along the international border east of Fort Frances, Ont., there have been widespread brush fires which, however, have not caused excessive damage. Reports of damage from that neighborhood have been greatly exaggerated by cruisers and others returning from that locality.

Good for Fishing.

The angler has a pleased look today. He knows that the rain will "make fishing good." It will bring the mosquitoes too, although that is a minor detail with the ardent fisherman.

A low barometric pressure is current over this region and it is possible that it may hold in store some more rain for this locality. There is sufficient uncertainty about it, however, to make it a good sporting proposition.

Better Fire Conditions.

Cloquet, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A very hard rain at midnight last night, which lasted about an hour, has broken the long season of dry weather and bettered local conditions considerably as far as fires are concerned.

Rain About Cumberland.

Cumberland, Wis., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A good shower of rain fell here last night, benefiting growing crops. Tame hay has been cut and yielded about one-half ton to the acre, with the prospects good for a fair second crop. Rye and barley will be a normal yield; oats and wheat are heading out well; corn and vegetables promise a good crop.

Iowa Crops Benefited.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 6.—Drought was broken in this section last night by a heavy fall of rain which will be of great benefit to crops.

Cloquet Woman Buried.

Cloquet, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. Virginia Bardeu occurred this morning at 9 o'clock at the Catholic church. Mrs. Bardeu died the morning of the Fourth at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Caza. She was 66 years old and an old resident of Cloquet.

(BY BRUCE.)

Yesterday's championship game—for the cellar championship of the league—was annexed by the small band from Red Wing, in the parlance of the turf, the Indians winning pulled up, the score being 6 to 1 in favor of the visitors at the end of over two hours of weary battling.

Mr. Schmirler was not feeing well and his work in the box reflected the condition. He was found for twelve healthy hits, two of this dozen being husky ones that cleared the left field paling.

We had several chances to score, in the second, third, fourth, sixth and eighth—and we refused to take advantage of these opportunities. Fat Mr. Wolford was tight when hits would be cashed in at the plate, and the Sox were not over enthusiastic with the wallop club. As a result of the combination of unhappy circumstances, the locals remain in the cellar and the first game is boldly taken by the visitors.

The visitors scored in the third when Wolford was safe at first on Holstrom's error. He was sacrificed to second by P. L. Malloy and went to third when Thomas singled over second and scored. Schaefer struck Forest Thomas at second. Anderson to O'Brien.

In the fifth the second score rolled in. Malloy opened the round by singling over short, his second hit of the matinee. Thomas sacrificed the country leader, Migue going to third on Black's retirement at the bag. Demmer hit over second and the P. L. Trotted "hum."

Three large-as-life tallies were bitterly dropped into our cup of woe in the seventh inning. Malloy drew a base on balls, and as in the fifth inning, Thomas again laid down his life for the advancement of the manager, the same occurring after Migue had deftly stolen second. The P. L. scored on Black's single, the third baseman going to second on a wild pitch to get him off first. Mr. Demmer hit the horse hide over the right field paling and sent Mr. Black in ahead of him.

The last sad run of the visitors came in the ninth, when Mr. Demmer, mindful of the fact that each player hitting the ball over the fence receives a large consignment of smoking tobacco, again batted one hard and to the point, the ball striking on the ground near the right field fence and bouncing over.

Our lonely and somewhat forlorn orphan run came in the fifth inning and was the product or the result of a mighty swat from the bat of P. H. O'Brien and an error upon the part of Shortstop Gorman.

In this round Mr. Schmirler was safe when Gorman fuzzled his hit down into the territory between second and third. Messrs. Anderson and Taylor proceeded to strike out. Here the orator hit one against the left field fence for two bases, scoring Schmirler. Altermott became afflicted with the unsightly habit of striking at the shooting spheroid where it was not, and the inning ended.

There was nothing exciting or exhilirating about the game. Schmirler did not have very much and the Sox could not hit Wolford. There you have it.

The strife for the lowest rung of the ladder will be continued this afternoon. A new catcher promises to be on hand, and in this event Helding will be tried at the third corner of the diamond. It is also expected that a pitcher and outfielder will be on hand.

Full details of our rude push at the hands of the enemy will be given below:

GOES TWENTY-THREE INNINGS TO A TIE.

San Antonio, Tex., July 6.—Waco and San Antonio of the Texas league, played through four and a half hours for twenty-three innings yesterday afternoon to a tie, 1 to 1, a record for the league and one of the longest games played in the South. Ables of San Antonio and Loudell of Waco were the opposing pitchers, the former striking out seventeen and allowing sixteen hits, while Loudell struck out eleven and allowed fifteen hits.

FRANK FARRELL'S NEW BOAT REACHES CITY.

Frank Farrell's new 38-foot sail boat, the only one of that length at the Head of the Lakes, has reached Duluth and will be in the water the present week.

While there is no other boat to give the new boat a test of speed, it is believed that the coming of the Farrell boat will result in the creation of a new class of sail boats here.

The Inland Lakes Yachting association has a class of 38-foot boats, and this summer the new addition to the fleet of the Duluth Boat club will be sent to the regatta.

This evening the 38-foot boats will have their race for the Duluth Boat club burgee.

NEW YORK CATCHERS ARE MAINSTAYS OF PENNANT CHASING HIGHLANDERS

CRIGER AND SWEENEY OF NEW YORK AMERICANS.

If the New York Americans win the pennant this season a good deal of credit should go to the catching department. Now that it is almost certain that the veteran Lou Criger will be back in the game soon, the chances look bright for the Yankees. Sweeney has been doing most of the work behind the bat and has been doing it well. But Criger is a very valuable asset to any team. He knows the game thoroughly and is a good man with young pitchers. He can handle Quinn to perfection.

FROM THE PRESS BOX

This Umpire Arundel yesterday made some decisions that were weird and far from being correct. Not that the decisions had any ultimate bearing on the result of the game—just to show that Mr. Arundel needs to have his wicks trimmed thoroughly and soon.

In the seventh Malloy was thrown out upon an attempted steal of second by at least two feet. His royal highness called the runner safe. His rulings against the Sox on several other decisions would be evidence against him in the probate court.

The appearance yesterday was the first of Mr. Arundel. Can it be suggested here, gently, if firmly, that if the work yesterday is a fair criterion of his ability, that it be his last appearance on the local grounds.

Young M. Demmer is twenty pounds of smoking tobacco richer than when he entered the game yesterday. His two home runs netted him sufficient nerve narcotic to supply all the Indians on the team. There are only twelve, by the way. And by the way, that second home run was lucky; it simply bounded gayly over the fence.

• • •

Andy Lyons, a Red Wing newspaper man who is with the team, states that the Red Wing management has protested the last six games the team has played. It seems, according to his statement, that President Elliott ordered the Red Wing team to cut down and has paid no attention to the other teams of the league. On the ground that the other teams are carrying too many men and are above the salary limit, the protest of the Red Wing officials is based.

• • •

It is claimed that Winona is carrying seventeen men. Whether this statement is true or not, cannot be stated here without further investigation. It does not seem odd that Elliott should order the cutting down of the Red Wing team and allow Winona to carry as many players as it is claimed.

The salary bugaboo has created very little discussion the present season. Several of the teams are over the limit, but then the limit is so low in this league that any team that is fast will necessarily be over the limit.

In towns like Winona and Eau Claire they have liberal subscriptions to the fund that supports the team, and out of this fund they dig deep for players. Therefore these two teams are liable to be over the salary limit.

Who cares, though?

The Indians have made some changes since their earlier visit here. H. Gregory has been let go and Gritz is no longer with the team. Gorman has taken the place of the latter. The team looks better than when it was here on its first trip to the Head of the Lakes. Malloy is playing second base and got away fairly well yesterday. At that the place of the L. L. —loud leader—is in the outfield.

• • •

Mr. Holstrom was evidently deeply affected by the result of the Jeffries-Johnson catastrophe. Yesterday he made two inexcusable errors, which leads one to suspect that his mind was in far Reno, sadly speculating on the tide that comes into the affairs of all men.

• • •

The eight hits gathered by the Sox off the delivery of fat Mr. Wolford were scattered and could be put to little use. Looking over the score book it will be found that only two hits came in succession. This happened the sixth, Vasbinder doubling and Holstrom following with a single. With two on and nobody gone the Sox failed to score.

• • •

It so happened that three times during the afternoon Johnson came to bat when there were men ahead and a hit would have caused a run. The first time Dunn was put on an infield hit. The second time he got on through a fielder's choice, Vasbinder being caught at the plate. The third time he flew to left. As a timely hitter young Mr. Johnson has not proved a howling success.

• • •

Yesterday Col. Theodore Roosevelt Altermott pinched off two hits. His first was a single and his second a double. The coachers instructed the Col. to try for third on the hit, and he was caught at the third corner. T. R. was very worthy, don't you know, as the hit would have meant a run. Helding hit a screaming single in the same round.

WAS READY TO TAKE TEX RICKARD'S PLACE

CHARLIE WHITE.

Charley White, the well known prize fight referee of New York, was to have acted as referee of the Jeffries-Johnson fight if anything happened to Tex Rickard.

DIDN'T KNOW RESULT.

Last evening there was a big crowd of people on the aerial bridge, waiting the passage of several big boats.

As one of the big boats was opposite the bridge, a man ran excitedly to the side of the vessel and yelled, using his hands as a megaphone:

"Who won the fight?"

"Johnson," yelled a man on the bridge.

"Oh, h—l" came the answer of the man.

JEFFRIES LEAVES RENO

Beaten Fighter Goes Back to His Ranch in California.

Johnson Is on Triumphal Tour From Nevada to Chicago.

Reno, Nev., July 6.—James J. Jeffries, whose great ring career came to a pitiful end when he fell before Champion Jack Johnson here in the arena Monday, left the scene of his defeat at 7:30 o'clock last night. He is headed toward his alfalfa ranch, in Southern California, and there, in the quiet of his fields, surrounded by the hills he loves, he will try to forget. In the meantime he will spend a few days in San Francisco, straightening out his business affairs.

The Jeffries car was hitched to the regular evening train. He motored into the city from his camp at Moana Springs, with Berger and other members of his party, an hour before train time, and hid himself as soon as possible from the curious gaze of the crowd that still thronged the streets of the world's fight capital.

In his every stumbling movement, in his bowed head, in the depths of his somber eyes, in his nervous rubbing of his swollen face and blackened eyes, in his almost timid shrinking from the public, the great Jeffries showed that his defeat had dealt him a vital blow, and that he never again would be the man that he was a few hours ago.

There was silence as he passed through the streets. Men rushed forth from the gambling tables to gaze, but no word of taunt or derision was thrown at him. Those who saw that fight, and that includes nearly everybody in Reno, know that Jeffries did his best.

The train was lost in the red glow that the sun shed over the Sierras. Jeffries was gone into history. In the other direction, somewhere in the desert to the east a hilarious band of negroes was journeying with the banner of the world's champion floating from the car window.

Many Lose All.

An determined effort was made by the losers in the fight betting to recoup their losses and at last accounts there were many who will have to wire home for money. The financial condition of hundreds, hit by the fight and the games, is desperate.

The betting at Tom Corbett's official pool room was not as heavy as had been expected Corbett, however, declared himself satisfied. The lack of Johnson money was a surprise. The largest individual loss on record in the pool room was that suffered by Clarence Berry, the California oil operator. He bet $35,000 on Jeffries.

Among the sporting men left here, there is not a dissenting opinion as to the justice of the fight's end. Many have nothing but their return tickets to show for their judgment on the outcome, but that Jeffries ever had a chance with the wonderful negro, no man can be found now who is willing to admit. Johnson's repartee, his coolness in the ring, the terrible power of his punches, his marvelous judgment of distance and his almost uncanny quickness and boxing skill, is the talk of the town.

A New Yorker who came out to see the fight, was taken ill and operated upon while the fight was going on. When he came to his senses, his first words were: "Who won?"

He was not told until yesterday and when he heard the name of Johnson he turned over with his face to the wall and groaned.

This expresses the general sentiment fairly well.

Johnson Is Hooted.

Ogden, Utah, July 6.—Jack Johnson was greeted by a crowd of 5,000 people when the train to which his private car was attached pulled into Ogden. Johnson appeared upon the platform and in response to desultory cheering, said: "Well, people, I turned the trick and I'm going back to Chicago to my old mammy."

After shaking hands with a few colored friends, Johnson returned to the car and seated himself next to an open window beside his wife. Three burly young toughs walked up to the window and, applying a vile epithet to Johnson in the presence of his wife, dared him to come to the platform. Johnson started to his feet, but one of his companions drew him down again. The young toughs rushed to the rear platform where one of them was met with a kick from the foot of one of Johnson's trainers and a mouthful of tobacco juice in his eyes. Officers forced the crowd back.

Several threats of shooting were made by the rough crowd that had gathered about the car.

Heavy Telegraph Business.

New York, July 6.—Officers of both the Western Union and Postal telegraph companies said last night that the sending of fight news out of Reno Monday broke all telegraph records for a single day's work. More than 800,000 words were sent, at an average cost of 9 cents a word. The space given by seven New York newspapers was 121¼ coloumns, and it is estimated that the papers in this city alone paid $6,000 in telegraph tolls.

Rickard Made Money.

Reno, Nev., July 6.—Tex Rickard gave out last night an official statement of receipts and attendance at the big fight. It shows that the total receipts reported the enormous sum of $270,775. Those that paid admission number 15,760.

In addition to those who paid to see the fight, Rickard says there were 760 complimentary tickets given to the press and others. He estimates the number that slipped in at various places around the arena, breaking in the holes in the boarding or climbing up to the rim of the big structure at 1,500. All told the attendance is given as 18,020.

There were sold 1,258 seats at $50; 150 at $40; 634 at $20; 1,905 at $25, 1,475 at $20; 1,706 at $15 and 9,050 at $10.

The purse with the bonuses given the two fighters amounted to $121,000 and Rickard figured that his expenses at San Francisco cost him about $30,000. Thus he and his partner, Gleason, will have a profit of about $120,000.

Johnson May Retire.

Chicago, July 6.—Mrs. Tiny Johnson, mother of Jack Johnson, announced here that the champion pugilist would immediately retire from the ring.

"Arthur told me positively that he'd whip Jeffries," said Mrs. Johnson, "remove all the possibility of the slightest dispute as to his right to the title and then quit fighting. He promised me this on his last night in Chicago before he went to California to begin training. He said positively he would quit and I expect he will."

PICTURES TO BE BARRED

Authorities Will Prevent Reproduction of the Jeffries-Johnson Battle.

Mayor of Some Cities Say Race Hatred Would Be Aroused.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 6.—Mayor Alexander sent a message to the legislation committee of the city council yesterday urging an ordinance designed to prevent boxing bouts of every description.

"It may be all right to permit amateur boxing contests in athletic clubs where no admission fee is charged," says the message, "but prize fighting as a business must be stopped."

The legislation committee will meet today to consider an anti-fight measure that will stop the four, six and ten-round affairs now permitted here.

There is an ordinance already in force prohibiting the exhibition of moving pictures, which in the opinion of the authorities are subversive of morals or harmful to the young, and City Prosecutor Eddy said he would invoke this law if necessary to prevent the reproduction of the Reno battle on the screens of the moving picture houses in Los Angeles.

Detroit, Mich., July 6.—Mayor Breitmeyer announced that he would hold a conference with Police Commissioner Croul to decide what action shall be taken regarding the showing of the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures in this city.

"If we decide that the pictures would tend to incite race hatred," said the mayor, "we shall certainly exclude them from the city of Detroit."

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 6.—Mayor Schwab said today he would not allow the Johnson-Jeffries fight pictures to be shown in this city. The mayor declared the pictures would promote race hatred.

St. Louis, July 6.—President Matt G. Reynolds of the St. Louis police board, announced today that he will take action to prevent the exhibition of the Johnson-Jeffries moving pictures in this city.

Atlanta, Ga., July 6.—The Jeffries-Johnson prize fight pictures will be barred from Atlanta. This announcement was made today by Mayor Maddox. An ordinance prohibiting the presentation of moving pictures of prize fights will be introduced in the city council and is expected to have little opposition.

Austin, Tex., July 6.—Among the first propositions Governor Campbell will submit to the Texas legislature when it convenes in special session July 15 will be a law prohibiting the exhibition of moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno. The governor fears such exhibitions would stir up racial feeling and result in bloodshed.

Baltimore, Md., July 6.—Backed by the authority of the board of police commissioners, Marshal Farnan will request Mayor Mahool to prohibit the proposed exhibition in Baltimore of the moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight. The mayor says that with formal complaint before him he will stop the pictures.

Action by the police commissioners was taken following the submission by Marshal Farnan of reports showing the widespread rioting all over the country, including Baltimore, and the frequent clashes between whites and blacks.

Fort Worth, Tex., July 6.—In response to the request of Mayor Davis, the city commission has passed an ordinance prohibiting the exhibition of pictures of the Johnson-Jeffries fight in this city.

FALLS DOWN MINE SHAFT

Dan Hart Falls Seventy-Five Feet to Death in Miller Mine.

First Fatality in Seven Years of Operation of Aurora Property.

Aurora, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dan Hart was killed yesterday afternoon at the Miller mine by falling to the bottom of a timber shaft and breaking his neck.

Hart was helping to load timber into the shaft and lower it into the mine. Just how he happened to fall is not known but it is thought that his glove became caught in the timber as he had on a pair of gloves when found. He fell a distance of seventy-five feet.

Hart is the first man to be killed at the Miller mine. It is seven years since the mine was started.

FIRE THREATENS MINE LOCATION

Hard Work By Aurora Fire Department Prevents Big Fire Loss.

Aurora, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Meadow mine location was threatened with fire yesterday afternoon and probably would have been destroyed if it had not been for the work of the Aurora fire department and the men at the mine. The fire started several hundred feet south of the location in the brush and traveled rapidly toward the east end of the location. The whole afternoon was spent in extinguishing the flames.

SPRUCE MINER IS DEAD OF INJURIES

Crushed Under Dip of Steam Shovel at Stockpile, Dying Later.

Eveleth, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eock Halush, an Austrian miner, single, 23 years old, who was badly crushed yesterday when a steam shovel dip fell on him at the Spruce No. 4 steck pile, died this morning at the More hospital. The funeral will be held tomorrow from the Holy Family church, with interment at Virginia. Balazs Crikos, his partner, had his foot amputated.

THE ACCUSER IS HIMSELF ACCUSED

Hibbing Man Who Made Complaint Against Two Men Is Charged With Blindpigging.

Hibbing, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The aftermath of the Fourth celebration came yesterday in police court when several who had fallen by the way were arraigned. William Rankla and George Baumer of the Penoogsett Hill were charged with assault and battery and disorderly conduct. They were found guilty as charged and fined $55.25. Carlo Pecina, who appeared against Rankle and Baumer was in turn charged by the defendants with running a blind pig. Officer Booth brought in Pecina and he furnished bail in the sum of $100 to appear for trial Friday morning.

John Mativich and Ed. Stumer were arrested while drunk on the streets and were each fined respectively $8.75 and $13.75. Policeman Albert Brelder was asked to arrest Anton Mohawk, charged with insulting a woman on the street. Mohawk was fined $29.50. Guisippa Furlanni, who runs a boarding house at the Leetonia mine location, returned home Monday evening and petieing a man sitting on his step, deliberately took a bar of steel and hitting him over the back of the head and inflicting a deep gash, he then struck him again on the forehead before interference came. The man is now at the hospital suffering greatly from his wounds, while Furlanni was immediately brought to the Hibbing jail, where he will have a hearing Wednesday morning as to his sanity. There seems but little doubt in the minds of the local authorities that Furlanni is insane and will no doubt be taken to Duluth.

CHISHOLM MAN WIELDS KNIFE

Fred Susnik, Alleged to Have Assaulted Another, Held to Grand Jury.

Chisholm, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Susnik has been held to the grand jury on the charge of making an assault upon Frank Huten with a long knife. It is alleged that Susnik laid in wait in front of a saloon and jumped at Huten as the latter was coming out of the saloon and lunged at him with the knife, striking Huten in the left shoulder and inflicting an ugly gash that required thirteen stitches to close. Susnik made several other lunges at Huten but missed. He then turned upon Office: Clements who ran up to arrest him and tried to stab the officer, who knocked him down with his billy and succeeded in landing him in jail.

Joseph Mikaletti was given a fine of $25 and costs for shooting a revolver yesterday in the village limits.

EVELETH ORDERS MANY NEW WALKS

Large Amount of Cement Walks Will Supercede Wooden Ones.

Eveleth, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large number of sidewalks were condemned by the council last night so that cement walks may be built. The engineer's estimate of $11,715 as the cost of putting in some sewers in the recently added district near the ball park was accepted. An estimate was also accepted on the cost of installing 3,330 feet of pipe which will extend from the pumping station in toward the city and will do away with the necessity of passing through the swamp.

The application of Mangus Carison for a renewal of his liquor license was refused on the ground that Carlson has been convicted of law violation. For the same reason the transfer of liquor license from Rani and Accleterro to Joseph Rani was refused.

Superintendent of Water Works Pestrel submitted his report for the quarter ending July 1 and it showed a total expenditure of $2,230.63 and a total of receipts of $4,586, a net gain for the three months of $2,355.37.

The City's Finances.

City Clerk D. P. McIntyre's report for the first six months showed a total of disbursements of $35,188.61 with receipts of $31,945.95. The balance in the treasurer's hands at the present time is $5,2,604.16.

On suggestion of Alderman Saari the president appointed the council as a whole to act as a committee to look over the city with the view of redistricting it into new wards on account of the additional population and territory recently added.

The water works committee reported unfavorably on the question of erecting a new pumping station and putting in some new 12-inch pipe. The council is in favor of having a 16-inch pipe from the pumping station.

On the advice of the health department a wire woven fence 1,000 feet long was ordered to be built by the water works department at St. Mary's lake to keep out cattle.

The question of securing a health officer for the schools and the city, after considerable discussion was referred to the city attorney.

HIBBING BUILDING CONTRACT AWARDED.

Hibbing, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. A. Kilander from this city was awarded the contract for the new Reed-Pearce block for $13,325. The building will have a fifty-foot front and will be of brick two stories high. The approach for the new fire hall being put in by the Johnson-Moynihan company will be finished Wednesday and the building will then be ready for occupancy. The curb and gutter which is being installed by the same company is being pushed rapidly and but few streets remain unfinished.

Mrs. McKenzie Interred in Chicago and Farr at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Mrs. John McKenzie who was drowned Monday in a little lake near Bengal about fifteen miles west of Hibbing, was taken to Chicago Tuesday for interment. Mrs. McKenzie was about 24 years old and leaves her husband and two sisters and a brother in Hibbing, and a sister and her parents in Chicago. The funeral of W. H. Farr, a brother-in-law of Mrs. McKenzie, who was also drowned at the same time, will be held here today. Mr. Farr leaves a wife and two children. Farr came from Saskatchewan last spring to enter into the house moving business with D. McKenzie.

UNKNOWN FOUND DEAD.

Decomposed Body of Man Is Found Near Buhl.

Chisholm, Minn., July 6.—(Specil to The Herald.)—The badly decomposed body of a man abou; 45 years of age was found on Saturday three and one-half miles south of Buhl. There was no means of identifying him other than on his person was found a brass check belonging to the Drake & Stratton Stripping company, a pair of glasses, a lead pencil, and a two-foot rule.

The body was taken care of by A. Parkhurst, undertaker for T. P. Cory, and Mr. Parkhurst acting under orders from the coroner, buried the body on the spot.

John Doherty, a saloon keeper and lumber contractor from Buhl thinks him to be a man when he last spring had hired and sent out to his camp. The body was found near a cluster of trees between Doherty's and Runquist's camp.

All efforts to locate relatives of the dead man have been without avail. It is thought that the man must have been dead over two months. By his dress he is supposed to have been a lumberjack, and presumably died from the effects of too much liquor.

NEW ARRIVAL FROM FINLAND PASSES AWAY.

Buhl, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anton Watila, 18 years of age, and just twelve days from Finland, died here the latter part of last week from typhoid fever. As Anton's parents are in Finland, his relatives here seemed not to take any responsibility for his burial, with the result that on Sunday morning he was buried at the county's expense.

SMOKE HAMPERED CHISHOLM'S DISPLAY.

Chisholm, Minn., July 6.—Special to The Herald.)—The fireworks display Monday night was not attractive as it otherwise might have been were it not that the air was thick with smoke blown into town from the forest fires that are raging in the woods surrounding the village. And because everything in the vicinity is as dry as a cinder, it was thought best to shoot off the fireworks from the island in Lake Longyear instead of from the middle of the bridge as was done last Fourth. As the island is full half a mile from town, this distance together with the smoky sky made against the brilliancy and beauty of the evening's fireworks.

TWO HARBORS TAG DAY GREAT SUCCESS.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The tag day work of the Lake County Tuberculosis society netted over $200 for the work. Everybody responded and the result is evident.

JUDGE PRINCE LENIENT WITH FOURTH CELEBRANT.

Eveleth, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The municipal court had a number of offenders up yesterday, all of whom had been celebrating too freely on the Fourth. Judge Prince, however, reasoned that the men before him were just taking a means of celebrating so that all the drunks, disorderly conducts and those for discharging blank cartridges were let off on payment of costs, which in each case amounted to $2.50.

Cloquet Priest at Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Father Simons of the Cloquet Indian reservation was here yesterday visiting Father Bilban of the Holy Family church. He left late in the day for Virginia and then Duluth. From there he will make a trip to Grand Marais to visit the mission school.

CORNUCOPIA FIRES DEFY RAIN—BOAT CARRIES REFUGEES

and all were sick at heart with fear for those they had left behind. The thirty-five occupied all the space available on the little boat, and another trip must be made to bring the remainder of the inhabitants to safety.

Fate of Town Unknown.

What is transpiring in Cornucopia today nobody knows. Before the rain fell last night a high wind sprang up that whipped the flames into a conflagration. In this the telephone and telegraph poles were burned like shavings; the woods blazed up like huge bunches of mammoth torches, and the possibility of the town's escaping immediate destruction seemed out of the question.

Then came the rain, and while it served to check the flames for a few hours, its passing left wire communications entirely gone, and the roads through the woods so choked with smoke that passage by that way is impossible.

Today there is no access to Cornucopia except by water, and it is a five-hour trip between there and Bayfield, the nearest point. In the meantime what is going on in the town itself cannot be learned. It is known only that the place is completely encircled by fire, and that the flames are steadily creeping nearer. A high wind without more heavy rain would mean the immediate destruction of the place, and the probable loss of the lives of many of the people yet remaining there.

ROCKEFELLERS ARRIVE AT CLEVELAND HOME.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 6.—John D. Rockefeller, accompanied by Mrs. Rockefeller and a retinue of servants, arrived here today to spend the summer at Forest Hill, his home in East Cleveland. The big estate has been in readiness for several weeks, but Mr. Rockefeller's arrival was delayed by the illness of Mrs. Rockefeller. She is said to be greatly improved.

EXTENSION FROM RANGE

Canadian Northern Lets Contract for Line From Virginia.

Trains Expected to Run Over New Tracks Next Year.

A contract involving an expenditure of approximately $2,500,000 was awarded in Toronto yesterday for the extension of the Canadian Northern railroad from Virginia to Duluth, a distance of about seventy-five miles. Foley, Welch & Stewart of St. Paul were the successful bidders.

The right-of-way for the entire distance has been secured and the contractors will be able to begin construction work very soon. The contract is to be completed in a year and it is expected that early in the fall of 1911, the Canadian Northern will run trains into Duluth over its own tracks.

The extension will give the Canadian Northern a through line between Duluth and Winnipeg, with excellent connections with Chicago here and the great Canadian Northwest as its terminus. Sites have already been secured for terminals and docks here. The Canadian Northern expects to ship a great volume of Canadian grain from Duluth and it will also enter actively into the ore carrying trade, a site for an ore dock having been secured at Forty-ninth avenue west.

KOREANS OPPOSE UNION WITH JAPAN

Send Cablegrams to Both Emperors From San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., July 6.—At a meeting in this city last night of the Korean National association, resolutions denouncing the annexation of Korea by Japan were ratified and money was raised to send a cabled protest to the emperors of Japan and Korea. The association, which has its headquarters in this city, has been very active in the revolutionary propaganda which seeks to free Korea from Japanese influence. The following cable was sent to the emperor of Japan:

"To the Illustrious Emperor of Japan —We, natives of Korea, in the name of humanity and liberty, beg your majesty not to annex our beloved country to Japan. It means the degradation of our people and will be followed by hatred and vengeance.

"We implore your majesty to remember the solemn pledge given by Japan to respect the independence of Korea. This pledge was given to the world, and the great nations have a right to expect that it shall be kept in good faith.

"KOREAN NATIONAL ASSOCIATION,
"President and All Members."

"Up to" the Emperor.

The cable to the emperor of Korea was as follows:

"To the Illustrious Emperor of Korea—It is reported that there has been made a step further to annex Korea to Japan. In terror we most humbly implore your majesty not to concede to the proposed annexation, for it will be dangerous to the present dynasty and bring slavery and misery upon all your subjects. It is up to your majesty to mediate for the outcome of affairs.

"KOREAN NATIONAL ASSOCIATION,
"President and All Members."

J. Slechta of Rio Janeiro.

New Orleans, La., July 6.—A crisis is approaching in the threatening of the New Orleans street car conductors and motormen to strike. FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS

Reward To You If You Can Prove That a Single Word Uttered By the Electric-Radio Institute Is False

ONLY FOUR DAYS REMAIN FOR FREE EXAMINATIONS

There has been much talk by jealous-hearted and ignorant people about the wonderful results accomplished at this institution. This company is incorporated, and has a million dollars at their disposal to invest in any new cure of merit. The people now are beginning to realize the curative power of radium and the electric-radio forces. This curious substance has been the subject of a great deal of experimentation at the Rockefeller institute for research work. It has been found to be an ideal treatment for strictures in any part of the body, or a blood clot on the brain, which is the cause of so many cases of paralysis, epilepsy, apoplexy, St. Vitus' dance and many nervous afflictions, for these diseases it is unexcelled. The hand of progress is reaching out toward you if you suffer. It will not reach out and draw you from the swamp of sickness and suffering without your willingness and co-operation. You must meet it half way. You must place yourself in a position where it can clasp you in its rescuing grasp and lift you back to success and happiness. The Electric Radio Institute holds forth its hand, a hand that will help you though one thousand others failed. While the many sufferers who go to them do it as a last resort, the Institute is in no sense a straw for the drowning to clutch at, rather it is the life boat ready and willing to heave to at every signal of distress, your part is to give that signal. The great work these people are doing deserves the success which has been theirs since they began. Never before in the history of the city has there been such sensational cures made in so short a time. The combined efforts of a thousand brains are housed in this institution. The fruit of thirty years' study of the electric current as a cure for disease, represented by the most marvelous apparatus is in constant use there. Hundreds of sufferers being treated by this marvelous Electric Radio are daily feeling their pains and aches grow less. Hundreds of one-time patients no longer sufferers are daily thanking the Providence that sent them there.

If you suffer with piles or stricture in any part of the body they will wipe out your disorder like cobwebs, without an operation. Catarrh, deafness, and paralysis, skin, stomach, liver and kidney diseases, nervous disorders peculiar to women and those about to undergo an operation for gall stones or female troubles. Are you blindly ignoring plain facts? Are you going to allow yourself to sink in a helpless condition, to be a burden upon your relatives and friends? If ancient remedies and old fogy practice have succeeded with you, then you need look no further, if not you should and must have faith in what science has done and is doing for others. Surely you are not going to permit people to be cured all around you and brought back to health and happiness without making an effort. You who are already taking treatment are not positive that you are being treated for just what is wrong. Do you realize that many varied conditions can make a perfectly sound heart flutter and misbehave? Do you know that the liver, the kidneys and the stomach can all cause pain and yet be absolutely sound and normal themselves? It may be trouble with entirely different organs than the ones seemingly affected that is the real reason for the effects felt in the healthy parts. A diagnosis is almost nine-tenths of a cure. By means of the diagraphescope the institute can correctly diagnose without removing a garment. You are placed before it, the radio current is brought to bear and instantly each minute bone, the heart in action, the rise and fall of the diaphragm and every organ of the body becomes visible. Your disease once truly found. The treatment is a simple but no less wonderful matter. You are flooded with this current, which is poured into your body through ingenious tubes of glass. It is painless but so powerful that diseased condition and harmful germs cannot exist before it. The Electric Radio bathes you in concentrated violet rays. You inhale the very essence of ozone from a tube held before your nostrils in addition to the permeating Electric Radio treatment, thus forming an irresistible combination that is bound to triumph. The examination continues to be free only this week, after that it is to be $5. Every testimonial used is voluntarily and gladly given. Mrs. Mary Robbins of 324 Beale avenue, says: "I have suffered for years and been treated for what the physicians call Bright's disease. I had that constant pain in the small of my back, headaches and a run-down constitution to such an extent that sometimes I felt as though I would die. Hearing about so many good results being attained at the Electro Radio Institute I began treating just three weeks ago, with the wonderful result that I am now able to enjoy the blessings of good health. I advise any woman who is suffering as I did to at least go and have a free examination with these doctors at once, as they will, no doubt, find great relief."

The offices of the institute, suite 810 Alworth building. The hours are 9 to 12, 2 to 4 and 7 to 8.

This company wishes to announce to the public that those cases of cancer and tuberculosis which they have refused to treat may return and begin expert treatment as a great cure has recently been purchased at an enormous expense and now ready to be administered in some cases under a guarantee. Those cases accepted will be cured to stay cured or a forfeit of $500 will be made.

FIND GOLD AND SILVER

Vermilion Range May Prove to Have Something Besides Iron.

Samples Show Rich Values in More Precious Metals.

A special dispatch to The Herald from Tower, Minn., today said that the North American Mining company has shipped consignments of rock to smelters at Omaha and Denver. The rock contains gold and silver ore and enough copper to pay the expenses of mining and smelting, it is believed.

An outcropping of rock through which the Duluth & Iron Range excavated a cut for its track has shown values of from $15 to $16 in gold per ton, smelter returns, and some copper. It is believed that the copper is in sufficiently large quantities to pay for mining and smelter charges. Three drills have penetrated the rock formation which runs across the property the entire distance of 2,640 feet. Assays show values averaging $38 a ton, gold. Some were as high as $82. About 200 assays were taken from the formation which is about 600 feet wide.

The concrete shaft of the North American has reached a depth of forty-five feet and is being put down at the rate of about five feet a day. The body of iron ore to which the shaft is being sunk is ninety-four feet from the surface. It is the intention of the company to develop this ore body as rapidly as possible. The company believes that it will be able to mine the rock containing gold, silver and copper values from the same shaft. A drill has been started at an angle of 60 degs and it will be put down into the rock formation several hundred feet further than the three drills which reached depths of from 300 to 325 feet.

The rock carrying the gold, silver and copper values runs from twenty to sixty feet below the surface. When it gets below the water line it becomes decomposed and the company believes that it may be mined with steam shovels although the developments have not reached an operating stage and the extent and nature of the formation will be shown up before development commences, the company's energies being mainly directed toward making the mine a consistent producer of iro nore. At depth the rock hardens and the new drill will determine the nature of the formation at depth.

Some of the rock carrying the precious metals has been used for foundations of the power house and for foundations of a building erected by the Duluth & Iron Range company. It was not known that the rock contained values which have since been discovered.

GOVERNMENT WINS THE BLEACHED FLOUR CASE

Jury at Kansas City Returns Verdict for Prosecution.

Says Flour Seized Was Adulterated and Misbranded.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—The jury in the bleached flour case this afternoon returned a verdict that the flour seized was adulterated and misbranded, as charged by the government.

The government charged that the flour seized was inferior to flour made from first quality hard wheat and that the Alsop bleaching process gave it the appearance of flour made from such wheat.

It was charged that the flour was misbranded in that it was labelled as a fancy patent flour, when it was not a patent flour.

Judge McPherson said in his charge that the defendants in their answer admit that the flour was bleached by the Alsop process, but deny that it was adulterated or misbranded. Continuing, Judge McPherson said:

"I charge you that if the treatment of the flour by the Alsop process resulted in any change in the capacity, of the flour to change and improve as it would by natural process, that your finding must be for the government or that the flour was adulterated.

"I charge you that if you find that the elasticity of the gluten is lessened or that the bread-making quality of the flour is impaired, the flour was adulterated and you must find for the government."

As to Added Poisons.

"If bleaching makes flour appear better than it really is, you must find for the government," said Judge McPherson.

Discussing the language of the pure food statute, Judge McPherson said that the act does not say "any added poison," but said "any added poisonous ingredient" constituted an adulteration.

The word "poisonous" conveyed a descriptive meaning, the judge said, and is used in a qualitative and not a quantitative sense. That is, it refers to the kind of substance and not the quantity.

ELECTRIC LINE TO TWIN CITIES WITHIN A YEAR

Within a year an electric line will be in operation between the Twin Cities and the Head of the Lakes, according to L. N. Loomis, president of the Twin City & Lake Superior Electric road, commonly known as the Arrow line, who is in Superior today.

Mr. Loomis has just returned from the East, and he stated to a Herald representative this afternoon that he had completed the financing of the road, and that all the preliminaries were complete. The road will have its terminals in Superior at Twenty-first street, where it will connect with the street railway system. It will connect with the Twin City Rapid Transit company's lines at Midway. The freight will be turned over to the belt lines at the two terminal points.

The Arrow line claims to have much the shortest route between the Twin Cities and the Head of the Lakes, and will open up a new territory, running through Grantsburg, Wis., a large town which has no direct connection with the Head of the Lakes.

SISTER SHIP OF SLOCUM AFIRE

Passengers Are Taken in Safely From the Grand Republic.

New York, July 6.—Fire attacked the big triple-decked steamboat Grand Republic, returning from Rockaway Beach, this afternoon with about thirty excursionists on board when the boat was still in the lower bay. The burning craft, the sister ship of the ill-fated Gen. Slocum, was headed at once to the dock of the Crescent Athletic club, where all her panic-stricken passengers were landed safely.

Dense clouds of smoke enwrapped the Grand Republic and a fleet of tugs hurried to her assistance to prevent a repetition of the Slocum disaster, in which 1,000 lives were lost.

It was believed at 2:50 p. m. the fire would be confined to where it started amidships. The fire was still burning but the fire boats and tugs appeared to have it under control.

AUTO DRIVER IS KILLED ON TRACK

Thomas Kincaide in Fatal Accident at Indianapolis Speedway.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 6.—Thomas Kincaide, a well-known automobile driver, was killed at the Indianapolis motor speedway this afternoon. He was on the track in trial practice when the car, a National, ran off the high embankment at the southeast corner of the course. He was caught beneath the wreck.

JEFFRIES IN OAKLAND, CAL.

Big Fighter Seems to Have Lost All His Former Spirit.

Oakland, Cal., July 6.—James J. Jeffries arrived in Oakland this morning in a private car. He was accompanied by his wife, brother and a number of intimate friends. He was taken in an automobile to a hotel and immediately secluded himself. He refused to see any visitors, even declining to see other personal friends who arrived to extend their personal condolences.

Jeffries will leave for Los Angeles tomorrow afternoon and go at once to his ranch.

The big fighter bears the scars of his encounter with Johnson. His face is still marred, his lips being swollen and cut and his eye almost closed. Patches of plaster adorn his features and he walked with his head low, indicating in every line of his big body a feeling of sadness. His spirit seems to be gone.

RESTRICTION OF PAPER OUTPUT

And Boosting of Prices By the Paper Mills Exposed.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 6.—The increased prices and diminished supply of news print paper was the principal subject of discussion before the representatives of the Associated Dailies of New Rork state who met here this morning in connection with the annual meeting of the New York State Press association, which opens its annual convention here tomorrow. John Norris of New York city of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, said in part:

"The price of news print paper covering an annual outlay of $60,000,000, is influenced by a gentlemen's agreement which is trying to force an agreed price. In no other industry do the makers refuse to sell their product f. o. b. mill. The paper mills insist upon knowing the buyer's name and the destination of paper before they will sell it. For twenty months there has been an obvious effort to restrict output. Within three years as we have had three print paper famines. In twenty months the print paper makers of the country have kept the stock of paper on hand for all the newspapers of the country to an average supply of less than eight days.

"The mill owners admit that they have produced only 92 per cent of their capacity. The penalty that publishers are temporarily paying for this restriction of output and artificial stimulation of prices may be stated approximately at $5 per ton, but the print paper makers are inviting disaster by the inducement they are making for newspaper production. Every artificiality of that sort carries its own penalty and ultimately works to the advantage of the consumer."

EBERHART FOR SMITH

Governor Favors Minneapolis Man for State Party Chairman.

St. Paul, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lieut-Governor F. E. Smith of Minneapolis will be the chairman of the Republican state central committee.

This statement is made on the authority of Governor Eberhart, who said just before noon that he felt sure Mr. Smith would be chairman. The governor added that no protest against Mr. Smith has been made by any candidate on the ticket. He admitted that a protest or two had been lodged with him by private persons whose names he refused to divulge.

Sam Y. Gordon, candidate for lieutenant governor, shortly after noon, lodged a protest with the governor against Mr. Smith's appointment. It is known that there are at least three other candidates who will also lodge protests, provided the governor asks an expression of opinion from them. They favor Ralph W. Wheelock or J. A. O. Preus.

The candidates for state offices met at Governor Eberhart's request at the Merchants hotel at noon. A luncheon was given them by the governor, after which they got down to business and picked the chairman and committee that will handle the coming campaign. A. J. Rockne, chairman of the Republican state convention, will be the man who theoretically will name them. In reality they will be chosen by the candidates.

Halden May Be Named.

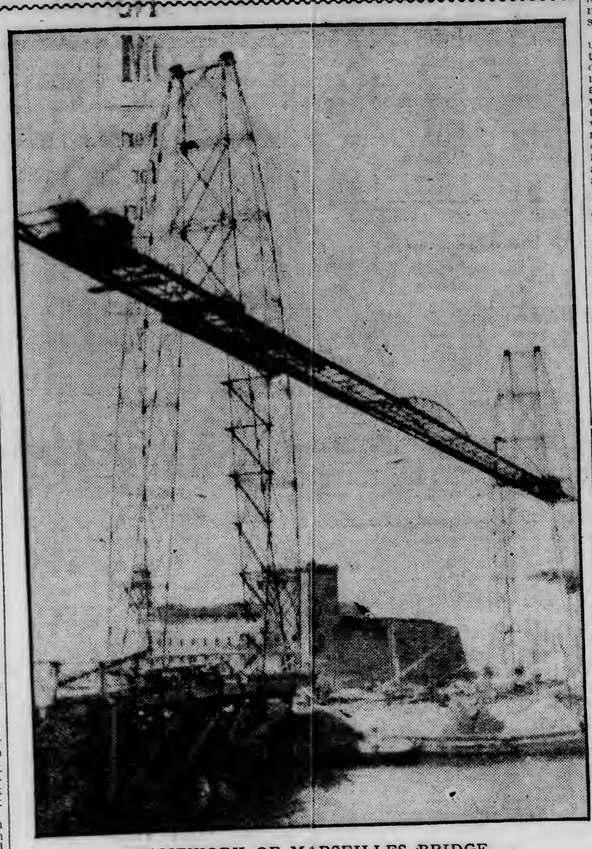

It was said today that such well known men as Senator Andy Stephens of Crookston, Odin Halden of Duluth, J. H. Nichols of Pipestone and Dr. G. A. Gates of Kenyon will be members of the central committee.

It seems likely that Ralph Wheelock will be chosen head of the press bureau an dsome country banker will be made treasurer. It has been suggested that J. A. O. Preus be named as secretary, but Governor Eberhart says he cannot have both Mr. Wheelock and Mr. Preus on the committee.

RED RIVER HAD BAD HAIL STORMS

Crookston, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Later reports show heavy rains during the night at McIntosh and all Eastern Polk county. Hail wiped out over half of Northland township in Northwestern Polk, and reports of damage by hail are growing steadily. In Northwestern Polk and Eastern Marshall counties many rural telephone lines are down and the definite news is lacking. The storm traveled from the southwest to northwest.

RIVALS DULUTH'S AERIAL BRIDGE

FRAMEWORK OF MARSEILLES BRIDGE.

CAR OF THE MARSEILLES BRIDGE.

The Aerial bridge at Duluth has two rivals in the engineering world. They are two remarkable carrier bridges, which have attracted the attention of the engineering world at Marseilles and Rouen. They are really ferries, which are suspended instead of travelling on the surface of the water. Two very high skeleton towers on each side of the old port at Marseilles are connected by a skeleton superstructure. Suspended by wire ropes from a carriage which runs on this superstructure is a platform hung not far above the surface of the water. This platform travels backward and forward between the two sides of the old port in Marseilles, making landings at each side and carrying passengers across for a cent. The platform also holds horses and wagons. In one of the towers of the bridge is a lift and on each tower is a "tea room" from which a fine view of the city may be had.

IN PRAISE OF GUMSHOES.

The overshoe is doing an enormous amount of good, especially among children, in protecting the body against the chilling that results in colds, sore throats, chronic catarrhs and the like.

It is not the mere getting the feet wet that is harmful, says the Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette. It is the prolonged evaporation of water from shoes and stockings that does the mischief. The evaporation reduces the temperature about the soles of the feet many degrees below the temperature of the surrounding air, just as a wet bulb thermometer registers lower than a dry one.

In fact the warmer and drier the air by which the body is surrounded the more rapid the evaporation and the lower the temperature. Also, the thicker the soles of the shoes the more water is taken up and the longer the evaporation goes on, so that thick soles do not take the place of a covering of gum which keeps the water away completely.

This evaporation and consequent continued lower temperatures goes on, especially in the house, when the rest of the body is in comparative comfort, and the nervous system relaxed. Wet shoes indoors are worse than wet shoes out of doors. Some people can stand this prolonged unbalancing of environment, but it takes a pretty vigorous makeup to do so.

It might be added that the wearing of overshoes that cover a large part of the foot when one is indoors is not a good thing.

YANKEES GROWING HEMP.

More Americans in the Philippines have taken up hemp growing than any other one thing. Perhaps the chief reason is that it requires less capital, but another reason, according to Cassier's Magazine, is that "hemp will make a nabob of any one who goes into it in the right spirit."

Nearly all the American hemp plantations are located on the Gulf of Davao, Mindanao. Here the American colony is considerable. These pioneers are far more successful with crops than are the older inhabitants because they use scientific methods and are not afraid of work.

The hemp plant belongs to the banana family, and Manila hemp thrives nowhere else in the world. The Philippine fields supply the entire world with raw hemp for manufacture into rope and cordage. In view of these conditions one would naturally judge that factories for working up the raw product are numerous.

But such is not the case. It is very doubtful if there were more than a dozen rope walks of any nature in existence when the American landed. And at present there is but one modern factory in Manila, that being owned and operated by Americans.

A number of British firms which have branch offices in Manila and agents throughout the provinces do most of the buying and exporting. Exports aggregate anywhere from 200,000,000 to 300,000,000 pounds annually, more than half of which comes to the United States. It is estimated that the average value of the total production is $30,000,000.

Until a year ago hemp had always been stripped by hand—a slow and wasteful process. It is cleaned by having a number of native laborers drag the stocks across a knife provided with iron teeth, thus separating the strands from the pulp.

No sooner had the Americans arrived than inventors commenced to devise means to do this work by machinery, getting out a better grade of hemp, wasting less and accomplishing more in a given time. Several of these inventors have been successful, and the machines are now doing excellent work, thus increasing the output. The tensile strength of machine stripped hemp is nearly 50 per cent greater than that of the hand stripped.

GIRLS' INCREASING HEIGHT.

Youth's Companion: A search of the garret for old fashioned clothes "to dress up in" does not yield so much as it once did. Behold, when great-grandmother's gowns came to light they are all to small for the young generation. It is not a mere matter of stays and busks, for if it were, a tightened corset lacing might be endured for a single evening. But the girl of today is hopelessly taller than her forebear, and there is no remedy for the skirt, waist and sleeves too short.

The increase in the height of American women has doubtless gone on steadily for fifty years, but measurements have altered markedly in the last ten years. A skirt of forty-one inches was considered long in 1895. Now skirts of forty-four and forty-five inches are made by wholesale. Grandmother stood barely five feet in her shoes, but her daughter measures five feet four inches, and her athletic granddaughter measures from five feet seven to five feet eleven in her stockings.

The increase in height is not an unmixed good. To begin with, long clothes cost more than short ones. Six inches added to length of skirt and bodice make an actual increase in the cost of material. Moreover, tall girls, especially if they are slender, are not so easily fitted in the cheaper ready made garments. The large sizes all seem calculated for stout women.

Strangely enough the average stature of the men of the coming generation has not increased so fast as that of the women, and there are many men not so tall as the girls of their own age. Such a man fears to dance or walk or even to talk with a woman to whom he must look up physically, whatever he may prefer in her of moral superiority. It is little short of tragic when a long line of tall girls files past a group of short men, each avoiding the other with blank gaze and the secret reflection, "How I should look with him—her!"

TO PRESERVE ZACK TAYLOR'S TREE.

Mirlin correspondence Kansas City Star: Passengers on the new railroad which has been built through this most southern part of Texas are able to catch a fleeting glance of one of the most historic landmarks on the lower Rio Grande border as the train passes by. Standing like a sentinel in a large cattle pasture a short distance from the railroad track is a live oak tree with widespreading branches under which Gen. Zachary Taylor was camped for several days while on his way to fight the Mexicans in the latter '40s.

It is now planned to inclose the tree with an ornamental fence and to beautify the spot. The first battle of the Mexican was fought by Gen. Taylor's army and a force of Mexicans at a point about sixty-five miles south of here. This battlefield has just been converted into an irrigated farm. In clearing and plowing the land many cannon balls and other relics of the fight were found.

ATHLETICS IN THE ARMY.

Washington Herald: "The United States soldier is tougher and stronger—physically stronger—than he was before the Spanish war," said Capt. R. E. Thomas of Wilmington, Del. "It is not the war which is to be thankful for it. Athletic training has done the work. It is said this country gives far more attention to the physical culture of its soldiers than does either Great Britain, France or Germany.

"While they require a daily setting up exercise similar to our own, these gun calisthenics and other prescribed forms of muscle stretching are supplemented in this country by athletic sports.

"These are not compulsory. They do not need to be. They have been entered into so heartily that every post of any size has its organization, which backs its track team, its football eleven or its baseball nine. This is just what the war department wants them to do, as it has organized a bureau for the encouragement of athletics.

"Nearly every garrison has its committee, consisting of at least one commissioned officer in addition to non-commissioned officers and privates, to arrange programs for field days, organize teams and pick out the star men of the command to represent it in the various events.

The object of the proposed vacation is that said alley is unnecessary and that the abutting property can be better improved with said alley vacated and that there is no entrance to said alley from Twenty-fourth Avenue East.

Said petition will be heard and considered by the Committee of the Common Council on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks on Monday, July 25, 1910, at 3:30 o'clock p. m. in the city clerk's office in the city hall in the City of Duluth, at which time and place said committee will hear the testimony and evidence on the part of parties interested.

REACTION AT THE CLOSE

Big Bulge in Wheat Prices During Last Hour of Trading.

Shorts Seek Cover---Flax Weak and Only Moderately Active.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 6.—The crowd failed to dislodge much long wheat today and toward the close those people who sold early tried to get back their wheat causing a bulge that carried values higher than yesterday's close. Shorts scurried to cover and were punished.

July wheat opened at $1.16¾ and sold at $1.16¾, $1.15⅞, $1.15¾, $1.17⅜, $1.17¾, $1.17½ and closed $1.17¼ bid. September opened at $1.11¼ bid and sold at $1.10⅞, $1.11, $1.10¾, $1.10⅞, $1.10⅝, $1.10½, $1.10, $1.12½, $1.12¼, and closed $1.12¾ bid. December closed $1.09⅜ bid.

Flax was weak and moderately active. A slight upturn toward the close failed to carry values over the close of yesterday. July opened $2.14 asked and sold at $2.12 and $2.15. September opened $2.10 asked, declined to $2.07 asked and sold at $2.05, $2.09, $2.06 and closed at $2.06. October opened at $1.97 asked, declined to $1.92½ asked and sold at $1.90, $1.95 and closed at $1.93.

Cash premiums dropped to 1c over July. Minneapolis cash wheat closed higher than here. Oats closed ¼c up, rye and barley were unchanged and durum closed ⅝ c off.

Cables were unchanged. The foreign situation did not have any effect on the American markets. The opening on this side was lower on account of general rains and showers in the Northwest. Dispatches to The Herald, from Poehler & Co., Van Dusen-Harrington and other commission firms, indicated that the precipitation was general, but the bulls said the rainfall had not been sufficient to help the crop. They declared a rain of two or three days' duration would be necessary to stop deterioration and show an improvement. The few traders bearishly inclined thought the drought had been broken temporarily, and that the growing grains would derive much benefit from the presence of moisture.

After the opening the professionals sold wheat moderately. The selling was sporadic and was not of a first-class character. From certain portions of the country where heavy rains fell, came selling orders. Generally, however, the country is long on wheat. The action of the market was somewhat feverish early in the session. Excitement died down toward noon and trading fell off.

Le Count continued to send in bullish reports, but other experts were hopeful. Messages of a bearish nature came from Canada. Rains were reported throughout the Northwest. Temperatures were cool yesterday. The government predicts clear weather for the Northwest tomorrow with unchanged temperatures. At Grand Forks a light shower fell last night; Comstock got a little rain; Aberdeen, S. D., reported a shower; Devils Lake reported a shower; Watertown, S. D., had a thunderstorm accompanied by hail which, however, did not do any damage. A two hours' hard rain fell at Glenwood and Elbow Lake. Hankinson, N. D., got a good shower and heavy showers fell early this morning at Enderlin, Valley City, Kensal, Harvey, Minot and Kenmare. A good rain fell at Portal and from Thief River Falls to Noyes, Minn., rain fell nearly all night. Many other places reported showers and good rains.

Cash grain handlers have not bought much wheat. This is especially true of the Southwest. Mills do not appear anxious to buy and it is expected that the new crop of wheat will come out in sufficient volume after the middle of July to suit the most exacting. Last year flour was scarce but jobbers now are well stocked both with flour and old wheat. Mills paid fancy price demanded for cash wheat in the early months of the season of 1909-10 and were unable to get enough to meet consumptive requirements. The difference between conditions this year and last year are sharply defined.

While farmers may hold on to wheat this year there will be enough to sell, many people believe, when it becomes apparent that there is no object to be gained in holding it. Even with a sharply curtailed crop in the Northwest there will be the usual July-August run of wheat. With little or no competition from the millers and exporters it appears that stocks will accumulate to fair proportions in primary centers.

Bradstreet's available wheat last week decreased 4,037,000 bu against a decrease last year of 2,488,000 bu. Bradstreet's wheat decreased 8,331,000 bu last week as follows: Wheat, east of Rockies, 1,273,000 bu; Canada, 1,458,000 bu; United States and Canada, 2,731,000 bu, afloat and in Europe, 5,690,000 bu. Corn decreased 413,000 bu and oats 963,000 bu.

European crop advices are rather less favorable. Argentine and new Danubian offers are light and held at 6d advance and cargoes off coast and waiting orders are practically nil with continent still bidding. During morning an easier undertone developed and prices declined ¼d to ½d on some speculative realizing. At midday market again steadied owing to scarcity of sellers and continued unfavorable advices from Canada. At this time market was steady ⅛ to ¾d lower than opening and ⅞ to 1¼d higher than yesterday. Corn steady at opening ¼d higher influenced by strength in wheat and liberal purchases of Platte cargoes. Following opening market was dull and unchanged. Cargoes wheat arrived off coast nil, awaiting orders, 2. Cargoes firm 3 to 6d dearer. Corn firm with good general demand."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Rain Puts Wheat Speculators Into Bearish Mood.

Chicago, July 6.—Rains in the Northwest put wheat speculators into a bearish mood today. There was heavy selling, local longs especially seeming anxious to unload. Scaled resting orders from commission houses checked the decline but appeared unable to force a rally of any great extent. Hopeful reports were received from crops in the western half of Minnesota and the southern half of South Dakota. European crop prospects were said to be favorable, and the Illinois state report gave conditions as at a seasonable average. Samples of South Dakota wheat displayed on the trading floor today had heads with eight inches long—a size equal to the entire stalk and head reported by some experts. The market opened ⅞@1⅛c lower with September at ¾ @1⅛c down at $1.00⅜@1.01, steadying later to $1.00⅞.

A huge decrease in the world's visible supply caused decided strength, and was helped by a sharp advance at Winnipeg. There was a dearth of short selling. The close was steady with September ⅞@1c up at $1.02⅝@1.02¾.

Corn was weak on general selling by longs. September opened ⅛@¼c to ⅞@1c off at 60 to 61½c and declined to 60⅝c.

Government showed deficient rainfall thus far in July rallied the market. Trade, however, was dull. The close was firm with September at 61¾c, a net advance of a shade.

Oats were under considerable selling pressure from pit traders. September started a shade to ⅜@½c lower at 39, to 39¾c and went down to 38¾@38⅞c.

A light run of hogs made provisions firm but advances were not maintained. First prices for September option were: Pork, $22.40; lard, $12.17½ to $12.20; ribs, $12.17½ to $12.22½.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Overselling and Short Covering Send Wheat Prices Up.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—An oversold condition and shorts covering made wheat prices go up to new high prices during the late session today. July sold up to $1.16½, ¼c higher than yesterday's close; September up to $1.10⅝, ⅞c higher, and December up to $1.09⅜, ½c higher. Rains fell in the three states over night and made the opening easier. This moisture caused some fair selling early. Trading in the pit at no time was equal to the volume of the past few days.

The spring wheat crop for the three states is estimated at about 165,000,000 bushels provided there is no further damage. Local elevator stocks decreased 75,000 bushels for four days. Minneapolis today received 122 cars of wheat against 107 cars a year ago; Duluth 184 cars against 88 cars, and Winnipeg 46 cars against 74 cars. July opened $1.14; high, $1.16½; low, $1.13⅜; closed, $1.16. September opened $1.09; high, $1.10⅝; low, $1.08⅛; closed, $1.10⅜. December opened, $1.08¼; high, $1.09⅜; low, $1.07½; closed, $1.08¾.

Cash wheat was a trifle easier. Demand was slow for all except choice grades. No. 1 northern sold for 1@3c above July. Closing prices: No. 1 northern, $1.17@1.19; to arrive, $1.17@1.19; No. 2 northern, $1.15@1.17; to arrive, $1.15@1.17; No. 3 wheat, $1.12@1.14; No. 3 yellow corn, 56@56⅜; No. 3 white oats, 40@41c; No. 2 rye, 69@72c.

Millstuffs — Shipments, 1,386 tons. There was no change in the market today. Demand continued strong at firm prices. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $18.50.

Flour—The market continued dull and featureless. Orders were slow, being mostly for small amounts of special brands. Shipments held heavy and prices firm. Shipments, 44,706 bbl. First patents in wood f. o. b., Minneapolis, $5.30@5.50; second patents, $5.10@5.30; first clears, $4.15@4.25; second clears, $2.80@3.20.

Flax—Receipts, 3 cars; year ago, 5; shipments, 4. Demand continued strong but offerings were light. Prices were quoted 2c under the Duluth July contract. Closing prices, $2.13.

Barley—Receipts, 4 cars; year ago, 33; shipments, 22. Light offerings and a strong demand made the market firmer. Malting barley was very scarce. Closing prices were 1c higher than yesterday. Closing range, 52@62c.

STOCKS ARE UNSETTLED

Violent Declines at Opening Followed By Buying Movement.

Losses Are Partly Recovered and Close Is Somewhat Irregular.

New York, July 6.—Violent declines marked the opening dealings in stocks today, and some heavy blocks of the prominent speculative issues changed hands, opening sales of United States Steel being of 10,000 shares. Declines in practically all of the active issues reached as much as 1@1½ and in Union Pacific, Rock Island, Wabash preferred and American Sugar the loss was 2 points.

Persistent selling kept the market weak and unsettled and the few rallies that occurred seemed to result mostly from buying by the shorts. Atlantic Coast line dropped 4½, Rock Island preferred 3*, Reading and Kansas & Texas 3, Chesapeake & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville and American Car 2½, Rock Island 2⅜ and the rest of the list from 1 to 2 points. Buying orders stopped the break later and there was a general rally from ½ to a point.

The further outpouring of stocks was supposed to be due to dissatisfaction with the general outlook, banking, political, agricultural and commercial. The movement toward recovery before noon was accompanied by a break in the price of wheat and corn, and by the discussion of gold imports. The demand from shorts to cover also made an effective effect in the rally. The midday prices showed much of the earlier decline recovered and net gains ruling in some of the most active speculative stocks. St. Paul rose a point. Bonds were weak.

The failure of any large selling orders to appear as the rally progressed encouraged further buying and the list took on an appearance of general strength. Practically all of the important stocks were quoted a fraction or more above yesterday's closing. Southern Pacific advanced 2, Union Pacific 1⅝ and Atchison, Reading, Canadian Pacific and Brooklyn Transit 1.

The rise went further before the realizing sales became large enough to send the market down. Reactions, however, were kept within fractional bounds and the market soon steadied. Great Northern preferred gained 1½ and Northern Pacific, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and Consolidated Gas 1.

The market closed somewhat irregular and dull. The reaction on realizing was checked by renewal of the buying movement which carried prices upward again, in some cases to the highest of the day. The advance was not well sustained and gave place to some hesitation.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

SHOOTS TO END MISERY

Chicago Woman Wounds Her Daughter and Husband and Takes Acid.

Leaves Letters Telling of Faithlessness of the Man.

Chicago, July 7.—Mrs. Henry Mulsaw, goaded to desperation by the alleged brutality and unfaithfulness of her husband, a steet car conductor, today shot and fatally wounded the latter and their 3-year-old daughter and then killed herself by taking carbolic acid.

Mrs. Mulsaw planned her act carefully. She borrowed a revolver from her father, explaining that she needed it for protection when her husband worked at night. Then she wrote letters to her parents, to her mother-in-law and to the public. In these she declared that she had been a good and faithful wife, but that Mulsaw spent his spare time with other women, and often beat her.

Pulled Hair and Kicked Her.

Mulsaw is alleged to have been with another woman until 4 o'clock this morning, when he returned to his home. According to the police he began abusing his wife, seizing her by the hair and kicking her. She then drew the revolver and shot him in the abdomen. He fell to the floor and she sent another bullet into his body.

She then went to her bedroom and fired a bullet into the body of her little daughter. Satisfied that both were dead, she completed the tragedy by taking poison. That she kissed her child after this act is shown by the marks of acid on the child's face.

The police found the woman dead. At the hospital it was said the father and daughter could not live.

THINK OPIUM IS CHOP SUEY

St. Louis Police Explain Why They Let Joe Sing Run His Shop.

St. Louis, Mo., July 7.—An alleged opium factory was raided here early today and its owner, Joe Sing, a Chinaman, is being held by revenue officers. The officers said the factory was running full blast when they entered.

Policemen on the beat where Sing's shop is located said they thought he was cooking "chop suey" for a restaurant. The officers seized three sacks of "second" opium, twenty-four pounds of opium seasoning leaves, 100 cans of manufactured opium and two caldrons, which Sing was using for his cooking.

The prisoner is charged with taking opium "seconds," seasoning it with opium leaves and selling the product for genuine opium.

BOY IS DROWNED PLAYING ON DOCK

Falls Off at International Falls and Body is Not Recovered.

International Falls, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—While playing on a launch at the lower dock, Herbert Giezie, son of Herman Giezie, fell off into the river and was drowned just a few feet from the shore. The body has not yet been found. The river has been dragged for two days. Dynamite has been used to no avail. A diver has been sent for, as it is thought the body is in a large hole, which is known to be about where the boy was drowned.

TAFT TO ARRIVE WITH GOLF STICKS

President Will Make Ten-Day Trip Along the North Coast.

Beverly, Mass., July 7.—President Taft is going to extend the ten days' vacation which he began yesterday, by taking a ten days' cruise on the yacht Mayflower, beginning July 18. The president's present vacation is not up until July 16, so this will leave only Sunday intervening. The president will sail up the north coast and may drop in at several points of interest. The golf sticks will be carried along and whenever an attractive looking set of eighteen holes appears on the horizon the Mayflower will anchor forthwith. Commander Snowden is in command of the Mayflower.

GRAHAM WHITE HAS SOME MORE HARD LUCK.

London, July 7.—Graham White, who was beaten by the Frenchman, Paulhan, in the contest for a flight from London to Manchester, left the Crystal palace today for a flight to Bournemouth, a distance of 105 miles, where an aviation meeting is being held in connection with the centenary celebration. An accident to his propeller forced White to descend after a brief flight. The aeroplane was damaged in the descent.

May Tie up French Railroads.

Paris, July 7.—A general railway strike here is threatened. The men demanded an increase in wages and other ameliorations.

MAY BECOME THE QUEEN'S ERRAND BOY

PRINCE ALEXANDER OF TECK.

London, July 7.—Prince Alexander of Teck, brother of Queen Mary of Great Britain, is likely to be very much in the public eye during the reign of King George. Queen Mary, as the princess of Wales, could do little for her favorite brother, but as queen she can do a great deal to advance him. He will probably be given commissions to execute in foreign courts and will be made one of the "royal handy men." Prince Alexander was born April 14, 1874. He married the Princess Alice of Albany. They have two children.

GOLDEN TIDE TURNS WEST

Million and and Three-Quarters in Gold Bars for United. States.

New York Bankers Are Strengthening Their Position.

New York, July 7.—The gold importation movement of 1910 had its inception today with the engagement of $1,750,000 in gold bars in London by Lazard Freres for import to the United States. Imports of gold were forecasted by the demands made on New York institutions by Western banks for funds to finance land purchases in the West. Local bankers have recently sold large amounts of American securities abroad and are now availing themselves of these credits to strengthen their own position by importing gold.

Bank Rate Kept at 3 Per Cent.

London, July 7.—American and continental inquiries for gold have effectually barred all prospect of an immediate reduction in the bank rate. The directors of the Bank of England this morning decided to maintain the 3 per cent rate, although dealing on that basis, at the present rate of exchange, represents a loss.

The engagement of $2,000,000 of Cape gold for Germany reported this morning is generally accepted as correct, and the recent releasing of bonds here should enable New York to take considerable gold. There soon will be in the neighborhood $3,750,000 available in the open market and at least a portion is expected to be purchased for New York.

LOCK CARPENTERS OUT IN DES MOINES

Master Builders Act Following Attempt to Enforce Closed Shop.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 7.—Four hundred union carpenters were locked out by the Master Builders' association of Des Moines today because the carpenters refused to work with non-union structural iron workers. All big building contracts of the city are tied up.

ENGLAND'S EXPORTS AND IMPORTS ON INCREASE.

London, July 7.—The June statement of the board of trade shows increases of $14,624,000 in imports and 25,408,000 in exports. The principal increase in imports was in raw material, and manufactured goods showed the largest gain in the exports.

INQUEST OVER WRECK VICTIMS IS POSTPONED.

Hamilton, Ohio, July 7.—Unable to obtain the presence of an important witness to the train wreck at Middleton, Ohio, last Monday, Coroner Burnett today postponed his inquest into the disaster until Monday. The opening of the investigation had been scheduled for tomorrow.

STAGE PASSES THROUGH FIRE

Pickford Line Near the Soo Has Thrilling Trip in Woods.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 7.—Passengers of the Pickford stage had a thrilling experience as the stage neared Pickford, which is about twenty-five miles distant from Soo. The horses were driven at a breakneck speed through a wall of flame and smoke from a forest fire for nearly a mile, but finally came out safely.

A large sawmill and other buildings, and a large quantity of lumber burned. The fire was caused, it is reported, through a farmer's carelessness in burning up brush piles. A deputy fire warden is investigating.

MRS. YOUNG HEADS N. E. A.

Chicago Woman Wins on Vote in Body of Convention.

San Francisco Likely to Have Next Meeting---Colleges Are Scored.

Boston, Mass., July 7.—Mrs. Young defeated Mr. Snyder for the presidency in the vote in the convention.

Boston, July 7.—Z. X. Snyder, principal of the Colorado state normal school, was nominated by the committee on nominations for the next president of the National Educational association here today. Mr. Snyder received twenty-four votes and his nearest competitor, Ella Flagg Young of Chicago was given nineteen.

The report of the majority of the nominating committee in favor of Mr. Snyder was taken across Copley square to the new Old South church at noon and was presented to the annual meeting of the convention by B. D. Johnson of South Carolina.

HEIR TO THE THRONE OF "CARMEN SYLVA"

CROWN PRINCESS OF ROUMANIA AND HER DAUGHTER.

London, July 7.—If the present illness of Queen Elizabeth of Roumania (Carmen Sylva) should prove fatal, the new queen will be the crown princess of Roumania. The crown princess is an excellent subject for the camera and has been photographed probably more than any other person of royalty in the world. Her little daughter, shown in the above picture, is also a good subject to photograph and she has been pictured in many costumes.

ROOSEVELT WILL SPEAK AT FARGO

Former President to Deliver Labor Day Address in That City.

Fargo, N. D., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fargo Federation of Labor with the assistance of Congressman Hanna has secured a great hit by securing Former President Roosevelt for the Labor Day address, Sept. 5. The address will be of national importance.

Mrs. Sherman Convalescent.

Baltimore, Md., July 7.—Mrs. James S. Sherman, wife of the vice president, who is convalescing at the Johns Hopkins hospital here, is expected to leave the institution tomorrow for her home, it was said at the hospital today.

FOULKE AT OYSTER BAY

Senator Beveridge Also Is Looked for at Sagamore Hill.

Central Western Politics to Be Discussed---That Poindexter Matter.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 7.—Politics, and in particular politics in the Central West, was expected to be discussed at the conference today at Sagamore Hill. Dudley Foulke of Indiana is here today, having come down from New York last night. Mr. Foulke was a civil service commissioner by appointment of Mr. Roosevelt, and on several occasions when the then president wished to make a public statement of a political nature, he did so by writing an open letter to Mr. Foulke.

Another Indianan, Senator Beveridge, was expected today. Several insurgents from the Central West are considered likely visitors at Sagamore Hill today.

A delegation of visitors to Col. Roosevelt arrived from New York on the noon train. There weer six in the party, two of whom were United States Senator Beveridge of Indiana and Carter of Montana. The others were John

HAIL RUINED 80,000 ACRES

Damage By Storm to North Dakota Crop Is Estimated.

Western Canada, Montana, Kentucky and Tennessee in Bad Shape.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Never before in the history of Grand Forks county, and probably never in the history of the state, has there been experienced so extremely severe a hail storm as that which passed over the north central section of this county Tuesday night. Until this morning it was impossible to gain an account of the damage which includes the beating down of more than 80,000 acres of grain.

The storm was bounded on the west by a point south of Lakota, in Nelson county, where a strip about eight miles long and three wide was completely hailed out. At Michigan a strip about four miles wide and nine miles long was completely beaten down and from Michigan the storm passed slightly north of Niagara and into Grand Forks county, jumping a strip some few miles in width and striking again west of McCanna, Orr and Inkster and sweeping almost directly eastward.

Storm in Two Parts.

The storm apparently was in two divisions, one going from Orr to Mekinock, a distance of ten miles, and continuing on to Lakeville, Grand Forks county, thence to the Red river. A slight branch of that storm went southward and into Polk county, while the northern storm apparently ended at the river.

In the aggregate, about 132 sections of land were effected by the storm, including practically $5,000 acres. In at least three-quarters of this territory the ruin to the crops is complete. In many cases the loss is heavy despite the fact that drouth had previously worked a hardship on the grain.

ROYALTY AT BURIAL OF DUKE D'ALENCON

Members of French Bourbon Family Also Attend Rites.

Dreux, France, July 7.—The Duke d'Alencon was buried today in Orleans in the chapel beside his wife, who was burned to death in the charity bazaar fire of 1897. The king of Bulgaria, representatives of the royal houses of Spain, Portugal and Belgium, and members of the French Bourbon family were present. Strong detachments of troops preserved order.

The Duke d'Alencon was a second son of Louis, Duke d'Nemours, who died in 1896, and a grandson of Louis Philippe, king of France. He was born in 1844 and his elder brother is claimant to the French throne.

AVIATORS TO GO FOR HIGH RECORD

Curtiss and Hamilton Are Flying at Atlantic City, N. J.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 7.—With favorable weather conditions, Glenn Curtiss and Charles Hamilton, who have been giving exhibitions aeroplane flights on the beach here this week, hope to be able to go after the altitude record today.

Curtiss' long flight out over the ocean late yesterday afternoon has created a renewed interest among the thousands of summer visitors and the local residents generally, and a great crowd was on the Boardwalk and Strand early today to see the aeroplanists go up. Curtiss says he prefers sailing over the water, as he meets with fewer baffling air currents than on land, and it would not surprise the people if he made an extended trip out over the sea.

WORST QUAKE IN SIX MONTHS

Seismographs Record Shock 1,000 Miles From Washington.

Washington, July 7.—A severe earthquake shock, continuing from 12:01 to 12:03 this morning, was recorded by the Georgetown university observatory. The preliminary tremors began at 11:58 o'clock and were followed three minutes later by the heavier shock. The tremors died away at 12:14. The observers at the university say the earthquake probably was not more than 1,500 miles distant. The chief motion was east and west and was the heaviest recorded since Jan. 1.

Caught at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 7.—An earthquake, apparently nearer and of greater intensity than any other within the last six months, was recorded at the St. Ignatius college observatory last night. The preliminary tremors began at 10:55 and the vibrations continued until 11:21. It is estimated that the disturbance was centered about 1,500 or 2,000 miles distant. TWO JUDGES CORRECTING THE MISTAKES OF CUPID

Divorce Day in District Court Brings Long List of Cases.

Three Decrees Granted for Cruelty and One for Desertion.

Today is divorce day in the district court.

Two judges were kept busy all day listening to tales of connubial unhappiness.

Both Judge Ensign and Judge Cant were on the job beginning promptly at 9 o'clock, and while the divorce mill is not grinding the decrees out as fast and regularly as usual, the tales told of unhappy married life and the causes, were many and varied.

Before Judge Ensign, Mrs. Mary Johnson is trying to get a decree from her husband, Louis Johnson. He is fighting the case, and in his answer to his wife's complaint asks that the decree be withheld.

She charges habitual drunkenness and cruel and inhuman treatment. About a year ago Judge Dibell granted a decree of separation for one year. The old saying that absence makes the heart grow fonder is not true in this case, for instead, Mrs. Johnson wishes all the more for absolute freedom.

There is much evidence to be presented, and the case will probably occupy Judge Ensign's attention the greater part of the day.

The case of Victoria Lavendahl Rogers, 26 years old, against her husband, Otto Rogers, 44 years old is being heard before Judge Cant.

She alleges that they were married at St. Paul in 1900 and that she has been treated in a cruel and inhuman manner. She also alleges that her husband's moral character is bad, and that he has been habitually drunk for the year past. According to her complaint he has applied abusive epithets to her.

• • •

Sophia May Benson, 36 years old, was granted a decree of divorce from Anton S. Benson, 40 years old. She claimed that they were married in Duluth in 1906. She alleges as the basis for her action cruel and inhuman treatment and drunkenness on the part of the defendant.

She claimed that on Christmas day, 1909, he beat her, called her vile and indecent names and threatened to kill her and her child.

Carl Rohady, 36 years old, was granted a divorce from Pearl Rohady. They were married at Bay City, Mich., in 1903. He alleges desertion.

• • •

In order that more evidence on the facts in the case could be obtained, the case of Con Winters against his wife, Josephine Winters, was continued after all the evidence on hand had been heard. He is 46 years old and she is 53. He claims that they were married in Superior, in 1905, during June, 1906, he claims that she deserted him, taking with her the household goods.

• • •

This afternoon the case of Sarah Jane Wilson, 29 years old, against her husband, Lewis Ross Wilson, 34 years old, is being heard. They were married at Seattle, Wash., in 1903. The action is brought on the basis of desertion.

• • •

Yesterday afternoon Edith Allen was granted a decree from Bert Albert Allen. Desertion was alleged in the complaint.

MERCURY UP TO OLD TRICKS

Showers this afternoon gave promise of an appreciable amount of precipitation and brought cool breezes after an exceedingly warm day.

The highest temperature was 91 deg. at noon and the high temperature, combined with an excess of humidity in the atmosphere gave a "sticky" feeling to the air that was uncomfortable.

Shortly after the rain began this afternoon, the temperature dropped to 78 deg. and the prospects were for a cool night with possibly more local showers.

MEETING A QUIET ONE

Little Business of Importance Before the County Board.

Outside a burst of oratory on the part of Attorney Victor Power of Hibbing, who entered the room at a time when Spina happened to be mentioned, the meeting of the county commissioners, held this morning, was devoid of interest.

Spina was not before the board. It was Kinney that was being discussed, and in connection with Kinney some one mentioned Spina. The mention of the name was enough for Mr. Power. He waxed so enthusiastic that he could be heard all over the courthouse. Clerks left their office work and hurried to the county room, while those on the top floor asked those coming up on the elevator where the Patrick Henry stunt was going on.

After Mr. Power had said all that he wished to say, he was informed by Chairman McInnis that Spina was not before the board.

The petition for the incorporation of Spina had been hanging fire for some time. The petition was turned down by the county board some time ago. The matter was then taken up in the courts by Attorney Power, and Judge Dibell asked the board to either grant the petition or show cause. They appeared in the court and showed cause. It was expected that the matter would come up again this morning. That was why Mr. Power was present.

The Kinney petition was turned down. Kinney and Spina are very close together and Kinney is only 665 feet from Buhl. The board evidently thinks that one town at that location is enough for all the residents.

The resignation of Assistant County Attorney J. P. Boyle was tabled. He has reconsidered his determination to run for the senate and it was understood that he wished to continue as assistant county attorney.

• • •

A communication was received from the Northern Minnesota Development association asking that the county board make an appropriation for the St. Louis county exhibit at the Minnesota state fair.

• • •

Several liquor licenses were granted.

The matter of the legalizing of several roads will come up for consideration this afternoon.

William J. Stevenson was retained as special county attorney for another year.

There was the usual grist of road petitions. Some of them will be acted upon this afternoon.

The monthly reports of the several county office holders were read and approved.

Town funds were divided between Prairie Lake and Fine Lakes. Some time ago two towns were made of Prairie Lake.

ADVANCE NOT MAINTAINED

Coppers Have Strong Tone at Opening But Decline Later.

The copper market opened strong and advanced on short covering, moderate buying and the withdrawal of large selling orders which had been entrusted to brokers. There was no news to influence the market. The undertone at the close was not of the best. The market declined after the bulge around noon. The close was from 1 to 1½ points above yesterday. The cheap stocks generally advanced fractionally.

The government's report on grains tomorrow will attract considerable attention. It will probably have a marked effect on railroads and industrials and coppers have trailed after these stocks for some time. The report of the copper producers will probably report a continued overproduction of the red metal.

Trading here was moderate, the bulk being confined to Butte & Superior for which there was healthy demand, most of the buying coming from Butte, Butte & Superior, sold at $1.00 to $1.06¼, Calumet & Montana at 94c, Calumet & Sonora at $12.50, Chief at $1.62½ and Cliff at $1.25.

Amalgamated sold at $59 to $60 to $59.87½, Steel common at $69 to $70.25 to $70.12½, Butte-Ballaklava at $13.50 to $13.75, Butte Coalition at $17 to $16.50, Calumet & Arizona at $48.87½ to $49.75 to $49, Giroux at $6.62½ to $6.75, Greene at $6.87½, Superior & Pittsburg at $9.87½ to $10.12½, Ojibway at $6.50, North Butte at $21.87½ to $22.37½ to $22.25.

The annual directors' meeting of the Live Oak was held today. Routine business was transacted.

A special meeting of stockholders of the Butte & Superior will be held Saturday to consider the reorganization of the company.

Mexican Ferry Canoes.
Although Mexico has hundreds of miles of railroad and street railways, with modern equipment, a large percentage of the population, especially in the more isolated districts, adhere to the old forms of travel. Numerous waterways, which for hundreds of years have furnished routes from town to town, are still popular. The rare purity of Golden Grain Belt beer has made it famous as a table beverage. It is a delicious food drink, very nourishing and digestible. Give it a trial and convince yourself. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

PURCHASER FOR OLD SITE

County May Sell Old Courthouse Grounds to Hospital Society.

The old courthouse site at Sixth avenue east and Second street may be purchased in the near future by the Swedish Lutherans of the city who will erect a hospital on it.

While they have taken no action on the matter the committee in charge of the selection of a site for the hospital is known to have decided upon the old courthouse site if it can be secured at what they term a reasonable price.

Several parties are known to be after the site and as it is for sale, the site will not long be the property of the county.

The land was given to the county many years ago for use as a courthouse site.

The old buildings have been entirely wrecked and the last loads will have been hauled away by the last of the week.

INSURGENTS AT COMMERCIAL CLUB

The usually placid atmosphere of the directors' room at the Commercial club was surcharged with hot insurgency this noon. It was hot insurgency because of the weather and was insurgency because of the heat.

When the organized boosters of Greater Duluth got together, there was some hesitancy about getting into action, and at last one member took the floor to say something like this:

"Will some gentleman kindly inform me who has had the temerity to call the board of directors in session at such a time as this? Does any great emergency press for consideration and immediate disposition? Has there arisen a need for the united action of the directors of the Commercial club of the great city of Duluth on some proposition of vast importance to the community? Are our business interests threatened with calamity, that we should be called upon to gather here on such a day as this and concentrate our attention upon business when we have but come from our own businesses to find cool comfort and sustenance here? I request that some gentleman impart this information to me."

Something like, that you know. And that's insurgency, sure enough.

Several members seemed inclined to join this member in his insurgency, but Maj. Eva came to the rescue.

"Gentlemen," he said, "this is the regular weekly meeting of the board. No one of those present is responsible for our being here."

All off on the insurgency.

Washington, July 7.—The Catholic University of America will recover $350,000 from the bankrupt estate of the late Thomas E. Waggaman, its former treasurer, who owed the institution $900,000 when he was adjudged bankrupt in 1904.

A compromise to this end was reached with H. Rosier Dulaney, trustee for the bankrupt, and Justice Stafford of the district supreme court today ordered the ratification of the agreement unless the other creditors of Waggaman on July 20 show cause why the terms should not be accepted.

AWAITS THE FATAL WORD

Long Delay By Governor in Naming Date for Hanging of Rossi.

"When will Michael Rossi, the murderer of Antonio De Meo be hanged?" is the question those interested in the case are asking.

Rossi has been awaiting the naming of the fatal day in the county jail for over six months. He was proved guilty at the trial held in district court early last winter, and was sentenced Dec. 30, by Judge William A. Cant to be hanged.

His case has recently been taken up by a local attorney who hopes to secure for the condemned man a new trial.

It is the general opinion that the governor will not set the date of the hanging until after election.

In the meantime, Rossi awaits the words which for him will spell the end of this earthly life. He does not want to die. He keeps muttering this to himself and every one else so often that the jailors have on different occasions thought him about to go insane.

The murder of De Meo was committed in cold blood. Rossi awaited De Meo in the Omaha railroad yards, where he shot him twice and then stabbed him with a knife.

Bagley Welcomes Rain.

Bagley, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A refreshing shower fell here early yesterday morning. The ground was soaked an inch and a half to two inches deep, and gardens and fields have already taken on new life.

The crop outlook here was fair in spite of the long drought. Hay on low meadows and river bottoms is very promising, although a little late, and pasturage in the woods is excellent. Thousands of acres covered with wild pea vines and hetches go to waste here for want of stock to feed on it.

We issue Letters of Credit and Travelers' Checks — the safest and easiest way of carrying funds when traveling.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING WITH THE DIFFERENCE

Your expenses are smaller in summer than in winter. You've no coal bills to pay, your gas or electric light bills are smaller, you don't spend as much on entertaining; even your clothing costs less in the summer time.

What are you doing with that money you don't have to spend? Wasting it or saving it?

Isn't it a good chance to get a little ahead of the game?

Pretend you owe that money to the bank instead of to the coal dealer, electric company, etc., and see that you pay it into your account at the bank. If you haven't an account open one. We have a blank page on our ledger for you.

Ernest Anderson Meets Death in Six Feet of Water.

Ernest Anderson, 10-year-old son of Alfred Anderson of 1000 South Sixty-eighth avenue west, was drowned late yesterday while learning to swim in the St. Louis river just off Grassy Point.

With another companion, he fell off from a raft about sixty feet from the shore in about six feet of water. The other boy was saved but young Anderson sank.

INJURIES RECEIVED IN FALL PROVE FATAL.

William, or better known as "Billy" James, 38 years old, a former West Duluth saloonkeeper who has for the past two years worked as a bartender, died this morning at the Duluth hospital after a short illness.

James was employed at the Missabe saloon, 214 Central avenue. On Monday last, it is said that he fell injuring his head. Since that time, his injury had bothered him and last evening his condition took a turn for the worse.

James was boarding and rooming at the Broadway hotel on Fifty-fourth avenue west between Ramsey and Bristol streets. About 10 o'clock he became so violent that the landlady had the police take him away.

At the police station, it was thought that he was suffering from alcoholism and he was ordered taken to the Duluth hospital, where he died four hours later. Spinal meningitis is said to have been the cause of death.

James has a sister, Mrs. Doan living at West Duluth, and also leaves a brother John, residing at Alpena, Mich.

SUPERIOR

SUFFERING ON CLAIM FATAL

Frank Steele Dies as Result of Long Period of Privation.

Death came yesterday as the culmination of a period of suffering and privation, in which Frank Steele, 42 years old, a South Superior man and his 14-year- old son were involved.

Stricken with paralysis Steele was left helpless with his son for two weeks, while both were on a claim in Bayfield county. Steele died yesterday as a result of the experience.

Several days ago, Steel was brought home from a claim near Cable, where he had been for, the two weeks previous, for the purpose of proving up a homestead. He and his son had arrived at the claim and before shelter was provided, Steel was stricken with paralysis. On the hope that some one would find them to get them food, the lad killed procupines on which he and his father lived.

Victor Steele, a brother of Frank Steele, became uneasy after ten days and organized a searching party which found the pair on the verge of starvation. In addition, one of Steele's feet was horribly burned. Both were taken home, where Steele was given medical attention. The boy regained quickly, but Steele died yesterday.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home, 6212 Ogden avenue.

SOO MAY CHANGE SITE FOR DOCKS

Although not officially confirmed, it is reported on good authority that the Soo line road may change its dock site from St. Louis bay to Allouez, thus avoiding the dispute with the city in regard to running ore lines through Billings Park.

Agents of the Soo road own considerable frontage on Allouez bay and it is probable that this will be chosen as an alternative to the site originally selected on St. Louis bay. Railroad men say that the property at Allouez was acquired a few months ag for this purpose.

The state railroad commission recently conducted a hearing in Superio on the matter of running ore line through the Ninth ward and Billing Park.

MANY PLANS SUGGESTED

Property Owners Discuss the Removal of Point of Rocks.

Committee Will Be Appointed to Investigate the Plans.

The meeting of about forty property owners and others interested in the removal of the Point of Rocks between Eighth and Fourteenth avenues west at the council chambers, last night, resulted in the passage of a resolution authorizing Chairman H. H. Phelps to appoint a committee of five property owners to thoroughly investigate the problem.

This committee will likely cooperate with other similar committees to be appointed by other public and semi-public organizations in the city, including the council and the real estate exchange.

No definite plan was agreed upon as the most feasible. Many suggestions were offered and numerous expressions of opinion were offered by those present. All agreed that something should be done at the earliest possible moment but all recognized the necessity of careful consideration before any positive steps are taken in order that no blundering mistakes should be made.

Among the solutions offered were the cutting through of Superior street from Eighth to Fourteenth avenues; tunneling through the cliff between the same avenues, and the widening of Michigan street to Superior street, acquiring the property between the two streets by condemnation.

The first could be done with a 3 per cent grade, according to the plans prepared by City Engineer Thomas F. McGillvray. The estimated cost is $427,600, without taking into consideration any revenue which might be derived from the sale of the rock for commercial purposes. The tunnel was not greatly favored as it would only eliminate the street car traffic and the third did not meet with universal approval as it would take considerable property from the men who own it and who would be injured as they would be unable to derive any future benefit from it when the Point of Rocks question was finally solved.

C. S. Mitchell advised bringing an expert quarryman to the city to look over the situation in order that expert information would be forthcoming. R. Murchison, clerk of the board of public works, advocated the use of the rock for road purposes. G. G. Hartley said that good judgment is necessary unless a burden be placed on the taxpayers, which it would take years to overcome. C. P. Meyers was strongly in favor of the plan for cutting Superior street through, stating that it had big commercial arguments in its favor.

FIRE FIGHTERS

[illegible] continue doing much damage in the timbered sections of Koochiching county, although recent rains have partially extinguished them. A few days ago two camps about twelve miles from International Falls were burned and the people of Nakodah, four miles this side, were already packed waiting for the approach of the fire, but luckily, the fire fighters succeeded in conquering the fire. Tuesday afternoon the town of Big Falls burned a great deal. The Big Falls people sent here for hose and over 500 feet was sent down. The town is still burning. Tuesday afternoon the town of Ray sent here for help as it was in great danger. The brush and forest is all afire around there. Danger to this town has not yet been reached, but everybody is fighting hard against the flames.

DIVORCE THEN INSANITY.

Sad Plight of Former Prosperous North Dakota Hotelman.

Harvey, N. D., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fact that he was divorced from his wife about two years ago is given as the direct cause of the insanity of John T. Keller, committed to the state asylum from this county. For two years Keller has been living alone near here, shunning companions and becoming greatly interested in religion. Things went from bad to worse and his condition finally became such that he was arrested. Keller, up to eight years ago, resided in Morton county and he and his wife operated a hotel. Differences arose and they separated after coming here, and this is the reason for Keller's loss of reason.

Railroad Furnishes Fund for Enlarging Two Harbors Y. M. C. A.

President House Assures $10,000 to Add to Building.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. G. Hamaker, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., has been notified by F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range railway, that the request for funds with which to build an addition to the present building has been granted by the company. The association has been handicapped owing to the large number of members, 1,075—June 30—and the gymnasium at present is far too small to be of service to the physical classes. The new gymnasium is intended to do away with the difficulties. A swimming pool about 20x55 feet will be put in, thus affording another privilege for the young men of the city, and it will be a drawing card for a larger membership. The new addition will be added to the west side of the present building and the basement, especially of the old building, will be changed in the interior to the best possible advantage. More showers will be added in a large shower bathroom and about 200 more lockers will be added. These lockers will be of steel and of the latest type. More dormitory rooms will be added to the present number. It is expected that the new addition and other improvements will cost over $10,000.

Chisholm Man Wanted for Stabbing Affair Caught By Police.

Chisholm, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tony Jentz, who last week stabbed Vince Rosz and skipped out, was caught yesterday by Chief of Police Apel and landed in the Chisholm jail. The chief concluded that as Jentz had money coming to him from the Oliver office, in the course of time he would call for the same. Sure enough Tony called this morning, and after a little phone work, was safe in the hands of the officers of the law. His trial is set for Friday morning when he is to appear before Judge Freeman. In default of $250 bail, Tony will lie in jail until the day of trial.

George Goeber of Hibbing was found yesterday wandering aimlessly around at the Glen location, and from remarks he made to different ones who questioned him, it was concluded the man is demented. He told certain of the people in the neighborhood if they did not clean up their back alleys he would blow them up with dynamite. Goeber was lodged in the Chisholm jail, where he will be in safekeeping until further examination.

At 4:30 Tuesday afternoon the bridge over Lake Longyear was discovered to be on fire, but an alarm having been speedily turned in to the fire department, the brigade was quickly on the spot, and save a little hole burned through the bridge, no further damage was done. The Chisholm brigade has thus far in July made nine runs to as many fires. The heavy fall of rain Tuesday night will no doubt bring some relief.

SETTLER'S HOME TAKEN BY FLAMES

Disastrous Forest Fire Near Twig Does Large Amount of Damage.

Twig, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bad forest fire swept over several acres of timber here Tuesday and did much damage.

The home of Swan Drenberg was burned to the ground and Ole Nickelson and John Clauson, two settlers, living in the path of the fire, had narrow escapes.

The store of S. N. Peterson was saved after a large crew of men battling with the flames for several hours. Mr. Peterson did not expect to be able to save any of the buildings and had most of the goods removed when the wind changed.

The men were on duty until midnight when a welcome shower of rain fell removing the danger of other settlers.

John Clauson lost about 100,000 feet of fine pine timber.

LEONIDAS SHAFT DOWN 220 FEET

Going Through Solid Rock and Making Very Slow Progress.

Eveleth, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Leonidas shaft on the Adams property which is being sunk is now down about 220 feet. As the shaft will have to pass through some solid rock before it gets to the main body of ore, which lies to a depth of 600 feet, it will take a couple of years more until it reaches the required depth. Meanwhile shipping from the surrounding shafts, stock piles and the Adams open pit is going on very heavy. The forces are at work day and night. The 10,000 tons daily from the Fayal, Adams and Spruce mines, with the 2,000 tons daily from the Virginia mine, shows that the Iron Range road is taking out considerable ore from the Eveleth district.

Mr. Whitmore was taken to the Shaw hospital in Buhl, where the operation was performed. Whitmore is a married man, has a wife and three children, and his home is at the Hartley location in the Chisholm district.

LITTLE DAUGHTER HAD SCALP HUMOR

Itched So that She Scratched Until Blood Came. Hair Fell Out. Scalp had Unpleasant Odor. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment Four Weeks. Scalp Perfectly Clear.

Hair Began to Grow Again and Now Has Beautiful, Long Hair.

"When my little daughter was about five years old, she was taken with the measles. A few weeks after the measles were gone, she began to have a severe scalp humor. It itched so that she would scratch the whole day, until the blood came. We had a doctor and tried a good many other remedies, but nothing helped. Her hair all fell out and the scalp itself had an unpleasant odor.

"After we had tried all the other remedies, my wife told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. We bought one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. We used the Cuticura Remedies according to directions and in about three or four weeks her scalp was perfectly clear of the terrible humor. Her hair began to grow again and now she has beautiful, long hair. Since that time I have recommended the Cuticura Remedies to other people and they also had success. Chas. Salzbrenner, Amana, Iowa, Nov. 8, 1909."

DOES NOT SEE HIS SON.

Col. Watterson Only Meets His Attorney in Kingston.

Kingston, N. Y., July 7.—When Col. Henry Watterson of Louisville, Ky., arrived here yesterday he did not go near his son, Ewing, who is in jail charged with shooting Michael J. Martin, a Saugerties saloon keeper, but conferred with William D. Brinnier, his counsel. He was in communication over the telephone with District Attorney Cunningham at Ellenville, who later said that his attitude will be in accordance with that of the colonel if the present situation remains unchanged.

This statement in conjunction with the fact that no application has been made for the release of Ewing Watterson on bail, is taken to indicate that Col. Watterson believes his son insane and that he will approve of an application by the district attorney for a commission in lunacy to examine into his son's sanity.

LATIN AMERICA OBJECTS.

Protests Against Uncle Sam's Policy Are to Be Made.

Washington, July 7.—At least three and perhaps more of the Central and South American republics will make a concerted protest of some kind at the coming international conference of American republics at Buenos Ayres against the Central American policy of the United States. This possibility is being discussed in diplomatic circles here.

Rumors to this effect have been persistent of late in quarters usually well informed and some responsible Latin-American representatives admitted their approximate truth, though none would permit himself to be quoted. The rumors have led to lively exchanges of information among the Central and South American diplomats here. Officials of the state department are known to be watching the situation closely.

Nice Task for Delegates.

On the diplomacy of the American delegates to the conference may depend largely the outcome of the matter. In this delegation are such experienced diplomats as Henry White, ambassador to Italy, and later to France; Dr. John Bassett Moore, a recognized authority on international law; also Enoch Herbert Crowder of Missouri; Lewis Nixon of New York; Bernard Moses of California, Lamar Charles Quintero of Louisiana, Paul Samuel Reinsch of Wisconsin and David Kinley of Illinois.

EXPERTS VISIT THE GREYSOLON FARM.

Dean A. F. Woods of the University of Minnesota and W. A. Orton of the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., were guests of John G. Williams and C. P. Craig, owners of the Jean Du Lhut farm yesterday. With Mr. Williams, Mr. Craig, C. S. Mitchell and H. V. Eva, they went to look at the land owned by the Greysolon Farms company, which is under development.

Dean Woods and Mr. Orton are soil experts. Mr. Orton desired to learn about the soil in this region. Dean Woods said that the soil on the land, which will be developed by the Greysolon Farms company, is excellent. He said the owners were doing a patriotic service for Duluth.

Mr. Orton said the soil is adapted to truck gardening and that the truck gardens should be a success if properly farmed.

IS KILLED BY ENGINE

Victim of Iron Range Train Believed to Be John Helun.

Struck By Switch Engine in Yards at Fifth Avenue East.

A man supposed to be John Helun, from a letter found in the pocket of his coat, was run over by an Iron Range switching train about 10:30 o'clock last night near Fifth avenue east, and so badly mangled that he died about an hour later at St. Mary's hospital.

The coat was discovered this morning in the ambulance in which he had been conveyed to the hospital. The letter was sent in care of Arthur Mantelu of this city, but no such name appears in the city directory.

The man was walking on the tracks and was not seen by the engine crew until it was too late to stop the train before it struck him. The body was badly mangled, the skull being fractured, the chest broken in, and the arms and legs ground to pieces by the wheels.

The body was taken to Crawford's undertaking rooms to await identification. The unfortunate man was light complexioned with a small light mustache. His clothes were torn from his body. They were brought to the undertaking parlors and appeared to be those of a workingman.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Boss of the senate is chosen to head the Republican state campaign committee in spite of insurgency on the part of Sam Gordon—Many friends of candidates favor "Jake" Preus for the place—Deserved tribute paid Judge Jaques by prominent Duluthian—Eastman, of St. Cloud, discloses a secret.

WILL BE MANAGER OF REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR E. E. SMITH
Of Minneapolis.

Ed Smith To Be Campaign Manager.

Smith it is. Governor Eberhart has had his way, and the lieutenant governor, E. E. Smith of Minneapolis, for years Republican boss of the state senate, will manage the Republican state campaign. Possessed of undoubted and frequently demonstrated ability as political maneuverer, Ed Smith will make the campaign a hummer, it may be safely guessed. However, that is not taken without resort to steamroller tactics. Sam Y. Gordon, the level-headed editor-candidate for lieutenant governor, made his "holler," but he was flattened out with little or no compunction. Sam sees the writing on the wall, apparently, and doesn't much like the idea of being a county option candidate for state office who must rely upon Ed Smith for his campaign management.

Following are the committee appointments:

Executive committee—Secretary, J. A. O. Preus, Ada; treasurer, George J. Bradley, Norwood; S. H. Wilson, Mankato; E. J. Jenks, Morris.

Members-at-large—Joseph Chapman, Jr., Minneapolis; W. B. Parsons, Winona; A. D. Stephens, Crookston; E. J. Jones, Morris; George F. Dix, St. Paul; J. R. Morley, Owatonna; Andrew Fritz, St. Cloud; Frank Harry, Minneapolis; Alexander Janes, Pipestone; W. H. Goetzinger, St. Paul; K. O. Sandum, Briceiyn.

Members of congressional district—First, John C. Crabb, Rochester; Second, Thomas C. Collins, Whidom; Third, George J. Bradley, Norwood; Fourth, George H. Sullivan, Stillwater; Fifth, E. E. Smith, Minneapolis; Sixth, Frank M. Eddy, Sauk Center; Seventh, S. W. Frazier, Wheaton; Eighth, Charles S. Mitchell, Duluth; Ninth, George H. Mattson, Roseau.

Committeemen by judicial districts—First, C. W. Gross, Cannon Falls; Second, Kay Todd, St. Paul; Third, W. A. Munger, Wabasha; Fourth, Simon Hichelet, Minneapolis; Fifth, Charles Febel, Faribault; Sixth, S. B. Wilson, Mankato; Seventh, Fred Sherman, Grey Eagle; Eighth, J. H. Beneman, Lester Prairie; Ninth, James A. Larsen, Walnut Grove; Tenth, C. L. Foss, Rushford; Eleventh, F. B. Myers, Biwabik; Twelfth, A. D. Brown, Madison; Thirteenth, Fred Hunmiston, Worthington; Fourteenth, J. A. O. Preus, Ada; Fifteenth; B. R. Bassman, Aitkin; Sixteenth, T. O. Olstiun, Glenwood; Seventeenth, K. O. Sandum, Briceiyn; Eighteenth; J. A. Scneeburg, Isanti; Nineteenth, Charles F. Scriine, Mora.

Opposition Based On Apprehension.

Mr. Gordon's opposition to the selection of the Minneapolis man as campaign manager is based on the well known affiliations the latter has had for many years with railroad interests and the brewers' combine. These interests are said to have worked together consistently in molding legislators to their legislative will, and as senatorial overseer Mr. Smith's hand has fallen heavily on members of the legislature who rebelled, accordig to general report.

Before the session of the Republican candidates, Mr. Gordon was quoted as saying:

"The choice is up to the governor, of course, but I supposed I had been invited here to be consulted and if my opinion is asked, I can only say that I consider it poor politics. I have nothing against Edward Smith personally, but I think his selection to head the committee would be a political mistake."

It is an open secret that many friends of candidates would much prefer to have J. A. O. Preus, Governor Eberhart's executive clerk, named as chairman. Preus is a young man—perhaps too young, in the opinion of many—but he is generally credited with possessing political sagacity of an unusual order, and his ardent temperament, it is declared, would impart to the campaign work a spirit of enthusiastic optimism, without weakening it otherwise. It was hoped by some that Smith might be utilized in an unofficial capacity as a general and powerful advisor, but that he should be kept in the background. There undoubtedly is a strong feeling on the part of Republican politicians that Smith's selection will work harm to the party.

"There will be a warm congressional contest in this district," remarks the observant Mesaba Ore. "The Democrats have a strong candidate out against Congressman Miller, and those who profess to know declare that the congressman's position is decidedly wobbly." This is but a sample of the comment that continues to appear now and then, although no organized effort in the congressional contest has yet been made by Judge Jaques' friends.

Pays Tribute to Judge Jaques.

One of the leaders in civic affairs in Duluth, a man whose outlook includes not only all of St. Louis county and the Eighth congressional district, but all of Northern Minnesota as well, who has come out strongly for Judge Jaques is Frank Crassweller. Speaking of the Democratic candidate, Mr. Crassweller said:

I have been personally acquainted with Judge Jaques for a little over twenty-two years, and have always been impressed with his personality, his sterling integrity, genial manners, strict principles and fine ability. He is eminently fitted to make an honest, conscientious and able public servant. His knowledge of public affairs will also be a factor in enabling him to perform the duties of congressman acceptably to his constituents.

I know of no one, in the present unsettled political condition, who could better or more consistently represent the desires and hopes of the progressive people of this district in congress than he. If elected, there will be no shifting or twisting or turning by him from what he considers right principles or right policies. He has, I believe, the confidence not only of his friends, but of all others, even those who may be politically opposed to him.

A Republican who heard Mr. Crassweller's remarks showed that he was impressed by the earnestness and sincerity of the tribute and concurred in the sentiments expressed so far as his more limited acquaintance with the judge would permit, adding that his view of the situation was that Mr. Jaques stands a very good chance of being elected.

"There's something in the air," he said, with a tone of half-hearted regret, "and it doesn't sound like Miller. He's a brilliant young chap, too. Maybe that's the trouble. Too brilliant. When a man's young and in congress it's possible to be too brilliant and in too many directions."

Alvah Eastman, discussing the Democratic gubernatorial problem in the St. Cloud Journal-Press, says that no man in the state realizes more fully than does John Lind that he is to be the Democratic nominee. Mr. Eastman holds that had the former governor been determined not to accept the nomination he would merely have said: "If nominated I will refuse to accept, and will not permit the use of my name as a candidate."

Eastman Sizes Up The Lind Situation.

The St. Cloud editor proceeds to say that when the Democratic state convention is held, Mr. Lind will be in the state of Washington. He foresees that the county delegations will go to Minneapolis instructed for Lind, and that Lind will be unanimously nominated.

Also that when Mr. Lind returns from the West he will enter the campaign and fight to win.

There doesn't seem to be any flaw in that reasoning.

Discussing current reports of prospective candidacies for sheriff and auditor of St. Louis county, the Mesaba Ore asks some pertinent questions. "Has some little political clique a man on its hands who needs the money?" is one of them. The Ore reaches this conclusion: "A good man who attends to the duties of his office in an able and conscientious manner, doing the best for all concerned, according to his lights, is a good man to keep in office." Also it remarks:

Some Pertinent Queries.

"Why the necessity for a change? No county anywhere ever had a better auditor than Halden and no county anywhere ever had a better sheriff than Bates, and until something better is offered it looks like small politics to turn out one or both to make room for new and untried men. Halden sometimes becomes terribly fresh in political matters, but that does not detract from his usefulness as a county official, and another man might be worse. Bates has faults, tooo, but they do not interfere with his being a sheriff any county might be proud of. The opposition should come out into the light and say: 'You're a good fellow, aall right, and a good officer, but we want your job because we need the money, and we're going to beat you, if we can.' That, the Ore believes, would be a better way than to holler about 'life tenure' of office."

Frank A. Day is said to be the victim of a nervous trouble. His vacation at Gull lake is reported to have been taken at the advice of a St. Paul nerve specialist, his recent surgical operation having caused a weakened condition that made it imperative for him to seek rest and quiet. The Democratic state chairman's intense application to whatever work he may have in hand is such that it will surprise no one who knows him to learn he has been forced to take a vacation, and all his friends, in both parties, are hopeful that he will return to St. Paul in a few days a stronger man than he was when the doctor ordered him away. He is expected to return to his office this week.

Chairman Day Victim Of Overwork.

Charles B. Cheney, writing in the Minneapolis Journal of Mr. Day's condition, says:

Mr. Day's nervous condition has been aggravated by a continuous use of the long distance telephone. The difficulty in getting connections and in carrying on conversation at times has had the effect of upsetting the chairman's nerves. He began using the long distance telephone as a political medium two year ago last spring, when the fight was on between Johnson and Bryan for control of Minnesota's delegation. He spent several hours each day for over a week with the telephone receiver in his hand, communicating with every county in the state, and results justified the effort, although he was quite used up by the strain when it was over. Again in the fall campaign the telephone played an important part.

Elwood L. Raab, whose legal residence is in Fayal township, near Eveleth, filed today as a candidate for the Republican nomination for senator from the Forty-ninth district. Mr. Raab was a candidate for the house nomination four years ago, but failed to land. His action in filing today follows hard upon the heels of the decision of James P. Boyle not to be a candidate.

Raab Has Filed For the Senate

"Senator Vall is reported to have said that in case any one files as a candidate against him, he would spend the whole brewery to win," said Mr. Raab this morning. "Well, he'll have a chance to spend his brewery. I'm going into the fight to win. There doesn't appear to me to be any chance that another candidate will file for the Republican nomination."

However that may be in Mr. Raab's view, gossip is heard to the contrary effect. It is very likely that there will be a third candidate in the field and that he will be a strong contender, say shrewd observers of things in the county.

MAY FILE FOR OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR

O. N. LUNDBERG.

Who has been urged by friends to file as a candidate for the Republican nomination for county auditor. Two years ago he made a good showing as a candidate for the party nomination for register of deeds. He has been a resident of Duluth for about twenty-five years, and formerly was business manager of the old Svenska Tribune. Later he established the Lundberg & Stone book store, from which firm he withdrew about two years ago to go into the piano business. Recently he became a member of the Twin Ports Clothing company. His home is in Lester Park.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The July meeting of the women's council was held this morning at the clubroom of the library and the reports of the various committees were presented. Mrs. J. L. Washburn, president of the council, presided.

One of the most interesting features of the meeting was the reading of a letter from the nurse at the County Tuberculosis hospital in answer to a request for a list of the things needed at the hospital which would not be furnished in the regular list provided by the county and which private individuals might wish to send as gifts. The work of the hospital was spoken of at length and the council members are much interested in this effort for the cure and against the spread of the disease.

The list of things mentioned by the nurse, Miss McKague, as of much help in her efforts there are as follows:

"A pair of scales; Dr. Hart says that they are as necessary as a clinical thermometer, and, I believe, the patients think more so. Then we would like some sawdust, old newspapers and string, (these would help us to better sanitation of the sputum box); a revolving stool (piano or organ), to be used by patients while being examined; we would also be grateful for some old linens, as they are useful in many ways. For the amusement of the patients we would like two or three hammocks; they could be hung between the trees, and in this very hot weather the patients could take their quiet hour there; and two or three reclining chairs to be used in the same way. We would like an ice cream freezer. The patients have milk between meals, and with a freezer we could change it sometimes by freezing it and they would get as much nourishment and enjoy the variety. Then last, but not least, we have a phonograph and a wheel chair, as we have a boy that has to walk on his knees, and the latter would be gratefully received."

Any individual who desires to send any of these things mentioned may send them to the office of the county poor commissioner at the first floor of the county courthouse and the articles will be sent to the county tuberculosis hospital.

A letter from the Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele, relative to the early closing movement was read by Mrs. J. D. Morrison. Mr. Wurtele commended the council members for their past efforts to secure the early closing and suggested that the council as an organization request the contractors and employers of labor to pay by check on Monday instead of Saturday as is followed in many cases.

The movement to secure the closing of retail stores at 1 o'clock Saturdays during July and August was again discussed. Members of the council expressed their appreciation and admiration for the merchants who had decided to follow the movement and felt that the women of the city should show their appreciation by patronizing those firms. No formal action was taken.

The vacation schools for manual training and domestic science will be opened Monday of next week. The board of education set aside $300 for salaries for teachers for such a school. The members of the council will engage the teachers and provide the materials for work during the summer. The manual training classes will be held at the Irving school and the domestic science classes at the Bryant.

The committee on smoke nuisance of the council is working to secure effective legislation through the city council to combat the nuisance in Duluth. Reports were given from the committees on garbage collection, advertising, parks and playgrounds, and on the lectures to be given in this city in the autumn by Mrs. Carrie Bartlett Crane.

A committee will be appointed by the president to draw up a list of motions and rules of precedent by which the council is governed, in order that they may be in available form, and this same committee will consider the advisability of raising the dues of the clubs and societies that are members of the council. At present the dues are only 50 cents a year for each club, and many of the members feel that a larger sum could be easily realized for the various activities of the council. A motion to adopt a constitution and by-laws for the council was lost. During the years of its existence the Women's council has worked according to its sweet will, and although some of the members thought a simple constitution would make matters more convenient, the majority, who considered that no constitution was less hampering and more convenient, prevailed.

MILLIONAIRE'S WIFE STUDYING IN PARIS

MRS. A. D. WHITE.

Having abandoned the stage in 1905 for matrimony, Mrs. Archibald D. White, wife of the promoter of the salt trust and the Cleveland gas merger, is in Paris studying grand opera. Mrs. White is a great favorite in Paris exclusive society, not only because of her beauty, but because of her lovely voice.

SWEDISH WOMEN.

Mrs. C. H. Graves Tells of Her Life Among Them.

Duluth society is much interested in the presence in the city of Col. C. H. Graves, American minister to the court of Sweden, and Mrs. Graves who are at the Spalding for a few weeks. This is Mrs. Graves' first visit to Duluth and she will be the guest of honor at many affairs during her stay. She is a neice of O. D. Kinney, very well known to many Duluthians, as he formerly resided here.

Mrs. Graves is a charming woman of broad social experience as she spoke most interestingly yesterday afternoon of the impressions of her life among the Swedish people. "You can't know—really know—about a people until you have lived among them," said Mrs. Graves. "Before living in Sweden my experience with the people of that country was entirely with those that I met in the very casual way in America among the great mass of people from all of the other nations who come to America in great numbers and from this casual meeting one can really know nothing of their character and manner. The Swedish people are most intelligent. You never encounter any one there who can not read or write and it is the exception for a person of average education not to know a language other than his own. English is spoken very commonly. This is due, I suppose to the strong compulsory education laws. And by the way the Swedish are a most law abiding people. They are orderly and careful in their household matters and they extend that care to their civic duties. We were driving about the parks here in Duluth Sunday and there were many families and parties out picnicking. Papers and the leavings of the picnic luncheons and rubbish of that sort were scattered all about the parks. In Sweden you never see that. There are family picnics in the parks, constantly, but a Swedish citizen wouldn't think of throwing things about to mar the cleanliness and beauty of the civic property. You never seen signs like 'Keep off the grass' or admonitions of that sort. They simply don't do it.

"Then the Swedish women—I admire them tremendously. They are so quiet, and self contained and well balanced and they do things, nevertheless, so well. They have time for the essential things of life and they do them in a quiet lovely manner. Their social life is charming. We have a tea hour late in the afternoon. At that time you can find almost any of your friends at home and things are done simply and well. There is no great to-do if the design on the doilies does not match exactly the flowers chosen for decoration and the spirit of their entertainments is charming.

"Sweden, too, is a democratic nation. They admire so tremendously education and culture and achetvement that inevitably the people of distinction who are not of the royal circle, are received by the most exclusive hostesses. The crown princess, who was the English Princess Margaret, has enlarged her circle and included many who are not on the court list, but who are people of culture, writers, artists and men and women of achievement. It seems to me, too, that the present court is even broader than during King Oscar's reign and he was, you know, a democratic ruler. I think the feeling of caste is not so marked in Sweden as it is in England.

"The suffrage question in Sweden? The women are tremendously interested in it and they are accomplishing things, too. They are strongly opposed to the militant methods of the English women and the women of royalty are not interested, and one would hardly expect it. The Swedish women interested in suffrage accomplish what they do in a quiet manner. There doesn't seem to be club meetings or suffrage gatherings, and yet some how things get done. At Stockholm there is a young woman who has been elected to the city council. Voting in Sweden is decided according to the taxes paid. This young woman who was sent a year or two ago to America by the Swedish government to make a report of the library system of America, which is, you know the finest in the world, is filling her position well.

But I think that the thing that most impresses me of the Swedish women is their poise and well balanced planning of their lives and they get as much done as the folks we get in such a rush. I wonder if the climate hasn't something to do with it? There we have no extremes of hot or cold, nor severe thunder storms—the elements don't assail us. And then, of course, things aren't on the stupendous scale that they are here in America. When you return to this country, the bigness of it and the keenness of the competition and magnitude of every undertaking appals one. And I suppose that this commercial activity communicates itself to the social life and the other phases of existence here in America."

Col. and Mrs. Graves will return to Sweden in the autumn. They are in America on a two months' leave of absence.

TRY THIS DINNER

Tapioca Cream Soup.

Soak a third of a cup of pearl tapioca over night. Cook in the morning with a quart of stock for one hour and set aside. For dinner cut one onion and two stalks of celery and put on to cook for twenty minutes with a pint of milk and a small bit of mace. Strain into the tapioca and stock, reheat and serve, seasoning to taste.

Fish—Broiled Bluefish au Beuranoir.

Pan-broil the fish and place on platter. Have ready a sauce made by mixing together one tablespoonful each of vinegar and minced parsley, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and salt and pepper to season. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter into a frying pan and when it browns add the other ingredients. Bring to the boil and pour over the fish.

Vegetables—Curried Tomatoes.

Grate an apple and chop an onion and fry them until tender; add a teaspoon of good curry powder and mix with a little gravy or milk. Simmer for a few minutes and spread the mixture over the tomatoes, which have been cut and fried. Serve with boiled rice.

Dessert—Cottage Pudding With Orange Sauce.

Rub three or four large lumps of sugar upon the rind of one orange until all the yellow part is taken off. Scrape the pulp out of two oranges and add them to the flavored sugar. Mix a teaspoon of cornstarch very smoothly with three tablespoons of maraschino. Stir all gently over the fire until it thickens, adding more sugar if oranges were sour. Serve at once with any preferred cottage pudding or slices of stale cake which have been steamed.

HOW THE AVENUE BOYS AT THE Y. M. C. A. JUST MISSED BEING HEROES

There are people who think that heroism is dead. But they don't know the boys who room on the avenue side of the Y. M. C. A. building.

Suddenly last night, they—the avenue boys of the Y. M. C. A.—were awakened about midnight from the peaceful, innocent sleep which had enveloped them for two hours past and as they gazed out of the window they saw lurid flames cast their angry menace against the black darkness of the night. The avenue boys turned their backs to the glare and settled down again to peaceful sleep. And then suddenly they opened their eyes and gazed thoughtfully at nothing. And quickly they thought.

The flames were coming from the East—about a block away! Who lived over there? And like a flash the answer came that on that corner from which the flames were spouting, was situated the building of the Young Women's Christian association. Who inhabited it? Ah, unprotected women! Alone and unaided they must face the terror of the night and like the chorus of a musical comedy the avenue boys of the Y. M. C. A. swung their feet, which were covered like Isadora Duncan's, on to the cold and unresponsive floor. Hurrp up oestumes were pulled over pajamas and with one hasty glance at the mirror to see that their pompadours were not much disarranged the avenue boys hurried out.

As they ran they thought. It was an easy thing to rescue a maiden. Just lead one trembling by the hand—of course it's understood that the maiden would be trembling all over and that he would be leading her by the hand. One particularly modest hero hoped she'd have time to put on at least a kimono because nighttime rescues might be very embarrassing for Y. M. C. A. avenue boys—and then when she was led to safety she might weep on his shoulder a little bit and he would pat her gently and say "There, there, little one! the danger is all past," and then,—well, you can't tell what might happen. Life at the Y. M. C. A. is all right of course, but there's nothing like a home of a man's own and a little flat to begin with and of course later on—thought is a rapid thing! The heroes thought all that while they were running from Third avenue west to Second avenue.

And lo, they came to the Young Women's Christian association. And instead of flames spouting out of the window and charming creatures in distress screaming for help from lusty and frightened lungs, a quiet and peace reigned about the Y. W. The fire was in a building across the avenue.

There was nothing for the heroes to take care of the building in flames and dejected and forlorn the Y. M. C. A. heroes wended their way homeward.

"Curses!" thought they. But happy thought, if one does have to live uncomforted and lonely at the Y. M. C. A., at least there aren't any coal bills to pay. But then again, one doesn't use coal in the summer time.

The disappointed heroes climbed one, two, three, four, five—count 'em, five—flights to their forsaken couches, and wearily and discouraged sank back to slumber.

"Never again!" said the heroes drowsily as they slipped off to dreamland, and one manly but appealing hand was lifted upright, just outside the bed covers.

THE EVENING STORY

TOO REALISTIC A PICTURE

By Wesley Forbes.

Darius P. Waylen of Chicago was in London. Everybody knew it. Wherever he went, whatever he did, the newspaper reporters made a note of it.

Mr. Waylen had several sides. He was a business man and made money. He spent much of it in building churches, financing missionary societies, and such work, for he had a religious side. He also was an art connoisseur, and for a self-made and self-educated man, he was quite a tolerable judge.

Not only did Mr. Waylen pay good prices for pictures, even by unknown artists, if the works appealed to him, but his patronage was worth something as an indorsement of merit. Young artists invited him to their studies in the hope of making him a purchaser.

Dick Prendergrass was one of these. Dick's forte was pretty domestic subjects. He just then was engaged on a masterpiece which he purposed submitting to the hanging committee of the Royal Academy for the forthcoming exhibition at Burlington House. The picture, which was a good example both of his powers and his limitations, was entitled "Daddy's Homecoming." It represented a cottage exterior, with two children running down the garden path between the hollyhocks to meet a burly laborer in the background. The thing was well done as far as it went, but that, artistically speaking, was no great distance.

Darius P. Waylen, who was not an ill-mannered man, surveyed the picture with polite interest, and muttered a few perfunctory compliments. This, however, was the extent of his patronage.

Dick was disappointed. He had hoped to sell his picture for $1,000, which would have been salvation to him. He confided his disappointment to Mrs. O'Grady, his model, when she came for her hour of posing.

"Shure," she said, "them thatched cottages and hollyhocks, and bare-legged children—I'd not be sayin' a word agin' 'em, bless their little hearts—are not for a man like Darius Waylen. 'T is too tasteless they are. He'd be liking something with more mustard to it."

"Ah! Would he?" murmured Dick, absently, as he applied the brush.

"He would, sorr," pursued Mrs. O'Grady, with conviction, 'not in the least discouraged by his inattentiveness. "I was in the states meself twenty years ago, when Mick kept a drinking saloon in Colorado, and I know how Yankee tastes run. If you want to tickle 'em you must give 'em something hot and strong, sorr."

"Perhaps, Mrs. O'Grady, you would be so obliging as to suggest a subject," smiled Dick, with polite irony.

"And so I will, Sorr," she exclaimed, eargerly. "T is a subject I have in me mind's eye at this blessed moment. Ralo happenings, too. I can see it all as if it had been yesterday. 'Twas while Mike kep' his drinking saloon in Colorado. That was life, Sorr, and so I'm tellin' ye. Talk of the bars in the Cut of a Saturday night. Och! Begob! They're Sunday schools compared with what Mick's bar was every night of the week. What with the gambling and swearing and the shooting on sight when some one managed to hold the joker too often—well, 'twas a fair knock-out, Sorr," declared Mrs. O'Grady, nodding her Areadian sunbonnet by way of emphasis.

"In those days," said Mrs. O'Grady, "I was as purty a colleen as iver came out of Tipperary. You may laugh, Sorr, but it was so. The men used to smile at me kind o' tender, and, from motives of business, I'd smile back at 'em. Not at all of 'em, mind ye. I had me favorites; and me prime favorite was young Perkins from the dry goods store round the corner. Handsome chap he was. Had a sort o' way with him. But he wasn't over-popular with the customers. Had too much luck at poker; and some of them got remarking it. Well, one night, when he held four aces twice in four deals, there was a fireworks, and Jack Cowlairs drew a bead on 'im. Begob! Wasn't me poor heart in me mouth! I forgot everything else. Me wan thought was to save Perkins. Out I dashed from behind the bar; I threw me arms round the neck of him, and there I clung. So Cowlairs couldn't shoot for fear of hitting me, and Mick had time to trip him up from behind and take away the gun of him, and sit on his head, while Perkins got safely away. Now, there's a subject for ye—Cowlairs wid black murder in his eyes and his six-shooter in his hand, and me, a slip of a lass, clinging round his neck of me Perkins and shielding his body wid me own. Och! Beorna! 'Tis just the picture that would take ould Darius by storm, it is, and make yer everlasting fortune," concluded Mrs. O'Grady, waving her arms dramatically.

"By jove!" ejaculated Pendergrass, impulsively, grasping in a flash the potentialities of the scene that had just been so vividly described. "I'm not sure but what you've given me an inspiration, after all, Mrs. O'Grady."

Dick Pendergrass was a rapid and industrious worker when he once took a job in hand, especially if the subject appealed to him, as the present one undeniably did. He threw himself into his work with such energy that in less than three weeks the picture was completed.

Mrs. O'Grady took the greatest interest in it, following its developments on the canvas with a critical eye and supplying him with many illuminating details in the way of local coloring and atmosphere.

Fortunately, also she happened to have by her an old photograph of the interior of Mick's saloon, in which a group of its frequenters, young Perkins among them, was included. With these aids Pendergrass was enabled to make representation technically accurate, and his own artistic imagination did the rest. Mrs. O'Grady expressed entire approval when she saw it finished, declaring that he had got it to the life.

When Darius Waylen came to see the picture, in response to Pendergrass' invitation, he took a fancy to it at once.

"I congratulate you, Mr. Pendergrass," he said. "This is a strong piece of work. You have caught a certain phase—of American life exactly. Is this a real episode that has fallen within your own personal experience, may I ask?" he added, after a pause.

"It's a real episode, I believe, though it didn't come within my own experience," answered Dick. And he proceeded to explain the source from which he had got his inspiration.

"Hum! Very interesting," remarked the millionaire. "Well, I like the picture, and I'll buy it. What's your figure?"

Dick, thinking there was no harm in trying, but not expecting to get so much, mentioned $2,000.

"It's mine," answered Darius, in his bright direct way. "I'll have it fetched away this evening."

The same evening two picture dealer's men arrived with a packing case and conveyed the canvas to Waylen's hotel. The case was carried up to his private apartments and set on its end against the wall.

"Guess that durned thing goes behind the fire on the first opportunity," he soliloquized. "It mightn's be recognized, of course, but then it might, and I'm not going to run any tarnation risks. Damn Biddy O'Grady!"

And Darius Perkins Waylen—formerly plain Darius Perkins—emprasized his imprecation by giving the innocent packing-case a vicious kick.

ILLUSION'S PLEASURES

By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

Surely there is a pleasure in our illusions, so long as we do not know them to be illusions. So long, indeed, as we are ignorant of that, they are not illusions, but as blessed verities as any of the fixed truths of the universe.

To believe a person great and good is to endow him with all the great and good qualities we revere, and if by the added exaltation which we might derive from him if he really exerted those qualities upon us, it does not actually matter, for, on the contrary, by insisting upon it that he shall have the noble characteristics, they have to be created somewhere, and if only in our imagination, then at least that far we have been exalted by being their creators ourselves.

It is our own natures that have been the matrices of the statue we have reared to him, and he is none the worse and we are somewhat the better.

The illusion, too, that surrounds the dead with a halo is certainly a blessed one, all that was ignoble or unlovely in them sinking out of sight and memory and only the beautiful remaining, till, if they are not angels in the unseen sphere they visit, so much of them as remains in our memory is altogether away from us, how equally blessed are those concerning the affairs that might have come to us, but never do! The songs we never sang, the far off sweetest the wife we never wed, the hero for whom the maiden waits, the little children never born and never to be born—what perfectness enwrap them all!

And perhaps it is another thing to be quite as thankful for, the illusions we all have more or less about ourselves. As we never fairly see ourselves in the mirror, the right side there becoming the left, so that we get none but a false and distorted vision of ourselves, what virtues, what triumphs of truth, kindness and generosity do we not seem in that inner vision to possess! For would we not make such and such great gifts, and perform such and such magnanimous acts, if things were only a little different with us?

If we had the bank account of that billionaire, would we not be paying off the national debt? As it is, we have hardly enough for ourselves.

And what Ithuriels we are, too, in that inner vision—we, who scorn all untruth except that which may be absolutely necessary to save ourselves from other people's ill opinion! and what angels of mercy are we in that picture we delight to look at—we who roll the last scandal under our tongue for a choice morsel, and are glad when what we have is better than what our neighbor has!

Well, if we are to sit in sackcloth and ashes for our sins, our bad traits, hereditary or otherwise, our good traits uncultivated, we shall have a sad time of it; and so blessed be these, with all the other of our illusions that hinder us even from seeing a grain of sawdust in any doll we have.

For if a sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things, how often the reverse is true, and how we find ourselves forced to smile at the very affairs that seemed unbearable in the bearing, but which have proved to be, if not angels in disguise, yet things that took a glory on their flying wings Later year how bitter and detestable was that experience! This year the conditions are changed; the situation is otherwise; it seems to have been a very trifle about which to make such a fuss; we laugh at ourselves and at that trouble of the past.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

PATROL LAW IS UP AGAIN

Great Northern Is Still Fighting Enforcement of the Act.

Case in District Court at Crookston Going to High Court.

Crookston, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fight on the part of railroads against the fire patrol law passed by the legislature requiring railroads to have a watchman stationed every mile through wooded pieces of land to guard against fires continues. The first round in an extended battle over the proposition is being fought in the district court here. County Attorney E. O. Hagen proposes to carry the case to the highest court to have the law's constitutionality finally settled.

The case is not a new one, the decision of a justice of the peace at Brainerd having been appealed to the district court of Beltrami county last February by the Great Northern, which had been convicted, and three district court judges, Wright, McClenahan and Stanton, held the law to be unconstitutional, on the ground that many of the provisions were vague, it not having been specified what a "dry season" was, what steps the railroads should be expected to take in at once summoning all available assistance to put out fires, etc.

Great Northern Is Accused.

In the case here, Deputy Fire Ranger Guy Munroe made complaint against the Great Northern because of a recent fire near Dugdale, which it is claimed was started by sparks from a Great Northern engine, and burned over a quarter section of land and destroyed the farm buildings of Nels Peterson of this city. James H. Maybury appeared yesterday afternoon for the Great Northern and cited the district court decision above referred to, but County Attorney Hagen insisted that the case be set for trial, and this will be done by Judge Gossman in a few days. Whatever the decision, the case will be appealed, and County Attorney Hagen will ask Judge Watts to certify it up to the supreme court for final adjudication.

Because of the great number of fires which have been started this season, the decision will be awaited with great interest.

The expense devolving upon the railroads will be enormous, and a legal battle of no small proportions is certain. The railroads will fight the law to the last ditch, and the decision of the three judges above referred to in their favor they believe to be a strong entering wedge to secure a favorable decision in their efforts to have the law knocked out.

J. J. HILL'S REMARK IS BEING PROVED

Red River Valley Can Produce Crops Under Adverse Circumstances.

Crookston, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northwestern Agricultural society is planning on a big advertising campaign for the fair to be held here Oct. 5, 6, 7 and 8, by a demonstration on an immense scale of what the Red River valley will produce on what is admitted to be an extremely dry season.

The rain of Tuesday night was the first to fall for nearly five weeks during a season of the year when moisture is imperative in most agricultural sections of the United States or any other country and admitting the fact of a dire lack of moisture, special efforts will be made to show what Red River valley soil will produce under the most adverse circumstances when the land is farmed as it should be by crop rotation and better cultivation and better seed selection.

While a bumper crop is out of the question, the fact remains that there are many fields which will produce a good crop. Not a few isolated instances, but scores of them where the wheat was sown on large potato fields, corn fields, winter rye fields and summer fallowed land.

In former years, on land that had been allowed to run down, conditions which prevail this year regarding lack of moisture, would have meant a practical crop failure. During the past week visitors from other states and from the southern portion of this state where there have been no rains, have commented freely upon the wonderful manner in which crops and tame pastures were withstanding the drought, and now the "dry year" crop will be a feature of the advertising campaign that will be made to induce farmers of Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and other agricultural states to see what the Red River valley will do in a dry season. This will be to prove what James J. Hill once said in the early days, that the Red River valley would stand more extreme conditions and produce a crop than any other section on the face of the earth.

MOTHER SAVES TOT FROM AWFUL DEATH

Lowers Pail on Rope to Child Rescuing Him From Well.

Harvey, N. D., July 7.—The 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Walden while playing around a well, accidentally fell in. The opening was but partially closed by planking, and the little fellow unfortunatey stepped into the hole left open by the partial removal of one of the planks.

The accident was witnessed by playmates, who called to the lad's mother who was at work in the garden. With remarkable presence of mind, she immediately made use of a pail and rope, which she lowered into the well. The boy had, by rare good fortune, been able to grasp one of the curb supports that jutted out from the side some two inches, and was able to support himself until able to catch hold of the rope and pail lowered from above.

The well is about twenty feet to the water and has some twenty-five feet of water and it is certainly an unusual case in that he was not stunned by the fall, or so badly frightened that he was not drowned.

BOY BADLY KICKED BUT STILL LIVING.

Willow City, N. D., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though the 3-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Oldham, residing south of this city, received a severe kick in the head from a large horse, he will live. The lad seemingly escaped the wanton eye of his father long enough to get in the way of the hoofs of one of the horses. The blow landed on the temple, crushing the skull and rendering the child in such condition that there was apparently little hope of recovery. The little one is still alive, however, and prospects of recovery are now evident.

FIRE SWEEPS OFF BARN OF SETTLER

Clearwater County Homesteader Loses Barn By Flames.

Bagley, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A brush fire suddenly crept in on the home of S. E. Halum of Alida, southern Clearwater county, on July 4, and before the owner noticed it had caught in the barn. A strong wind was blowingg and Mr. Holum was barely able to save the stock tied in the barn. Neighbors came to his assistance and the home was saved.

"WAITING" FOR HIS CHECK.

Alleged Government Employe Runs Up Bill Getting Into Trouble.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 7.—United State District Attorney Houpt came from St. Paul and preferred charges against H. H. Dunham in the federal court here Tuesday. Mr. Dunham pretended to be a secret service agent, and ran up a big board bill while waiting for his check to arrive. He has been in jail on this charge, and a new complaint—that of impersonating an officer—is now preferred against him. He pleaded guilty and was bound over to the November term of court, bail being fixed at $1,000. Secret Service Agent Sommers is here looking into the matter.

ELKS TO GLADDEN YOUTH.

Hancock Herd Will Distribute Pennies at Detroit Meet.

Hancock, Mich., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. A. Mayworm, exalted ruler of the Hancock lodge of Elks, has arranged with the Houghton National bank to secure 5,000 bright new copper pennies to be distributed by the Upper Michigan Elks in the parade at Detroit next week. The local Elks will leave for Detroit on Saturday morning next, July 11, at 8:15 o'clock, by special train, running through to St. Ignace, where transfer will be made to a D. & C. boat. A special commissary car, in charge of French & Co., of Houghton, will be attached to the special train.

AITKIN'S NEW LIBRARY.

Plans for Structure Show It Will Be Very Fine.

Aitkin, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The plans for the Aitkin Carnegi library building have been received from the architects, Claude & Starck of Madison, Wis., and the twelve sheets of detail drawings give a splendid idea of what the building is to be like. The front, facing the Hodgeden residence, is fifty-one feet wide with center entrance of artistic design with pillars on either side and double plate glass doors. The building will be a story and a half high, the basement being about half above ground. The walls are to be of brick with concrete sills, stone water table and cement steps. The roof is of hip design and may be of tile or shingles. There are three windows on each side of the entraance.

The main building is twenty-six feet deep but the entrance vestibule extends to the front nine feet. From the vestibule a snort flight of stairs lead to the basement in which are the furnace room, toilet room and a room for board meetings, etc. The main steps from the vestibule lead to the library proper where the delivery desk is located. To the right is a large room for the children and to the left is the general reading room. All three rooms are connected by broad openings, making it practically one large room.

MISSISSIPPI VERY LOW.

Less Water in Father of Waters Than in Fourteen Years.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Delegates to the meeting of the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association in St. Paul, July 12, will have to travel by rail. The river is lower than for years. Regular passenger boat service between St. Paul and Davenport, Iowa, has been suspended, waiting for higher water.

Some of the Minneapolis sawmills are closed down for lack of logs, and the flour mills are using steam as auxillary to the water power.

Water is dropping, not running, over Minnehaha falls, and the small boats which take excursion parties out of St. Paul are so frequently stopped by sand bars that the owners expect to tie them up until water is higher.

These conditions are unprecedented say those who have depended for years on water power or river navigation for their business.

Officials of the St. Anthony Falls Water Power company said that conditions in June and July have not been so bad in the history of the company. The mills have used steam for nearly a month. But little power is furnished by the falls.

POISONED BY NEIGHBOR.

Sensational Charge Made By Man Just Before Dying.

Milbank, S. D., July 7.—According to a statement made shortly before his death, James Reem, a 70-year-old farmer living near here, was poisoned by John Van Asche, a neighbor, who gave him a drink of whiskey. Reem was at work in a field yesterday and was offered a drink from a bottle. At first he demurred, but finally took the drink. It tasted bitter and he asked Van Asche to drink, but the latter declined. In a minute Reem began to grow sick and died within a few hours.

Van Asche was arrested shortly afterward and bound over to the circuit court. Public feeling is high over the affair.

This is eighteen more men than the cell capacity of the two cell wings, and a number of the men sleep on cots in the corridor.

FERGUS FALLS ELKS WILL ERECT A HOME.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 7.—The Fergus Falls Elks' lodge is about to erect a handsome building. A site has been selected on Lincoln avenue east, and the building is to have a frontage of fifty feet on the main street. The estimated cost is $55,000. The meeting will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 26 and 27, beginning at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Lake Linden—Thomas Curren, who conducted a tailor shop for a number of years, has moved to Duluth, where he will make his future home. He was accompanied by his daughter. Mrs. E. Atkinson and son, H. P. Curren.

Duluth Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove It.

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Duluth given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this:

Mrs. M. McGillivray, 1228½ Superior St., Duluth, Minn., says: "The statements I have previously given for publication in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills have fully expressed my opinion of this remedy. At this time, I gladly confirm all I have previously said." (Statement given in Nov. 1908.)

On Oct. 20, 1904 Mrs. McGillivray gave the following statement: "Kidney trouble clung to me for a year or more and I suffered from dull, heavy pains through the small of my back. I also had headaches, did not rest well and was annoyed by irregular passages of the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills, helped me from the first and soon freed me from my trouble. I have had no need of a kidney remedy since."

THE SOUTH DAKOTA IDEA.

The example of the South Dakota Republican state convention is commended to those Minnesota Republicans who think it wisdom to sacrifice principle to party solidarity and earnest convictions to an absurd compromise with evil.

The Minnesota Republican convention tacitly approved the Aldrich-Payne-Taft tariff law, and indorsed the senators and congressmen who voted against it. Either the convention was wrong in its indorsement of the tariff law, or it was wrong in its indorsement of those who voted against it. Either it was wrong in indorsing those who voted against the tariff law, or it was wrong in indorsing Congressman Tawney, who worked for it and voted for it. The result of this pitiful attempt to reconcile black and white is a shifty, evasive, namby-pamby declaration that has satisfied no one, and gives the party candidates a precarious, wobbling platform on which to stand.

The South Dakota Republicans, however, had the courage of their convictions, and their platform is inspired by the true notion that the highest political expediency is plain speaking, fair dealing and an honest facing of the issues.

The South Dakota platform declares allegiance to the Roosevelt policies; the Minnesota platform definitely refused to declare allegiance to Roosevelt or his policies.

The South Dakota platform commends President Taft only in so far as he has been loyal to those policies; the Minnesota platform gave him a blanket indorsement that approves every act and appointment of his administration.

The South Dakota platform declares that the tariff should be revised immediately; the Minnesota platform conveys the impression that the tariff law is entirely satisfactory, and that for use in making future changes the Taft-Tawney tariff commission is a boon, when in point of fact it is the greatest piece of political humbug perpetrated in years, with the single exception of the tariff revision of 1909.

The South Dakota platform declares for a physical valuation of railroad property as a basis for rate regulation; the Minnesota platform gives no indication that the Republicans of Minnesota know that there is any railroad problem.

The South Dakota platform declares for the income tax; apparently the Minnesota Republican convention did not know that an income tax amendment has been submitted to the states, for its platform said nothing about it.

The South Dakota platform urged further modifications in house rules to curb the power of the speaker; the Minnesota convention, being obliged to indorse Tawney, dared not give a hint that there is any dissatisfaction with Tawney's political godfather, Joe Cannon.

In short, the South Dakota platform is a plain, honest statement of progressive opinion on the vital issues of the day; the Minnesota platform is a cowardly evasion of all live issues, and an attempt to mark time for fear that to move forward might offend somebody.

The South Dakota platform commends itself to friends of progress and real democracy; the Minnesota platform commends itself to nobody except the few who hold trickery higher than statesmanship, and prefer cunning evasion to honest plain speaking.

SIX MONTHS OF GAYNOR.

Nominated by Tammany—though greatly against its will—and opposed by most of the progressive forces of New York city as well as by many of the reactionary forces, William J. Gaynor has proved himself to be the man New York needed in the mayor's chair, and more real reforms have been achieved by him in the first half of his term than by any half dozen mayors in the history of the city.

Says the New York World, in a review of Gaynor's work: "No other mayor ever accomplished so much in so little time. He has revolutionized the spirit of the city government. The power of his precept and example has spread throughout the public service. Not only have his appointments been uniformly excellent, but he has carried out the principle that he enunciated when he took office: 'No political interference or influence whatever shall hereafter be tolerated in any department of the government of the city of New York.' He is an independent mayor, subservient to no boss and no machine, administering government for the general welfare of the citizens of New York.

"Whether he is saving the city hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in condemnation proceedings, or checking tax-dodgers, or reforming the police courts, or compelling city employes to do an honest day's work for their pay, or ending the printing swindle, or working out an orderly administration of the excise laws, or preventing abuses of police power, or abolishing useless commissions, or weeding out corruption in the various departments, he is always proceeding systematically and methodically toward the accomplishment of his ends. What he has done does not have to be done over. He is the one mayor in many years who mastered the trade of municipal government.

"What folly to take such a man away from New York city to make him governor! The waste, corruption, jobbery and venality that must be reached and reformed from the city hall are immeasurably greater than anything that can be corrected from Albany. There has been more misgovernment in city affairs every week than in state affairs in a month."

The World likes to run on its editorial page a famous quotation to the effect that this country should have a government by laws and not by men. It is sound sentiment, too; yet what use are laws without men—real men—to execute them? And what use are men to execute laws unless they are backed by a citizenship composed of men firm in their insistence that sound laws shall be rigidly enforced?

It is well enough to have a government by law; and it sounds well to speak of having a government by law rather than by men. But no law will automatically produce good government. Poor laws, well administered by good men backed by an enlightened public spirit, are vastly better than good laws into which the spirit of strong and progressive manhood has not been breathed.

This must be a government not only by law, but by men. New York had law enough, but it had bad government. Its public officials were thieves and the tools of thieves. All the law that human ingenuity could devise didn't take the place of real men in the city government. New York needed a man, and in Gaynor it found him.

CHAIRMAN E. E. SMITH.

The selection of State Senator Edward E. Smith of Minneapolis for chairman of the Republican state central committee is peculiarly fitting.

In the first place Governor Eberhart desired it very ardently, which was natural in view of the fact that throughout his service as president of the state senate he has had Senator Smith constantly at his elbow where he could be reached quickly for advice and suggestions, in both of which the wily boss of the "senate combine" is exceedingly fertile.

Then, too, after the convention had framed a platform so exquisitely pleasing to the reactionary forces in the Republican party, one that sounded so sweetly in the ears of Messrs. Aldrich, Cannon, Tawney and other congressional bosses and sub-bosses, it was very nice dovetailing of arrangement to pick for chairman of the state central committee the Aldrich of the Minnesota senate.

Desiring to be consistent though the political heavens fell, the party managers evidently decided to let the tail go with the hide.

THE POINT OF ROCKS.

Discussion of the problem of opening up the Point of Rocks has reached a substantial and promising basis when there seems general agreement that the project should be studied very carefully before any step is taken. The city engineer's plan of cutting Superior street from Eighth avenue west to Fourteenth avenue west will cost, he estimates, $427,600. A project of this magnitude should be started only when pretty nearly everybody is pretty nearly sure that the right plan has been devised.

It is to be feared that those who count confidently upon making profitable sales of crushed rock from the excavation to be made are more sanguine than any facts that have been made clear will justify. Several points must be cleared up before the crushing of the rock is decided upon:

First, how long will it take to dispose of the vast quantities of rock that will be excavated? If it takes twenty years, as some have asserted, that is too long to wait for the completion of the improvement.

Second, how much of a plant will the city need to crush rock at anything like reasonable cost? It has been stated that the city cannot, with its present small plants, crush rock as cheaply as it can buy it already crushed, and that it would cost $60,000 to instal a practical crushing plant.

Third, how are transportation problems to be met so that the broken or crushed rock may be moved without too many handlings, every one of which adds largely to its cost?

There has been much discussion of the disposal of crushed rock from the proposed project, and too little consideration of whether it is feasible to crush the rock at all. The recent suggestion through The Herald that the proposed excavation be pushed as rapidly as possible, and that the broken rock—not crushed—be hauled by the street railway to fill in the half dozen city bridges that need attention, seems worth fair consideration.

While the interests of owners of lots on the Point of Rocks are not to be overlooked, their interests should most assuredly be subordinated to the general interests of the community as a whole. The general interest demands that no steps be taken until every suggested plan has been carefully examined by experts, and the most economical and practical one selected.

ROOSEVELT AND DIRECT NOMINATIONS.

Contributing Editor Roosevelt writes in the Outlook about the primary election, which the New York legislature rejected even though both Governor Hughes and Col. Roosevelt urged its adoption.

The contributing editor says that though some primary election plans haven't worked out very well, there is nothing wrong with the principle; that while no patent device ever will secure good government unless the people demand good government, direct nominations will help; and that though the New York legislature as it is constituted at present may delay the coming of direct nominations, it can only delay, and can not defeat.

As usual, the Colonel is quite right; but it could be expressed in fewer words still: The nation is governed by parties, and unless the people rule the parties through direct nominations, the boss-controlled parties step in between the people and their government and make a hideous travesty out of what was intended to be a democracy. So long as parties rule the government, the people must rule the parties or there is no popular government; and only through the primary election can the people rule the parties.

"Ed" Smith for party chairman? Well, on such a platform, why not?

That Kansas City jury says that flour millers violate the law when they use drugs to improve the appearance of flour so that inferior stuff can be labeled "first patent." It doesn't sound like a very far-fetched conclusion.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

NO COMPETITION FOR THE AVERAGE MAN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

There is persistent competition for the services of the exceptional man. The world does not worry over the man with extraordinary abilities, unusual mentality and vast capacity for achievement even if he is only a pugilist. It is the average man of whom we must think.

Men who are victims of their incapacity and who, because of it, are out of work should be blameless. No one censures the child because he cannot lift as much as a man. No one blames him because he cannot exercise a man's power upon a man's work.

The average of mankind is not gifted. It possesses no peculiar talent. It has had no especial opportunity. It has not had a particular advantage. A few creatures in God's image have not the capacity to provide even for their reasonable needs under natural circumstances.

The lowest type of the human race can seek food and provide shelter. It is only in our civilization which is so satisfying to many people, that men and women are condemned to hopeless poverty and benumbing dependence on others for the liberty to toil, for the right to eat.

We let 300 people live in a tenement where only fifty ought to live. Some of us would not let our dog exist in such an environment. These people do not prefer such a life. They cannot help it. Economic conditions force them to it. Poverty paralyzes them. They are shut out from the world's generous storehouse. They are denied the opportunity to supply their wants. Their fellow men will not permit them to live decently. They are robbed even of hope.

DISARMS CRITICISM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish through your open court column to place my approval on the attitude taken by the Y. M. C. A. in the swimming proposition. In the absence of a public bathing and swimming place owned by the city and a teacher paid by the same, the Y. M. C. A. has come nobly to the front and offered its pool to the boys of the city so that they may learn to swim. The chief criticism of the Y. M. C. A. and the only one I have heard, has been that it cares for people who can afford to pay for things. Only those having fair salaries can live at the institution. Only those who can afford to spend the money for a membership can obtain the privileges of the gymnasium. Up to this time there has been a charge almost everything and that is often why the association must be kept up in some way. This free swimming idea is a fine one and the officials of the association are to be congratulated on carrying it out.

A DULUTH ATTORNEY.

Duluth, July 6, 1910.

He Will Not Rust.

Harper's Weekly: Persons who feel that the colonel must run again for president because they think he could get the nomination seem to us to overrate the attractions of the presidential office to a man who has already had a full experience of it, and to underrate the liveliness and versatility of Mr. Roosevelt's mind. The Evening Post, in praising his Romanes lecture, says:

"The same astonishing energy which distinguishes Mr. Roosevelt in his political life and in his physical achievements is manifest in the breadth and multiplicity of the questions he touches upon relating to the survival of species and races and nations and politics. The reader cannot fail to be impressed with the range of his knowledge, the extent of his reading, and the remarkable variety of his intellectual interests."

It might as well be recognized that the colonel is entirely capable of considering that to be president again would be good neither for him nor for the country, and of adhering resolutely to a determination long ago published that he will not again be a candidate for that office. Nor do we think it will take him long to demonstrate that he is also entirely capable of employing himself and his prodigious reputation, profitably and strenuously enough, in other occupations. There is lots to do in the world, including a good many important things that can be done to better advantage by a man who has been president. Undoubtedly the colonel will undertake to do them all, and possibly will achieve prodigies of performance that will win him the title of President Emeritus of the United States, with a claim on the Carnegie Foundation.

Quick Action.

Philadelphia Times: The whole population of a little suburb to the north of Philadelphia turned out to the celebration of the anniversary of their volunteer fire department. The village was in a state of intense excitement. A number of the inhabitants swarmed about the platform of a little bungalow which passed for a station.

With a snort the engine of the train carrying the out-of-town visitors announced its arrival as it rounded the curve several hundred yards below the platform. Handclasping among the men and women soon ensued and the visitors were led on a tour of inspection about the town.

While admiration was being expressed on all sides by the visitors at sight of the newly erected headquarters and a brand new fire engine, the latest acquisition to the village, a Philadelphian, very much impressed, tapped the captain of the fire brigade on the shoulder, and in a surprised voice inquired, "How do you summon the fire department in case of fire? You don't seem to have either telegraph or telephone connections in the town?"

That was the captain's chance and he seized it. "That's easily enough explained, sir," he said. "We send them all a postal card."

Shakespeare and the Box Office.

Eleanor P. Hammond in July Atlantic: Is it a mercenary, box-office view which suggests that the greatest of Shakespeare's comedies were produced in part to supply the loss of one actor, to meet the talents of others? But when we consider if he who played Touchstone could have played Malvolio, have played Edgar in the Tom o' Bedlam scenes of "Lear," have played Stephano in the Tempest, are we not following the only line of Shakespeare's daily thought which we are capable of following? We know that Falstaff, as created by Shakespeare's friend and fellow-actor, John Heming, became instantly one of the most popular of characters, and it is a credible tradition which asserts that "The Merry Wives of Windsor" was written at the queen's command, that she might see Falstaff in love. The figure of Falstaff in this play is escorted by that of the immortal Slender, sighing for sweet Anne Page; the jovial bulk of the one, the lackadaisical length of the other of the ill-assorted comrades delighted the Elizabethians as they do us.

Hatpin Evil Solved.

Charles Battell Loomis, in Smith's: There is a good deal of selfishness in the way that women run men through with their hatpins in crowded conveyances. I have sometimes thought that I would fill my pockets with little corks, and whenever a pin point was about to enter my optic nerve I would stick a cork on the pin and thus render it innocuous. It could be done with all the forms of the most rigorous politeness. Just say to the lady whose pin you are dodging: "Please hold your head still for a moment. The operation will be perfectly painless." Then clap on the cork, remove your hat, smile pleasantly, bow, and the incident will have been closed.

THE COMMUNITY OF WEALTH.

Sioux City Tribune: The community of wealth is closely allied to Cleveland's "community of pelf." We have often illustrations of the latter; we had one this week of the former.

George W. Perkins of the house of Morgan visited Chicago, where there was strong opposition among packers raise of rates by railroads on their products. He came to persuade the protestants to submit. Mr. Armour, presumably representing the packers, at first refused. But the next day, and after Mr. Perkins went back to New York, he issued a statement that he had assented. The freight increase on meats is to be over 11 per cent. The manufacturers, not having yet been made to feel the power of the community of wealth, stand out and propose to fight the raise.

Mr. Perkins represented the combination of banking power recently consummated by Mr. Morgan. There was uneasiness last February when this assembler of interests made the deal that added the assets of the Equitable Insurance company to his list. At that time the following classification of interests and the capitalization involved was made in Morgan's consolidation, without subsequent investigation:

Railway group, capitalization	$4,723,453,945
Industrial and commercial capitalization	2,313,000,000
Insurance group, assets	1,029,626,178
Banking group, assets	671,322,500
Trust company group, assets	438,806,800
Total of five groups	$9,176,308,423

The larger interest is that of the railways. This is of two classes, the railways directly controlled and those financed in part. The former covers 13,619 miles of track, with a capitalization of $1,164,349,200, and gross earnings of $134,911,364. The latter covers 57,382 miles of track, with a capitalization of $3,559,104,646, and gross earnings of $687,681,207.

Mr. Armour and his associated packers are large borrowers. It requires immense sums of cash daily to buy and pay for the daily train loads of cattle, hogs and sheep that pour into the markets, and with a three months average overturn of the investment. All the packing companies are heavily bonded, banks holding their bonds largely, and interest is to be met. So the packers lean heavily on the banks. The man who controls the banking power controls the packers. So when Mr. Perkins, whose house has little less than half its banking power in railroads, comes to the packers with 'arguments' to persuade them to accept an advance in railroad rates, he comes with an influence hard to resist.

And we are assured that the ultimate consumer will not feel this advance, as it will be but one-twenty-sixth of a cent a pound. The experience of the ultimate consumer induces suspicion of the promise.

Mr. Pinchot As the Arch-Insurgent.

Harper's Weekly: As Mr. Pinchot's name is associated with the proposition that there is, or is shortly going to be, a new party in this country, headed by Col. Roosevelt, Mr. Garfield, and himself, it is only fair to point out that Mr. Pinchot himself made no such claim in his recent St. Paul speech. The remark which found its way into the head-lines next morning was really made by the president of the club that gave Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Garfield the dinner at which the speechifying took place; and it was made before either Mr. Pinchot or Mr. Garfield had spoken. Nevertheless, there were things in Mr. Pinchot's own speech which, as coming from a Republican, and one so recently a high official, are decidedly striking, even after a year or more of insurgent oratory. Mr. Pinchot evidently believes in defending conservation aggressively, and his aggressiveness does not fail from any tenderness with his own party. Congress is Republican, and has been for years, yet it is doubtful if any responsible public man ever arraigned congress more fiercely than Mr. Pinchot does. He practically accuses its present leaders of absolute subserviency to the interests—that is to say, of utter disloyalty to their constituents. "Every man who knows congress well," he declares, "knows the names of senators and members who betray the people they were elected to represent, and knows also the names of the masters whom they obey;" and he finds the Payne bill the best instance of the kind of treason he is talking about. The wool schedule, the cotton schedule, the sugar differential, the tricky increase in structural steel—all, he declares, are dishonest concessions to improper demands. He goes farther and accuses Senator Aldrich of helping to organize an international rubber trust at the very time he was getting the duties on manufactured rubber raised; and from these things he turns directly to the consideration that party ties do not bind as strongly as they used to.

This is strong language, even for a member of the late tennis cabinet. While, as we have said, it may be unfair and inaccurate to father the new-party declaration on Mr. Pinchot, this much would seem to be within the limit of reasonable inference—if men who, like Vice-President Sherman, accept and defend the tariff, and see nothing the matter with the Aldrich kind of leadership, are to remain in the same party with men who feel and think and talk as Mr. Pinchot does, then it is going to be more difficult than ever to see what parties mean and what they are for.

Keeping Close To the Patch.

Louisville Courier-Journal: A McCracken county truckgrower made good on an acre of strawberries—and it wasn't a good year for strawberries either.

To be sure he didn't put out the strawberry plants and leave them to grow as they listed while he was whittling pine sticks and chewing "long green" at the corner grocery. In fact he didn't spend a good deal of time at the corner grocery and he didn't take many afternoons off to go fishing. He dosen't believe that it is absolutely necessary for him to be at the grocery as many as five days out of every seven in order to discuss the political situation. He realizes that the government at Washington still lives, and that the state administration at Frankfort is fairly busy. He pays his share of taxes to help run the political machinery and he votes when the election comes around—and that lets him out. The rest of the time he keeps pretty close to the strawberry patch.

There are always plenty of men at the corner grocery or the cross roads store, and any or all of them can tell how the government ought to be run, but some of them wouldn't know a strawberry if they met it in the road. Most of them can tell you what they did last year and what they are going to do next year, but they are apt to be shy on details as to what they are doing this year. It's the fellow who sticks to the strawberry patch and who doesn't feel that he is needed to carry on conversation at the grocery who can supply the concrete evidences of current activity—item, $900 cleaned up on an acre of strawberries.

War and Culture.

John J. Chapman in July Atlantic: So hostile to culture is war that the artisans of France have never been able to attain to the standards of workmanship which prevailed under the old monarchy. Latin has been mispronounced in England ever since the wars of the commonwealth. Our national culture started with the handicap of a seven-years' war, and was always a little behindhand. During the nineteenth century the American citizen was buffeting the waves of new development. His daily life was an experiment. His moral, social, political interests and duties were indeterminate. Nothing was settled for him by society. Was a man to have an opinion? Then he must make it himself. This demands a more serious labor than if he were obliged to manufacture his own shoes and candlesticks. No such drafts upon individual intellect is made in an old country. You cannot get a European to understand this distressing overtaxing of the intelligence in America. Nothing like it has occurred before, because in old countries opinion is part of caste and condition; opinion is the shadow of interest and of social status.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

•••The old Duluth Roller mill has been completely remodeled by Henry Gill, a well known miller of the Red river valey, at an expense of $30,000, so it will turn out 500 barrels daily, and will start grinding next week. Mr. Gill has employed an excellent head miller, W. T. Fee, now of the Humboldt mill in Minneapolis and formerly associated with W. A. Scott, head miller of the Imperial, in the Keewatin mill across the northern boundary line. His chief engineer will be C. H. Kinney of Minneapolis and J. H. Dixon will have charge of the office.

•••The annual strike among the street laborers is on again. The trouble is almost entirely confined to Forrestal Bros.' contracts on Ohio avenue and Michigan street.

•••Last evening the Odd Fellows held installation exercises with R. E. Patterson as chief officer. The officers installed were as follows: S. W. Orchard, N. G.; J. Christian, V. G.; John Toftus, secretary; John Elling, treasurer.

•••City Assessor Cooley has completed the footings of the assessments of real and personal property in Duluth. The total valuation is $27,900,177, of which $1,053,880 is exempt. The valuation of personal property is $4,480,000, an increase of $597,000 over last year. The realty valuation is $23,420,177.

•••Work of driving piles of the Iron River stone dock was begun today. Contractor Palmer expects to have the work completed by July 20. The dock will be 100 by 140 feet and equipped with all modern appliances.

•••The Sunday Critic is the name of a new weekly paper to be started at West Superior.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

But He Didn't!

Austin Transcript: If President Taft had shown the same decision and firmness in connection with the robber Payne tariff bill a year ago that he recently showed in connection with the postal savigs bank bill there would have been something done in behalf of the people.

"Hey, Rube!"

St. Cloud Journal-Press: Now is the time for the Republican papers who were so dead sure that Governor Eberhart was an easy man to elect to get busy along the boosting line. We are going to be real good and help.

It Can't Be Concealed.

Red Wing Republican: A man can't keep a newspaper and devote it to selfish special interests, without its motives and impulses being obvious on the face of its attitude on public questions and that means that its influence is nullified and its usefulness as a newspaper in a fair way to be destroyed. That is the reason that so many of the great metropolitan dailies exert so little influence. They are known to be controlled by some "special interest."

How Do You Like July?

Stillwater Gazette: Men may come and women may go, but be it remembered that Minnesota has had the driest, hottest, rottenest June this year that ever happened or ever will.

Some Dailies, Too.

Middle River Pioneer: Already are seen the effects of the wielding of the party whip. The Republican machine dailies are lauding the Taft administration to the skies, giving great prominence to interviews with standpatters and in every way possible belittling the strength of the progressive movement. But, thanks be, there is an army of periodicals and weekly pappers that do not wear the party collar.

The Circus.

Hibbing Tribune: Every time the circus comes to town one hears the same talk about the money that it takes out of town.

The Duluth Herald has a sensible editorial upon the subject the other day. The Herald admits that the circus takes money out of town, but claims that it is worth what we have to pay for it. Else why do we all, every mother's son—and daughter—of us go and spend our money every time the circus comes to town?

The busiest business man can find time to take the kids to the carnival. Two years ago Hibbing had a circus out in a foot of mud on the Buffalo & Susquehanna property. Mistress and maid were there, both in their best bib and tucker. Did they turn back when they saw the mud? Not on your life. They waded right through and they saw that circus, every last daughter and mother and grandmother of them.

The circus is just as great as it is crude and it is one of the things in this world that we have just got to have.

Trying To Learn? Have Learned, Rather.

Cannon Falls Beacon: The president is being urged, to get into the campaign against insurgent candidates for congress. If that's where Mr. Taft stands that is the thing for him to do. The people are trying to learn whether Mr. Taft is for them, or only for the Republican party as controlled by protected monopoly.

Rome at Its Worst.

Guglielmo Ferrero in July Atlantic: It is well known that there is in Roman history a period which, from the reputation that it bears, may well be called infamous. This extends from the death of Sulla to the death of Nero, including the end of the republic and the early years of the empire. This period has a very bad reputation; not only was it full of disorder, civil war, scandalous law suits, but nearly all of its most illustrious personages were notoriously vicious, beginning with the most illustrious of them all, Julius Caesar. All were deep in debt, drunkards, gluttons, spendthrifts; they were dissolute, when not accused outright of giving themselves up to the most degrading pollution. There is no infamy that has not been attributed to them. Only a very few have escaped from this universal censure; and, with the exception of Pompey and Agrippa, those who did escape were of minor importance. The others were either odious in the extreme, or else depraved, like Lucullus, Crassus, Antony, Augustus, Maecenas, Tiberius, Nero—to gustus, Maecenas, Tiberius, Nero—to say nothing of the women of the Claudian line, who, when they were not poisoners outright, were women of evil life, about whom history tells every kind of horror.

Raking the Front Yard.

Louisville Courier-Journal: A worthy housewife at Earlham, Iowa, decided recently that her front yard would look better for a thorough cleaning up. Having some spare time on her hands and believing strongly in the tonic properties of outdoor exercise, she seized a rake and went forth to rake. While she was thus engaged she dug up the remains of a $500 bill.

It was not a new bill not a crisp bill, but the woman suspected that it was lawful money—or had been. She took it to a bank cashier, who made a careful examination and informed her that her suspicions were correct; it was a remnant of what had been a mighty desirable slice of circulating medium; it would not pass at face value in its lacerated condition, but our Uncle Samuel had a way of making such things good; it might be referred to the treasury department at Washington for action; the cashier would be glad to send it there if the finder so desired.

The finder could not ask for anything fairer than that, and the much-battered bill was sent to Washington. The treasury officially laundered it out. It showed the necessary earmarks and other distinguishing signs of a governmental promise to pay. It was eligible for redemption and they sent a crips $500 bill to Iowa and the cashier dropped it in the raking lady's hand with his compliments and congratulations. It is only in emergencies of this kind that our Uncle Samuel swaps good money for bad.

Nobady knows where the original bill came from or how long it had been reposing under the grass. A cyclone may have blown it there or one of Elijah's ravens may have dropped it. The industrious woman who raked it up is $500 to the good, and the yard looks a whole lot better and is freer from disease germs than it was prior to the raking.

Owners of front yards and back yards, too, for that matter, should imitate the example of the Iowa woman. If they do not dig up any $500 bill they probably will save some doctor's bills.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Tit-Bits: "Let us not waste our time," yelled the temperance lecturer. "Let us not waste our time in dealing with small saloons and beershops. Let us go to the fountain head. Let us go to the brewery, my friends."

"All right, boss," chimed in an old soaker from a back seat, "I'm with you."

M. A. P.: Gentleman (who has just picked up a sovereign, to tramp who lays claim to it)—But how can you prove that it belongs to you?

Tramp—Why, guv'nor, you can see for yerself, I've got a 'ole in me pocket.

Punch: "What a hideous creature, Jack? What is it?"

"An ourang-outang, from Sumatra."

"Oh! the delicious darling! Same place as those delightful rubber shares come from the ones you bought me last month!"

Washington Star: "Going to take summer boarders this year?"

"Yep," answered Farmer Corntossel. "We don't need the money, but it's a good idea to have a lot o' folks around to share the mosquito bites and lower the average."

Buffalo Express: "May I see my father's record?" asked the new student. "He was in the class of 1877."

"Certainly, my boy. What for?"

"He told me when I left home not to disgrace him, sir, and I wish to see just how far I can go."

"You folks used to have a justice out here who was noted for his vindictiveness toward scorching automobilists," says the visitor to the village constable. "What's become of him? Has he retired from office?"

"No," explained the native; "but, you see, he saved enough from his fees last year to buy himself a roadster."

Cleveland Leader: The Preacher—Why is your son always so good in Sunday school?

The Parent—I promised him that if he is I won't make him go to church afterward.

New York Sun: Knicker—There is one question lacking in the census.

Bocker—Yes, they don't ask whether the mortgage on your house was to buy an auto.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Some men can get desperately homesick having to stay home evenings.

Polite society is where its members are most impolite to everybody else.

The reason a girl can be sure a man loves her is if he doesn't say he does she can say he did.

There's hardly anything so offensive to a man who wears loud ties as the loud socks some other fellow wears.

Nothing makes a woman more suspicious of another than for the latter's cook never to try to borrow anything.

July.

Thomas L. Masson in July Lippincott's: July illustrates a great truth—that you can carry a good thing too far. Not content to stay like June, she insists on rubbing it in, so to speak. Perhaps it is too much to say that her attentions are unbearable; but that they make us restless and inattentive to business is only too true.

And the worst of it is that she has a habit of following us; that is to say, she makes it imperative that we give up our present settled habits and go somewhere else, and how often it is that somewhere else is so disappointing!

And yet, on the other hand, how many splendid opportunities she gives us! Hand in hand with her we may climb mountains, swim in the sea, and scorn the baser coverings of winter.

July is the month of freedom. Who cares for responsibilities now? Who cares for stern duty or the call of conscience? Politicians and saints, the rich and the poor, have all of them more of the same setting than they did have.

Perhaps the most unkind thing one can say of July is that it is the homeless month. It tries, however, to make up to us from its own gift bag what it withholds in the way of genuine nourishment and home comforts: it gives us balmy airs, and still holds up to our gaze the picture that June painted for us, albeit somewhat faded and burned and not so vivid as it was.

July also in her own individual manner begins to tug at our purse-strings. She shoos away our responsibilities and invites us out into the open to have it out with our desires.

No matter what the cost is, July is important. She will have her way in spite of everything.

Got His Receipt.

July Lippincott's: He had run up a small bill at the village store, and went to pay it, first asking for a receipt.

The proprietor grumbled and complained it was too small to give a receipt for. It would do just as well, he said, to cross the account off, and so drew a diagonal pencil line across the book.

"Does that settle it?" asked the customer.

"Sure."

"An' ye'll niver be askin' for it agin?"

"Certainly not."

"Faith, thin," said the other coolly, "an' I'll kape me money in me pocket."

"But I can rub that out," said the storekeeper.

"I thought so," said the customer, dryly. "Maybe ye'll be givin' me a receipt now. Here's yer money."

The Cost of Living.

Everybody's Magazine: A young lady who taught a class of small boys in the Sunday school desired to impress on them the meaning of returning thanks before a meal. Turning to one of the class, whose father was a deacon in the church, she asked him:

"William, what is the first thing your father says when he sits down to the table?"

"He says, 'Go slow with the butter, kids; it's 40 cents a pound;'" replied the youngster.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

CLOUDY

It would be hard to imagine a more beautiful day than yesterday was in Duluth. The weather man had fired up again and the high temperature, 82 deg., was warm without being oppressive. The sun shone out of a clear sky and a cool breeze just rippled the waters of the bay and tempered the heat of the sun in the city.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:21 and it will set at 8:05, giving fifteen hours and forty-four minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Another disturbance that developed over Manitoba and Saskatchewan during the last twenty-four hours, and the depression that has moved its center from Western Ontario to the eastern part of that province, caused showers over most of Canada, the greater portion of the lake region and Atlantic states. The stationary low pressure over Arizona is attended by further high temperature and scattered showers in the Southwest. The barometer continues high over Gulf and North Pacific states, favoring a continuance of warm southerly winds over the greater part of the country east of the Rocky mountains."

General Forecasts.

Upper Lakes' Moderate west winds and generally fair weather except thundershowers tonight or Friday on Superior.

Chicago, July 7.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Friday; warmer tonight.

Minnesota, North and South Dakota—Fair tonight and Friday; not much change in temperature.

Iowa—Fair tonight and Friday; warmer in west and central portions tonight.

LODGERS DRIVEN OUT BY FLAMES

Midnight Fire in Rear of Second Avenue West Rooming House.

Fire which broke out in a small frame building at the rear of 120 Second avenue west at midnight, drove a score of boarders to the street in light attire and caused a loss of about $800.

The cause of the fire is unknown. No one was in the building when it started and it was not discovered until the flare of the flames was seen against the rear windows of the rooming house by Mrs. L. M. Olson.

When the firemen reached the scene all the occupants were out on the street. Firemen went through the place from top to bottom and when a report reached them that some one was in the attic of the rooming house a man went through it a second time. It is reported that the 2-year-old son of Mrs. Olson was carried out by one of the roomers after the blaze started, having been forgotten in the first rush to reach safety.

The frame building, where the fire started was gutted. It was worth about $400. The rear of the boarding house was scorched and will require about $150 to put it in shape. The building back of these two on the next lot, occupied by Panton & White as a paint shop, was scorched and damaged by water to the extent of about $300. The first two structures are owned by T. W. Wahl and covered by insurance.

broke a drouth that has prevailed for several weeks. Crops will derive much benefit.

Bad Outlook in North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., July 7.—Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor Gilbreath of Bismarck yesterday issued a report on the crop conditions in North Dakota for the week ending July 5, in which he states "that the prospects for even a one-half crop of wheat throughout the state are more remote than ever."

Grain Crops Shrivelling.

Washington, July 7.—The grain crops in Montana and the western portion of the Dakotas which are not receiving irrigation water are literally dried up and shrivelling in the fields, according to a statement issued by the reclamation service. Continuous hot winds, with the mercury near the 100 mark, were proving extremely disastrous, it was said. By way of contrast, the statement added that the engineers in charge of the projects of the reclamation service reported that the settlers upon irrigated lands were receiving a plentiful supply of water and that their crops were in excellent shape.

Situation Is Acute.

Louisville, Ky., July 7.—With cloudbursts and drouths spotting the Kentucky map and a surplus of rain in Tennessee and Southern Indiana, the crop situation has reached an acute stage. Too wet or too dry weather has not only cut the product of the truck gardens and small fruit farms a full 50 per cent but has wrought untold damage to the staples—corn, wheat and tobacco.

Plowing Crops Under.

"Crops in Northeastern North Dakota, Alberta and Saskatchewan are in bad shape, and in some parts of the country the farmers have plowed their crops under and are preparing for next year," said Henry H. Hewitt, 518 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, who has just returned from a month's visit at Edmonton, Sask.

Mr. Hewitt says that the season has been very late in Western Canada and that the outlook this year is very discouraging. Much of the crop, he said, where the farmers intend harvesting it, will yield only about one-third of what was expected.

MRS. YOUNG HEADS N. E. A.

York, immediately presented the minority report, nominating Mrs. Young as president. Mrs. Young was named for one of the vice presidents in the majority report.

The convention immediately took up the question of substituting the minority report for that of the majority. This action brought the contest directly between Mrs. Young and Mr. Snyder, each of whom had a determined following among the delegates.

The other candidates were Martin G. Bambaugh of the Philadelphia schools; United States Commissioner of Education Elmer Ellsworth Brown; President Joseph Swain of Swarthmore college; Supt. Ben Blewett of the St. Louis schools, and John H. Phillips state director of Alabama schools. Mrs. Young's followers urged her election as a recognition of the women teachers, who comprise the majority of the membership.

Talk of San Francisco.

San Francisco is the only place prominently mentioned for the next convention. The association voted to hold the 1906 convention in San Francisco, and the local committee was making arrangements for the great assembly up to the night before the earthquake. The disaster necessitated the transfer.

In the main work of the convention today special attention was paid to children and teaching in the lower schools. Kindergarten work, various branches of child study, music and physical education were also discussed.

Not To Hear Roosevelt.

The officers of the association gave up all hope today of obtaining the presence of Former President Roosevelt, and the convention will close in Tremont temple tomorrow evening with addresses by Mrs. W. N. Hutt, chairman of the woman's branch of the farmers' institute work of North Carolina, Raleigh, N. C.; President (Emeritus) Eliot of Harvard, and the new president of the association.

Denouncing the teachings of college professors as the "worst in the country," Principal William McAndrews of the Washington Irving high school, New York City, was cheered enthusiastically at the session of the department of secondary schools. He asserted that the colleges are hampering the curriculum by uniform reforms, preventing new work. He then paid his respects to high schools, declaring them "mentally stagnated, with the teachers in a rut."

A Good Lively Game is Sure.

Bass, the war correspondent, and his brother, Robert; Winston Churchill, the novelist, and James R. Sheffield.

Robert Bass is an "insurgent" candidate for the republican nomination for governor of New Hampshire. He and Mr. Churchill are to lay the situation in New Hampshire before Col. Roosevelt in an endeavor to enlist his sympathy and, if possible, his support in their contest.

The members of the visiting party had little to say except that they were hoping to have a pleasant talk with the colonel.

"We can't say anything now," Senator Beveridge said: "when we get back from Sagamore Hill we may have something to tell you." The visitors said they would return to New York this afternoon.

Denies Poindexter Story.

New York, July 7.—Col. Roosevelt has given out at the Outlook office the following statement in reference to the visit to Sagamore Hill of Representative Poindexter of Washington:

"Col. Roosevelt will see very many senators and congressmen, assemblymen and other public officials, representing all phases of public opinion. He declines to be responsible for any statements excepting those which he himself makes. He has said nothing as to any contests for a nomination. If he has anything to say on such a subject, it will be over his own signature. All that Mr. Roosevelt said in this case was that he was pleased to find that, as he had expected from Mr. Poindexter's past record, Mr. Poindexter was in hearty sympathy with Mr. Roosevelt's views as to conservation and similar subjects. Mr Roosevelt expressed no opinion about the senatorial contest, and Mr. Roosevelt believes Mr. Poindexter is not responsible for the statements which have appeared. Certainly, in so far as these statements have quoted Mr. Roosevelt, except as above indicated, they had no foundation whatever in fact."

SAYS WEEK'S RAIN WOULD SAVE HAY CROP.

A week's rain would save the hay crop, thinks M. J. Fearer of the Farmers' Co-operative association. With suitable weather, he said today, the crop may be saved. Potatoes are not doing well, but rain would save the crop. The berry crop, he declared, is practically ruined. J. L. Eykley & Son of Barnum irrigated their land during June, and will grow a fair crop. They will have about 6,000 boxes of strawberries, while most of their neighbors' crops will be total failures.

BOAT BURNING CASE GOES TO GRAND JURY.

La Crosse, Wis., July 7.—The coroner's jury which held an inquest on the body of John Plein, who was burned to death when the steamer J. S. was destroyed by fire on the Mississippi river on the night of June 25, last night returned a verdict referring the matter of alleged negligence on the part of the officers and crew of the J. S. to the federal grand jury. The coroners' jury itself made no charges of negligence.

SEVENTEEN DRINKS OF WHISKY KILL MAN.

New York, July 7.—Peter Smith, a husky young tannery worker in Newark, N. J., drank seventeen jiggers of whisky in succession yesterday, thereby winning a bet of $1. As he pocketed the money he fell to the floor unconscious and died soon after in a hospital.

HITS IMMORAL PLACES.

Order of Mayor Seidel Against Liquor in Joints.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 7.—Mayor Emil Seidel has written a letter to Chief of Police John T. Janssen saying that it is the desire of the present administration that the sale or serving of intoxicating drinks of all kinds to visitors, be abolished in all places in Milwaukee that are being used for immoral purposes.

As the mayor is head of the police department the request amounts to a command, which it is believed will be carried into effect at once.

REV. M. S. RICE GIVES TALK ON HOLY LAND.

The Rev. M. S. Rice loctured in the Methodist Episcopal church last night. His talk was illustrated with lantern slides and he told of his recent visit to Palestine.

Mr. Rice declared that Turkish rule over the Holy Land should be abolished. He said that much of the country is barren, but that it might be made fertile by modern agricultural methods. Jerusalem under Turkish rule, does not have modern improvements. Many "holy" places, he said, undoubtedly never had any associations whatever to make them worthy of worship by anyone.

CURTISS AND HAMILTON TO ENTER AIR RACE.

New York, July 7.—Both Glenn H. Curtiss and Charles K. Hamilton or their representatives will compete in the aeroplane race from Chicago to New York for the $26,000 purse offered by the New York Times and the Chicago Evening Post. Clifford B. Harmon also is seriously considering entering the race.

TWO RICH KENTUCKIANS KILLED IN RUNAWAY.

Ashland, Ky., July 7.—Their horse growing frightened and running away, Kirk Vollner and Jude Bruning, two wealthy residents of this place, were thrown from a rig in which they were riding last night, and falling in front of a traction car, were instantly killed.

Which We Cannot Dodge---$5,000 Reward To You If You Disprove Them.

The above reward was offered by the Electro Radio Institute for proof that any word uttered by them was false, came like a thunderbolt to those inclined to disbelieve the statements and testimonials which have been published for the past two months in this paper. It had the desired effect on that class of people who made it their business to knock everything good or bad unless they were thoroughly versed in and approved it, and, strange to say, these people who were ready to condemn without so much as a consultation, not to mention that they had never taken one treatment, were those that had never studied physics, much less the physiological actions of electricity to radium, and many had never so much as heard of that. They did not know that the queen of England had donated a million dollars toward it for therapeutic uses for suffering humanity, that the government of France had recognized its great value and bestowed upon a scientist to the discoverer. That the curative powers of Carlsbad and Hot Springs are due to this element. That it is ten times more powerful than the X-Rays, which is fast becoming a thing of the past since radium has taken its place because it does better work without one particle of danger and at much less cost. That this substance will take a photograph of the bones and organs much better than the X-Rays. That a high power tube of radium will span a photographic plate through eight inches of steel (we have several radium photos in our office). That this wonderful metal is looked upon as the greatest curative power the world has yet discovered by all the leading scientists and rulers of Europe and America. We continue to offer $5,000 if this can be proved to be untrue.

Do you know that the Electro-Radio company treats more people than any other institute in Duluth. Do you know that we have the second largest clientele in the world. That they are incorporated and have one million dollars capital stock ready to invest in any new discovery which can be proved to have merit for the cure of disease. That they offer $500 for any case they accept as curable and fail through any fault of their own. Read this testimonial of W. A. Martin, 445 East Trigg avenue, a bricklayer by trade; had for years declined in health. To a reporter he said: "Hearing about the great cures performed by the new electro-radio treatment and having been a sufferer for years with stomach, kidney and bowel trouble, decided to give it a trial. Four hours after I started I voided a monster parasite alive over 100 feet in length. Since that time I have never been troubled by it. I can honestly say that they certainly cured me of it." Consultation is free, but after this week examinations will be $5. Thorough examinations take a great deal of time by our expert diagnostician. We pay him more than the governor of Minnesota gets for his services, and simply because it is free many hundreds of curiosity seekers absorb his time and many have little or nothing the matter. We are obliged to make this charge beginning next week to protect those who really have trouble they wish to have cured. Hundreds of out-of-town patients should write us for time, as our volume of business is so great we can handle you better without delay.

Hours 9 to 12, 2 to 4 and 7 to 8. Sunday, 11 to 12.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JULY 10. Review for the Quarter.

FOREWORD.

The period covered by the lessons of this quarter is perhaps almost a year, though the lessons are not in strict chronological order. The developments in that period are very great, reaching from the time of His greatest popularity to the time of His flight into Gentile territory, in order to evade the vigilance of His enemies. One word will be taken as the keyword of each lesson.

1.—Faith. Matt. ix, 18-34.

Four instances of faith are given. Each was defective. Jairus had the noisy mourners howling according to custom and he was hardly equal to the task of believing Jesus when He said that his daughter was not dead, but sleeping. The woman with an issue of blood crept up and stole the blessing of health and trembled when Jesus discovered her. The two blind men, after they were healed, went out and told it everywhere contrary to the command of Jesus. And we know the dumb demoniac's faith was defective. But it was effective as well as defective in each case. The daughter of Jairus was raised from the dead; the woman was cured; the blind received their sight; the dumb found his voice again. All because of their faith in Him. The underlying principle is that as one's faith rises to the emergency, he receives the desires of his heart. The reason of it is that it is the state of mind which justifies Christ in doing for us what He is very anxious to do.

Question: What are the best ways of training one's own faith?

2.—Extension. Matt. xiv, 35-10; xv, 40-42.

Jesus is providing for the future by selecting twelve men to be with Him constantly, though they had already been with Him a large part of the time, that He may train them to take care of His work, in His long absence. He also extends His work and multiplies Himself as He sends them out on short trips, two by two. This gives them an invaluable training. They are too immature to be left to their own judgment, and He gives them explicit rules for their journey. If they were experienced and were not to return to Him soon, they might be given different kind of instructions. The urgent truth is that Jesus still multiplies Himself, and extends His work by means of His disciples, whether privates or officials.

Question: What is the difference between rules and principles?

3.—Doubts. Matt. xi, 1-19.

John, the great forerunner of Jesus, had finished his work and was now in prison. He had been badly treated, because he was good. And it was because he was the brave friend of Jesus. Jesus had not administered judgment as John thought He would. He was idle now and that depressed him. He did not cease to be good. He did not nurse his doubts. He did not parade them. He simply sent to the right source and got the question settled. Jesus resolved his doubts in the very best way, not by definite statements but by letting John's messengers see Him do the kind of work that the Messiah was to do and that John loved to have done. Jesus did more than that—passed a eulogy on John that lifted him into the front rank of great men.

Question: How can we finally reach freedom from all corroding doubts?

4.—Forewarned. Matt. xi, 20-30.

He gave warnings not threats, and they were needed. The cities that had been favored by Him had a greater responsibility and their condemnation would be the greater. The height of the privileges scorned measures the depth of the penalty. It was true of individuals and of nations then; it is true now. But Christ always emphasized the inducements to righteousness and faith. Two are spoken of—the way the Father reveals His truth to the childlike in spirit and the rest and peace He offers to those who take His yoke on them and learn from Him the way to do.

Question: Is the motive of fear appealed to as it ought?

5.—Sabbath. Matt. xii, 1-14.

The Sabbath was made, not for itself; not for man to misuse or abuse, but to use; not to use in injuring himself or to fetter others, but to use in ennobling himself and serving others. The Sabbath is the expression of a principle. To get oneself food is necessary; also to show mercy to those in need. So taught Moses. Jesus also teaches it. Whatever tends to destroy the Sabbath is wrong and there are two ways to destroy it. Make it, instead of God, our ruler; disregard its uses as a gift of God.

Question: What are the chief perils to our Sabbath today?

6.—Liquor. Prov. xxiii, 29-35.

Its evils were evident in Solomon's day. The lesson tells how it makes one stupid, then erratic, then both hypocritical and duped. The problem in our day is largely coming to be an economical one. And yet it will never do to lose sight of it as a domestic and a moral question. The continuance of the traffic is inimical to the moral, social and domestic interests of those who engage in it, and to the financial interest of all who use liquor. One indication of the way it befools men is that it blinds their eyes to the fact that if they did not put their money into liquor they would have that much more for groceries and drygoods and homes.

Question: Would the total suppression of the traffic militate against any of our real interests?

7.—Hatred. Matt. xii., 22-32, 38-42.

The hatred of the ruling classes toward Him began the first time He attended the Passover in Jerusalem, and increased till it put Him to death at a Passover, three years later. It was because He interfered with their tyranny over their dupes, in the name of religion. They followed Him everywhere and brought every kind of charge against Him. This, that He was in league with the prince of demons, was the climax. His reply is an exposure of their own exorcists and a claim to be greater than Jonah and Solomon.

Question: Why do men ruin themselves in their opposition to righteousness?

8.—John Dead. Matt. xiv, 1-12.

It was at last over and in the light of God John learned all the mysteries. It was a brutal murder. A bloodthirsty vindictive woman, a compliant drunken ruler, a shameless girl—John is the victim. His life was not a failure. He had prepared work for Jesus and then introduced Him to His work. He had shown an example of heroism that has heartened many a martyr since. His very death sent a shiver into guilty hearts and restrained some from further wrong-doing. Jesus appreciated the hardy hero to the utmost and felt great sorrow at his death.

Question: How is it true that the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church?

9.—The Divide. Matt. xiv., 13-21; xv., 29-39.

He was at the climax. The disciples had come in from their trial tour at preaching, flushed with victory. He was sad at the news of John's death. He and they needed rest. But the multitude followed and He fed them, only to find that food and splendor were all they wanted. They left Him. Some months later He fed four thousand. The effect of it was varied. Some believed, most of them wanted only food.

Question: What is the fatal error in using religion to secure material health and help?

10.—Storm. Matt xiv., 22-36.

He sent His disciples away, in order to get them away from the worldly enthusiasm of the five thousand. He knew the storm was coming, but He sent them into it. The next morning, after the storm, they reached their port, and He was with them. He did not come to them in the storm, till He had given them time to lose all thought of the worldly kingdom and to long for Him, their friend.

Question: What are the benefits of storms in our path?

11.—Foreigner. Matt. xv., 21-28.

He did not want to do any Messianic work while in the Gentile territory. He had gone up there to take His disciples away from the fickle people and train them. Hiss mission is first to the Jews, afterward for the Gentiles. That Gentile woman must first be made a Jew before He properly can help her. He makes her a Jew—not formally, but actually—by developing her faith till it is like that of Abraham.

Question: Why is faith the condition of spiritual blessing?

12.—Success. Matt. xiii., 1-9, 18-23.

The one who sows succeeds, but his success varies with the soil into which he sows the seed.

Question: Is the sower responsible for the kind of soil?

BARON'S SON IS MARRIED

Tol Lambert White Disowned for Wedding Father's Stenographer.

Culmination of Romance Nearly Prevented By Immigration Officials.

Chicago, July 7.—July Fourth, America's Independence day, will always be a red letter in the calendar of the future Baron and Baroness Tol Lambert White of London, England. After being disowned by his father and leaving England to seek his fortune in this country a romance of three years' standing culminated with their marriage Monday in this city.

The future baroness, a beautiful young woman, 23 years old, was Eleanor Watson, a stenographer in the employ of the scion of the aristocratic house, and it was when the son fell in love with her and persisted in his determination to make her his wife that he was disowned by the haughty baron. Sunday night she arrived in Chicago after a most distressing experience with the government immigration officials at Boston, and Monday they were married at the home of Stevens Ghastin by Rev. H. E. Ganster, rector of St. John's Episcopal church of Irving Park.

He Left Home.

White is 31 years old, an Oxford man and a great English athlete, having been formerly a member of the Oxford eight. Although it meant the loss of his title and inheritance as the eldest son, he refused to give up his fiancee at the stern command of his father, whose only excuse for his arbitrary action was that she was not his social equal. He decided to leave home and promised to send for her as soon as he should get on his feet and be able to make a home for her. He went first to Winnipeg, where he remained for more than two years, and came to Chicago about nine months ago at the urgent solicitation of Ghastin, a college friend. White secured a position in the offices of Montgomery Ward, where his energy and strict attention to business won him rapid promotion. True to his word, he finally sent for his fiancee, and last Friday she arrived on the Inverness at Boston. White had consulted with the immigration bureau in Chicago and had received information that Miss Watson would have no trouble passing the quarantine if she had in her possession a letter from him stating that they were to be married as soon as she arrived in Chicago.

Troubles at Boston.

But when the vessel arrived and she presented her letter to the quarantine officers her troubles had just begun. On account of the "white slave" laws recently enacted and being rigidly enforced, the inspectors at Boston refused to accept her letter. She was not even allowed to remain on the boat and occupy her own stateroom, but was compelled to remain over night with scores of Italian and Polish immigrants who had failed to pass quarantine.

The disgraced young woman was allowed to communicate with her lover, however, and inform him of her unfortunate position. Both the Chicago immigration officials and a Boston law firm were soon busy on the case, and when Ghastin and his wife made affidavit that they would look after the new arrival and be responsible for her welfare until her marriage, the guarantee was wired to the Boston immigration offices and Miss Watson was released.

Although he was disowned, White has not lost hope that he will yet be able to effect a reconciliation with his father. He thinks that the baron, after he has found that his action was ineffectual, will decide to let by-gones be by-gones and call him home, where he will again come into his own.

CENSUS OF ISLE ROYALE

James A. Hamilton Completes Count of People on Island.

Few Permanent Residents, But Tourists Are Plentiful This Year.

James A. Hamilton of Ahmeek, Mich., who was appointed to take the census of Isle Royale, has completed his task and has returned to his home. Isle Royale is a part of Keweenaw county, Mich. Through an oversight, nobody was appointed to take the census at the regular time, and Mr. Hamilton was later appointed.

Mr. Hamilton's task was not a difficult one. The fixed population of the island is very small, and most of the people there now are tourists who were enumerated at their homes at the regular time for making the count. A number of fishermen make their headquarters at the island during the summer, but during the winter they make their homes in Duluth or some of the other ports near the island.

Mr. Hamilton could give out no figures on the population of the island, the rules of the census bureau prohibiting. On account of the people of the island being mostly tourists, however, it is certain that the population figures will not run high.

According to Mr. Hamilton, the number of tourists and campers at the island is much greater than usual at this time of the year. The warm weather in the cities has had a tendency to cause people to hurry their vacations and get to the island where the cool breezes of Lake Superior prevent suffering from the heat. Mr. Hamilton found six newly married couples at Toben's harbor, and they were delighted with the island as a place for a summer honeymoon.

A Few Short Weeks.

Mr. J. S. Bartell, Edwardsville, Ill., writes: "A few months ago my kidneys become congested. I had severe backache and pain across the kidneys and hips. Foley Kidney Pills promptly cured my backache and corrected the action of my kidneys. This was brought about after my using them for only a few short weeks and I can cheerfully recommend them." Sold by all druggists.

GIRL TRIES TO EAT BILLS.

Constable Makes Her Disgorge Money Which Caller Identifies.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 7.—Charged with having stolen $18 from Augustus Roach, a sporting visitor, Alice Grayem, a pretty 18 year old girl, started to swallow the stolen bills when a constable visited her home to place her under arrest.

The girl had swallowed a $1 bill and was chewing a $5 and $2 bill when the constable grabbed her and forced her to disgorge the bills.

Roach identified the half chewed currency as a portion of the roll which he claimed to have lost, and the girl was held for court despite her tearful pleas.

MEN TAKE VOTE ON THE PENNSYLVANIA LINES.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 7.—Conductors and trainmen of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg are voting whether they will strike for an increase of wages varying from 5 to 20 per cent. The ballots review the question along lines similar to the ballot sent out by the men on the Eastern divisions last week. About 6,700 men are affected. The vote will be completed before a conference scheduled for July 12. At the same time further negotiations toward settling the wage difference will be taken up.

ROBERT TAFT IS NOT BLAMED FOR ACCIDENT.

Boston, Mass., July 7.—To no fault of Robert P. Taft, son of President Taft, was due the injury which the automobile he was driving caused to Michael Hithwalla, an Italian laborer, June 27 last, according to the finding of the Massachusetts highway commission. Eye witnesses testified that the man who was injured stepped directly in front of the automobile and was knocked down.

ROOSEVELT WRITES ABOUT THE NEW YORK LEGISLATURE'S ACTION

New York, July 7.—Ex-President Roosevelt deals with Governor Hughes, the New York legislature and primary reform in a signed editorial article in the current number of The Outlook. Mr. Roosevelt writes as follows:

"I believe that Governor Hughes has been supported by the bulk of the wisest and most disinterested public opinion as regards most of his measures and positions, and I think this has been markedly the case as regards direct primary nominations. I know that many honest and sincere men are on principle opposed to Governor Hughes on this point, and I know also that the proposed reform will very possibly accomplish less then its extreme advocates expect; while I am well aware, as of course all thinking men must be, that the world of any such measure in the last resort depends upon the character of the voters, and that no patent device will ever secure good government unless the people themselves devote sufficient energy, time and judgment to make the device work.

Faults in Direct Vote.

"Finally, I freely admit that here and there, where the principle of direct nomination has been applied in too crude shape or wrong-headedly, it has, while abolishing certain evils, produced or accentuated others—in certain cases, for instance, putting a premium upon the lavish expenditure of money.

"But, while I freely admit all this, I nevertheless feel, in the first place, that on the fundamental issue of direct primary nominations, the governor is right, and in the second place, that as the measure finally came up for action in the state legislature, it was well-nigh free from all objections save those of the men who object to it because they are fundamentally opposed to any change whatever in the desired direction.

"The bill provided only for direct popular action in the primaries in relatively small geographical and political communities, thereby making the experiment first where there was least liability to serious objection and avoiding or deferring the task of dealing with those big communities where the difficulties and dangers to be overcome would be greatest.

Party Is Responsible.

"The Republican party, was in the majority in both houses of the legislature which refused to carry out the Republican governor's recommendations; and although it was only a minority of the Republican members which brought about this refusal, the party cannot escape a measure of responsibility for the failure; but it is only just to remember that a clear majority of the Republican members of each house supported the bill, where as three-fourths or over of the Democrats opposed it. This is one of the cases where it is easier to apportion individual than party responsibility.

"Those who believe that by their action they have definitely checked the movement for direct popular primaries, are, in my judgment, mistaken. In its essence this is a movement to make the government more democratic, more responsive to the needs and wishes of the people as a whole. With our political machinery, it is essential to have an efficient party, but the machinery ought to be suited to democratic and not oligarchic customs and habits. The question whether in a self-governing republic, we shall have self-governing parties, is larger than the particular bill.

Fight Not Over.

"There is no desire to break down the responsibility of party organization under duly constituted party leadership, but there is a desire to make the responsibility real and to give the members of the party the right to say whom they desire to execute this leadership.

"I believe that the people of New York state will in the end insist on taking a more direct part in the nomination of candidates because I believe they will grow more and more to insist on just the kind of guidance and leadership that I have mentioned."

New York Man Held Title to Duluth Property Thirty-Six Years.

After holding the triangular piece of property at the northeast corner of Washington avenue, or Seventh avenue east, and Superior street for thirty-six years, Charles A. Nash of New York city transferred his title this week to John F. Killorin of Duluth. The consideration is understood to have been between $15,000 and $17,500. The deal was made through the office of F. I. Salter company.

Mr. Nash purchased the property at a low price thirty-six years ago. Of late years he has prized it highly on account of its peculiar shape. In New York and other large cities flat iron structures are popular on account of the great amount of light and ventilation possible because of their extensive street frontage. Mr. Nash held the property at a very high price on that account, but this week he came down to what is regarded as a reasonable figure, and the deal was closed

The property fronts 153 feet on Superior street and 200 feet on Washington avenue, the other side of the triangular being 140 feet in length. The property consists of 10,500 square feet, whereas the famous flatiron building of New York stands on only about 6,000 square feet.

Mr. Killorin's purchase was made for an investment and F. I. Salter company will continue to be agents for the building.

G. G. Hartley recently purchased an inside lot on the same side of the street and in the same block for $10,000.

"Foley Kidney Pills Have Cured Me."

The above is a quotation from a letter written by H. M. Winkler, Evansville, Ind. "I contracted a severe case of kidney trouble. My back gave out and pained me. I seemed to have lost all strength and ambition; was bothered with dizzy spells, my head would swim and specks float before my eyes. I took Foley Kidney Pills regularly and am now perfectly well and feel like a new man. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Sold by all druggists.

NOTES OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT

The Boys' department Y. M. C. A., has struck an unusual pace for this summer.

The directors are wondering what is going to be done if the number taking advantage of the free swimming periods keeps increasing every day. The regular swimming periods of the members are also well attended. Every Wednesday and Thursday the boys go out on the point and enjoy a swim in the bay, after which a "weiner" roast is held. The all night trip on the point was a great success and thirteen boys with their blankets and grub thoroughly enjoyed the trip. The night was divided into watches of one-half hour each so that every boy had a chance to study the stars.

Tomorrow the event scheduled is the hike to the new steel plant. Some time ago some of the boys had a glimpse of that immense concern and the interest was so great that this trip was planned and already a large number have signified their desire to go. On account of the swimming at the pool the boys will leave from the senior building instead of the boys' building and at 11 o'clock instead of 9 a. m. Each boy will bring his carfare and lunch. They will return late in the afternoon.

WALTER SMITH BETTER AFTER SUDDEN ILLNESS.

Advices from St. Paul are to the effect that Walter J. Smith of Eveleth, who was prevented from attending yesterday's meeting of the Republican state candidates by reason of sudden illness, was all right today.

It is understood that Mr. Smith's indisposition was caused by the heat, as it was pretty warm in St. Paul yesterday.

Because of his illness Mr. Smith was unable to participate in the selection of campaign managers and committeemen, but the selections made for this part of the state show that his wishes were known and met the approval of the other candidates.

CHICAGO MEN LIKED DULUTH

Chicago business men who came to this town recently on the steamer Roosevelt evidently had a good time, according to the account of their visit published in Chicago Commerce the weekly paper of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Under the heading, "Duluth Capitulates," the editor of the paper, who accompanied the excursionists, wrote:

"The crusaders from the Chicago Association of Commerce owned Duluth from 7 o'clock Friday morning until midnight. The reception at the Commercial club followed a two hours' ride through the parks and boulevards of the city, and was followed by a reception at the board of trade, where President S. H. Jones, Commodore Simmons and W. H. Hopkins were the speakers.

"The Roosevelt reached Duluth from Ashland after an ideal run, the lake, which is popularly supposed to be ruffled at all times, being as smooth as silver all the way. The commercial club's committee was on hand to greet the crusaders, and brought with it dozens of automobiles, in which the "seeing Duluth" tour was made.

"The excursion on the lake at night was one of the best of the series. The 2,000 tickets sent by the trade extension committee to the Commercial club were all given out early in the day, and after that the club issued 250 extra tickets on its own cards. In addition the delegates issued a large number at pasteboards, and when the boat pulled out she was carrying her capacity, while hundreds who wanted to make the trip were unable to get aboard.

"The fine buildings—Duluth has the highest skyscraper in Minnesota, 16 stories high—the boulevards, the splendid mountain drive, the great plants and fine stores of Duluth surpassed all anticipation of the delegates. The hospitality, too, was of the very best brand, and it was with sincere regret that the crusaders set sail at midnight."

Lyceum—Forbes Stock company in "Old Heidelberg."

SPOILS A COLLAR AT EVERY PERFORMANCE.

"Oh, dear!" sobbed Miss Wayne who is Kathie in "Old Heidelberg," as she left the stage of the Lyceum after the closing curtain after the matinee yesterday. "I feel so bad," and a large crystal, clear, globular tear dropped pathetically from the smutty eyelashes of Kathie, who just a moment before had separated forever from Karl Heinrich. Karl Heinrich came up just then on his way to Mr. Forbes' dressing room, and patted Kathie's shoulder.

"She's a fright," he confided to nearby listeners. "She ruins a perfectly clean collar every performance at her sorrow at my leaving her. She weeps down my neck or on my velvet coat or any place she finds handy."

"Oh dear," said Miss Wayne, and the tear slid from her smutty eyelashes down her pink cheek. "How can I help it? It depresses me so losing a sweetheart every performance. It's bad enough in these days of high cost of living to find a man willing to have one, but to lose one every day and sometimes twice a day, I just can't stand it," and Miss Wayne leaned against a nearby door and cried.

"Old Heidelberg" is the most interesting play yet given by the Forbes players and it is a creation in itself artistic and beautiful, and Mr. Forbes is presenting a splendid production of the play made famous by the great Richard Mansfield. Mr. Forbes appears as the Prince Karl Heinrich. The play will be repeated every night this week and Sunday night and there will be Saturday and Sunday matinees.

NORTHERN PACIFIC LAYING OFF MEN

Brainerd, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pursuant to orders, 175 machinists and other workers were laid off yesterday at the Northern Pacific railway shops here. In a circular letter to the employes dismissed, the following reasons are given for the temporary lay-off: First—Poor conditions of crops tributary to Northern Pacific lines. Second—Adverse legislation passed by government curtailing their revenue. Third—The continuous demands by labor for increase in wages whenever opportunities present."

"EPICURE" HAD THEM STUMPED

Two young women sat in the St. Louis cafe, toying with the table furniture and obviously waiting.

"I do wish Hubby would come," grumbled one.

"Do be patient. They'll get here as soon as they can," replied the one with "the blue ribbon on it."

More waiting, until a woman and her escort took seats at the adjoining table. Then milady of the ribbon, a gleam of mischief in her eyes, remarked with, perhaps more distinctness than was necessary to make her companion hear:

"I will not order until my husband comes. He can order such a nice spread. He's such a manicure, you know!"

The impatient one looked startled, then caught the other's wink and toss of the head.

"Oh, my dear," she replied, simperingly, "What an absurd mistake. You don't mean manicure. You mean epiderm. Maybe maniderm? No, that doesn't sound quite right, does it?"

The couple at the adjoining table gazed at each other and then at the young women, blankly. Just then two young men of businesslike appearance strode to the table and took the uptilted chairs.

"Bob," said the wife of the "manicure," "I have been trying to think of the word that describes you. Can't you help?"

"Mut," spoke up his friend, quickly, but he smiled when he said it.

"Well, 'Mawruse' would say 'real estater,'" replied the man addressed.

The two women leaned across the table and whispered rapidly, laughing and [illegible] the d[illegible]

"I g[illegible] dies w[illegible] ne said, ponderously and condescendly. "They were endeavoring to recall the word 'epi—,' 'ep—,' 'ma—,' '——!' Well, I'll be jiggered, they've got me all mixed on it now."

(Suppressed laughter from the young women. Frown and flash of inspiration on the part of ponderous party.)

Then, triumphantly:

"Epicure! Epicure! That's it. That's what they were trying to say."

And he turned happily to his own epicurean order.

Members of Minnesota Editorial Association Will Stay Home.

The annual trip of the Minnesota Editorial association has been given up for this year.

The editors were to have met in Duluth early next week and on Tuesday board the steamer Huronic for a lake trip to Sarnia.

Only a few had announced their intention of making the trip. Most of the editors pleaded poverty and lack of time as an excuse.

It is probable that the trip will be taken next year.

HEALER AT THE BETHEL

Yoakum Talks to About Seventy People at Lake Avenue Mission.

No startling cures were effected by Yoakum, the healer, at the Bethel last evening, when the founder of the Pisgah movement addressed an assemblage and anointed and prayed for the afflicted. About seventy people were presented, and emotional excitement over the speech of the Los Angeles man was the chief feature of the gathering.

It was said today by those interested in bringing the healer here that even though no startling cures were observed, the cures were effected nonetheless. A consumptive, it was declared, had recovered much of her strength since she was visited yesterday and was up and about when called upon today. Other remarkable cures were said to have been brought about, of all kinds and manner of diseases.

A freewill offering of contributions in aid of the Pisgah home for the poor and afflicted at Los Angeles preceded the work of attempting to cure the ills, physical and spiritual, of those who offered themselves as subjects for treatment at the hands of the healer. The collection, Yoakum explained, was taken in the only way sanctioned by the New Testament, and his auditors were requested to march to the front of the hall and deposit their contributions in a hat. Many of them complied, Yoakum explaining that he took nothing for himself, and had often refused personal contributions.

Among those who were anointed and prayed for were a blind man, a woman with pains in leg and thigh, another woman with a sore back, and then there were others with a variety of ills, spiritual and physical. All were anointed on the forehead with oil and Yoakum prayed for them.

The prayers were fervent and at times eccentrically punctuated with ejaculations and remarks or questions, as "Glory!" "Bless His Holy Name!" "What is your name?" "Do you use tobacco?"

Women wept when the ailing ones were before the audience, and at times a wave of hysterical emotion seemed to sweep over the gathering, but it did not reach a high pitch.

The healer told of his work and of some of the cures he had brought about, and referred to the case of an unnamed Superior woman, who, sick in bed for nine weeks, had left her bed and walked, a well woman, a few hours after Yoakum had visited her, anointed her and prayed for her.

This morning Yoakum resumed his visits to the sick of the city, and this afternoon at 2 o'clock held another meeting at the Bethel. This evening at 6 o'clock there will be still another meeting, and this program will be adhered to until Saturday afternoon, when the healer will leave Duluth.

ASSISTANT TO HOUPT IN DULUTH

Egbert S. Oakley, assistant United States district attorney for the district of Minnesota, will in the future be stationed in Duluth instead of at St. Paul. He has secured offices in the First National bank building, the office provided for the district attorney in the federal building being too small for permanent occupancy.

Indian land and other litigation in federal matters have become so extensive in Duluth and throughout all of Northern Minnesota that United States District Attorney C. C. Houpt has decided that the government's interests will be best served by having one of his assistants in Duluth all of the time.

Heretofore it has been necessary for one of the attorneys from Mr. Houpt's office to come to Duluth whenever any litigation involving the government arose. The inconvenience of the system and the delays often caused figured in Mr. Houpt's decision to have much of the work of his office in connection with Northern Minnesota matters done in Duluth.

"In Life Worth Saving?"

Mrs. Mollie McRaney, Prentiss, Miss., writes that she had a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble, and that four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured her sound and well. She closes her letter by saying: "I heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to any sufferer of kidney disease. It saved my life." Sold by all druggists.

DEATH FOLLOWS FOURTH OF JULY SCUFFLE.

Coroner J. A. McCuen is at Floodwood to conduct an inquest over the body of John Ikkela, who died yesterday of injuries received on the Fourth of July in a fight with Nestor Jussila. It is claimed that after hitting Ikkela several times Jussila threw him heavily to the ground. The scuffle is said to have taken place in a saloon. A warrant has been issued for Jussila's arrest, but he has not yet been apprehended.

(BY BRUCE.)

In the face of certain occurrences of the past, there is a natural curiosity to know how we won yesterday. The question can be answered, simply and to the point—because the somewhat puffed up Indians could gather but three hits off the deceiving delivery of smiling Al Cummings, and further because Albert hit a timely swing that won his own game.

In fact, it was very much Cummings. While we gathered nine hits from the repertoire of the star flinger of the Red Wing staff, only once did these hits come in succession. Weidel did very nicely yesterday, and had not Cummings been so stingy in the matter of allowing the Indians to hit, the game might have gone the wrong way.

But three hits were gathered off the delivery of Cummings. The one made by "Dunc" Boyle was one of the scratchiest of the scratch. It was a little roller to Cummings that the pitcher fell down in attempting to field. The other two hits were clean.

Not a base on balls was issued by Cummings during the matinee. Only two of the Indians reached second base. One was left there and the other was doubled on a fly to Vasbinder. The infield of the Sox had twenty-three put outs, so it can be seen that the opposition were handing out small and short offerings.

Two new men were in the lineup. There was Brother Schwaub behind the bat. He threw two men out at second on attempted steals, and his work seemed to be very much to the higher order of physical effort and mental progress. It is very risky to tell everything you might about a ball player—or a prize fighter—on his first appearance. On the getaway of yesterday Mr. Schwaub looked all to the lily white and pure.

A youth named Breckenridge was in left field, while Thomas Zachery Taylor, per his own request, reposed upon the bench.

Upon his first two trips to the bat, Mr. Breckenridge placed dinky popups in the hands of small Black at third. On his third saunter he hit the pellet sharply to left field for two bases. More can be told about the new men later.

Indians Never Threaten.

Red Wing never threatened, going down in order in six of the nine innings. Swanson reached first through Altermott's bad throw in the second and Boyle reached first through O'Brien's error in the fifth. He stole second and was the first Indian to even worry us. In the sixth Weidel got to second and was doubled off that station when Thomas flew to Vasbinder.

Anderson got to third in our half of the first on O'Brien's single, with one gone. The Orator took second on the throw in, and with two on and only one gone, the chances looked very bright. The next two hitters could do nothing. Holstrom singled in the second and was sent to the halfway station by Cummings. He was left to languish there.

The one bright run of the game came in the fourth. After Citizen Vasbinder had vainly tried to beat out a misheaved bunt, Holstrom singled over the head of Malicious Malloy. At this propitious moment Schwaub drew a base on balls. Mr. Breckenridge popped out, but with desperate resolve Albert Chevalier Cummings hit one screaming down the left foul line and Mr. Holstrom was reaching for his peerless before the ball was retrieved to the diamond. Mr. Schwaub attempted to come home on the hit, but was nabbed at the plate, the ball being speeded to the platter by Messrs. Boyle and Black.

There was no other inning that we had a chance to score. Hits were as hard to find as Dr. Cook's records, and with one score in the fans felt tolerably safe as to the outcome of the game.

This afternoon the Indians will continue the struggle for the cellar championship. Mr. Blancke will probably work on the slab for us, and we may have two new outfielders in the game.

ST. PAUL HAS STRONG CREW

Minnesota Club Will Be Well Represented at Kenora Regatta.

Kennedy of Yale Is Assisting St. Paul Crews in Training.

Reports from St. Paul indicate that the junior eight of the Minnesota Boat club is much stronger than the eight that was beaten out for second place last season by the junior eight of the Duluth Boat club, and that with the new material in the boat it is confidently believed that the present St. Paul junior eight is six lengths faster than the eight of last season.

To make it more serious for the Duluth junior eight, Coach Kennedy, the famous rowing intsructor of Yale, is at St. Paul at the present time and is giving instructions to the junior eight of the Minnesota club.

It is believed at St. Paul, according to the statement of a Duluth man who returned from there last evening, that the eight that defeats the St. Paul junior eight will have to travel faster than any junior has traveled at a Western regatta for some time.

Just what Winnipeg has, it is very hard to say. Very little news has come out of the Manitoba metropolis. A Duluth man who was in Winnipeg last week on business, was informed that the Winnipeg feared the Duluth eight and had heard glowing reports about the prowess of the Zenith City oarsmen.

Duluth has its work cut out from now until the day of the regatta. St. Paul is making every effort to win, as the bringing west of Kennedy will eloquently testify. They are working like Trojans at St. Paul and the crew that pushes its brow across the line ahead of the Apostles, will realize that rowing a winning race is plum strenuous.

The reports from St. Paul should have the proper effect upon the Duluth oarsmen. It must be realized what the juniors are up against. Only the most untiring and earnest work between now and the day the crew leaves for Kenora will enable the Duluth crew to win. That work must be the best the crew can give.

FROM THE PRESS BOX

Mercy, but yesterday was a very busy day for the infield of the home guard. Herr Holstrom at first had sixteen P. O.'s to his credit, while schwaub had three, O'Brien two and Col. Altermott the same number. In addition to his putouts Mr. O'Brien had seven assists. They were not clouting Cummings hard yesterday and the hits that caroomed from the inoffensive bats of the Indians generally went straight into the waiting hands of the first line of defense.

Helding enjoyed his first day at third immensely. He had three chances and they were all of the L. C. Tuckerman order; sweet and come-to-me-child sort of chances. They really shouldn't call these kind of hits, chances. But they do, so what are you going to do about it?

Out of his nine chances O'Brien had one error. That is a very good day's work, and yet when the Orator made a slip up on one that bounded low and contemptuously, some one bawled him out. What a thankless would we live in.

• • •

Clear along until the sixth inning the fans were wondering if Cummings was going to allow the Indians a single hit. Then Young Weidel broke into the "H" column, hitting one over second. Brother "Dunc" Boyle got the second hit, a mean and low down scratch, in the eighth and then Kelly followed with a single. Aside from these invasions of the "H" column, the visitors were well behaved throughout the game.

• • •

Young Mr. Weidel is one of the stars of the visitors. It is said that he may receive a call to higher company at the end of the Minny league season. He has done right well since joining the Indians. He pitched a nice, quiet and gentlemanly game against the Sox yesterday; the kind of a game that would have gone to Weidel in nine cases out ff ten. We wouldn't bunch on him, and during the bright afternoon only two hits were in succession. Smiling Al was there with two happy thought hits, and to his useful bat may be attributed the victory of yesterday.

• • •

Mysterious Mique Malloy is a proud and important father. The news of the arrival of the stork was conveyed to the manager last night. He left for Red Wing to welcome the little stranger to this world of sighs and two base hits. Until Mique looks the youngster over and gets fairly well acquainted with him, it is likely that the Indians will be obliged to travel sans Mique.

• • •

Yesterday one of Darby's hits took a very unbecoming bound straight at the head of Mr. Gorman. The visitor ducked in time to get his noodle out of the way of the ball and the manager reposed at first. After the inning the little stranger in our city came over to the press stand and anxiously inquired if he had been given an error on the play. He was informed that his record for the afternoon was quite white and radiant. Young Mr. Gorman looked intensely relieved.

• • •

For a man who made two home runs on Tuesday, Mr. Demmer was very tame at bat yesterday. He was up three times and each time he was retired on infield hits. But then Mr. Demmer has sufficient smoking tobacco to last him during the present trip.

• • •

Vasbinder's catch of Thomas's hit in the sixth was a dandy. He ran far over into the territory of center field and pulled down the ball. Weidel was so sure that the ball was going to fall safe that he was half way to third when Vasbinder grabbed the sailing pellet. It was a very simple matter to get the pitcher before he could get back to the mid station.

• • •

Exactly twenty-seven men faced Cummings yesterday. Malloy would have been the twenty-eighth, had he not sacrificed, which does not count him an official time at bat.

FIGHT LID ON IN WYOMING

Governor Nips Talk of Johnson-Langford Bout in the Bud.

Reception for Champion in Chicago---Comment From London.

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 7.—If Sam Langford, the Boston fighter, will put up a side bet of $20,000, heavyweight champion Jack Johnson will fight him in Cheyenne during the great frontier celebration in the latter part of August or a month later.

Johnson made this statement yesterday when his train pulled in from Reno, en route to Chicago.

For half an hour Johnson was given the greatest friendly demonstration he has received since the fight.

Flowers were showered on him and the crowds forced their way into Johnson's car to shake hands with him.

Johnson was accompanied by his wife, who wore a profusion of diamonds, his brother George, his manager Tom Flanagan, George Cotton and others.

The veteran John L. Sullivan was also on the train.

"There is no snow for the fight here during the Cheyenne frontier celebration," said the governor, when told of the plans for the Johnson-Langford match.

"Wyoming laws forbid it, and I will see that the laws are enforced. Personally, I am not opposed to the sport and would enjoy seeing the match, but the law forbids such fights and when I took the oath of office to uphold the laws, I meant it."

San Francisco, July 7.—When told that Jack Johnson had offered to fight him if he would put up a side bet of $20,000, Sam Langford said: "My first name is 'Bet' and I'll fight Johnson at any time and place. As he is the champion, though, the odds should be 2 to 1. I would put up $10,000 through Joe Woodman tomorrow against $20,000 of Johnson's money and will force him to meet me in the ring."

San Francisco, Cal., July 7.—When Joe Woodman, manager of Sam Langford, was told last night by the Associated Press that Jack Johnson had offered to fight Langford if the latter would put up a side bet of $20,000, he declared he would accept the offer.

Chicago, July 7.—There will be no public parade for Jack Johnson when he returns to his home in Chicago Thursday morning. His friends may meet him at the Chicago & Northwestern railway station in whatever numbers they please and may have a "few" automobiles there to accompany the champion to his mother's cottage, but Chief of Police Stewart told the reception committee which had been referred to the chief by Mayor Busse for a parade permit, the homecoming of the clean-limbed heavyweight was no "public occasion." Brass bands, police detachments, autos and marchers were parts of the original plan of Johnson's friends of escorting him and then "pull off" a feed at the repast of chicken, pork chops and watah-mellon his "Mammay." Mrs. Tiny Johnson is now preparing for him.

Mayor Busse has views of his own on the fight.

"If a white man wants to meet a black man in the prize ring and gets licked, why, that's his business," he said. "But the permit you want is up to the chief of police."

Chicago, July 7.—Prof. W. L. Hamilton of the university of California, lecturing before a class in sociology at the summer school at Evanston yesterday, declared that the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight proved to some extent the truth of the theory that the negro no longer belongs to an inferior race.

"The negro has made wonderful progress in the last fifty years," said Prof. Hamilton, "and no longer can be called the white man's inferior. In art, music, literature, in warfare, business and physical development, he has made phenomenal strides. The recent prize fight proves to some extent the truthfulness of the theory that the negro is not an inferior race.

"There is no scientific proof to show that the negro sprang from a distinct root according to the view of Professor Haile, the German savant, but all evidence tends to support the theory that he is simply a branch of the Caucasian race, the same as the Egyptian, the Moor and the Hindoo.

"I believe that within 300 years, the negro will become extinct in America, through the effects of inter-marriage and climatic conditions."

London, Eng., July 7.—The racial conflicts following the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno is the theme of general discussion in the British press. Varying opinions are expressed, but the universal admission is that Johnson's victory has made the problem for the United States much harder than before.

The Daily Telegraph in an editorial says: "It is useless to hold up the hand of reprobtion here. These things are brutal and vile, but behind them lies the absolute necessity to keep the negro race a little in check, for if it once gets out of hand, there will be worse scenes under the Stars and Stripes than have ever yet been witnessed there."

The Times in an editorial this morning contends that the fight at Reno, which was conducted creditably and in a fair and orderly manner, proves nothing. A thousand picked American whites, the paper says, would probably beat 1,000 picked negroes in any conflict or form of physical endurance.

"The American feeling must frankly be recognized," says the Times. "It is easy in England, where there is no color problem, to express indignation at the lynchings. If confronted with entirely similar conditions there is much reason to fear that Englishmen would not be more tolerant."

SPECIAL CLASS BOATS READY FOR ACTION.

Officials of the motor boat department of the Duluth Boat club are planning to try out the special design motor boats some time before the latter part of the present month, when the first race is scheduled.

The first race between the new special design boats was scheduled for the second of July. The failure of the builders to have the boats here on time prevented the race. That was to be the first motor boat race of the present season.

There is now no race scheduled for the new class boats before the latter part of the month, and in the meantime there are a lot of club members who want to see the little speeders in action. If the owners of the boats agree to it, a race may be arranged for a week from Saturday.

Chicago, July 7.—Governor Charles S. Deneen declared here late yesterday that he would join the governors of other states in a nation-wide effort to bring about the suppression of the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures.

"As governor," said the Illinois executive, "I am willing to join in a general recommendation by governors that the pictures be barred. My position is based upon the theory that under the law we cannot allow prize fighting, and that, therefore, there should be no exhibition of prize fight pictures."

Mobile, Ala., July 7.—Mayor Lyons has instructed Chief of Police Gibiln to inform all moving picture show operators in Mobile that they would not be permitted to present pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—City officials announced that the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures might be shown in Kansas City unless they provoked trouble in other places before reaching here.

Albany, N. Y., July 7.—The Albany headquarters of the International Reform bureau last night issued an appeal to local authorities "to pass suitable ordinances to prohibit the exhibition in any moving picture theaters of the views of the Johnson-Jeffries prize fight."

"It is demoralizing enough," says the appeal, "to have millions of boys reading the detailed description of this prize fight. It will be tenfold worse to have them look upon the realistic reproductions of this brutal contest in the moving picture shows all over the United States."

Worcester, Mass., July 7.—Mayor James Logan said: "There is a law in Massachusetts against prize fights, and I don't believe fight pictures ought to be allowed for that reason, if for no other. Personally, I shall do what I can to prevent their being shown in Worcester."

Johnstown, Pa., July 7.—Mayor Wilson announced today that if he received a request to prohibit the exhibition of the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight pictures here, he would take steps to stop them. Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall said he was very much opposed to the Johnson-Jeffries fight pictures being exhibited in Indiana. "If there is any law to prevent the exhibition it will be enforced," said the governor. His legal clerk is making an investigation of the statutes. No effort will be made to prevent the exhibition of the pictures in this city. Mayor Shank said today he was anxious to see the pictures and expected to have a seat down in the front row of the theater if the pictures were brought here.

Birmingham, Ala., July 7.—A resolution was presented at the meeting of the city council last night prohibiting moving pictures of prize fights in Birmingham hereafter.

New Orleans, La., July 7.—Mayor Behrman yesterday issued an order to the chief of police to arrest the proprietor of any theater attempting to show the moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight and directing that the license of any such theater shall be cancelled.

San Francisco, Cal., July 7.—Mayor P. H. McCarthy announced that under no circumstances would the exhibition of the moving pictures of the Johnson-Jeffries fight be permitted in this city. He said: "Inasmuch as the contest resolved itself into a prize fight pure and simple, and was not a boxing match, the exhibition of the moving pictures would be as unlawful as the fight itself. I will not permit them to be shown in San Francisco.

Topeka, Kan., July 7.—"If I have the power to do so and I think I have, I will never allow these Jeffries-Johnson pictures to be shown in Topeka," said Mayor J. B. Bullard. "I give this as a fair warning to the owners of moving picture houses. If they insist upon throwing these pictures on the screen, I will see that the police department officials stop the show and arrest the managers."

Atlanta, Ga., July 9.—A bill aimed primarily to prevent the display of moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight but which will prohibit also the display of moving pictures of any prize fight or boxing contest, was introduced in the lower branch of the general assembly yesterday.

Beer vs. Other Tonics

The government's ruling compelling manufacturers of medicines to state on their labels the constituents of their products, has revealed the fact that most tonics contain a very large percentage of alcohol, often 50% and more.

Beer on the other hand contains but little alcohol, (about 3½%), and its medicinal properties are derived from two of nature's products—hops and barley.

WEST END
NO 'DRY' BOAT AVAILABLE

Good Templars Will Probably Call Off Annual Excursion.

Wanted—a "dry" excursion boat.

This is what the Good Templar lodges at the Head of the Lakes are looking for and unless they find one or induce one of the "wet" ones to go "dry" temporarily, their annual excursion will be called off this year.

A joint annual excursion of the five Good Templar lodges in Superior and Duluth had been planned. Thus far, the efforts of the committee to induce the boat line proprietors to close the saloon on the boat have met with failure.

Gust Landin, a prominent member of North Star lodge of the West end, who is a member of the joint committee, says the boat line proprietors will not consent to this condition, and as a result the annual lake trip will have to be declared off. Mr. Landin says that they could not even secure a boat for Sunday with the "lid on."

The Good Templars in former years have taken a lake trip to Two Harbors and had planned to do so this year, but owing to the fact that every boat that can be chartered for such occasions will run "wide open," the temperance society will probably hold a picnic instead. The five lodges will take part.

No date for the picnic has been set, but the matter has been talked over in a general way among the members of the joint committee, and it is probable that the affair will be held up the river some time next month or the latter part of this month.

North Star lodge No. 11 of the West end may make arrangements for a moonlight excursion to be held in the near future. It is said that the boat line owners have agreed to put the "lid" on for an evening, but refuse to consider having it nailed down for the entire day.

KILLED BY LIVE WIRE

Daniel Edstrom, Lineman, Meets Instant Death While on Pole.

Clutching a live feed wire when he slipped from a crossarm while at work on a pole at Twenty-first avenue east and Superior street, Daniel H. Edstrom, a lineman, living at 2919 West Third street, was almost instantly killed about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Edstrom is the third victim of electrocution in Duluth within the past two weeks. On June 25, Erick Nelson, a paper hanger and his 9-year-old daughter, Marie, came to their death by taking hold of a live wire at Fifty-first avenue east.

Edstrom was employed by the Duluth Edison Electric company and was working with Frank Kyes, a foreman, at the top of a pole.

While descending he slipped on the crossarm and to save himself from a fall he grasped at a live wire.

He hung limply over the crossarm until carried down to the ground by Kyes, who with other workmen attempted to restore respiration. Dr. D. D. Murray, who arrived a few minutes later said that the man had died shortly after he had come in contact with the feed wire.

The body was removed to the Crawford undertaking rooms, where it awaits burial. The only burns found on his body were on the left thumb and a slight one on the left side above the waist.

Edstrom was 23 years old and leaves a widow. He is also survived by his parents, who lived with him.

SHOWS THE FIRST ELECTRIC SAFE

Interesting Demonstration at Christie Building Friday Morning.

Ding-ding-ding-ding, the harsh clang of a big gong on the front of the Christie Building on Fourth avenue west, has drawn many people within the radius of two blocks that way in wondering haste, at varying intervals within the past few days. Inquiries as to the location of the "fire" met with the explanation that the safe experts were only testing the new electrically protected safe concerning which the Christie Lithograph & Printing company will give a public demonstration tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The safe, which is one of the latest designs of the Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe company of Hamilton, O., is the first of its kind to be shown in Duluth. It has aroused much interest among business men and others who require fire and burglar protection for their money and valuables.

The patents on the safe, called the Bankers' Alarm Protection System, are controlled by the Herring-Hall-Marvin company, and the demonstration is in charge of the company's electrical expert, Clinton F. Criswell of Chicago and S. D. Campbell, who is in charge of the safe department for the Christie company.

The advantages claimed for the new safe are many, one important feature being that the electrical protection system does away with the great weight usually required in burglar proof safes.

The safe is "loaded" with Edison batteries, and so constructed that the big gong rings if the receptacles is drilled at any point. The batteries are the owners home. Any tampering with the gong box causes it to begin ringing, as does the cutting of the wires at any point. If the combination to the safe is touched without setting the combination to the battery box, or if the cover to the battery box is removed the gong will ring until shut off by a switch inside the safe.

The safe has been examined by the best electrical engineers in this and other countries and pronounced perfect in its workings.

The noise made by the gong is startling and it can only be stopped by throwing the switch inside the safe, or, if the wires are cut, by waiting until the auxilliary spring in the gong runs down.

This safe, it is claimed, will carry as low burglar insurance as the best steel lined safes that cost about twice as much.

DICKINSON'S HOSPITAL NOW SEEMS ASSURED.

Dickinson, N. D., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—By the liberal response that has already been given the call for funds for the construction of a new hospital in Dickinson, it is evident that the city will have only a very little trouble in securing the amount necessary to insure the new enterpriss. Bishop Wehrle and Archbishop Ireland have given their endorsement of the movement and the hospital will be under the direction of one of the Catholic orders. After the Dickinson subscription list is completed, the people of the slope country generally will be asked to contribute.

Child Drinks Strychnine.

Bantry, N. D., July 7.—The 2-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Downey, residing near here, drank a quantity of strychnine and it was only with the greatest difficulty that he was brought out of danger. The child took a very large dose of the poison and was in an extremely critical condition.

MARINE NEWS
CONGESTION IN HARBOR

Many Boats Are Tied Up Waiting for Their Docks.

Many of the boats in the harbor are laid up, and practically every tug is idle as the result of the congestion in the harbor today. Yesterday afternoon a large number of boats arrived and were forced to anchor in the harbor, owing to the fact that several of these vessels had coal for docks already in use. Today there are a number of vessels waiting to unload at the coal docks and also several waiting to load at the ore docks. The Fourth of July following Sunday caused the blockade.

There is an immense amount of coal coming up the lakes at the present time, and according to both the railroad agents and the coal men here, there is very little coal going from the docks. It is estimated that the coal docks at the Head of the Lakes are over half filled at the present time, with practically no coal being taken from them.

Coal agents here state that the reason for the failure of coal to move from the docks here, is that much coal was ordered early last spring and very little of this used, and furthermore, the condition of the crops has something to do with the failure of dealers to order.

If the present condition continues, it is stated here that the docks at the Head of the Lakes will be filled much earlier than usual. Much of the coal that is here now should have moved into the hands of the country dealers.

GROUNDS AT SIX-MILE POINT

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer Pere Marquette No. 5, down bound, of the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company, grounded at Six Mile point early this morning, in a dense fog. She had 2 passengers aboard. The tug Boynton released here at 8 o'clock, without injury and in doing so, grounded and had to call help from the Soo before she could be released.

OLD STEAMER IS BEING REPAIRED.

The steamer George Van Vleck, one of the old carriers on the lakes, is in the Northern Pacific slip this morning undergoing repairs to her stern. Some of the boards on the hull of the steamer have been removed and are being replaced with new timber. It is not expected that the Van Vleck will be laid up here more than today.

NEW LIGHTSHIP STATIONED ON LAKE ERIE.

The branch hydrographic office has received notice that the lightship maintained by the Lake Carriers' association one-half mile southwesterly from the southern extremity of the southeast shoal in Lake Erie has been replaced by a steel lightship maintained by the Canadian government.

The new boat has two masts and is painted red. There is a red ball attached to the main mast. The white lights at an elevation of thirty feet above the water are expected to be visible ten miles. The fog whistle of the boat will give a blast of five seconds duration during every thirty seconds in foggy weather. There is a submarine bell which will strike three every fourteen seconds.

THE LONGS TAKE PROFITS

Heavy Professional Selling Sends the Price of Wheat Down.

Reports From North Dakota Very Bullish---Flax Weak and Dull.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 6.—There was a disposition to take profits today and after the early bulge the bulls were less disposed to support the market. Professionals sold freely but the country held on to its wheat. There was not much buying after the early bulge, the trade preferring to wait for the government's report which will be issued tomorrow. Pit sentiment was badly mixed. Reports from North Dakota continued sensationally bullish. The public is beginning to take a lively interest in the market. The only grain which advanced was barley, which jumped 6c.

July wheat opened $1.17, ¼c under yesterday and sold at $1.18, $1.16¾, $1.17¼, $1.16¾, $1.16¾, and closed $1.17⅛ bid, ⅝c under yesterday. September opened at $1.12, ¼c off from yesterday and sold at $1.13, $1.12½, $1.12¾, $1.11¾, $1.12¼, $1.11½, $1.11⅝, $1.11¾ and closed $1.11⅝ bid, ⅝c lower than yesterday. The December option opened at $1.08⅛ bid and sold at $1.10¼, $1.08⅝ and closed $1.08⅝ bid, 1⅛c under yesterday.

Flax was soft and dull. July opened at $2.15 and lost 1c. September opened at $2.06 and sold at $2.07½, $2.09, $2.02, $2.04, and closed at $2.04 bid. October opened at $1.93 and sold at $1.94, $1.95, $1.96 and $1.91, closing $1.91 bid.

Cash wheat was 1c over July, oats closed 3c up, rye was unchanged, barley advanced 6c to 66@66c and durum closed ¾c off.

Wheat opened strong and advanced steadily until toward noon when professionals began to take profits. Selling became more popular than buying and the bulls were more disposed to turn their paper profits into money than to take on new accumulations. Values declined to the opening level in the Northwest and in Chicago the market sank to fractionally under. Weakness at Winnipeg on account of light rains in the prairie provinces and the outlook for more started the down turn.

The North Dakota crop report for the week ending July 6 was exceedingly bullish. Grasshoppers were reported from Grand Forks county. The report said that the prospect for half of a crop is "more remote than ever." Many bullish reports came from the crop experts and from the country. From Southern Minnesota and the southern part of South Dakota, however, The Herald received messages saying that the crop is in fairly good shape. The plant in the northwestern part of North Dakota, three messages said, is coming along in good shape.

Since July 1 the condition in North Dakota has grown worse. With rains in the next week a fair crop can be raised but every day that does not witness precipitation in places where it is needed will see further deterioration of the plant. The seriousness of the situation is enhanced by the approach of the critical period of the season when it is usually dry. Southern Canada sent out reports predicting half of a crop but the bears were not inclined to take much stock in the message. The large increase in acreage in North Dakota wheat is a potent factor in the promise of a fair yield for that state although if rain does not come within a reasonable time the abandoned acreage may go a long way toward offsetting the big increase in the acreage sown. A special dispatch to The Herald from Grand Forks said that approximately 85,000 acres of wheat was destroyed by the recent hail storm.

Thrashing returns from the Southwest are heavy. Some people estimate the yield of Kansas at 73,000,000 bu which is greater than the estimate of Secretary of the state board of agriculture. Farmers are selling little of the new crop to arrive.

The government's report will be issued tomorrow and opinions regarding it are about as mixed as the sentiment in the wheat pit was today.

Barrell's Kansas City correspondent wired today: Information from the western counties of Kansas continues to be surprising, both as to quality and yield. This reaches us principally, however, from millers. One of our hitherto most reliable sources of information today takes the position that Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas will produce as much wheat as last year. We think it safe to predict today 73,000,000 for Kansas, or about 6,000,000 more than Coburn's estimates, notwithstanding Kansis abandonment of acreage, which is large.

The North Dakota crop report: "Reports from thirty-three counties with exception of Bowman county in the extreme southwestern corner of the state, are distinctly less favorable than a week ago. The prospect for even half a crop of wheat throughout state appears to be more remote than ever, and only the most favorable conditions from this date to harvest will insure that percentage in the more fortunate counties. Thousands of acres of wheat being plowed under, mostly in the heavy wheat producing counties, and are either being seeded to some forage crop or prepared for next season. These conditions apply generally to all small grains with exception of flax, which may yet give a fair yield under favorable conditions. Corn is holding its own well and making a remarkable growth considering the general lack of precipitation, but must have rain, and plenty of it, before it is to make good the present promise. Grasshoppers in considerable quantities are reported from Grand Forks county. One expert places the average crop of wheat at 25 per cent of normal.

Wheat here decreased 129,000 bu in four days to 2,031,000 bu. Flax increased 15,000 bu to 69,000 bu.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: "The Northwest is undoubtedly suffering from a lack of moisture," said Frank B. Rice, who returned yesterday from a trip to Yellowstone park in company with a large number of millers and grain men. "Unless there are rains soon there will be a crop catastrophe in many sections where the outlook is the worst. With general rains there would be still a prospect for an average crop. "Millers were divided in opinion as to the seriousness of the situation, some maintaining that conditions were being exaggerated; while others believed that the damage was there."

Broomhall cables: "Opening reflected strong American cables partially and undertone was firm with prices ⅝d higher. Strength due to covering by shorts on heavy rains in Roumania and the strength in Winnipeg. Later market became dull and there was some pressure from speculative offerings and values declined ⅜@½d. Profit-taking was induced by private reports received here of a more favorable character regarding Canadian crop outlook and cooler weather there and freer Danubian offerings. Argentine estimates for larger shipments than were expected earlier in the week and crop advices from there are favorable. At midday market was easier and ⅜@½d lower than opening and ¼d higher than yesterday. Corn dull and unchanged with steady undertone due to strength in America yesterday. The forecast of liberal shipments from Argentine offset this strenght. Wheat cargoes arrived off coast nil and awaiting orders. Wheat cargoes off coast firm but quiet. Corn firm but inactive. Argentine estimates wheat, this week, 1,200,000 bu; previous week, 1,120,000 bu; last year, 1,880,000 bu. Corn, this week, 360,000 bu; previous week, 2,397,000 bu; last year, 2,656,000 bu.

O'Brien, Winnipeg, wired Thornton: "Kinyon's reports agree pretty well with best information received here. A fair guess on present condition would be half crop for Southern Manitoba, where conditions are quite similar to those in North Dakota, Northern and Western Manitoba and Saskatchewan, generally better and promise fair to good yield. Southern Alberta practically abandoned; Northern Alberta, better. Private foreign advices would indicate that crop prospects and supplies abroad make them virtually independent of this side for time being. Whatever surplus we have must be exported and for this reason our market cannot legitimately advance as rapidly as yours, which appears to be on a domestic basis. Our wheat is certainly very cheap when compared with your quotations and any change in foreign situation resulting in demand for our wheat would bring the market closer together."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Go Higher on Reports on Crops.

Chicago, July 7.—With prospects for even half a crop of wheat in North Dakota declared by the state commissioner of agriculture today to be more remote than ever, and with the drouth unrelieved elsewhere in the Northwest, prices here stepped up higher. Good selling caused a temporary setback, but quotations soon went above the first advance. Delay to harvesting in Roumania had a tendency to strengthen the market, and there was not enough pressure from hedging sales to affect the situation. Pit traders who took the bear side early were obliged to buy their wheat back. The opening was unchanged, ⅜c higher to ½c lower. September started ¼c off to ⅜c up at $1.02½@1.03, touched $1.02 and rose to $1.03¼. Heavy unloading in preparation for the government report, which comes out tomorrow, weakened the market. The close was easy with September at $1.01¾ to $1.01⅞, a net decline of 1⅝c.

Fine weather and encouraging crop reports weakened the corn market. The close was easy with September at 60⅝@60¾c, a net loss of 1@1¼c.

Profit-taking pared down prices for oats. September opened ¼c to ⅜c lower at 39¼c to 39⅝c, but country buying caused a rebound to 39⅞c.

Selling attributed to packers depressed provisions to some extent. The opening was 10c lower to 10c higher and was followed by additional declines. First sales in the September option were at $22.10 for pork and $11.97½ to $12.00 for lard and ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Lack of Rain on Fields Puts Wheat Up at First.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 7.—No rains fell in three Northwestern states over night and none is predicted for tomorrow. September and December sold up to record high points during the early session, going to $1.11¼@1.11⅝ and $1.09⅝ respectively. July sold to $1.16¾@1.16⅝. ⅛@¼c lower than the high of yesterday. Trading in the pit was only of fair volume. Good selling pressure in Chicago late made the market easier and July closed a ¼c lower than yesterday. September closed ⅝c lower and December ⅝@¾c lower. Minneapolis today received 87 cars of wheat against 77 a year ago, Duluth 58 cars against 37 and Winnipeg 148 against 93. July opened $1.16; high, $1.16¾@1.16⅝; low, $1.14⅞; closed, $1.15¾. ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Early Sag Followed By Sharp Upturn and Gains Recorded.

Gold Shipments From London to New York Strengthen the Market.

New York, July 7.—The stock market started today with small dealings and narrow and irregular price changes, but the course of prices turned downwards after the opening. Rock Island preferred and Western Union fell 1¼, Rock Island and Denver & Rio Grande preferred 1, and Union Pacific, Reading, Canadian Pacific and Anaconda large fractions. Consolidated Gas gained 1.

The market made an abrupt upturn after the earlier sag, so that in a few minutes sharp losses were turned into equally sharp gains. Rallies from the low prices ran to 2⅜ in Reading and 2 in Union Pacific. Over-night advances of a point or more were made by many of the most active stocks.

The activity in the trading died down but the advanced level of prices was well maintained. Confirmation of yesterday's reports of gold secured in London for shipment to New York was a strengthening influence. Rocking Valley rose 5 in a few transactions and Sloss-Sheffield Steel rose 2½. Reading ran off over a point at noon with effect on the general tone. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed firm. Another downturn put Rock Island 1½c below last night, the preferred 1¼c, Chicago & Alton, 2¼c, and New York Central and Atlantic Coast line, 1c. Effective demand was again encountered and prices rallied in some cases to the highest of the day. St. Paul rose 2c and Great Northern ore certificates, 1¾c.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

CHICAGO NEGROES GIVE JOHNSON AN OVATION.

Chicago, July 7.—Welcome such as no other colored man of modern times has received was accorded Jack Johnson, when he returned to his home here today. A huge crowd of colored people met him at the train, cheering lustily. His ride to his home through the "black belt" was an ovation. The fistic champion grinned with delight.

WILL ARGUE AGAINST NEW TRIAL FOR McPHERSON.

Arguments in opposition to the motion of Jackson McPherson's attorney for a new trial will be presented to Judge Ensign in district court by Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene. Warner E. Whipple argued McPherson's cause several days ago. McPherson was convicted of murder in the second degree for the killing of Otto Frey on the steamer North Lake last fall.

OVERCOME BY REMORSE

Man Killed in Railroad Yards May Have Committed Suicide.

Did John Helun or Helinn, overcome with remorse at the manner in which he had treated his wife and children, or despairing of ever being able to bring them to America from their home in Finland, throw himself in front of a Duluth & Iron Range switch engine last evening.

Judging from a letter which was found in his coat pocket today, this might have been the explanation of what was supposed to be a fatal accident.

Helinn was struck by a switch engine in the yards at Fifth avenue east last night, and died an hour later from his injuries. In his pocket was found a letter written in Finnish, and this afternoon a Herald reporter secured a translation of this letter. The letter was evidently written by Helinn's wife in Poomarkku, Finland. In it she reproaches her husband for faithlessness. Apparently the man had written to another woman in Finland, and this fact came to the knowledge of his wife. She tells him that their little children are standing with their arms around her neck crying for bread, and says that she does not believe that he ever intends to send them money to go to America. She predicts that he will be called to answer for his sins before Almighty God."

The letter had been received by Helinn but a day or two before his death, and it is believed that, overcome with remorse, he threw himself in front of the engine. The place where he was killed is an out of the way spot, and it is difficult to understand why he went there unless it was for the purpose of committing suicide.
